And firſt it was reſolved in this caſe by the whole Court, That the accord in this caſe was a good plea: for in all actions which ſuppoſe the wrong to be done vi & armis, (where Capias and Exigent lie at the Common Law, as it appeareth in 40 E. 3. 25. 35. H. 6. 6. 22 E. 4. 11. Plow. Com. in the Lord Berkley's Caſe) there accord is a good plea, for the redeeming of his body from impriſonment, ſo that men may doe their buſineſs, which is good for the Commonwealth. And it was obſerved that this action of Ejectione firmæ includeth in it ſelf an action of Treſpaſs, as it appeareth by the commencement, the body, and the concluſion of the Writ; for this Writ doth begin Si A. fecerit te ſecurum de clamore ſuo proſequend. pone, &c. and in the like manner begins the writ of Treſpaſs; the body of the writ of Ejectione firm. Quare vi & armis unum meſſuag. &c. intravit, &c. and the writ of the Treſpaſs is, Quare unum meſſuagium fregit, & intravit, &c. and all the addition in the Ejectione is, Et ipſum a firma ſua inde ejecit: the concluſion of both is, Et alia enormia ei intulit ad grave damnum; and therefore the Treſpaſs is a great part of the action of Ejectione firm. and [b] the Treſpaſs and Ejectment are ſo woven and mixt together, that they cannot be ſevered. And without Queſtion in Treſpaſs accord is a good plea, and by conſequence in an Ejectione firm. And the entrie in an Ejectione firm. is, In pl'ito tranſg. & ejectionis firmæ. And in 7 H. 4. 6. it is holden That by force of the Act of 4 E. 3. cap. 6. which giveth an action of Treſpaſs de bonis aſportatis

in vita teſtatoris, That the Executors ſhall have an Ejectione firm. of Ejectment in vita teſtatoris, becauſe the ſame is an action of Treſpaſs. And in 44 E. 3. 22 the action of Eject. firm. is called action of Treſpaſs. And in 6 R. 2. Ejectione firm. 2. that it is an action of Treſpaſs in its nature: Trinit. 26 H. 6. Rot. 27. coram Rege, In an Appeal of Mahem, the writ is felonicè, yet for as much as it concludeth Treſpaſs, accord is adjudged to be a good plea. And it was Reſolved, that in Raviſhment of Ward, accord is a good plea: becauſe in the action at the Com. Law proceſs of Outlawry lay; and ſo upon the ſtatute of Weſt. 2. c. 35. And therefore it appeareth, that this caſe is not like to an action of waſte againſt Leſſee for years, nor to the writ of Quare ejecit infra term', which is, Quare ei deforceat, &c. and without vi & armis: and yet for as much as in theſe alſo but a Chattel ſhall be recovered, is a good plea. And therefore as to the caſe of action of waſte, in 11. H. 7. 13. It was anſwered that the Caſe is ill printed, for 1. If it had been adjudged in 11 H. 7. truly, the ſame would never have been urged again by the Serjeants and Judges in 13 H. 7. 2. And in 16 H. 7. Cur. 97. in Fitz. it was holden, That in an action of waſte, againſt Leſſee for years, accord is a good plea; which the ſame Judges would never have done, if they themſelves had adjudged the ſame caſe to the contrary in ſo ſhort time before. Alſo diligent ſearch by the Prothonotaries hath been made for the Record of the ſaid caſe of 11 H. 7. and none can be found. And in Hil. 6 E. 6. Reported by Serjeant Bendloes it was holden by the whole Court in the Common Pleas, That in an action of waſte againſt Leſſee for years, accord is a good plea. And it was reſolved, that the ſaid Rule in 7 E. 6. was conſonant to the Law, ſcilicet, That where nothing but amends is to be recovered in damages, there an accord is a good plea, but the ſame doth not oppoſe, That although a Chattel real or perſonal are alſo to be recovered, that accord ſhall be no plea; for in Detinue of Charters concerning Land in Fee, or Freehold, the Charters themſelves ſhall be recovered, and yet in ſuch caſe accord is a good plea, as it is holden in 7 E. 4. 23. The ſame Law of Detinue of a horſe, or other perſonal goods; And the other Rule is alſo true, but as the firſt, the ſame, implieth not the Negative; for where certainty is to be recovered, accord alſo is a good plea, as in the caſe of Detinue of Charters: In an action of Debt upon a Leaſe for years, there is a Certainty demanded, and yet accord is a good plea, as it is holden in 47 E. 3. 24. and 10 H. 7. 24. 2 R. 3. Debt 100. [79]

And in this caſe, to ſatisfie the ſaid Queſtion moved amongſt the Serjeants, a difference was taken between a Condition in fact to do a collateral act, as to be bound in a Statute to make a Feoffment, to yield a true accompt, and the like, for there accord with execution for money or other thing, is no ſatisfaction to ſave the forfeiture of the Condition, for the Contract being made by writing to doe ſuch collateral act, cannot without writing in ſuch caſe be altered, as it is holden in 12 E. 4. 23. 9 H. 7. 4. 4 H. 8. Dyer 1. &c. But when the Condition in a deed by the original contract of the parties is to pay money, there by accord amongſt the parties, any other thing may be given in ſatisfaction of the money; for as the Philoſopher ſaith, Nummus eſt menſura rerum commutandarum, which agreeth with a rule in Law, Res per pecuniam æſtimatur, & non pecunia per res, and in this ſence it is true, quod pecuniæ obediunt omnia: But it is not ſo in any other caſe; and it is not material, whether the money mentioned in the Condition be a collateral ſum, or be parcel of the Obligation, or not; For if a man be bound by Obligation in 200 Quarters of Wheat, upon Condition to pay 20 l. the Obligor may by accord betwixt them, give to him a horſe, or a gold Ring, &c. in ſatisfaction of the money, although the money in ſuch caſe is collateral to the Obligation. And therefore if a man enfeoffeth another by Deed, upon condition that the Feoffor ſhall pay a certain ſum of money, &c. the Feoffor may by accord betwixt them give the Feoffee a Horſe, or a gold Ring, &c. in ſatisfaction; and yet the mony in ſuch caſe is collateral having reſpect to the Land, for if tender be made and refuſal, he ſhall never pay the money, therefore it is a meer collateral, quia reprobata pecunia in hoc caſu liberat ſolventem: and therewith agreeth Lit. cap. Conditions, 79. b. So if a man by Obligation be bound in 100 Quarters of wheat, upon condition to pay 50 Quarters, he cannot give money or other thing in ſatisfaction thereof, becauſe the contract originally was not for money, but for a collateral thing: and in ſuch caſe if the Obligor tendreth the ſame at the day, and the other refuſeth he ſhall plead the ſame, without ſaying that he is yet ready, becauſe that Corn is bonum periturum, and it is a charge to the Obligor to keep it; and ſo was it holden in 28 H. 8. in the Common Pleas, as Carrel hath Reported. So if a man be bounded a Statute, Recogniſance, or Obligation; and afterwards a defeaſance is made to pay a leſſe ſum, now this ſum in the defeaſance is collateral; and therefore if the Obligor tendreth the ſame at the day, and the ſame is refuſed, the Obligee ſhall loſe it for ever, as it is holden in 33 H. 6. 2. and yet in ſuch caſe the Obligor by accord betwixt them, may give a Horſe, &c. in ſatisfaction of the money in the defeaſance, for the Contract was originally for money. But if a man by Contract, or Aſſumpſit (without deed) be to deliver a horſe, or to build a houſe, or to do any other collateral thing, there money may be paid by accord in ſatisfaction of ſuch contract: For as a contract upon conſideration may commence by word: ſo by agreement by word for any valuable conſideration, it may be diſſolved; and ſo you will better underſtand the reaſon of your books, in 12 H. 4. 23. 33 H. 6. 2. 22 H. 6. 58. 7 E. 4. 4. b. 20 E. 4. 1. b. 3 H. 7. 4. 9 H. 7. 4. 18. 16 H. 7. 13. 4 H. 8. Dyer 1. 19 H. 8. 12. 22 E. 3. 5. a. 26 E. 3. Annuity 45. And every accord, ought to be full, compleat, and perfect, for if divers things are to be performed by accord, the performance of part is not ſufficient, but all ought to be performed, and therewith agreeth 17 E. 4. 2. 6 H. 7. 10. Plow. Com. 5. Alſo if the thing be to be performed at a day to come, tender and refuſal is not ſufficient without actual ſatisfaction and acceptance. And accords are favoured in Law, becauſe that Expedit Reipublicæ ut ſit finis litium: & concordia parvæ res creſcunt, diſcordia maxima dilabuntur. Vide 30 E. 3. 4. 22 E. 4. 25. The Biſhop of Bathes caſe, 11 R. 2. barr. 243. 16 E. 4. 11. 19 Eliz. Dyer 356. And in a writ of Covenant for want of Reparations although the action is founded upona deed, yet it is mixt with wrong, for which [b] damages ſhall be recovered. It was adjudged Paſch. 3. Jacobi 1033. between Eden and Blake, that accord with ſatisfaction was a good plea in barr.

And it was Reſolved in the caſe at barr, That the accord and ſatisfaction by one ſhould diſcharge all the Ejectors and Treſpaſſors. Vide 13 E. 4. 1. 35 H. 6. 6 H. 7. 36 H. 6. tit. Barr. And of antient time that the Term was recovered in Eject. firm. appeareth by Bracton lib. 4. cap. 36. f. 220. in tractatu de Aſſiſæ novæ diſſeiſinæ. Dictum eſt ſupra qualiter quis reſtituatur cum fuerit ejectus de libero tenemento ſuo. Nunc dicendum eſt ſi quis ejiciatur de uſufructu, vel uſu & habitatione alicujus tenementi quod tenuit ad terminum annorum ante terminum ſuum. And there againſt the Leſſor he ſaith, That the Leſſee ſhall have a Writ of Covenant, and againſt his Vendee he ſhall have a Quare ejecit infra terminum, and as well againſt the Leſſor as againſt a ſtranger in Ejectione firmæ: and there [80] de after he ſaith, Non magis poterit aliquis firmarium ejicere de firma ſua quam tenentem aliquem de libero tenemento ſuo, & unde ſi ille ejecerit qui tradidit ſeiſinam, id eſt, poſſeſſionem reſtituat cum damnis: Si autem alius quam qui traddidit ejecerit, ſi hoc cum authoritate & voluntate trademis; uterque tenetur hoc judicio, unus propter factum, alius propter authoritatem. Si autem ſine voluntate, tunc tenetur ejector utrique, tam Domino proprietatis quam firmario, firmario per illud breve Domino proprietatis per Aſſiſam novæ diſſeiſinæ. Et unus rehabeat terminum cum damnis, & alius liberum tenementum ſuum ſine damnis. By which it appeareth how the Law was taken in the Reign of H. 3. which was the time that Bracton wrote. In 3 E. 3. Quare ejecit infra terminum 4. it was adjudged, That the Plaintif in this action ſhould recover his Term and damages: And the like Judgments are given in 18 E. 2. and in 20 E. 2. ibid. pl. 5. & 6. which agreeth with Bracton. And with him F. N. B. 197. And in 38 Aſſ. p. 9. And 12 H. 4. 10. in Ejectione cuſtodiæ the Term ſhall be recovered pari ratione in Ejectione firmæ. See 44 E. 3. 22. in Oyer and Terminer. And it is holden in 11 H. 6. 6. that although the Term be incurred pendant the Writ of Ejectione firm. the writ ſhall abate. 7. H. 4. 16. 12 H. 6. 8. 33 H. 6. 42. 38 H. 6. 27. 7 E. 4. 6. 21 E. 4. 30. & 13 H. 7. 21. that the Term ſhall be recovered in Ejectione firm. And 14 H. 7. in an Ejectione firmæ brought againſt a ſtranger in the Common Pleas, the Plaintif had Judgment to recover his Term, and thereupon the Defendant brought a writ of Error, and the Judgment was affirmed, and execution awarded to the Plaintif. And in Anno 17 H. 8. ſuch Judgment was given in the Common Pleas, That the Plaintif in an Ejectione firmæ ſhould recover his Term and damages, as Juſtice Fitzh. Reporteth in his N. B. 220 b. and the book of 6 R. 2. Ejectione firmæ is ill Reported, for it ſeemeth the Court agreed only to the ſaying of Belknap, That if the Leſſee be ouſted by the Leſſor, that he might recover his Term in a writ of Covenant: And afterwards in the ſame caſe Belknap ſaith, That at the Common Law, if the Leſſee be ouſted by a ſtranger, an Ejectione firmæ lieth: And to what purpoſe was this Writ inſtituted, if thereby the Term ſhall not be recovered, for he ſhall not recover damages but for the Ejectment only, Vide 19 H. 6. 56. 37 H. 6. 8.

And it was alſo Reſolved, That in a Writ of Quare ejecit infra terminum, accord was a good [b] plea. And afterwards in the principal caſe Judgment was given for the Plaintif. Note Reader, the beſt and moſt ſecure pleading of an accord, is to plead it by way of ſatisfaction; and not by way of accord; for if he plead it by way of accord, he ought to plead the preciſe execution thereof in all, and if he fail of any part thereof, his plea is inſufficient; but by way of ſatisfaction he ſhall plead no more, then the Defendant paid to the plaintif 6*l.* 10*s.* in full ſatisfaction of the ſame action, the which the Plaintif received. Judgment, if he ought to have any action? And the ſame is well approved by the book in 19 H. 6. 29. in a writ of Forger of falſe deeds; Markham Serjeant for the Defendant, by proteſtation that he did not forge, who pleaded, That the Defendant gave to the Plaintif a Gallon of wine in ſatisfaction of the action, which Gallon of wine the Plaintif did accept of, &c. Judgment if Action? And Forteſcue Sergeant of Councel with the Plaintif, It is not any plea, unleſs you ſay, That there was an accord betwixt the Plaintif and Defendant, &c. Newton the cheif Juſtice who gave the Rule in the caſe, That is the beſt pleading which Markham hath pleaded in my conceit, and ſubſtantial enough, for if he hath given the Plaintif a Gallon of wine for the Treſpaſs, which the Plaintif hath received, what would you then have more? And afterwards Forteſcue denyed the receipt of the Gallon of wine in ſatisfaction of that Treſpaſs.

Agnes Gore's Case.

BEfore Fleming chief Juſtice, and Tanfield Chief Baron, Juſtices of Aſſiſe this caſe fell out before them in their Weſtern Circuit. Agnes the daughter of Roper married one Gore, Gore became ſick, Roper the Father in good will to the ſaid Gore his Son-in-Law, went to one Dr. Gray a Phyſician for his advice, who made a Receipt directed to one Martyn his Apothecary, for an Electuary to be made, which the ſaid Martyn made, and ſent the ſame to the ſaid Gore, Agnes the wife of Gore ſecretly mingled Ratsbane with the ſaid Electuary, to the intent therewith to poiſon her Husband, and afterward 18 May ſhe gave part of it to her Husband, who eat thereof and preſently became grievous ſick: The ſame day Roper the Father eat part of it, and preſently became alſo ſick, 19 May C. eat part of it, and became alſo ſick; but all theſe recovered and are yet alive. The ſaid Roper obſerving the working of the ſaid Electuary, carried the ſaid box with the ſaid Electuary, 21 May to the ſaid Gray the Phyſician, and informed him of the Accidents, who ſent for the ſaid Martin the Apothecary, and asked him if he had made the ſaid Electuary according to his direction, who anſwered that he had, in all things but in one, which he had not in his ſhop, but put in another thing of the ſame operation, which the ſaid Dr. Gray well approved of; Whereupon Martin the Apothecary ſaid, To the end that you may know that I have not put any thing in it, which I my ſelf will not eat, I will before you eat part of it, and thereupon Martin took the box, and with his knife mingled and ſtirred together the ſaid Electuary, and took and eat part of it, of which he died the 22 of May following. The Queſtion was, if upon all this matter Agnes had committed Murder. And this caſe was delivered in writing to all the Judges of England to have their opinions in the caſe. And the doubt was, Becauſe that Martin himſelf of his own head, without incitation or procurement of any, not only eat of the ſaid Electuary, but he himſelf mingled and ſtirred it together, which mixing and ſtirring had ſo incorporated the poyſon with the Electuary, that it made the working more forcible than the commixture which the ſaid Agnes had made; For notwithſtanding the mixture which Agnes had made, thoſe who eat of it were ſick, but yet live, but the mixture which Martin hath made by mingling and ſtirring of it with his knife, made the working of the poyſon more forcible, and was the occaſion of his death. And if this Circumſtance will make a difference between this caſe and Saunders caſe in Plow. Com. 474. was the Queſtion. [81] [b]

And it was reſolved by all the Judges that the ſaid Anne was guilty of the murder of the ſaid Martin, for the Law doth joyn the murderous intent of Agnes in putting the poyſon into the Electuary to kill her Husband, with the event which followeth upon it; ſc. the death of Martin, and the putting of the poyſon into the Electuary is the occaſion and cauſe; and the poyſoning and death of the ſaid Martin is the event, quia eventus eſt qui ex cauſa ſequitur, & dicuntur Eventus quia ex cauſa eveniunt. And the ſtirring of the Electuary by Martin with his knife without the putting in of the poyſon by Agnes could not have been the cauſe of his death.

And it was alſo Reſolved, That if A. putteth poyſon into a Pot of wine, &c. to the intent to poyſon B. and ſetteth it in a place where he ſuppoſeth B. will come and drink of; and by accident C. (to whom A. hath no malice) cometh, and of his own head taketh the pot and drinketh of it, of which poyſon he dieth, the ſame is Murder in A. for the Law doth couple the event with the intention, and the end with the cauſe. And in the ſame caſe if C. thinking that ſugar is in the wine, ſtirreth it with a knife, and drinketh of it, it will not alter the caſe; for the King by reaſon of the putting in of the poyſon upon a murderous intent, hath loſt a Subject; and therefore in Law he who putteth in the poyſon with ill and felonious intent, ſhall anſwer for it. But if one prepare Ratsbane to kill Rats and Mice, and other Vermine, and leaveth the ſame in certain places to that purpoſe, and with no ill intent, and one finding it eateth it, it is not felony, becauſe he who prepareth the poyſon hath no ill or felonious intent; but when one prepareth poyſon, with a felonious intent to kill any reaſonable creature, whatſoever reaſonable creature be killed with it, he who hath the ill and felonious intent ſhall be puniſhed therefore, for he is as great an offendor, as if his intent againſt the other party had taken effect. And if the Law ſhould not be ſuch, this horrible and heinous offence ſhould be unpuniſhed, which ſhould be miſchievous, and a great defect in the Law. [82]

Mich. 9 Jacobi In the Common Pleas.

Conney's Case.

[b] IN a Replevin between John Crane Plaintif, and Bartholmew Colpit Defendant, which began Trinit. 6 Jacobi. Rot. 1611. in the Common Pleas the case was such, Hennry Conny Esquire was seised of 2. acres of Land in Tidde St. Giles in the County of Cambridge, by descent from his Father, in his demesne as of fee, and held them of William Stermyn Esquire, as of his Mannor of Richards, by Fealty, and 13 d. rent, and sute to the Court of the said Mannor, &c. William Stermyn enfeoffed John Wellby Gent. in fee of the said Mannor; to which feoffment the said Henry Conny then being within age of 21 years, sc. of the age of 20 years did attorn; and if this attornment were good or not to bind the said Henry to the payment of the said Services, or not, upon a special verdict found at the Assises in the County of Cambridge, was the Question. And it was Objected, That this attornment shall not bind the Infant, because if it shall be good it shall turn to his prejudice, and the Law doth protect Infants from such prejudice during their minority, quia ferre in omnibus minori etati & succori sub potestate viri succurritur; and when an Infant hath the Tenancy by descent he shall have his age in a Per quæ servitia; and in such case when the Infant at full age attorneth, the Lord shall lose the arrerages during the minority, as it was collected upon the opinion of Thorp in 26 E. 3. 63. Then if the Infant shall not be compelled by the Kings writ to attorn during his minority, (which trencheth to his benefit to discharge him of the arrerages incurred during his minority;) à fortiori his at-[85] tornment in pais shall not prejudice him, nor barr him of the previlege and immunity which the Law giveth him during his minority in such case; but they conceived, that if the Infant had the Tenancy by purchase, in such case he should be driven to attorn, because that in case of his own purchase he shall not have his age: And in the case at barr, for as much as the said Henry had the Tenancy by descent, and was within age, his attornment shall not bind him to charge him with the arrerages during his minority. It was also Objected, That if an Infant who hath the Tenancy by descent shall be compelled in a Per quæ servitia to attorn, yet for as much as in the case at barr he hath taken his estate by Feoffment in pais of the Mannor, &c. and hath not taken his estate by fine, upon which he might have a Per quæ servitia, his attornment in pais shall not bind him, for as much as in this case he is not compelled to attorn. As to this, it was answered and Resolved by the whole Court, sc. Coke Chief Justice, Walmsly, Warburton, and Foster Justices, That in the case at Barr the Attornment was good, and should bind the Infant.

And first it was Resolved by them, That in a Per quæ servitia against an Infant who hath the Tenancy by discent, that he shall not have his age, and the reason is, because the Lord at first did depart with the Land, in consideration that the Tenant should hold of him, and should do him services, and pay to him a yearly rent; and the Tenant is in Law called Tenant peravail, because the Law doth presume he hath benefit and avail over and above the services which he doth, and the rent which he payeth to the Lord; and therefore it shall be against reason and the purpose of the creation of the tenure, That when the heir hath the Tenancy peravail by descent that he shall not pay the yearly rent, &c. which was reserved upon the creation of the Tenancy; and that is the reason that the heir of the Tenant, who hath the Tenancy by descent, may be distrained for the rent, &c. behind, during his minority, and therefore he shall not have his age, Vid. 4. Ma. Dyer 173. And Vid. 21 E. 3. Age 85. and in Avowry, and 7 E. 2. Age 140. In a writ of Mesne the parol shall not demur for the Nonage of the Plaintif, because it is not reason that the Infant shall be distreined for the services of the Mesne during his Nonage, and shall not have any remedy till his full age; but forasmuch as his Nonage doth not privilege him from the payment of rent during his Nonage, the Law also will give remedy to him during his Nonage, But in a Writ of customs and services (which is a Writ of right in his nature, and in which final judgment shall be given) against an Infant who is in by descent, the book in 6 H. 3. Age 148. is adjudged that he shall have his Age. So in a Cessavit against an Infant who hath the Tenancy by discent, he shall have his [b] Age, although it be of his own Cessor; because he cannot know what arrerages to tender before Judgment, and this is a Writ of Right in his nature, and if he maketh no true tender, he shall lose his land, and so it is adjudged in 28 E. 3. 99. Vid. 9 E. 3. 50. 14 E. 3. Age 88. 31 E. 3. Age 54. 2 E. 2. Age 132. But although an Infant do attorn in a Per quæ servitia, it can be no mischief to him; for notwithstanding his Attornment within age, he may at full age disclaim to hold of him or say, that he holdeth not of him, or acknowledge that he holdeth of him but by lessee or other services, and therewith agree, 26 E. 3. 63. 32 E. 3. Per quæ serv. 9. and Age 33. Vi. 2 E. 2. Age 77, & 78. 37 H. 8. br. Attornment. And Coke Chief Justice cited the book in 43 E. 3. 5. Where in a Quid juris clamat brought by an Infant within age, who said that he held the land for term of life, of the lease of the Ancestor of the Infant, who granted by deed, that he should not be impeached of waste, which he shewed forth in Court, and said that he was ready to attorn, saving to him the advantage by the deed; and because the Plaintif was within age, he cannot know the Deed during his Nonage, it was adjudged, he should attend till his full age: And further he said, That he hath seen an old Report in writing, in 32 E. 3. in which in the same same case the Infant when he cometh to his full age, and the Defendant doth attorn by Judgment of the Court, that the same shall not turn the Infant to any prejudice; for although that the Attornment be after his full age; yet forasmuch as no Lacheſſe was in the Infant; but that he brought his writ of Quid Juris clamat to compel the Tenant to attorn, the delay which is till his full age (which the Law provideth for his benefit) shall not turn to his prejudice, and therefore by Judgment of Law (which doth wrong to none) he shall have asmuch advantage as well for the arrerages of the rent, or for waste done, as if the Tenant had attorned at the time of his plea pleaded. 2. It was Resolved, That although the Infant in the case at Bar was not compellable to attorn, because the Mannor was not conveyed by fine; yet becauſe that by a mean he was compellable to attorn, &c. if a fine had been levied, the attornment was good: And so it is holden in 9 E. 3. 38. in Waste; That though the husband out of Court do a thing which he and his wife may be driven to do by Law, the thing shall be eſtabliſhed, and therewith agreeth 8 E. 4. 4. 11 R. 2. Waste 98. and for that equal partition in such case shall bind, the same Law, if the husband and wife attorn in pais to a grant by deed, the same shall bind the wife, and therewith agreeth 15 E. 3. Attornment, 3 E. 3. 42. Sir John Boſviles Case, 44 E. 3. Fines 37.

3. Attornment doth not give any intereſt, but is but a bare aſſent, and therefore 11 H. 7. 13. it is no Infranchiſement to a Villain, and cannot be upon condition, as it is reſolved in Tookers case, in the 2 part of my Reports.

4. The end of an attornment is to perfect a grant, and the Law doth favour the conſummation and perfection of things; for the end is all Finis coronat opus. And with this reſolution agree the books in 12 E. 4. 3. & 4. where it is holden, That Tenant in tayl, an Infant, Feme Covert may be bound by an Attornment gratis in pais; And in 18 H. 6. 2. Forteſcue holdeth; That if one granteth the ſervices of his Tenant who is within age, who within age attorneth, shall he be afterwards in an Avowry admitted to say that he was within age at the time of the Attornment? I say not, for he did but that which he ought to do, therefore the Attornment is good. And afterward Judgment was entred for the Avowant accordingly. [86]

Pinchon's Case.

Error.

[b] TRinit. 7 Jac. Regis, Rot. 533. in the Kings Bench; Edward Pinchon, and Richard Weſton Knights Executors of Jerom. Weſton Knight, Executor of Roſe Pinchon were Plaintiſs againſt Tho. Legate Eſquire, Executor of John Legate Defendant, in an action upon the caſe, And declared where the said Roſe 7 Feb. 1595. mutuò dediſſet & accommodaſſet præfato Johanni Legate 200*l. legalis monetæ* Angliæ, idem Johannes in conſideratione inde adtunc & ibidem ſuper ſe aſſumpſit, & præfatæ Roſæ in vita ſua fideliter promiſit, quod ipſe idem Johannes Legate 200l. lagalis monetæ Angliæ eidem Roſæ, executoribus, vel adminiſtratoribus ſuis, cum inde requiſitus eſſet, bene & fideliter ſolvere & contentare vellet, &c. ac licet bona & catalla quæ fuerunt præd. Johannis Legate tempore mortis ſuæ ad manus præd. Thomæ poſt ipſius Johannis mortem, devenerunt, & adhuc in manibus ipſius Thomæ exiſtunt ſufficientia, tam ad ſolvend. & exonerand. omnia debita & funeralia expenſ. ejuſdem Johannis quam ad ſatisfaciend. prædict. Edwardo & Richardo, de præd. ducentis libris, non ſolver. &c. The Defendant pleaded that he made no such promiſe; and it was found for the Plaintiſs, and upon the verdict Judgment given for the Plaintiſs: Upon which Judgment a writ of Error was brought: And in this case the Principal Error which was aſſigned was, That no action upon the case upon an Aſſumpſit for the payment of the said debt lieth againſt Executors.

And it was urged for the Plaintif in the writ of Error, That the action did not lie; for it is a Maxim in Law, That Executors shall not be charged with a simple contract, and that for 2 reasons; one becauſe that by the preſumption of Law they cannot have knowledge neither of the beginning of the debt, being by word without writing, nor of the continuance of it, becauſe the Teſtator might pay him privately betwixt themſelves, and therefore it is adjudged in 15 E. 4. 16. That an action of Debt lyeth not againſt Executors for the meat and drink of the Teſtator, although it be of neceſſity, and for which an Infant shall be bound for his contempt; as it is holden in 18 E. 4. 2, and 21 H. 6. 31. b. Vid. 41 E. 3. 23. 25 E. 3. 40. So no action of Debt lieth againſt the Executors of the Lord for the ſurpluſage of the accompt before Auditors, for the reasons and causes aforeſaid; and theſe are ſtronger caſes than the case at the Bar: And if an action upon the caſe lie againſt Executors, the same shall impugne the same Maxim at the Common Law; for every contract executory doth imply an Aſſumpſit in Law, and by conſequence the Executors shall be charged with every Contract executory, which shall be directly againſt the said Maxim. Alſo another reaſon was added, That this action upon the caſe upon Aſſumpſit, is a perſonal action, and dieth with the perſon, and therefore lieth not againſt Executors no more than if a Gaoler ſuffereth one who is in Execution to eſcape, the Plaintif might have an action upon the caſe at the Common Law againſt the Goaler; but after the death of the Gaoler no action lieth againſt [87] his Executors, for that was grounded upon a wrong, which dieth with the perſon. Vid. 41. Aſſ. p. 15. and 40 E. 3. Executors 74.

And this caſe depended in conſideration divers Terms, and after many arguments by Counſel on both ſides, and conference amongſt the Judges, viz. Coke Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas, Tanfield Chief Baron, Warburton Juſtice, Baron Snigge, Baron Altham, Foſter Juſtice, and Baron Bromely, It was reſolved by them all una voce, nullo contradicente, That the action upon the caſe in the caſe at Barr did well lie againſt the Executors, and that not only without impugning any Rule or reaſon of Law, or any book Reſolved in the point, but alſo well warranted and confirmed by diverſe authorities in Law, Judgments, and Reſolutions late and antient. And as to the Objections which have been made (for the confuting of them is a confirmation that the action doth well lie.) It was anſwered, That the ſaid book in 15 E. 4. is, That Debt lyeth not againſt Executors upon a contract for meat and drink of the Teſtator, but the reaſon thereof is not, (as hath been urged) becauſe the Executors cannot have knowledge of the contract, nor of the continuance thereof, becauſe the Teſtator might have privately paid it: But the reaſon of the [b] Law which is given in the book in the ſame Caſe is, becauſe the Teſtator might have waged his Law, it was ruled that the Plaintif ſhould take nothing by his Writ. And the like Judgement is in the ſame year, fol. 25. a. That an action of debt lieth not againſt Executors (and the reaſon of the Judgment is) for know, That a man ſhall never have an action againſt the Executors (where the Teſtator in his life time might have waged his Law) and the reaſon thereof is becauſe the Executors ſhall be deprived of the benefit of waging of Law, if an action ſhall lie againſt them; which reaſon ſtrongly proveth, that in the caſe at Bar the action will lie againſt the Executors, becauſe the Teſtator in an action upon the caſe againſt him, could not wage his Law; and therefore his Executors ſhall not be deprived of it. But if a priſoner in the Tower for Treaſon hath meat and drink from the Lieutenant, and dieth, the Lieutenant ſhall have an action of debt againſt his Executors for the meat and drink of the Teſtator, and the reaſon is, becauſe in ſuch caſe the Teſtator could not wage his Law, as it is adjudged in 27 H. 6. 4. in Thomas Bodulgates Caſe, and the reaſon why no wager of Law lyeth in ſuch caſe is, becauſe that every Gaoler ought to keep his Priſoner in ſalva & arcta Cuſtodia, ſo that ſuch Priſoner by the Common Law ſhall avoid a deſcent caſt, and a fine levied during his impriſonment, becauſe the Law preſumeth that he, in reſpect of his ſtrict keeping cannot have knowledge of a diſſeiſin or a fine to command an entrie, or claim to be made, and therefore the Keepers in a manner are compelled to find victuals to his priſoner; and therefore the priſoner ſhall not wage his Law in ſuch caſe. But if A. agreeth with B. for his Commons by the week or month, &c. there in debt brought againſt A. he ſhall wage his Law; as the books are adjudged in 22 H. 6. 13. b. 9 E. 4. 1. Vid. 39 H. 6. 18. b. If a Victualer or Common Innkeeper bringeth an action for his gueſts victuals delivered to him, the gueſt may wage his Law; for a Victualer or Innkeeper is not compellable to deliver victuals till he be paid for them in hand. And therewith agreeth 10 H. 7, 8. a.

In 4 H. 6. 19. b. R. G. brought an action of debt of 10 marks againſt Tho. Timberhull, and others
[83] executors of William Webbe, and declared that the Teſtator had retained the Plaintif with him for a year, in the art of limming of Books, paying 10 marks by the year; and there Martin held that the action was not maintainable againſt the executors, and took a difference between the caſe of a Labourer and a Limmer; for a Common Labourer ſhall be forced to labour in deſpite of him, and his ſalary is certain by the Statute, which it is not reaſon the ſervant ſhould loſe by the death of his Maſter, where he was bound by the Law to ſerve, which ſhall not be ſaid his default, but the Act of the Law; but in the caſe of a Limmer he was not forced by the Law to ſerve, and ſo when he made the contract it was his own act and folly, and not the act of the Law; and he might have taken a ſpecialty: And the opinion of Martin in this caſe is good Law; But the true reaſon of his difference is, becauſe that in this caſe of a Common Labourer, the Teſtator could not have waged his Law, as he might have done in the caſe of the Limmer. And the ſame appeareth in 11 H. 6. 48. Where the Gardian of the Friers Minors of Coventry brought an action of debt againſt Jo. Burton of Coventrey Executor of John Goot, and declared how the ſaid John Goot retained at Coventry John Bredon, one of the Friers of the ſaid Gardian in the ſaid houſe, by licenſe of the Gardian, to ſay Maſſe for him by the year; and alſo did retain him to ſay Saint Gregories Trental in the next year after, and ſhewed in what ſervices Saint Gregories Trental did conſiſt, taking for the ſame 40 s. and within 4 days after John Goot died, and made the Defendant his Executor, and the ſaid John Burton granted and gave ſurety to pay the ſaid ſum to do the ſaid ſervice, according to the Reteiner of the Teſtator; which divine ſervices he had done according to the ſaid Reteiner; and that the whole ſallary was behind. And there a good difference is taken. A Labourer may have an action of Debt againſt Executors, without a ſpecialty, becauſe he ſhall be forced to ſerve if he be required by the Statute, and the Teſtator ſhall not wage his Law in ſuch caſe, becauſe the Labourer ſhall be bound to ſerve him: But here a Prieſt or a Frier is not bound to ſerve by no Law in ſaying Maſſe, if he will not agree to it; and for this cauſe the Teſtator might have waged his Law, and in every Caſe where the Teſtator might have waged his Law, the action ſhall not be maintainable againſt his Executors, without a ſpecialty; for the Executors cannot wage their Law of anothers Contract. And that is the reaſon that a Quo minus lieth in the Exchequer for the death of the Teſtator upon a ſimple contract, becauſe the Teſtator himſelf could [b] not in ſuch caſe wage his Law; and yet it may be ſaid, that the Executor cannot by preſumption of Law have knowledge of the beginning or continuance of it; but theſe are not material, for the wager of Law is the true reaſon and cauſe allowed by the Law. And therewith agreeth 8 H. 5. fey 66. 32 H. 6. 24.

In

In 2 H. 4. 14 B. Lawrence Saint Martin retained one for the term of his life in time of peace and war, for 5*l. per annum*, which service he as a Servant did for 2 years, for which he brought his action of debt against John Felton and others Executors of the said Lawrence Saint Martin, and Judgment was given against the Plaintif, for the reason, and upon the difference aforesaid, Vid. 39 H. 6. 18. b. And therefore the Judgment in Slades case (which was resolved by the advice of all the Judges in the Exchequer Chamber in 44 Eliz. as it appeareth in the 4th part of my Reports in effect doth over-rule this point. For if an action upon the case upon an Assumpsit lieth upon every contract executory, thereupon it followeth, that forasmuch as the Testator cannot wage his Law, that the action shall lie against his Executors; And therefore also it is true, That an action upon Assumpsit made by the Testator, shall lie agaist Executors, because in such action the Testator cannot wage his Law; as in the same case, an action of debt lieth not against Executors, because in such action the Testator might have waged his Law. So no birthright or privilege of the Subject is taken away by this resolution, but thereby Justice and Right is advanced, for as much as the Creditor shall be paid his just and true debt. And the Executors who in truth have the goods in another right, &c. to pay debts, &c. of the Testator, shall not convert them to their private use, without paying the just and true debts of the Testator; for that should be against Justice and Right, and against the Office of Executors, who are but Ministers and dispensers of the goods of the dead; and notwithstanding the death of the Testator the debt doth remain, for death is no discharge of the debt, and it should be a great defect in the Law, that no remedy should be given for it, Curia Domini Regis deficere non debet conquerentibus in justitia perquirenda. West. 2, cap. 24. Vid. Doctor & Student lib. 2. cap. 10, & 11. Debts due by Obligation shall be paid by Executors before debts by simple Contract, and debts by simple Contract before Legacies; which proveth that the Debt by simple Contract doth remain due and payable after the Testators death, and that it shall be paid before Legacies, for which remedy is given in the Ecclesiastical Court. And therewith agreeth 21 E. 4. 21. And debts by simple contract shall be paid before the reasonable part of the Wife and Children. Vid. 2 E. 4. 13. 2 H. 6. 16.

As to the other Objection, That this personal action of Trespasse upon the Case dieth with the [89] person: Although the same is called a Trespasse, in respect the breach of promise is alleged to be mixed with fraud and deceipt to the special prejudice of the Plaintif, and for this cause it is called Trespasse upon the case; yet the same doth not make the action so personal, and annexed to the persons of the parties, that the same shall die with the persons; for then if he to whom the promise is made dieth, his Executors should not have any action, which no man will affirm. And an action sur Assumpsit upon good consideration, without speciality to doe a thing, is no more personal, &c. annexed to the person, Then a Covenant by specialty to do the same thing.

Now for authorities in Law, Judgments and Resolutions. 1. The Case in 3 E. 3. Itin North. cited in Norwood's case in Plow. Com. 183. in the case of Debt. The case in 12 H. 8. 11. which is entred Mich. 12 H. 8. Rot. 40. Between Oliver Cleymond Plaintif, and Robert Vincent, and Thomasin his wife, Executors of the Testament of Robert Penson Defendants; the Record of which Case I have seen; And that the Plaintif declareth, That where Communication was had between one Roger Penson and the said Oliver for 6 barrels of Salt Salmon from the Maze of the said Oliver to the value of 6 l. to be brought by the said Roger to the said Oliver, the said Robert Penson desired and requested the said Oliver to sell and deliver to the said Roger the said 6 barrels, and assumed and promised for himself his Executors, &c. to the said Oliver, quod ipse executores seu assignati sui dictas sex libras pro barrellis & piscibus præd. præfato Olivero infra unum annum proximè sequend. benè & fideliter solvere & contentare debuissent, idemque Oliverus dictis assumptioni & promissioni præd. Roberti Penson fidem adhibens, bona & mercimonia sua prædicta præfat. Rogero ad desiderium & requisitionem dicti Roberti Penson, eo ut præmittitur fact. pro præd. 6 libris sibi ut prefertur solvend. adtunc & ibidem vendidit, tradidit & deliberavit, And declared that the said Robert Penson in his life, nor his Defendants after his death did not pay the said 6 l. &c. and alleged in the Declaration, That the goods and chattels of the said Robert were sufficient to pay the said 6 l. and all other the said Robert's debts, remaining in the hands of the said Robert Vincent and Thomasin, &c. which goods they have converted to their own uses, to his damages of 20*l.* The Defendants by protestation that the said Bill was insufficient in Law, to which they are not bound in Law to answer; for plea say, That the said Robert Penson did not assume and promise to the said Oliver, &c. modo & forma; upon [b] which issue was joined and tried before Sir John Fineux chief Justice of the Kings Bench, by Nisi prius, and found for the Plaintif, and damages assessed to 9 l. upon which Verdict the Court will advise till Hillary Term, and there the Judgment is entred. Et super hoc visis & per Cur. Domini Regis hic diligenter inspect. omnibus & singulis præmissis, maturaque deliberatione superinde habit. consideratum est, quod præd. Oliverus recuperet versus præfat. Robertum Vincent damna sua præd. per Juratores in forma præd. assessat. &c. Which I have Reported out of the Record it self at length, to the intent the Reader may be assured of the truth of the Case. Which Judgment being given in the Kings Bench with so great deliberation by Sir John Fineux, Conisbie and his Companions, Judges of profound knowledge, and remaining upon Record in force it ought not to be discredited or disgraced by the bare saying of the Judge, upon a sudden motion at the Barr, And it is to be observed in the same case of 22 H. 8. That Knightly gave the true reason why no writ of Debt should lie against Executors, &c. because the Testator might have waged his Law, and the Executors cannot so do, and therefore they are not chargeable in an action of Debt. And Knightly further saith, in the Exchequer it is a Common course, That the Kings Debtors shall have a Quo minus against the Executors of their debtors, who were indebted to them by simple Contract; To which the same Judge answereth, that it is not so, and there is no such course in the Exchequer and the Law is otherwise; which is apparent by that which hath been seen said before, that the Jugde denied (upon the sudden) the Law in this point; And it is the Common course in the Exchequer. Which Judgement being given, was a leading case to many others, not onely in the Kings Bench, where the Judgment was given, but also in the Common Pleas; And therefore Hill. 15 H. 8. Rot. 306. in the Common Pleas, an action upon the Case upon Assumpsit of the Testator for debt, was brought against Executors, who pleaded, Fully administred, &c. And in the book of Entries, tit. Action upon the Case, Division de Debt, pl. 2. Action upon the case in the Kings Bench against Executors, upon Assumpsit made by the Testator, 5 Martii 28 H. 8. upon sale of Corn to him. And ibid. p. 3. another Action upon the case in the Kings Bench against Administrators, upon Assumpsit by the Testator, 28 Martii 31 H. 8. upon a contract for Carpenters wares: And ibid. in the division of payment, p. 2. the like action in the the Kings Bench by Executors against Executors, upon Assumpsit for repayment of money which was before delivered, if a Marriage took not effect. And many actions more you may see in the Court of Common Pleas, Mich. 15. & 16. Eliz. Rot. [90] 1959. in the time of Sir James Dyer. An action upon the case by Henry Beecher and others, Executors of Henry Beecher, against Ann Montjoy, administratix of John Bonham Knight, upon Assumpsit of the Administratrix, in consideration that the administration was committed to her, and that she hath assets to pay, &c. assumpsit super se ad solvend. 59 l. in which Sir John the Intestate was indebted to the said Henry Beecher the Testator. The Defendant pleaded Non assumpsit, and found against her, and Judgment was given generally, and not de bonis defuncti. Which Judgment proveth, that the debt perished not by death, and that the Administrator was chargeable to pay it, otherwise there was not any consideration. Pasch. 24 Eliz. Rot. 1530. in the time of Sir Edmund Anderson chief Justice of the Bench. In an action upon the case by Johan Michell, Executrix of Rafe Michell, against William Viall and others, Executors of John Arundel Esquire, upon Assumpsit made by the said John Arundel; in consideration that the said Rafe Michell in vita sua vendidisset & deliberasset eidem Johanni diversa mercimonia, &c. super se assumpsit, to pay, &c. The Defendant pleaded, That he made no such promise, and Judgment was given De bonis Testatoris. Trinit. 27 Eliz. Rot. 107. In an action upon the case by Horne against Borough Executor of Borough, upon a promise made by the Testator in consideration that the Plaintif had sold to the Testator, bona & catalla, &c. assumpsit ad solvend. &c. and upon Non sum Informatus pleaded, Judgment was given for the Plaintif. And a multitude of Judgments have been given in the Kings Bench in the like cases; and the Judges relyed much upon the case in Hill. 4 & 5. Phil. & Ma. in the Kings Bench, between Norwood and Rede, Plow. Com. 181. where it appeareth upon a demurrer in Law upon the Declaration, It was adjudged, That the action upon Assumpsit made by the Testator, was maintainable against the Executors, upon a Contract for Wheat: in which case the Judgment given in 12 H. 8. in Cleymond's Case, is approved. So that upon all these Authorities, Judgments and Resolutions, and for the reasons aforesaid being 3. 1. That the Testator could not wage his Law: 2. That after the death of the debtor the debt doth remain, and that it should be a defect in the Law, if no remedy should be provided for it: 3. It is more consonant to Justice and Common Right, that the just debt should be paid, then that the Executors, who have the goods in anothers Right, should convert the goods to their private use, without payment of the Testators debts; It was unanimously upon long and mature deliberation adjudged, That the Judgment given in the Kings Bench should be affirmed. And you who make payment or other satisfaction of debts, take acquittances, or sufficient proof of the payment or satisfaction thereof, otherwise you or your Executors or Administrators shall be in danger to pay the same again.

Lastly, It was Resolved in this case, That he needed not averr that the Defendants had assets to pay Legacies; as it was Resolved also in the Case of Norwood and Read, for debts upon simple Contract, are to be paid before Legacies. And the Report of the said Case of 12 H. 8. as to the averrment for payment of Legacies is not warranted by the Record; For in the Record the averment is onely taken that the Executor had Assets to pay all debts. And in Mich. 29 & 30 Eliz. in an action upon the case brought by Codington against Hulet, as Executor, &c. upon an Assumpsit made by the Testator for payment of a debt, the Defendant pleaded Non assumpsit, and it was found against him; and in arrest of Judgement it was moved, that the Declaration was insufficient, because the Plaintif had not averred that the Defendant had Assets to satisfie the Testators debts. And it was adjudged by Sir Christopher Wray, Sir Thomas Gaudie, and the whole Court, that the Declaration was good enough; and that the same shall come on the other part; sc. on the Defendants part. As in an action of Debt against Executors, or against the heir, no averrment is in the Declaration that they have Assets, and the Law intendeth that every one will in discharge of his Conscience leave Assets to pay all his debts, which he ought to pay to any one.

Hill. 9. Jacobi. In the Kings Bench, Rot. 1112.

William Bane's Case.

William Banes brought an action upon the Case upon an Assumpsit against Edward Pain and Mary his wife, and declared, That where William Harvet was indebted to the Plaintif in 77*l.* which the Plaintif had lent unto him; that the said William Harvet made his will, and thereof made the said Mary Executrix, and died, and that the said Mary did take upon her the charge of the will; and that she was possessed as Executrix of an Interest of a Term for divers years yet to come of certain gardens, and of a Bowling alley in Moor fields in the Parish of St. Leonrads in Shoreditch in the County of Midd. The said Mary perceiving the said William Banes would sue her for not paying of the said debt, in consideration that the said William Banes at the request of the said Mary should not trouble or sue the said Mary for the said 77*l.* but would defer the payment thereof till Michaelmas following, assured to pay the said debt at the said Feast, or otherwise the said Mary then and there would assign to the said William Banes for his security in that part for payment of the said 77*l.* all the interest of the term of years aforesaid, &c. in default of payment of the said 77*l.* and averred, that the Plaintif did not trouble or sue her, &c. and that at the said Feast did not pay her money, nor made assignment of the said interest; and afterwards the said Mary married the said Ed. Pain: The Defendants pleaded Non assumpsit, and it was found against them to the damages of 88*l.* &c. Upon which a general Judgment was given against Ed. Pain and his wife, &c. that the Plaintif should recover against them his damages: Upon which Judgment, the Defendants brought a Writ of Error in the Exchequer Chamber, by the Statute of 27 Eliz. c. 8. And the principal Error assigned was, because the Plaintif hath not averred, That the Executrix had assets in her hands at the time of the Assumpsit made of the goods of the dead amounting to the value of the debt; and if she had not, then it is but nudum pactum, for there is no Consideration to Charge her, nor to bind her to her promise; and so much the rather, because by this promise she shall be charged generally, and not onely of the goods of the dead; and therefore, because the Assumpsit chargeth her self, and transferreth the charge of her as Executrix, into another Right to her self as for her proper debt, in respect to her promise, reason requireth, that there ought to be some good Consideration thereof, which cannot be, if she hath not Assets. [b] [94]

But it was Resolved by all the Judges of the Common Pleas and Barons of the Exchequer, that the Declaration was well enough, for it shall be intended prima facie, that she hath Assets; and therefore in debt against Executors, or against the heir, the Plaintif shall never averr in his Declaration, that they have Assets, for the Law doth presume that prima facie; for the Law doth presume that the Testator or the Ancestor will not lay a greater charge upon his Executors or heir, then he leaveth benefit to discharge it. And the Consideration in the case at barr is good; For it is as much as if a Stranger had said to the Plaintif, forbear your debt, and doe not sue the Defendant until Michaelmas, and at the said Feast I will pay you your debt, that is a good Consideration, although it cannot be any benefit to him who maketh the promise; yet because it is a damage to the Creditor to forbear his sute and dutie, it is a good Consideration: and as in the same case he who maketh the promise for another shall be generally charged upon his own promise; So where one is Executor, and maketh such a promise, the debt is due by him in right of his Executorship, and the promise is made in his own right; and therefore without Question he shall be charged in an action brought upon his Assumpsit generally, and yet the money which he payeth in satisfaction of the debt of the Testator, shall be allowed to him as parcel of his accompt as Executor; for his promise doth extend to pay the debt with which he is chargeable as Executor; But I conceive, If the truth of the case be that in the case at barr there had not been any debt, and if there had been a debt, and the Executrix had nothing in her hands at the time of the promise, she might have given the same in Evidence, and thereupon have been helped, for then in truth there was not any Consideration, for to forbear the debt where there was none, or with which she was not chargeable, is not any benefit to the Defendant, nor damage to the Plaintif. Also the case at barr was much the stronger, because the Defendant did promise either to pay the money, or to assign the Interest in the Lease which she had as Executrix, for it was in her Election to doe which of them she would. And so Note that the principal point is resolved in both Courts.

Hill. 9 Jacobi In the Chancery.

Sir George Reynel's Caſe.

[95] THE Caſe in the Chancery, between the King and Sir George Reynel, heard before the Lord Chancellor, Coke chief Juſtice, Tanfield chief Baron, Warburton Juſtice of the Common Pleas, and Sir James Altham one of the Barons of the Exchequer, was ſuch, Edward Peacok had and held the office of the Marſhal of the Marſhalſea before our Lord the King for the term of his life. The King that now is, 2 Sept. in the 1. year of his reign, granted the ſaid office to Sir James Elphinſton, [b] now Lord Balerinoth, and to his aſſigns for 31 years in Reverſion, who 26 Jan. 2 Jacobi by Deed aſſigned the ſame to Henry Spiller; Ed. Peacock died 7 Decemb. 3 Jac. who deputed Sir George Reynel by word to exerciſe the ſaid office as his Deputy at will: and afterwards in January following Henry Spiller by his Deed aſſigned the ſaid office to Sir George Reynel. And it was further found by force of a Commiſſion under the great Seal, and returned in the Chancery, that Sir George Reynel had committed divers forfeitures of the ſaid office by ſuffering voluntary eſcapes of Priſoners, &c. And the only Queſton which was argued at the bar in the Chancery by order of Court was, If upon this office the King might ſeiſe without a Scire facias, (for no queſtion was made upon the validity of the office;) But after the Arguments I moved, If this office might be granted for years, or not. And then the Lord Chancellor conceived it could not, but deſired us to conſider of 2. points. 1. If the King might ſeiſe without a Scire facias; and 2. If ſuch an office might be granted for years. And we took advice thereof till this Term; and in the vacation 4. Judges ſeverally did conſider of 2. points, and in the beginning of this Term we met and conferred together.

And as to the firſt it was Reſolved by us, That the King might ſeiſe without ſuing forth any Scire facias for the reaſons and cauſes which Coke chief Juſtice delivered this Term openly in the Chancery. And becauſe that divers Authorities were cited at the bar, and ſome ſeem to contradict the other, he made Report in this manner. 1. In ſome caſe the King ſhall be in poſſeſſion by ſeiſure without office, as in 21 H. 7. and Stamford in the Caſe of the Temporalties of a Biſhop and of Priors aliens, becauſe the certainty of them appeareth in the Exchequer, & fruſtra fit per plura, quod fieri poteſt per pauciora. 2. In ſome caſe the King ſhall be in poſſeſſion by office without ſeiſing, as of Lands, Tenements, offices which are local, or whereof continual profit may be taken: as where it is found by office that a Condition is broken or that a perſon attaint is ſeiſed of Land, &c. or in the caſe of Ward of Land, &c. in all theſe caſes the King preſently by office is in poſſeſſion before any ſeiſure. Vide 2 H. 7. 8. 9 H. 7. 2. 12 H. 7. 1. & 19. 14 H. 7. 21. 15 H. 7. 6. 21 H. 7. 18. Stamford 55. 56. &c. Vide 26 Eliz. Dowties Caſe in the 3. part of my Reports, and Trin. 26 Eliz. the Company of Sadlers Caſe in the 4. part of my Reports. 3. In ſome caſe the King ſhall be in poſſeſſion by office and ſeiſure, as in caſe of Advowſon, &c. the right Patron ſhall not be ouſted by ſuch falſe office found thereof, till the King preſent, and his Clerk be admitted and inſtituted; for if the King's Clerk be refuſed, and the King bringeth a Quare Impedit, he may traverſe the King's Title found by the office in the ſame action, and is not put firſt to traverſe the office as he is put in the Caſes before ſaid of Inheritances manual, where by office the King is in poſſeſſion; for there he ought [96] firſt to avoid the office by traverſe, &c. and till the office be avoided, the King ſhall be in poſſeſſion, 17 E. 3. 10. 20 E. 4. 10. and 14. 21 E. 4. 1. and Dowtie's Caſe before. As if the Mannor of Dale holden of the King be aliened in Mortmain by one who hath nothing in it; and it is found falſly by office, that he who aliened was ſeiſed in fee and aliened in Mortmain by this office the King is in poſſeſſion preſently, and in any ſute or Information commenced for the King for the profits thereof, the right owner ſhall not traverſe the King's title found by the office, but firſt he ought to avoid the office by traverſe, &c. Vide 9 H. 7. 2. But if one alieneth an Advowſon in Mortmain, in which he hath nothing, and it was found falſly that he was ſeiſed in fee, and aliened in Mortmain, the King thereby is not in poſſeſſion of the Advowſon until he preſent, and his Clerk is admitted and inſtituted; and if in ſuch caſe his Clerk be refuſed, and the King bringeth a Quare Impedit, the right Patron may traverſe the King's title in the Qu. Impedit, before he avoid the office by traverſe, &c. becauſe the Advowſon is not manual, but hereditas incorporea, and ſo much the rather, becauſe the Right to preſent, when the ſame falleth, is caſual and not continual. 4. In ſome caſe the King ſhall be in ſeiſin, without any office or ſeiſure; As where the King's Tenant dieth without heir, &c. the Law caſteth the ſeiſin upon the King, without office or ſeiſure, as in 9 H. 7. 2. See Dowtie's, and the Company of Sadlers Caſe. 5. When 2. diſtinct matters of Record amount to an office, there ought to be a Scire facias before the King ſeiſeth, although a Common perſon in ſuch caſe may enter or ſeiſe, if it be not in ſpecial caſes; As if it be found by office, that the Mannor of D. is holden of the King, and it appeareth by fine of Record that the Mannor of D. is aliened in Mortmain, there ought to be a Scire facias, in which it ſhall appear by averment that all is one and the ſame Mannor, for there may be divers of one name, and that he who aliened was ſeiſed, for both without ſuch averment ſhall not put the party to anſwer, but when there is identity of a thing, and it appeareth to the Court that they cannot be divers, there 2. matters of Record ſhall amount to an office: As in the caſe of Sir John Savage, who was Sheriff of the County of Worceſter for life by Letters Patents under the Great Seal, he was indicted of 2. voluntary eſcapes of Felons, and it was holden by the Court

Court in the King's Bench that theſe Records doe amount to an office, and that the King might ſeiſe without a Scire facias; and the reaſon was, that it appeareth to the Court, that there cannot be but one Sheriff in a County, and therefore there needeth not any Scire facias in ſuch Caſe: Mich. 8 H. 8. Rot. 21. reported by Dyer 4, and 5 Phil. & Ma. 151. b. Note a good difference, Vide 16 E. 3. bre. 651. 21 Aſſ. 36. 40 Aſſ. 46. 50 Aſſ. 2, 2 E. 3. 10. b. 4 Eliz. Dyer 211. 30 E. 3. 41. 6. In all caſes when a Common perſon is put to his action; there upon an office found the King is put to his Scire facias, as in Caſe of Waſte, Ceſſavit, &c. But when a Common perſon may enter or ſeiſe, there an office without a Scire facias ſhall ſerve for the King. 12 H. 7. 21. 14 H. 7, 2. 15 H. 7. 6. Stamf. 54. Vide Dowtie's Caſe aforeſaid; and by theſe differences apparent in our Books, all the Books are well reconciled and agreed. [b]

And for Authorities in Law in caſes of offices, 8 H. 4. 8. The Abbot of St. Albans had a Gaol, and detained Priſoners, becauſe he would not be at the charge to ſue forth a Commiſſion for their delivery, the King hath cauſe to ſeiſe the franchiſe into his hands; 20 E. 4. 5. The Abbot of Crowland had a Gaol in which Priſoners were impriſoned, and becauſe that once he kept men who were acquitted of felony, and alſo would have paid their fees, the King reſeiſed the Gaol for ever, and that was for miſuſing of the Franchiſe. 5 E. 4. 3. The Duke of Norfolk being Marſhal of England, granted the office of the Marſhal of the Marſhalſea of the King's Bench to one John Bouchier for term of his life, with warranty, who was admitted accordingly of Record, and afterwards the Duke died, his heir within age; and it was found by office that the Duke died ſeiſed of an eſtate tayl in the ſaid office, and that the ſame deſcended to his heir within age; And there it is holden, by this office Bouchier was out of poſſeſſion, and the King is in poſſeſſion till he hath avoided the office by traverſe, &c. And Coke chief Juſtice cited a Record in Trinit. 21 E. 1. Rot. 33. Cant. coram Rege: Fulco de Vallibus Attornatus, ſive Vicegerens Rogeri Bigot Com. Norff. & Mareſchal. Angliæ, quia permiſit Alanum Oſmond qui utlegatus fuit pro morte Henrici Hagam qui fuit ſub Cuſtodia ſua ſicut nullo crimine rectatum, & miſſas in duabus eccleſiis audire, & per plateas, vicos, & tabernas, ſine compedibus ambulare & vagari, forisfecit officium ſuum mareſchal una cum virga, quæ capiantur in manibus Regis, & committitur Vicecom. Cantiæ. And the ſaid Caſe of Sir John Savage was cited again to this purpoſe: for which cauſe it was concluded, That in the Caſe at Bar the King might ſeiſe without any Scire facias; and all this was agreed by the Lord Chancellor of England.

As to the other Queſtion, it was Reſolved by the chief Juſtice, chief Baron, and Juſtice Warburton, that the ſaid grant for years of the ſaid office was void. 1. Becauſe this office is an office of great truſt annexed to the perſon, and concerneth the adminiſtration of Juſtice, and the life of the Law, which is to keep thoſe who are in execution in ſalva Cuſtodia, to the end they may ſooner pay their debts, &c. and this truſt is individual and perſonal, and ſhall not be extended to the Executors or Adminiſtrators. For the Law will not repoſe Confidence in matters concerning the adminiſtration of Juſtice in perſons unknown. 2. This office doth require a continual attendance in Court, and perhaps the Leſſee may die Inteſtate, and then who ſhall be Officer till Adminiſtration be granted? Shall the Ordinary, or who elſe? And if the Officer dieth in debt and none will prove the Will, or take Adminiſtration, who then ſhall be Officer? &c. 3. Every ſuch Officer ought to be admitted by the Court, and ſworn there; but if ſuch Officer ſhall be admitted for years, then the Executors, or Adminiſtrators ſhall be Officers without allowance, or admittance, which ſhall be inconvenient. 4. This is an antient office, and hath alwaies been granted for their life, or at will, ſo that the perſon was certainly known, and before this time there was never any grant thereof for years, and in theſe caſes Innovations are dangerous. 5. If it may be granted for years, it may be demanded if it ſhall be forfeited by Utlary, or ſhall be Aſſets to his Executors, and many other Queſtions will ariſe upon it. M. 16 H. 6. rot. 63. in the King's Bench, this office was granted for life. 39 H. 6. 32. granted to Brandon for life. 5 E. 4. 3. this office was granted to Bourchier for life, M. 10 & 11 Eliz. Dyer, to Gawdie for life, and in no Book or Record can it be found before this time, that this office hath been granted for years. But yet by an Act in Law, a Term which is but a Chattel may be in ſuch office, as it appeareth in 5 E. 4. 3. The Duke of Norfolk had an eſtate tayl in the office holden of the King in Capite, and died, his heir within age, and the ſame found by office, in this caſe the King hath a Chattel in the office, ſc. during the minority, and if the King dieth, it ſhall deſcend to the next King, and ſhall not go to his Executors nor Adminiſtrators, ſo an Act in Law doth not introduce any inconvenience. But there it is put, That if the King grant the office for life, or during the minority, there ought to be a Scire facias againſt the Patentee; and without queſtion the grant for life in ſuch caſe, the King having but a Chattel, is void. And ſo for the cauſes aforeſaid it ſeemeth the grant thereof, during the minority, for if the Grantee ſhall die, his Executors or Adminiſtrators ſhould have it, which ſhould be inconvenient. And the principal caſe of 5 E. 4. 3. The King having the office in Ward, granted the ſame to Wingfield at will, which without queſtion ſtood good in Law. And where the chief Baron in 39 H. 6. 32. ſaith, If a man granteth an office to another for life or for years, and he will not execute his office, or otherwiſe miſdoth in his office, the Grantor ſhall ſeiſe his office: Firſt it doth not appear what manner of office he meaneth, ſc. of great truſt, or Adminiſtration of Juſtice. 2. It is but a ſudden opinion, and not pertinent to the caſe there in queſtion: And there neither Priſot, nor any of the other Judges do affirm, That the ſaid office of Marſhal may be granted for years. And where it was objected, That the King may grant the Cuſtody of a Gaol to another in fee; and alſo to be Sheriff of the County to one and his heirs, which eſtate in fee ſimple doth include all other eſtates, and the heir in ſuch Caſe is as well unknown at the time of the grant, as the Executors or Adminiſtrators in the caſe of a grant for years. To that it was anſwered, That it is true, That ſuch grants may be made by Law, but they differ from the caſe at Bar for divers cauſes. [97] [b]

1. There

1. There cannot be ſuch intermiſſion, for preſently by the death of the Anceſtor, the office doth deſcend to the heir. 2. Such eſtate cannot be forfeited by Outlawry. 3. In antient time the Earl had the Cuſtody of the County, and was called Præpoſitus Comitatus, Shire-reeve, ſc. Reeve of the Shire, which is as much as Præpoſitus Comitatus, and afterwards it was transferred to the Sheriff, who is Vicecomes, id eſt, in Vice Comitis; but as the King cannot grant to one, that he and his Executors or Adminiſtrators ſhall be Earls for years, for then his Executors or Adminiſtrators, one being appointed by himſelf, and the other by the Ordinary, ſhould be Earls: for without queſtion the King may Create an Earl for life in tail, or in fee. 4. This office of Marſhal, &c. ought to come in by admittance or allowance of the Court; ſo cometh not in the Sheriff, or Gaoler. 5. Grants of ſuch offices in fee, or for life, have been allowed and approved, but ſuch grants for years, were never allowed or approved. Et periculoſum exiſtimo quod bonorum virorum non comprobatur exemplo. And if this, and other ſuch offices may be granted for years, then the offices of Cuſtos Brevium, of the Cirographer, or of the King's Silver, &c. may be leaſed in poſſeſſion or revertion for 1000 years or more; So of the Clerk of the Pipe, and of the King's Remembrancer in the Exchequer; and ſo of the office of Clerk of the Crown in this Court, and of other offices in other Courts, upon which would follow the ſubverſion of Juſtice, by reaſon of Ignorance in the Officers: For good Clerks ſhall be deterred to apply themſelves to get knowledge and experience, when ſuch offices ſhall be ſaleable, and transferred from one to another for lucre and gain; upon which alſo will follow corruption in the Officers, and Extortion from the Subjects, and other great In-
[98] conveniencies. And the Lord Chancellor hearing theſe reaſons, agreed clearly with this Reſolution, and ſaid, That ſuch was the Opinion of Sir John Popham late chief Juſtice of England, in all ſuch Caſes; as he had often affirmed to the ſaid Lord Chanchellor, and to me alſo when I was Attorney General.

And it was alſo Reſolved, That for as much as the office was found by force of a Commiſſion under the Great Seal and returned in this Court, that (although the Office be to be executed in another Court) yet the Award of the ſeiſure ſhall be in this Court, where the office is returned, and in this Court the party ſhall have his traverſe, or Monſtrans de droit, as his Caſe is, to avoid the office, and when ſuch Award ſhall be made, the Cuſtody of the Priſoners is to be committed to another, to avoid the Eſcapes of thoſe who are in the Priſon, and ſo hath it alwaies been uſed, but the admittance and allowance of ſuch perſon to whom the Cuſtody ſhall be newly in the interim committed, belongeth to the Court of King's Bench. Then the Lord Chancellor demanded, how this ſeiſure ſhould be made? And I anſwered, That by the office and the award of the ſeiſure, the King is in poſſeſſion without any Writ or Commiſſion awarded to this purpoſe; but that there ſhall be a Writ of Diſcharge directed to Sir George Reynel, according to the effect of the Writ in the Regiſter, 295. when an Eſcheator is removed. Et mandatum eſt nuper Eſcheatori R. in Com. præd. quod eidem I. rotulos, brevia, & omnia alia Offic' illud tangentia quæ in Cuſtodia ſua exiſtunt per Indenturas inde inter eos debite conficiend' liberet, &c. And the like Writ ſhall be directed to Sir George Reynel, to deliver by Indenture all the Priſoners, &c. which are in his Cuſtody; and as when the King is falſly entituled by Office, and upon Petition, Traverſe, or Monſtrans de droit, Judgment is given, quod manus Dom. Regis amoveantur, that without other Writ the hands are removed, as it is holden in 10 Aſſ. p. 2. 10 E. 3. 2. Aſſ. 156. 5 E. 3. Qu. Imp. 34. Stamf. prærogat. 78. and ſo it was adjuged in the Common Pleas between Brown and Terry, Hil. 37 Eliz. rot. 620. and yet in ſuch caſe the uſe is, to have a Writ of Amoveas manum: ſo that when an Office findeth a forfeiture, preſently by the Law the party is out of poſſeſſion, and the King is in poſſeſſion, and yet the uſe is, and to good purpoſe, to have ſuch a Writ of Diſcharge as is aforeſaid; and yet till he be actually removed he ſhall anſwer for all eſcapes. For he who holdeth, or hath the Cuſtody of a Gaol wrongfully or of right, ſhall be charged with eſcape of Priſoners, 11 H. 4. 73. And he who hath the Cuſtody of a Gaol in fee, and doth ſubſtitute another at will, or for life under him, the action upon the eſcape will lie againſt him who hath the actual poſſeſſion of the Office, 13 E. 3. bar 253. The Abbot of Weſtminſter's caſe againſt a Gaoler at will, 10 Eliz. 278, 279. Dyer. Gaudy

And a Caſe was cited which began in this Court Paſch. 21 Eliz. Rot. 1. inter placita Reginæ, the Record of which began in this manner. Midd. Conſtat quod Dom. Novembris Anno Regni dict' Dom. Regin. nunc Concessit quod idem Marcus seipsum absentaret ab exercitio dict' officii sui durante beneplacito ipsius Marci quousque eadem Regina ipsum perciperet deservire in officio suo præd. And that Augustine Steward, Brother of Mark Steward, 6 Marcii Anno 11 Reg. per dict' Dom. Jur. præd. penitus ignorant; & inde pet. auxil. & advisament. Cur. in præmiss. And this Case was argued at the Bar and Bench, and depended in advice till Michaelmas Term, and then it was Resolved by Sir Ch. Wray, chief Justice, and the whole Court, That the licence by word was good enough, and because that all pleas in the Chancery, according to the Ordinary power are coram Dom. Regin. in Cancel. and the Keeper of the Great Seal or Chancellor of England, is but the Queens Deputy during her pleasure, and therefore the service of the Sergeant at Arms made to the Queens Deputie, is in Law done to the Queen her self. And the same well appeareth by the said Letters Patents, for King and Queen Phil. & Mary concesserunt, &c. officium servient. eorund. nuper Regis & Reginæ ad arma attendend. super Cancellar. Angliæ, &c. so that he is the King and Queens Sergeant at Arms, and therefore the Queen may well license him to absent himself, &c. which in a manner is a refusal of his service for a time, for it is at her pleasure if he will accept his service or not, another reason was given, that the Queen doth not depart with any interest in this Case, but suspendeth the service of a Sergeant for a time, and therefore such license by Word was good enough. Also it was Resolved that it is true, That not attendance upon their office is a cause of forfeiture, but the same ought to be a voluntary negligence, and not when he hath the Queens assent, who is to take advantage of the forfeiture for not attendance. [b] And afterwards Judgment was entred in this manner, Super quo visis & per Curiam hic intellectis omnibus & singulis præmissis maturaque deliberatione inde habita, Servient. dictæ Dominæ Reginæ ad legem ac ipsius Reginæ Attornat. ad hoc convocat. & præsent', consideratum est, quod dictum officium dicti servientis ad arma in manibus Dominæ Reginæ retent. eidem restituatur, & quod præd. Marcus ad exercitium officii sui præd. à quo amotus fuit, una cum vadiis & feodis inde eidem officio debitis & pertinen', à dicto tempore amotionis suæ, ab exercitio officii sui præd. hucusque percept. & detent. restituatur, salvo semper jure Reginæ si, &c.

Margaret Podger's Case.

IN a Replevin between Rafe Bicknel Plaintif, and John Tucker Defendant, the Plaintif declared of taking his Cattel, viz. Sheep at Curririvel, in the County of Somerset, in a place called Hilfield Close, the Defendant made Conusance as Baily to Margaret Podger, because the place where, &c. was the freehold of the said Margaret, for damage feasance, &c. In Bar of which Avowry the Plaintif said, That before the said Margaret had any thing in the place [104] where, where, &c. One Thomas Wiſe Eſquire was ſeiſed of the Mannor of Hampenbridge in the County aforeſaid, whereof the place where was parcel, And that the place where, &c. was demiſed, and demiſable by Copy of Court Roll, &c. for one, two, or three lives. And that within the ſaid Mannor, there was, &c. a Cuſtom, Quod ille vel illa qui vel quæ, primus vel prima nominat. foret in tali Copia, ſhould have the Lands and Tenements to him only for his life, and he who was ſecond named ſhould have the ſame only for his life, after the death of him who was firſt Tenent, and ſo of the third after the death of the ſecond. And that the ſaid Tho. Wiſe Lord of the ſaid Mannor, at a Court holden 15 Oct. 9 Eliz. granted the place where, &c. to John Podger and Eliz. and Mary his daughter for their lives, &c. for which John entred, &c. and died, after whoſe death Eliz. entred, and married the ſaid Raſe Bicknell the Plt. for which he entred, and took the Cattel, &c. and averred the life of Elizabeth: The Avowant replied and confeſſed the ſaid Tho.

[b] was ſeiſed of the Mannor, and that within the ſaid Mannor there were ſuch cuſtoms, as the Tenant in Bar of the Avowry had alledged and confeſſed, alſo the grant made to John Podger, Eliz. and Mary, prout, &c. but further ſaid, That the ſaid John Podger of the place where, &c. ſo ſeiſed, The ſaid Tho. Wiſe Lord of the ſaid Mannor, Anno 23 Eliz. by deed indented and inrolled in the Chancery, according to the Statue for 46 l. 13 s. 4 d. bargained and ſold to the ſaid John Podger, the place where, &c. to have and to hold to him his heirs. By force of which, and of the Statute of transferring of uſes into poſſeſſion, the ſaid John Podger, was ſeiſed of the place where, &c. in fee, and the ſaid John Podger ſo ſeiſed, The ſaid Tho. Wiſe Menſe Mich. 23 Eliz. levied a fine come ceo, &c. of the place where, &c. to the ſaid John Podger and his heirs with Proclam. according to the Statute of 4 H. 7. And afterwards 39 Eliz. John Podger died ſeiſed, after whoſe death the ſame deſcended to Marmaduke Podger his Son and heir, who thereof 4 Jac. levied a fine to Collins and Northover, and to the heirs of Collins, which was to the uſe of the ſaid Marmaduke, and Margaret his Wife, and to the heirs of the ſaid Marmaduke, (but this fine was not pleaded to be with Proclamations) and afterwards 24 Junii 8 Jac. the ſaid Marmaduke died, and Margaret ſurvived him, and was thereof ſeiſed for the term of her life, and afterwards the Plaintif entred into the ſaid Tenements, and put in his Cattel, &c. and that 10 years and more after the death of the ſaid John Podger were paſt, and that the ſaid Eliz. 1 Nov. 39 Eliz. accompliſhed her age of 21 years, and that ſhe was not married, nor Non compos mentis, nor out of the Realm, nor in Priſon; And that the ſaid Eliz. after the death of John Podger, and after her full age, nor the ſaid Raſe and Eliz. after their marriage within 5 years, and not any entry or claim, &c. by which ſhe was barred of all right and claim of and in the place, where &c. Upon which the Defendant did demur in Law. And in this caſe 3 Queſtions were moved. 1. If cuſtomary eſtates granted by Copy, at the will of the Lord, according to the cuſtom of the Mannor, &c. be within the Statue of 4 H. 7. cap. 24. of Fines, to be barred by fine with Proclamation and Nonclaim by 5 years. 2. Admitting that ſuch eſtates were within the ſaid Statute, if by acceptance of the ſaid bargain
[105] and ſale, they in the remainder of the Copy-hold eſtate were put out of poſſeſſion of their Remainder, or if their Remainder doth continue in them. 3. If after the ſaid bargain and ſale to John Podger, Eliz. in the Remainder might enter. As to the firſt it was Objected, that ſuch Cuſtomary eſtates are not within the ſaid Act, for divers cauſes. 1. In reſpect of the buſineſs of the eſtate; for in the Judgment of Law, they have but a Tenancy at will, which is ſo weak, that the makers of the Act never meant to include them within the general words of the Act, no more than the Statue of Weſt. 2. de donis, &c. did extend to ſuch baſe eſtates granted by Copy at will, as it was reſolved by the whole Court in the laſt Term, upon evidence to a Jury in Treſpaſs, between Thornton and Lucas for lands in Lambeth, in the County of Surrey, which began 9 Jac. Rot. 5129. Vide Heydon's caſe in the third part of my Reports. Secondly, it ſhall be very prejudicial to Lords of Mannors; for if a diſſeiſor of land holden by Copy levieth a fine with Proclamation, it ſhall be dangerous to Lords, that they loſe not only their fines upon alienations or deſcents, and the benefit of forfeitures, but alſo ſhall be in hazard to loſe and be barred of theſe freehold and inheritance of lands holden by Copy, without any fault in them. But it was reſolved by the whole Court, That lands holden by Copy are within the words and intent of the ſaid Act of 4 H. 7. for the words of the Act are general. And the ſaid Proclamation ſo had and made, the fine to be final, end and conclude as well privies as ſtrangers to the ſame. And if no exception had been in the Statute by the words aforeſaid, all perſons general ſhould be concluded, as it is holden in 19 H. 8. 6. and 7. Then it is to ſee what things are ſaved by the ſaid Act; the words of the ſaving are. And ſaving to every perſon, &c. ſuch right, claim, or intereſt, &c. ſo that they purſue their intereſt, title, or claim, within 5 years after the Proclamations: Within which words and principally this word (Intereſt) a leaſe for years is included, ſo that if he make not his entry or claim within 5 years, he ſhall be barred, as it was Reſolved in Saffin's Caſe in the 5 part of my Reports. And there the words of the preamble of the ſaid Act are well obſerved. That fines ought to be of greater ſtrength to avoid ſtrifes and debates, and to the final end and concluſion, &c. And there it is inferred, That great miſchief, vexation and trouble would follow, if leaſes for years (which now many times are made for a greater number of years, &c,) ſhould not be within the ſaid Act. But greater miſchief, vexation, and trouble would follow if the ſaid Act ſhould not extend to cuſtomary lands holden by Copy, for a great part of them is granted in fee-ſimple, ſo that it ſhould be more miſchievous, and greater cauſe of ſtrife, than the ſaid caſe of an eſtate for years. And as to the ſaid Objections, they are anſwered by the ſaid Reſolution of the Caſe of eſtate for years, for ſuch prejudice might be Objected in ſuch caſe to the Leſſor, as well for his benefit of forfeiture, &c. as for the hazard of his inheritance, as in this caſe of Copy-hold to the Lord. But if Leſſee for years, or a Copy-holder aſſent by Covin to Bar the Leſſor or Lord of his Inheritance, ritance, maketh a feofment, and levieth a fine with proclamation, in the ſame mannor as appeareth in Farmers Caſe in the 3 part of my Reports; ſuch fine ſhall not barr the Leſſee or the Lord for the reaſons there given at large. And the eſtate of a Copyholder is not meerly an eſtate at will, but according to the cuſtom of the Mannor, which cuſtom hath fixed and made firm his eſtate.

Note Reader a difference betwixt a leaſe for years, and a leaſe for life, and alſo betwixt a grant by Copy, &c. for life, or in fee, by cuſtom, &c. and a leaſe for life by the Common Law: for if Leſſee for years be ouſted, and he in the reverſion diſſeiſed, and the diſſeiſor levieth a fine with proclamations, and 5 years paſſe, as well the Leſſor as the Leſſee is barred by their Non-claim, and the Leſſor ſhall not have five years after the years expired. So if a Copyholder for life, or in fee be ouſted, and the Lord diſſeiſed, and the Diſſeiſor levieth a fine with proclamation, and 5 years paſs, as well the Lord as the Copyholder is barred, and the Lord in ſuch caſe ſhall not have 5 years after the death of the Copyholder for life. And the cauſe of theſe differences ariſe upon the words of 2 ſavings in the ſaid Act of 4 H. 7. the firſt ſaving is Saving to every perſon, ſuch Right, Claim, and Intereſt, &c. ſo that they purſue their title, claim, or intereſt by way of action, or lawful entrie within 5 years, &c. The ſecond Saving is, And ſaving to all other perſons ſuch Action, Right, Title, &c. as ſhall grow, remain, or deſcend, or come to them after the ſaid fine, &c. by force of any gift, &c. or by any other cauſe or matter had or made before the ſaid fine. The firſt ſaving extendeth to thoſe who have preſent Rights, and may preſently enter and have their action to recover their lands, and therefore they are confined to 5 years after the fine levied. And the ſecond Saving extendeth to thoſe who at the time of the fine levied, cannot preſently have the action, nor make Entry, but in futuro, and therefore they ſhall have Five years after that their action, &c. firſt accrueth. Then when Leſſee for years, or Tenant by Copy &c. for life, or in fee, be ouſted, and the Leſſor or Lord diſſeiſed, the Leſſor or the Lord may preſently have an Aſſize or other real action to recover the land, and therefore they are within the firſt Saving, and by conſequence, if they do not bring their actions within five years after the fine levied, they are for ever barred. And they are not within the ſecond Saving, before the Leſſor or Lord hath a preſent action or remedie, and therefore he is out of the Second branch, for the action &c. doth not accrue firſt to him after the fine. And although a ſtranger of his own head cannot enter, in the name of him who hath right to avoid the fine without a Commandment precedent, or a ſubſequent aſſent within the five years, as it was Reſolved in the Lord Audleys Caſe, M. 38. & 39 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, where the Caſe was, That the Lord Audley being ſeiſed of certain lands, Anno 6 Eliz. levied a fine with [106] proclamation; and within the five years a meer ſtranger, who had not any right or intereſt in the land comprized within the fine, made an entry in the name of him who had right within the five years, without any requeſt or precedent Commandment, or ſubſequent aſſent within the 5 years, that this entrie ſhould not avoid the fine, for the ſaving in the ſaid Act hath appropriated the ſute by way of Action or lawful Entire to him who hath right either by precedent commandment, or ſubſequent aſſent within the five years omnis enim ratihibitio retrotrahitur et mandato equiperatur: And of ſuch opinion were all the Judges at Sergeants Inn in Fleetſtreet, as Popham Chief Juſtice openly reported in Court againſt the opinion in 31 H. 8. Entry Congeable, br. 123. Vid. 45 E. 3. Releaſes 28, Gardian by nurture or in ſocage may enter in the name of the Infant who hath right of entrie, and the ſame ſhall veſt the eſtate in the Infant, without any commandment or aſſent, for there is privity betwixt them, Vid. 10 H. 7. 12. 11 Aſſ. p. 11. and 26 E. 3. 62. b. by Thorpe. Yet he in the Reverſion expectant upon an eſtate for life or years, or the Lord of a Tenant by Copy, &c. may well within the ſaid Act enter in the name of the Tenant for life, Leſſee for years, or Tenant by Copy, and in his own right to ſave as well their freehold and own inheritance, as the ſaid particular intereſts, for the Leſſor or the Lord are not ſtrangers, for they are privies in eſtate, and as the entries of thoſe particular Tenants peravail the Leſſor and the Lord in ſuch caſes for the privity of their eſtate, ſo the entry of the Leſſor or the Lord in the names of the particular Tenants ſhall avail them for the privity of their eſtates, and for the ſalvation of their ſeveral Rights without requeſt precedent, or ſubſequent aſſent. For in ſuch caſe the Leſſor or Lord purſueth their title and claim which they have to the Inheritance by lawfull entry within the five years, but ſo doth not he who is a meer ſtranger, who hath not any right, becauſe the ſaving annexeth the entry to him who hath right, &c. as afore is ſaid. As to the ſecond point, It was Reſolved by the whole Court, That no fine nor warrantry ſhall barr any eſtate in poſſeſſion, reverſion, or remainder which is not deveſted and put to a right: for he who hath the eſtate or intereſt in him cannot be put to his Action, entrie or claim, for he hath that which the action, entry or claim would veſt or give him. 2. When the Lord made the bargain and ſale by Deed indented and inrolled to John Podger, The ſame did not deveſt the eſtate in them in remainder for divers cauſes. 1. Becauſe the Lord did [b] that which he might do by Law; and the Copyholder accepted that which he might well take. 2. The Copyholder was in lawfull poſſeſſion, and was only paſſive in this caſe, and not active; and by acceptance he who is in lawfull poſſeſſion, by force of a particular eſtate, cannot deveſt the eſtate of him who hath the freehold or Inheritance. And therefore if Tenant for life accepteth a fine of a ſtranger, come ceo &c. the ſame is a forfeiture 1 H. 7. but the ſame ſhall not deveſt the eſtate of him in the reverſion or remainder. 3. John Podger the Bargainee was in by force of a bargain and ſale by Deed indented and inrolled, by force of the Statute of 27 H. 8. of Inrollments, and an act of Parliament ſhall do no wrong. And thereupon the Chief Juſtice put a Caſe which was adjudged Trinit. 31. Eliz. in the Exchequer, between the Queen and the Lady Greſham, late the wife of Sir Tho. Greſham Knight, which was ſuch, Sir Tho. Greſham being ſeiſed of the Mannors of Mileham, Caſtleacre, &c. in the County of Northfolk, levied a fine thereof to A. Stringer and Phil. Cely, Anno 12 Eliz. to uſes declared by certain Indentures, ſc. to the uſe of himſelf and the Lady Anne his wife, and their heirs (for ſo it was in effect, for there were divers particular mean eſtates limited, but they were all determined, or never came in eſſe) with power of revocation, contained in the ſaid Indentures) That if Sir Tho. Greſham ſhould pay 40 s. to Stringer and Cely, or to the heirs of Stringer, that then the fine ſhould be to the uſe of the ſaid Sir Thomas and his heirs; And afterwards the ſaid Sir Thomas levied a fine, 13 Eliz. to the ſame Conuſees of the Mannors of N. and F. in the County of York, Darbie, &c. to the ſame uſes declared in another pair of Indentures with the like power of revocation upon payment of 40 s. as was contained in the other Indentures mutatis mutandis; And afterwards the ſaid A. Stringer died, and afterwards the ſaid Sir Thomas paid one ſum of 40 s. to Cely, and to the heirs of Anthony Stringer, for revocation of the uſes raiſed upod both the fines; And this payment was teſtified by an Inſtrument in writing under the ſeals of the parties by good advice, as Sir Thomas was perſwaded, and after he raiſed divers uſes and eſtates of divers Mannors holden in Capite: And aftewards Sir Thomas died. After whoſe death, viz. Hill. 23 Eliz. by the opinion of the Judges it was Reſolved, That the uſes were not revoked, but that the revocation was utterly void, becauſe the two ſeveral ſums of 40 s. ought to have been tendred, and not one ſum of 40 s. for they were [107] ſeveral Indentures, and ſeveral Mannors, &c. and could not be ſatisfied with one ſum, for which all the ſaid Mannors came to the Lady Greſham by ſurvivor. And afterwards the ſaid Revocation was enacted and adjudged to be good and ſufficient in Law, by a private Act of Parliament, made 23 Eliz. And becauſe the ſaid Sir Tho. Greſham had by Indentures of Covenants raiſed new uſes after the ſaid ſuppoſed revocation of divers of the ſaid lands holden in Capite. The Lady Greſham was called by proceſs into the Exchequer, to anſwer a fine to the Queen for the ſaid alienation of the ſaid Mannors, being holden of the Queen in Capite, without licenſe, becauſe that now the ſaid new uſes raiſed were good, and the Mannors paſſed according to the limitation of them, foraſmuch as now the revocation by authority of Parliament was adjudged good. But becauſe that at the time of the death of the ſad Sir Thomas, which was before the ſaid Act of 23 Eliz. the Lady Greſham was diſcharged by Survivor, and every allienation without licenſe, doth imply a wrong and treſpaſs, and an Act of Parliament, to which the Queen, and all her Subjects are parties, and give their conſent, cannot do wrong; for this cauſe the Lady Greſham was diſcharged of the fines for the ſaid alienations, which upon the matter had their eſſence by means of the ſaid Act of Parliament.

As to the 3 point (which did not go directly to the concluſion of the Caſe) it was Reſolved, That after the bargain and ſale Elizabeth could not enter, for her eſtate was to begin in poſſeſſion after the death of the ſaid John by the ſaid Cuſtom. And ſo if a Copyholder for life, where the remainder is over for life, commit a forfeiture, he in the remainder ſhall not enter, but the Lord, and he ſhall keep it during the life of him who committed the forfeiture, but it ſhall not deſtroy the Remainder, without an expreſſe cuſtom in ſuch caſe. And Tenant by Copy for life, where the remainder is over, may ſurrender to the Lord, and he in the remainder ſhall not enter till after his death, for his eſtate is to begin in poſſeſſion poſt mortem, and no incident of the Common Law is belonging to him, if not by Cuſtom. And the chief Juſtice ſaid, That the ſurrender of Copyholds are not to be likened to a ſurrender at the Common Law; For if a Copyholder in fee ſurrendreth to the uſe of another for life, no more ſhall paſſe from him then ſhall ſerve the eſtate limited to the uſe, and he who made the ſurrender ſhall not pay any fine for readmittance to the Reverſion, for the ſame continueth always in him. And the Chief Juſtice further ſaid, That he conceived, that if the Lord in the Caſe at Barr had charged the inheritance of the Copyhold, that John Podger ſhould not hold it charged during his life, for the mean eſtats in remainder preſerve the eſtate of John [b] Podger by Copy from the Lords Incumbrances. Vid. in Wroteſleys Caſe in Plow. Com. That if Tenant for life granteth a Rent charge and he in reverſion granteth a Rent charge to another, and afterwards Tenant for life ſurrendreth, the grantee of the Tenant for life ſhall be preferred.

Paſch. 10 Jacobi. In the Common Pleas.

Meriel Treſhams Caſe.

[108] HElen Brokesby and Anne Vaux Adminiſtrators of Hen. Vaux Eſq, brought an action of debt againſt Meriel Treſham Adminiſtratrix of Sir Tho. Treſham Knight, upon an Obligation of 600 l. made by the ſaid Sir Thomas to the ſaid Henry Vaux. 23 Maii 25 Eliz. which plea began Trinit. 9 Jac. Rot. 917. The Defandant pleaded, That the ſaid Sir Thomas Treſham, and Francis his Son, 1 Julii 43 Eliz. before the Barons of the Exchequer for a juſt and a true debt, did acknowledge themſelves to owe to the ſaid late Queen 100 l. to be paid in the Feaſt of Saint Michael the Archangel next following. And that the ſad Tho. and Francis his Son 8 Junii, 3 Jac. did acknowledge a recogniſance in the nature of a Statute, before the Lord Anderſon Chief Juſtice of the Bench, to John Brudenel in 800 l. to be paid at the Feaſt of Saint James following, for a juſt and a true debt: And that the ſaid Sir Tho. and Fran. his Son, &c. 16 December, 45 Eliz. did acknowledge another Recogniſance in the nature of a Statute ſtaple before the ſaid Chief Juſtice to John Moore Alderman of London in 1000 l. to be paid to the ſaid John for a juſt and true debt in the Feaſt of of the birth of our Lord God then next following. And that the ſaid Sir Thomas 16 Sept. 45 Eliz. before the ſaid Chief Juſtice, did acknowledge another Recogniſance in the Nature of a Statute ſtaple to Anne Offeley in 1000*l.* for a juſt and due debt, payable the Feaſt of the birth of our Lord God next following: And another Recognizance of ſuch nature, 17 December. 2. Jacobi to John Ireland in 1000*l.* for a juſt and due debt, payable the Feaſt of the birth of our Lord God next following: and pleaded that ſhe had fully adminiſtred, Et quod ipſa nulla habet bona ſeu catalla quæ fuerunt ejuſdem Thomæ Treſham tempore mortis ſuæ in manibus ſuis adminiſtranda, nec habuit die impetrationis brevis originalis præd. nec unquam poſtea, præterquam bona & catalla ad valentiam, of the ſaid debt to the King, and of every of the ſaid Recognizances, and averred that all the ſaid Recognizances remain yet in force. & quod ipſa nulla alia ſive plura habet bona & catalla quæ fuer. præd. Thomæ Treſham tempore mortis ſuæ in manibus ſuis adminiſtranda præterquam bona & catalla quæ non ſufficiunt ad ſatisfaciend. præd. ſeperalia debita eiſdem Dom. Regi nunc, Johan Brudnel, Johan. More, Anne Offely, & Johan. Ireland de eorum debit. ſupradict. ac quæ eiſdem debit. obligat. onerabilia exiſtunt, &c. And the Defendant did averr, that neither the ſaid Sir Tho. in his life time, nor the ſaid Adminiſtratrix after his death had the ſaid debts, &c. The Plaintifs replied and ſaid, That as to the ſaid Recognizance of 800*l.* to the ſaid John Brudenel, that the ſaid Recognizance was for ſecurity of payment of 400*l.* &c. And that the Defendant after the death of the ſaid Sir Thomas, paid to the ſaid John Brudenel the ſaid 400*l.* of the principal debt, in diſcharge of the ſaid Recognizance of 800*l.* which 400*l.* the ſaid Jo. Brudenel received in full diſcharge of the ſaid Recognizance of 800*l.* And as to the 100*l.* to the ſaid John More, that the ſaid Recognizance was for ſecurity of performance of certain Covenants contained in certain Indentures Tripartite, bearing date 15 Decemb. 45 Eliz. on the part of the ſaid Thomas to be obſerved, performed, and kept, which were all performed, and none of them broken. And as to the ſaid Recognizance of 1000*l.* to the ſaid Anne Offeley, that the ſaid Sir Thomas in his life time had paid the ſaid 1000*l.* to the ſaid Anne, &c. and as to the ſaid one thouſand pound to John Ireland, that the ſaid Sir Thomas had alſo paid them to the ſaid John Ireland, &c. quodque ſeparales recognitiones præd. &c. ſic ut prefertur ſeparatim recognitæ per fraudem & covinam ipſius Meriellæ, & ea intentione ad ipſas Helenam & Annam Vaux de debito ſuo præd. defraudand. minime exonerat. & non cancellat. adhuc remanent. And further the Plaintiffs ſaid, That the ſaid Meriel the day of the writ brought, ſc. 14 Feb. 6. Jac. Regis, had divers goods and Chattels which were the ſaid Sir Thomas the day of his death, in her hands to be adminiſtred, to ſatiſfie the Plaintiffs debts, præterquam bona & catal. ad valentiam præd. cent. librarum præd. nuper Regin. in forma præd. Recognit. &c. upon which the defendant did demurr in Law. And the caſe was argued by the Defendants, and by the Plaintiffs Counſel at the Barr in ſeveral Terms; And the Defendants Councel did conceive that the Replication was inſufficient, as well for the manner, as for the matter: Concerning the manner for 4 cauſes. 1. Becauſe the Plaintiffs in their Replication have alleged, that the ſaid Recognizance of 800*l.* to the ſaid John Brudenel was made, pro ſecuritate ſolutionis, 400*l.* &c. and ſo have taken a bare averment againſt the Recognizance, which is matter of Record: For Sir Thomas by the ſaid Recognizance doth acknowledge himſelf to be endebted to the ſaid John Brudenel in 800*l.* to be paid ſuch a day, and the Plaintiffs have alleged that it was made for ſurety of payment of 400*l.* but the Plaintiffs ought to have ſhewed that there was a defeazance made by deed in writing, but not by bare agreement. 2. The like exception was taken, becauſe they have alleged, That the ſaid Recognizance to the ſaid John Moore was made pro ſecuritate performationis quarundam conventionum, &c. 3. If ſuch general pleading ſhall be admitted; yet it ought to have been ſhewed when the 400*l.* were paid; but now it doth not appear whether he paid it at the day, before the day, or after the day; for Replications ought to contain convenient certainty; ſo that it may appear to the Court, that the Plaintiff hath cauſe of action. 4. Where they allege that the Recognizance to the ſaid John Moore was made for performance of Covenants, and that none of the Covenants were broken, they ought to have traverſed, ſc. That it was not acknowledged pro vero & juſto debito, for that was expreſly alleged by the Defendant in the barr.

As to the Matter, the Defendants Counſel conceived the Replication inſufficient for 2. cauſes. 1. Becauſe that although that John Brudenel hath accepted of 400 l. in ſatisfaction of the Statute of 800 l. yet in Law the Statute doth remain in force, and he may ſue execution againſt the Defendant upon it when he will: and therefore, if ſhe ſhall pay debts by ſpecialty before this debt of Record, the Defendant may be charged in a Devaſtavit, and therefore not onely his lands and goods, but his body ſhall be alſo ſubject to execution upon the ſaid Recognizance of 800*l.* And it was ſaid, that this caſe at barr doth differ from Turners caſe in the 8th. part of my Reports. For there Billet who had the Judgment, not onely accepted 60*l.* in plenam ſatisfactionem & exoneracionem of the Judgment of 100*l.* & obtulit & adhuc offert ad relaxand. &c. vel ad cognoſcend. ſatisfactionem in Cur. &c. and that the Defendant deceptivè & ea intentione ad defraudand. & decipiend. præd. Ed. Turner, &c. de juſto debito ſuo cogn. ſatisfactionis, &c. diſtulerunt & adhuc differunt, &c. but in the caſe at bar it doth not appear, that the ſaid John Brudenel ever offered either to releaſe, or acknowledge ſatisfaction, &c. for then default had been in the Defendant, as it was in Turners Caſe, but in this Caſe no ſuch fault appeareth to be in the Defendant. 2. The Plaintiffs in their Replication averr, that the ſaid Recognizances remain not diſcharged by Covin of the Defendant, &c. to the intent to defraud the Plaintiffs of their debt; and ſhe alone cannot commit Covin, for Covin ought to be betwixt two, and therewith agreeth 39 H. 6. 19. where in debt by the Prior of D. againſt Hugh Lacy, the Defendant pleaded a foreign Attachment in London at his own ſute; the Plaintiff would have averred, that the Pleint which was entred by the ſaid Hugh againſt the Prior, was to make the Prior loſe his debt: And there Priſot Chief Juſtice ſaid, As to the Covin he conceived it is not to the purpoſe, for the ſaid Hugh cannot affirm the ſaid pleint by Covin of himſelf alone; for Covin ought to be betwixt two, &c. And in Plow. Com. in Talbois Caſe, 54 b it is holden, That Covin (according to the true diſtinction of it) is a ſecret aſſent determined in the hearts of two or more men, to the prejudice of another. And afterwards the caſe was argued by the Juſtices: and Judgment was given for the Plaintifs. And in this caſe theſe points were Reſolved.

1. That the Defendants barr was repugnant in it ſelf; for firſt the Defendant pleads, Quod ipſa plene adminiſtravit omnia bona & catalla quæ fuer. præd. Thomæ tempore mortis ſuæ, & quòd ipſa nulla habet bona & catalla quæ fuer. ejuſdem Thomæ tempore mortis ſuæ in manibus ſuis adminiſtrand. nec habuit die impetrationis brevis originalis præd. præterquam bona & catalla ad valeniam of the ſaid debt to the King, and the ſeveral debts by the ſaid Recogniſances; by which ſhe confeſſeth, that ſhe hath ſufficient in her hands to ſatisfie them. And afterwards ſhe pleads, quod ipſa nulla alia ſive plura habet bona ſeu catalla, quæ fuer. præd. Thomæ tempore mortis ſuæ in manibus ſuis adminiſtrand. præterquam bona & catalla, quæ non ſufficiunt ad ſatisfaciend. prædict' ſeparalia debita, which is meerly, and ex diametro, repugnant to that which ſhe hath confeſſed before.

2. It was Reſolved, That if ſhe had only pleaded, quod ipſa non habet, nec die impetrationis originalis præd. habuit, aliqua bona & catalla quæ fuer. præd. Thom. Treſham, tempore mortis ſuæ, præterquam bona & catalla non attengentia, ad ſatisfaciend. debita prædict. aut quæ non ſufficiunt ad ſatisfaciend. debita, or a plea to ſuch effect, that ſuch plea had been ſufficient. For the Executor or Adminiſtrator either ought to plead as the Defendant did in this caſe, ſc. That ſhe had not goods or chattels, &c. præterquam bona & catalla ad valentiam debit. præd. and ſo confeſs that ſhe hath ſufficient to ſatisfie them; or if the truth be, that ſhe hath not Aſſets to ſatisfie the debts of Record, then to confeſs how much ſhe hath, ſc. that ſhe hath not goods and chattels, &c. præterquam bona & catalla ad valentiam of a ſum certain, & non ultra, quæ eiſdem debitis obligat. & onerabilia exiſtunt, but ought not to ſay, [110] præterquam bona & catalla non excedentia, aut quæ non ſufficiunt ad ſatisfaciend. debita prædicta: for the in certainty, for to that the Plaintif cannot reply, whereupon a certain iſſue may be taken; for if the truth of the caſe be, that ſhe hath aſſets to ſatisfie all the debts of Record but a peny, or a half-penny, or other ſmall ſum, ſuch plea ſhould be true; and an Executor or Adminiſtrator is privy and repreſenteth the perſon of the Teſtator or Inteſtate, and by indentment of Law hath notice of the certainty, and certain value of the goods, and therefore he ought in ſuch caſe to plead certainly as is aforeſaid; As the heir when he pleadeth a deteinment of Charters in a writ of Dower, he ought to ſhew the certainty, becauſe he is privy, or otherwiſe it ſhould be in the caſe at barr a device to barr poor Creditors (a uſual attempt in theſe dayes) of their true and juſt debts; and therefore ſuch Innovation in pleading, tending to ſo dangerous Conſequence, was una voce condemned by the whole Court.

3. It was Reſolved, That ſuch general pleading, ſc. that ſuch Recognizance was made pro vera ſolutione, &c. or pro performatione Conventionum, &c. becauſe the Creditor who is a ſtranger to it, hath no means in Law to know the particular certainty, was good enough. Vide Plow. Com. in Crokes Caſe, and 18 H. 8. 1. &c. And although they do not ſpecifie the certain day of payment, nor that the leſſer ſum was paid before, or upon the day, yet the pleading is good in this caſe, for admit that the payment was after the day of payment, yet when the ſaid John Brudenel doth accept of the leſſer ſum in full diſcharge of the ſaid 800*l.* This is a good ground for the Plaintifs to aver, that by fraud of the Defendant, and to the intent to defraud the Plaintifs of their debt, the Recogniſance was not diſcharged nor cancelled: the which the Defendant hath not confeſſed by her Demurrer, but ſhe might have taken iſſue upon it, and left the ſame to tryal of the Country upon the Evidence, declaring the truth of the caſe.

4. It was Reſolved, That although they have not alleged ſpecial matter, as in Turners Caſe; ſc. that the Conuſee did offer and was ready to releaſe, or acknowledge ſatisfaction; yet it was Reſolved, that the general allegation of fraud in the caſe at barr was ſufficient, as it is Reſolved in Talbois caſe, That general averrment of Covin was good, becauſe Covin is ſo ſecret, whereof a man by intendment cannot have knowledge. And if of the ſpecial manner of Covin which (as it is there
[b] holden) ex vi termini, ought to be betwixt two, by Intendment of Law a ſtranger cannot have knowledge, à fortiori, in the caſe of fraud, which may be in the heart of one only, for if one by deed maketh a fraudulent gift of his goods to diverſe who know not of it, the ſame is fraud onely in him who doth it; and ſo it was adjudged in Turnors caſe, that fraud may be in one, or of one part onely. And for as much as the Replication was good, as to the debt of 800*l.* to John Brudenel, and the Defendant hath confeſſed in her barr, that ſhe hath Aſſets to ſatisfie all the Recognizances, for this cauſe the Plaintifs ſhall recover their debt 600*l.* due by the ſaid Obligation. And although of it ſelf, and ex vi termini, Covin ought to be betwixt two: yet when it is coupled with fraud, which may be by one onely, the Court ſhall adjudge upon the matter, and not upon the ſtrict Etimologie of the word; and if the addition of Covin be in vain, then the Court ought to adjudge upon the word Fraud, which may be by one, & plerumque dum proprietas verborum attendit ſenſus veritatis amititur. And the Chief Juſtice ſaid, quod ſæpe in Captione Juris fuit digitus Dei; for the Defendants barr was altogether inſufficient; For the Defendant hath averred, That Sir Thomas had not paid the ſaid debts due by the ſaid Recognizances in his life, nor his Adminiſtrator after his deceaſe; but hath not averred, That Francis who was joyntly bound with him in all the Recognizances had not paid them, for which cauſe the barr was inſufficient. And if the barr be inſufficient in matter, and the Writ and Declaration good and the Replication ſuperfluous, without any matter which impugneth and deſtroyeth the action, the Plaintif ſhall have Judgment, as it hath oftentimes been ruled and adjudged. Which was granted by the whole Court. And afterwards Judgement was given, and entred for the Plaintifs, and execution awarded accordingly. See the 3 point in Turnors caſe, case, a good judgment in these dayes, where Executors and Administrators contend by fraud, and subtil and cunning pleadings and devices to barr Creditors of their just and true debts: and mark well the 3. point Resolved in Turnors case.

Note Reader, At the Common Law; If there be Lord, Mesne, and Tenant, and the Mesne truly doth his services to the Lord paramount, and yet the Lord doth distrein the Tenant peravail for them, at this time the distress is tortious, and the Tenant is not distreined in default of the Mesne; but in this case if the Tenant peravail request the Mesne to take his cattel out of the pound, and put in his own Cattel in lieu of them; or if the Tenant hath a Replevin of his own Cattel, and request- [111] eth the Mesne to joyn and acquit him, and he refuseth, by this matter ex post facto, the Law shall adjudge that the Tenant peravail was distreined in default of the Mesne, and if in a Writ of Mesne, the Mesne pleads not destreined in his default, it shall be found against him, otherwise the Tenant peravail shall be in no default, and shall have wrong, and yet shall be without remedy: and it is all one to the Tenant, if the distress be wrongful or not, if he shall not have any redress, Vide 39 E. 4. 34. 17 E. 3. 17. & 44. 7 H. 4. 18. 12 E. 4. 2. 13 E. 4. 6. By which it appeareth, That Judges in all ages have endeavoured to put the Rule of West. 2. in execution, Curia Domini regis non debet deficere conquerentibus in Justitia exhibenda, Justitia est suum cuique tribuere.

Trin. 10 Jacobi In the Common Pleas.

Robert Mary's Case.

EDward Crogate brought an action upon the Case against Robert Marys, and declared, That William Winter Gent. was seised in fee of the Mannor of Townbarningham, whereof a house and 2. acres, and 2. roods of Land in Townbarningham are parcel, and demised and demisable by Copy, &c. in Fee, for life, or years. And where the said William and all those whose estate he hath in the said Mannor with the appurtenances, pro tenentibus Custumariis suis præd. messuagii 2 acr. & 2 Rod. terræ cum pertin. habuerunt & à toto tempore cujus contrarii memoria hominum non existit, habere consueverunt communiam pastur' in quadam pecia pastur' cont' per estimationem septem acras, vocat. Townbarningham Common, jacen' in Townbarningham præd. pro omnibus equis & vaccis suis levant' & cubant' &c. quolibet an. omni tempore anni tanquam ad præd. messuag' &c. pertin. and conveyed a grant by Copy of Court Roll of the said Mannor of the said House and land with the appurtenances to the Plaintif and his heirs, according to the Custom of the Mannor, by force of which he entred, and was and yet is seised of the said Messuage with the appurtenances. Et præd. Robertus machinans & intendens ipsum Edw. de communia pastur. præd. in præd. pecia pastur. continent. per estimationem 7 ac. vocat. Townbarningham Common, habend' minus justè impedire, & de proficuo suo inde totaliter deprivare, prim. die Maii, ann. regn. Domini Reg. nunc Angl. sept. equos, boves, & vaccas suas in præd. peciam pastur, cont. per estimat. sept. acr' voc. Townbarningham Common, posuit & herbam ibid. crescen. cum [112] equis bobus, & vaccis suis depastus fuit, conculcavit, & consumpsit, with continuance, à præd. primo die Maii ann. septim. suprad. usque festum Sanct. Mich. Arch. tunc proxime sequen. per idem Edw. existens per totum idem tempus tenens Customarius præd. Messuag. & 2. Acr. & 2. Rod. terræ cum pertin. communiam pastur' suam præd. pro equis, bobus & vaccis suis, in tam amplo & beneficiali modo prout ipse per antea habuit, &c. per tempus illud habere non potuit, sed proficuum suum inde per totum idem tempus amisit ad damnum, &c. 40*l.* The Defendant pleads Not guilty, and the Jury found, Quod quo ad positionem equorum bovium, & vaccarum ipsius Rob. Marys in infra script. peciam pastur. vocat. Townbarningham Common, interius per præd. Robert. fieri suppositi. dicunt super Sacram. suum quod præd. Rob. Marys non est inde culpabilis, prout, &c. & quoad depastum conculcationem & consumptionem herbæ infrascript. in infrascript. pecia pastur' vocat Townbarningham Common, infrascript. equis, bobus, & vaccis per tempus infrascript' Jurator' præd. dicunt super sacram'. suum, quod præd. Robert. Marys est inde culp. & ass. damna, &c. And this plea began Hill. 7. Jac. rot. 336. and was oftentimes debated by the Serjeants at barr, and by the Justices at the bench: And it was argued on the Defendants part, That the wrong found by the Jury is not the wrong whereof the Plaintif complains in his Action upon the case: For he hath complained of a Misdoing, and they have found a Not-doing, which is against the Plaintif, for he hath declared that the Defendant posuit averia sua, &c. which is wrong and misdoing, and the Jury have found, quod non posuit, &c. but that his Cattel have depastured, &c. which ought to be by escape, which is not doing, and many cases were put upon this ground.

But as to that it was Resolved, That the Action notwithstanding that was maintainable; for the Judges in finding of Verdicts doe respect the Substance, rather than the Circumstance; and therefore in the case which concerneth the life of a man, which is more favoured than any thing in the world, Judges regard the substance, and not the Circumstance: As if A. B. and C. were indicted of killing I. S. and that A. strook him, &c. and the other were present, abbetting, &c. And the Jury find, that A. did not strike him, but that B. strook him, and the other 2. were present abbetting, &c. the same is a good verdict, for it is but Circumstance who strook him, for in Law it is the stroke of them all.

2. It was well observed, That the Declaration is. That the Deft. put in his Cattel 1 Maii, &c. and that from the 1 Maii they continued there till the Feast of S. Michael; Now the Jury have found, quoad positionem non culp. prout, &c. which is the first day of May: but the Jury have found quoad depastum conculcat. &c. per tempus infra contentum, sc. à primo die Maii usque festum Sancti Michaelis, they found him guilty, prout: So that the Jury have found the continuance, &c. in the same manner, and for the same time the Plaintiff hath alleged; and the Plaintiff is a stranger to it, and therefore come the Defendants cattell by escape, or otherwise, the eating of his grass, and so the destruction of his Common, the same is the substance and cause of the action: And so it was adjudged, Hill. 5 Jac. in this Court, as it after appeareth.

[b] 2. It was Objected, That one Commoner shall not have an action for eating of the Common, for then every Commoner might have an action for the same cause, and so actions should be multiplied for small causes, which the Law will not suffer. And therefore William's Case in the 5th part of my Reports, for not doing divine service in a Common Chapell, or Church, an action upon the case doth dot lie, nor for a Common Nusance done in the High-way, Vide 27 H. 8. 26, 27. and 5 E. 4. 3, &c. where the Law denieth an action to any one in particular, for avoiding infinite actions in small causes.

To which it was Answered and Resolved, That notwithstanding this Objection, the action lyeth for divers causes. 1. It is evident, That a Commoner may take the Cattel of a stranger damage feasant, as it is holden in 24 E. 3. 42. 46 E. 3. 23. 15 H. 7. 2, & 12. which proveth that it is a wrong and damage done to him; and it shall be a great mischeif if the Commoner shall not have an action, for then all the feeding might be taken, and eaten by many sheep and other Cattel, and with strong hand detained, till all the grass is eaten up, and likewise with strong hand driven out, so that the Commoners cannot take them damage feasant, or the Cattel after the grass eaten may escape out, and then by the argument which hath been made, the Commoner shall not have any Remedy; and then the Lord, or other great Man might at their pleasure deprive them who have Common in their Wastes, of their Common there. 2. If the Commoner hath a Freehold in his Common, and the Lord or others will feed and eat up all the grass in the Land where the Common is to be taken, the Commoner shall have an Assise; and by Consequence the Commoner in the case at Bar having Common but at will by Copy, shall have an action upon the case: As if a Man hath Common of Estovers in the wood of another in Fee, or for life, and the Owner of the Wood, or any other, cutteth down all the wood, he who ought to have the Estovers shall have an Assise, for it is a disseisin of his Common, F. N. B. 158, 159. and if he hath but a Term in the Estovers, he shall have an action upon the case. Hill. 5. Jac. in the Common Pleas, Edward Buttolph brought an action upon the Case against Robert Kipping and others, and declared, That Sir Henry Gawdy Knight, was seised of a house and 100 acres of land in Sowood in Norfolk, and that the said Sir Henry time out of mind, had used for him and his Tenants of the said house and land, to fell and take brakes in a peice of Heath called Caronhill in Sowood aforesaid, for their fewell to be spent in the said house, as to the said house appertaining; And so being thereof seised, demised the said house and land, with the appurtenances for term of years, &c. by force of which he entred, and was thereof possessed, the Defendants præmissorum non ignari cut down, and carried away 3 loads of brakes in the said place, by which the Plaintiff could not have brakes for his fewel in as ample and beneficial manner as before, and of as right he ought, &c. The Defendant pleaded Not guilty, and it was found by verdict for the Defendant, and he had judgment accordingly.

[113] 3. For every feeding by the cattel of a stranger, the Commoner shall not have an assize nor an action upon the Case, as his case is, but the feeding ought to be such for which the Commoner, &c. ought to have common of pastures for his Cattel, sed proficuum suum per totum idem tempus amisit, &c. So that if the Trespas be so little, that he hath not lost his Common, but sufficient doth remain for him, the Commoner shall not take there damage feasance, nor have any action for it; but the Tenant of the Land may in such case have an action. And therefore, If my servant be beaten, the Master shall not have an action of battery, if the battery be not so great that by reason thereof he loseth his service of his servant, but the servant himself for every little battery shall have an action; and the cause of the difference is, that the Master hath not any damage by the personall beating of his servant, but by reason of a per quod, viz. per quod servitia amisit; so that the original Act is not the cause of his action, but the consequent upon it, viz. the loss of his service is the cause of his action; for be the battery great or little, if the Master doth not lose the service of his servant, he shall not have an action. So in the Case at Bar, The Lord of the Soil shall have an action for Trespas done in the Waste or Common, as an immediate Trespas to him, be it little or great; but the Commoner shall not have an action but by consequent; viz. If the Trespas be such, per quod proficuum suum Commun. suæ amisit, &c. Or that he cannot have his Common in so beneficial manner as he had before. 4. In this case it doth not judicially appear to the Court, that any other hath Common there but the Plaintiff; and therefore the colour of multiplication of sutes is not to be likened to this case: And it is true that for a Nusance in a High-way, without special damage, none shall have a private action, for it is not damnum privatum, but damnum commun. and therefore it ought to be onely punished and reformed at the Kings sute; for a publick Nusance shall not be reformed at the sute of a private party; for the damage is not private, but publick. But privatum damnum sive nocumentum shall be reformed by the action of the private party grieved, and Commune nocumentum at the sute of the King, who is the head of the whole Commonwealth: But a Trespas done to many Commoners is Privatum, and not Commune nocumentum: And so it is adjudged in 27 Ass. p. 6. It was presented in the Leet, that I. N. had enclosed such lands, which ought to lie in Common for all the Inhabitants of the Town, &c. ad Commune nocumentum Inhabitantium vill. præd. and this presentment was adjudged void: For the same is a private wrong to the particular Inhabitants of this particular Town, and no publick common Nusance. And

And the Chief Juſtice in his argument in this caſe cited two Judgements in the point in this Court. Trinit. 41 Eliz. Rot. 1536. John Holland Eſquire brought an action upon the Caſe againſt Tho. Lovell Eſquire, and other Defendants; and declared that the Plaintif was ſeiſed of the [b] Manor of Chalkhill in Laringford, in Norfolk, and preſcribed to have Common for 400 ſheep in a place called the plains in Larlongfield, as belonging to his Mannor, the Defendants promiſſorum non ignari, with their ſheepe did eat the graſſe growing in the ſaid place, called the plains, per quod the Plaintif could not enjoy his Common in as ample and benificial mannor as he had before, and of right ought to have, to his damages of 40*l.* The Defendants pleaded not guilty, and it was tried by Niſi prius before Sir John Popham Chief Juſtice of England and found for the Plaintif, and he had Judgement and execution. Hill. 5 Jac. Rot. 1427. in the Common Pleas. Norf. George England brought an action upon the caſe againſt this Edward Crogate, and declared that the Biſhop of Norwich was ſeiſed in the right of his Biſhoprick of the Mannor of Thurgarton in the County of Norfolk, and preſcribed in the Biſhoprick, &c. to have Common for the Copyholders of the ſaid Tenement, for all Horſes, Cows, and Hoggs in a peece of Paſture in Baſingham, called Baſingham Common, &c. at all times of the year, as to the ſaid Tenements belonging. The Defendants præmiſſorum non ignarus, put in his Horſes and Cows into the ſaid peece of paſture called Baſingham, by which the Plaintif could not have his Common in as ample and beneficial mannor as he had uſed before, &c. The Defendant as to the putting in of the Cattel pleaded Not guilty, which iſſue was found for the Defendant; and as to the eating of the graſs he pleaded, That the ſaid peece of paſture called Baſingham Common, did adjoyn to another paſture called Barningham Common, in which the Defendant had right of Common, and that theſe two Commons lay open the one to the other, and claimed to have Common in Baſingham for the cauſe of vicinage, upon which Common for cauſe of vicinage iſſue was joyned, and found for the Plaintif: Whereupon Judgement was given, and execution awarded. In which caſe both the points now in the Caſe at Barr in queſtion were adjudged. 1. Although the Plaintif declared that the Defendant put in his Cattle, &c. and it be found that he put them not in, but that they came in by eſcape, yet the Plaintif ſhould have Judgement, for the eating of the graſſe is the ſubſtance. 2. It was adjudged, That the Commoner in this caſe ſhould have his action upon the Caſe.

Trinit. 10 Jacobi Regis.

The Lord Sanchars Caſe.

Robert Creigton, Lord Sanchar Baron of Scotland of forethought malice at Weſtminſter in the County of Middleſex did incite and procure Robert Carliſle to kill John Turner, who accordingly adjoyning himſelf with one James Irweng, the 11 of May laſt paſt killed the ſaid John Turner within the City of London. [117] And the King in his zeal to Juſtice in this caſe, preſently ſent for the two Chief Juſtices, and chief Baron, and commanded there ſhould be ſpeedy proceeding againſt the Lord Sanchar, according to Law. To which the Juſtices anſwered, That the Lord Sanchar was but an acceſſory in this caſe, and therefore he could not in Law be tried before the Principal were attainted; but if the Principal might be apprehended, then both might be attainted with more expedition than it might be if the Principal ſhall be attainted by Utlagery: Then it was asked how the Lord Sanchar being an ancient Baron of Scotland ſhould be tried: And it was anſwered by them, That none within this Realm of England is accounted Peer of the Realm, but he who is a Lord of the Parliament of England; for every Subject either is a Lord of the Parliament, or one of the Commons, and the Lord Sanchar was not a Lord of the Parliament within this Kingdom, and theſe ſhould be tried by the Commons of this Realm, viz. Knights, Eſquires, [b] or other of the Commons: And therewith agree our books, as well old as others, 11 E. 3. br. 473. 8 R. 2. Proceſs ult. 20 E. 4. 6. 20 Eliz. Dyer 360. Then the King asked in what Court, after the Principal be attained, the Lord Sanchar ſhall be tried. And the Juſtices anſwered, forasmuch as the procurement was in Middleſex, it was moſt convenient to try him in the Kings Bench. And thereupon the King reſolved he ſhould not be committed to the Tower, but to the Kings Bench, where he might be, if need were, ſooner and eaſier examined then he ſhould be being committed to the Tower: And the King commanded the Judges that all things ſhould be made ready for legal proceeding; and that he would indeavour to cauſe not only the principal, but others who might diſcover the truth of the fact, to be apprehended. And thereupon the ſaid Chief Juſtices conferred with the other Judges of the Kings Bench before whom the Lord Sanchar ſhould be tried. And before them divers Queſtions were moved concerning the Legal proceeding in this caſe. 1. Upon the Statute of 2 E. 6. cap. 24. by which it is enacted, as to this purpoſe, in this mannor. And further be it enacted by the authority afore ſaid, That where any murther or felony hereafter ſhall be committed or done in one County, and another perſon or more ſhall be acceſſory or acceſſories by any mannor of wiſe to any ſuch murther or felony in another County, that then an Indictment found or taken againſt ſuch acceſſorie, or acceſſories, upon the circumſtance of ſuch matter before the Juſtices of Peace, or other Juſtices or Commiſſioners, to inquire of felonies, where ſuch offence of aeceſſory or acceſſories in any manner of wiſe ſhall be committed or done, ſhall be as good and effectual in Law, as if the Principal offence had been committed or done, within the ſame County where ſuch Indictment ſhall be found: And that the Juſtices of Goal delivery, or Oyer and Terminer, or two of them, of or in ſuch County where the offence of any ſuch acceſſory ſhall be hereafter committed and done, upon ſute to them made, ſhall write to the Cuſtos Rotulorum, or keepers of the Records, where ſuch principal ſhall be hereafter attainted, or convicted, to certifie them whether ſuch principal be attainted, convicted or otherwiſe diſcharged of ſuch principal felony, who upon ſuch writing to them or any of them directed, ſhall make ſufficient Certificate in writing, under their Seale or Seals, to the ſaid Juſtices, whether ſuch principal be attainted, convicted, or otherwiſe diſcharged, or not. And after they that ſo ſhall have the cuſtody of ſuch Records do certifie that ſuch principal is attainted, convicted, or otherwiſe diſcharged of ſuch offence by [118] the Law, that then the Juſtices of Goal delivery, or of Oyer and Terminer, or other there authorized, ſhall proceed upon every ſuch acceſſory, in the County or Counties where ſuch acceſſory, or acceſſories became acceſſory, in ſuch manner and form as if both the ſaid principal offence and acceſſory had been committed and done in the ſaid County where the offence of the acceſſory was or ſhall be committed or done. And that every ſuch acceſſory, and other offenders above expreſſed, ſhall anſwer upon their arraignments, and receive ſuch trial, judgement, order and execution, and ſuffer ſuch forfeitures, pains and penalties, as is uſed in other Caſes of felony: Any Law or Cuſtom to the contrary heretofore uſed in any wiſe notwithſtanding. And upon this Statute divers Queſtions were moved. 1. If in the Indictment in the County of Middleſex of the Acceſſory ſhall be recited, that the principal was indicted before Commiſſioners of Oyer and Terminer in the City of London (as in truth it was) Or if the Indictment ſhall recite in facto, that the principal committed the murder in London, for the recital, that the principal is indicted of murder in London, is no direct affirmance that the principal committed Murder; for the Indictment is but an accuſation, and in place of the Kings Declaration, which may be true or falſe; and this agreeth with former preſidents: And accordingly the Indictment was drawn, upon which the Acceſſory was convicted, as appeareth by the Indictment.

The 2 Queſtion moved upon the Statute was, If the Juſtices of the Kings Bench are within theſe words, Juſtices of Goal delivery, or Oyer and Terminer. And it was objected, That the Kings Bench is the higheſt Court of Ordinary Juſtice within the Realm, and above the authority of Juſtices of Goal delivery, and Commiſſioners of Oyer and Terminer; and as it is holden in 27 Aſſ. 1. is more than the Eyre; for they examine the Errors of the Juſtices in Eyre, Gaol delivery, and Oyer and Terminer. And therefore in as much as the Juſtices of the Kings Bench are paramount and ſuperiours over all the others, they cannot be included within their Inferiours, viz. Juſtices of Gaol delivery, or of Oyer and Terminer. Alſo the Juſtices of the Kings Bench have a diſtinct and ſupreme Court, and the Juſtices of Goal delivery, and Oyer and Terminer another diſtinct and ſubordinate Court. And therefore it was adjudged Hil. 30 Eliz. in the Kings Bench That where Richard Smith was indicted of forgery of a falſe deed at the Seſſions of Peace in the [b] County of Oxfod, and the Statute of 5 Eliz. cap. 14. which inflicteth the puniſhment, and upon which Act the Indictment was grounded, provideth that the Indictment ſhall be taken before Juſtices of Aſſize, and Juſtices of Oyer and Terminer; And although the Juſtices of Peace by their Commiſſion have power to hear and determine felonies, Treſpaſs, &c. and have an expreſſe clauſe ad audiendum & terminandum, ſo that they are as it was urged Juſtices of Oyer and Terminer: Yet it was Reſolved by the whole Court, That becauſe there was a Commiſſion of Oyer and Terminer known diſtinctly by that name, that the Indictment was not well taken, and therefore was quaſhed. But it was reſolved, That the Juſtices of the Kings Bench are the Soveraign Juſtices of Goal delivery, and of Oyer and Terminer, and therefore they are included within the ſaid words: and therefore it is holden in 7 E. 4. 18. and 4 H. 7. 18. That if an Indictment of forcible entry be removed into the Kings Bench, the Juſtices of the Kings Bench ſhall award reſtitution, and yet the Stat. of 8 H. 6. c. 9. ſpeaketh only of Juſtices of the Peace; but the reaſon is, becauſe they have the Soveraign and ſupreme authority in ſuch Caſes. And according to this Reſolution, the Juſtices of the Kings Bench write according to the ſaid Act to the Juſtices of Oyer and Terminer and Goal delivery in London, before whom the Principal was arraigned, &c. who certified the Record, as appeareth by the Record.

3. It was moved, If the Lord Sanchar could not in Term time be indicted, arraigned, and convicted at Newgate before Commiſſioners of Oyer and Terminer in the County of Middleſex? And it was Reſolved he could not; for the Kings Bench, as hath been ſaid, is more than Eyr. And therefore in Term time no Commiſſions of Oyer and Terminer, or Goal delivery, by the Common Law, may ſit in the County where the Kings Bench ſitteth, for præſentia majoris ceſſat poteſtas minoris: and therewith agreeth 27 Aſſ. p. 1. But Carlile and Erweng were indicted and arraigned in London, where the Murder was committed, before Juſtices of Oyer and Terminer in the Term time, becauſe in another County then where the Kings Bench ſit.

4 It was moved, If the Lord Sanchar being indicted in the Kings Bench, if it be needfull there be 15. days for the Return of the Venire facias; for if 15 days be requiſite, he cannot be arraigned this Term; And it was Reſolved not, becauſe the offence was committed in Midd. where the Court ſitteth; but if the Indictment had been taken in another County, and removed thither, there ought to be 15 days, &c. and therewith agreeth the Preſidents, and the continual uſage of the ſame Court.

5. It was Reſolved, that for as much as there was not any direct proof, That James Irwing was commanded or procured by the Lord Sanchar to commit the Murder, but that he joyned him- [119] ſelf to Robert Carlile who was procured by him, that the beſt way is to indict the Lord Sanchar, as acceſſory to Robert Carliſle only, for Indictments which concern the life of Men ought to be framed ſo near the truth as may be, and ſo much the rather, becauſe they are to be found by the Oath of of the Grand Inqueſt, the which finding is called Veredictum, quaſi dictum veritatis, and yet it was Reſolved, that if one be indicted as acceſſory to two, and he is found acceſſory to one, the verdict is good. Vide the Statute of Weſt. 1. Cap. 14. by which it is enacted, That none be Outlawed upon appeals of Commandment, force, ayd, or receit, until he that is appealed of the deed be attainted, ſo that one like Law be uſed therein through the Realm; which is but an affirmance of the Common Law; for there cannot be an acceſſory, unleſs there be a Principal, no more then there can be a ſhadow, unleſs there be a body. But this word (Appeal) hath 2 ſignifications in Law, one general, and that is taken for a general accuſation, and accuſatio eſt duplex, either by Inquiſition, viz. Indictment, and that is at the ſute and in the name of the King, or by Appeal, viz. accuſation of an Approver, and therewith agreeth all our books: And Stamford lib. 2. 142. where he ſaith, After the Confeſſion of the Crime the Felon may appeal, that is, accuſe other Coadjutors with him to doe the felony, and in this particular ſenſe for accuſation of the party it is the rather taken. And as there are 2 manner of Accuſations, ſo there are 2. manner of Attainders of Felony, viz. by Judgment given, viz. one at the Kings ſute, and the other at the ſute of the party, and both theſe Attainders are in 2. manners, one after appearance, and the other upon default after appearance, 2. wayes, either by verdict, or confeſſion, and at the ſute of the party a third way, viz. by battel, upon default by proceſs of Outlawry, where Judgment is given by the Coroners, or by thoſe whom an Act of Parliament and Cuſtom have enabled. And in the ſaid Statute of Weſt. 1. Theſe words, By Appeal of Commandement, &c. are to be intended of an accuſation generally, viz. by Indictment, as by bill or writ, &c. Till he that is appealed of the deed be attainted, is meant of all manner of Attainders, either at the Kings ſute, or at the ſute of the party, and either upon appearance or upon default. And afterwards in the ſame Act proviſion is made for the Appeal of the party, which implieth that the word Appeal ſhall be taken in the general ſence.

6. It was Reſolved, That if the Principal be erroniouſly attainted, either for Error in the proceſs, or becauſe the Principal being out of the Realm, &c. is outlawed, Or that he was in priſon at the time of the Outlawry, &c. yet the Acceſſory ſhall be attainted, for the attainder againſt the Principal ſtandeth till it be reverſed; and therewith agreeth 2 R. 3. 12. the Reſolution of all the Judges in the Kings Bench: And in 18 E. 4. 9. the Principal was erroniouſly Outlawed for felony, and [b] the Acceſſory taken, indicted, arraigned, convicted, attainted, and hanged, and afterwards the Principal did reverſe the Outlawry, and was indicted and arraigned of the ſaid Felony, and found Not guilty, for which he was acquitted, and all the ſame appeareth in the ſaid book. Then it will be demanded, That foraſmuch as there cannot be an Acceſſory, if there be not a principal, and in this caſe there is no principal, how the heir of the Acceſſory ſhall be reſtored to his Land which his father hath forfeited by the ſaid unjuſt Attainder? To that it is to be Anſwered, That the heir may enter, or bring his action, for now upon the matter by Act in Law the Attainder againſt his Father is without any Writ of Error utterly annulled, for by the Reverſing of the attainder againſt the Principal, the attainder againſt the Acceſſory, which dependeth upon the attainder of the Principal, ipſo facto, is utterly defeated and void; and the ſame notably appeareth in an old book, in. E. 1. Mortdaunceſter 46. where the caſe is, A. was indicted of Felony, and B. of the receipt of A. A. eſſoined himſelf (and is utlaged) B. was taken, and put himſelf to tryal, and found guilty, for which B. was attainted, and hanged, and the Lord entred, as into his Eſcheat, and afterwards A. came, and reverſed the Outlawry, and pleaded to the Felony, and was found Not guilty, by which he was acquitted; whereupon the heir of B. brought a Mortdaunceſter againſt the Lord by Eſcheat, who came and ſhewed all the ſpecial matter: And there was a Demurrer upon it; and it was Ruled, that the heir of B. ſhould recover ſeiſin of the Land, for if B. were alive, he ſhall goe quit by the Acquittal of A. becauſe he cannot be Receiver of a Felon, when A. is no Felon, and all the ſame appeareth in the ſame Book. Vide 4 E. 3. 36. in Dower 43 E. 3. in Aſſiſe and Redeſſeiſin. 8 H. 4. 4. 11 H. 4. 4. 4 E. 4. 20. 6 E. 4. 9. 13 E. 4. 4. 9 H. 6. 38. b. 8 H. 7. 10. And ſee the Caſe of ſentence of Deprivation of one, and preſentment, inſtitution, and induction of another, and after by Relation of a general Pardon ipſo facto, all are reſtored without Appeal, or new preſentation, admiſſion, or Inſtitution, quod Vide Dyer. Note Reader, to ouſt all queſtions to what Goal offenders ſhall be committed, It is enacted by the Statute of 5 H. 4. cap. 10. that none ſhall be impriſoned by any Juſtice of Peace, but onely in the Common Goal, Saving to Lords and others, who have Gaols, their Franchiſes in that caſe. By which it appeareth, how Juſtices of Peace offend who commit Felons, &c. to ſome of the Counters in London, and other Priſons, which are not Common Gaols.

The Circumſtances of the matter of fact and proceeding in the Caſe are Reported in French by the Lord Cook; wherein there being no matter of Law, I thought it not much material to tranſlate the ſame into Engliſh, but refer the Reader to the Original.

Trin. 7 Jacobi In the Court of Wards.

Anthony Lowe's Caſe.

[b] ANnthony Lowe held 59 acres, and a rood of Land in Alderwaſley, of the Mannor of Alderwaſley, by Knights ſervice, and ſute of Court to Bewraper, from 3. weeks to 3. weeks, of which Mannor of Bewraper the Mannor of Alderwaſley was parcel; the ſaid Mannors of Bewraper and Alderwaſley were parcel of the Earldom, and afterwards of the Dutchy of Lancaſter, which Mannors were holden of the King by Knights ſervice in Capite before they came to the Crown. The Dutchy of Lancaſter together with the ſaid Mannors came afterwards to the Crown by Deſcent: The ſaid Anthony held alſo a Place where a capital Meſſuage was ſituate, and half an acre of land in Alderwaſley holden of the ſaid Mannor of Alderwaſley by Socage Tenure, and Fealty and Rent, amongſt other Lands H. 8. by Letters Patents under the great Seal, dated 22 Junii, Anno 15. granted to the ſaid Anthony Lowe and his heirs, anceſtors to the Plaintif, whoſe heir he is, the aforeſaid Rent, and further ratified, remiſed, releaſed, and confirmed [123] totum ſtatum præd. Anthonii in terris & tenementis præd. Habend. & tenend. præd. Anthonio & hæredibus ſuis, de nobis hæredibus & ſucceſſoribus noſtris per fidelitatem tantum pro omni ſervitio ſeculari exactione & demand. And the ſaid Anthony Lowe ſo ſeiſed of the ſaid 59 acres, &c. and of the place where the Capital Meſſuage was ſituate 22 Martii 19 H. 8. The ſaid King granted the ſaid Mannor of Alderwaſley, and all Lands, Tenements, Rents, Reverſions, and Services in Alderwaſley & Aſhleyham parcel of the Dutchy of Lanc. to Anth. Lowe Anceſtor of the Plaintif, whoſe heir he is, & his heirs, to hold the ſaid Mannor, Lands, Tenements, Rents, Reverſions, and Services of the King, his heirs and Succeſſors, by the yearly Rent of 26 l. 10 s. and Fealty onely for all Services, exactions, and demands: and the ſaid grant was executed by livery and ſeiſin: all which premiſes are parcel of the Dutchy of Lancaſter, and out of the County Palatine of Lancaſter. And it was Objected, That when the King granteth his Seignorie to his Tenant, to have to him and his heirs, by that the old Tenure is extinct, and then the Law ſhall create a Tenure in Capite by Knights ſervice, for the beſt ſhall be for the King; As if the Kings Tenant granteth Lands to another, whithout any Reſervation or mention of any Tenure, the Law ſhall create a Tenure by Knights ſervice in Capite, for that is the beſt for the King. And ſo if the King granteth Lands ſine aliquo inde reddendo, the Law ſhall create the like Tenure, and therewith agreeth 33 H. 6. 7. for of neceſſity all land ought to be holden of ſome perſon. 2. When the King hath extinct the Services which are parcel of the Mannor of A. then the Tenure ſhall be holden as the Mannor of A. was holden, and that was a Tenure in Capite, and the Act of 1 H. 4. and divers other Acts, have devided the poſſeſſions of the Dutchy from the Crown.

But it was Reſolved, That the Tenure of the ſaid 59 acres, and toft and a half ſhall be holden by Fealty onely; And as to the ſaid Objections it was anſwered, That when the King granteth or releaſeth the Services to the Tenant and his heirs, the ſame cannot extinguiſh the Tenure in all for neceſſity of Tenure, and the King cannot by his Charter alter the Law, but it ſhall be expounded ſo near the Kings intent as may, and that is to extinguiſh all the Services, but that onely which is an inſeparable incident to every Tenure, which is Fealty, For that the King may doe by the Law, and id Rex poteſt quod de jure poteſt, Vide 8 H. 7. ult,

And as to the caſes which have been put out of the book of 33 H. 6. they were agreed and affirmed for good Law; but a difference was taken when Land paſſeth from the King by his grant, and in his grant no Tenure is reſerved, or when the clauſe is added abſque aliquo inde reddendo, there the Law ſhall create a Tenure which is the beſt for the King. But when the Land paſſeth from a Subject, and the Law for neceſſity changeth one Tenure for another, there the Law, which is [b] æquiſſimus judex, ſhall create a Tenure ſo near the freedom of the firſt Tenure as may be. As if a Biſhop or other Man of the Church held Land of the King in Frankalmoigne, and at the Common Law had infeoffed another and his heirs of the ſame Land, in this caſe the Feoffee ſhall hold by Fealty onely, for that is as near the freedom of the Tenure of Frankalmoigne as may be, and ſo was it Reſolved in Lone's Caſe.

And the reaſons and cauſes of this difference is, becauſe that in the firſt caſe the Land moveth from the King, and therefore ſhall be Subject to ſuch Tenure as the Law ſhall create; But when Tenent in Frankalmoigne enfeoffeth another, there the Feoffee is in by a Subject, and not by the King, for in ſuch caſe the King departed with nothing. Alſo in this latter caſe the Law doth not create any Tenure originally, as ſhe doth in the firſt caſe, but onely changeth one Tenure into another, viz. a Tenure in Frankalmoigne into a Tenure by fealty onely,

And it was Reſolved, That when the King granteth any Land without reſervation of any Tenure, or abſque aliquo inde reddendo, or the like, there the Land by operation of Law ſhall be holden of the King by Knights ſervice in Capite, according to the rate and proportion of Land which belongeth to a Knights fee, and ſo of more more, and of leſs leſs; For the act of Law doth reſpect Equity, and will never charge any one with more or leſs then in Equity and reaſon he ought to be. Ipſe etenim etenim Leges cupiunt ut jure regantur. And the Caſe at barr is ſtronger, becauſe the King upon the grant of the ſervices, doth limit the Tenure to be by Fealty onely, for all ſervices, exactions and demands. And the Juſtices took no regard of the Tenure before the Crown and Dutchy were united in one perſon, for as long as they remain in one perſon, the ancient Tenure of the Crown dormiunt perpetuo ſomnio, for the King cannot hold of himſelf.

Note Reader, there are many and divers opinions of the content of a Knights fee; Some ſay, that a Hide or a Carve of Land doth contain 100 acres, and that 8 Hides or 800 acres of Land make a Knights fee: and others hold, that 680 acres of Land make it. Others ſay, That bovata terræ continet 15 acres, & 8 bovatæ faciunt carucatam terræ, by which accompt a Caruce of Land doth contain 120 acres, and divers other opinions are concerning theſe matters. But I concieve, That a Knights fee, or Hide, or Carve, or Yard, or Oxgang of Land, doth not contain any certain number of acres: but a Knights fee is properly to be eſtimated according to the Quality, and not the Quantity, ſc. [124] by the value, and not by the Content; and therefore it is true, quod Doctiſſimus Cambden in ſua Britania, pag. 126. aſſerit, viz. Subſequenti ætate ex cenſu ut colligitur facti fuer. Equites, &c. and Antiquity thought that 20 l. Land was ſufficient to maintain the degree of a Knight, as it appeareth in the old Treatiſe De modo tenendi Parliamentum tempore Regis Edwardi filii Regis Etheldredi; where it appeareth, Quod Comitatus, (viz. an Earldom*) conſtat ex viginti feodis unius militis, quolibet feodo computato ad viginti libras*; Baronia conſtat ex 13. feodis, & 3. parte unius feodi militis ſecundum computationem prædictam; unum feodum militis conſtat ex terris ad valentiam 20 l. which Antiquity I cite, becauſe it concurreth with an Act of Parliament, Anno 1 E. 2. de militibus, by which Act cenſus militaris the eſtate of a Knight is meaſured by the value of 20 l. Land per annum, and not by any certain content of acres: and therewith agreeth the Statute of Weſt. 1. cap. 35. and F. N. B. 82. where 20 l. Land in Socage is put in equipage with a Knights fee, and that is the more reaſonable eſtimation, for one acre may be better than many others, ſo that he who had 680 acres, or 800 acres of ſome barren Land hath not a ſufficient Revenue to maintain the degree of a Knight; and he who had a leſs number of acres of ſome Land, had a living (in thoſe days) ſufficient for the maintenance of a Knight. So Antiquity thought that 400 marks of Land per an. was a Competent living of a Baron; and 400 l. per annum, ad ſuſtinendum nomen & onus of an Earl; and of late time 800 marks per annum of a Marqueſs, and 800 l. per annum of a Duke: So that their annual Revenues was eſtimated by the value, and not by the content. And a Carve of Land Curucata terræ, or a Hide of Land, Hida terræ, (which is all one) is not of any certain content, but as much as a Plough can plough in a year, and therewith agreeth Lambard, verbo Hyde. And a Plough land may contain a houſe, wood, meadow, and paſture, becauſe by them the Plough men and the beaſts of the Plough are maintained. And therewith agreeth, tit. E. 1. br. 860. 4 E. 3. 47. Plow. Com. in Hill. and Grange's Caſe 168. Vid. 6 E. 3. 42. & 39 H. 6. 8. a. And venerable Bede calls a Plough land familiam, becauſe it containeth neceſſary things for the maintenance of a family. And Priſot well ſaid in 35 H. 6. 29. That a Plough may till more land in a year in ſome Country than in another; and therefore it ſtands with reaſon that a Plough land ſhould be leſſe in one place than in another, 41 E. 3. Fine 40. and 13 E. 3. Fine 67. A fine was not received de una virgata terræ for the incertainty, Vid. 39 H. 6. 8. But an acre of land is certain by the Statute de terris menſurandis. Note alſo Reader, That ſome Plough land was of old time of the yearly value of 5 nobles per annum, and that was the living of a Sokeman, or Yeoman, & ex duodecim carucatis conſtabit unum feodum militis, which amount to 20 l. per annum. And you may ſee that Termino Paſch. 3 E. 1. coram Rogero de Seyton & ſociis ſuis Juſticiariis apud Weſtm. Note Reader, that at the time of the making of the Statute of Magna Charta, ſc. 9 H. 3. there was not any Duke, Marqueſſe, or Viſcount in England, and therefore the Statute does not make mention of them. And the eldeſt ſon of King E. 3. called the Black Prince, was the firſt Duke in England after the Conqueſt. Floyer's Case.

[b] ANthony Floyer and Anne his wife were seised in their demesne as of fee, in the right of the said Anne of the 4th. part of the Mannor of Burdocester, alias Burston, holden by Knights service in Capite, and 36 Eliz. levied a fine thereof to Cribbe and Radway, and to the heires of Cribbe, and the Conusees did grant and render the said 4 part to the said Anthony and Anne, and the heirs of the said Anthony on the body of the said Anne lawfully begotten, and for want of such issue to the use of the right heirs of the said Anthony. And afterwards the said Anthony and Anne, 2 Jac. Regis levied a fine come ceo, &c. of the said 4 part of Wadham and Manwayring, to the use of the said Anthony and Anne, for the term of their two lives, and afterwards to the use of Anthony their eldest son in tail, and afterwards to the use of William their second son in tail, and afterwards to the use of John their third son in tail; and afterwards to the use of the heirs of the body of Anthony and Anne, and for want of such issue to the use of the right heirs of the said Anne: And afterwards Anthony the Father died, Anthony his son being within age, sc. of the age of 14 years, the said Anne being yet alive. And the Question was, If the King in this Case shall have the Wardship of the body of Anthony his son, and of the 3 part of the said 4 part, or any of them; and it was argued on the Kings part; That the King in this case hath 2 titles to the wardship of the body; and ought also to have the third part of the fourth part of the Mannor. And the first title to the body was by the Proviso, and in the end of the Statute of 32 Hen. 8. cap. 2. For by the first fine the fourth part was rendred to Anthony the Father and Anne, and to the heirs of Anthony of the body of Anne; and although the Statute saith; Where two or more persons now hold, or hereafter shall hold any manners lands, tenements, or hereditaments of the King by Knight service jointly to them, and to the heirs of one of them, and he that hath the inheritance thereof dieth, his heir being within age. That in every such case the King shall have the ward and marriage of the body of such heir so being within age, the life of the freeholder or freeholders, &c. notwithstanding. Yet if two be seised to them, and to the heirs of the body of one, and he who hath the estate tail dieth, his heir within age, he shall be in ward, for the same is in equal degree, quod fuit quod hoc concessum per totam Curiam, Vid. 7 Eliz. Dyer 237 & 35 H. 8. 54. Sir David Owen's Case. And it was said, that although the husband and wife have altered the estate before the death of Ant. the Father, yet forasmuch as they have not conveyed the land but to the use of themselves and their issues, it shall not take away the Kings interest which he hath by the first fine, by force of the said Act. The 2 title which the King hath to the ward of the body, was upon the second fine, for by the second fine the use is limited to the wife for life, which is directly within the said Act of 32 H. 8. and also of the Act of 34 H. 8. and for this cause also the King shall have the wardship of the third part of the fourth part of the Mannor.

As to the first point upon the Statute of 32 H. 8. It was Answered and Resolved, That forasmuch as the estate limited by the render of the first fine doth not continue till the death of Anthony the Father, this case was out of the said Proviso, for the words thereof are And he that hath the inheritance thereof dieth, &c. So that he ought to have the Inheritance (either in fee simple, or in tail) at the time of his death. But in this case Anthony the Father had but an estate for life in possession, and although that the second conveyance was but a voluntary conveyance for the establishing of the Lands upon the issues; yet forasmuch as thereby the said Anthony had not any estate of inheritance at the time of his death, the same is out of the same Proviso; for as the first was voluntary for the advancement of the husband and his issues, so was the second voluntary also.

As to the second, It was Resolved, That although by the second fine, the estate which the Wife had by the first fine was barred and altered, and now she hath the estate by the second fine, out of the estate which the Husband had by the first fine, yet it is out of the Statutes of 32 and 34 H. 8. for the words of the Statutes are, to and for the advancement of the Wife: And it was Resolved that the estate which the wife had by the limitation of the use upon the second fine was not any advancement of the wife; for it is no more then she had by the first fine, for by both she had an estate for life; and the first estate for life by the first fine cannot be any advancement of the wife by the husband, for there the land was the inheritance of the wife, and moved from her; and by the second fine, if no estate had been limited, the Law would have reserved to her such estate in the use as she had in the land, as it is agreed in Colgate and Blythes case in the second part of my Reports; and therefore it is not any more advancement to her then she had before; and therefore it is out of the said Statutes.

It was also Resolved, that forasmuch as the estate of the wife was out of the Statutes, no wardship either of the body or of the Land could accrue to the King in respect of the estates in remainder limited to the sons, &c. during the wives life, for the wife was Tenant to the King during her life, and the advancement of the Sons in remainder shall not give to the King wardship either of the body or of the land. But if a man hath a Reversion in fee expectant upon an estate for life, holden of the King by Knights service, if he conveyeth this reversion to the use of his wife, or his Children, &c. and dieth, the same shall give cause of wardship of the body during the life of the Tenant for life, because the Tenant for life is not the Kings Tenant, but he in the Reversion.

And

And it was ſaid, That if a man holdeth of the King by Knights ſervice, the remainder to two, and the heirs of one of them, if he who hath the fee dieth, leaving the Tenant for life, the ſame is within the Letter of the proviſo of the Act of 32 H. 8. For the words are, Where 2 or more hold, &c. any Mannors, Lands, Tenements, or Heriditaments joyntly to them, and the heirs of one of them, and he that hath the inheritance thereof dieth, &c. And this Remainder is an hereditament, and is holden of the King. But during the life of the Tenant for life, it is not immediately holden of the King; and therefore in ſuch caſe the heir of him who hath the fee ſhall not be in ward. And Hill. 25 Eliz. in the Court of Wards, Wray Chief Juſtice ſaid, That it was Reſolved by the 2 Chief Juſtices, and the Cour of Wards; That if the heir of him who hath the fee be of full age, and the heir dieth, leiving the Tenant for life, his heir withing age, that he ſhall not be in ward for his body within this Proviſo, for the words of the Act are, And he that hath the Inheritance thereof dieth, &c. his heir within age, that in every ſuch caſe; ſo that the heir at the time of his death ought to be within age, which is to be intended of the immediate heir, and not of the mediate heir, Vid. 2 Eliz. Dyer. 172. in Lowe's Caſe. [127]

Sonday's Caſe.

MErick Sonday being ſeiſed in fee of a houſe in Lambeth holden by Knights ſervice in Capite 7 Aprilis, 1587. by his will in writing deviſed the ſame to Margaret his Wife, for life, and after her deceaſe his ſon William to have it, and if his ſon William marry, and have by his wife any male iſſue lawfully begotten of his body, then his Son to have it; if he have no male iſſue lawfully begotten of his body, then his Son Samuel to have the houſe; if Samuel marry, and have iſſue male of his body lawfully begotten, that then his ſon to have the houſe after his deceaſe; if no iſſue male, then his ſon Thomas to have the houſe, if Thomas marry, having a male iſſue of his body lawfully begotten, then his ſon to have the the houſe after his deceaſe; if he have no iſſue male, then his ſon Richard in like manner. And then he addeth this clauſe, And his will and mind was, that if any of his Sons, or their heirs males iſſue of their bodies go about at any time to alienate, or mortgage the houſe, that then the next heir to enter upon the houſe and enjoy it. And afterwards Merick died, and William died without iſſue male, having iſſue Margaret, (who had the 3 part of the houſe in reſpect of the Tenure) Samuel alſo died without iſſue male, Thomas entred into the 2 parts, and Trinit. 6 Jac. he and his wife ſuffered a common recovery with ſingle voucher, which was to the uſe of the ſaid Thomas and his heirs, and afterwards 17 Decemb. Thomas died without iſſue male, and in this caſe the Queſtions were moved, 1. What eſtate Thomas had. 2. If by the ſuffering of the ſaid Common Recovery, he hae forfeited his eſtate, and that thereupon the entry of the ſaid Richard be lawfull or not. [b]

As to the firſt it was Objected, That when Merick deviſeth, that Thomas his ſon ſhall have his houſe, if the will had not gone further, he had but for life, Then when he addeth, if Thomas my ſon marry, having a male iſſue, that then his ſon to have the houſe, that is an expreſs deviſe to the ſon that he ſhall have it, and not himſelf. But it was anſwered and Reſolved, That as well the ſaid Thomas as the other ſons have an eſtate tail to them ſeverally, and to the heirs males of their bodies; And that for 3 reaſons. 1. Becauſe the Father ſaith, if he have no iſſue male, his ſon Richard to have it, which is as much as to ſay, as if Thomas dieth without iſſue male, which words are ſufficient to create an eſtate in tail in him. 2. The ſaid latter clauſe, if any of his ſons, or their heirs males of their bodies goe about, &c. which explaineth the firſt words, that the male iſſue ſhall be heir, and take by diſcent, the firſt words, that his ſon ſhall have the houſe after his deceaſe, that is, ſhall have it as heir; for the words of the will make it manifeſt; and if any of their ſons, and their heirs males iſſue of their bodies, &c. alſo after it is ſaid, that then the next heir to enter. 3. The thing forbidden proveth it alſo; for as well the ſons as their heirs males are prohibited to alien or mortgage, and every reſtreint implyeth (and eſpecially in a will) that the parties (if the reſtraint had not been made) had power to do that which is prohibited, which is the cauſe that he reſtraineth them. And if the ſons had but one eſtate for life, this clauſe of reſtraint, That if they alien, &c. that then the next heir enter, &c. ſhould be idle, and of none effect.

As to the ſecond pont, it was reſolved by the two Chief Juſtices, Chief Baron, and the Court of Wards, That no Condition or Limitation, be it by Act executed, or by Limitation of uſe, or by device in a laſt will can barr Tenant in tail to alien by Common Recovery for the cauſes and reaſons reported at large in the 6 part of my Reports, in Sir Anthony Mildmay's Caſe; and according to this Reſolution the Caſe was decreed, &c. [b]

Bodley* Tenant peravail of 3 acres of meadow called Warram Meadow, holden of the Mannor of N. by Knights service. Tho Quick, 34 Eliz. did infeoff Babb and others of his moyetie of the said Mannor, to the use of himself for life, and after to the use of John Quick his son and heir apparent in tail, and afterwards to the use of the heirs of Tho. Quick; and afterwards Will. Bodely of the said 3 acres of Meadow did enfeoff the said John Quick and his heirs, and afterwards John Quick 5 dayes before his death, and being sick, by Collusion betwixt him and his Father, did enfeoff his Father and his heirs, to the entent to defraud the said John Northcote of the Wardship of Andrew, son and heir of John Quick, being an Infant within age, and afterwards John Quick died; after whose death John Northcote seised the body of Andrew Quick, and afterwards Tho. Quick died, after whose death the moyety of the said Mannor descended to Andrew Quick. The Question was. Whether the Wardship of the body and of the moyetie of the said 3. acres of Meadow, doth appertain to the King, or to the said John Northcote. And this case was argued by Councel learned on both sides, in Hill. and Easter Term, and 2. Questions were moved in this case.

1. When John Quick Tenant in tail in Remainder of the Menalty dieth, his heir within age, then occurreth to the King beginning of Wardship, viz. when Tenant for life died, and by the death of John accrueth to Northcote Wardship of the body, in respect of the Feoffment by collusion [b] of the said 3 acres of Meadow, and of the moyety of the said 3 acres, and after when Tho. Quick who was Tenant for life of the Mesnalty dieth, then the Kings title, which was begun before, is consummated; and therefore it was argued, that the Kings title should be preferred; for now the Kings title is by descent of him in the Remainder, and the death of the Tenant for life is but the removing of the impediment: Et quando jus Domini Regis & Subditi insimul concurrunt, jus Regis preferri debet. As in the Lady Hale's case, Husband and Wife Joyntenants of a Term for years, the Husband is felo de se, he shall forfeit the whole. Plow. Com. 262. and yet there it surviveth till office, but after office it hath relation, either before, or at least to the time of the death. So in the case at barr although the Kings title is not full till the death of the Tenant for life, yet when he dieth, then the Kings title is by the descent which accrueth together with the title of Northcote by the death of John Quick. Note the Case put by Weston in Dame Hale's Case of discent to a Villain being Ideot, 263. Vide 44 E. 3. 25. If the King and a common Person join in a Foundation, the King is Founder. To that it was Answered and Resolved, That in this case the interest vested in John Northcote shall not be devested; for the title of Northcote was consummated by the death of John Quick, but by his death the King had but a possibility if Thomas should die during his minority; for if Andrew Quick had come of full age, during the life of Thomas Quick, he should never be in Ward, although he were within age at the time of the descent of the Remainder: And Bingham's Case in the 2. part of my Reports proveth, that it is but a possibility: for if after the descent of the Remainder, and before the death of the Tenant for life, the Seignory be granted over, and afterwards the Tenant for life dieth, the heir of him in the Remainder within age, neither the Grantor, nor the Grantee shall have the wardship of him. Vide 24 E. 3. 25. the Case of the Duke of Lancaster: but the said point never came in Question, for by the Feoffment of John Quick of the said 3 acres to Thomas, the Menalty as to the said 3 acres was extinct, because that Tho. Quick hath the Reversion of the Menalty; so that the Reversion being extinct, no particular estate of the Menalty, either for life or intail, can remain. And that was the clear opinion of the 2. Chief Justices and Chief Baron. Vide 3 H. 6. 1. 15 E. 4. 12. & 40 E. 3. 14. The case of Warranty.

2. It was moved, That when the Tenant maketh a Feoffment to certain persons by collusion, that the Lord ought to recover the Land by Writ of Right of Ward, before he shall have a Writ of Ravishment of Ward: and therewith agreeth F.N.B. 134. k. 12 H. 4. 13. b. 33 H. 6. 16. by Prisot, and the Statute of 34 H. 8. in case of Collusion giveth a Writ of Right of Ward for the body and Land, [130] and therefore in this case Northcote could not seise the Ward till he had recovered the Land; And then it was Objected, That the title of the King by the death of Tho. Quick is in possession, and shall be preferred before the title of Northcote, which is onely in Action. To that it was Resolved, That the title of Wardship which accrued to him by the death of John Quick, (although it be in action) shall not be devested by the death of another Ancestor, viz. of Thomas Quick.

Bewley's Case.

Leonard Bewley seised in fee of a house and certain Lands in Culgath in the County of Cumberland, died thereof seised 25 January 38 Eliz. after whose death it was found by office, that the said House and Lands, with the Mannor of Culgath (whereof they were parcel) by the attainder of Treason of Andrew Hartley were forfeited to King E. 2. and afterwards King E. 2. by his Letters Patents granted the said Mannor, whereof, &c. to Morisby in fee, tenend. de nobis & hæredibus nostris per servicium medietat. feodi unius militis imperpetuum, & reddend. inde nobis & hered. nostris per annum ad Scaccar. 10 l. & faciend. aliis Capital. Dom. feodi illius si qui fuer', reddit. & servitia quæ inde debebantur antequam ad manus nostras devenerunt, Salvis nobis & hæred. nostris feodis militum, & advocationibus ecclesiarum, &c, and found further the other points of the writ: By office after the death of Morisby, Anno 22 E. 3. it is found, that the Mannor of Culgath, whereof, &c. is, and before the attainder of Hartley was holden of Robert Nevil de Horneby, qui illud tenuit de domino Rege in capite per servitium 16 s. & 8 d. ad cornagium solvend. ad festum assumptionis beatæ Mariæ pro toto anno. Et Juratores prædict. ulterius dicunt, quod post mortem Christopheri Morisby 3. partes dicti manerii tenentur de Dom. rege per servitium militare: and by an office found 29 E. 3. and another 48 E. 3. and by a Record in 8 H. 4. in computo Collectorum rationabilis auxilii, &c. and by office in 17 H. 8. and by office in 38 H. 8. it was found (although it was not in one and the same manner) that the said Mannor of Culgath was holden of the King by Knights service. [b]

And it was Resolved by the 2. Chief Justices, and Chief Baron, that by the Patent of King E. 2. that the Tenure of them should be revived, although that the King in the first place hath reserved to himself other services, viz. Knights service, where the Mesne before the attainder held of the King in Socage, as appeareth by the said office in 22 E. 3. and although the King hath reserved another Rent, yet because the King for his honour, and in advancement of the antient Right according to Equity and Conscience, expressly intended that the Mesnalty should be revived (which by the Attainder of the Tenant peravail by Rigour of Law, without the fault of the Mesne was extinct) the Clause of Revivor of the Mesnalty shall be preferred before his profit; and therefore the Tenant peravail shall hold of the Mesne, as he held before the attainder, and thus restitution of an antient Right shall be preferred. And Sir John Molyn's Case in the 6. part of my Reports, was affirmed for good Law. Vide 2 E. 3. 33. vid. 60 b. 8 E. 3. 283. 17 E. 3. 59. 25 E. 3. 46. 46 E. 3. Petition 19. 49 E. 3. 10. 22 Ass. 53. 21 Ass. p. 30. 4 H. 6. 20. 33 H. 6. 7. Note upon the said books a difference betwixt a Creation of a new Tenure, without any aspect to the antient right, for there the first Reservation shall stand; and betwixt a Restitution of an antient Tenure; for that shall be preferred before the Reservation, which is first in words. Note the difference. [131]

Holt's Case.

Francis Holt the Grandfather had issue Thomas Holt the Father, his eldest son, and 4. other sons, Thomas had issue Francis; Francis the Grandfather being seised of divers Lands in fee in the County of Lancaster, part of which were holden of the King by Knights service in Capite, and the rest holden of others, did convey part of his Lands holden, and of the other Lands not holden, to the use of Thomas Holt the Father, and Constance his wife, yet living, for their lives: and afterwards to the use of Francis the son, and the heirs males of his body, with divers Remainders over in tail, the Reversion in fee to the right heirs of Francis the Grandfather, and conveyed other Lands holden, &c. to the use of himself for life, with several Remainders to other of his younger sons then living, for term of their lives severally, the Remainder to Thomas the Father for life, the remainder to Francis the Grandfather, and to the heirs males of his body, with divers other Remainders, the Reversion in fee to Francis the Grandfather and his heirs; Francis Holt the Grandfather died, Thomas the Father being of full age, who tendred his Livery, and died before Livery sued, or office found: Francis the son being of full age, and all is found by office, Francis the son continueth the Livery, Constance the wife of Thomas the Father, and the 4. younger sons of Francis are yet living. And 2. Questions were moved in this Case. 1. If the King shall have any primer seisin in this case in possession. 2. If he shall have any primer seisin for the Reversion in fee (expectant upon the said estate tails) which descended after the death of the said Thomas the Father. And in this case these points the case being often debated, and good Consideration had) were Resolved. As to the first, [b] [132]

3. points were Resolved.

1. That by the death of Thomas before any Livery sued, the King hath lost to have any primer seisin ſeiſin after the death of Francis the Grandfather, as before in Northcote's Caſe, and in Hale's Caſe in the 8th part of my Reports, and oftentimes it hath been reſolved. And there is a difference betwixt Primer ſeiſin or Livery, and Mean rates, for Livery or Primer ſeiſin is loſt by the death of the heir, but not mean Rates, if any are due, for they are abſolutely veſted in the King.

2. That Francis the ſon ſhall not ſue Livery, or pay any Primer ſeiſin, becauſe that he was out of the Statute of 32 H. 8. and 34 H. 8. as alſo it hath been often times reſolved, becauſe that after the death of the Grandfather Primer ſeiſin was due by the Father, and the ſon living the Father is not within the Statute.

3. That where the Statute of 32 & 34 H. 8. giveth to the King Primer ſeiſin in caſe of Acts executed, that if the King hath a Primer ſeiſin, the Statute is ſatisfied, and he ſhall not have of others in the Remainder, or of the younger ſons, as the Common experience is in the Court of Wards.

Then it was ſtrongly urged, that in this caſe for as much as a Right and Intereſt of Primer ſeiſin was veſted in the King, although that afterwards by the act of God by the death of Thomas the Primer ſeiſin by act in Law is diſcharged, yet for as much as the King ſhall have but the Primer ſeiſin, that for the Land conveyed to the younger ſons, the King ſhall not have any Primer ſeiſin; but it ſhall be accompted the Laches of the Kings officers, that they did not force Thomas to ſue his Livery, or have taken ſecurity of him to anſwer it. But it was Reſolved, That the King ſhall have Primer ſeiſin for the Lands conveyed to the younger ſons in this caſe, becauſe they are within one of the 3. caſes in which Wardſhip and Primer ſeiſin are given to the King by the ſaid Acts, viz. Advancement of his wife; Preferrment of his Children; and Payment of his debts: And the reaſon and cauſe of this Reſolution was, That when the ſaid Acts give to the King Primer ſeiſin, it is intended of an actual and effectual Primer ſeiſin, and not of any one which is mathematical or imaginary for the King ought alwayes to have the full and compleat effect of the thing which is due to him; and therefore if one who is within the ſaid 3. caſes dieth before Livery, ſo that the King hath loſt his Primer ſeiſin, and hath not the effect of the Statute, the King ſhall have Primer ſeiſin of others who are within the ſaid 3. caſes (but not of any other who is out of the ſaid 3. caſes.) And this Reſolution is proved by former Reſolutions and Authorities in the like caſes: and therefore if the King hath title to preſent for lapſe hac vice, and he preſent, and his Clerk is admitted and inſtituted, and dieth before Induction, the King ſhall preſent again, for he hath not the full and compleat effect of his preſentation; as it was Reſolved by Sir James Dyer and the whole Court in Giles Caſe 18 Eliz. in the Common Pleas. So if the King marrieth a daughter who is in his Wardſhip, infra annos nubiles, and before the age of Conſent the Husband dieth, the King ſhall have the marriage of the heir again, becauſe that the firſt Marriage was not compleat, as it is Reſolved in Ambroſia Gorges Caſe in the 6. part of my Reports. And yet in theſe caſes a Common perſon ſhall be barred. In [b] 6 E. 3. 56. the Caſe was ſuch, The King granted the Honour of S. Wolry with the Advowſon of Mixby to the ſame appendant, to Richard Earl of Cornwal, and King of the Almains, and to the heirs of his body, Saving the Reverſion to the King, which Earl had iſſue Edmond his ſon, and died, Edmond his ſon Octab. Purific. 8 E. 1. levied a fine of one acre of Land parcel of the ſaid Honour, with the Advowſon of the ſaid Church of Mixby, to the Biſhop of Rocheſter, &c. which alienation was before the Statute of Donis Conditionalibus, made 13 E. 1. and afterwards the ſaid Edmond Earl of Cornwal died without iſſue. And by the Authority of this book it appeareth, that although the alienation was made before the Statute, and poſt prolem ſuſcitatam, the Donees and their iſſues habuerunt poteſtatem alienandi, to barr the Reverſion of Common perſons; yet it ſhall not barr the Kings Reverſion, although it be with Collateral warranty, if there be not aſſets deſcended, So that the King may have a full ſatisfaction and recompence, for without warranty and recompence it is not ſuch compleat alienation, becauſe it moveth from him who hath not a compleat eſtate, which ſhall barr the King of his Reverſion: and therewith agreeth 45 Aſſ. p. 6. and yet in the caſe of a Common perſon ſuch bare alienation before the Statute, without any warranty, or collateral warranty, without any alienation ſhould barr the Donor in ſuch caſes.

As to the 2. It was Reſolved, and ſo was it affirmed by the Attorney of the Wards, That the Uſage hath alwayes been in ſuch caſes, That Francis being of full age at the death of Thomas the Father, the King ſhall not have Primer ſeiſin of the ſaid ſeck and fruitleſs Reverſion in the caſe at barr: And the reaſon is, becauſe that the words of Prærogativa Regis are, Rex habebit primam ſeiſinam, &c. capiendo exitus eorundum terrarum & tenementorum, donec, &c. So when no rent or profit is reſerved, the King cannot take exitus, &c. in ſuch caſe. But if the Kings Tenant by Knights ſervice in Capite maketh a gift in tail, rendring an yearly Rent or other profit to him and his heirs, and dieth, his heir of full age, the King may take Primer ſeiſin of the Rent or profit which deſcendeth to the heir for one year: And ſo Note, that for ſuch a Rent-ſeck and fruitleſs Reverſion the heir ſhall be in Ward if he be within age, but ſhall not pay Primer ſeiſin for ſuch fruitleſs Reverſion, if he be of full age at the time of death of his Anceſtour.

Matthew Mene's Caſe.

Matthew Menes the Grandfather being ſeiſed in fee of divers Meſſuages, Lands, and Tenements in the County of Kent of the Cuſtom of Gavelkind, and of a Houſe holden of the King by Knights ſervice in Capite; and the reſt of Common perſons in Socage, had iſſue Andrew, who had iſſue Matthew, Thomas, John and Andrew: Andrew the Father died, Matthew the Grandfather by his will in writing deviſed all his ſaid Lands, viz. to Matthew eldeſt ſon of Andrew the Father one part, and to the heirs of his body, and to Thomas ſecond ſon of Andrew the Father another part, whereof the houſe holden in Capite was parcel and of like eſtate; and to the other ſons of Andrew the Father, other parts of the like eſtate. Matthew the Grandfather died ſeiſed of the ſaid Meſſuages, Lands and Tenements, Matthew the ſon being of the age of 15 years, and all the ſaid brothers of Matthew being alive, and all this was found by office. And in this Caſe 2. Queſtions were moved. [133]

1. If the King ſhall have a 3. part of the ſaid Meſſuage only, and not of the other Lands not holden of the King?

And as to the firſt, It was ſtrongly urged, That the King ſhould have but a 3. part of the Land holden, becauſe if no will had been made, the King ſhould have but the 3. part of that which deſcended to the eldeſt ſon, for where the Statute of Prærogativa Regis ſaith, Dominus Rex habebit Cuſtodiam omnium terrarum eorum qui de ipſo tenent in Capite per ſervitium militar. &c. de quocunq; tenuerunt, &c. it is meant, if the Land deſcend to the ſame heir, to whom the Land holden deſcendeth; but if any part deſcendeth to another heir, the King ſhall not have it, and therewith agreeth 12 E. 4. 18. and Stamf. prærog. 8 b. And the Statutes enable one to deviſe 2. parts of his Lands for the benefit of his Children, where the King had all if no deviſe were made, but in all caſes where no Will is made the King had nothing, for the Statute gave not any Wardſhip or Primer ſeiſin, although a will be made, and thereby the Land deviſed as his ſons, for the ſame is not within the purview of the ſaid Act. [b]

To which it was anſwered and Reſolved, That it is true that if no Will had been declared, the King ſhould not have the Lands holden of others in Socage, which deſcend to younger ſons, but when by the Will (to which he is enabled by the Statute) he deviſeth the ſame to his ſons, in ſuch caſe the Saving in the Same Statute giveth to the King Wardſhip and Primer ſeiſin; and therefore a ſtronger caſe was agreed for Law. Tenements deviſable by Cuſtom n London came to King H. 8. by the diſſolution of Abbies, and afterwards the King by his Letters Patents granted them in Fee to hold by Knights ſervice in Capite, and the Patentee by his Will deviſed them for the preferment of his wife, advancement of his children, and payment of his debts, and died, his heir within age, the King ſhall have the 3. part in Ward: and yet the deviſe is good for the whole Land by the Cuſtom, without any help of the Statutes of 32 & 34 H. 8. And notwithſtanding the King in ſuch Caſe ſhall have the Wardſhip of the 3. part by force of the ſaid Saving in the ſaid Statutes; and therewith agreeth 5. Ms. Dyer 155. 6 Eliz. Dalliſon 4. Paſc. 20 Eliz. between Barbor and Eliz. his wife Plaintif, and William Long Defendant in a Partitione faciend. Judgment was given upon a ſpecial Verdict Reported by Serjeant Bendloes, by which it was Reſolved, that the King, à fortiori in the caſe at barr ſhall have a 3. part of the whole.

As to the ſecond point, It was alſo Reſolved, That the King ſhall have the 3. part out of every ſeveral part, ſo that the charge ſhall be equal, and ſhall not fall upon one only. Vide 35 H. 8. Teſtaments, br. 19. 4 E. 3. Aſſiſe 178. Vide 21 & 22 Eliz. Dyer 366. b.

Mich. 9 Jacobi. In the Court of Wards.

Aſcough's Caſe.

It was found by Office, after the death of William Aſcough Eſquire, that Sir Edw. Aſcough Father of the ſaid William was ſeiſed in fee tayl of the Mannor of Darcie, and of the Mannor of Belbie in Stallingborough, in the County of Lincoln, the remainder to Francis his brother in tayl, the remainder to the ſaid Sir Edward in fee, And that the ſaid William Aſcough was ſeiſed in fee of a houſe, 31 acres and a half of land, 9 acres of meadow: and 2 acres and a half of paſture in Stallingborough aforeſaid, and held them of the ſaid Sir Ed. Aſcough, as of his Mannor of Darcie, ſed per que ſervitia Juratores ignorant. And that the ſaid William was alſo ſeiſed of a houſe, and 40 acres of lands, &c. in Owresbie in the ſaid County, and held them of Sir Thomas Munſon, as of his Mannor of Owresbie in the ſame County, And afterwards, upon the Marriage of William with Katherine the [134] daughter of William Henage: the said Sir Edward and Francis levied a fine of the said Mannors to the uses following, viz. of some part in certain of the Mannor of Darcie, and some of part in certain of the Mannor of Selbie; to the use of William and Katherine for their lives, and to the heirs males of the body of William, the remainder to the said Sir Edward in tayl, with divers remainders in tayl, the remainder to Sir Edward in fee; and for the residue of the said Mannors to the [b] use of the said Sir Edward for life, and afterwards to the use of the said William and his heirs males of his body, with divers remainders over in tayl, the remainder to the right heirs of the said Sir Edward; and afterwards the said William died, as aforesaid seised, Edward Ascough his son then being within age, and that the said Mannors of Darcie and Selbie are holden of the King by knights service in Capite; and that Sir Ed. Ascough the Father, William and Katherine are yet alive.

And the sole point in this case was shortly this. The King Lord, Mesne, who hold by Knights service in Capite, Tenant paravail in socage, the Mesne granteth the Mesnalty to the use of himself for life, and afterwards to the use of the Tenant peravail in tayl; if in this case the Mesnalty be suspended during the life of the Mesne, by force of this remainder in tayl. And it was Resolved, That a remainder in tayl, or for life expectant upon an estate for life or in tayl, shall never suspend a Mesnalty, Seignory, Rent, &c. For although that the remainder vesteth presently, yet it cannot suspend the present freehold of the Rent during the life of the first Tenant for life, because that the Tenant for life is Tenant to the Lord, or to him in the reversion so long as he liveth, and shall do the services, and the Avowry shall be upon him, for he is the very Tenant by the Mannor; and during his life the heir of him in the remainder in tayl shall not be in ward, &c. And as a Seignory, Rent, &c. cannot be suspended in part and in esse for part, in respect of the land out of which it is issuing; neither can a Seignory, Rent, &c. be suspended in remainder, and in esse for a particular estate in possession, for then would follow fractions of estates, and particular estates should be created without Donors or Lessors, against the rules and Maxims of the Law: But in this case aforesaid, if the Mesne grant his Mesnalty to one for life, or in tayl, the remainder to the Tenant paravail in fee; there the Mesnalty is extinct, because he hath as high estate of inheritance of the Mesnalty as he hath in the Tenancy, and there is not any possibility to revive the Mesnalty. And in the same case the Mesnalty is not extinct for the inheritance, and in esse for the particular estate for life, or in tayl in possession, but the Mesnalty by the remainder in fee is extinct in the whole, for otherwise in the same case this absurdity will follow, sc. that there shall be a fee-simple of the Tenancy peravail, and also a fee-simple of the Seignorie paramount, and but an estate for life, or in tayl of the Mesnalty only; and so a Tenancy in fee-simple shall be only holden of a Mesnalty for life, or in tayl, and a Seignory in fee shall be issuing out of a Mesnalty for life or in tayl only, which is impossible, and by no means may be. Vid. 3 H. 6. 1. 15 E. 4. 12.

Note Reader I conceive, That if the Lord granteth his Seigniory for years, the remainder to the [135] Tenant peravail for life, in this case the Seigniory is suspended, because the Tenant for life hath the freehold of the Seigniory, and he is Tenant to every Precipe of the Lord, as in the case of Littleton, cap. attorn. 128. If lands be leased to a man for term of years, the remainder to another for term of life; and afterwards the Lessor granteth over the reversion, and he in the remainder for life attorneth, it is a good Attornment, and shall bind the Lessee for years, without any Attornment by him, for he was Tenant of the Freehold, and at the Common Law the Termor for years was subject, and under the power of the Tenant of the Freehold, for he shall not falsifie a Recovery at the Common Law, against the Tenant of the Freehold, because he hath but a Chattel. And whereas it is said in this Case, That the Seigniory cannot be suspended in part, and in esse for part, as it is holden in 32 H. 8. br. Extinguishment 48. the same is regularly true, but habet hec regula plures fallentias, all which may be well explained with this difference between the Act of the party, and Act in Law, For by Act of the party, be it right or wrong, all the Seigniory, &c. is suspended, and therefore if the Lord, or Lessor disseise, or oust his Tenant or Lessee of any part, the whole is suspended, as it is holden in 11 E. 3. Cessavit 21. 7 H. 6. 26. 35. H. 6. Avowrie 46. 9 E. 4. 1. a. 4 H. 7. 6. b. 32 H. 8. aforesaid. And the book in 21 E. 4. 29. a. is mistaken in the printing, for there it is said, Quod fuit negatum by all; where it should be quod fuit concessum by all the Justices, Vid. 9 E. 3. 7. The same Law, If the Lord taketh a Lease of any part of the Tenancy, the whole Seigniory is suspended, as it is resolved in 32 H. 8. before. So if a Commoner taketh a lease of any part of the Land, in which, &c. the whole Common is suspended; and therewith agreeth 11 H. 6. 22. But in the Case of a Rent service, if the Lord purchaseth part of the Tenancy in Fee, part is extinct, and in esse for the residue. Now for the other part of the difference by Act in Law a Seigniory may be suspended in part, and in esse for part; And therefore if the Lord seiseth the wardship of the Land of his Tenant by Knights service, now the Seigniory is suspended, but if the Gardian endoweth the wife of the Tenant of the third part of the Tenancy, now the third part of the Seigniory is revived, and the Tenant in Dower shall be
[b] attendant to the Gardian for 3 parts of the Services, because the Tenant in Dower is in by Act in Law, as it is holden in 33 E. 3. Dower 138. And for the same reason, If a man seised of lands in fee taketh a wife, and infeoffeth another, and the Husband dieth, the wife is endowed of the 3 part of the land, out of which the Rent is issuing, the 3 part of the Rent in such case which the wife hath for life is extinct, and the 2 parts of the rent remain to him, issuing out of the other 2 parts; for although it is a Rent charge, yet by Act in Law it shall be apportioned, as it is adjudged in Jurdens case, 5 E. 2. Avowry 206. Vid. 30. Ass. p. 12. where a Rent charge shall be suspended in part, and in esse for part by Act in Law; And 29 Ass. pl. 10. If Gardian in Knights service seiseth the land of one daughter and heir within age, the other daughter being of full age, there the Seigniory is suspended for one moiety, and in esse for another moiety: So if two Coparceners be of a Seigniory, and one diſſeiſeth the Terr-Tenant, or cometh to the land by deforceable title, the other may diſtrein him for her moiety of the Seignory, for the Act of one Coparcener cannot prejudice the other in ſuch caſe. And where it is ſaid in the caſe before, That where the Tenant maketh a leaſe for life, or a gift in tayl, the remainder over in fee, that the Tenant for life, or Donee in Tayl is very Tenant by the mannor to the Lord paramount. True it is, that at the Common Law there are four manner of Avowries for Rents, Services, &c. 1. By reaſon of the Tenure upon one, as upon his very Tenant, and that is when the Lord hath fee in the Seigniory, and the Tenant hath fee in the Tenancy, ut ſuper verum tenentem ſuum. 2. Upon one as his very Tenant by the manner, ut ſuper verum tenentem ſuum in forma præd. and that is when the Tenant maketh a leaſe for life, or a gift in tayl, with the Remainder in fee; in this caſe, if the Lord hath fee in the Seignory, he ſhall avow upon the Tenant for life, or Donee in tayl, as upon his very Tenant by the manner. 3. Upon one, as upon his Tenant by the manner, leaving out this word (very) and that is when the Lord hath a particular eſtate in a Seigniory, as an eſtate in tayl, eſtate for life, or leſs intereſt ſuper tenentem ſuum in forma præd. ſo ſhall the Donor upon the Donee, Leſſor upon the Leſſee for life, or years. 4. Upon the matter in the Land, as within his fee and Seigniory; as where the Tenant by Knights ſervice maketh a leaſe for life, rendring rent, and dieth, his heir within age, the Gardian ſhall make ſuch avowry upon the Leſſee, ſc. ſuper materiam præd. in tetris & tenementis præd. ut infra feodum & Dominium ſuum. And all theſe forms of Avowries you ſhall find in your books, 20 H. 6. 9. 2 H. 4. 24. 12 E. 4. 2. 26 H. 6. Avowry 17. 9 *Eliz. The Lord may avow the taking of the diſtreſs within the Tenancy, as in lands and tenements within his fee or Seigniory, without making any Avowry upon any perſon certain; but the Lord hath liberty, if he will, to make his Avowry according to the Common Law. Thoroughgood's Caſe.

IT was found by Office in the County of Cambridge 21 Jan. 36 Eliz. by force of a writ of Diem clauſit extremum after the death of Robert Thoroughgood, that he was ſeiſed in fee of a houſe, &c. and divers lands and tenements in Tadlow in the County aforeſaid, and that the ſaid houſe, &c. was holden of the King by Knights ſervice in Capite; and he being ſo ſeiſed, made and ſealed in the ſaid Meſſuage a certain writing indented in theſe words, To all Chriſtian people, &c. Robert Thoroughgood ſendeth greeting, &c. Know ye, that I the ſaid Robert for divers good cauſes, &c. have given, granted, and enfeoffed, and by theſe parties do give, grant, and enfeof and confirm to Henry Hutton and Edward Eliot all that my capital Meſſuage, &c. Lands and Tenements, &c. Habendum to the ſaid Henry Hutton, and Edward Eliot, and their heirs, &c. Dat. 18 Julii 35 Eliz. And further they ſay that the ſaid Robert lying ſick, delivered in the aforeſaid Meſſuage the ſaid 18 of July the aforeſaid writing indented to the aforeſaid Henry Hutton, and Edward Eliot, for and in name of ſeiſin of the ſaid Meſſuage, and all the reſidue of the Lands and Tenements contained in the ſaid writing indented; and further found the other points of the writ. And upon this caſe 2 Queſtions were moved. 1. If in this caſe the Jury have found a ſufficient delivery of the Indenture, to make the ſame a deed in Law. 2. If this delivery of the Indenture in the houſe, in the name of ſeiſin of the houſe, and reſidue of the Lands and Tenements aforeſaid, were ſufficient livery of ſeiſin in Law, or not. As to the firſt, it was Reſolved, that the actual delivery of a writing ſealed to the party, without any words, is a good delivery; for In traditionibus ſcriptorum non quod dictum eſt, ſed quod geſtum eſt inſpicitur: But here he ſaith, I deliver this writing unto you, which clearly is ſufficient, although he doth not ſay as his deed, or as his Act. And therefore if A. maketh a writing to B. and ſealeth it, and delivereth the ſame to B. as an eſcrow, to take effect as his deed when certain conditions are performed, it hath been adjudged to be preſently his deed, for the Law doth reſpect the delivery to the party himſelf, and doth reject the words which ſhall make the expreſs delivery to the party upon the matter no delivery. And therefore in 12 H. 8. Rot. 751. in Banco, Anne Quilter, late the wife of John Quilter, and others, Executors of the will of John Quilter, brought an action of debt againſt Edw. Cobham upon an Obligation, &c. the Defendant pleaded that he delivered the Obligation to the Teſtator as a Schedule, upon condition, that if the Plaintif made Indentures between the Defendant on the one part, and the ſaid Teſtator of the other part, de certis conditionibus convent. & agreament. inter eaſdem partes adtunc concord, &c. pro adnullatione præd. ſcript. oblig. &c. ante feſtum Mich. Archang. deliberand. quod tunc præd. ſcript. Obligator. in omni ſuo robore ſtaret, ſin aliter, vacua foret: & idem defendens dicit quod præd. Teſtat. non fecit aliquam Indent. &c. & ſic idem defendens dicit, quod ſcript. præd. in forma præd. deliberat. dictis Indent. inter eaſdem partes minimè confectis non eſt factum ſuum, & hoc, &c. Judgment if Action? And thereupon the Plaintif did demur in Law, And it was reſolved that the ſaid delivery was good in Law, although the Condition were not performed, and the Plaintif had Judgment to recover. And Trinit. 13 H. 8. rot. 405. in Banco, between Thomas Bodenham Eſquire Plaintif, and Ed. Marmion Clerk [137]

Defendant, in debt upon an Obligation the like plea was pleaded, and a demurrer upon it, and Judgment was given for the Plaintif, which Judgments upon search (which I commanded to be done) I have seen. And therewith agreeth the Report of 19 H. 8. 8. a. and took the difference when it is delivered to the party himself, and when to a stranger, as it was there agreed 35 Ass. p. 6. A deed may take effect by actual delivery of the party himself, without any words. And as a writing may take effect by actual delivery to the party without words, so it may take effect by words, without actual delivery: As if a writing be sealed, and lieth in a window, or upon a Table, and the Obligor saith to the Obligee, do you see the writing, take it as my deed, and he taketh it accordingly, it is a good delivery in Law: The same manner if one maketh a Charter of Feofment, and within the view of the Land, saith to another, see you the Land, enter into it and enjoy it according to the effect of this Charter, and the Feoffee doth enter, it amounts to a good livery of seisin of the land. And if words in such case shall amount to a livery of seisin, by [b] which a freehold shall pass, a fortiori words shall amount to a delivery of a deed; for which cause it was concluded a fortiori in the case at Bar, when Robert Thoroughgood delivered the writing to the parties, saying, Here I deliver unto you this writing, it is a good delivery thereof to take effect as a deed. Vid. 33 Ass. 2. 33 E. 3. Assise 367. 43 E. 3. 28. 13 H. 4. 8. 8 H. 6. 26. 9 H. 6. 37. Vid. 4. H. 6. 5. If the Obligee bail the Obligation to the Obligor to rebail to him, the Obligee may detain the obligation for ever, and these words to rebail to him are void, Vid. 29 H. 8. 34 & 35 Dyer, and Trin. 43 Eliz. between Hawskston and Catcher in the Kings Bench, where some opinions upon the suddain were conceived, that the Obligor might deliver an obligation as an escrow to the Obligee; but believe you the said Judgments given upon demurrer in Law in the point. Wherefore as to this first point it was clearly resolved, that the said writing sealed took effect as a deed by the delivery aforesaid. As to the second point, First it was clearly Resolved, That the delivery of the Deed upon the land, doth not amount to a livery, for the same hath another effect, sc. to take effect as a deed, as it is Resolved in Sharps case, Anno 42 Eliz. in the Common Pleas Reported in the 6 part of my Reports; and there it is agreed, That to every livery of seisin there is requisite, either an Act, which the Law doth adjudge livery, or apt words which do amount to it, And there the case of 43 E. 3. Feofments and Faits 51. is cited, which is to this effect. In an assise the Recognitors found a special verdict, sc. That the Plaintif was seised of lands in fee, and the Tenant drew and engrossed a Charter of Feofment of the land in veiw, &c. in the name of the Plaintif to the Tenant himself and his heirs, and the Tenant delivered the Charter to the Plaintif, and prayed him to deliver seisin in the same land, and the plaintif would not deliver seisin in the same land, but he delivered back the Charter to the Tenant upon the land, and kept himself in; and if the delivery of the Charter upon the Land was sufficient livery of seisin, was the Question, and there Kirton Justice said, If the plaintif had spoke in this manner, Sir I deliver to you this Charter in the name of seisin, of all the lands and tenements contained in the Charter, it had been a good delivery of seisin; but so he doth not do in this Case, for which cause the Court adjudged that the Plaintif should recover seisin. And it was Resolved, That although most properly livery and seisin be made by delivery of a Twig or Turf of the land it self; whereof seisin is to be given, and so it is good to be observed; yet delivery of a Turf or Twig growing upon the Land; or a peece of gold or silver, or any other thing upon the land in the name of seisin is sufficient, for the Turf or Twig which groweth upon the land, when it is severed is no parcel of the land, and when the Feoffor is upon the land, his words without any act are sufficient to make [138] livery and seisin; as if he saith, I deliver seisin of this Land to you in the name of all the Land contained in this deed, Or enter you into this Land, and take seisin of it in the name of all the Land contained in this deed, or other words, without any ceremony or act done; and that is the reason that the delivery of any thing upon the land in the name of seisin is sufficient, because that the only words without any thing were sufficient; For if only words of the Land which is within the view are sufficient in Law; à fortiori when they are spoken upon the Land it self, and yet it is not wisely done to omit usual ceremonies and acts in such cases, for they do imprint more remembrance of the thing done, because they are subject to sight, than only words, which are only heard, and usually slip out of memory: for which Cause it was Resolved, That the delivery of the deed upon the Land in the name of seisin was sufficient in Law. And Sharps Case was affirmed for good Law in this case. 3. It was Resolved, That this delivery of the writing amounted to 2. several acts at one instant, viz. to deliver the writing as a deed, and to deliver seisin of the land according to the deed.

Beaumont's Case.

SIr Humfry Foster seised in Fee of the Site of the Monastery Gracedieu, and other Lands in Question, gave them to John Beaumont and Elizabeth his wife, and to the heirs of their 2. bodies begotten, the Remainder in fee to John Beaumont, Anno 6 E. 6. John Beaumont levied a fine come ceo to King E. 6. his heirs and successors with proclamations, King E. 6. Anno 7. granted the said Site, &c. by his Letters Patents to Francis Earl of Huntington and his heirs, John Beaumont died, after whose death Elizabeth within 5 years entred claiming her estate, the said Francis Earl of Huntington died, Henry his son and heir 16 Eliz. by Indenture reciting the said gift by Sir Humfrey Foster to the said John and Eliz. his wife in special tayl, and that Eliz. was then seised in her demesne as of Fee tayl, by force of the said gift, did ratifie, allow, and confirm to the said Eliz. her estate, Habendum the Lands to her and to the heirs of the body of the said John Beaumont deceased, and the said Eliz. The said Elizabeth died seised, having issue Francis Beaumont one of the Justices of the Common Pleas, son and heir of both their bodies. Francis Beaumont entred into the Site, &c. and took the profits, &c. and afterwards accepted a fine with proclamations sur Conysans de droit tantum of 2. Strangers, with a render for 99 years after the death of the said Francis, if Ann his wife should so long live, the proclamations pass, Francis Beaumont having issue Sir Henry Beaumont his eldest son, and John his younger son, Sir Henry in Gard to the Queen attained to his full age 45 Eliz. and before Livery by Indenture 2. Jacobi Covenanted upon good Consideration to stand seised to the use of himself and the heirs males of his body, and afterwards to the use of John Beaumont his brother and the heirs males of his body, with divers Remainders over. Sir Henry Beaumont died without issue male, having issue Barbara, who now is of tender years, and in ward to the King. The Question was, Whether the said Site and Land did appertain to Barbara, or to the said John Beaumont: And in this case two points were moved and urged by Councel on both parts, viz. in the Terms of Trinit. Mich. and Hill. by Coventrey, Thomas Crewe, and George Crooke on the Kings part, and by Finch, Walter, and Harris Serjeant on the part of the heir male: And the first point was, If by the fine levied with proclamations, and the death of John Beaumont, the wife had but an estate for life dispunishable of wast, as Tenant in tayl after possibility of issue extinct? The 2. Admitting she had an estate tayl, what is wrought by the said Confirmation, if thereby the issue in tail shall inherit or not? As to the first it was Objected, That by the fine levied by the Husband, the estate tayl was barred, because the issue ought to make himself heir to both their bodies, as it is adjudged in 18 Eliz. 351. b. So, and for the same cause, If one Donee be attained of Treason, the estate tayl is extinct, as it is expresly holden in 16 Eliz. Dyer 332. b. and therewith agreeth 5 H. 7. 32. by Brian Chief Justice, from thence it followeth, that the wife cannot be seised of an estate tayl, because that the estate tayl by fine was barred and extinct; and therefore for necessity of reason, the estate of the wife shall be changed into an estate for life dispunishable of wast: And the same was resembled to the case in 7 H. 4. 16. Husband and Wife Tenants in special tayl are divorced (which is intended of a divorce which dissolveth the marriage ab initio, and the Husband and Wife à vinculo matrimonii) the Donees have an estate but for their lives, because the estate tayl is determined and extinct. It was also urged, That if the wife should have an estate in tayl, then she might suffer a Recovery, or levy a fine, and so barr the Conusee of her Husband, or prevent the King of his forfeiture for Treason, which should be against the Resolutions aforesaid reported by the Lord Dyer. Then if the estate be converted into an estate for life dispunishable of wast, in the nature of a Tenant in tayl after possibility of issue extinct, it followeth, that the Confirmation doth enlarge her estate, and make Barbara daughter of Sir Henry inheritable to the Land. But admitting for the Argument of the 2. point, That the said Eliz. had an estate in special tayl, the Reversion expectant to the said Henry Earl of Huntingdon to take effect in possession (in respect of the said fine levied by the Husband) presently after the death of the said Elizabeth, Then the 2. point is, If against the said Confirmation made by him who hath the Reversion in fee expectant as is aforesaid, he shall enter into the Land after the death of the said Elizabeth, or if the Confirmation to Eliz. in tail as above, maketh the issues of the said John and Elizabeth inheritable; It was strongly urged, That the issues should be inheritable by the said Confirmation for 2. causes: one in respect of the estate of him who hath made the Confirmation by way of extraction of a new estate out of the Reversion: the other, in respect of the estate of him to whom the Confirmation is made, by way of incorporation and alteration of the Quality of the estate. As to the first, The said Earl hath the entire Reversion in fee, out of which he may raise and create as many estate tayls one after the other, as he will, and therefore when he confirmeth the estate of the wife, To have and to hold to her and to the heirs of the body of the said John and Elizabeth, thereby the Earl hath excluded himself and his heirs by expres words, so long as the said John and Elizabeth had heirs of their bodies to claim the Land: As if a Feme Covert be Tenant for term of life, the reversion over in Fee, if he in the reversion confirm the estate of the Husband and Wife, to have and to hold to them for their lives, in this case the Husband shall have an estate for life after the death of his wife for it shall be against reason, that he who hath the Reversion in Fee, out of which he may derive as many estates for lives as he will, should enter into the land after the death of the Wife, during the life of the Husband, and againſt his own Confirmation, when the Husband hath ſuch eſtate upon which the Confirmation may enure, by way of extraction of a new eſtate out of the Reverſion; and therewith agreeth Littleton 120, 121. and 17 E. 3. 68. b. So in the caſe at barr, it ſhall be againſt reaſon that the Earl who made the Confirmation after the death of Eliz. ſhould enter into the Land, againſt the limitation of his own Confirmation; viz. ſo long as the ſaid John and Eliz. have heirs of their bodies. Secondly, in reſpect of the eſtate of the ſaid Eliz. for this Conformation doth alter the Quality of her eſtate, and thereby incorporate a new quality in the eſtate; For where the Earl after the death of Eliz. might have entred and excluded all the heirs in tayl, now by this Confirmation he hath added this enlarging quality, to make all the heirs in tayl inheritable. And that a Confirmation may alter or add to the quality of the eſtate in Land, appeareth in our books. And therefore, if the Leſſor confirmeth the eſtate of his Leſſee for life, (and addeth this clauſe) without impeachment of waſt, [140] it is good. So if the Lord paramount confirm the eſtate of the Meſne with clauſe of acquittal, it is good. 6 E. 3. 7. 19 H. 6. 63. F. N. B. 136. v. 4 E. 4. 35. Iſabel de Upſeys caſe. So a Confirmation may alter the quality of eſtate of land; as if the eſtate of the Feoffee be upon Condition the Feoffor may confirm his eſtate abſolute, and ſo alter the quality or eſtate of Land; as if the eſtate of the Feoffee be upon Condition the Feoffor may confirm his eſtate abſolute, and ſo alter the quality of the eſtate of the Land; viz. conditional into abſolute; 7 H. 6. 7. b. Mayowes caſe in the 1. part of my Reports. So in 49 E. 3. 7. If the Lord in antient demeſne confirm the eſtate of the Tenant, to hold by certain Service at the Common Law, although the eſtate of the Tenant be not changed, nor any tranſmutation of the poſſeſſion, yet the quality of his eſtate is changed; for the Tenant ſhall not be afterwards impleaded by Petit writ of Droit cloſe, and the Land by the confirmation is diſcharged from the cuſtoms of the Mannor. So in the caſe at barr, although the eſtate of Eliz. is not changed, nor any tranſmutation of poſſeſſion had, yet the quality of eſtate of the ſaid Eliz. is changed, by incorporating of a Quality to the eſtate of the ſaid Elizabeth, viz. that the heirs in tayl ſhall inherit. As to the firſt point, It was anſwered and Reſolved, That the wife after the death of her Husband had an eſtate in ſpecial tayl; and for the better underſtanding of the true reaſon thereof, it is to ſee, by what Law the eſtate of the wife ſhall be altered and changed to an eſtate for life; And firſt, it was Reſolved, that it was not by the Common Law; for at the Common Law, If Lands had been given to the Husband and wife, and to the heirs of their two bodies, and after iſſue the Husband had aliened and died, this alienation had not barred neither the wife, nor the iſſue in tayl, becauſe the Husband alone had not power of aliening, for as much as he had an undivided eſtate jointly with his wife; and therewith agreeth 12 H. 4. Formedon 15. 21 E. 3. 45. and by the Statute of Weſt. 2. de donis, &c. it is enacted, that a fine levied by Tenant in tayl ipſo jure ſit nullus. As to the caſe of 16 Eliz. of Treaſon whereof the Husband is attainted, it is to know, that ſuch barr and forfeiture is by the Statute of 26 H. 8. Cap. 13. by which it is enacted, That every offender convicted of high Treaſon, &c. ſhall loſe and forfeit to the King, his heirs and ſucceſſors, all ſuch Lands, &c. whereof any ſuch offender ſhall have any eſtate of Inheritance; but in the ſame act there is a Saving to every perſon (other than the offenders,) their heirs and ſucceſſors, all rights, titles, intereſts, &c. So that it appeareth, that the eſtate of the wife, if ſhe overliveth the Husband, is ſaved by this act, and that the barr by the Statute is only as to the iſſues in tayl, and not to the wife; and the reaſon of the Reſolution that the heir is diſabled in ſuch caſe is, becauſe he ought in his lineal Conveyance make him heir as well to the Father as to the Mother by the opini-

[b] ons of Catlyn, Wray, Saunders, and Dyer. And as to the ſaid Caſe of fine with proclamation in 18 Eliz. levied by the Husband alone, the barr is made by the Statutes of 4. H. 7. cap. 24. & 32 H. 8. cap. 36. And in the Statute of 4 H. 7. there is a Saving for the wife, if ſhe bring her action or Lawful entry within 5 years after ſhe ſhall be uncovert, as ſhe did in this caſe; and by the Statute of 32 H. 8. the fine levied with proclamation of Lands intailed to him who levieth the fine, or any of his anceſtors, ſhall be a ſufficient barr againſt the ſaid perſon and his heirs claming by force of any ſuch intayl, and againſt other perſons claming only to their uſe, or to the uſe of any manner of heir of their body, in which caſe there needeth not any Saving for Strangers, for the purview of the act is ſpecial, and ſecundum quid, viz. againſt the heirs in tayl, and others claiming to their uſe; and therefore diſtinguendum eſt, That the fine with proclamations levied by the Husband, Or the attainder of the Husband of high Treaſon is a barr to the eſtate tayl, quoad the iſſues in tayl, but not quoad the wife, but that ſhe overliving ſhall be ſeiſed of an eſtate tayl, which eſtate is ſaved to her by all the ſaid Acts. And the ſame is proved by the ſaid books of 18 Eliz. for there the Husband being jointly ſeiſed with his wife in ſpecial tayl, levied a fine with proclamations, to the uſe of him and his heirs (which fine is a barr to the iſſue in tayl) and afterwards the Husband deviſed the Land to the wife for life, and died, there the wife entred and wayved the eſtate tayl, claming for life by force of the deviſe, which proveth, that if ſhe had not waived the eſtate tayl, that ſhe ſhould have had it, and not an eſtate for life, as is ſuppoſed by the other ſide. And in the Indenture of Confirmation which was made in 16 Eliz. it is recited, That the ſaid Eliz. had an eſtate tayl, by which it appeareth that the Law was ſo taken at that time. And as to that which was Objected, That the ſaid Elizabeth could not have an eſtate tayl, becauſe that as to the iſſues in tayl the eſtate tayl is barred, Alſo it was asked, To what end ſhould ſhe have an eſtate tayl, when it cannot deſcend? It was Anſwered and Reſolved, That one may have an eſtate tayl, and yet all the iſſues in tayl ſhall be barred to inherit, as in Sir George Browns Caſe in my 3. Reports, Sir Richard Bridges ſeiſed of certain Lands in fee, did thereof infeoff Winchcomb and others, upon Condition that they ſhould give the ſame to him and his wife, and to the heirs of their 2. bodies begotten, the Remainder to the right heirs of Sir Richard, which was done accordingly; They have iſſue Anthony Bridges, Sir Richard died, Anthony in the life of his Mother levied a fine with proclamations mations to Sir George Brown in fee, the wife living, the ſaid Anthony made a Leaſe for 3 lives, which was not warranted by the Statute of 32 H. 8. And there it is Reſolved, That the ſaid fine levied by the ſaid Anthony, ſhould barr the eſtate tayl; yet there it is clearly admitted, that the wife doth remain Tenant in tayl; for there the Queſtion was, If the ſaid diſcontinuance for lives without warranty was within the Statute of 11 H. 7. but if the eſtate of the wife had been changed to an eſtate for life, then without Queſtion the ſaid Leaſe for 3. lives had been forfeit by the Common Law, and all the argument upon the Statute of 11 H. 7. had been in vain, and to no purpoſe, and in ſuch caſe the wife had an eſtate tayl reſtrained of alienation by the Statute of 11 H. 7. and not deſcendable to the iſſues. So in Archers Caſe 20 Eliz. in the 3. part of my Reports, If the ſon Tenant in tayl in the life of the Father levieth a fine with proclamations, the ſame after the death of the Father ſhall barr the eſtate tayl, and yet without queſtion the Father doth remain Tenant in tayl, although the eſtate tayl doth not deſcend. So if Lands be given to an Alien and the heirs of his body, he hath an eſtate tayl, and yet ſuch eſtate after his death is not deſcendible to his iſſues. And if a Diſſeiſor maketh a gift in tayl, the Donee maketh a Feoffment to A. and afterwards levieth a fine with proclamation to B. who hath nothing, this fine ſhall barr the iſſues in tayl, becauſe the iſſues in tayl being privies ſhall not plead Quod partes finis nihil habuerunt, but ſhall not barr the diſſeiſee by Nonclaim, becauſe the fine as to him was void: ſo as in ſuch caſe quoad the heirs in tayl the fine ſhall bind, but not quoad the diſſeiſee, who is a ſtranger: pari ratione in the caſe at barr, this fine levied by the Husband, as to the iſſues ſhall be a barr, but not as to the wife, who is a ſtranger to it. Husband and Wife are Tenants in ſpecial tayl, the reverſion to the Donor, they have iſſue, the Husband levieth a fine with proclamations to a ſtranger, and dieth, the wife entreth, the wife hath deveſted the whole eſtate out of the Conuſee; and reveſted the eſtate in her, the immediate reverſion to the Donor, and left nothing but a poſſibility in the Conuſee: Ergo, the eſtate of the wife is not changed into an eſtate for life, for there if Error be in the fine, the iſſue in tayl ſhould have a Writ of Error upon the Statute of 9 R. 2. in the life of the wife, and ſo the iſſue in tayl ſhould have an eſtate in the Land in the life-time of the Donee, which ſhould be abſurd; for he hath not any eſtate by purchaſe, and living the Donee he can have nothing by deſcent. As to the Caſe of 7 H. 4. 16. where after divorce the eſtate of the Donees is changed to an eſtate for their lives, it is not like to the caſe at barr for divers cauſes: 1. there the eſtate tayl is diſſolved ab initio, and ſo the iſſue Baſtard; but in the caſe at barr the eſtate tayl is barred, and not diſſolved or determined, but hath continuance as long as the wife liveth, or the heirs in tayl do remain. As to the ſecond point, It was Anſwered and Reſolved, That the Confirmation did work nothing: And 1. It was admitted, That the Reverſion or Remainder in fee had been in a ſtranger, and not in John Beaumont. Then it is to ſee when Elizabeth entreth and was ſeiſed in tayl what eſtate was left in the Conuſee; and it was Reſolved that no part of the eſtate tayl was left in him, for the wife was ſeiſed of the whole eſtate tayl, and no part of the Reverſion doth remain in the Conuſee, for it was reſettled in him to whom the reverſion or remainder did appertain, and from thence it followeth, that nothing doth remain in the Conuſee in ſuch caſe, but only a poſſibility to have the Land after the death of the wife (who had the whole eſtate tayl) ſo long as the iſſues in tayl did remain, if any were alive at the time of the death of the wife; and without Queſtion ſuch poſſibility ſhall not paſs by the ſaid Confirmation. Then when John Beaumont hath the Remainder in fee, the Confirmation made by the heir of the Conuſee can paſs nothing in reſpect of the poſſibility which was gained by the fine during the Continuance of the eſtate tayl, but it ought to be drawn out of the remainder in fee, and that it cannot be in this caſe for divers cauſes. 1. The old eſtate tayl as to the iſſues is barred and cannot deſcend. 2. A Confirmation cannot add a deſcendible quality to him who is diſabled to take by deſcent; As if Lord and Tenant be of a Carve of Land, and the Tenant hath iſſue, and is attained of Felony, and the King pardoneth him, and afterwards the Lord confirmeth the eſtate of the Tenant, and the Tenant dieth, The Lord ſhall have the Land againſt his own Confirmation, for the Confirmation cannot add to the eſtate of the Tenant a quality deſcendible to him who was diſabled to take the Land by deſcent. So in the caſe at barr, the Confirmation of the Earl to Elizabeth cannot add a quality deſcendible to the iſſue in tayl, who was diſabled by the fine to take by deſcent. 3. If this Confirmation in this caſe, ſhall add to the eſtate of the wife a deſcendible quality, the ſame in effect as to this point, ſhall repeal 2. Acts of Parliament, viz. the Act of 4 H. 7. and 32 H. 8. by which (as appeareth before) the eſtate tayl is barred as to the iſſues, and the iſſues diſabled to claim the Land by force of the eſtate tayl; Sed pacta privata juri publico derogare non poſſunt, and theſe Statutes are jura publica, for they are two of the principal pillars of the Law. 4. In the ſaid Caſe of Sir George Brown, after that Anthony had levied a fine to him in the life of his Mother, Put caſe that Sir George had confirmed the eſtate of the Mother, yet after the death of the Mother the Land ſhall not deſcend to Anthony, for the Confirmation doth not increaſe the eſtate of the wife, but ſhe hath her old eſtate; And as it hath been ſaid, the ſaid Earl by his confirmation cannot add a deſcendible quality. 5. The Law is, If Tenant in Dower grant over her eſtate, yet for waſt done the Action ſhall be brought againſt Tenant in Dower, and damages ſhall be recovered againſt her, and the ſame is a deſcendible quality to the heirs of him in the Reverſion. In this caſe to ouſt and take away the Charge of Tenant in Dower, he in the Reverſion by his deed doth confirm her eſtate, to have and to hold for term of her life, and dieth; and afterwards ſhe granteth over her eſtate; And for waſt done by the aſſignee, the heir bringeth an action of waſt againſt Tenant in Dower, who pleadeth this confirmation to her to have and to hold the Land for term of her life; in this caſe, notwithſtanding this Confirmation, the action ſhall be maintainable againſt her, for the Confirmation doth not enlarge her eſtate, and therefore cannot take away this deſcendible quality to the heirs, to have an Action of waſt againſt her after her aſſignment made of her eſtate, and

ſo is the book adjudged in 38 E. 3. 23. a principal caſe: pari ratione, in the caſe at barr, for as much as the Confirmation doth not enlarge the eſtate of Elizabeth, it cannot add a deſcendible quality. 6. Every Confirmation, aut eſt perficiens, creſcens, or diminuens: perficiens, as in Mayowes Caſe in the firſt part of my Reports. If Feoffee upon condition maketh a Feoffment over, and the Feoffor confirmeth his eſtate to him and to his heirs, this is confirmatio perficiens, for it doth not make any tranſmutation of the eſtate, but doth corroborate and perfect the eſtate, and make it abſolute, where it was before conditional; and therewith agreeth 7 H. 6. 7. cited before. So if the diſſeiſee confirmeth the eſtate of the diſſeiſor, or his Feoffee, the ſame maketh the eſtate indefeſible. 2. Confirmatio creſcens, is when it enlargeth the eſtate of him to whom the Confirmation is made; As to the eſtate at Will to encreaſe for years, &c. to an eſtate for years, to increaſe for life, and to an eſtate for life, to increaſe it to an eſtate in tayl, &c. or to an eſtate in tayl, to increaſe it in fee-ſimple. But in the caſe at barr, the ſaid Confirmation was not creſcens, for it doth not enlarge the eſtate of the wife, for ſhe had as high an eſtate in point of eſtate by the firſt gift, as ſhe had by the Confirmation. 3. Diminuens, As where the Lord confirmeth the eſtate of his Tenant who held [b] by Knights ſervice, to hold in Socage, or to hold by leſſer Rent, or for Tenant in antient demeſne to hold at the Common Law, for thereby the Cuſtoms of the Mannor are diminiſhed; But upon a Confirmation to the Tenant the Lord cannot reſerve new Services; as a Hawk for Rent, or Rent for a Hawk, and the like. And the Confirmation in the caſe at barr, is neither perficiens, creſcens, nor diminuens; for the ſaid Elizabeth had as perfect and large eſtate before the Confirmation, as ſhe after had. And as to that which was Objected, That if the wife ſhould have an eſtate tayl; that ſhe hath power to levy a fine or ſuffer a Recovery, &c. To that it was anſwered, That if the wife hath not ſuch power, the reaſon is, That ſhe cannot barr that which was utterly barred before by the priority of her Husbands act: but this point was not then in Queſtion.

THE REPORTS OF Sir Edward Coke Kt, &c.

PART X.

The Caſe of Sutton's Hoſpitall.

BEtween Simon Baxter Plaintiff, and Richard Sutton and John Law Defendants, in an action of Treſpaſs, for entring a Houſe and Cloſe, 30 May, 10 Jac. [23] a Capitall Meſſuage called the Charter-houſe, in the pariſh of St. Sepulchers, in the County of Middleſex. Upon not guilty pleaded; The whole ſpecial matter was found, (which you may ſee at length, Mich. 10. Jacobi Rot. 574. in the Kings Bench.) And the ſame was adjorned out of the Court of Kings Bench by the Judges of the ſame Court, into the Exchequer Chamber; and was there argued at the Barr by John Walter, Telverton of Grayes-Inne, and by Bacon Solliciter General for the Plaintiff, and by Coventry of the Inner-Temple, Hutton Serjeant at Law, and by Hobart Attorney General for the Defendant. And the Plaintiffs Councel argued very ſtrongly in general: 1. That there was not any Incorporation created by the Kings Letters Patents, dated 22 Junii 9 Jac. Reg. 2. Admitting the Incorporation was good; yet there was not any Foundation made by Sutton according to the authority given to him. 3. That the bargain and ſale made by Sutton, bearing date 11 No. 9 Jac. was utterly void, and by conſequence all the ſaid poſſeſſions deſcendible to the Plaintiff. And in the argument of this Caſe, theſe points upon theſe grounds were moved.

1. It is Objected that by the Act of Parliament, 9 Feb. 7. Jac. Reg. mentioned in the Record, An Hoſpital was legally erected and Incorporated, at Fallingbury in the County of Eſſex; and all the ſaid Mannors given to it; and by conſequence the ſaid Corporation made after the ſaid Act by the Letters Patents, 22 Junii. 9 Jac. Reg. was utterly void. Note Reader, the ſaid Act cannot give [b] the ſaid Houſe called the Charter-houſe, for Sutton purchaſed the ſame afterwards, 9 May 9 Jac. Reg. as appeareth by the Record.

2. It was Objected that no Hoſpital was founded by Sutton, and therefore the Incorporation failed; becauſe that Sutton had the Kings Licence to Found, Erect and eſtabliſh an Hoſpital, which was an act precedent to be performed by Sutton before the Incorporation, which he hath not done; and ſo he hath not purſued his Licence; which Licence the King might have countermanded; and which was countermanded in Law by the the death of Sutton.

3. That the King by his Charter cannot name the Houſe and Inheritance of Sutton to be an Hoſpital, for that ſhould be to give a name to an Hoſpital in alieno ſolo.

4. The place of every Corporation ought to be certain, for without a certain place there cannot be any Incorporation; but here the Licence to Sutton is to found an Hoſpital at or in the Charter-houſe; ſo that he may found it in all or any part of the ſame houſe. And therefore till Sutton hath founded it certain, there is not any certain place, and by consequence no Corporation. To which was added, That a place by a known name is not sufficient to support the name of an Incorporation, but the same ought to be described by metes and bounds. And divers presidents were cited and shewed, where the Scite of Hospitals, Priories, &c. were so particularly described.

5. The King by his Letters Patents doth intend, to make a present Incorporation, and so his words do expresly import. 1. From henceforth, &c. And yet no Incorporation can be till Sutton hath named a Master. And the Letters Patents bear date 22 Junii 9 Jac. Reg. And the writing of Nomination, 30 Octob. Anno 9. And so the Letters Patents are repugnant in themselves and void.

6. Untill there be an actual Hospital and poor in it, there cannot be Governours of them, for Governours ought not to be idle, or as Cyphers in Algorisme; for Governours and Government, are Relatives, quæ sunt simul tempore, and as well in his Will as in other Instruments, he hath called it many times his intended Hospital.

7. To every Corporation a Foundation is requisite; and here is not any Foundation made by Sutton. For first he ought to have per verba præscripta & in terminis terminantibus, Founded, Erected, and established the said House of Charter-house an Hospital, &c. And the same was likened [24] to Cases of Exchange, Frankalmoigne, Dedi, Warrantizo, Frankmarriage, which are verba legalia & incompatibilia, &c. And divers presidents were shewed to the Justices of building of Hospitals, Schools, &c. wherein the said words of Fundo, erigo, &c. were used. Secondly, before such lawful foundation made by Sutton, a Stranger could not have given any land or other thing to the Governours. Thirdly, without such Foundation, in time to come it shall not be known who should be the Founder; whereupon confusion would follow.

8. The nomination of the Master by Sutton is void for two causes; one, that he was named to be Master but at will, where he ought to be named for life, in as much as he is to have a Free-hold in the Land. Also there ought at least an actual Hospital be founded by Sutton according to the Licence, before he could nominate the Master of it; For otherwise it shall be a Mathematical or Utopical Hospital.

9. The said bargain and sale made by Sutton to the Governours was void for three causes. 1. That the monies which was the consideration thereof, were paid by the private persons of the Governours, and therefore the bargain and sale of the Mannors, &c. cannot enure to them in their politick capacity. 2. The Habendum is to the Governours upon trust and confidence; and a body Politick aggregate of many cannot stand seised in trust or confidence to the use of another. 3. Because that no Hospital was founded by Sutton according to his Licence; And for all the other Objections made against the Foundation and Incorporation, the said bargain and sale was void, and by consequence all the said Mannors descended to the Plaintiff as Cousin and heir to Sutton.

10. That no Hospital was Incorporated by the said Letters Patents and therefore it was objected, That the King cannot Incorporate them by the name of Governours, &c. of the Hospital, but of an Hospital in Law, or a Legal Hospital, as it was called; For the Governours cannot plead, that they are seised in jure Hospitalis sui, because in Law there was not any Hospital.

Which brief Report I have made of these Objections, because I think them, or the greater part of them were not worthy to be moved at the Bar, nor remembred at the Bench. And that this Case was by the Justices adjourned into the Exchequer Chamber, more for the weight of the value, then for the difficulty of the Law in this Case. And the entire Record, as appeareth by the Exceptions, ought to be the Case; the which was argued openly in the Exchequer Chamber by all the Judges of England, and Barons of the Exchequer, (except the Chief Justice of the Kings Bench, who was then sick.) Sir Robert Houghton, Sir Augustine Nicholls, Sir John Dodderidge, Sir Humfrey Winch, Sir Ed. Bromly, Sir John Croke, Sir James Altham, Sir George Snigge, Sir Peter Warburton, Sir Lawrence Tanfield Chief Baron, and Sir Ed. Coke Chief Justice of the Common Pleas. And it was Resolved by them all in their arguments (except by Baron Snigge and Justice Croke) that judgment should be given against the Plaintiff Et quia rectum est judex sui & obliqui; A right line maketh discovery not onely of that which is right, but of that which is wrong and crooked; and the confirmation of right and truth, is the confutation of error and falshood. I will report the effect of the reasons and causes which affirm and confirm the Resolutions of the Judges, which are of so great authority, perspicuity and gravity, that the Objections need not have any particular answer. And yet for the satisfaction of all men, every one of them shall be particularly answered. And because that this Case doth chiefly depend upon the Letters Patents; And the best Exposition of the Kings Charter is upon the consideration of the whole Charter, to expound the Charter by the Charter it self, verba cartæ regiæ æquè portant suam expositionem; and the Kings Letters Patents in this case are viscera causæ, & expositio quæ ex visceribus causæ nascitur est aptissima & fortissima in lege. All the parts of the Letters Patents were considered, and every material part thereof explained according to the true natural sense, which is the best method, upon the consideration of many others, for the more clear Report of this Case.

The first part of the said Charter doth contain a short recital of two things, 1. of the title of the Act of 9 Feb. Anno 9. An Act to confirm and enable the erection and establishment of an Hospital and Free Grammar School, given and intended to be given by Thomas Sutton, Esquire; which title proveth that no Hospital was founded by the Act it self; but the scope of the Act was to enable Sutton to erect and establish an Hospital, &c. and therefore the title saith, intended to be given and performed by Thomas Sutton, Esquire. And the same also appeareth by divers parts of the body [25] of the Act, which are in future and nothing in the present. 1. Be it enacted, That in the Town of Halingbury, &c. there may be builded one meet house for abiding of poor people and Scholars, lars, &c. which are words in future, and it is not certain in what part of the Town the House shall be built. 2. And that the same shall and may be called and named the Hospital of King James; which words are also in the future. 3. And that the Lord Arch-Bishop of Canterbury, &c. shall and may be Governour, &c. 4. And that the same Governours, &c. shall for ever hereafter stand and be incorporated: which words ought to be intended to take effect after the erection of the Hospital, &c. in a certain place, &c. And so the construction is in futuro, which well appeareth with the future words following, and may have perpetual succession. 5. And may for ever hereafter, have, hold, and enjoy, Lordships, Mannor, &c. without Licence of Alienation, or Licence of Mortmain; By which it appeareth that this clause is not in effect, but a Licence to give Mannors, Lands, &c. holden in Capite without other Lincence of Alienation, and also without other Licence of Mortmain. But this clause was superfluous and impertinent if the Land should pass by the Act it self, for then no Licence in this case were requisite. And without question if it were admitted that there was a Corporation, yet no Lands are given to them by those words, de futuro. Also although the said Lands were given them, yet the King by his Letters Patents cannot create and incorporate an Hospital in the Charter-house, which was purchased after the Act, and the Action of Trespass in the case at Bar is for Trespas done in the Charter-house. But it was answered by all the Justices and Barons of the Exchequer (except Justice Croke) that the Act of 9 Jac. doth not Incorporate the Governours, &c. but in futuro, which never took nor could now take effect; and by consequence no Land was or could be given to it. The 2. branch of recital is of the purchase of the Charter-house after the Act, which as it is there rehearsed, is more fit and commodious then Halingbury to be converted into an Hospital.

In the second part Sutton is a suitor and petitioner to the King for four things, 1. To give Licence to Found, Erect, and establish an Hospital house, &c. and Free Grammar-School, &c. at or in the Charter-house, wherein hath been observed the incertainty of the suite, at or in the Charter-house: but of that after. 2. Incorporate the Governours hereafter named; so that Sutton himself doth name the Governours which the King doth Incorporate. 3. By such name of Incorporation as is hereafter mentioned to have capacity and ability, &c. by which also it appeareth that Sutton doth devise and prescribe the name of the Incorporation; and by all these three clauses it appeareth, That the suit of Sutton and his expresse consent was, that the Governours should be named of the said House called the Charter house. 4. Sutton was suitor, that the Governours, &c. might take in Mortmain for the better maintenance of the said Hospital, Free-School, Preacher, &c. [b]

The third part of the Letters Patents containeth Grants and Acts made by the King in two manners, sc. by way of Licence and by way of Grant; of the Licences some are requisite, some abundant and not requisite; and some requisite for the sustentation of the poor, &c. and not of the essence of the Corporation; and of the Grants, some are in præsenti, and some in futuro, and every of these, some are of necessity, and some explanatory and not of necessity; and those which are of necessity, some are of necessity to the creation of this body politick, and some to the continuance and preservation of it. And into those branches the whole Letters Patents are devided, which shall be observed as they arise and have place in the same Letters Patents. But before all the Licences and Grants, the King doth prefix a preamble, sc. The King affecting so good a work, of his Princely disposition and care for the furtherance thereof, and that the same may take the better effect, &c. (wherein appeareth the Honour, Charity, and pious disposition of the King) giveth Licence to Thomas Sutton, his Heirs, Executors, Administrators and Assignes, at all times hereafter at their will and pleasure, to place, erect, found and establish at or in the said House called the Charter house, one Hospital house and place of abiding for the finding, sustentation, and relief of poor, aged, maimed, needy, or impotent people, &c. Also to erect, found, &c. one Free-School for the instruction, teaching and maintenance of poor Children or Schollars, &c. And to place and maintain a learned School-master and Usher to teach and instruct the said Children in Grammar. And also one Godly and learned Preacher, to Preach and teach the Word of God to all the said persons, poor people and children, members and officers at or in the said House. That in the first place doth contain the end of Sutton's piety and charity: For Sapiens incipit à fine, & quod primum est in intentione, ultimum est in executione. And that was a grand motive to the King of his Royal authority to give him means, sc. by Creation of a capable body Politick by way of Incorporation, to have perpetual succession, to perfect and perpetuate so pious and charitable a work. And that the Incorporation ought to precede the execution of this Licence, is evident by the words and coherence of the Letters Patents, sc. For this Licence is in futuro, sc. To Thomas Sutton his Heirs, Executors, Administrators and Assigns, at all times hereafter at their will and pleasure, &c. so that is future as well in persons, Heirs, Executors, &c. as in the thing to be done. But when he cometh to the clause of Incorporation, he doth it by words of the present tense. And the said persons and their Successors by the name, &c. We do by these presents for ever hereafter really and fully Incorporate, &c. By which it followeth, that the Incorporation being present, and the execution of this part of the Licence future, the Incorporation ought of necessity precede the execution of the Licence. Then forasmuch as the principal foundation of the scruple was conceived upon these words, to found, erect, and establish; the true Etymology and genuine sense of them was considered; and ex vi termini fundare, nihil aliud est quam fundamentum jacere seu ponere, &c. to lay the foundation of a building; and in this sense the Holy Ghost (which moved Sutton to this work of piety) in the Scripture taketh it. And therefore in the 1 King. Chap. 6. verse 37. Fundata est domus anno primo, & Anno 11 perfecta fuit domus in omni opere suo. And 1 King. Chap. 16. verse 34. Edificavit in diebus illis Hiel de Bethel Jerico in Abiram primitivo suo fundavit, & in Segub novissimo suo posui portas. By which it appeareth, that to found is to lay the foundation of a building, which is [26]

the first mechanical part of Archietecture. Then when the foundation is laid, then cometh the erection of the House, as it is said by the son of Sirach 49. 15. Erexit nobis muros & erexit domus nostras. And although that the Foundation be well laid, and thereupon a building be erected, yet it ought to be well joined and established, and therefore this word (establish) is added to make the building to have continuance. 2 Kings 13. Stabiliam thronum ejus; That is, I will make his throne to have perdurance and continuance. So that to Found, Erect, and establish are works of labour, and the labours of builders. And that appeareth by the words of the Charter it self, sc. The King affecting so good a work, tam bonum opus: Also the subsequent words prove it also; to found, and erect and establish, what? an Hospital house. So that it clearly appeareth, that the effect of this Licence is to make fit and to finish and furnish an Hospital house for the habitation of the poor, &c. See after, Mich. 34 and 35 Eliz. the Case of the Hospital of Bridewell for the exposition of these words, fundo, erigo, & stabilio, which is a stronger case then this is, And this word (place) in the first place is
[b] to be intended, as it hath been said, in the last place, sc. To place poor in it, to erect a Free-School for instruction of youth, and for the maintenance of a Preacher. But how shall this holy and charitable intention (that the same may remain for ever) be produced to end and effect? The Charter it self sheweth it in effect in this manner: It is impossible to take in succession for ever without capacity; and a capacity to take in succession cannot be without incorporation; and the incorporation cannot be created without the King; for this cause the Charter saith, And for the maintenance and continuance of the said Hospital, &c. And that the same may take the better effect, That the said persons, &c. be one body Corporate and Politick to have perpetual succession to endure for ever. We do by these presents for ever hereafter fully and really incorporate, &c. to have capacity and ability to take, &c. Without this capacity the end cannot take effect, for inhabitants of a Town or other single persons (who have not capacity to take in succession but onely to their singular heirs) have capacity to take an incorporation, and after their incorporation they have capacity to take in possession any lands, tenements, or heriditaments: whence it follows, that the incorporation which giveth capacity ought to precede the giving of any land, &c. Another Licence is given to this new Incorporation to take in Mortmain. This Licence is not of necessity, either of the essence of the incorporation or of the continuance of it; but yet it is requisite for the establishing and maintenance of the end, scil. to have the poor sustained, and schollars instructed, &c. For they cannot be maintained without a Revenue, and they cannot take or keep the Revenue (as hath been said) without a Licence in Mortmain; and therefore these two, sc. Incorporation and Licence in Mortmain ought to precede the donation. For words to Found, Erect and establish an Hospital house cannot be extended to the Incorporation, for that belongeth onely to the King, and that the King doth; Nor to any dotation, for as yet (as hath been said) there is not any capacity. Therefore it extendeth onely to the building and finishing of the said house to be a fit habitation for poor, &c. Sutton thinking and rethinking, that as well the incorporation as the Licence in Mort main were in their several degrees requisite to bring his good and charitable purpose to effect, to the end the King should grant that which was onely in his power to grant, and which himself without the King could not do;
[27] he was a suitor to the King to grant him Licence to do that which of himself in respect of the ownership of land he might do without the King. scil. To build, finish, and furnish the said house for the habitation of poor, as well before the Incorporation as after: But to give it possession, &c. as hath been said he could not, and therefore this Licence was but explanatory to declare what Sutton as owner of the Land might do, either with the Kings Licence or without the King; and therefore the King cannot countermand this Licence, becaufe it is but declaratory of that which Sutton might do as owner of the Land without any Licence. And this appeareth by the book in 3 H. 7. Fitzh. Grant 36 the Record whereof I have seen, Between John Buckland Vintener Plaintiff, in an action of Trespass, and Richard Fowcher Chaplain Defendant. Termino Sancti Mich. 2 H. 7. Rott. 155. in the Kings Bench, and in the report at large, 2 H. 7. 13. where the case in effect is, That King H. 4. by his Letters Patents Anno 6. regni sui, Reciting that Robert Ramsey was seised in Fee of an house in the parish of St. Margaret in London, called the Sun, &c. notwithstanding the Statute of Mortmain of his especial grace, and for 20 l. gave Licence to R. Ramsey, that he might give 20 marks rent, going out of the said House, cuidam capellano divina ad altare beatæ Mariæ in Ecclesia Sancti Magni London singulis diebus pro salubri statu præd. Rob. & Johan. uxor. suæ, &c. Habend. & tenend. eidem capellano & successoribus suis cappellanis Cantariæ præd. divina in Ecclesia præd. ad altare præd. pro salubri statu, &c. juxta ordinatione præd. Rob. in hac parte faciend. celebrat. imperpet, &c. And afterwards that the said Robert Ramsey by his deed indented, 10 Junii 1407. Founded, Ordained and erected the said Chauntry, and ordained and named one John Medowe to be the first Chaplain to do the said Divine services; And further by the said deed granted to the said John Medowe the first Chaplain 10 marks of yearly Rent issuing out of the said house, To have and to hold to him and his Successors Chaplains of the said Chauntry at four usual Feasts in London to be paid, with clause of distress to him and his Successors; And further appointed by the same deed, That he himself should present the said Chauntry during his life; and after his decease, that Johanne his wife should present to the same during her life, and after her decease, that the Parson and Churchwardens of the said Church of St. Magnus, and their Successors; And afterwards the said John Meadowe died, and after divers vacations the said Richard Fowcher was presented to the said Chauntry, and for the said Rent behind he entred into the said house the door being open, and took a Cup of the Plaintiffs for a distress, &c. for which taking the action was brought, upon which matters the parties have demurred in Law: And this Case was adjourned into the Exchequer Chamber, and there before all the Judges of England divers Objections were made against this Licence and Grant. 1. That they were cuidam capellano, and named none in certain; and when the Kings Grant is uncertain it is void;

as if the King licence one to give 20 marks Rent cuidam Abbati, the Grant is void, because it is in- [b]
certain. 2. There is not such Chaplain till Robert Ramsey hath named or ordained one, so that it appeareth that the Grant should be to such a one who is not in rerum natura; as if the King gave Licence to grant to the Major and Commonalty of Islington, although the Inhabitants of Islington be afterwards incorporated by the name of Major and Commonalty, the Grant is void, because there was no such Corporation at the time of the Grant. 3. It was objected that in that case the King hath not made any Incorporation, and Incorporation is a thing to be done onely by the King himself; and these words juxta ordinationem Rob. Ramsey fiendam, shall not enable the said Ramsey to make an Incorporation, for the King cannot give Licence to one to make an Incorporation, but the said words shall give him power to make ordinances, first touching Masses, and other Divine Services, 2. of what manner of habit he shall be, 3. to have perpetual succession, scil. elective, presentative, or donative, and that is the effect of the said words, and not to make a Corporation; and the Kings Grant shall not be taken by implication; scil. by the words to make an Incorporation, and also to give Licence to grant the said Rent, for then the Kings Grant shall enure to two intents. 4. Admitting that there shall be an Incorporation by implication; yet the Incorporation ought to be before the Licence, and here the Licence is before the Incorporation, and therefore it is void. 5. The Grant ought to have been that the King gave Licence facere & erigere Cantariam, &c. and there were not any such words in the Charter; but onely Licence to grant a Rent, &c. cuidam Capellano, &c. 6. The Licence is secundum ordinationem per R. Ramsey fiendam; and therefore the King is deceived, because he cannot have knowledge what ordinance it shall be. 7. It was objected, that the distress was without warrant, and void, because the Licence did extend to grant a Rent onely without mentioning of any distress. Which objections I have gathered out of the book Reported at length, 2 H. 7. 13. and the Reports of Fitz in 3 H. 7. Grant. 36. and out of the Record it self.

As to the first and second Objections, it was Resolved, That the Grant was good, for all the Grants of Chantrys are of such form, scil. cuidam Capellano, and although there be not such Chaplain at the time is not to the purpose; For if the King granteth to the Commonalty of Islington that they shall be Incorporated of a Major and Bayliffs, and that they have power to choose one, it is good although the Election of the Major is future. So Note Reader, a difference betwixt an estate or interest which none can take without present capacity, and a power, liberty or Franchise, or thing newly created, which may take effect in futuro. As to the 3. it was Resolved, That whereas the King by his Charter saith cuidam Capellano, it was a sufficient Incorporation; and when he saith in the [28]
Habendum sibi & successoribus suis, the same maketh a sufficient succession. And so Note Reader, that this Grant of the King doth enure to three intents, scil. to make an Incorporation; to make a Succession, and to grant a Rent. As to the 4. it was Resolved, That where the Licence to found the Chauntry shall be first, and to grant after, that needeth not, for it is not marerial which is before, for the Law shall construe that first to take effect which ought, but here they are simul & semel. As to the 5. That in the Licence there were not words of fundare, erigere, facere; It was Resolved, That notwithstanding the Grant was good. Note Reader from this, That to the Essence of a Chauntry, or other body politick two things are onely requisite; sc. an Incorporation, and a gift, and not any words of fundare, erigere, & stabilire, or words to such effect; for no such words were contained in the grant of H. 4. and yet it was adjudged a good Chauntry lawfully incorporated and founded. And if such words had been requisite and necessary in Law, the judgment ought to have been given against the Chauntry, because they were left out in the Kings grant. And thereby it appeareth, that in the Case at bar that they were explanatory and of abundance; which is a judgment in Law in the point by the resolution of all the Justices in the Exchequer Chamber. As to the sixth point, it was resolved that the words, secundum ordinationem per R. Ramsey fiendam, import sufficient certainty, sc. to make Ramsey to ordain, 1. what Masses and other divine services shall be celebrated, 2. of what habit or order the Chaplain shall be, and 3. whether he shall be elective, presentative, or donative. And by force of these words Ramsey in the Case did ordain the same to be presentative by the Rector of the parish of St. Magnus for ever. As to the 7. objection, It appeareth by the Report of Fitzherbert ubi supra, that the opinion of the two chief Justices Hussey and Brian, and Starkey chief Baron, and Fairfax Justice, was, That the distress was without warrant, but Townsend conceived it to be good. But inspecto recordo, it was adjudged that the distress was good and well warranted by the grant. For the Chauntry Priest did distrain in the said house for the Rent, and his distress was adjudged lawfull, and the Plaintiff barred. And the reasons, as I conceive, were, because that the Kings Charters made for the erection of pious and charitable works shall be alwayes taken in the most favourable and beneficial sense; and the most beneficial rent that a man can grant is a rent charge. 2. The distress is a necessary incident to the Rent, for without that the Grantee shall be without remedy: Verba sunt accipienda cum effectu, and words are to be taken with the effect. 2 Edw. 3. 3. Which case I have cited at large because it is [b] notable and pertinent, and stronger (as I conceive) then the case in question. Secondly, power is given to Sutton to place a Master of the said Hospital. 3. At all times hereafter to place, erect, found and establish in the said house, &c. one Free-school for instructing youth, &c. (which well expoundeth the precedent words concerning the Hospital, for these words extend onely to make fit and to finish and furnish a Grammar-school within the said Charter-house) and a Preacher to teach all in the word of God. 4. We do by these presents ordain, constitute, limit and appoint, That the said House and other the premisses shall from henceforth be ever hereafter named, incorporated and called the Hospital of King James, founded in the Charter-house within the County of Middlesex, at the humble petition and at the onely cost and charges of Thomas Sutton, Esquire. And the same Hospital and Free school by name of the Hospital of King James, &c. We do firmly by these presents erect, found, establish and confirm, to have continuance for ever. By this clause the King in præsenti giveth the name of the Hospital, but as it appeareth before, Sutton had devised it, and hath sued to the King to name it accordingly; and that name of the incorporation it self, sc. At the humble suit of Thomas Sutton, doth import, so that as it is said in 38 E. 3. 44. and 21 E. 4. The name of incorporation is as a proper name or name of baptisme: In this case Sutton as God-father giveth the name, and by the same name the King doth baptize the incorporation: By which it appeareth, that the objection, That the King cannot give a name to an house which is the Inheritance of another, is not of any value, and here Sutton hath consented and assented to it, and all the same is done at his humble suit. And this objection doth tend to the dissolution of all ancient Deans and Chapters: For at the first, as it appeareth in the 3. part of my Reports in the case of the Dean and Chapter of Norwich: All the possessions were to the Bishop, and yet by his assent the Dean and Chapter were incorporate and named of the Cathedral Church, which did then belong to the Bishop onely; and afterwards a certain portion was assigned to the Chapter; So that the Chapter was before that they had any possessions; And that is the cause that of common right, the Bishop is Patron of the Prebends, because that their possessions were derived from the Bishop, and therefore he [29] was their Patron and Founder: And therewith agreeth 17 E. 3. 40. 25 Ass. pl. 8. 10 E. 3. 10. 50 E. 3. 26. 15 H. 7. 11. So that at the first the Dean and Chapter were by the assent of the Bishop incorporated and named of the Church Cathedral of the Bishop. And it was said, that questions moved in the Exchequer used to be like to spirits which may be raised with much ease, but suppressed and vanquished with much difficulty; but these questions were like to ruinous buildings, more easily thrown down then raised and set up. And all the arguments which have been made against this honourable work of Charity, are hatched out of meer conceit and invention without any ground of Law. And such which have any colour were utterly mistaken. And as to the fourth Exception, That the place of every corporation ought to be certain; and Sutton sueth, and the King licenseth Sutton to found, erect, &c. an Hospital at or in the Charter-house, which was incertain; To that the Charter expresly answereth, That the King by this clause doth ordain, &c. That the said House and other premisses shall from henceforth for ever hereafter be, remain, &c. and shall ever hereafter be named and called the Hospital of King James, founded in the Charter-house: So that all the house and premisses are baptized by the King by the name of the Hospital, &c. in which is no shadow of incertainty, and therefore Sutton as to the Licence for the mechanical part which (as hath been said) was abundant, to get and finish all or any part of the house for an Hospital, &c. yet all the house it self, Orchards and Gardens, &c. are named by the name of Hospital. And it was observed, That the King by this clause not onely nameth the said house to be an Hospital; but by the name of the Hospital to be erected, founded, and established and confirmed; so that the King nameth it, and leaveth the mechanical part to Sutton to perform. And of the same importance is the other Objection, That a known name is not sufficient to found an Hospital, but it ought to be described by metes and bounds, sc. as in divers presidents hath been used; for it appeareth in Will'm de Londres case, 2 E. 3. 36. Adam brought a Scire facias against Will'm de Londres of the Mannor of E. the Defendant pleaded that he himself is Master of the Hospital of St. Bartholomew, and so beareth the name of dignity not named, judgment of the Writ: To which the Plaintiff replied, That which the Defendant calleth an Hospital is the Mannor of East-Smithfield, and was a Mannor at the time of the fine levied: And it was holden by the Court, That by this Writ he ought to have the Mannor, as the Mannor was at the time of the fine levied: And whereas the Mannor was made an Hospital after the time, by this suit he is to defeat your estate and your name, and accordingly it was ruled that the Writ was good. Which proveth that a Mannor (which carrieth more incertainty and variety then an house known by a certain name) may be created into an Hospital. And in 15 Ass. pl. 8. John de Derbi's [b] Case, a Mannor was the corps of a Prebend. The 5. Clause stands upon two Branches, 1. for the better maintenance and continuance of the said Hospital, &c. and that the same may take the better effect, and that the Revenues may be the better governed and imployed, there shall be sixteen Governours, and names fifteen of them by expres name, and such person as from time to time shall be Master, to be the first and present Governours. 2. And the said persons and their successors, by the name of Governours of the Land, &c. one body incorporate and politick, by that name to have perpetual succession for ever to endure, We do by these presents for ever hereafter really and fully incorporate; and the words of this clause are verba operativa. And it is to know, That every Corporation or Incorporation, or body Politick and Incorporate, who are all one, either stand upon one sole person, as the King, Bishop, Parson, &c. or aggregate of many, as Major and Commonalty, Dean and Chapter, and these in the Civil Law are called Universitas sive Collegium. Now it is to see what things are of the essence of a Corporation. 1. Lawfull authority of Incorporation; and that may be by four means, sc. by the Common Law, as the King himself, &c. by authority of Parliament; by the Kings Charter (as in this case) and by prescription. The 2. which is of the essence of the Incorporation, are persons to be incorporated, and that in two manners, sc. persons natural, or bodies incorporate and political. 3. A name by which they are Incorporated; as in this case Governours of the Lands, &c. 4. Of a place, for without a place no Incorporation can be made; and here the place is the Charter-house in the County of Middlesex. Vide 3 H. 6. Dett. 20. 17 E. 3. 59. & 45 E. 3. 27. 5. By words sufficient in Law, but not restrained to any certain, legall, and prescript form of words. And for as much as good pleading is lapis Lydius, the touch-stone of the true sense and knowledge of the Common law; the form of pleading of an Incorporation by prescription is to be observed, for in such case he ought to prescribe in every thing which is of the essence of the Incorporation. In the Book of Entries. Quare impedit 1. the pleading is, Quoddam Hospitale Sanctæ Mariæ de Bristow de uno Magistro & Conventu à toto tempore, &c. incorporat. fuerunt per nomen Magistri gistri & Conventus Hospitalis Sanctæ Mariæ de Bristow: and there it appeareth that they purchased Lands and Tenements, and were impleaded without any prescription for the one or the other, because they are incorporated by prescription by a certain name; then to implead and be impleaded to grant and purchase are incidents to a body incorporate. M. 15. H. 7. rott. 522. in the Common Pleas, there the prescription is Custos & vicarii Collegii vicariorum in choro Hereford sunt & à toto tempore, &c. fuerunt incorporat. per nomen Custodis & Vicar. Collegii Vicariorum in choro Hereford: and there also they purchased and were impleaded as incidents to the incorporation. Lib. Dent. Ass. 68. Magister, fratres, & sorores fraternitatis sive guildæ novem ordinum sanctorum Angelorum juxta Brainford brought an Assise, the tenant pleads, quod villa de Brainford est quædam fraternitas incorporata infra tempus memoriæ de Magistro, fratribus & sororibus novem ordinum Angelorum juxta Brainford Bridge, absq; hoc quod habetur aliqua talis fraternitas: which is reported in 22 E. 4. 34. where the tenant at the first pleaded, No such incorporation, and if it be not found, and naught because two barrs, and then he pleaded the said plea, quod est quædam fraternitas incorporata, &c. and yet there they were infeoffed by Bocking upon condition, and capable thereof as incident to a Corporation. And therewith agreeth the Bishop of Exeter's Case in the book of Entries, 445. 2 H. 7. 17. the Corporation of Godmanchester 34 H. 6. 27. in the Case of the Hospital of Wycome.v. 26 H. 8. 1. In 9 E. 4. 20. The Master of the Hospital of Burton S. Lazar prescribed, quod ipse & omnes predecessores sui magistri Hospitalis prædict. à toto tempore, &c. nominati & cogniti fuerunt, &c. tam per nomen magistri Hospitalis Sancti Lazari de Burton, de ordine Sancti Lazari de Jerusalem in Anglia, quam per nomen Magistri de Burton Sancti Lazari Jerusalem in Anglia: By which it appeareth that this word incorporo, or any of the derivation thereof is not in Law requisite to create an incorporation, but other equivalent words are sufficient, as nominati & cogniti: and therewith agreeth 44 Ass. p. 9. in the Prior of Plimpton's Case, and 4 E. 4. 7. in the case of the Abbot of Glastenbury, and in none of these Books or Records was any mention made of these words, fundo, erigo, &c. or any other like words; for as it hath been said, they are onely declaratory words, and the effect of them may be done by the owner of the land without any grant. And it was well observed, that in old time the Inhabitants or Burgesses of a Town or Borough were incorporated when the King granted to them to have Gildam Mercatoriam in the Register 219. where the Writ doth recite, quod cum inter cæteras libertates civibus civitatis Winton per cartas progenitorum nostrorum quondum regum Angliæ quas per cartam nostram confirmavimus, concessum sit eisdem, quod nullus eorum qui fuerunt infra Gildam Mercatoriam placitet extra murum, &c. where Gildam doth signifie contubernium seu fraternitas incorporata. And upon that the place of their meeting and assemblies was called the Guild-hall. And I have seen the Charter made by King H. 1. Textoribus Lond. by which he granteth to them that they shall have Gildam Mercatoriam, and a confirmation made by King H. 2. by which Charters they were incorporated. And where the opinion of Fineux in 13 H. 8. 3. b. and of Prisot in 39 H. 6. 13. was cited at barr, that a Corporation aggregate of many cannot be a body without a Head; the same was utterly denied: For at the first most part of the Corporations were a body without a Head by force of these words Gilda Mercatoria. And that a Corporation aggregate of many may be without a head, See 18 E. 2. Annuity 48. 5 E. 3. 11. 22 Ass. 67. 29 Ass. 17. 2 H. 6. 9. 18 H. 6. 16. 19 H. 6. 80. 21 E. 4. 55. 56. 7 E. 4. 14. 2 Mariæ Dyer 100. And it appeareth by Record that Paulinus the first Archbishop of York, after he had baptised the inhabitants of Notingham shire in the River of Trent, founded a Collegiate Church in Southwel of Prebendaries, consecrated to the Virgin Mary, which continueth a body without a head even to this day. See for this word Guild or Fraternity in the book of Entries, 68. 37 E. 3. c. 5. 15 H. 2. c. 5. the Statute of 1 E. 6. of Chauntries. In which three things were observed, 1. how prudent Antiquity did alwayes comprehend much matter in a narrow room: 2. that to the creation of an Incorporation the Law had not restrained it self to any prescript and incompatible words: 3. that when a Corporation is duely created, all other incidents are tacite annexed to it. And for direct Authority in this point in 22 E. 4. Graunts 30. it is holden by Brian chief Justice and Choke, That a Corporation is sufficient without words, to implead, or be impleaded, &c. and therefore divers clauses subsequent in the Charter are not of necessity but onely declaratory, and might well have been left out; as 1. by the same to have authority, ability, and capacity to purchase, &c. but no clause is added that they may alien, &c. and it needeth not, for it is incident: 2. To sue and be sued, implead and be impleaded, 3. To have a Seal, &c. that is also declaratory, for when they are incorporated they may make or use what seal they will: 4. to restrain them to alien or demise but in certain form; that is an Ordinance testifying the Kings desire, but it is but a precept which doth not bind in Law; 5. the survivors shall be the Corporation, that is a good clause to oust all doubts and questions which might arise, the number being certain: 6. If the Revenues encrease, the same shall be imployed to encrease the number of the poor, &c. that is but explanatory as appeareth by the Case of Thetford School in the 8 part of my Reports: 7. To be visited by the Governours, &c. the same is also explanatory; For in this case the poor which shall be resident in the house of the Charter-house shall not be incorporated, but certain in whom the possessions are vested, who shall not be resident there but onely to have the generall government and ordering of the poor therein; so that this Case is out of the Statute of 2 H. 5. cap. 1. and 14 Eliz. cap. 5. for if no visitor had been appointed by the Charter, the Governours should visit; and the books in 8. E. 3. 28. and 8 Ass. 29. do not gainsay it, where it is holden, That if the Hospital be Lay, the Patron shall visit, and if Spirituall, the Bishop shall visit, so that every Hospital is visitable; it is true, but in the Case at the barr the poor of the Hospital are not incorporated, and so no legal Hospital: 8. To make Ordinances; the same is requisite for the well ordering and governing of the poor, &c. but not of the essence of the incorporation: 9. The exemption from the Ordinary is but declaratory, for being a Lay-incorporation he neither can nor ought to visit. 10. The licence to purchase in Mortmain is neceſſary for the maintenance and and ſuſtentation of the poor; for without Revenues they cannot live, and without a licence in Mortmain they cannot lawfully purchaſe Revenues, and yet it is not of the eſſence of the Corporation, for the corporation is perfect without the ſame; ſo that by that which hath been ſaid, it appeareth what things in genere are requiſite to a compleat body incorporate, and which are verba operativa in this caſe (which are neceſſary to be known in every caſe) for the reſolution of which, it appeareth how neceſſary it is, that the Law and Experience joyn in hands together.

1. As to the fifth Objection, That no Incorporation was preſently made as the Letters Patents import, nor can be till the Maſter was named, and therefore the Charter is repugnant and void. To that it was anſwered, That this Objection doth extend to the overthrowing of a great number of Incorporations; for when a Corporation is created by Letters Patents, by the ſame Patent power is given to them to chooſe a Maſter, Aldermen, or Bailiffs, or Governours, or the like, and yet they are preſently incorporated by the ſame Letters Patents; and therewith expreſly agreeth Plo.Com. 592. 21 E. 4. 59. & 3 H. 7. Grant. 36. vouched at large before to the firſt and ſecond Objections. Vide 32 E. 3. Aid 39. 13 E. 4. 8. 16 E. 3. Grant 65. And it is true, it is preſently by the Letter Patents a Corporation in abſtracto, but not in Concreto, till the naming of the Maſter. And a Caſe adjudged in the Kings Bench Mich. 34. & 35. El. rott. 172. coram reg. was ſtrongly urged: the [b] Governours of the poſſeſſions, revenues, and goods, Hoſpitalis Ed. regis Angliæ ſexti brought a bill of debt againſt Elias Germain. The Defendant pleaded, That King Ed. 6. reciting the care of the city of London for the relief of poor people and infants conceſſit Majori, Civibus & Comunitati London, Domum manſionalem vocat' Bridewell, &c. and the King declareth his intent, that Bridewell ſhall be founded, &c. an Hoſpital for the ſaid poor, &c. idem Rex ut intentio ſua meliorem capiat effectum, and to the end the Lands which ſhall be granted to them ſhall be the better governed, per eaſdem literas patentes voluit & ordinavit quod Hoſpitale præd', cum ſic fundat. erect. &, ſtabilit. fuer'. Hoſpital E. 6. regis Angliæ Chriſti Bridewell, & S. Tho. Apoſt. nominetur & appelletur imperpetuum, & quod Major Civitas & cives civitatis præd. forent unum corpus corporatum per nomen gubernat. poſſeſſ. reventionum & bonorum Hoſpitalis Ed. regis Angliæ Chriſti Bridewell & S. Tho. Apoſt, &c. and further pleaded, quod nullum tale Hoſpital. quale in iiſdem Lit. Pat. mentionat. poſt confect. præd. literarum pat. ſic fundat. erect. & ſtabilit. fuit, &c. Upon which the Plaintiff did demurr in law; and upon argument at the barr and bench it was adjudged for the Plaintiff. For the ſaid Ordinance, that the ſaid Houſe ſhall be an Hoſpital cum ſic fundat. &c. fuer. is intended onely of the mechanicall part of an actuall Hoſpital, ſc. of the fitting and finiſhing of the Hoſpital houſe with poor, &c. And this Hoſpital in intention onely is ſufficient to ſupport the name of a Corporation, and the words de præſenti, ſc. quod idem gubernatores de cætero eſſent & forent unum corpus per nomen, &c. in law doth incorporate them preſently, and ſhall not ſtay till there be an actual Hoſpital, or till the houſe be fitted or furniſhed, which is the mechanical part of the Hoſpital, ſc. for the habitation of the poor; which is the firſt thing to be obſerved by the ſaid judgment, Vide 32 E. 3. Aid 39 King E. 3. newly founded a Priory and granted to the Monks that they might chuſe a Prior, and before that the Prior was choſen W. made a leaſe to one A. for life, the remainder to the Prior and Covent; and in a ſcire facias againſt A. he pleaded, that W. was ſeiſed in Fee, and leaſed to A. the remainder to the Prior and Covent who were newly founded by the King; and becauſe there was not yet a Prior, the right was in the King untill, and prayed aid of the King, and the aid by award was granted, and a Writ of Procedendo came, and then A. the Defendant ſhewed, That after the aid granted there was a Prior made and ordained in whom the right remained, and prayed in aid of the Prior; and he was ouſted of the aid becauſe he had aid before, which proveth that the remainder in ſuch is good. The ſecond thing to be obſerved in the ſaid Judgment in the ſaid caſe of the Hoſptal of Bridewell, is, That one corporation may be made out of another corporation, ſc. the Major, Citizens, and Commonalty of London, are created in their politick capacity Governours, &c. of the ſaid Hoſpital of Bridewell, 9 E. 3. 18. many corporations may be created one out of another, as the Dean and Chapter of Lincoln are a joint corporation, the Dean by himſelf is incorporated, and every of the Prebends is incorporate by himſelf, and in a Caſe which is ſo manifeſt this ſhall ſuffice.

[32] And as to the ſixth Objection, That till an Hoſpital be founded that no Incorporation can be, for then there ſhall be idle and mathematicall Governours. It was anſwered, That there was an Hoſpital in poteſtate, and an Hoſpital in exec'; alſo an Hoſpital in potentia, and an Hoſpital actu. An Hoſpital re, and an Hoſpital nomine. And as to the creation of an Incorporation, an Hoſpital poteſtate, potentia, ſeu nomine ſufficeth; as one may be by Letters Patents Governour of an Army before there be an army. Vide 17 H. 6. Protection 56. And the ſame agreeth with Philoſophy and reaſon. Ariſtotle lib. 3. de generatione ſaith, quod caro gignit carnem; and that is true in poteſtate and not actu; and ſo any fowl ſo ſoon as it is hatcht is volatilis à volando, quia habet poteſt. volandi, quanquam act. volandi non habet: So a child ſo ſoon as he is born is ſaid rationails, becauſe he hath poteſtatem, although he hath not, and perhaps never ſhall have rationem actu. And it is alſo proved by old Records, and our books alſo, as in the book of Entries tit. annuity 32, 33. Rex H. 5. quandam domum in quodam loco ſive ſolo apud Shene (and abutteth and boundeth the ſoil) quam vocari & nuncupari voluit, Domum Jeſu de Bethelem de Shene, duxit ordinand' & fundand' & domum illam quantum in ipſo fuit fundavit & erexit (which was but a nominative houſe, for none was then built) & idcirco locum & ſolum præd. de Shene ut primariam fundationem dedit, &c. by which it appeareth that a void place or ſoil in which an houſe is intended to be built, may by the Kings Charter be named a Houſe, and this nominative houſe ſhall be ſufficient (as there it was) to ſupport the name of the incorporation. Alſo it appeareth by Matthew Paris 64. and Polydor Virgil, Chronic. Chronicorum, &c. The Hoſpital of St. John's of Jeruſalem in England was incorporated in An. 14. H. 1. of the Templers, by the name of Magiſter

Magiſter milit' Templi & confrates ſui in Anglia in an. 24. H. 1. and yet neither the fabrick of the Temple, nor the houſe of the Hoſpital was founded and builded, ſed regnante H. 2. of the one Jordan Biſet a holy man well monied; and of the other Heraclius Patriarch of Jeruſalem, were Founders. Vide Cambden Britan. 311. which proveth that a void place to ſupport the name of a Corporation may by the Kings Charter be named an Hoſpital, or Temple, and it is not requiſite, that there be always truth in the name of the Corporation either of an Hoſpital or of any other body politick. King H. 8. in the ſecond year of his reign according to the Will of King H. 7. granted to divers Biſhops, Thomas Earl of Arundel, &c. John Fineux, and Robert Read, chief Juſtices, John Young Maſter of the Rolls, &c. who were Executors of King H. 7. quandam peciam terræ vocat' Savoy in the Pariſh of Saint Clements, and S. Mary le Strand ad intentionem qd. jid præd. Hoſpitale in & ſuper præd' peciam terræ vocat. Savoy, erigere, fundare & ſtabilire poſſint. 4. H. 8. The King licenſeth them quoddam Hoſpitale de uno magiſtro & 5 capellariis ſuper præd' peciam terr' vocat. le Savoy fundare, & Hoſpitale cum ſic fundat' fuerit, ſhall be incorporated by the name Magiſtr' & Capellanorum Hoſpital. H. nuper regis Angliæ 7. de Savoy, and yet in truth it was not an Hoſpital in the time of H. 7. but in intention only, and yet the King in his Charter doth call it the Hoſpital of King H. 7. And the ſame was admitted to be a good name of incorporation by all thoſe who argued the caſe betwixt Mariat & Paſchal upon the incorporation of the ſaid Hoſpital, Trin. 30 Eliz. in the Exchequer, where the Caſe was adjudged; or in the Exchequer chamber, where it depended by Writ of Errour. And therefore in 44 E. 3. 16. Regiſter 23. there the Corporation was Prior Hoſpital' S. Johan. Jeruſalem in Anglia: and ſo 9 E. 4. 6. Hoſpitale S. Lazari de Jeruſalem in Anglia: which ſufficeth for the name of the Corporation; although it be but a fiction, i. that either S. John (which was S. John the Evangeliſt) or Jeruſalem was ſituate in England: So Magiſtri milit' Templi Jeruſalem in Anglia: and in the Regiſter, Prior & fr'es ſanctiæ Mariæ de monte Carmeli in Anglia: So I have ſeen a Record, That Katherine the firſt wife of King H. 8. had a licenſe to found a Chauntry by the name of the Chauntry de monte Calvarie extra Algate London. And it is great reaſon that an Hoſpital in expectancy or intendment, or nomination, ſhall be ſufficient to ſupport the name of an Incorporation, when the Corporation it ſelf is onely in abſtracto, and reſteth onely in intendment and conſideration of the Law; for a Corporation aggregate of many is inviſible, immortal, and reſteth only in intendment and conſideration of the Law; and therefore in 39 H. 6. 13. 14. a Dean and Chapter cannot have predeceſſor nor ſucceſſor. 21 E. 4. 27. & 30 E. 3. 15. 6. They may not commit Treaſon, nor be outlawed, nor excommunicate, for they have no ſouls, neither can they appear in perſon, but by Attorney. 33 H. 8. Br. Fealty. A Corporation aggregate of many cannot do fealty, for an inviſible body cannot be in perſon, nor can ſwear. Plow. Com. 213. and the Lord Barkley's Caſe 245. it is not ſubject to imbecillities or death of the natural body, and divers other caſes. A thing which is not in eſſe but in apparent expectancy is regarded in Law, as a Biſhop who is elect before he be conſecrated, an infant in his mothers belly before his birth, &c. 5 E. 2. br. 80. 8 E. 2. voucher 237. 38 E. 3. 30. 41 E. 3. 5. 11 E. 3. Quare Impedit 158. So for the name of a Corporation it is ſufficient to name a place in England by the name of Jeruſalem, mount Calvarie, mount Carmel, Bethelem, &c. à fortiori, the name of a ſpacious and goodly houſe well and actually builded by the name of an Hoſpital, is ſufficient; for the ſame importeth truth and certainty. By which it appeareth, that in the caſe at barr there was a lawful incorporation of the Governours, &c. created and inſtituted by the Kings Charter, and by conſequence as well any perſon in England, as Sutton, might give and grant to them before any foundation laid, or to be laid by Sutton (as it was imagined he ought to have done before they were capable, &c.) but the ſame is clear anſwered and confuted before; and in truth hæc recitaſſe, eſt confutaſſe. [b] [33]

As to the ſeventh Objection, it is to know that there are two manner of Foundations, one fundatio inçipiens, the other fundatio perficiens, and therefore as to the capacity and ability the incorporation is metaphorically called the Foundation, for that is the beginning, as a foundation, quaſi fundamentum capacitatis, preceeding the whole. And therefore in 21 H. 6. 4. a Writ was brought againſt John Arden, Abbot of S. John Baptiſt of Colcheſter; the Defendant pleaded, that before time of memory foundation was of the ſame place per nomen Abbatis Eccleſiæ & Monaſt' de S. John de Colcheſter, &c. where Foundation is taken for Incorporation, 38 E. 3. 14. 38 E. 3. 28. 20 H. 6. 27. & 18 H. 6. 16. in the Dean and Canons of Winſors Caſe, and divers other books agree with the ſame, Sed quatenus ad dotationem, the firſt giving of the Revenues is called the Foundation, and who giveth the ſame is the Founder in law. For propriè, fundatio eſt quaſi fundi datio, and the firſt gift is fundamentum dotationis ſeu collationis, & appellatione fundi ædificium & ager continentur; and that is proved by the Statute of Weſt. 2. c. 41. Si Abbates, Priores, Cuſtodes Hoſpitalium, & aliarum domorum religioſarum fundatarum ab ipſo rege vel à progenitoribus ſuis alienaver' vel de cætero tenem' domibus ipſis ab ipſo vel à progenitoribus ſuis collata, &c. In which was obſerved, that in reſpect of Tenements collated or given by the King, the houſe was ſaid to be founded by the King, but more fully in the clauſe following in the ſaid Act, Si autem domus illa à comite, barone, vel ab aliis fundata fuerit, habeat ille à quo, &c. tenement' ſic alienat' collat' fuer' br'e ad recuperand, &c. where the collation or gift of the Tenements is called the Foundation. And where the Founder bringeth the ſaid Writ de contra formam collationis, the Writ of Præc' quod reddat meſuag' quod eidem domui collat' fuer' &c. 9 H. 7. 26. F. N. B. 211. old N.B. 142. 38 Aſſ. p. 22. He who giveth the firſt lands is the Founder, quia fundare in that ſenſe is nothing elſe but fundum dare, and therewith agreeth 14 E. 3 Corrodie 5. In a Writ of Prohibition, where a common perſon is Founder of an Hoſpital, the Writ as appeareth in the Regiſt. 41. ſaith, Hoſpitale Sancti Egidii leproſorum de Burton per anteceſſor' R. filii I. ad ſuſtentation' leproſorum & aliorum pauperum & infirmorum ibidem totum in temporal' & nihil in ſpiritual' exiſtit, and the like Writ where the King is Founder, cum hoſpitale noſtrum ſanctorum innocentium juxta Lincoln' ex fundatione progenitorum noſtrorum Regum Angliæ, &c. de terris & poſſeſſionibus pro ſuſtentatione pauper' & infirmor' in eodem

Hospital' degentium dotatum existit: In which it was observed, that where the first Writ saith fundat', this Writ calleth it dotat' 39 E. 3. 17. The Abbot of Lyra brought a Scire facias against the Dean of Woborn, where the Dean said he held of the Patronage (that is of the Kings Foundation) and prayed aid of him, and had aid; and there came a Writ of Procedendo, and it was challenged because the [b] Writ said of the Patronage and not of the Collation, and it was taken all one, 33 E. 3. Aid 103. The Dean of Staffords case, the Deanry is said to be of the Foundation; and a little after of the Kings Collation, 8 E. 3. 56. in Sirachs Case, by the Foundation the land is amortised. Vid. 4. E. 3. Ass. 177. 21 E. 3. 60. 24 E. 3. 33, 34. 44 E. 3. 23. 44 E. 3. 11. 2 E. 3. 28. the Earl of Richmonds case. 6 H. 4. 5. 7 E. 4. 12. And therefore it was resolved, That if the King had incorporated the poor of the said Hospital, Sutton needed not have made any instrument comprehending any Foundation or erection, &c. But his gift of the land being the first act had made him Founder, and the very first donation is all the Foundation which is requisite in Law; and to the erection of an Hospital, &c. there is not in law any thing required, but incorporation and dotation. And in the Report at large I have omitted all the arguments at length either of the one part or the other upon one common ground, where an act to one intent shall enure to divers intents distinct in time; some holding, That the bargain and sale doth amount not onely to a Dotation, but also to a Foundation, and others totis viribus è contra; for it now appeareth to you without any question, That the first Dotation is the Foundation. And yet in that also a difference is necessary to be well understood; s. when the King expresseth the words, designeth the place, appointeth the number, and giveth them a name by his Charter; so that the same is a complete Corporation; there the Founder or Donor hath nothing to do but to make the Dotation without any instrument comprehending these words, fundo, erigo stabilio, &c. or other the like words. For the common person who is the Founder hath nothing to do in the power of incorporation; but when the King by his Charter doth reserve as well the nomination of the persons as the name of the incorporation to the common person who shall be the Founder, there he ought to name the parties, and to declare by what name they shall be incorporated, and here many times, although it be superfluous, he useth these words, fundo, erigo, &c. or the like. And when the common person hath done it and declared it in writing according to his authority, then they are incorporated by the Kings Letters Patents, and not by the common person, for he is but an instrument, and the King maketh the Incorporation in such case in the same manner as if all had been comprehended in the Letters Patents themselves: for it is true, that none but the King alone can create or make a Corporation, as it is holden in 49 E. 3. 4. 48. Ass. 8. but qui per alium facit per seipsum facere videtur. See for this difference 38 E. 3. 14. 22 E. 4. Grant 30. 2 H. 7. 13. Grant 36. 20 H. 7. 7. And as to the eighth Objection against the nomination of the Master, it was resolved that the same was well. For Sutton hath [34] a liberty at his will and pleasure to nominate him; and when he is named, he is Master by force of the Letters Patents, and now as if he had been named in the Letters Patents themselves at the beginning: and the other part of the Objection is answered before.

And as to the objections against the bargain and sale, it was first resolved without question, That mony given by the Governours or any of them as a private person, is a good consideration to grant the land to them in their politick capacity. But the Indenture importeth that they paid it as Governours, and by such name they are acquitted by the Indenture. Also there is twelve pence Rent reserved to Sutton and his heirs, which is a good consideration. 2. Although that in the Habendum a trust is declared, the same without question cannot make the bargain and sale void, but the conveyance being by bargain and sale, it was wisely done to declare the confidence and trust. And as to the third, the same is clearly answered and resolved as before.

And as to the last Objection, &c. That in pleading, those Governours cannot plead, that they were seised in jure hospitalis, because there was not any Hospital incorporate, nor in esse, at the time of the incorporation. To that it was answered, That the pleading shall be that they were seised in their demesne as of Fee in jure incorporationis suæ, and so was it pleaded in the Cooks case of London, Plo. Com. Vide Fulmerstones case; also, Plo. Com. 102. vide 7 E. 3. the case of Custos altaris, he counted that he was seised, &c. in jure altaris. And as to the presidents which were shewed, it was answered, That there are many clauses inserted in Charters as well of the Kings as others, ex consuetudine Clericorum, which are not de necessitate legis, but some declaratory and explanatory, and some prolixe and nugatory, but lex multa proficientia, & perficientia paucis comprehendit. And all the Judges which argued this case (except the two before-said) did conclude against the Plaintif, and those two also mutato opinione did assent to the judgment: so that by the assent of all the said Judges nullo contradicente judgment was given against the plaintif: And the Lord Ellesmere, Lord Chancellour of England, heard all the arguments at the barr and bench and did agree in opinion with the Judges: So that this great [b] work of Charity hath tasted of such charity which ought to be in Judges, which is declared in the Stat. of West. 1. cap. ult. Summa charitas est facere Justitiam omnibus personis omni tempore quando necesse fuerit. And it is a good rule for these Governours, and all other Corporations which is expressed in the Statute de Templariis anno 17 E. 2. in these words, Ita semper quod pia & celeberrima voluntas donatorum in omnibus teneatur & expleatur & perpetuo sanctissime perseveret. And Sir Thomas Fleming Knight, after the first day this case was argued fell sick, of which Sickness he afterwards died, so as he never argued this case. The said Sir Thomas Fleming was first a Serjeant at Law, and afterwards Solicitour general to Queen Elizabeth, and to the King that now is for the space of 12 years, and then was preferred to be chief Baron of the Exchequer after the death of Sir William Periam, and then was advanced to be chief Justice of England after the death of Sir John Popham; all which places he discharged with great judgment, integrity and discretion, and he deserved the good opinion of all that knew him, because he was of a sociable and a peaceable nature and disposition.

Which Case I have reported at length for three causes: 1. For the Confirmation of Incorporations founded for works of Piety and Charity in time past. 2. For the better instruction how they may be after after ſo founded and eſtabliſhed that no exception may be taken to them. 3. For the reſolving of certain opinions and queſtions which were moved at the barr, and which might have diſturbed the peace of the Law. Trin. 11 Jacobi. Regis

Mary Portington's Caſe.

Mary Portington brought an Action of Treſpaſs againſt Robert Rogers and Thomas Barley, for breaking of her Houſe and Cloſe at Thorp-Salvyn in the County of York, 20 Junii, 7 Jac. Reg. And the new aſſignment was of a Houſe and a Croft containing one Acre in the occupation of Thomas Barley: The Defendants pleaded in barr, That Herſie Sanford Eſq; was ſeiſed of the Tenements, &c. in Fee, and held them of the King, as of his Honor of Tickill in Socage; and the 8 of May 24 Eliz. made his Will in writing, and thereby deviſed them to Eliz. Sanford his younger daughter, when ſhe ſhould accompliſh her age of eighteen years, and to the heirs of her body. 20 Julii, 24 Eliz. the ſaid Herſie Sanford died, the ſaid Elizabeth then of the age of five years; and afterwards 20 Junii, 37 Eliz. the ſaid Elizabeth accompliſhed her age of eighteen years; and 25 Marcii, 38 Eliz. entred into the Tenements, and was thereof ſeiſed in Tail, &c. and ſo ſeiſed took to her husband the ſaid Robert Rogers, 1 Nov. 39 Eliz. and juſtified, &c. The Plaintiff replied, and ſaid, That the ſaid Herſie Sanford had iſſue Mary his eldeſt daughter, Helen his ſecond daugter, and the ſaid Elizabeth his youngeſt daughter, and confeſſed the deviſe of the Tenements to Elizabeth. But farther ſaid, That by the ſame Will, for want of Iſſue of the ſaid Elizabeth, the ſaid Tenements was limited to the ſaid Mary the now Plaintiff in Tail, the remainder to Helen in Tail, the remainder to his fourth, fifth, and ſixth daughters in Tail, the remainder to his Nephew John Roades, and to his heirs Males, with divers remainders over in Tail. Provided always, That if my ſaid daughters or any of them, or any other perſon or perſons before named, to whom any Eſtate of Inheritance in poſſeſſion or remainder of, in, or to the ſaid lands, tenements and hereditaments, with their appurtenances or any of them, or any part or parcel of them or any of them is limited, deviſed or appointed by this my laſt Will and Teſtament, or the heirs before mentioned of them or any of them, ſhall jointly or ſeverally, by themſelves or together with any other perſon or perſons, willingly, apparently and adviſedly conclude and agree to, or for the doing or execution of any act or deviſe, whereby or wherewith the ſaid premiſes ſo to them entailed as is aforeſaid, or any part or parcel thereof, or any eſtate or remainder thereof, or any part thereof before limited or appointed to any perſon or perſons by this my laſt Will and Teſtament, ſhall or may by any way or means be diſcontinued, alienéd, put away from ſuch perſon or perſons and their heirs, or any of them, contrary to my intent and meaning in and by this my laſt Will and Teſtament, otherwiſe than for the only Joynture or Dower of any of the wife or wives of any of the perſon or perſons before named, for the only life or lives of ſuch wife or wives: Or ſhall willingly or adviſedly commit or do any act or thing, whereby the ſaid Meſſuages, Lands, Tenements and Hereditaments, or any part thereof ſhall not or may not deſcend, remain or come to ſuch perſon and perſons, and in ſuch ſort and order as I have before limited and declared by this my laſt Will and Teſtament, otherwiſe than is aforeſaid; Then I will, limit, and declare and appoint hereby, That then my ſaid daughter or daughters, or other the perſon or perſons before named and every of them, ſo concluding and agreeing to and for the doing and execution of any ſuch act or deviſe as is aforeſaid, ſhall immediately from and after ſuch concluding and agreeing, loſe and forfeit, and be utterly barred and excluded of and from all and every ſuch eſtate, remainder and benefit as ſhe or they, or any of them ſhould, might, or ought juſtly to have, claim, challenge, and demand, of, in, or to ſo much thereof as ſuch concluſion and agreement ſhall extend unto or concern, in ſuch manner and form, as if ſhe or they or any of them, had never been named or mentioned in this my laſt Will and Teſtament, for or concerning the same: And that then and from thenceforth the estate and estates limited and given to her or them so concluding and agreeing as aforesaid, shall from and after such conclusion and agreement forthwith utterly cease, and be determined in, for, and touching so much thereof as such conclusion or agreement shall concern and extend unto, as fully to all intents and purposes, as if she or they so concluding or agreeing as is aforesaid, were dead without heirs of their bodies lawfully begotten, as is aforesaid. And then I will, and further declare and devise, That presently after such conclusion and agreement, such person and persons to whom the estate in remainder doth first and next belong and appertain unto, after such of the said persons having then the actual possession thereof, which shall so conclude and agree as is aforesaid, by force of this my last Will and Testament, shall enter into, have and enjoy so much of the said Lands, Tenements and Hereditaments, with their appurtenances, as such conclusion and agreement shall concern and extend unto, of and for such estates, and with such remainders over, and with such, and in such and the same manner, condition and degree, and with such and the like conditions and limitations before knit and annexed to the same by this my last Will and Testament, and in such manner to all intents and purposes, as if my said daughters, or other the said persons so concluding and agreeing, were naturally dead without such heirs of their bodies lawfully begotten as is before named, and as though the said estate and remainder were vested in him or them for want of such heirs as is aforesaid, Any act, thing or matter before mentioned and declared in and by this my last Will and Testament to the contrary in any wise notwithstanding. And the said Hersie being so seised of the demesns aforesaid, died thereof seised, the said Elizabeth then being within the age of eighteen years, who accomplished her age of eighteen years 20 Julii, 37 Eliz. and entred into the Tenements, and was seised in Tayl, the remainder to the said Mary; and afterwards she took to husband the said Robert Rogers; and afterwards 13 Aprilis, 7 Jac. Reg. by Deed indented the said Robert and Elizabeth voluntariè, evidenter, & considerate, Anglicè, willingly, apparently, and advisedly concluded and agreed with Christopher Bradshaw and Gervase Rogers, to suffer a Common Recovery of the said Tenements upon a Writ of Entry in the Post, &c. to the intent to make void and put away from the said Mary, the said remainder of the said Tenements: According to which conclusion and agreement, the said Writ of Entry was brought against the said Robert and Elizabeth of the said Tenements aforesaid, they being then Tenants of the Freehold of the premises; and thereupon a Common Recovery was had against them, with Voucher over, and Judgment given, and Execution had against the said Robert and Elizabeth; which Recovery was to the use of the said Robert and Elizabeth, and their heirs. And the Plaintiff said, That by reason of this conclusion and agreement, ad permittendam prædictam Communem recuperationem in forma prædicta prædict' Robertus & Eliz. totum statum, &c. de & in tenementis prædict' forisfecerunt, & idem status suus de & in tenementis cum pertinentiis penitus determinavit, & vacuus devenit. For which cause the Plaintiff entred for the said forfeiture as in her remainder, &c. Upon which the Defendant did demur in Law. And this Plea was entred Mich. 7 Jac. in the Common Pleas, and had depended fourteen Terms, and had been argued at the Barr more than half fourteen times; And now this Term it was argued by the Judges. And at the last it was Resolved by the whole Court, That Judgment should be given against the Plaintiff. Of which I will make the shorter Report, because I have published many Cases in my Reports before to the same effect: In this I will add some Authorities and Reasons, confirming the Rule of this Case, and affirming the Resolutions before, and refer the Reader without repetition unto the Authorities and Reasons recited by me before. On the Plaintiffs part divers Objections, or rather Declamations were made.

1. That at the time of the making of the Act 13 E. 1. de Donis Conditionalibus, until 12 E. 4. Taltarums Case, there was no opinion, That a Common Recovery against Tenant in Tayl with Voucher over should bind the estate Tayl upon the pretence of a feigned Recompence, but it was newly invented in 12 E. 4. and before that time was never before imagined by any of the Sages of the Law, in so many generations of Ages incurred after the said Act.

2. Although the Donor cannot restrain the Common Recovery after it is suffered and executed, because that then the reversion or remainder is barred, &c. Yet (as it was agreed on the other side) he may restrain the conclusion and agreement to suffer it, and so prevent the barr by the Recovery, to preserve his remainder or reversion.

3. Such Recoveries are by divers Acts of Parliament mark'd and branded with the blemish of fiction and falsity, as in the Statute of 34 H. 8. cap. 20. they are stiled feigned and untrue Recoveries, and so in the Statutes of 11 H. 7. cap. 20. 32 H. 8. cap. 31. 14 Eliz. cap. 8. &c. they are named covenous, and had by collusion. And therefore it stands with Law and Reason, to provide for the preservation of reversions and remainders against such feigned false and convenous Recoveries.

4. That this opinion, That a Common Recovery cannot be restrained by Condition or Limitation, is a new opinion, and late invention; and was never heard of before Sir Anthony Mildmayes Case, in the fifth Part of my Reports. For it was admitted to be restrained in the Case of the Earl of Arundel, Dyer 17 Eliz. 342, 343. Where the said Earl in the time of Queen Mary gave the Mannor of Haselber Bryan in the County of Dorset, by Indenture to Thomas late Earl of Northumberland, and to the heirs Males of his body; upon condition, That if the said Earl or his heirs Males of his body issuing, inter alia, do suffer any Recovery against them, or should discontinue, &c. And in the Argument of Scholastica's Case, Pasch. 12 Eliz. Plow. Com. 403. the said point of restraint of a Common Recovery was never moved; and therefore it was thought to stand with the honour and gravity of the Court, that this Point had been so often argued at the Barr; and therefore now the Serjeants said, That it was ripe for Judgment, after such a mature deliberation. And in this Case all the said Objections were confuted, and thereby the point in Judgment confirmed.

And

And as to the first, two Questions were moved and resolved: The first, That the Judgment given against Tenant in Tail with Voucher, and recompence in value, shall bind the estate Tail, notwithstanding the said Act of 13 E. 1. whether the Recovery be upon good title, or no.

2. That the Judgment given in such case for the Tenant in tail to have in value, shall bind the estate tail, although no recovery be had. And therefore as to the first of these Questions, it appeareth by our Books, that the Opinion, That a Recovery against Tenant in tail with Voucher, should barr an estate tail, and was not restrained by the Statute of 13 E. 1. of Donis, was not newly invented in 12 E. 4. but oftentimes affirmed for Law by the most knowing of the Law that ever were. For Sir William Thirning in the time of H. 4. Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, Anno 12 H. 4. 13. saith, That the most learned of the law that ever were, (and when there was the best Law that ever was) were in the Reign of King E. 3. which also were near the time of making of the Statute: Let us see then, how the Law was taken in those days in this point. 13 E. 3. Brief 324. By recovery in value by Tenant in tail, the estate tail is barred, and he shall have a Formedon of the Land so recovered in value. And therewith agreeth 42 E. 3. 53. for there it is holden, That in some case a man shall have a Writ of Formedon of Land which was never given. As if tenements in tail be lost, and the tenant in tail recovereth in value, the issue shall have a Formedon of the Lands recovered in value, and yet these Lands were not given. 44 E. 3. 21, 22. Octavian Lumbards Case, tenant in tail granteth a Rent-charge to one, in consideration that the Grantee having right to the Land in tail, shall release to him, the same shall bind the issues in tail. 48 E. 3. 11. Jeffery Benchers Case, A Recovery in value by tenant in tail shall bind the tail, and a Formedon lieth of the land recovered in value. And therewith agreeth 1 E. 4. 5. 5 E. 4. 2. b. And the same also appeareth by the like Cases. For if tenant in tail alieneth with Warranty, and leaveth Assets to descend, it is a barr to [38] the issue by reason of the Warranty and Assets descended; but neither the Warranty without the Assets, nor the Warranty and Assets without Judgment in a Formedon, shall barr the estate tail. For if the issue (without Judgment given) alieneth the Assets, his issue shall recover the land in tail; but after Judgment given that he shall be barred in a Formdon, the issues in tail shall also be barred; and therewith agreeth Temps E. 1. garr. 88. 11 E. 2. garr. 83. 4 E. 3. 24. Henry Sommers Case 5 E. 3. 14. 40 E. 3. 9. 14 H. 4. 39. 24 H. 8. Br. Tail 33. 4 Mar. Dyer 139. And in the case of a Common Recovery there is a Judgment against the tenant in tail, and a Judgment against the Voucher to have over in value. And therefore these Resolutions and Opinions of Law did produce the Judgment in 12 E. 4. which was not of any new invention, but proved and approved by the Resolution of the Sages of the Law at all times after the said Act, untill 12 E. 4. And the Judges of the Law then perceiving what contentions and strife had crept into the quiet of the Law by these fettered Inheritances; Upon consideration of the said Act, and of former Expositions thereof by the Sages of the Law at all times after the said Act, gave Judgment, That in such case the estate tail should be barred.

As to the second Question in the first Objection, It is worthy consideration, That the judgment given for tenant in tail to have in value, is a barr to the estate tail; although that no recompence be rendred in value. And that appeareth in 23 Eliz. Dyer 376. tenant in tail suffereth a Common Recovery with Common Voucher, and dieth before execution had against tenant in tail, and the issue in tail entreth, the recoverer may enter upon him by reason of the recovery in value; and therewith agreeth Shelleys Case, in the first Part of my Reports. And in the Marques of Winchesters Case, lib. 3. fol. 3. If tenant in tail suffereth a Common Recovery, and afterwards disseiseth the recoverer and dieth, his issue shall not be remitted, for the estate tail was bound by the judgment to have in value, although in truth no recompence can be had. And in Manxels Case, Plo. Com. ult. If there be tenant in tail, and a stranger bringeth a feigned Præcipe quod reddat against him, and he voucheth to Warranty, and the Demandant by default of the Vouchee, or by his confession recovereth against tenant in tail, and he over in value against the Vouchee; and before execution the tenant in tail dieth, and the Land descendeth to the issue: yet the Demandant may enter, or sue execution against the issue, and then the issue shall never falsifie the Recovery, because he hath or may have Assets. For if he ought to falsifie the Recovery, then he ought to keep the land in tail, and have execution also of the Assets: And so as it is there Reported, was it taken by the Lord Mountague, and other Justices in the Starchamber, in a matter there in the time of E 6. So that where the Act of West. [b] 2. saith, quod finis ipso jure sit nullus, we may say, That as to a Common Recovery, Actus ipse sit nullus.

As to the second Objection, it is absurd to say, That the Recovery it self cannot be prohibited by any condition or limitation; and yet that the conclusion and agreement to suffer a Common Recovery, shall be prohibited; and such condition to prohibite a conclusion or agreement, doth savour of a new device or invention: For till now of late, none ever heard of any condition or limitation to prohibite goings about, or any conclusion or agreement, but they are altogether unknown to the Law. And therefore the said Act of West 2. reciting the mischief, saith, Per factum tamen & feoffamentum eorum quibus tenementum datum sub conditione exclusi fuerunt, &c. So that the makers of the said Act ought to be taxed of great ignorance, and that the said Act was not necessary, if the going about or conclusion to alien, might have been prohibited: For then when a man hath made a gift to one and the heirs of his body, he might have added a condition, That if the Donee in tail at the Common Law post prolem suscitatem had gone about or concluded to alien, that then the Donor should re-enter; and so have reserved his possibility of Reverter, and so against the same provision might have been made such preventing condition; and therefore it was not needful that the Act of Donis Conditionalibus should be made. And yet Sir William Herle Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, in 9 E. 3. 22. saith, That they were wise people who made that Statute. And that Sir William Herle himself was at the making of the said Statute, it appeareth in 41 E. 3. garr. 16. and in 5 E. 3. 14. the ſame Chief Juſtice ſaith, That King E. 1. (who by aſſent of his Common Council in Parliament made the ſaid Act) was the wiſeſt King that ever was: And the King and whole Parliament doth prohibite factum & feoffamentum (for this imagination of going about and concluding, was not then, nor long time after, hatcht) And ſo in all ſucceeding ages, the alienationit ſelf of tenant in tail hath been prohibited by Condition; as in 33 Aſſ. 24. temps H. 2. Richels Caſe, Lit. 162. temps H 4. Thirnings Caſe, 22 H. 6. 33. 10 H. 7. 11. 13 H. 7. 23. 21 H. 7. 11. And it was well obſerved in this Caſe, That to an eſtate tail there are three manner of Incidents; ſome by the Common Law, others by Act of Parliament, and ſome by Cuſtome. By the Common Law, are ſuch as are not reſtrained by the Statute, and cannot be reſtrained by any condition; as Dower and Tenant by the Courteſie after iſſue, are incidents to an eſtate tail, and cannot be reſtrained by Condition; v. 22 E. 3. 17. Alſo the eſtate of him, and of tenant in tail after poſſibility of iſſue, are diſpuniſhable of Waſt. So a collateral Warranty is a barr to an eſtate tail, and a Common Recovery alſo, and none of them can be reſtrained by any Condition or Limitation. By Statute Law, as to make Leaſes by the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 28. and to levie a Fine by the Statute of 4 H. 7. cap. 24. and 32 H. 8. cap. 36. to barr iſſues, and none of theſe incidents to his eſtate by Act of Parliament may be reſtrained by Condition: For when a man maketh a gift in tail, he tacitè giveth theſe incidents to it; and therefore for to reſtrain them by Condition or Limitation, ſhall be repugnant. For put caſe that a man maketh a gift in tail, and further granteth, That he may make Leaſes for years or lives according to the ſaid Act; or to levy a Fine with Proclamation, according to the Acts in ſuch caſe, to barr his iſſues; Provided always, That he ſhall not make Leaſes, or levy a Fine, none will deny, but ſuch Proviſo ſhall be repugnant; and by conſequence in the other caſe, when ſuch incidents are implied: for, expreſſio eorum quæ tacitè inſunt nihil operatur: By Cuſtome; as to grant Lands by Copy, &c. at the Will of the Lord according to the Cuſtom of the Mannor, &c. And the Opinion of Littleton, as to the ſaid caſe of a Common Recovery, was cited in his Chapter of Conditions, 84. After he hath ſaid, That feoffee in fee cannot be reſtrained in alienation; he addeth, Item, if tenements be given in tail upon condition, that tenant in tail nor his heirs ſhall not alien in fee nor in tail, nor for anothers life, but for their own lives, ſuch Condition is good, and the cauſe is (which is to be much obſerved) That when he maketh ſuch alienation, he doth contrary to the intent of the Donor, for which the Statute of Weſt. 2. cap. 1. was made, by which eſtates in tail were ordained; which is as much as to ſay, as if he had ſaid contrary to the intent of the Act of Weſt. 2. or the intent of the Donor within the purview of the ſaid Act; and a Common Recovery is not contrary to the ſaid Act, nor to the intent of the Donor within the purview thereof. But the meaning of Littleton is, That tenant in tail may be reſtrained to diſcontinue in fee, or in tail, or for anothers life; and ſo he in the next clauſe following doth explain himſelf, ſc. when he hath made ſuch diſcontinuance, he doth contrary to the intent of the Donor.

And as to the third Objection, of aſperſion of a ſcandal upon Common Recoveries (which is one of the main Pillars which doth ſupport the eſtates and inheritances of the Kingdom) It was anſwered, That there was never any thing by the wiſdome of man ſo well deviſed, or ſo ſure eſtabliſhed upon Law and Reaſon, which the ingenie and craft of thoſe who are ſubtile and malicious, [b] hath not, abuſed. And therefore it appeareth by the Preamble of the ſaid Act of 34 H. 8. That when the King giveth Lands in tail to his loyal and faithful Servants and Subjects, intending not only to advance the Donee, but the heirs in blood of their bodies, to the intent that the heirs of their bodies ſhould have in ſpecial memory the profit which they have by the ſervice of their Anceſtors, and thereby themſelves the better encouraged to do the like ſervice to their Sovereign Lord the King: It was well done by the Parliament to tax the Donees in ſuffering of falſe and feigned Recoveries, to overthrow the intent of the Kings gift and bounty, by diſmheriting of their iſſues, quis confirmat uſum qui tollit abuſum: And yet ſuch was the force of a Common Recovery in ſuch caſe at the Common Law, before the ſaid Act of 34 H. 8. that the eſtate tail by a Common Recovery was barred, although the reverſion was in the King, and nothing could remedy the ſame, but an Act of Parliament. And therewith agreeth 33 H. 8. Br. Tail. 41. in Plo. Com. 555. And as to the Caſe upon the Statute of 11 H. 7. It was anſwered, That when the husband for the advancement of his wife with a competent Joynture, and preferment of the heirs of their two bodies begotten, hath cauſed an eſtate to be made to himſelf and his wife in tail; and after the death of the husband, the wife to diſinherit the iſſues of the former husband, ſuffereth a Recovery, and conveyeth the Lands to ſtrangers to the husbands blood, ſuch Recovery was worthy by the Parliament to be noted with the mark to be ſuffered by Covin; and the act of the wife when ſhe is ſole, or of her and her ſecond husband, is ſo odious, that a Recovery had upon a good Title againſt them by covin, is void by the ſaid Act; and therefore the ſame is not to be reſembled to the Caſe at Barr: and yet there was no remedy in ſuch caſe upon a common Recovery, till the ſaid Act of Parl. was made. So in the ſaid Acts of 32 H. 8. and 14 Eliz. when a Common Recovery was had againſt tenant for life, to the prejudice of thoſe who had the Inheritance, the ſame might well be called covinous, and by colluſion. And yet in the ſame Caſe, when tenant for life, the remainder to A. in tail, the remainder to B. in tail, &c. with divers remainders over, and tenant for life ſuffereth a Common Recovery, in which he voucheth A. and he the common Vouchee, it ſhall bind all the other remainders, for no covin or colluſion can be ſuppoſed, when the next in remainder in tail who hath the immediate Inheritance is vouched: as it was adjudged in Jennings Caſe, Trinit. 38 Eliz. Rot. [40] 2302. which Caſe having great affinity with the Caſe at Barr, I have Reported after this Caſe. And as to the Caſe of the Earl of Arundel, Anno 17 Eliz. Firſt, nothing is ſpoken unto it by any who who argued in the Case, so that it is not any Authority for them who cite it. Also in the same Case a Recovery is intended to be restrained, but not a Recovery with Voucher, &c. as in every Common Recovery there is. And in divers Acts of Parliament, Common Recoveries have received allowance and advancement. And therefore the Statute of 7. H. 8. cap. 1. reciteth, That divers, as well Nobles as others, have suffered Common Recoveries against them of divers of their Mannors, &c. for performance of their Wills, for assurance of Joyntures to their wives, &c. The same Act in approbation of Common Recoveries, giveth remedies to such Recoveries in divers Cases. And St. Germyn in his Book of the Doctor and Student, cap. 26. approveth Common Recoveries to bind as well in Conscience as in Law. And by the Statute of 23 Eliz. cap. 4. it is Enacted, That for the avoiding of the danger to Assurances of Lands, and for advancement of Common Recoveries, That any Common Recovery shall not be avoided for any want of form in words, and not in the matter of substance. Note Reader, Semper in fictione juris, subsistit equitas, & contra negantem principia non est disputandum. And in truth, none ought to be heard to dispute against the Legal Pillars of Common Assurances of Lands and Inheritances of the Subjects. And at the Parliament holden in the Reign of the late Queen Elizabeth, in the great Case betwixt T. Vernon and Sir Ed: Herbert (which was argued by learned Councel before the Lords in Parliament) there Hoord an Utter-Barrister, of Councel with Vernon, rashly, and with great maliciousness, did inveigh against Common Recoveries, not knowing the Reason and Foundation of them; who was with great gravity, and some sharpness, reproved by Sir James Dyer, then Chief Justice of the Common Pleas, who said, He was not worthy to be of the Profession of the Law, who durst speak against Common Recoveries, which were the Sinews of Assurances of Inheritances, and grounded upon great Reason and Authority, Sed non omnis capit hoc verbum. And as to Scholastic's Case, I respect much the Reporter, and attribute due honour and reverence to the Judges who argued the said Case. But amicus Plato, amicus Socrates, sed magis amica Veritas. For the Resolution in the said Case, is grounded upon two Authorities in Law; one in 29 Ass. p. 17. and the other in F. N. B. 201. c. Which Authorities being duly considered, do not warrant the collection [b] or conclusion which is made upon them (arguing in the said Case) but to say the truth, the contrary. And as to the said Case of 29 Ass. p. 17. It is there cited in this manner, A man seised of Lands in fee devisible, deviseth them to one for the term of his life, and that he should be Chaplain (when the Book at large is, That the devise was to a Clerk for life, upon condition that he shall be Chaplain, and sing for his Soul) so that after his decease, the said tenements should remain to the Comonalty of the said Town (s. of Lang-stone) to finde a Chaplain for the same tenements, and dieth; and the Devisee being sufficient to be Chaplain, held them for six years, and was not Chaplain, and the heir of the Devisor did ouste him, and he brought an Assise, and the heir pleaded to the Assise, and all this matter was found by the Assise; and the Justices stirred up the Assise as much as they could for the Plaintiff. And at length they said, That the Plaintiff was seised and disseised: Upon which Case so cited, the Justices, as it is there Reported, did collect, that it seemed to the Court there, That the Limitation that he should be Chaplain, and pray for him, was no Condition for the breach of which the heir could enter, for thereby the remainder should be defeated. In which Case are two great Misprisions; one in the citing, the other in the application of it.

1. That the said devise was to the said Clerk upon express words of Condition, That he should be Chaplain, as appeareth before; the other in the Application, That it should not be taken for a Condition, but for a Limitation; and to that purpose the Case was cited. And without question it ought to be either a Condition or Limitation: and if it was admitted to be a Limitation, then it is not possible for the Plaintiff in the Assise to recover, for then his estate, if it were a Limitation before the bringing of the Assise, was actually determined: for such is the nature of a Limitation, to determine the estate without an Entry, and then the Freehold in Law was vested in the Comonalty of Lang-stone, for a stranger shall take advantage of a Limitation, and by consequence it was not possible that the Plaintiff who had lost his estate by force of a Limitation, should recover in the Assise. But in the Book it is taken for a Condition, for there Birton saith, That they in the remainder cannot enter, for it is a Condition. And it appeareth, that the heir cannot enter, unde sequitur, that the remainder hath destroyed the Condition: for the Book saith, That the heir cannot enter and have the Land onely for the life of the Plaintiff. By which it appeareth, That in such Case words of express condition (which are omitted in the citing of the Case) shall not be taken for a Limitation, but rather void by the Limitation of the remainder over: for when it hath words of condition, the manner of the devise is to be intended that the heir may enter, as it [41] is expresly said in the Book, and therefore it shall not be taken for a Limitation, to give benefit to him in the remainder, and it shall be dangerous to make a construction contrary to the express words. But if the Case had been, as in the said Scholastica's Case it is cited, s. That he devised the land to one for life, and that he should be Chaplain, there might be more colour to say that it should be a Limitation by construction, because they are not, neither words of express condition, nor legal words of Limitation; and therefore there peradventure the Law would construe them so, that they might take effect; as in the Case betwixt Hamond and Wellock, Reported by me in the Third Part of my Reports. This word (Paying) shall amount to a limitation in a Will by construction, because that in Law it is not any word, either of Condition or Limitation; and therefore in a Will it shall serve as well for the one as for the other, to supply the intent of the Devisor. And so the Authority of the Book of 29 E. 3. 17. is against that which was cited in Scholastica's Case.

And by this see (Reader) how dangerous it is to ground an Opinion upon any Abridgement, as in another place I have observed. For Fitzherbert in abridging the Case of 29 Ass. tit. Assise 281 abridgeth abridgeth it without expreſs words of condition, as it is cited in Scolaſtica's Caſe. But Bro. tit. Condition 111. abridgeth the ſame to be upon expreſs Condition, Sed melius & tutius eſt petere fontes quam ſectari rivulos. And as to the ſaid Caſe in F. N. B. the ſame is cited in Scolaſtica's Caſe in this manner: A man deviſeth Lands in London to his wife upon condition, That if ſhe marrieth, that the Lands ſhall remain to his Son in tayl, and for want of ſuch iſſue, the remainder to the right heirs of the Donor in tayl; the wife taketh husband, and ſhe and her husband occupy the Lands, he in the remainder dieth without heir of his body; the right heir of the Donor ſhall have a ſpecial Writ of Ex gravi querela, &c. So it appeareth, That he in the remainder ſhall have advantage of the Condition if it be broken: but that ſhall be by way of ſuing this Action, and not to enter by force of this condition not performed, which Writ appeareth in the Regiſter. And the Juſtices ſaid, That the words of the condition there mentioned, are not properly a condition but words of limitation, ſo that the ſenſe is ſuch. A man deviſeth land to his wife for a term if ſhe ſo long continueth a wi-

[b] dow, and unmarried, the remainder in tayl, the remainder to his right heir, ſo that the marriage is the limitation there which determineth the eſtate, and ſo the remainder commenceth upon the eſtate ended there; which caſe put by Fitzherbert out of an original Writ in the Regiſter was utterly miſtaken in two points:

1. Becauſe the deviſe to the wife in the caſe put in F. N. B. was upon expreſs words of condition, but inſpecto Regiſtro, fol. 246. the deviſe was upon apt words of limitation, ſ. Habendum ſibi ad totam vitam ſuam ſi ipſa in pura viduitate ſua tenuerit (and not upon expreſs words of condition) ita quod ſi ipſa alicui maritaverit, vel ad aliquem virum ſe traxerit in fornicatione, tunc meſuagium pred' cum pertin' I. & hæredibus de corpore ſuo legitimè procreatis remanſerit, & ſi idem I. ſine hærede obierit, tunc meſuagium prædictum cum pertinentiis ad rectos hæredes ipſius W. reverteret.

2. Where Fitzherbert ſaith, That the right heir cannot enter, it is clear that the right heir may and will enter, becauſe that he hath the reverſion by deſcent, and not by way of remainder. And I have ſeen a Report which Dyer Serjeant moved in Hill. 3. & 4 Ph. & Mar. William Butts Doctor of Phyſick was ſeiſed of divers Mannours, Lands and Tenements in fee, and having iſſue three Sons, William Edmund and Thomas, by his Will in writing deviſed part of them to his wife for her life, ſub conditione quod ipſa educabit pueros teſtatoris in eruditione & bonis moribus; the remainder to Thomas his Son in tayl, and the reverſion in fee deſcended to William his eldeſt Son: The Condition was broken; the queſtion was, If the heir ſhould enter for the Condition, or Thomas ſhould enter as for breach of a Limitation; or if the Condition be deſtroyed by the Limitation of the remainder over. And it was reſolved by Sir Robert Brook Chief Juſtice, and the whole Court, That clearly it is not a Limitation, for there are expreſs words of condition, and the meaning of the Teſtator was, That his heir, who alwayes is to take advantage of a condition, ſhould enter, and defeat the eſtate of the wife: but his meaning did not accord with the Law, for he could not defeat the eſtate for life, if he did not defeat the remainder, and therefore by the limitation of the remainder over, the condition was deſtroyed: but in ſuch caſe his meaning never was, that he in the remainder ſhould enter for the condition broken.

Note, Reader, There are in Law apt and legal words, as well of limitation as condition. Apt words of limitation, are quamdiu, dummodo, dum, quouſque, durante, &c. v. 14 E. 2. garr. 92. a Rent granted out of the Mannor of D. quamdiu the grantor ſhall remain there: v. 7 E. 4. 16. quamdiu fuer' amicabiles, 27 H. 8. 29. 3 E. 3. 15. & 3 Aſſ. p. 9. A man leaſeth Land dummodo the Leſſee ſhall pay 20 l. 27 H. 6. 27. A Leaſe is made to a woman dum ſola fuerit, 9 E. 4. 20. A man maketh [42] a feoffment in fee until, ſ. quouſque the feoffor hath paid to him certain money. 21 Aſſ. p. 18. v. 29 Eliz. Dyer acc' Plo. Com. 414. 35 Aſſ. p. 14. A Leaſe for years, if the Leſſee ſhall ſo long live. 14 H. 8. 13. A Leaſe of Lands until he be promoted to a Benefice, &c. Litt. Chap. Conditions 90. during the coverture. All which, and many others, are words of limitation, by force of which, the eſtate is determnied without entry or claim. Words of Condition, are ſub conditione, ita quod, ſi contingat, proviſo, &c. v. Lit. 74. & 75. 3 H. 6. 7. 27 H. 8. 15. 28 H. 8. Dy. 13. 4 Ma. Dyer 139. 15 Eliz. Dy. 319. 32 H. 8. Dyer 47. But theſe words, ad effectum, ea intentione, ad ſolvendum, or other the like, do not make a Condition in Feoffments or Grants, if it be not in the Kings Caſe, or in a laſt Will, as it was reſolved Paſch. 18 Eliz. by all the Juſtices of the Common Pleas. And ſo you will the better underſtand your Books, in 38 H. 8. 33. the Abbeſs of Sions Caſe. 31 H. 8. br. tit. Conditions 19. 8 E. 2. Aſſiſe 412. 5 E. 3. br. Condition 204. F. N. B. 131. 41 E. 3. 17. 41 Aſſ. 3. 35 H. 6. 7. & 57. by Moile. 8 H. 4. 22. Sir Simon Beverleys Caſe. Doctor and Student, lib. 1. cap. 20. 10 E. 3. 4. 32 E. 3. Annuity 30. 8 H. 6. 23. Plo. Com. in Browning and Beſtons Caſe 142. 7 E. 6. Dyer 97. 3 E. 6. ibid. 66. But in the caſe of a Grant Executory (Pro) maketh a Condition; as a grant of an Annuity pro conſilio impendendo, 41 E. 3. 38 H. 6. 27. 9 E. 4. 20, 21. A difference betwixt a thing executory and executed, Dyer, 23 Eliz. 369. It was alſo obſerved, That in Scoliaſtes's Caſe, John Clerk who was ſo ſuppoſed to be reſtreined, firſt levied a fine (which fine for any thing appearing in the Record, or in the Caſe Reported) was a fine at the Common Law, and then it is a diſcontinuance and wrong, and therefore it might be reſtrained by condition. And Hill. 36 Eliz. Rot. 539. in the Kings Bench by Popham chief Juſtice, and two other Juſtices of the Kings Bench; for the matter in Law, it was reſolved in the ſaid Scolaſtica's Caſe, againſt the former Opinion, and Judgment was there given upon an incurable imperfection in the Verdict.

As to the fourth Objection, That this Opinion, That tenant in tail cannot be reſtrained to ſuffer a Common Recovery, was new and a late Invention. It appeareth by the authorities before-cited, and by Littleton alſo, that it is not new, but well approved by our old and latter Books: and it is well obſerved by one, Quod novum judicium non dat jus novum, ſed declarat antiquum, quia judicium eſt juris dictum, & per judicium jus eſt noviter revelatum quod diu fuit velatum.

And

And it is true, that the Law sometimes sleepeth, and a judgment awaketh it: for, dormit aliquando lex, moritur nunquam. And this was the only point whereupon Judgment in this case was given against the Plaintiff. And it was observed, That these perpetuities were born under some infortunate constellation; for they in so great a number of Suits concerning them in all the Courts at Westminster, never had any Judgment given for them, but many Judgments given against them. v. Hil. 31 Eliz. in the Exchequer Chamber, Chudleighs Case, Mich. 34. & 35. Eliz. Hunt and Capels Case in the Exchequer Chamber, Hil. 37 Eliz. between Cholmley and Hunt in the Common Pleas: and Hil. 37. Eliz. betwixt Germin and Arscot in the same Court. Hil. 30 Eliz. in Corbets case in the Common Pleas. Mich. 3. Jac. in the Kings Bench, Sir Anthony Mildmay's Case, and Sonday's Case in the Court of Wards. 5 Jac. Reg. All which Cases I have Reported, and in all which judgement was given against the Perpetuity, and from these fettered Inheritances the Freeholds of the Subject are set at liberty according to their original Freedom, [b]

But it was moved also, admitting, That such conclusion to suffer a Common Recovery might be restrained by condition, if the conclusion of a Feme Covert in that case by deed indented shall be a forfeiture of her estate. And it was objected, That when a woman levieth a fine, or suffereth Recovery with Voucher, the Law which enableth her to the principal, enableth her to make a declaration of the use thereof, as its agreed in Blith and Colgate's Case. And so if an Infant, or a man non compos mentis, levy a fine, and maketh Indentures to declare the use thereof, the Indentures shall not be avoided for Infancy, or non sane memorie, because they are enabled to the principal, and therefore shall not be disabled to do the accessory. And so was it resolved in the Court of Wards by Wray and Dyer Chief Justices, in the Case of one Hugh Lewing, who was an Idiot, and so found by office, and had levied a fine to one Winne, and declared the uses thereof by Indentures, which was pretended to be to the use of the Ideot and his heirs, because that the Indentures, as it was objected, were void, but non allocatur for the cause aforesaid. And therefore in this case the conclusion of the husband and wife by Indenture to suffer a common recovery, was a breach of the condition. But the Chief Justice held, That this conclusion of a feme covert was of no force, nor any cause of forfeiture. And for that some of the Maximes of Law are to be considered, That no feme covert shall be barred by her confession of her Inheritance or freehold, but when she is examined by due course in Law. 15 E. 4. 8. 44 E. 3. 28. v. 14 E. 4, 5. And none hath power to examine a feme covert without a Writ, v. 21 E. 3. 43. John de Holborns Case. And that is the cause, That if the [43] husband and wife acknowledge a Statute or Recognizance, it is void as to the wife, although she over-live her husband, as it was holden Pasc. 17 Eliz. in the Countess of Lennox Case. So if the husband and wife acknowledge a deed to be inrolled, and it is inrolled, the same is void to the wife. v. 29 H. 8. br. Faits inroll. 14. 7 E. 4 5. 16 H. 7. 5. & 21 E. 3. 24. and the reason is, because no such Writ is depending against the husband and wife, upon which the wife by Law may be examined. But if an Infant acknowledgeth a Statute or a Recognizance, it is not void, but voidable by Audita querela during his minority; and the cause of the difference is, because the Judge in case of an Infant may by inspection know his age, but not thereby whether a woman be covert or not. And the usage hath alwayes been upon a common recovery against the husband and wife, to examine the wife, and to grant Dedimus potestatem to take her acknowledgement upon examination, as in case of a fine; for there is a Writ upon which she may be examined. v. 44 E. 3. 28. But a common recovery against an Infant, although he appeareth by Gardien, shall not bind the Infant, for the Infant hath not such a disposing power of the land as the husband and wife have, but is utterly disabled by himself to convey or transferre his inheritance or freehold to others during his minority. And in these dayes a common recovery appeareth to us to be a common conveyance and assurance of lands. But if a feme covert alone levieth a fine, it shall bind her and her heirs, if the husband doth not enter and avoid the estate of the Conusee, because she was examined, and hath power of the land. But the reason that it cannot be a forfeiture, or breach of the condition in the Case at Barr, is because the conclusion by the Indenture only, and presently by the pretence of the Plaintiff, was a determination of the estate of Elizabeth, and then the recovery was not of any effect, because the estate of Elizabeth was determined by the conclusion by Indenture before the recovery, and it was not material whether there was any recovery or not. For the pleading is, That by the conclusion the estate determined. So that in this case it cannot be said, as it was affirmed, That when husband and wife suffer a common Recovery, they being enabled to the principal, shall be disabled to the accessory; for here this proviso doth disable them to suffer a recovery: and against the Indenture the wife may plead, That it is not her deed, and therefore it is no more than that the husband and wife [b] have concluded without common recovery. But this point was not resolved, because that judgment was given upon the other.

Trin. 38 Eliz. Rot. 2302. In the Kings Bench.

Jenning's Case.

BEtween Wiseman and Crow the case was such: Thomas Wiseman had Issue two sons, William by his first wife, and Thomas his younger, and a daughter by Dorothy his second wife, and being seised of Lands in fee holden in socage, by his will in writing, devised them to the said Dorothy his wife for life, the remainder to Thomas his son in tail, and died; by which the wife was seised for life, the remainder to Thomas the son, and the reversion in fee descended to the said William. The said daughter took husband the said Jennings, and after the Statute of 14 Eliz. a common recovery was had against the said Dorothy being Tenant for life, in which Thomas in the remainder in tail was vouched, and in which Thomas did vouch over the common vouchee without any assent of the said William the heir in recovery; which recovery was to the use of the said Thomas and his heirs, and afterwards Thomas died without issue. Jennings in the right of his wife, being sister of the whole blood to Thomas, entred, upon whom William the Plaintiff entred, upon whom Crow the Defendant by the commandment of Jennings did reenter, upon which reentry this action of Trespas was brought. And if the said common recovery had barred the reversion of William, notwithstanding the said act of 14 Eliz. was the question. And in this case four points were resolved:

1. That at the Common Law a recovery against Tenant for life with voucher upon a bare warranty and recovery in value should bind him in the remainder, as the books are in 19 E. 3. recovery in value 20. 23 E. 3. ib. 13. Ass. p. 35. & 5 E. 4. 2. and the reason is, because the particular estate and [44] the estate in remainder are but one estate, and one warranty may extend to both, and therefore the recompence in value shall enure to both the estates. And it appeareth by the preamble of the Act of 32 H. 8. cap. 31. That a recovery suffered by the Tenant in a real Action against Tenant for life by covin, and not upon pure warranty, that the same either shall barr him in the reversion, or at least take away their entry. But now it hath been resolved in Pelham's case in the first part of my Reports, That a common recovery had against Tenant for life only is a forfeiture of his estate, because that a common recovery is now but a common conveyance or assurance.

2. It was resolved, That no Act hath been made to preserve any reversion or remainder expectant upon an estate tail, for an estate tail is an estate which by possibility may endure for ever. And Tenant in tail hath power to barr him in the remainder or reversion, and therefore the Statute of West' 2. cap. 3. (which was made at the same Parliament, that the Statute de donis conditionalibus was made) for the preservation of him in the remainder or reversion, gave receit to them, and provideth for them in these words, Eodem modo si tenens in dote, per legem Angliæ, vel alio alterminum vitæ, vel per donum in quo reservatur reversio, fecerit defaltam, admittantur hæredes, vel illi ad quos spectat reversio, and although the Statute saith per donum, which by the letter extendeth to donee in tail, yet the Judges knowing as well the possibility of the continuance of the estate tail, as his power to barr him in the reversion or remainder, extend the said general words by construction unto the estate of the donee in tail after possibility of issue extinct, who in truth hath an estate but for life, which is but part of the gift, for an estate of inheritance was given, and now the donee hath but an estate for life. And therewith agreeth 20 E. 3. Resceit 17. 39 E. 3. 8. b. 33 H. 6. 21. and the book 2 E. 2. Resceit 147. is ill reported, and is to be meant of Tenant in tail after possibility, and not of an estate tail: and therefore in 42 E. 3. 12. the case is remarkable. Lands were rendred by Fine to Robert and Alice his wife in tail, the remainder to Tho. in tail, saving the reversion to the donor, Robert died without issue, Alice his wife was impleaded in a Præcipe quod reddat, who made default after default, for which one Simon the right heir of the donor who had the reversion in fee, surmising that as well Robert as Thomas were dead without issue, prayed to be received; the De- [b] fendant counterpleaded the Resceit, because that Thomas who was in remainder in tail had issue John, who yet was alive: and the Defendants counsel made two objections against the Resceit; first, that the estate of the donee was not immediate to the estate of Alice, sed non allocatur, for that it is said that it was adjudged, That if lands be leased for life, the remainder to another for term of life, saving the reversion to the lessor, that he in the reversion had been received notwithstanding the mean remainder. And it is true, that it is so adjudged in 11 E. 3. Resceit 118. where the case was, That there was Tenant for life, the reversion to E. for life, the reversion of the fee to R. Tenant for life was impleaded in a Præcipe, and living E. R. prayed to be received, and there Hill did object against the Resceit that the Statute gave, that he to whom the reversion is immediate after the death of Tenant for life should be received; and we have seen that he to whom the reversion was, where there was an estate mean for life, hath brought an action of wast, and was not received to this Writ; which case of Wast was opened; and the difference taken between that and the case at barr, because in the action of Wast it was to the same estate, but here he is saver the mean estate: and 4 E. 2. Resceit 160. acc'. The second objection in the said book of 42 E. 3. was because there was a mean estate in tail (which the book calleth a Fee mediate) betwixt the tenant for life, and he in the reversion in fee, and where there is a fee mediate, he in the reversion by force of the said Statute shall not be received; and so the case is there ruled, that he was not receivable; and the difference is taken, where the remain-remainder is limited over for life, there he in the reverſion ſhall be received, and the cauſe is becauſe that he who hath the remainder hath not a greater eſtate then the tenant himſelf, but in the caſe here he hath a fee mediate between him who prayeth now, and the Tenant who might have been received if he had come. And afterwards the Defendant ſaid, That there was no ſuch John in rerum natura. But note Reader, if he in the reverſion in fee, and he in the meſne eſtate of life at the ſame time pray to be received, the meſne eſtate for life in reſpect of the immediateneſs and proximity ſhall be preferred before the reverſion in fee, for the words of the Statute being general, ſ. admittantur hæredes vel illi ad quos ſpectat reverſio, the Law which always expecteth the order of proximity preferred the leſs and next eſtate, be it in remainder or reverſion for life, before the greater and remoter eſtate in fee; and therewith agreeth 24 E. 3. 32. in Pierce de Grimſteads caſe. And the Statute which giveth the Writ of Errour and Attaint to him in the reverſion during the life of tenant for life, &c. giveth not any remedy to him in the reverſion expectant upon an eſtate in tail. [45]

See the Marqueſs of Wincheſters caſe in the ſecond part of my Reports.

And the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 31. provided onely for the preſervation of the reverſion or remainder expectant upon an eſtate for life, &c. and not upon an eſtate tail; and to this effect all recoveries by agreement againſt tenant by the courteſie, tenant for life, in Dower, tenant in tail after poſſibility of iſſue extinct of any lands, &c. whereof the tenant ſhall be ſeiſed as tenant for life, tenant by the courteſie, or tenant in tail, after poſſibility of iſſue extinct ſhall be void againſt thoſe then in reverſion, &c. ſo that by this Statute no proviſion was made for the preſervation of the reverſion or remainder expectant upon an eſtate in tail.

3. It was reſolved, That ſundry evaſions were invented out of the ſaid Stat. 32 H. 8. and therefore if after that Statute tenant for life had made a leaſe for years, and the leſſee for years had made a feoffment in fee, and the feoffor had ſuffered a common recovery in which the tenant for life was vouched, and he vouched over the common vouchee, that the ſame was out of the perview of the ſaid Act of 32 H. 8. for two cauſes: 1. Becauſe that the tenant for life at time of the recovery againſt the feoffee was not ſeiſed for life, but had but a right; 2. He in the remainder or reverſion had not then but only a right, for all was deveſted by the feoffment of the ſaid leſſee for years. And ſo was it holden in the Common Pleas, Trin. 5 Eliz. and 15 Eliz. that in the like caſe where tenant for life in ſuch common recovery came in as vouchee, that it was out of the Stat. of 32 H. 8. as Bendloes Serjeant hath reported. And that was the cauſe, as it alſo appeareth by the preamble of the Statute of 14 Eliz. of the making of the ſame Act, ſ. where divers perſons being ſeiſed, or that had been ſeiſed, &c. for life, &c. have permitted and ſuffered themſelves to be vouched by other perſons by agreement or covenant between them, &c. to the great prejudice of thoſe to whom the reverſion or remainder thereof hath appertained or ought to appertain.

4. It was reſolved, That the Act of 14 Eliz. doth not extend to preſerve any reverſion or remainder expectant upon an eſtate tail, where tenant for life is impleaded, and tenant in tail is vouched; and therefore all the parts of the ſaid Act were conſidered.

1. The title of the Act is, For avoiding of Recoveries had by colluſion by tenant for life, &c. and this title doth not extend to the caſe at barr for two cauſes: 1. A recovery cannot be ſaid by colluſion, where tenant in tail is in the recovery tenant in fait, or tenant in law, as vouchee, for the law, as incident to his eſtate hath made the land, and all remainders and reverſions ſubject to his pleaſure, and he hath right & power to barr them all, & jus & fraus nunquam cohabitant; and therefore the title of the Act being for avoiding of recoveries by colluſion, &c. cannot extend to a recovery where tenant in tail is party or privy. [b]

The ſecond part of the Act is the preamble, and that doth not extend to the caſe at barr for four cauſes; 1. The words of the preamble are, Whereas divers perſons being ſeiſed of lands, &c. as Tenants by the courteſie, Tenants in tail after poſſibility of iſſue extinct, or otherwiſe only for term of life, or eſtates determinable upon life or lives; ſo that the intent of the makers of the Act was to avoid recoveries againſt tenant for life, and not when tenant in tail is party or privy. 2. By agreement and covin between them; and (as it hath been ſaid) Covin cannot be when Tenant in tail is party or privy. 3. Againſt the ſame particular tenant; and in this caſe the recovery againſt the particular Tenant doth not barr the reverſion, but the vouchee of Tenant in tail and his vouchee over. 4. Have permitted and ſuffered themſelves to be vouched, &c. ſo that the vouchee of Tenant for life, and not the Tenant in tail was intended to be prohibited.

The third and principal part of the Act is the body of the Act; 1. That ſuch recoveries againſt ſuch particular Tenants, &c. and in the caſe at barr the recovery againſt Tenant for life doth not barr the reverſion, but the judgment given for Tenant in tail to have in value, the ſame bindeth the reverſion, as hath been ſaid before. 2. Or againſt any other with voucher of any ſuch particular Tenant; which clearly doth not extend to the caſe at barr, foraſmuch as tenant in tail is vouchee. 3. The proviſo, That all and every ſuch recoveries (which relateth to recoveries by covin, &c. mentioned before in the title, preamble, and body of the Act) which doth not extend where Tenant in tail is vouched, and that ſuch recovery ſhall bind thoſe who aſſent of Record are affirmative words, and doth not diminiſh the vigour and form of a common recovery in which the Tenant in tail is vouched, and in which he voucheth, who by the Law hath power of the land, as hath been ſaid before; and it ſhall be very miſchievous if this Act ſhall not be ſo taken, or rather if this Act ſhall be expounded againſt the Writ and meaning thereof. For the common aſſurance is, That if tenant in tail of land with the reverſion or remainder over, bargaineth and ſelleth the land by deed indented and inrolled to another, againſt whom the Writ of Entry in the Poſt is brought, and he voucheth the tenant in tail, and he voucheth over. God forbid that the eſtates of Subjects which depend upon ſuch recoveries, ſhould be drawn in queſtion. And yet the bargainee in ſuch caſe hath but an eſtate determinable upon the life of tenant in tail. Alſo if tenant for life be impleaded in a Præcipe, and maketh default after default, and he in the remainder in tail is received, who voucheth over the common voucher, it ſhall bind the eſtate tail, and the remainder and reverſion alſo.

[46] And therewith agreeth Knyvetons Caſe, 8 Eliz. Dyer 152. v. Owen and Morgans Caſe. And judgement in the Caſe at Bar nullo contridacente by the whole Court was given for the Defendant againſt the Plaintiff: Upon which the Plaintiff brought a Writ of Error, and the Judges of the Common Pleas, and the Barons of the Exchequer did agree with the Juſtices of the Kings Bench, That the ſaid recovery had barred the Plaintiffs reverſion; but for inſufficiency of pleading, the Judgment was reverſed.

Mich. 10. Jac. Reg. In the Common Pleas.

Lampet's Caſe.

[b] RIchard Lampet brought a Writ of Ejectione firmæ againſt Margery Starky, and declared upon a Leaſe made by William Lampet and Elizabeth his wife by their indenture, 18 Junii, 8 Jacobi Regis of a houſe, twenty four acres of Land, eight acres of meadow and twenty acres of wood, with their appurtenances, in Cawe Hamborn in the county of Glocester for four years, and declared of an Ejectment, &c. and added the life of Elizabeth. The defendant pleaded Not guilty, and the Jury gave a ſpecial Verdict as to the ſaid Meſſuage, and one half acre of land, parcel of the tenements aforeſaid, and as to the reſidue, they found the defendant not guilty. And as to the ſaid meſſuage and half acre of land they found, That John Lord Lumley, Richard Lumley, and John Lampton were ſeiſed of the ſaid houſe and half acre of land in fee; and by their indenture 14 May, anno 35 Eliz. demiſed to John Morrice the younger, the ſaid houſe and half acre of land for the term of 5000 years, by the force whereof he entred, and was thereof poſſeſſed, and 11 Octob. 38. Eliz. made his laſt Will and Teſtament in writing, and thereby deviſed to John Morrice his father the ſaid houſe and half acre of land, for the term of the natural life of the ſaid John Morrice the father, and after his deceaſe, the remainder of the ſaid houſe and half acre to Elizabeth ſiſter of the Teſtator, and to the heirs of the body of the ſaid Elizabeth, and made John Morrice his father his ſole Executor, and 20 Octob. 38 Eliz. died poſſeſſed of the ſaid houſe and half acre of land; after whoſe death John Morrice the father did take upon him the charge of the execution of the ſaid Will, and entred into the ſaid meſſuage and half acre of land, and was thereof poſſeſſed prout

[47] lex poſtulat; and the ſaid Elizabeth took husband William Taylor and that afterwards, v. 26 Julii, anno 1 Jac. the ſaid William Taylor and Elizabeth, at the eſpecial inſtance of the ſaid John Morrice the elder, per quoddam ſcriptum ſuum dederunt, conceſſerunt, remiſerunt, relaxaverunt, ſurſum reddiderunt, aſſignaverunt & tranſpoſuerunt, Anglicè, yielded up dict' Johan. Morrice ſen' totum pred' meſuag' & pred' dimid' acr. paſtur' cum pertin', una cum toto recto, tit', intereſſe tempore & termino ſuis de & in eiſdem, habendum & tenendum totum dictum meſuag' & dimid' acr' paſtur' cum

[c] pertin' præfat' Johan' Morrice ſen' pro & duran' toto ſtatu, fine, & termino pred' Williel' Taylor & Eliz' pro & durant' reſiduo dict' termini 5000 annorum tunc venturorum. And afterward the ſaid John Morrice the father, 1 Octob. 2 Jac. by Indenture demiſed the ſaid houſe and half acre to the ſaid Margery Starkey now defendant for ten years; and afterwards the ſaid William Taylor died, and the ſaid Elizabeth took husband the ſaid William Lampet, and afterwards 15 Nov. 7 Jac. John Morrice the elder died, after whoſe death the ſaid William and Elizabeth entred into the ſaid houſe and half acre; and made the leaſe to the plaintiff mentioned in the declaration, by force whereof the plaintiff entred, and was thereof poſſeſſed until the defendant did eject him. And if upon the whole matter the ſaid Margery were guilty or not, was the queſtion.

And this caſe was oftentimes in ſeveral Terms argued at the Bar, and now this Term by the Judges; and the effect of all their arguments, was, Firſt, in every matter in Law ſtatus queſtionis, id eſt, cauſa dubitationis, the cauſe of doubt or queſtion is firſt to be conſidered. And in this Caſe the cauſe of the doubt is, foraſmuch as the whole term ſub modo is in John Morrice the father, and he ſhall be puniſhed for waſt, and an action of debt lieth againſt him for the rent, as it was reſolved by the whole Court in this Caſe, v. Weldon's Caſe in Plo. Com. 524. acc. If the ſaid grant or releaſe made to the ſaid John Morrice the father, then being poſſeſſed of the whole term as aforeſaid, can barr the ſaid Elizabeth, becauſe ſhe hath but a poſſibility, and neither intereſt nor right in poſſeſſion, reverſion or remainder; the ſame was the great queſtion of the Caſe. But two other queſtions (as afterwards appeareth) were moved in the Caſe, which without any difficulty were reſolved. This caſe of a deviſe of a leaſe for years to one for life, and after his death to another during the reſidue of the term, hath produced ſeptem queſtiones venales & ſpinoſas.

1 When a man being poſſeſſed of land for years deviſeth the uſe or profits of the land, or the land it ſelf to one for life, and afterwards to another during the reſidue of the term, if the deviſe of a chattel after the death of the firſt deviſee was good, and adjudged as appeareth in Matthew Manning's Caſe, in the Eighth Part of my Reports, that ſuch executory deviſe was good. And ſo was it

[b] holden by the whole Court in the argument of this Caſe.

The ſecond queſtion hath been, If the executory deviſe after the death, &c. be good, when the term it ſelf (and not the uſe or occupation) was deviſed to the firſt for life, &c. and afterwards to others; and adjudged, That in ſuch caſe alſo the executory deviſe was good, as in the ſaid Mathew Mannings Caſe appeareth; and ſo it was reſolved in the argument of this Caſe by all the Juſtices.

to

The third queſtion hath been, If the firſt deviſee after aſſent made by the Executor, might bar the executory deviſe, being but a poſſibility, or not; and ſo was it agreed in the argument of this Caſe.

The fourth queſtion hath been, If the aſſent of the Executor of the firſt deviſee ſhall enure to the other, foraſmuch as he hath it by executory deviſe, and not by remainder: and adjudged it ſhall: and ſo it was granted in this Caſe by all the Juſtices.

The fifth queſtion hath been, When the diviſe is (as above) to the Executor for life, and afterwards unto another, &c. and the Executor entreth generally; It hath been adjudged, That he ſhall have it as Executor, which is his firſt and general authority, and not as legatory without claim or ſhewing his election, although the Teſtator were not indebted to any one; and ſo was it ruled by the Court in the argument of this Caſe.

The ſixth queſtion hath been, If ſuch executory intereſt may be granted to a ſtranger during the life of the firſt deviſee; and adjudged it may not, as it appeareth in Carters Caſe cited in Fulwoods Caſe, in the Fourth Part of my Reports, and therewith agreeth the Opinion of all the Juſtices in the argument of this Caſe,

And now the ſeventh queſtion is, If ſuch poſſibility may be extinguiſhed by grant or releaſe to him in poſſeſſion. And it was objected, That the ſaid poſſibility could not be releaſed, for inaſmuch as the eſtate during the life of a man, is more than any term for years; and that the land in the Caſe at Bar is diviſed unto John Morrice the elder for his life, the whole term is in him determinable by his death, ſo that the ſaid Elizabeth had nothing but a poſſibility which cannot be releaſed; as in 27 E. 3. Execution 130 and 25 Aſſ. pl. 7. If Conuſee of a Statute or Recogniſance releaſeth to the terre-tenant all his right in the land, yet he ſhall ſue execution; So if the ſon in the life of his father, releaſeth to the diſſeiſor of his father, and afterwards the father dieth, this releaſe ſhall not barre the ſon, becauſe the ſon in the life of the father hath but a poſſibility. And therewith Littleton agreeth in his Chapter of Releaſes, 11 H. 4. 33. and 17. E. 3. 87. 10. E. 2. Confirmation 24. And it is put in 13 E. 1. tit. Confirmation 24. as a Maxim, If a man quit claimeth his right before the ſame falleth to him, the quit claim is void. Vid. 19 H. 6. 62. And therewith agreeth Bracton lib. 2. fo. 58. b. Item videndum quando quis poſſit confirmare; & ſciendum non priuſquam jus ei acciderit. But in the Caſe at Bar, the releaſe is made by the husband of Elizabeth, before the right or intereſt veſts in the wife; and as Bracton ſaith, priuſquam jus ei acciderit. And it appeareth, That the ſame [48] is but a poſſibility, becauſe it cannot be granted or aſſigned to another, as it was adjudged in Carters Caſe, no more than a Rectory which is appropriate in futuro after the death of an Incumbent, can be demiſed in the life of the Incumbent, becauſe it is but a poſſibility, as it is holden in 8 Eliz. Dyer 244. And Hoes Caſe in the fifth Part of my Reports was ſtrongly urged, That in an action of debt brought by Hoe in the Kings Bench, Felix Marſhal was Bail for the defendant, and afterwards before any Judgement given, Hoe releaſed to Marſhal all actions, duties and demands, and afterwards Judgment was given againſt the defendant, and upon his default a Scire facias iſſued againſt the ſaid Felix, who pleaded the ſaid general releaſe, upon which the plaintiff did demurre: And it was adjudged, That the releaſe ſhould not barr the plaintiff, becauſe before Judgment it was but a meer poſſibility, and therefore (as the Book ſaith) it cannot be releaſed. So in the Caſe at Bar before the death of John Morrice the elder, Elizabeth had but a meer poſſibility, and therefore it cannot be releaſed. But it was reſolved by the whole Court, That the ſaid releaſe hath barred the ſaid Elizabeth to claim any thing in the ſaid leaſe after the death of the ſaid John Morrice the elder. And firſt was obſerved the great wiſdom and policy of the Sages and Founders of our Law, who have provided, That no poſſibility, right, title, nor thing in action, ſhall be granted or aſſigned to ſtrangers, for that ſhould be a cauſe of multiplying of contentions and ſuits, of great oppreſſion of the people, and chiefly of terre-tenants, and the ſubverſion of the due and equal execution of Juſtice. And as they cannot be granted by the act of the party; ſo a right in action ſhall not be tranferred by act in Law, as to the Lord by Eſcheat, neither ſhall the Lord of a Villain have things in action, as it appeareth in 22 Aſſ. p. 37, &c. Alſo it is reſolved in the Marqueſs of Winchesters Caſe, in the Third Part of my Reports, That by the general words of an Act of Attainder of Treaſon, by which all lands, tenements, rights and hereditaments of the perſon attainted are given to the King: Yet no right to the land in action is given to the King, and all that was for the quiet and repoſe of the terre-tenants. But all rights, titles and actions may by the wiſdom and policy of the Law be releaſed to the terre-tenant, for the ſame reaſon of his repoſe and quiet, and for avoiding of contentions and ſuits, and that every one may live in his vocation in peace and plenty. And therefore a right or title to the freehold or inheritance (for here it is not ſpoken of collateral powers) in præſenti or in futuro, may be releaſed in five manners: 1. To the tenant of the [b] freehold in fait, or in law, without any privity. 2. To him in the remainder. 3. To him ſeiſed of the reverſion without any privity; but an eſtate cannot be enlarged without a privity. 4. To him who hath a right only in reſpect of privity; as if the tenant be diſſeiſed, the Lord may releaſe the ſervices in reſpect of the privity only and right, without any eſtate. 5. In reſpect of privity only, without right; as if tenant in tail maketh a feoffment in fee, the donee after the feoffment hath not any right; and yet in reſpect of the privity only, the donor may releaſe to him the rent and all ſervices, ſaving fealty: So the defendant may releaſe to the vouchee in reſpect of privity only, but no eſtate can paſs by releaſe, but to him who hath an eſtate in privity, and not in reſpect of the right or privity only. Vid. Litt. 105, 106. 19 H. 6. 17. 14 H. 8. 8. 7 E. 4. 13. 14 H. 4. 38. 1 H. 5. Grants 43. 7 E. 4. 27. 5 E. 4. 1. 5. E. 4. 3. 48 E. 3. 8. 31 E. 3 Gard 116. 13 H. 4.

Confirmation 20. 20 H. 6. 29. 8 H. 4. 5. 7 E. 4. 13. 9 H. 7. 25. 18 E. 3. 12. 5 E. 3. 36. 7 E. 3. 46. 22 H. 6. 12. Litt. 114 b. So if the tenant makes a feoffment pendant the Writ, the releaſe of the demandant to him is good in the reſpect of the privity. And if the leſſee for years be ouſted, and he in the reverſion diſſeiſed, and the diſſeiſor maketh a leaſe for years, the leſſee who was ouſted may releaſe to the leſſee of the diſſeiſor, and yet there wanteth privity; but the diſſeiſee cannot releaſe to him, becauſe he hath no freehold, 49 E. 3. 28. v. 19 H. 6. And the ſaid releaſe hath extinguiſhed the future intereſt of the ſaid Elizabeth, for divers cauſes.

1. Becauſe it is a future intereſt in a chattel, which as it may be more eaſily created than a freehold; ſo it may be the more eaſily determined. And therefore if a man maketh a leaſe for years, and that upon not performance of a collateral condition, that it ſhall be void, the grantee of the reverſion ſhall take advantage thereof by the Common Law: but otherwiſe it is of a leaſe for life upon the like condition, for the one may more eaſily be determined than the other. And if leſſee for 1000 years be ouſted by his leſſor, and he maketh a leaſe for two years, the leſſee for 1000 years may releaſe to him. But if the leſſor diſſeiſeth his leſſee for life, and maketh a leaſe for 1000 years, the leſſee for life cannot releaſe to him, for a freehold is higher than to drown in a chattel.

2. Littleton ſaith, 144. That it is a Maxim in Law, That land in fee ſimple, &c. may be charged by one way or other: So it was ſaid, That it was a Maxim in Law, That every right, or title, or intereſt, in præſenti or futuro, by the joyning of all who may claim any right, title, or intereſt, [49] may be barred or extinct; and therefore upon the Maxim which Littleton putteth it was concluded, That if at the Common Law the donor and donee had joyned in a grant of a rent-charge, and afterwards the donee had died without iſſue, and the land had reverted to the donor, he ſhould hold the land charged, and yet he had but a poſſibility at the time of the charge made: but all thoſe who have eſtate or intereſt, in præſenti, or in futuro, joyn in the charge: à fortiori, if they had joyned in a leaſe for years, and the donee had died without iſſue, the leaſe is good againſt the donor. So upon the ſecond Maxim, If in the Caſe at Bar John Morrice and Elizabeth had joyned in a deed of aſſignment to another, without queſtion it had utterly barred the ſaid Elizabeth, for no other had intereſt either in præſenti or in futuro, but thoſe who joyned in the grant. So when the husband of Elizabeth releaſeth to him in poſſeſſion, both conſent to it, one in releaſing, the other in accepting of it: And in the caſe when both joyn in the grant, it is the grant of him who hath the term, and the releaſe and confirmation of the other. Vid. Mayows Caſe in the Firſt Part of my Reports, a notable Caſe to this purpoſe. And Paſc. 4 E. 6. in the Common Pleas, as the Chief Juſtice ſaith, he hath ſeen a Report, It was holden by Mountague, Hales, Molineux and Brown, Juſtices of the Common Pleas, That if a man maketh a leaſe to another for 21 years, if the leſſee ſo long liveth, and the leſſor and leſſee joyn in a grant by deed of the term to another, and afterwards the leſſee dieth within the term, the grantee ſhall enjoy abſolutely during the reſidue of the term. So in the Caſe at Bar, where the intereſt of John Morrice the elder was determinable by his death, now this releaſe hath made his intereſt abſolute during all the reſidue of the term. And if ceſty que uſe after the Statute of 1. R. 3. and before the Statute of 27. H. 8. had diſſeiſed the diſſeiſor of his feoffees, now the uſe is ſuſpended, and doth depend in poſſibility to be revived by the entry of the feoffees; and yet if he maketh a feoffment in fee, it is good and ſhall binde, in reſpect that the Law hath conſideration of this poſſibility of the uſe.

3. Quando diverſi conſiderantur actus ad aliquem ſtatum perficiendum, plus reſpicit lex actum originalem, when to the perfection of an eſtate or intereſt, divers acts or things are requiſite, the Law hath moſt regard to the original act, quia cujuſque rei potiſſima pars eſt principium, for that is the fundamental part upon which all the other are founded. In this Caſe at Bar there are three things required to the perfection of the intereſt of Elizabeth deviſed (in which is included the death of the deviſor) and that is the fundamental part; the aſſent of the Executor, which afterwards appeareth was given in the Caſe; and the death of the firſt deviſee: and therefore this Caſe may fitly be reſembled to the Caſe of Dower. When a man ſeiſed of lands in fee or in fee tail general, ta-
[b] keth a wife, to the perfection of the Dower two things are requiſite, Loialty of the Matrimony, and the death of the husband: For notwithſtanding that the husband is ſeiſed in fee, and the marriage is lawful, yet ſhe hath but a poſſibility of Dower till the death of her husband; in the ſame manner as Eliz. hath but a poſſibility till the death of the firſt deviſee. And therefore in 6 E. 2. Dow. 45. and 19 E. 2. Dower 165. where it is holden, That in a Writ of Dower brought by the husband and wife, a fine levied by the husband and wife is no bar; and the reaſon there given is, becauſe that before the death of the husband, the wife hath neither right nor action; and therefore by the Rule of the Court iſſue was taken, that the wife at the time of the fine levied had nothing as wife. And the opinion of Plowden in Stowels Caſe is as followeth: Note Reader, that in my opinion, If the husband levieth a fine with proclamations, and five years paſs after the proclamations, the wife ſhall not be bound to the five years after the death of the husband, but is at large, and not touched by the purview of the Act of 4 H. 7. For the purview was againſt thoſe who had right at the time of the fine levied, or had future right upon a cauſe ariſing before; to which future right wrong was done before the fine, or by the fine, &c. but here in caſe of Dower, the title is accrued after the fine, 1. by the death of the husband, for till the death no title was conſummate: And the other two points, 2. intermarriage and ſeiſin of the husband, are not of any reckoning without the third, ſo that all the three points are but one cauſe after the fine. But at this day the ſaid Book of 6 E. 2. and 19 E. 2. are taken for Law: For now no queſtion is made, but that if the husband and wife levy a fine, the wife is barred of her Dower for two Reaſons.

1. Becauſe the intermarriage and ſeiſin are the fundamental cauſes of Dower, and the death of the husband but as an execution thereof.

2. All those who have estate, or title, or claim, joyn in the assurance, and therefore in such case, if the husband and wife have granted a rent by fine out of the land, or have made a lease for years, rendring rent to the husband and his heirs, and afterwards the wife recover Dower, she shall hold it charged with the rent and with the term, according to the Maxim Littleton putteth before. And the opinion of Plo. is not holden for Law, as it appeareth 6 E. 6. Dyer 72. and in Damports Case in 5 Eliz. 224 Dyer. it appeareth, That it was adjudged to the contrary in 4 H. 8. and now common experience without contradiction is against it. And Litt. holdeth, That if feoffee upon condition taketh a wife, the feoffor may enter for the condition broken, and the reason is, because the Law hath principle regard to the original and fundamental cause; and yet it may be said, that the title of Dower is not consummated till the death of the husband, and peradventure the wife shall die before the husband. So in the Case at Bar, the devise and assent of the Executor, are the original and fundamental causes of the interest of Eliz. and the death of J. Morrice the elder is but a mean to produce the same in possession; but the same giveth nothing, but all the interest doth accrue by the devise, and is executed by the assent of the Executor, and therefore as well as in the case of Dower it may be released. And Sir Anthony Fitzherbert in his N. B. 98. holdeth, That if a man levieth a fine of land in ancient demesn at the Common Law to another, now the Lord in ancient demesn shall have a Writ of Disceit against him who levieth the fine, and him who is tenant, and thereby he shall make void the fine, and the Conusor shall be restored to his possession and title which he hath given by the fine. And therewith agreeth 21 E. 3. 20. b. 7 H. 4. 44. against the opinion obiter in 17 E. 3. 31. But if the Conusor after the fine release to the Conusee by his deed being in possession, or by his deed confirm his estate in the land, then the opinion of Fitzherbert is, That the Conusee shall retain and have the land, notwithstanding the fine be avoided, because that this release or confirmation made to him being in possession, maketh his estate firm and rightful against him and his heirs, who releaseth or confirmeth: Which opinion was confirmed to be good Law by the whole Court in this Case. And yet after the fine levied, the Conusee had not any right in the land, but only a possibility, to have the land again after the fine made void by the Writ of Disceit brought by the Lord of whom the land is holden. And Justice Warburton cited Grants Case, adjudged in this Court, Hill. 29. Eliz. rott. 824. where the Case was, That William Grant seised of land in fee holden in socage, by his Will in writing devised the land to John Grant Son of his brother, when he came to the age of 25 years, To have and to hold to him and the heirs of his body, and died, having issue Christian his daughter and heir, who married William Marsh, who had issue John, and the said John Grant after the age of 21 years, and before his age of 25 years, anno 37 H. 8. levied a fine with proclamations, and afterwards he attained to his age of 25 years, and had issue Margaret, and died. If the estate tail in futuro and contingency at the time of the fine levied was barred or not, was the question. And it was resolved, That the estate tail was barred; and yet the Conusor had but a meer possibility to have an estate tail at the time of the fine levied: and that by force of the words of the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 36. all fines levied with proclamations, &c. of any Manors, Lands, &c. before the time of the same fine levied in any wise entailed to the person or persons so levying the same, or to any of his or their Ancestors, &c. And although the said John Grant was not seised by force of the tail at the time of the fine levied, yet by reason of these words (before the fine levied in any wise entailed) estate tail in futuro is comprehended; and all that by force of the said Statute, for partes finis nihil habuerunt: but no Judgment was entred. And it was resolved, That a future right or possibility which may be released, ought to have foundation and original inception as is aforesaid, so it ought to be a necessary and common possibility, which in Cholmleys Case in the Second Part of my Reports, is called potentia propinqua: and a possibility which dependeth upon the death of a man, hath a necessary and common intendment, s. necessary, in respect that all the children of men shall die. Statutum est hominibus semel mori; and common, that the death may happen at such a time that the contingency may take effect, as in 15 H. 7. 10. If lands be given to a married man and a married woman, and to the heirs of their two bodies begotten, it is a good estate tail, for it is of necessity that death follow, and it is a common possibility that one shall die before the other; so that marriage may follow, but in the same case there shall not be a possibility upon a possibility. And therefore if lands are given to a man and two women, there the Law doth not intend that he shall first marry the one, and that then she whom he shall marry shall die, and that he shall marry the other; and therefore in such case they are several inheritances at the beginning. As if lands be given to two men and their wives, and to the heirs of their bodies begotten; in this case the Law shall not expect second marriages, but they in this case shall have joynt estates for life, and one husband and wife shall have one moity in tail in common with the other husband and wife of the other moity, and so several inheritances. And therewith agreeth 24 E. 3. 29. for otherwise there shall be a possibility upon a possibility. And if a man giveth lands to husband and wife (now it is an apparent possibility that they shall have issue) and afterwards they are divorced causa præcontractus, so that the possibility is dissolved, the Law shall never expect a second marriage, for by the divorce they have but an estate of freehold; and therewith agreeth 4 H. 7. 16, and 17. A woman may enfeoff a married man causa matrimonii prælocuti, for it is of necessity that death shall follow, and it is a common possibility that the wife of the feoffee shall die before the feoffee. So the common case of a lease for life, the remainder to the right heirs of I. S. who is then alive, the remainder is good for the necessary and common intendment. But the Case at Bar is stronger than any the other Cases, for it is of necessity that John Morrice the father shall die, and it were then a common intendment that he shall die within 5000 years; for by the Civil Law longissimum vitæ hominum tempus est centum ann': and so it appeareth that in our Law there is jus proprietatis, possessionis & possibilitatis.

[50] [b] [b]

And

And as to the Caſes which have been urged by the Serjeants of the other part. 1. As to the re-
[51] leaſe of the Conuſee in 27 E. 3. and 25 Aſſ. It was reſolved, That the Books were good Law, for there the body is the debtor, and not the land but in reſpect of the body, and the land is not charged with the debt till execution ſued. And therewith agreeth Plo. Com. 72. in Sir Thomas Popes Caſe; and therefore the releaſe made by the Conuſee of all the right in the land, ſhall not barr him of his execution. And it was agreed, That the releaſe of the ſon to the diſſeiſor of his father in the life of the father is utterly void, becauſe the ſon hath not any right, nor foundation, nor original inception of any right in the life of the father. And the Rule put in 13 E. 1. and Bracton, is to be agreed for good Law, if it be well underſtood, s. that he who releaſeth hath right, or foundation, or original inception of a right. And as to Hoes Caſe, it was alſo reſolved to be good Law, for there the thing which ſhould be releaſed, was utterly incertain at the time of the releaſe made; for he who becometh Bail in the Kings Bench, is not bound in any certain ſum, nor any certainty thereof appeareth till Judgment given againſt the defendant; and therefore for the incertainty of the things that ſhall be releaſed, the releaſe of all actions, duties and demands cannot diſcharge it. It was further reſolved, That when there is incertainty in the perſon, no releaſe can be made; and therefore if a leaſe for life be made, the remainder to the right heirs of I. S. and the leſſee is diſſeiſed, and the eldeſt ſon of I. S. releaſeth to the diſſeiſor, and afterwards I. S. dieth, the releaſe is void; for it is incertain whether he ſhould be right heir at the time of the death of his father. And in 17 Eliz. this Caſe was moved at the Bar in the Kings Bench: A man made a leaſe to husband and wife for 21 years, the remainder to the ſurvivor of them for 21 years, and the husband granted over this term; and it was holden by Wray Chief Juſtice, and the whole Court, That the grant was void for the incertainty of the perſon, for although that all chattels reals which belong to the wife the husband may diſpoſe of; yet in this Caſe neither the husband nor the wife had any thing till the ſurvivor. And in the Regiſter Original 239. there is a Formedon brought upon ſuch gift, R. dedit W. & Uxori ejus & hæredibus de corpore alterius ipſorum W. & I. qui diutius viveret exeuntibus, & quod poſt mortem W. & I. præfato T. filio & hæredi ejuſdem W. qui prædict' I. ſupervixit deſcendere debet, &c. So that the gift was to the husband and wife, and to the heirs of the body of the ſurvivor of them: In which as to the eſtate tail, there is incertainty in the perſon, and therefore if they make a leaſe for 21 years, obſerving all the circumſtances required by the Statute of 32 H. 8. yet this leaſe ſhall not binde the iſſue; for, for the incertainty of the perſon of the ſurvivor the eſtate tail was not veſted. And theſe Caſes in my Reports, Albaines Caſe, Diggs Caſe, Rawlins Caſe, Mayowes Caſe, The Rector of Chedingtons Caſe, and Althams Caſe, were affirmed for good Law in the argument of this Caſe, and cited to prove the reaſon of the Rule in the Caſe at Bar.

[b] 4. If the ſaid Elizabeth had died before the firſt deviſee, the Executors or Adminiſtrators of the ſaid Eliz. ſhould have the ſaid term after the death of the firſt deviſee, as appeareth in the ſaid Weldons Caſe in Plo. Com. which is a good proof that Elizabeth her ſelf might releaſe ſuch intereſt, which by her death might come to her Executors or Adminiſtrators. But words make a Plea: For if I be diſſeiſed, and I releaſe all actions to the diſſeiſor, and afterwards the diſſeiſor dieth, I notwithſtanding the releaſe ſhall have a Writ of Entry in the Per and Cui againſt the heir of the diſſeiſor, for this action was not in eſſe at the time of the releaſe made, and actio nihil aliud eſt quam jus proſequendi in judicio quod ſibi debetur. And the ſaid Writ of Entry was not maintainable at the time of the releaſe, no more than if I had died, my heir ſhould not be barred by that releaſe to have a Writ of Entry ſur diſſeiſin againſt the diſſeiſor, upon a diſſeiſin done to me. Vid. 22 H. 6 1. If one bail goods to another, and afterwards the bailor doth releaſe to the bailee all actions, the bailee dieth, in a Writ of Detinue brought againſt the Executors, they ſhall not take advantage of this releaſe, for the ſame determineth by the death of the bailee, and the action given againſt the Executors, is a new action (although of the ſame nature) grounded upon their own deteiner.

5. The legacy or deviſe to Elizabeth is preſent, and in eſſe, although that the intereſt is in future; and therefore the legacy or deviſe may be diſcharged, and by conſequence the intereſt it ſelf; for, qui deſtruit medium deſtruit finem. And therefore if one deviſe to one 20 l. when he cometh to the age of 24 years, and dieth, the legatee after the age of 21 years may releaſe this legacy and deviſe; and although that after he attaineth to the age of 21 years he ſhall be barred thereof, yet by a releaſe of all ſuits and demands it is not releaſed. As if a man by Indenture covenanteth to do a future thing, and before the Covenant broken, the Covenantee releaſeth all actions, quarrels and demands, and afterwards the Covenant is broken, the ſaid releaſe is no barr in an action of Covenant, becauſe the Covenant was to be performed in futuro; but a releaſe of all Covenants had been a good barr, for the Covenant was preſent in eſſe. And therewith agreeth 35 H. 8. Dyer 57. and 4 Eliz. in Bendloes Reports, which Caſe is cited at large in Hoes Caſe before. So in the Caſe at Bar the deviſe is in præſenti, although the performance thereof be in futuro, & qui evertit cauſam evertit cauſatum futurum. So of the goods and chattels of Felons and Fugitives, &c. the inheritance is in eſſe, although the accident be incertain, the ſame Law of Nomine pœnæ, re-
[52] lief, &c. So the Chief Juſtice ſaid, That although no aſſent had been given to the Legacy, yet foraſmuch as Elizabeth claimeth by executory deviſe, ſhe might in the life of the firſt deviſee have releaſed the deviſe and legacy. Vid. Middletons Caſe in the fifth Part of my Reports, That Executors before probate may releaſe a debt, becauſe that although they cannot have an action, yet the intereſt of the action is in them, which they may releaſe.

6. It ſhall be inconvenient that ſuch manner of perpetuity ſhall be made of a chattel, when of inheritance neither by act executed by the Common Law, nor by limitation of uſe, nor by deviſes in laſt Wills, any perpetuity can be eſtabliſhed. And if it ſhall be allowed, it ſhall be the cauſe of contention, ſuits, and other inconveniencies. And it was obſerved, That theſe leaſes for ſo many hundred hundred and thouſands of years, (which were made in truth to deceive and defeat the King or other Lords of their Wards or other lawfull duties) are many times unfortunate, and ſubject to be loſt by Utlawry, or other forfeitures; and if the owner thereof dieth inteſtate, and the Ordinary grant adminiſtration, thereby women loſe their Dowers, men their Tenancies by the Courteſie, and many other inconveniences in ſubverſion of the Common Law will follow; and therefore it ſhall be of all other moſt dangerous to make a perpetuity of them.

And the Chief Juſtice concluded his Argument, as to the firſt point, with a Jugment in this Court, Trinit. 28 Eliz. Rott. 1974. between Hammington Adminiſtrator of Iſabel Oram Plaintiff, and Rudyard and Mary his wife Adminiſtrators of Lawrence Kidwell, in debt upon an Obligation made by Lawrence Kidwell to the ſaid Iſabel; which Obligation was made for performance of Covenants, in an Indenture betwixt Lawrence Kidwell and the ſaid Iſabel: And the Caſe was ſuch; William Hammington poſſeſſed of a houſe in London called Hides houſe for 31 years, by his Will deviſed the profits thereof to the ſaid Iſabel, during the time that ſhe ſhould continue ſole and a widow, and afterwards he deviſed the term to Reynold his ſon, and died, 1 Mar. Iſabel by the aſſent of the Executor entred, and purchaſed the ſaid houſe in fee, and the ſaid Lawrence Kidwell did bargain and ſell by the ſaid Indenture the ſaid houſe to the ſaid Iſabel in fee, and covenanted, That the houſe at the time of the ſaid aſſurance ſhould be clearly diſcharged of all former bargains, ſales, titles, rights, and other charges. The Defendant pleaded Covenants performed. The Plaintiff aſſigned for breach the ſaid deviſe to Iſabel, and afterwards to Reynold as is aforeſaid; and that after the ſaid [b] Indenture, Iſabel had married Oram; whereupon Reynold entred, upon which the Defendant did demurr. And in this Caſe four Points were reſolved.

1. That the ſaid executory deviſe to Reynold was good.

2. Although the whole term was in Iſabel quouſque, &c. ſo that by the purchaſe of the fee ſimple, the intereſt of Iſabel was extinct; yet the ſame did not defeat the executory deviſe of Reynold, but that after the marriage of Iſabel, and not before, he might enter.

3. It was reſolved, That Reynold could not grant his intereſt over, ſo long as Iſabel was ſole.

4. The great difficulty of the Caſe was, foraſmuch as the ſaid Reynold at the time of the ſaid Covenant hat but a poſſibility, that the ſaid Covenant did not extend to it: But it was reſolved, That the ſaid Covenant did extend to it, and to this purpoſe had a being, and alſo might be forfeited; and Judgment was given for the Plaintiff, which Judgment ſtrongly proveth that it might be releaſed.

The ſecond queſtion was moved, admitting the releaſe to the firſt deviſee to be ſufficient to extinct the claim and future intereſt of the ſaid Elizabeth, if the ſame ſhall amend the eſtate of John Morrice the elder, who hath the entire tenure in him, if he live ſo long, or if by his death the leſſors may enter. And it was reſolved, That the ſaid releaſe hath conſolidated and perfected the eſtate of the ſaid John Morrice, that whereas it was determinable before by his death, now he hath the whole term in him abſolutely. But this point is over-ruled before in the ſecond Reaſon, upon the Report of the Caſe in 4 E. 6. It was ſaid, That laxare is properly to ſet priſoners in fetters at liberty; and relaxare is to do it oftentimes; and Metaphoricè, relaxare is to ſet at liberty fettered eſtates and intereſts, and to make them free and abſolute.

The third queſtion was moved in this Caſe, Whether there appeareth any aſſent or agreement of the Executor in this caſe to take the ſaid houſe, &c. by force of the deviſe. For it was agreed by all, as it hath been ſaid before, that firſt he ſhall take it as Executor. And it was reſolved, That when William Taylor and Elizabeth his wife per ſcriptum ſuum, at the ſpecial inſtance and requeſt of the ſaid John Morrice the elder (who was Executor) releaſe, &c. the ſame amounteth to an aſſent, for two cauſes: one, becauſe that he requeſteth it, which implies an aſſent: 2. He accepteth of it, which implieth an aſſent, Non enim refert an quis aſſenſum ſuum præbet verbis, an rebus ipſis & factis, as 44 E. 3. Fines 37. and Litt. Cap. Attornment. If the husband accepteth a grant of the reverſion, &c. it ſhall amount to an Attornment; and in 37 H. 6. 17. he who hath intereſſe termini, ſc. a future intereſt, cannot by expreſs words ſurrender it; but acceptance of a new leaſe ſhall drown it. And in 7 E. 3. 50. the Lord demandeth a Herriot, and the heir delivereth a beaſt, in which he himſelf hath property in his own right to the Lord, it amounteth to a gift. And afterwards in this Term Judgment was given and entred, That the Plaintiff ſhould recover nothing by his Writ. [53]

Trin. 11. Jac. Regis.

The Case of the Chancellor, Masters and Scholars of the University of Oxford.

[b] THE Chancellor, Masters and Scholars of the University of Oxford, brought a Quare impedit against Richard Bishop of Coventry and Lichfield, Edward Basset Gent. and Hugh Mear Clerk, to present to the Church of Draicot in the Moor in the County of Stafford; and counted, That one John Draicot Esq; was seised of the Mannor of Draicot in the County aforesaid, to which the Advowson of the Church of Draicot was appendant in fee, and by his deed granted the next avoidance of the said Church to one George Eyre, and afterwards the said John Draicot died: After whose death the Mannor with the Advowson descended to John Draicot Esq; Cozen and heir of the said John Draicot, &c. Son and heir of Philip Draicot, Son and heir to John Draicot the Grandfather; and further counted, That by an Act of Parliament in the third year of our Lord the King that now is, It was Ordained by authority of Parliament, That the Justices of Assise and Gaol-delivery, and Justices of Peace in their Sessions, shall have authority by force of the same Act to enquire, hear and determine of all Recusancies and offences, as well for not receiving of the Sacrament according to the true meaning of the same Law, as for repairing to the Church, according to the true intent of former Laws, in such manner and form as Justices of Assise and Goal-delivery might do by the former [54] Laws in case of Recusancy for not repairing to the Church: And also shall have power at the Assises and general Goal-deliveries, and at the Sessions, in which any Indictment against any person for not repairing to the Church according to the former Laws, or for not receiving of the Sacrament according to the same Law, shall be taken, shall make proclamation, by which it shall be commanded that the body of every such offender shall be yielded to the Sheriff of the same County, &c. before the next Assises and general Goal-delivery, or before the next general or quarter Sessions to be holden for the County, Limit, Division or Liberty: And if such offender do not appear, that then upon the Recording of every such default, it shall be as sufficient a conviction in Law of the offence of which such person shall be indited as is aforesaid, as if he had been convicted by Verdict. And where by another Act at the same Parliament it is enacted, That every person that then after shall be a Popish Recusant convict, during the time that he shall remain a Recusant after the end of the Session of the said Parliament, shall be disabled to present to any Benefice with Cure or without Cure, Prebend, or living Ecclesiastical, or to confer or nominate to any Free-School, Hospital or Donative whatsoever: And from the beginning of the said Parliament shall be also disabled to grant any Advowson of any Benefice, Prebend, or living Ecclesiastical, That the Chancellor, Master and Scholars of the University of Oxford, so soon as any of them shall be void, shall have the presentation, nomination and collation to every such Benefice, Prebend, or Ecclesiastical living, School, Hospital and Donative, lying or being in the Counties of Oxford, Kent, Middlesex, Sussex, Surrey, Southampton, Berks, Bucks, Gloucester, Worcester, Stafford, Warwick, Wiltshire, Somerset, Devon and Cornwall, &c. which become void during such time as the Patron of them shall remain Recusant convict, as is aforesaid, as by the said Act amongst other things more fully appeareth. And the said John Draicot the Son, of the Mannor aforesaid, to which the Advowson, &c. so being seised, at the Assises and generall Gaol-delivery for the County of Stafford, holden at Stafford within the said County the 29 day of March, in the eighth year of the Reign of the King that now is, was indicted as well for not repairing to the Church, as for not receiving of the Sacrament, and then was proclaimed according to the Statutes thereof made: And that at the next Assises [b] holden the 16 day of August in the said eighth year, he made default, and yielded not his body to the Sheriff; by which the said John Draicot became a Popish Recusant convict: And that the said John Draicot of the Mannor aforesaid, to which, &c. so being seised as aforesaid, the said Church became void by the death of the said John Eyre, and yet is void, and by reason thereof it belongeth to the said Chancellor, Masters and Scholars to present, and the Defendants did disturb them. The Bishop pleaded, That he did not disturb them, &c. And Edward Basset pleaded, That the said John Draicot the son before the said covi&ction of the said John, being seised of the said Mannor to which, &c. sc. 20 Junii, 8. supradict. by his deed granted to the said Edward Basset the next avoidance to the said Church: after which grant, the Church became void by the death of the said George Eyre, for which he presented the said Hugh Meare, who was admitted and instituted. And the said Hugh Meare pleaded, That John Draicot the Cousin was seised of the Advowson aforesaid in fee as in gross, and confessed the Presentment of George Eyre; and pleaded, That the said John Draicot, 1 May, 3 Jac. by his deed granted the next avoidance to the said Edward Basset, and that the Church became void by the death of the said George Eyre, for which he presented, &c. the said Hugh Meare, Absq; hoc quod advocatio præd. pertin. ad præd. manerium de Draicot, &c. The Plaintiff as to the plea of the Ordinary, prayed a Writ to the Bishop, sed cesset Executio, &c. And as to the plea of Edward, the Plaintiff did demurre in Law. And as to the plea of the said Hugh, the Plaintiff replied, Quod advocatio præd. pertin. ad manerium prædictum, & hoc petit quod inquiratur per patriam, & prædict. Hugo similliter. Upon the demurrer upon the plea of Edward, four matters in Law were moved.

1. Forasmuch as the said John Draicot the Son was not a Recusant convict at the time of the grant of the said avoidance to the said Edward Basset, if the grant be made void by the said Statute of 3 Jac.

2. If

2. If this grant being made after the Indictment, if it were not covin apparent, and if ſuch grants ſhall be allowed, to what purpoſe the clauſe in the Statute concerning the ſame ſhall ſerve.

3. Foraſmuch as the ſaid Act giveth the benefit to preſent to the ſaid Church to the Chancellor and Scholars of the Univerſity of Oxford, and they have brought this action by the Name of Chancellor, Maſters and Scholars of the Univerſity of Oxford, which ſhall be intended their true Name of Incorporation, if they ſhall take any benefit of this Act by reaſon of the ſaid Miſnoſmer.

4. Foraſmuch as the Plaintiffs have not added, That at the time of avoidance of the Church, that the ſaid John Draicot continued and remained a Popiſh Recuſant, if the ſame ſhall be intended.

As to the firſt, it was argued by the Councel of the ſaid Edward Baſſet, That by the words and meaning of the ſaid Branch of the Statute, no perſon is diſabled to grant the next avoidance, but he who is a Popiſh Recuſant convict; and therefore the words are, Every perſon or perſons that is or ſhall be Popiſh Recuſant convict. 2. He ſhall be diſabled but onely during the time that he remaineth a Recuſant: for the words are, during the time that he ſhall be or remain a Recuſant, ſhall be diſabled to grant any avoidance: And becauſe that at the time of this grant he was not a Recuſant convict, but onely indicted, for this cauſe he is not ſuch a Recuſant as is deſcribed to be diſabled by the ſaid Act; and by conſequence the ſaid grant is good. Alſo it ſhall be miſchievous if other conſtruction ſhall be made. For put Caſe, That one ſeiſed of an Advowſon in fee reſorts and repairs to Church, according to the Law in ſuch caſe eſtabliſhed, and for good conſideration granteth the next avoidance, and many years after he becometh a Popiſh Recuſant, and thereof be convicted, it ſhall be very hard that this grant ſhould be avoided, for nemo tenetur divinare, and it is not poſſible that the grantee ſhould have foreknowledge of it, which is meerly a future contingent; and it ſhould be alſo againſt reaſon, that a man by his ſubſequent offence ſhould take away a lawfull intereſt veſted by his own grant, upon good conſideration veſted in a ſtranger. [55]

But it was Reſolved by the whole Court, That this Act hath diſabled the ſaid John Draicot the ſon to make this grant, by expreſs words of the Act, which will the clearer appear, if the material words of the Act as to this caſe be ſingled by themſelves in this manner; Every perſon that ſhall be a Popiſh Recuſant convict, during the time that he ſhall be or remain a Recuſant, ſhall be diſabled from the beginning of this Parliament to grant any avoidance. And the ſaid John Draicot is within all theſe words.

1. Where the words are, Every perſon that ſhall be a Popiſh Recuſant convict, within which words it appeareth that John Draicot is.

2. The diſability is temporary, ſc. during the time of Recuſancy.

3. From what time he ſhall be diſabled, ſc. from the beginning of this Seſſion of Parliament: So that ſo long as he remaineth a Recuſant convict, he ſhall be diſabled to make a grant of the next avoidance from the beginning of the Seſſion of the Parliament, & ſumma ratio eſt quæ pro religione facit: And ſuch retroſpects divers Acts of Parliament have had, and allowed by divers Judgments. And therefore it is cited in Plo. Com. in Stradling and Morgan's Caſe, That where the Statute of 31 H. 8. cap. 13. enacteth, That the King ſhall have all the poſſeſſions of Abbeys that then were, and afterwards came in his hands by ſurrender, &c. and in the ſame ſtate as they then were; It hath been adjudged, as it is there ſaid, That if any Colledge after that Statute maketh a leaſe for years, and the ſame Colledge three or four years after ſurrender to the King, that the former leaſes made before the ſurrender ſhall be void; for the King ſhall have the poſſeſſions in the ſame ſtate as then, ſc. at the time of the Act of 31 H. 8. they were, and then they were diſcharged and free of any leaſe. And therewith agreeth Mich. 6 & 7 Eliz. Dyer 231. The Abbot of Ramſey with the aſſent of his Covent late Patrons of Upwell in the County of Northampton, in Aug. 31 H. 8. which was after the Statute of 31 H. 8. of Monaſteries, which began 28 Aprilis, 31 H. 8. granted the next avoidance of the ſaid Church to Sir Ed. Mountague Knight, late Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas; and afterwards in November following, the Abbot and Covent did ſurrender to the King, &c. The intereſt of the next avoidance was conveyed to one Leeds, againſt whom Beaupree the Patentee of the fee ſimple by King E. 6. brought a Quare impedit againſt the Biſhop and Incumbent, and upon pleading to Rejoynder the Caſe aforeſaid appeared; and in the Rejoynder the Saving of the ſaid Act appeared, with ſuch averment, that the ſaid Leeds non eſt, nec fuit, nec eſſe intelligi poteſt aliquis talis perſona, quæ per, ſive in actu prædicto excipitur. And by the Opinion of all the Juſtices, the grant was void againg the King, and ſo adjudged; and the Saving cannot extend to ſuch future intereſts, but extends onely to intereſts in eſſe: And the Record of this Plea began Paſch. 5 Eliz. Rott. 129. in the Common Pleas. Alſo it is enacted by the Statute of 13 Eliz. That all lands, &c. of every Treaſurer, &c. or perſon accomptable to the Queen for any Office or Charge, &c. which he then had, or hereafter ſhould have, ſhall be liable, &c. in like and in as large and beneficial manner, to all intents and purpoſes, as if the ſame Treaſurer had the day he became firſt Officer or Accomptant, ſtood bound by writing Obligatory, having the effect of a Statute Staple to her Majeſty. And in Anno 35 Eliz. it was Reſolved in the Caſe of Sir Chriſtopher Hatton late Chancellor of England, who became ſuch Officer to the Queen in the twentieth year of her Reign, That if ſuch Officer accompt well and truly with the Queen, and oweth her nothing, and in the two and twentieth year of her Reign being in ſuch good caſe purchaſeth lands, and the ſame year conveyeth or leaſeth them to others bona fide upon good and true conſideration; and afterwards in the ſeven and twentieth year by reaſon of the ſaid Office he becometh in arrerages upon his Accompt for four or five years, which is long time after his conveyance or leaſe; That yet the land ſo conveyed or leaſed, ſhall be liable to theſe arrerages by reaſon of the retroſpect of the ſaid words (as if the ſame Treaſurer, &c. had the day he became firſt Officer, &c. ſtood bound, &c.) So in the Caſe at Bar, after that the ſaid [b] [56]

John Draicot was a Popish Recusant convict, during the time that he remaineth a Recusant, he now shall be disabled to grant any next avoidance, by the retrospect of the Act after the beginning of the said Session of Parliament. And the makers of the Act did intend to inflict greater disability upon them who became Popish Recusants, after the damnable and damned Powder Treason, than before.

As to the second, it was Resolved, That Covin shall never be intended or presumed in Law, if it be not expresly added, Quia odiosa & inhonesta non sunt in lege præsumenda, & in facto quod se habet ad bonum & malum, magis de bono quam de malo præsumendum est. And so it was adjudged in the Case of Meriel Littleton, Trin. 10 Jac. in this Court, where the Case was; That Elizabeth Tirer Executrix of the Will of Thomas Tirer, brought an action of Trespas vi & armis against Meriel Littleton and John Daunser, of an Oxe price 6 l. at Hagley in the County of Worcester, 20 Octob. 7 Jac. &c. The Defendants pleaded Not guilty; and the Jurors found a special Verdict, That one Thomas Tirer was seised in fee of 80 acres of land in Hagley, and held them of John Littleton Esq; as of his Mannor of Hagley in the said County by Fealty, and the rent of 3 s. 1 d. ob. suit of Court, & reddend. optimum animal cujuslibet tenentis in feodo simplici post mortem ejusdem tenentis pro Heriotto; of which Mannor the said Meriel Littleton was Tenant for life at the time of the death of the said Thomas Tirer. And the said Thomas Tirer being so seised 16 August, 42 Eliz. by his deed in consideration of fatherly affection to John his Son and heir apparent, and in consideration of a marriage to be had and solemnized betwixt the said John and one Joyce Grove, and for the advancement
[b] of the said John did enfeoff the said John Tirer of the said 80 acres of lands, To have and to hold to him and his heirs, to the use of him and his heirs; by force whereby the said John was thereof seised in his demesn as of fee, and so seised the said 10 of August, anno 24 Eliz. by his deed indented, to the intent the said Joyce should not be endowed during the life of the said Thomas, did redevise the said 80 acres of lands to the said Thomas for fourty years, if the said Thomas should so long live: And that the first day of September following, the marriage betwixt the said John and Joyce was solemnized; and after the said feoffment the said John Tirer did suit at the Court of the said John Littleton Lord of the said Mannor; and that after the feoffment, Thomas paid the rent for the said 80 acres of lands; and afterwards Thomas Tirer, 30 Junii, 7 Jac. died, being possessed of the said Oxe, which was the best beast which he had, and that the Defendants took the Oxe for Heriot after the death of the said Thomas Tirer, as due for the said tenements. And the Jury further found the Statute of 13 Eliz. for avoiding and abolishing of feigned, covenous and fraudulent feoffments, gifts, &c. as well of lands and of tenements, as of goods and chattels; which feoffments, gifts, &c. are devised and contrived of malice, fraud, &c. to the intent to delay, hinder or defraud Creditors and others of their just and lawfull actions, suits, debts, &c. heriots, mortuaries and reliefs, &c. And therefore it is enacted by the said Act, That all feoffments, gifts, &c. of lands, tenements and hereditaments, goods and chattels, &c. to be made to any intent or purpose before declared or expressed, shall be adjudged and taken (as against the Creditor or other person so defrauded or grieved) to be clearly and utterly void and of none effect. And if upon the whole matter the said Meriel and John Daunser are guilty, then they find them guilty, and assess damages to 5 l. and costs 6 d. &c. And this Case was argued at the Bar; and Trin. 10 Jac. it was argued at the Bench, and it was Resolved, That forasmuch as no fraud is found by the Jury, the Court will not adjudge the said feoffment to be fraudulent: and although the Jury have found circumstances and presumptions to incite the Jury to find a fraud, yet the same is but Evidence to the Jury, and not any matter upon which the Court can adjudge fraud; and the Office of Jurors is to adjudge upon their evidence concerning matter of fact, and thereupon to give their Verdict, and not to leave matter of evidence to the Court to adjudge, which appertaineth not unto them. And therefore the Chief Justice held, That if A. bringeth an action upon the Case against B. upon Trover and conversion of Plate, Jewels, &c., and the Defendant plead Not guilty, now it is good evidence prima facie to prove a conversion, That the Plaintiff did request the Defendant to deliver them, and he refused, and therefore it shall [57] be presumed, that he hath converted them to his use. But yet it is but Evidence; and if it be found by special Verdict in such case, that the Plaintiff did request them of the Defendant, and he refused them, it is not a matter upon which the Court can judge any conversion: for the conversion ought to alter the action of Detinue, to a Trespas upon the case, which a denial cannot do in Law; for in every action of Detinue there is alledged in the Declaration a request and refusal, yet it is good Evidence, as hath been said, and so hath alwayes been allowed to prove a conversion, That the Plaintiff did demand the goods, and that the Defendant did refuse to deliver them.

2. The Statute saith, to defraud Creditors and others of their just debts, &c. Heriots; and the Jury have not found, That the said feoffment was made to defraud the Lord of his Heriot, and so they have not found the case within the Statute.

3. If the Son had died in the life of the Father, the Lord should have a Heriot after his death.

4. It was found, That the intent of the feoffment and redevise for years made before the marriage, was to the intent that the said Joyce should not be endowed during the fathers life, but that after his death she should be endowed, although the Son had died in the life of the father: which feoffment being found by the Jury to be made in consideration of marriage, and to this patticular intent concerning the Dower of the Sons wife, shall not be by construction of Law extended to any other intent. And thereupon the Chief Justice put the case in Mich. 9 & 10 Eliz. The Kings Tenant in Capite his Son and heir apparent of seven years is indebted to divers, and sued for his debts in divers Courts, and fearing the hindrance and impoverishing of himself, his wife and children by extent of his lands, &c. for execution of the said debts doth enfeoff divers persons, upon condition, That when he or his heirs shall pay to the feoffees 50 l. that then they shall make such feoffments, and to ſuch uſes as he or his heirs ſhall limit or appoint, or otherwiſe the feoffment to be void, &c. And this feoffment and intent is found by Mandamus returned in the Chancery, Et quod nulla alia cauſa, intentio aut colluſio, viz. ad defraudand. regem, &c. de Cuſtodia hæredum vel terrarum. And although this feoffment was found to be made by fraud and covin (which alwayes is unlawfull) yet foraſmuch as the fraud was to one particular intent, ſc. to defraud the creditors, it ſhall not be extended to any other fraud, ſc. to defraud the King of his Ward, although that in truth and by the event, by this feoffment the King was defrauded of the Wardſhip of the body and lands: And ſo was it reſolved and decreed in the Court of Wards, à fortiori when it is found that this feoffment in the caſe of Meriel Littleton was in conſideration of marriage, and of advancement of his Son, and that the Sons wife ſhould be endowed againſt the one, and not againſt the other. All which are lawfull conſiderations, and the Court ſhall not extend the ſame to an unlawfull intent, nor adjudge upon the whole matter found in this caſe, That the feoffment was made to any other intent then is found by the Jury. [b]

As to the third Objection in the Caſe at Bar, It was reſolved and anſwered three wayes.

1. In an Act of Parliament miſnaming of a Corporation, when the expreſs meaning appeareth, ſhall not avoid the Act no more than in a Will, for Parliamentum, Teſtamentum, & Arbitramentum, are to be taken according to the minds and meanings of thoſe who are parties to them. And therefore when the deſcription of a Corporation in an Act of Parliament or in a Will is ſuch, that the true Corporation meant is apparent, and it is not poſſible to be meant of another Corporation, although that the right Name of the Corporation (which is requiſite to be expreſſed in Grants and Deeds) are not preciſely followed; yet the Act of Parliament and Will ſhall take effect. And therefore in 21 H. 2. Deviſe 27. where any deviſed certain tenements in London for life, the remainder over Eccleſiæ Sancti Andreæ de Holborn, it is adjudged there, That this deviſe is good to the Corporation of the Parſon of the Church of St. Andrew in Holborn and his ſucceſſors; for ſuch deſcription was ſufficient in a Will to expreſs the Parſon of the Church and his ſucceſſors. By the ſame reaſon, if a deviſe be made to Univerſity of Oxford, or to the City of London, or to Trinity Colledge in Cambridge, &c. ſuch a deviſe is good, and therein the true Name of the Corporation is implied; for by theſe deſcriptions the meaning of the deviſor is apparent, that the incorporate Body of every of them ſhall take. So here, when the Parliament giveth the Benefice to the Chancellor and Scholars of Oxford and their ſucceſſors, this deſcription is ſufficient to expreſs the meaning of the makers of the Act, That the Corporation of the Univerſity of Oxford, which hath a Chancellor and Scholars, ſhall take it, and no other Coporation can take it.

2. The Record is well, for the Act is pleaded as if the benefit had been given by the ſaid Act expreſly (as it is implied in Law) to the Chancellor, Maſters and Scholars; and the Defendant hath demurred in Law thereupon, and ſo confeſſed it.

3. This clauſe which giveth this benefit to the Univerſity of Oxford, is a private clauſe, whereof the Judges without pleading of it cannot take notice, and therefore the Judges ought now to take it as it is pleaded.

As to the fourth Objection, inſpecto recordo, It appeareth that the Plaintiff hath averred this feoffment; but after that they have alledged, That the John Draicot the ſon was Papalis recuſans convictus, they have ſaid, ac præd. Johan. Draicot de manerio præd. cum pertin. ad quod, &c. in forma præd. ſeiſito exiſtent. & Papalis recuſans convict. in forma præd. exiſtens & remanens, Eccleſia præd. vacavit per mortem præd. Georgii Eyre. But if the Plaintiffs had not averred it, yet the Court was of opinion it had not been ſufficient, becauſe that they had not enabled themſelves to take benefit of the ſaid Act; and they need not aver, That he yet continueth and remaineth a Recuſant, for when once the Preſentation hac vice was veſted in the Univerſity, although that afterwards the Recuſant conformeth himſelf, or dieth, yet the Univerſity ſhall preſent. [58]

Trin. 11 Jacobi, in the Common Pleas.

The Biſhop of Salisbury's Caſe.

IN a Writ of Second Deliverance brought by Simon Staunton and Henry Knap againſt John Green, of the taking of 127 ſheep at Blewbery, at a place called The Parſonage Slay in the county of Dorſet. The Defendant ſaid, That the place where did contain ſixty acres; and avowed the taking, becauſe that John Biſhop of Salisbury was ſeiſed of the Mannor of Sherborn in the county of Dorſet, whereof the place where, &c. was parcel in his demeſn as of fee in the right of his Biſhoprick, and ſo ſeiſed the laſt of Septem. 27 Eliz. by his Deed ſhewed forth did grant to Edward Green and John Green, & eorum utriq; officium ſuperviſoris omnium maneriorum ſuorum, &c. in Com. Wilts, Dorſet, Berks, & Southampt', & alibi infra regnum Angliæ, by them and their Deputies for whom they will anſwer, To have and to hold to them for time of their lives. And further by the ſame Deed granted to them a rent of 20 Nobles per ann. iſſuing out of the ſaid Mannor of Sherborn, with diet and reaſonable expences for them and their Deputies, equitando & alias occupando, arbitrio ejuſdem Epiſcopi & ſucceſſ. ſuorum, aut auditorum eorum: with clauſe of diſtreſs ſi debito modo petatur; and that the ſaid Grant was confirmed by the Dean and Chapter, 5 Sept. 28 Eliz. in the life of the ſaid [b]

John Biſhop of Salisbury; and that the ſaid office is antiquum officium, and that the ſaid office, [59] together with the aforeſaid fee of 6 l. 13 s. 4 d. were granted by the aforeſaid John Biſhop of Salisbury and his predeceſſors, to ſuch perſon or perſons quibus ſibi placuerit. And ſhewed the death of Edward Green; and that he demanded the rent, and for want of payment did diſtrain, &c. In barr of which Avowry, the Plaintiff pleaded the Statute of 1 Eliz. by which it is enacted, That all gifts, grants, feoffments, fines, and other conveyances or eſtates, from the firſt day of this preſent Parliament to be had, made, done or ſuffered by any Archbiſhop or Biſhop, of any Honors, Caſtles, Mannors, Lands, Tenements or other Hereditaments, parcel of the poſſeſſion of his Archbiſhoprick or Biſhoprick, or united, appertaining or belonging to any of the ſaid Archbiſhopricks or Biſhopricks, or to any perſon or perſons, &c. as in the Statute. And further pleaded, That neither the aforeſaid Office, nor the aforeſaid yearly rent before the ſaid grant, &c. were ever granted by the ſaid Biſhop or any of his predeceſſors, for any longer time then one life, for which the aforeſaid grant by the ſaid John late Biſhop of Salisbury by force of the ſaid Act was void, &c. Upon which barr to the Avowry, the Defendant did demur in Law: And divers dayes it was argued by the Serjeants at the Bar, and this Term it was argued by the Judges at the Bench, and divers Exceptions were taken by the advowants Councel to the barr of the Avowry.

1. That the Avowant in his advowry hath alledged by matter in fact, That the ſaid Office had been granted to ſuch perſon or perſons as the Biſhop pleaſed, &c. and the Defendant in his barr hath pleaded in the Negative, That the ſaid Office, &c. hath not been granted but for life to one, &c. and therefore he ought to have concluded, & hoc querit quod inquiratur per patriam, but he hath concluded all his plea, & hoc paratus eſt verificare; and the Exception was not allowed: for the Avowant hath not alledged, That the ſaid Office had been granted, &c. to divers perſons, but to ſuch perſon or perſons as the Biſhop pleaſed, and in disjunctivis ſufficit alterum eſſe verum.

2. Another Exception was taken to the barr of the Avowry, That it doth not appear by the barr to the Avowry, That John Biſhop of Salisbury the grantor was dead, and it ſhall be intended that he is alive, becauſe the plea of every one ſhall be taken ſtrongeſt againſt him, ambigua reſponſio contra proferentem eſt accipienda; and then if he be alive, the grant of the ſaid Office to two was good, although that never the ſame had been granted to two before, and ſhall bind the Biſhop himſelf for his time; as it hath been adjudged in 32 & 33 Eliz. in this Court, betwixt Sale Plaintiff, and the [b] Biſhop of Coventry and Litchfield Defendant, in a Quare impedit; and Paſch. 39 Eliz. betwixt Hunt and Singleton: which Caſes you may ſee cited in Lincoln Colledge Caſe, in the Second Part of my Reports. Which Caſes were affirmed for good Law by the Court. But the Exception was not allowed, becauſe it appeareth to the Court, that the ſaid John was not now Biſhop of Salisbury; for the Plaintiff in his barr to the Avowry concludes, by which the ſaid grant by the ſaid John late Biſhop of Salisbury, implying and importing that he is not now Biſhop of Salisbury. See the like implications, 13 El. Dyer 304. & 14 El. Dy. 306. b. ſo in 10 E. 4. 18. b. If in Treſpaſs the Defendant plead in barr, That B. leaſed to him the land in which, &c. at will, by force of which he entred, and was and yet is thereof poſſeſſed by force of the leaſe at will, it implieth that the leſſee is alive, for if he were dead the leaſe were at an end, and then he could not be poſſeſſed by force thereof.

3. Another Exception was taken to the Avowry, ſc. That the alledging of the ſame to be antiquum officium, was too general and incertain, but he ought to have preſcribed in it, or ſhewed more certainty than now he hath done: and it was holden a good Exception. And this difference was taken betwixt the allegation of the conveyance to the matter, and the matter it ſelf; as in 11 H. 4. 89. there one to convey him title to a Leet, preſcribeth that he and all thoſe whoſe eſtate he hath in the Hundred have had a Leet, &c. and well; for the preſcription in the Hundred is but the conveyance, and therewith agreeth 19 H. 2. Action upon the Caſe 51. but when he claimeth any thing which lieth in grant by preſcription originally and of it ſelf, he cannot preſcribe in by a Que eſtate; as Littleton holdeth fol. 41. 21 H. 7. 15. &c. So when one will plead Cuſtom in a town, it ſufficeth to ſay that it was antiqua villa, and the Cuſtom. Vid. 22 H. 6. Preſcription 47. & 6 E. 6. Dyer 71. So of an Office, if he claim any thing appertaining to the Office, it ſufficeth to ſay, Quod fuit antiquum officium; but when he claimeth the Office it ſelf, it is not ſufficient to ſay that it is antiquum officium.

As to the matter in Law, it was objected, That the ſaid grant made by the late Biſhop of Salisbury being confirmed by the Dean and Chapter, was not reſtrained by the ſaid Act of 1 Eliz. for divers cauſes: 1. That this caſe was out of the words of the Act, for it was not any part of the [60] poſſeſſions of the Biſhoprick, nor appertaining thereunto. 2. They conceived, that nothing is reſtrained but ſuch heriditaments whereof upon a leaſe made for three lives or 21 years, according to the Statute, a rent may be reſerved, for the words of the Act are, Other then for term of 21 years or three lives, &c. whereupon the old and accuſtomed yearly rent or more ſhall be reſerved, &c. and in this caſe no rent can be reſerved. 3. A difference was taken betwixt an Office in eſſe in the right of his Biſhoprick, for the ſame may be ſaid parcel of his poſſeſſions, and ſuch an Office as the Biſhop himſelf cannot exerciſe, cannot be ſaid parcel of his poſſeſſions. 4. If a grant for two lives with the ancient fee ſhall by conſtruction of the Statute be reſtrained, then by conſequence a grant for one life onely ſhall be alſo reſtrained; for by which words or conſtruction ſhall a grant for two lives of the ſaid Office with the ancient fee, be reſtrained, and not for one life? But it was Reſolved by the whole Court, That the ſaid Office for two lives was void againſt the ſucceſſor by the ſaid Act of 1 Eliz.

And in the argument of this caſe, four things were conſidered: 1. What the Common Law was before any Statute made thereof. 2. What alteration the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 28. hath made. 3. What is done by the ſaid Act of 1 Eliz. And laſtly, If the ſaid grant to two of the ſaid Office ſhall be reſtrained by the ſaid Act of 1 Eliz. againſt the ſucceſſor.

And

And as to the firſt, it was Reſolved, That at the Common Law the Biſhop with the conſent of the Chapter might by their Charters of feoffments, grants or leaſes bind their ſucceſſors; and therefore ſuch grant to two of the ſaid Office for their lives had been good by the Common Law, although the ſame were granted to two before. Wherein was obſerved the Wiſdom of the Sages of the Law, That no ſole Corporation was ever truſted with the diſpoſe of the poſſeſſions, as to bind his ſucceſſors, but in ſuch they ought to have the conſent of others, as the Biſhop of his Dean and Chapter, the Abbot the conſent of his Covent, the Parſon the conſent of the Patron and Ordinary, and ſo of the reſt.

As to the ſecond, The Statute of 32 H. 8. hath enlarged the power of the Biſhop, for by this Act he may make a leaſe for 21 years or three lives, with divers limitations. 1. That every old leaſe be expired within one year, &c. 2. That the land ought to be uſually demiſed to farm by the ſpace of 20 years, &c. and that the Biſhop may do onely by deed indented, following the limitations in the Statute, without the Dean and Chapter.

As to the third and fourth point, it was Reſolved, That by the Act of 1 Eliz. the Biſhops are generally reſtrained to any eſtate or intereſt of any lands, tenement or heraditament parcel of his Biſhoprick, or of any charge or incumbrance out of it, or of any other thing in their diſpoſition to bind the ſucceſſor, but onely a leaſe for 21 years or three lives, of ſuch lands, tenements and hereditaments which have been uſually demiſed, and upon which the uſual rent ſhall be reſerved according to the ſaid Act of 1 Eliz. And if they make any leaſe of any lands uſually demiſed, and reſerve the uſual rent according to the Statute of 1 Eliz. yet if all the limitations preſcribed by the Statute of 32 H. 8. be not purſued, as if it be not all in poſſeſſion, or that the old leaſe be not expired or ſurrendred with one year (which is not prohibited by the Statute of 1 Eliz. as it was adjudged in Foxe's Caſe) then ſuch leaſe ſhall not bind the ſucceſſor, if it be not confirmed by the Dean and Chapter. For the Statute of 1 Eliz. doth not enable any Archbiſhop or Biſhop onely to make any leaſe. And ſuch conſtruction hath been made as is aforeſaid, to diſable the Biſhop to do any thing (if not to make a leaſe for 21 years or three lives as aforeſaid) concerning the Biſhoprick to bind his ſucceſſor; as the grant of the next avoidance by the Biſhop of another to a Benefice, although it be confirmed by the Dean and Chapter, is reſtrained by the Statute of 1 Eliz. to bind his ſucceſſor, as it hath oftentimes been adjudged, becauſe it was ſuch an hereditament upon which a rent cannot be reſerved: For all that which is not permitted by the Exception, ſc. Other then, &c. is reſtrained as to the ſucceſſor by the general purview of the Act. But ſuch grant ſhall bind the Biſhop himſelf, notwithſtanding that the Statute ſaith it ſhall be void to all intents, conſtructions and purpoſes; for the makers of the Act did intend not onely the advancement of Religion, when the Profeſſors of Divinity ſhould have duplicem honorem, ſc. honorem reverentiæ, and honorem beneficentiæ; but alſo the increaſe of good Hoſpitality, and avoiding of dilapidations and the ruine of the Church, which the ſucceſſor, if the acts of his predeceſſor ſhould bind him, ſhould not be able to repair or build again: and therefore the Act regarded more the ſucceſſion, than the Biſhop himſelf. See Elmer's Caſe in the Fifth Part of my Reports, and Jewel's Caſe ibid. the Caſe of Eccleſiaſtical Perſons, and Eitrue's Caſe, and divers other Caſes upon the Statute of 13 Eliz. cap. 10. concerning Deans and Chapters, &c. which Statute is couſin German to this Act of 1 Eliz. And theſe words in the Act of 1. (Parcel of the poſſeſſions of his Biſhoprick, or united, belonging or appertaining to the ſaid Archbiſhoprick or Biſhoprick) And it may be well and fitly ſaid, That the gift and diſpoſition of this office, and all other the like, are belonging to the Archbiſhoprick or Biſhoprick: [61] for although the Biſhop by himſelf cannot exerciſe ſuch office, yet he hath an inheritance in the gift and diſpoſe thereof, as it is holden in the Earl of Rutland's Caſe in the Eighth Part of my Reports. And theſe words (belonging to the Archbiſhoprick or Biſhoprick) ſhall be taken for, concerning the Archbiſhoprick and Biſhoprick. And therefore if a Writ of Annuity be brought againſt a Biſhop upon title of Preſcription or otherwiſe, and Judgment be given againſt him upon verdict or confeſſion, the ſame is reſtrained by this Act, becauſe that the Biſhop is charged with the Annuity in reſpect of his Biſhoprick, and therefore the ſucceſſor ſhall be charged with the arrearages incurred in the life of the predeceſſor, as it is agreed in 21 H. 7. 4. 34 E. 3. Scire facias 154. 48 E. 3. 26. 22 H. 6. 10. 33 H. 6. 44. And yet the Annuity is not iſſuing out of the Biſhoprick, as appeareth in 10 H. 6. 10, & 10 E. 4. 10. But becauſe it concerneth the Biſhoprick, and tendeth to the diminution of the revenues, and the impoveriſhing of ſucceſſors, it is reſtrained by the Statute of 1 Eliz. Then to anſwer the Objection which hath been made, Wherefore a grant of the ſaid office to one onely ſhould be good. To that it was anſwered, and reſolved by the Court, That if the office hath been ancient and neceſſary, the grant thereof with the ancient fee is not any diminution of the revenue, nor impoveriſhing of the ſucceſſor, and therefore for neceſſity ſuch grants are by conſtruction exempted out of the general reſtraint of this Act of 1. For as Bracton ſaith, fo. 247. Illud quod alias licitum non eſt, neceſſitas facit licitum, & neceſſitas inducit privilegium quod jure privatur. And if Biſhops ſhall not have power to grant ſuch offices of ſervice and neceſſity for the life of the grantees, but that their eſtates ſhould depend upon incertainties, as upon the death, tranſlation, &c. of the Biſhop, then able perſons would not ſerve them in ſuch offices, or at leaſt would not diſcharge their office with any alacrity, if they have not ſuch certain eſtates for their lives, as their predeceſſors had in the ſame offices. But when the ancient office hath been granted to one, it is not of neceſſity to grant the ſame to two, and therefore ſuch grant is not exempted out of the general reſtraint, no more than if the Biſhop grant an office with the ancient fee to one, and afterwards he granteth it in reverſion to another, the ſame is reſtrained by the Statute, becauſe it is not of neceſſity. [b] And if the Biſhop grant ſuch offices to two, he migh grant them without any limitation of lives, and by conſequence in infinitis. And ſo if he might grant it to one in reverſion, he might grant it to others without any limitation; and by the ſame reaſon he might grant it in tail or in fee, which ſhould be altogether againſt the meaning of the ſaid Act of 1 Eliz. And of ſuch opinion was Popham Chief Juſtice, Mich. 44 & 45 Eliz. in Scambler's Caſe. Vide 23 Eliz. Dyer 370. Horne Biſhop of Winchester after the Statute of 1 Eliz. granted to Doctor Dale a rent for life out of the Mannor of Waltham pro conſilio, &c. The Biſhop died; Doctor Dale, becauſe that the rent was void by the death of the grantor, brought an action of debt for the arrerages incurred in his life, againſt his Executors: in which two points are to be obſerved; 1. That the grant was not void againſt the Biſhop himſelf; the other, That although the rent was iſſuing out of the poſſeſſions, and not parcel, it was void by his death. Trinit. 30 Eliz. rott. 346. in this Court, The Biſhop of Cheſter after the Statute of 1. Eli. granted to George Bolton one Annuity of five Marks per ann. for his life pro conſilio impenſo & impendendo, which was confirmed by the Dean and Chapter, and afterwards the Biſhop died; Bolton brought a Writ of Annuity againſt the ſucceſſor, and in his Declaration averred, That the predeceſſors of the Biſhop had granted reaſonable fees (but did not aver that this fee had been granted before) and averred, that he was homo conſiliarius & in lege peritus; and the opinion of the Court was againſt the Plaintiff, and therefore he never had Judgment. But there it was reſolved, That although the ſaid Biſhoprick was founded of late time, ſc. in the time of H. 8. yet grant of offices of neceſſity to one in poſſeſſion with a reaſonable fee (the reaſonableneſs of which ſhall be decided in the Court of Juſtice in which it ſhall depend) is good, and as hath been ſaid, exempted out of the general reſtraint of the ſaid Act. And the Court took no regard to that, that it did not appear, That Ed. Green one of the grantees died. For admit that he died in the life of the ſaid Biſhop, ſo that now againſt the ſucceſſor one onely hath the office; yet the grant by force of the ſaid Act of 1. Eliz. is void as to the ſucceſſors, quia quæmalo inchoata ſunt principio, vix eſt ut bono peragantur exitu, & quod initio non valet, tractu temporis non convaleſcit. And the Statute of 1 Eliz. hath at the time of the grant adjudged it void as to the ſucceſſor, which no ſucceeding accident can make good: No more than if a Biſhop make a leaſe for four lives, and one dieth in his life time, ſo that now there are but three lives, and afterwards he dieth, yet it ſhall not bind the ſucceſſor, although that all other circumſtances required by the Statute of 32 H. 8. be obſerved.

5. It was Reſolved, That the grant of any ancient office to one with the ancient fee by a Biſhop, ſhall not bind his ſucceſſor, if it be not confirmed by the Dean and Chapter. For ſuch grants are not, as appeareth before, reſtrained by the Statute of 1 Eliz. and therefore remain at the Common Law, and by conſequence ought to be confirmed by the Dean and Chapter.

Alſo no regard was had by the Court, That it did not appear that John the Biſhop was dead; for nuper Epiſcopus doth imply a tranſlation, or other removing, as well as death, but it is all one; for if he be tranſlated, depoſed, or otherwiſe removed, the grant is void againſt the ſucceſſor.

Laſtly, although it doth not appear, that there was any ſucceſſor at the time of the diſtreſs (for put caſe there was not any ſucceſſor then made) yet it is not material; for the grant did determine by the death or removing of the ſaid John the Biſhop. And afterwards this term, Judgment was given for the Plaintiffs Simon Stanton and Henry Knap, and againſt the ſaid John Green who claimed the ſaid office.

Note Reader, The ſubject of this Caſe is but ſmall, and the conſequence great: And where by force of an Exception in the Statute of 1 Eliz. any Archbiſhop or Biſhop might with the conſent of the Dean and Chapter convey any of their poſſeſſions to the King, his Heirs and Succeſſors, of any eſtate whatſoever; Our Sovereign Lord the King that now is, of his Piety and Devotion to Religion, and for the Honour of it, and that ſuch poſſeſſions which were given by his Noble Progenitors Kings of England, ſhould not be converted to private uſes, Hath at his Parliament, and by authority of the ſame, reſtrained them to make any Conveyance or Eſtate, either to himſelf, or to any of his heirs and ſucceſſors. And ſo you will underſtand what acts an Archbiſhop or Biſhop may do concerning their poſſeſſions without the aſſent of the Dean and Chapter; and what he may do with the aſſent of the Dean and Chapter; and what he may not do, although they be with the aſſent of the Dean and Chapters.

Whiſtlers' Caſe.

IN a Quare Impedit by John Whiſtler Gent. Plaintiff, and John Biſhop of Oxford, and Iſaac Singleton Clerk Defendant, for the Church of Whitechurch in the County of Oxford: The Caſe was ſuch; Queen Elizabeth was ſeiſed of the Mannor of Whitechurch, to which the Advowſon of the ſaid Church of Whitechurch was appendant in her Demeſn as of fee in the right of her Crown, and ſo ſeiſed 24 Aprilis, ninth of her Reign, by her Letters Patents demiſed the ſaid Mannor with the appurtenances to William Smith, except Advowſons of Churches, &c. for 21 years; and afterwards the Queen 22 May, 27 of her Reign, reciting the ſaid demiſe of the ſaid Mannor to William Smith, with the exception of the Advowſon, made another leaſe in reverſion to the ſaid William Smith of the ſaid Mannor with the appurtenances, except the Advowſon, and afterwards Queen Eliz. died; and the King that now is, in conſideration of ſervice, ac ex certa ſcientia & mero motu, granted to Sir George Howme Knight, totum illud manerimm ſive dominium de Whitechurch in Com. noſtro Oxon. cum ſuis juribus, membris, & pertin. univerſit. Ac omnia & ſingula domos, & ædificia, &c. & hæreditamenta noſtra quæcunque prædicto manerio ſive dominio de Whitechurch ſive alicui inde parcell. quoquo modo ſpectan. ſive pertinen. cuidam Willielmo Smith per literas patentes dictæ nuper Reginæ Eliz. ſub magno ſigillo ſuo Angliæ pro termino 21 annorum, exceptis quæ in eiſdem literis patentibus excipiuntur, mentionat. fore dimiſſ. ac poſtea per alias patentes; and mentioned the leaſe in reverſion, and in which is alſo the like clauſe, Exceptis quæ in eiſdem literis patentibus excipiuntur, mentionat. fore dimiſſa, Ac ulterius de uberiori gratia noſtra ſpeciali, ac ex certa ſcientia & mero motu noſtris, damus & concedimus præfato Georgio Howme Militi hæredibus & aſſignatis ſuis imperpetuum omnia & ſingula meſuagia, &c. tenementa prædicto manerio ſive dominio de Whitechurch quoquo modo ſpectan. ſive pertin', &c. Damus ulterius, & per præſentes pro nobis hæredibus & ſucceſſoribus noſtris, concedimus præfat. Georgio Howme Militi hæredibus & aſſignatis ſuis imperpetuum prædictum manerium ſive dominium de Whitechurch, ac cætera omnia & ſingula præmiſſa ſuperius per præſentes conceſſa cum eorum pertin. univerſis adeo plene & integre, & in tam amplis modo & forma prout ea omnia & ſingula præmiſſa aut aliqua inde parcella ad manus noſtras, &c. devenerunt, ac in manibus noſtris jam exiſtunt. [63] [b]

And if the Advowſon appendant to the ſaid Mannor of Whitechurch ſhall paſs by theſe Letters Patents, or not, was the queſtion. And divers Objections were made at the Bar that the Advowſon ſhould not paſs: 1. Becauſe no expreſs mention was made of the Advowſon; and it is enacted by the Statute of Prærogativa Regis, Cap, 15. Quando dominus Rex dat vel concedit alicui manerium vel terram cum pertin', niſi faciat in charta ſua vel ſcripto expreſſam mentionem de feodis militum, advocationibus eccleſiarum & dotibus, cum acciderint, ad prædict. manerium vel terram pertin', tunc his diebus Rex reſervat ſibi eadem feoda & advocat. cum dotibus, licet inter alias perſonas non fuerint obſervata. And in this caſe the King made not expreſs mention of the Advowſon. The 2 Reaſon was, That when the King firſt granteth the Mannor of Whitechurch, cum pertin', without making mention of the Advowſon, it is as much in Judgment of Law, as if the Advowſon had been excepted in expreſs words; and then when by the latter clauſe the King granteth præd. manerium cum pertin. ac cætera omnia & ſingula præmiſſa ſuperius per præſentes conceſſa cum eorum pertin. univerſis, adeo plenè & integrè. &c. this word (prædict.) hath reference to the Mannor mentioned before, which Mannor was granted without the Advowſon; and therefore this clauſe being reſtrained by this word (prædict.) and by theſe words (& cætera omnia & ſingula præmiſſa ſuperius per præſentes conceſſa) the Advowſon ſhall not paſs: And yet peradventure (as it was ſaid) if in the ſame clauſe the King had granted totum manerium noſtrum de Whitechurch in Com. noſtro Oxon. adeo plenè & integrè, & in tam amplis modo & forma prout idem manerium ad manus noſtras devenit & modo in manibus noſtris exiſtit, it might paſs. 3. It was objected, That the original grant is reſtrained by this word (illud) manerium, and by theſe ſubſequent words, cuidam Willielmo Smith per literas patentes, exceptis quæ in eiſdem literis patentibus excipiuntur, mentionat. fore dimiſſa & conceſſa; in which demiſe to Smith the Advowſon was expreſly excepted, and ſo upon the matter by this reference the Advowſon is excepted out of this grant. The 4. Objection was, That theſe words (exceptis quæ in eiſdem literis patentibus excipiuntur) ſhall be an exception out of the grant of the King that now is, and then againſt the expreſs exception, the general words afterwards ſhall not paſs it; for conſtruction ought to be made upon all the Letters Patents, that one part may ſtand with the other. [64]

To which it was anſwered and Reſolved by the Court, That when he Kings grant in general terms doth refer to a certainty, it contains as much certainty, as if the certainty had been expreſſed in the grant it ſelf, although that the certainty to which the reference is, be not of Record, but lieth in averment by matter in pais or in fact. And firſt was conſidered, what the Law was in this caſe before the Statute of Prærogativa Regis. And it was agreed, That before that Statute, If the King had granted a Mannor to which an Advowſon was appendant, without making mention of the Advowſon, or without ſaying cum pertin', that the Advowſon ſhould paſs. And ſo is the Book adjudged in 43 E. 3. 22. That were the Earl Marſhal was ſeiſed of the Mannor of A. to which an Advowſon was appendant, and gave the ſaid Mannor to King H. 3. to him and his heirs, for which gift the King granted to him and his heirs 50 Marks per annum, till he was infeoffed of ſo much land, as fully and entirely as he had the Mannor of A. of his gift; and afterwards King H. 3.

gave the ſaid Mannor of A. to which the Advowſon was appendant, without ſaying cum pertin', to the ſaid Earl Marſhal and his heirs for the ſame 50 Marks, and becauſe that the Mannor was more worth by 5 l. rendring 5 l. per annum, &c. And although the grant of King H. 3. ſpake nothing de pertin', nor of his fees, nor of Advowſons, yet it was adjudged that the Advowſon ſhould paſs. And Mowbray Chief Juſtice rehearſed, although King H. 3. hath given the Mannor without ſaying cum pertin', at which time the Advowſon paſſed by the Kings gift, as by the gift of another common perſon; and all times before the Statute of Prærogat. Regis, which Statute was in the time of the Grandfather of the King that now is: So that at all times before the Advowſon ſhall paſs by ſuch gift. For which cauſe Judgment was given, That by the ſaid grant of King H. 3. of the Mannor, the Advowſon ſhould paſs. And ſo there it is holden, That before the ſaid Statute, that by the Kings grant of a Mannor, the Tenure by Eſcuage ſhall paſs. And all this is proved by the Act it ſelf, which Act hath altered the Common Law; for the words of it are, Tunc hiis diebus rex reſervat ſibi eadem feoda & advocation. Eccleſiæ, &c. and the book ſaith ſo it is proved by the words
[b] (hiis diebus) began the Prerogative. And therewith agreeth 44 E. 3. 20. That by feoffment of the Mannor by the Common Law, without ſaying cum pertin', the Advowſon ſhould paſs; and although the feoffment be by word, the Advowſon ſhall paſs. And therewith agreeth the book in 39 E. 3. 21. that before this Statute the Advowſon ſhall paſs. Vide 19 E. 2. Br. 844. 8 H. 7. 4. 18 E. 3. 15. And it is to be obſerved, That the Act of Prærogativa Regis doth not reſtrain but the ſaid three caſes, ſc. Advowſons, Knights ſervices, and the Endowments of women. For a Leet ſhall paſs without expreſs mention, or words equipollent, as it is holden in 18 H. 6. 12. ſo ſhall paſs a Foreſt appendant to an Honour, as it is agreed in 26 Aſſ. p. 60. the ſame Law of a Corrody appendant to the Patronage of a Priory, as appeareth in 26 Aſſ. p. 63. and ſo of the like. Alſo the words of this Act are, Quando Dominus Rex dat vel concedit, and therefore in caſe of Reſtitution, Advowſons, and Knights Services, ſhall paſs without expreſs mention of them, or words equivalent, as in Livery to heirs. 2. In reſtitution of the Temporalties to the ſucceſſor of a Biſhop, and the like. 41 E. 3. 5. 27 Aſſ. 48. Plo. Com. the Lord Berkley's Caſe 251, 252. 20 Eliz. Dyer 306. But there Thorp Chief Juſtice ſaith in the ſame plea, That if a Mannor to which an Advowſon is appendant be in the Kings hands by eſcheat or by purchaſe, if the King at this day (after the ſaid Act of Prærogativa Regis) giveth the Mannor to a man as intirely as ſuch a one held the ſame before it came to the Kings hands by way of eſcheat; or as ſuch a one held it who enfeoffed us, that the Advowſon ſhall paſs without ſaying in the grant, cum feodis & advocationibus; and the cauſe is, becauſe the Law doth intend that in ſuch caſe the King is informed of his right: quod curia conceſſit. By which it is to be obſerved, 1. That although the reference in the Kings grant be to matter in pais or in fact, that if the truth be, that the Advowſon be appendant that it ſhall paſs, for in Judgment of Law it is equivalent to an expreſs mention of the Advowſon (as the Statute ſpeaketh) in the grant. 2. Although the King grant the Mannor onely as entirely, &c. yet the Advowſon ſhall paſs. And therewith agreethe John Darcie's Caſe, That if a man hath a Mannor to which an Advowſon is appendant, and Franchiſe to have forfeitures and other franchiſes within the Mannor, and afterwards the Mannor cometh to the King by forfeiture of War, and afterwards the King giveth the Mannor to hold with the Franchiſes which were alwayes belonging to the ſaid Mannor as ſuch a one held, he ſhould have the Franchiſes. And there Sir William Herle ſaid, That it ſhall be a new grant, for the Franchiſes which lay in point of Charter were come to the Crown. In which firſt is to be obſerved, That [65] if a man hath a Mannor, in which Mannor the owners thereof have had Franchiſes which lie in point of Charter, as forfeitures for Treaſon, and the like Royal Franchiſes; and afterwards the Mannor with the Franchiſes cometh to the Kings hands, and the King granteth the Mannor with the forfeitures of Treaſon and other Franchiſes which were appertaining to the ſaid Mannor as ſuch a one held, That all the ſaid Franchiſes ſhould paſs, and theſe words (which were appertaining to the ſaid Manner) ſhall be taken in this ſenſe, which were lawfully enjoyed within the ſaid Mannor, as entirely as ſuch a one had them. And yet according to the ſtrict propriety of the words, ſuch Franchiſes could not be appertaining to the Mannor. But ſuch conſtruction that ſhall make the true intention of the King expreſſed in his grant to take effect, is for the Kings honour, and ſtands with the Rule of Law. And therefore this word (appertaining) ſhall in ſuch caſe of the Kings grant be taken out of the proper ſignification. 2. It is to be marked, that in the ſame caſe ſuch Franchiſes which lay in point of Charter ſhall paſs as by a new grant, à fortiori Franchiſes appendant or pertaining to a Mannor, as Advowſons, Fairs, Markets, Warrens, &c. (which alwayes continue in being, and are never extinct in the Crown) ſhall paſs. It is ſaid in Plo. Com. 12. in Fogaſſe's Caſe, If the King at this day grant over certain lands which have come to his hands before, and further grant to the grantee tales libertates, privilegia, juriſdictiones, &c. that he had who was laſt ſeiſed of the lands, where the King knoweth not the certainty of the liberties and priviledges, yet the grant is good enough, and the Patentee may enquire what liberties and priviledges the other had before; and foraſmuch as this incertainty may be reduced to a certainty by enquiry or circumſtance, the grant is good. V. the Caſe of the Abbot of Mercella in the 9 Part of my Reports. 18 Eliz. Dyer 350, 351.

As to the ſecond Objection, It was anſwered and Reſolved, That it is true, That if the ſaid clauſe of adeo plenè & integrè had been omitted, &c. that then the Advowſon had not paſſed by the firſt clauſe, but by the addition of the latter clauſe, all the parts of the Letters Patents taking effect at one time, the Advowſon ſhall paſs as appendant: and this word (prædict.) doth not reſtrain the paſſing of the Advowſon, but deſcribeth what Mannor it is, and then the adding of theſe words (adeo plenè & integrè & in tam amplis modo & forma) expreſs the Kings intent to paſs it as intirely as the Mannor came to his hands, or otherwiſe the ſaid words adeo plenè, &c.) ſhould not take their right and integrè, &c. came in the first clause of the grant, but is a new clause by it self; and then in the last clause, this word (prædict.) is alwayes added; and so in truth was the case in 18 Eliz. Dyer 350, 351. For it appeareth by the Letters Patents by Queen Elizabeth mentioned in the said Case, That the Rectory of Westbodwin, to which the Advowson of the Vicarage was appendant, came to the King by the attainder of E. for Felony, and was concealed, the Queen Elizabeth granted totam illam Rectoriam de W. in Com. Wilts. cum suis juribus, membris & pertin. universis, nec non omnia & singula messuagia, &c. & hæreditamenta parcell. spectan. sive pertin. dictæ Rectoriæ: Et ulterius, &c. Concessimus præd. Rectoriam cum pertin. cæteraque præmissa cum pertin. adeo plenè & integrè & in tam amplis modo & forma, quantitate & qualitate prout, &c. the Felon had it and as it came to her hands. And it was adjudged that the Advowson did pass without express or special mention. Also the words were ex certa scientia & mero motu, and so the Queen was not deceived. Which being a Judgment in the point consonant to the Resolution in old time, and agreeing with common experience and opinions of Learned men, the same was not worth any question to be made of it. And thereupon it was concluded, That if the King hath the Mannor of D. in the County of Northumberland, and some of the rents and services extend into Cumberland, and the King granteth the Mannor of D. in the County of Northumberland, & omnia & singula messuagia, &c, redditus, servitia, & hæreditamenta in dicto Comitatu Northumberland seu alibi parcell. prædicti manerii, &c. That the rents and services in the County of Cumberland shall pass; for (prædict.) is but a description of the Mannor, and these words (aut alibi) ought to have some effect. And therefore in as much that in such case all parts of the Charter take effect at one time, these words (aut alibi) shall be in Judgment of Law annexed to the first clause, and shall be of such effect as if the King had granted the Mannor of D. and all rents and services, parcel of the said Mannor in the County of N. or elsewhere; and that stands with the Rule of good construction, sc. to make all the words of the Letters Patents, according to the true meaning of the King expressed in them to take effect.

As to the third Objection, Although that the first clause of the grant doth refer to the demise in which the Advowson is excepted; yet by the middle clause all tenements, &c. appertaining to the Mannor are granted; and the last clause granteth the Mannor with the appurtenances, &c. adeo plenè & integrè, so that the answer to the second Objection, answereth this also. [66]

As to the fourth Objection, it was Resolved without any difficulty, that the Exception shall be extended onely to leases recited, and not to be any exception out of the Letters Patents of the fee simple. And accordingly Judgment was given that the Advowson should pass.

The Case of the Wardens of the Church of St. Saviours in Southwark.

IN an Information of Intrusion preferred in the Court of Exchequer by the Kings Attorney-General, which is entred Hill. 5 *Jac. And therewith agreeth the book in 39 E. 3. 21. that before this Statute the Advowſon ſhall paſs. Vide 19 E. 2. Br. 844. 8 H. 7. 4. 18 E. 3. 15. And it is to be obſerved, That the Act of Prærogativa Regis doth not reſtrain but the ſaid three caſes, ſc. Advowſons, Knights ſervices, and the Endowments of women. For a Leet ſhall paſs without expreſs mention, or words equipollent, as it is holden in 18 H. 6. 12. ſo ſhall paſs a Foreſt appendant to an Honour, as it is agreed in 26 Aſſ. p. 60. the ſame Law of a Corrody appendant to the Patronage of a Priory, as appeareth in 26 Aſſ. p. 63. and ſo of the like. Alſo the words of this Act are, Quando Dominus Rex dat vel concedit, and therefore in caſe of Reſtitution, Advowſons, and Knights Services, ſhall paſs without expreſs mention of them, or words equivalent, as in Livery to heirs. 2. In reſtitution of the Temporalties to the ſucceſſor of a Biſhop, and the like. 41 E. 3. 5. 27 Aſſ. 48. Plo. Com. the Lord Berkley's Caſe 251, 252. 20 Eliz. Dyer 306. But there Thorp Chief Juſtice ſaith in the ſame plea, That if a Mannor to which an Advowſon is appendant be in the Kings hands by eſcheat or by purchaſe, if the King at this day (after the ſaid Act of Prærogativa Regis) giveth the Mannor to a man as intirely as ſuch a one held the ſame before it came to the Kings hands by way of eſcheat; or as ſuch a one held it who enfeoffed us, that the Advowſon ſhall paſs without ſaying in the grant, cum feodis & advocationibus; and the cauſe is, becauſe the Law doth intend that in ſuch caſe the King is informed of his right: quod curia conceſſit. By which it is to be obſerved, 1. That although the reference in the Kings grant be to matter in pais or in fact, that if the truth be, that the Advowſon be appendant that it ſhall paſs, for in Judgment of Law it is equivalent to an expreſs mention of the Advowſon (as the Statute ſpeaketh) in the grant. 2. Although the King grant the Mannor onely as entirely, &c. yet the Advowſon ſhall paſs. And therewith agreethe John Darcie's Caſe, That if a man hath a Mannor to which an Advowſon is appendant, and Franchiſe to have forfeitures and other franchiſes within the Mannor, and afterwards the Mannor cometh to the King by forfeiture of War, and afterwards the King giveth the Mannor to hold with the Franchiſes which were alwayes belonging to the ſaid Mannor as ſuch a one held, he ſhould have the Franchiſes. And there Sir William Herle ſaid, That it ſhall be a new grant, for the Franchiſes which lay in point of Charter were come to the Crown. In which firſt is to be obſerved, That [65] if a man hath a Mannor, in which Mannor the owners thereof have had Franchiſes which lie in point of Charter, as forfeitures for Treaſon, and the like Royal Franchiſes; and afterwards the Mannor with the Franchiſes cometh to the Kings hands, and the King granteth the Mannor with the forfeitures of Treaſon and other Franchiſes which were appertaining to the ſaid Mannor as ſuch a one held, That all the ſaid Franchiſes ſhould paſs, and theſe words (which were appertaining to the ſaid Mannor) ſhall be taken in this ſenſe, which were lawfully enjoyed within the ſaid Mannor, as entirely as ſuch a one had them. And yet according to the ſtrict propriety of the words, ſuch Franchiſes could not be appertaining to the Mannor. But ſuch conſtruction that ſhall make the true intention of the King expreſſed in his grant to take effect, is for the Kings honour, and ſtands with the Rule of Law. And therefore this word (appertaining) ſhall in ſuch caſe of the Kings grant be taken out of the proper ſignification. 2. It is to be marked, that in the ſame caſe ſuch Franchiſes which lay in point of Charter ſhall paſs as by a new grant, à fortiori Franchiſes appendant or pertaining to a Mannor, as Advowſons, Fairs, Markets, Warrens, &c. (which alwayes continue in being, and are never extinct in the Crown) ſhall paſs. It is ſaid in Plo. Com. 12. in Fogaſſe's Caſe, If the King at this day grant over certain lands which have come to his hands before, and further grant to the grantee tales libertates, privilegia, juriſdictiones, &c. that he had who was laſt ſeiſed of the lands, where the King knoweth not the certainty of the liberties and priviledges, yet the grant is good enough, and the Patentee may enquire what liberties and priviledges the other had before; and foraſmuch as this incertainty may be reduced to a certainty by enquiry or circumſtance, the grant is good. V. the Caſe of the Abbot of Mercella in the 9 Part of my Reports. 18 Eliz. Dyer 350, 351.

As to the ſecond Objection, It was anſwered and Reſolved, That it is true, That if the ſaid clauſe of adeo plenè & integrè had been omitted, &c. that then the Advowſon had not paſſed by the firſt clauſe, but by the addition of the latter clauſe, all the parts of the Letters Patents taking effect at one time, the Advowſon ſhall paſs as appendant: and this word (prædict.) doth not reſtrain the paſſing of the Advowſon, but deſcribeth what Mannor it is, and then the adding of theſe words (adeo plenè & integrè & in tam amplis modo & forma) expreſs the Kings intent to paſs it as intirely as the Mannor came to his hands, or otherwiſe the ſaid words adeo plenè, &c.) ſhould not take their right and [b] genuine effect. And it was never ſeen in any Letters Patents, that the ſaid words, adeo plenè & inte- integrè, &c. came in the first clause of the grant, but is a new clause by it self; and then in the last clause, this word (prædict.) is alwayes added, and so in truth was the case in 18 Eliz. Dyer 350, 351. For it appeareth by the Letters Patents by Queen Elizabeth mentioned in the said Case, That the Rectory of Westbodwin, to which the Advowson of the Vicarage was appendant, came to the King by the attainder of E. for Felony, and was concealed, the Queen Elizabeth granted totam illam Rectoriam de W. in Com. Wilts. cum suis juribus, membris & pertin. universis, nec non omnia & singula messuagia, &c. & hæreditamenta parcell. spectan. sive pertin. dictæ Rectoriæ: Et ulterius, &c. Concessimus præd. Rectoriam cum pertin. cæteraque præmissa cum pertin. adeo plenè & integrè & in tam amplis modo & forma, quantitate & qualitate prout, &c. the Felon had it and as it came to her hands. And it was adjudged that the Advowson did pass without express or special mention. Also the words were ex certa scientia & mero motu, and so the Queen was not deceived. Which being a Judgment in the point consonant to the Resolution in old time, and agreeing with common experience and opinions of Learned men, the same was not worth any question to be made of it. And thereupon it was concluded, That if the King hath the Mannor of D. in the County of Northumberland, and some of the rents and services extend into Cumberland, and the King granteth the Mannor of D. in the County of Northumberland, & omnia & singula messuagia, &c. redditus, servitia, & hæreditamenta in dicto Comitatu Northumberland seu alibi parcell. prædicti manerii, &c. That the rents and services in the County of Cumberland shall pass; for (predict.) is but a description of the Mannor, and these words (aut alibi) ought to have some effect. And therefore in as much that in such case all parts of the Charter take effect at one time, these words (aut alibi) shall be in Judgment of Law annexed to the first clause, and shall be of such effect as if the King had granted the Mannor of D. and all rents and services, parcel of the said Mannor in the County of N. or elsewhere; and that stands with the Rule of good construction, sc. to make all the words of the Letters Patents, according to the true meaning of the King expressed in them to take effect.

As to the third Objection, Although that the first clause of the grant doth refer to the demise in which the Advowson is excepted; yet by the middle clause all tenements, &c. appertaining to the Mannor are granted; and the last clause granteth the Mannor with the appurtenances, &c. adeo plenè & integrè, so that the answer to the second Objection, answereth this also. [66]

As to the fourth Objection, it was Resolved without any difficulty, that the Exception shall be extended onely to leases recited, and not to be any exception out of the Letters Patents of the fee simple. And accordingly Judgment was given that the Advowson should pass.

The Case of the Wardens of the Church of St. Saviours in Southwark.

IN an Information of Intrusion preferred in the Court of Exchequer by the Kings Attorney-General, which is entred Hill. 5 Jac. Rot. 121. against Thomas Harvy, John Marshal, Abraham Green, and others, for intruding into the Rectory of the Parish Church of St. Saviour in the County of Surrey, 9 Octob. 3 Jac. &c. Upon Not guilty pleaded, the Jury gave a special Verdict to this effect: That Queen Elizabeth was seised of the said Rectory in her demesn as of fee in the right of her Crown, and by her Letters Patents dated 22 Feb. 27 of her Reign, granted to the Wardens of the Parish Church of St. Saviour of Southwark (who by such Name were Incorporated by Act of Parliament, Anno 32 H. 8. and so found) the said Rectory from the Feast of St. Michael then last past for 21 years, by force whereof they entred, and were thereof possessed; and afterwards the said Queen by her Letters Patents bearing date the 28 of Novemb. in the 33 year of her Reign, reciting the said lease, per prædictas literas patentes port. dat. 22 Feb. anno nuper Reg. 27. confect': quas quidem literas patentes, & totum statum, titulum, interesse, terminum annorum adhuc futur. de & in præmissis, dilecti subdit. nostri Thomas Norton, &c. gardiani dictæ Ecclesiæ parochialis modo habentes, & ad præsens possidentes nobis sursum reddiderunt & restituerunt cancellandas, quam quidem sursum redditionem acceptamus per præsentes; sciatis igitur quod ad humilem petitionem gardianorum & parochianorum dictæ Ecclesiæ sancti. Salvatoris de Southwark, tam in consideratione sursum redditionis prædict. quam in consideratione quod prædict. nuper gardiani Ecclesiæ parochial. prædict. post datum dictarum nostrarum literarum patentium superius mentionat', unam sufficientem domum aptam & convenientem pro Schola Grammaticali ibidem tenend. infra parochiam sancti Salvatoris prædict. pro eruditione puerorum ejusdem parochiæ sumptibus eorum & expensis erexerunt & ædificaverunt, necnon pro fine 20 l. legalis monetæ Angliæ ad receptum Scaccarii nostri, ad usum nostrum per præfatos modo gardianos solut', demise the said Rectory to the said Thomas Norton, &c. now Wardens of the said Church, from the Feast of the Annunciation of our Lady last past for the term of 50 years; and farther found, that the said Wardens at the time of the making of the said lease for 50 years, surrendred and yielded up the said Letters Patents of 27 Eliz. to be cancelled, and then paid to the Officers of the Court of Chancery the Fees for the cancelling of them, and a vacat of the enrolment of them; and that they then were possessed of the residue of the said term of 21 years, [b] [67]

but no Vacat was made of the enrolment of the said Letters Patents; and that the said Defendants and others being Wardens, have entred into the said Rectory by force of the said lease prædt' tempore quo; And if the entry of the Defendants and Guardians was lawful or not, was the question.

And this Case was often argued at the Bar in sundry several Terms, and now this Term it was argued by Sir Ed. Bromley, Sir James Altham, and Sir George Snigge, Barons of the Exchequer, and Sir Laurence Tanfield Chief Baron: And in this Case three Points were Resolved.

1. That there needeth not any actual surrender in this case, because that these words, modo habentes & ad præsens possidentes, &c. prove, That at the time of the making of the said Letters Patents, the Church-wardens of the said Parish had the said term of years in them; and therefore it expresly appeareth, that the King's intent was not that they should make any surrender before the Patent, but that by accepting of the Letters Patents, they having the term then in them, their estate for years should be surrendred. And where the words are sursum reddiderunt, & restituerunt, &c. in the Preterperfect tense, it is observed, That the words are, modo habentes & ad præsens possidentes sursum reddiderunt & restituerunt, &c. which is true in construction of Law: for in Judgment of Law the surrender doth precede the new lease; and in many cases the Preterperfect tense is put for [b] the Present tense, as Dedimus & Concessimus, for Damus & Concedimus, &c. To which surrender in Law the King expresly agreeth by these words, quam quidem sursum redditionem acceptamus; and the King is not deceived thereby, nor prejudiced in estate, interest, value, or remedy. And although the lessees were a Corporation aggregate of many, and could not make an express surrender without Deed in Writing under their Seal; yet they might by an act in Law surrender their term without writing, for fortior & potentior est dispositio legis quam hominis, as in 37 H. 6. 16. If a man hath interesse termini pro termino annorum to begin at Michaelmas, he cannot expresly surrender this interest. But if he taketh a new lease for years, this acceptance is a surrender in Law of the first lease. So if a Prior with the consent of his Covent maketh a lease for years rendring rent; If the Prior by deed expresly releaseth the rent and dieth, the successor shall recover the arrerages: but if the Prior had ousted the lessee and died, this discharge in Law should discharge the rent which incurred during the oust against the successor, as it appeareth in 34 H. 6. 21.

And this construction and no other stands with the meaning of the Letters Patents. But if two constructions may be made of the Kings grant, then the Rule is, When it may receive two constructions, and by force of one construction the grant according to the Rule of Law may be adjudged good, and by another it shall be taken to be void: then for the Kings honour, and for the benefit of the Subject, such construction shall be made, that the Kings grant do take effect. And therewith agreeth Sis John Molins Case in the eighth Part of my Reports.

2. It was Resolved, That the delivery made by the Wardens of the said Letters Patents in Chancery to be cancelled, &c. (which was part of the consideration) by their hands without writing, was sufficient, and as much as they ought to do; and it belongeth to the Lord Chancellor or his Officers to have cancelled them, and every one ought to do what belongeth to him to do.

3. It was Resolved, That the finding of the payment of 20 l. needed not be found, which was one of the considerations of the lease; for the same is but a sum of mony in the personalty, and affirmed by the King to be paid and satisfied in time before the Patent, and so personal consideration executed; and therewith expresly agreeth 37 H. 8. Br. Patents 4.

[68] Note, Reader, I have seen divers Letters Patents made upon like consideration, and having such words, modo habens & possidens, and in none of them any actual surrender made. See Barwicks Case in the fifth Part of my Reports: and see Altonwoods Case in the first Part of my Reports; betwixt which Case and the Case at Bar a difference appeareth.

Mich. 10 Jac. In the Common Pleas.

The Case of the Marshalsea.

[b] Richard Hall brought an action of Trespass of Assault, Battery, Wounding and False Imprisonment against William Stanly, William Richardson, and Roger Cante, That they 1 Jan. 7 Jac. Regis, did assault, hurt, wound and imprison, and detained him in prison for the space of three moneths, &c. The Defendants as to all the Trespass, but the Assault and Imprisonment, and keeping of him in prison, pleaded Not guilty. And as to the Assault and Imprisonment, &c. the said William Stanley and William Richardson said, That the Court of our Lord the King, called The Court of Marshalsea of the Kings House, is an ancient Court of the King and of his Progenitors Kings of England; and that the said Court is holden, and time out of mind was holden, and used to be holden within the verge, &c. before the Steward of the Court of Marshalsea, and the Marshal of the Kings house for the time being; and that the same Court time out of mind had Jurisdiction to hold Pleas of Trespass, and Trespass upon the Case done within the said house, and the verge of the said house; and for all the said time within the said Court there were *tam quidem Marisc*all' Mariscballcie hospitii prædt' quam quidam Officiarius, called le Baston, within the verge of the said house. Which said Steward of the Marshalsea of the Kings house, and the said Officer de la Baston for the time being, are, and for al the time aforesaid were Officers and Ministers of the said Court; and that that all Writs and Precepts are directed, and for all that time were used to be directed to the said Marshal of the Marshalsea; and that the said Marshal of the Marshalsea by himself, and the said Officer de la Baston, by his command by word have, and for all the time aforesaid had and used [69] to have the execution and return of all and singular Precepts and Warrants whatsoever issuing out of the said Court directed to the Marshal of the said Marshalsea. And the said William, William and Roger further said, That in the said Court there is, and time out of mind hath been a Custom, That if any person be Defendant in any plea of Trespass depending in the said Court, and was to be bailed, they did prescribe to bail the Defendant. And that the said William Richardson before the Trespass, and yet is Marshal of the Marshalsea of the Kings Household; and the said William Stanley the Baston. And that the said Roger Cante before the Trespass, sc. 21 Jan. 5 Jac. Reg. in the said Court of Marshalsea of the Household, before Tho. Warre Esq; the Steward of the said Court, and Thomas Vavasour then Marshal of the Household at Southwark within the County of Surrey, within the verge, &c. did there exhibite a Bill against one Thomas Ownstead then in the custody of the Marshal of the Marshalsea of the said Household, of a Plea of Trespass upon the Case; and declared, That the said Thomas was indebted to the said Roger in 80*l.* for divers sums of moneys by the said Thomas due to the said Roger; and so being indebted the said Thomas 1 Jan. 5 Jac. Reg. at Islington within the verge, did assume to pay to the said Roger the said 80*l.* upon request, which he hath not paid: Whereupon the said Thomas was bailed, and the said Richard Hall and one Richard Petty became his Bail. To which Declaration the said Thomas Ownstead pleaded, That he made no such promise, &c. which Issue was tried for the Plaintiff, and Damages and Costs assessed: whereupon the Plaintiff in the same Court had Judgment; and the Plaintiff upon that Judgment did sue forth a Warrant in the nature of a Capias against the said Tho. Ownstead, directed to the Marshal of the Marshalsea of the Household, who returned Non est inventus: whereupon the Plaintiff sued forth a Precept in the nature of a Capias, to arrest the body of the said Tho. Ownstead, or of the said Richard Hall and Richard Petty, according to the Custom of the said Court ad satisfaciend', directed to the Marshal of the Marshalsea of the said Household: By force whereof the said Marshal of the Marshalsea by word of mouth commanded the said William Stanley to execute the said Writ. By force whereof he did Arrest within the verge, &c. the body of the said Rich. Hall, and delivered him to the said William Richardson Marshal, &c. in execution, who detained him in the prison of the Marshalsea at Southwark within the verge in Execution. The Plaintiff replied and said, That neither the said Roger Cante Plaintiff in the said Plea, nor the said Thomas Ownstead Defendant in the said Plea, at the time of the exhibiting of the said Bill, was Servant or Servants of our Lord the King, or of his Household. Upon which the Defendant did demurr in Law. And this [b] Case was often argued at the Bar, and two points were moved.

1. If an Action upon the Case upon Assumpsit for payment of a debt being made within the verge, be within the Jurisdiction of the Court of Marshalsea.

2. Admitting that it be not; Then if the Defendants having the Courts Warrant, shall be punished for a false imprisonment, or not. And much was said by them who were of Counsel with the Court of Marshalsea; for the Antiquity, Honor and Jurisdiction of the Court of Marshalsea: For the Antiquity, that it is as ancient as any of the Kings Courts, as it appeareth in 4 H. 6. 8. And diversity of Courts tit. Marshalsea. For the Honor, that Fleta Lib. 2. Cap. 2. next after the High Court of Parliament, addeth, Habet & Curiam suam coram Seneschallo suo in aula sua, &c. And Britton Cap. 1. which is in his Book in the Person of the King, beginneth with the Court of Marshalsea before any other, in these words; That the Marshal of Our Household hold our Place within the verge, &c. And We Will, That the Earl of Norfolk by himself or another Knight, be attendant upon Us and Our Steward, to do Our Commands, and the Attachments and Executions of Our Judgments and of Our Steward through the verge of our Household. In which also observe for the Honor of the Court, That the Judges hold the Kings Place, and that a man of such Dignity as the Earl of Norfolk, is attendant to the said Court. And they further said, That this Court was of so high Jurisdiction, that before the Statute of 5 E. 3. cap. 2. & 10 E. 3. cap. 2. That no Writ of Error lay of any Judgment there given, but in Parliament: and by the same Statutes their Errors shall be examined and redressed in the Kings Bench. And as it appeareth by Fleta, That Court of old time for the greater Honor thereof, was kept in Aula Regis, within the Hall of the Kings Honourable Household.

And as to the Jurisdiction, they said, That before the Statute of Articuli super Chartas, cap. 3. That the Court of Marshalsea had Jurisdiction within the verge of Pleas Crown or Criminal Causes, and of all Common Pleas, Real, Personal and Mixt. And that before the said Statute, the Steward and Marshal of the Kings Household used to hold all the Pleas beforesaid within the verge, although that none of the parties were of the Kings Household. And now the said Act hath restrained them to three actions onely, sc. Contracts, Covenants and Trespasses; and that in three distinct manners. 1. In Contracts and Covenants, when both are of the Household. 2. In Trespass, when one or other party is of the Household. 3. Of other Trespasses done within the verge, when [70] none of the parties are of the Household. And that stands with the words of the Act, sc. but onely of Trespass of the Household, and of other Trespasses done within the verge. And the Contracts and Covenants which any of the Kings Household hath made to another of the same Household; so that by expres words they have power not onely of Trespass of the Household, but also of other Trespasses within the verge. And that the later words, (Which any of the Household, &c. have done to another of the same Household) shall have relation onely to Contracts and Covenants, and not to the clause concerning Trespasses: for then these words (And of other Trespass done within the verge) are void: For it speaketh first of Trespass of the Household, and then in the latter clause shall have relation to the clause of Trespass, the same clause (And of other Trespasses done within the verge) shall be void, & glossa viperina est quæ corrodit vicera textus. And they strongly relied upon an Act of Parliament made within two years after the said Act of 28 E. 1. sc. anno 30 E. 1. not printed, but remaining in the Treasury, which is a good exposition of the said former Act. By which it is enacted, That where before the Steward and Marshal, the Court being many times near the City of London, some Enquests are taken of Trespass, and other things done within the said City, betwixt some of the same City onely, and betwixt them and Forreigners jointly, or betwixt Forreigners; Of which Trespasses and other things, the conusans, by reason of the verge, doth appertain to the Steward and Marshal, that all such Enquests shall be taken in London, and not elsewhere. Upon which it was inferred, That of all Trespasses within the verge betwixt what persons soever, the conusans doth appertain to the Steward and Marshal of the Household, which is an Exposition by the High Court of Parliament, & contemporanea expositio est fortissima in lege: So that as well before the Statute of 28 E. 1. as by the words of the Statute, and by the Act of 30 E. 1. the Steward and Marshal of the Household have Jurisdiction to determine all pleas of Trespass betwixt any persons whatsoever. And they cited also the Statutes of 5 E. 3. cap. 2. and 10 E. 3. cap. 3. by which it appeareth, That the Court hath not Jurisdiction onely of Trespasses of the Houshold, but also of other Trespasses. And they held that this word (Trespass) shall be extended beneficially for the Jurisdiction of the said Court, because their old Jurisdiction was so much restrained by the said Act. And therefore they conceived, That all actions, the entry whereof is in placito transgressionis, &c. shall be within this word (Trespass.) And there-

[b] fore pleas of Ejectione firmæ, Trespass quare clausum fregit, of goods imported, Assault, Battery, Wounding, Trespasses upon the Case, upon Trover and Assumpsit, and other Trespasses upon the Case, shall be taken within this word (Trespass) and the Jurisdiction thereof doth appertain to the Steward and Marshal of the Kings Houshold. And they concluded, That infinite Presidents might be shewed at all times after the making of the said Act of 28 E. 1. That they have holden pleas of Trespass, as well upon the Case as other within the verge, although that none of the parties were of the Kings Houshold, & optimus legum interpres consuetudo.

And as to the other Point, admitting that the Court hath not Jurisdiction of the cause, yet the proceeding in it (being a Court of Record) is not void, but voidable by Writ of Error. Also the Marshal of the Marshalsea of the Houshold, and the Officer of the Baston, are Officers and Ministers of the Court, and and it shall be against reason to punish them for the executing of the Precept and Warrant of the Court, when if they had refused, the Court would have punished them for their disobedience. And therefore the Rule is, Quicunq; justu judicis aliquid fecerit, non videtur dolo malo fecisse, quia parere necesse est. And in 26 E. 3. 70. there it is taken for a Maxim, That the thing which an Officer doth by Warrant or Command of a Court, cannot be against the peace. And Doctor and Student 150. the Kings Officers are bounden to execute the Kings Writs at their perils. And they cited and strongly urged the Book in 7 E. 3. 23 & 24. where Alice brought an Action of Trespass against one William, of false Imprisonment: The Defendant said, That before the Imprisonment it was commanded in the Marshalsea, That if no feme sued the Houshold of our Lord the King, she should be taken and imprisoned: and this Alice sued the Houshold of the King; and that John Claydon then Marshal commanded the said William the Goaler to Arrest her, for which he by his commandment did Arrest her, and for such cause, and we do not conceive that she can assign any wrong done by us. And there the Rule of the Book is, That William the Defendant did no wrong, whether the cause were allowable or not; for it behoveth that he be obedient to his Master, but alwayes the Goaler ought to receive whosoever is sent to him by his Master, whether the cause were allowable or not. And there issue was taken, whether the Defendant had the Plaintiff of the delivery of the Marshal. So in the Case at Bar, the Officers of the Court are not to dispute their Authority, but ought to be obedient, and execute the Warrants and Commands of the Judges of the [71] Court. And upon this ground are the Books in 8 E. 3. 38. 17 E. 3. 66. 19 E. 3. Quare non admisit 7. Plo. Com. Morgan's Case 12, 13. 7 H. 4. 27. 11 H. 4. 35. 9 H. 6. 20. 2 R. 3. 10. 21 H. 7. 22. 14 H. 8. 16. Vid. temps E. 1. Assise 402. 32 E. 1. ibidem 378. 17 E. 2. Ass. 373. 19 E. 2. Scire facias 12. 31 Ass. 19. 10 E. 3. 47. 14 H. 4. 24. 21 E. 4. 66. 21 H. 6. 36. 21 H. 6. Trespass 50.

But upon solemn Argument at the Bar, it was Resolved, That Judgment should be given against the Defendants.

And as to the first point, it was devided into five parts. 1. What Jurisdiction the Court of Marshalsea had at the Common Law before the Act of Articuli super Chartas, anno 28 E. 1. and therein the extent of their Jurisdiction was considered; sc. 1. In what actions the Court had Jurisdiction. 2. To what place their Jurisdiction is circumscribed, and to what persons their Jurisdiction did extend.

2. The Reasons wherefore the Common Law gave them as Judges of the Court of Marshalsea, such particular and limited Jurisdiction.

3. Consideration was had of the Act of Articuli super Chartas; and therein three points were discussed: 1. Wherefore this Act was called Articuli super Chartas. 2. What manner of Act it was, whether Introductory of a new Law, or Declaratory of an old. 3. The several parts of the Act were considered.

4. The Authorities of Law in all successions of ages after the said Act.

5. The nature of this action upon the case.

As to the first, it is to know, That the Steward and Marshal of the Kings Household, had before the said Act two distinct Authorities; one, they had such general Authority in effect as Justices in Eyre had, for they were the Vicegerents in part of the Chief Justice of England within the verge:

verge: Also the Steward and Marshal had another Authority, sc. to hold the Court of Marshalsea, the Title of which was, Placita Coronæ Aulæ hospitii Domini Regis coram Seneschallo & Mariscallo. By force of their first Authority, they might hold all manner of Pleas of the Crown, and of Common Pleas, as well real and mixt, as personal. And the same appeareth by divers ancient Precepts of Summons which they used to direct to Sheriffs, &c. to cause to come before them all Pleas, &c. the form of which was such; Robertus filius Johannis miles, Seneschallus hospitii domini Regis Vic. S. salutem: Mandamus quod venire fac. coram nobis tali die ubicunque; dominus Rex tunc fuerit in ballivâ tuâ omnes Assisas novæ disseisinæ, mortis antecessoris, ultimæ præsentat', magnas Assisas, & omnes juratas, inquisitiones & attinctas, & omnia placit. de dote. Unde mulieres nihil habent & quæ summ. sunt coram Justic. Regis ad primas Assisas cum in partes illas venerint, immo & omnes Assisas illas & placita illa, juratas, inquisitiones & attinctas illas quæ coram Justic. Regis ad Assisas capiendas in ballivâ vestrâ assignatis fuerint attamiatæ & non finitæ. Et partibus diem illum præfigatis quod tunc sint ibi Assisas illas, & placita illa, juratas & inquisitiones & attinctas illas in eodem statu quo remanserunt coram præfat. Justic. prosecut. si voluerint. Venire etiam fac. coram nobis dictis die & loco, omnes prisones & manucaptos de ballivâ vestrâ, & omnia attachiamenta quæ pertinent ad goalam deliberandum. Fac. etiam proclamari & sciri per totam ballivam vestram quod omnes liberi & quatuor homines & præpositus de villatis quar. interfuerit quod tunc sint ad deliberationem prædictam. Et habeat. ibi Recognitores, nomina Pleg', Summ. & hoc breve. [b]

And that they have such general Authority, appeareth in Fleta, who wrote before the said Act of 28 E. 1. Lib. 2. Cap. 2. Habet & Rex Curiam suam coram Seneschallo suo in Aula sua, qui jam tenet locum Capitalis Justiciarii Regis (de quo fit mentio in communi brevi de Hom. repl.) qui proprias causas Regis terminari consuevit, & falsum judicium ad veritatem revocare, & conquerentibus absque brevi justitiam exhibere; cujus vices gerit in parte idem Seneschallus hospitii Regis, cujus interest de omnibus actionibus contra pacem infra metas hospitii, &c. recenter illatis & sine brevi, &c. additis quæremoniis injuriarum in aula regis audire & terminare assumpt. sibi camerar. hostiar', vel Mariscallo aulæ, militibus, vel aliquibus eorum, si omnes interesse non possunt. Et cap. 3. Habet Seneschallus ex virtute officii sui prædictam potestatem procedendi ad utlagationes & bella injungendi, & omnia & singula faciend. quæ ad Justiciarios itinerantes, prout superius dictum est, pertinent faciend', hoc tantum excepto quod de libero tenemento intromittere non debet sine brevi. And there it appeareth, That the Steward, &c. held this Court in Aula Regis; and what authority Justices in Eyre had to hold Pleas of the Crown, and all common Pleas real, mixt and personal, you may see in the Miror of Justices, Cap. 2. Sect. 3. where it is said, The Kings do right unto all by their Justices Commissaries errants assigned to all pleas. Vide the Statute of West. 2. cap. 11. Bracton lib. 3. cap. 7. fo. 105, &c. & 11. Britton cap. 1. 6 E. 2. Assise 496. 4 E. 3. 41, 42. 6 E. 3. 55. 27 Ass. p. 1. 15 H. 7. 5. b. And it is to be observed, That he who is prisoner to the Kings Bench, is in custodia Marescballi Marescbalcie domini Regis; and he who is prisoner to the Marshalsea, is in custodia Marescballi Marescbalciæ hospitii domini Regis. And thereby also it appeareth, That the Steward, &c. vices gerebat capitalis Justiciarii. And therewith agreeth Britton cap. 1. who wrote in 5 E. 1. which is before the Statute of Articuli super Chartas; and that the Marshal of our Household hold our pleas within the verge of our Household, and that his Office extendeth it self to hear and determine the Presentments and Charters of our Crown when we shall see it good. And note, That these Charters were those which Justices in Eyre charged the Jury to enquire of, as it appeareth in Bracton, Lib. 3. Tract. 2. Cap. 1. fol. 116. And therewith agreeth the Mirror of Justices, which Book was also written before the said Act of 28 E. 1. To the Offices of the Chief Justices belong les torciousnes des Judgments & Errors, &c. and so belongeth it to their Office to hear and determine all plaints made of personal wrongs within twelve miles of the Kings Tonnel, and of Goal-delivery of prisoners deliverable, and to determine as much as is to be determined by Justices Itinerants. And also Bracton saith (who wrote also before the said Act) Lib. de Actionibus, Cap. 7. fol. 105. Habet Rex plures Curias in quibus diversæ actiones terminantur, & illarum curam habet unam propriam sicut aulam Regiam, & Justiciar. Capitales qui proprias causas Regis terminant, & aliorum omnium, per querelam, vel per privilegium, vel per libertatem. [72]

As to the other Authority, the Steward and Marshal are Judges of the Marshalsea of the Kings Household, and this Court at the Common Law hath a particular and limited Jurisdiction.

1. In respect of the causes; for they as Judges of this Court had not Jurisdiction but of Pleas of the Crown, and of three particular common Pleas, sc. Pleas of Debt, Covenant and Trespas, vi & armis, as of Battery, goods imported, but not of Trespas Quare clausum fregit, Ejectione firmæ, Action upon the Case, Detinue, nor any other personal action, nor of any real or mixt action.

2. In respect of the persons; for in Debt and Covenant both the parties ought to be of the Household. And the same also appeareth by Fleta lib. 2. cap. 3. Si autem de aliquo familiari Regis (that is, any of the Kings Household) fiat queremonia, primo Summoneatur, 2. Attachietur. 3. Capiatur, &c. By which it appeareth, That the Trespas ought to be vi & armis, and not upon the Case, otherwise a Capias lay not at the Common Law; and also that it sufficed if one of the parties were of the Kings Household. But forasmuch as the Steward and Marshal had at the Common Law these Authorities, the one general, and the other particular, and both Courts then holden in aula Regis; and that they had the general Authority but at will, and had a fixed estate for their lives in the other, they drew to their Court of the Marshalsea by colour of the general Authority many causes which by the Law appertained not to the Jurisdiction of the said Court. [b]

3. In respect of the place to which their Jurisdiction was circumscribed. And that appeareth by Fleta lib. 2. cap. 2. Infra metas hospitii continentes 12. leucas in circuitu, and the Mirror of Justices before. And that was the Law before the Statute of 13 R. 2. cap. 3. but the same limiteth the 12 miles to be accounted about the Tonnel of our Sovereign Lord the King. And the Lord and Marſhal being ſo reſtrained, they invented divers means and devices to enlarge their Juriſdiction, and to encroach upon the Common Law; and therefore if in the obligation or Covenant, &c. mention was made of diſtreſs of the Steward or Marſhal of the Kings Houſhold, or one of them, they uſed to hold plea thereof, although the Obligation or Covenant were made out of the verge. And alſo they uſed to hold conuſans of Debts and other things, where the parties were not of the Kings Houſhold. And the ſame appeareth alſo by Fleta lib. 2. cap. 3. Tunc demum de obligationibus & contractibus, in quibus debitores ad diſtrictionem Seneſchalli & Mareſchalli domini Regis ſponte ſe obligaverint. Et paulo poſt. Et nota quod in obligatione omni in qua fit mentio de diſtrictione Seneſchalli & Mareſchalli hoſpitii Regis vel eorum alterius tantum, audit. ſunt parties, & loquela terminata ſine brevi ubicunque ſe contraxerint infra virgatam vel extra coram ſen. niſi loquela liber. tnagat ten. ejus vel pertinent'. Nec obſtabit petenti ex. de contractu facto extra virgatam, ut inter placita Petri de Chamnet, anno regis regni Ed. 18. inter Henr. de Wotton petentem, & Ranulfum Foleſchanks obligat. præfat. H. in neceſſariis pro victu & veſtitis & hujuſmodi ad valenc. 20 li. per ann. ſuo perpetuo inveniend. pro quad. terra in D. & quadam halliva in S. & unde idem R. obligavit ſe in Lond. diſtrictioni Sen. & Mar. Regis anno 15. Regis tunc exiſtente in Vaſcon'. Cui execution. de novo infra virgatam non allocata, petiit judicium ſi de libero ten. vel ejus pertin. debuit ſine brevi Regis reſpondere, cum idem H. petiit certum redditum ad terminum vitæ ſuæ: Et quia voluit ſic obligari, nec volenti & ſcienti fit injuria, conſiderat. fuit per pl'es. Juſtic. qui aderant, ex quo neceſſaria illa proveniebant tanquam de Camera & non de loco certo de quo potuit viſus fieri, quod executio prædicta locum non haberet, & quod aliud diceret & reſponderet, vel pro indefenſo & convicto haberetur. Another invention to encreaſe their Juriſdiction, was, That although that none of the parties were of the Houſhold, yet they would name themſelves in the plea and count of the Kings Houſe, and ſo as they conveived, to ſtop the party to [74] contradict it. But to conclude this point, it appeareth to you, good Reader, needfull to know what the Law was before the Statute of 28 E. 1. the Authority of the ſaid ancient Books of Bracton, Britton, and the Mirror of the Juſtices, are very neceſſary; and although perhaps one may know the Law upon the old Statutes, yet they ſhall never know the true reaſon of the Interpretation of them, if they know not what the Law was before the making of them: and there it is true, Quod multa ignoramus quæ nobis non lateret ſi veterum lectio fuit nobis familiaris.

As to the ſecond Point, the ancient ſtyle of the Court of the Marſhalſea was, Placita Coronæ aulæ hoſpitii Domini Regis tenta coram, &c. by which words aulæ hoſpitii, is proved, that at leaſt one of the parties ought to be of the Kings Houſhold: For how can the words be aulæ hoſpitii domini Regis, when none of the parties is of the Kings Houſhold? And it was obſerved, That thoſe of the Kings Houſhold are Aulici, and that is the reaſon that in Suits there before the Steward and Marſhal, it need not be alledged that the Plaintiff or Defendant was of the Kings Houſhold, for the ſtyle of the Court, as appeareth by many Authorities, doth imply it. The ſecond reaſon is becauſe the proceedings in the ſame Court is by Bill in reſpect of the priviledges of the parties, and not by original; and the Court of Kings Bench cannot hold any Common plea by Bill without priveledge of the Court. The third reaſon, That the ſervice and attendance of the Kings ſervants was ſo requiſite and neceſſary to the King, that the pleas in the ſaid Court ſhould be alwayes rather diſcontinued by his remove out of the verge, then he ſhall loſe the attendance of his ſervants: and if they may hold pleas betwixt forraigners, what reaſon is there that the pleas ſhould be diſcontinued by the Kings remove? And why ſhall the Judges of the Kings Houſhold decide the cauſes, when none of the parties is of the Houſhold? Juriſdictio eſt poteſtas de publico introducta cum neceſſitate juriſdicendi. And the ſame well agreeth when the parties are of the Houſhold for the neceſſity of the Kings ſervice, but not when none of the parties are of the Houſhold. In Mich. 42 & 43 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, Hall brought a Writ of Error againſt Jones of a Judgment given in the Court of Pipowders of the Market in the City of Glouceſter, for Jones Regiſter of the Biſhop of Glouceſter, becauſe that Hall had publiſhed ſlanderous words of him, ſc. That Mr. Jones and his Clerks have by colour of his Office extorted and gotten 300 l. per ann. by unlawfull means for many years together, above their ordinary fees, for proving of Teſtaments, and granting of Adminiſtrations. And the Judgment was reverſed for two Errors: 1. Becauſe the ſaid words did not concern any thing touching the Market, and therefore the Court had not juriſdiction of it: But if one ſlander any
[b] one who cometh into the Market, in any thing which concerneth his Trade, an action lieth by him. 2. It appeareth in the Declaration, That the words were ſpoken before the Market, and not within the Market: For as the Court hath not juriſdiction but for things concerning the Market; ſo it hath not Juriſdiction for matters concerning the Market, if they be not done in the Market. Vide 2 & 3 Phil. & Mar. Dyer 132. Vid. Bracton 334. 13 E. 4. 8. 7 H. 6. 19. 13 H. 7. 19. the Statute of 27 H. 6. cap. 5. 17 E. 4. cap. 2. and 1 R. 3. 6. by like reaſon, it ſhall be againſt reaſon that pleas ſhall be coram Seneſchallo & Mariſchallo hoſpitii domini regis, of a thing which doth not concern any of the Houſhold. The fourth Reaſon, ex congruo, it ſhall not be comely that any Carman or other Mechanical perſon ſhall ſue another in the ſame Court, and draw them in aulam Regis, where the Court was originally holden, for they have not veſtimenta aulica; and therefore it is recorded by St. Luke the Evangeliſt, cap. 7. ver. 27. Dixit ad turbam, quid exiſtiis videre hominem mollibus veſtimentis indutum? Ecce qui in veſte ſpecioſa ſunt & in deliciis agunt, in domibus regum ſunt. And the Common Law doth regard conveniency, and doth not allow any thing which is undecent, nor that which is againſt good manners. 5. At the ſame Parliament, ſc. anno 28 E. 1. cap. 5. it was Enacted, The Chancellor and Juſtices of his Bench ſhall follow him, ſo that he may have at all times near him ſome that be learned in the Law, which be able duly to order all ſuch matters as ſhall come to the Court at all times when need ſhall require. And it appeareth by divers Records ſubſequent,

That

That the Chancellor and the Judges had their purveyors, &c. and that accordingly Purveyance was made for them; as it appeareth in Rot. Pat. 10 E. 2. parte 2. Membr. 20. & 2 E. 3. parte 1. Membr. 33. till 4 E. 3. at which time the Court of Kings Bench became Resident, and all the Pleas there being coram Rege. And by the Act of 4 E. 3. it was prohibited, That no Purveyance should be taken great or small, but onely that the Purveyors of the King, Queen, and their Children, take not corn, &c. But by the said Act of 28 E. 1. the general Authority of the Steward did vanish, inasmuch as having regard to the same, they were but the Vicegerents of the Cheif Justice, when he himself was present, in præsentia majoris cessat potestas minoris, and yet under colour of their former general Authority, they encroached much upon the Common Law. And it was observed, That after the making of this Act, that the Court of Marshalsea of the Kings house hath not holden any Pleas of the Crown, because the Justices of the Kings Bench were to follow the King; and therefore they have used to hear and determine Pleas of the Crown within the verge by force of a Commission of Oyer and Terminer, in the Vacation time, for in the Term time when the Kings Bench doth sit, all Commissions cease. Vide Katherine Wrote's Case in the fourth Part of my Reports. 6. The reason why this Court was limited to these three Actions, was, because that one [74] of the Houshold who liveth of his Salary or Pension, oftentimes hath occasions to borrow moneys, and to make Covenants with others of the same Houshold, for apparell and other necessaries; and for Trespass vi & armis, as Battery, carrying away of goods, &c. they have Jurisdiction for the preservation of the peace, as before is said, 7. The reason wherefore the bounds of the Marshalsea are called the verge, and that his Jurisdiction is confined within the verge; is, because the Marshal portat virgam (quæ significat pacem) coram Rege per spatium 12 leucarum, &c. & de virga prædict. dicitur virgata, and beyond that the Steward and Marshal have not any Jurisdiction, as appeareth in Fleta lib. 2. cap. 4.

As to the third point, sc. The consideration touching the Act of Articuli super Chartas, It was Resolved, That Articuli super Chartas, is as much as to say, Explanationes super Chartas; and the Chartas here mentioned, are the Great Charter, and the Charter of the Forrest, and so it appeareth by the Preamble. Because that the points of the Great Charter of Liberties, and of the Forrest, &c. and in Pierce de Saltmarsh's Case, the Book saith, That Herle chief Justice in 6 E. 3. 33. made to be read the Explanations upon the Charters, sc. the 11 Chapter of Champerty: By which it appeareth, That Articuli in this Case doth signifie Explanationes; and some say, quod dicuntur Articuli quia arctant ad obedientiam: But then it will be asked in what part of the Magna Charta may any thing be found concerning the Court of Marshalsea? To that it was answered, That the 29 Chapter of Magna Charta, doth extend to the same; for there it is enacted, Quod nullus liber capiatur, vel imprisonetur, aut disseisietur de liber. ten'to suo, vel de libertatibus, vel liber. consuetudinibus suis, aut utlagetur, aut exuletur, aut aliquo modo destruatur, nec super eum ibimus, nec super eum mittemus nisi per legale judic. parium suorum aut per legem terræ. By which Act every arrest or imprisonment, and every oppression against Law is forbidden. Then, if any against the Law do usurp any Jurisdiction, and by colour thereof arrest and imprison a man; or in any manner by colour of an usurped Authority oppress any man (which is a manner of destruction) against Law, he may be punished by that Statute. And because the Steward and Marshal of the Court of Marshalsea had encroached to them Jurisdiction in divers causes which did not belong to them, and by colour thereof awarded Precepts sometimes to arrest the body of the Defendant, and sometimes by colour of Execution to sell the goods and chattels of the Defendant against Law, which is an oppression by colour of Justice, and a manner of destruction, for this cause this third Chapter was enacted for Explanation of the said Great Charter, as to the Jurisdiction of the said Court of Marshalsea. So that this Act of Articuli super Chartas, is not Introductory of a new Law, but an Explana- [b] tion of the Great Charter, which was declaratory of the old Law of England. But it appeareth also by this third Chapter, the parts whereof are now to be considered. This Chapter concerning the Court of Marshalsea is divided into two general parts. 1. Into the Preamble. 2. Into the Body of the Act. In the Preamble three things are propounded, to be remedied by the Body of the Act. 1. Of the estates of the Stewards and Marshals, that is, concerning their Jurisdiction by force of their offices in which they have estates, sc. for their lives within the Court of Marshalsea. 2. Of the pleas which they ought to hold, by which it appeareth that this Chapter was declaratory, for the intent of this Chapter was to reduce the Court of Marshalsea to its true and lawful Jurisdiction, the which this word (ought) doth import. And therefore this Act doth make demonstration what pleas they ought to hold, which well agreeth with the title Articuli super Chartas, and with the Book of 6 E. 3. the Explanations of the Charters, that is, of the Common Law. The 3. is, how they ought to hold their pleas. The Body of the Act doth pursue the parts of the Preamble; and first of all the purview thereof doth extend onely to the Court of Marshalsea of the Kings house. As to the pleas which they ought to hold, the body of the Act hath made declaration of three points: 1. Of the Causes. 2. Of the Persons. 3. Of the Place. For the causes, the purview of the Act is in the Negative, in part absolutely, and in part with an exclusion. It is ordained from henceforth, That they hold not plea of Freehold; and that is absolute: nor of Debt, nor of Covenant of the people; but the same is with exclusion, first to the causes, but onely of Trespass done within the Kings house, and of other Trespass done within the verge, and of Contracts and Covenants: So that these words (but onely, &c.) do reduce, as to the causes, the Jurisdiction of the Court to its original Institution, sc. to actions of Trespass, Debt and Covenant, and all other pleas are excluded. As to the persons, If this Act had not made any particular declaration, as appeareth before, they ought to have had the priviledge of the house, sc. in Trespass, where both, or at least one be of the House; and in case of Debt and Covenant, where both are of the House, and of that also this Chapter hath made express declaration. And the Expolition in Michelborn's Case in the sixth Part of my Reports was affirmed for Law. And see there an Act passed both Houses of Parliament, anno 1 R. 2. and see inter petitiones Parliamenti, anno 1 E. 3. London 10. That there the Steward and Marshal, after the said Act, did encroach to them to hold other pleas than of Trespass, Debt and Covenant. As to the place, the Statute hath restrained the same to the verge onely; and because that by colour of certain inventions of the Steward and Marshal to increase his Jurisdiction, as to Pleas, persons and precinct, this Statute hath enacted, That from henceforth the Steward hold not Plea of Debt or other thing, but between the people of [75] the Household, so that the voluntary holding Plea of Debts before the Steward and Marshal by Forreigners, gave not to the Court any Jurisdiction, but the same was ousted by this Act as an unjust encroachment upon the Common Law. And also it is further enacted, That they shall hold no Plea by Obligation made at the distress of the Steward or of the Marshal; by colour of which, as it appeareth before, they encroached Jurisdiction not onely when the parties had not any priviledge, but also of causes which did not belong to their Jurisdiction, and those also made out of the verge, as appeareth by that which Fleta hath before reported, who hath well expressed the true cause and sense of the two last Branches, which of themselves were full of obscurity. As to the third part of the Preamble, sc. How, &c. the body of the Act hath three branches: 1. That they shall plead no Plea of Trespass, except the party were attached by them. 2. And they shall then plead speedily from day to day, so that they may be pleaded and determined before that the King depart out of the bounds of the same verge where the Trespass was done. 3. And if so it chance, that they cannot be determined within the Lines of the same verge, Then the same Pleas shall cease before the Steward, and the matters be determinable at the Common Law. And it was observed, That although the Steward and the Marshal are both Judges, yet in this last clause, as many in Fleta, the Steward was onely named, because he was the Lawyer, and therefore had the direction of the Court. And the conclusion of the body of the Act, as to three points, is, And if the Steward or the Marshal do any thing against this Ordinance, it shall be holden as void. And this Act was of so great profit and consequence, that by the Act of Parliament anno 18 E. 3. cap. 7. it is enacted and commanded to be put in execution.

And as to Authorities in Law, they are copious, and of four several natures. 1. The Year-books. 2. Books written of the Laws of England. 3. Judgments in Parliament: and all these are Thesauri aperti. 4. Judicial Records and Presidents: and these are Thesauri absconditi. And for direct Authority in the point in the Year-books, vid. 6 R. 2. Action upon the Statute pl. ult. 3 H. 6. Estoppell 18. And it is to be observed, That where any Statute doth forbid any thing, a man may have a Supersedeas in the nature of a Prohibition to any Judge who holdeth plea against any Statute; and this appeareth in many cases in the Register inter brevia de Statuto. And also it is to be observed, That when any Statute doth forbid any thing, &c. If any one impleadeth another, although it be in the course of a legal proceeding, yet the party grieved shall have his Action upon the Statute against the party who sueth against the Statute, although the words of the Statute do not give any action to the party, but the same is a consequent, and a thing implied in every thing forbidden by any Statute. And this appeareth by the said Book of 7 H. 6. 30, 31. where the party grieved hath an action upon this Statute; and 4 E. 4. 37. an action upon the Statute of 2 H. 5. cap. 7. for not delivering of the Libel. The Tales or novæ Narrationes, fo. 102. a Book cited and approved in 39 H. 6. The Diversity of Courts 102. F. N. B. 241. b. A man shall have averment in an an action brought against him in the Court of the Steward and Marshal, That he was not of the Kings Houshold at the time of the Trespass or Contract made; or that the Plaintiff was not of the Houshold, vide Stanford lib. cap. 5. And this point is Resolved by Parliament in 15 H. 6. cap. 1. where it is recited, That the Steward and Marshal of the Kings house and their Deputies, have holden pleas of Debt, Detinue, and other personal pleas betwixt people which were not of the same house, making mention in their Records, that the Plaintiffs and Defendants were of the same house, and do not allow to the parties Defendants their challenges and exceptions by them alledged, that themselves or the Plaintiff are not of the same house, against the Laws and Statutes in those cases made; provideth, That they shall not be estopped by such Record, &c. but that the Defendants have the averment to say, That they or the said Plaintiffs were not of the same houshold, at the time of such plea or suit commenced, the said Record or other matter within the same notwithstanding. By which Act the said invention to in-[76] crease their jurisdiction was taken away, which was but a declaration of the Common Law, as appeareth by the said Book of 3 H. 6. Estoppel 18. and 10 H. 6. 13. See the said Acts of 30 E. 1. 1 E. 3. 1 R. 2. 5 E. 3. 10 E. 3. and 33 H. 6. cap. 12. And it was observed, that every Act made concerning the Marshalsea, doth either restrain or explain their Jurisdicton, and no Act doth add any thing to it.

As

As to judicial words, It appeareth in Paſc. 38 E. 3. in the Treaſury coram Rege, That judgment given in the Marſhalſea in an action of Detinue, was reverſed in the Kings Bench, becauſe they had no power to hold plea in ſuch action; and therefore in the Statute of 25 H. 6. in the Preamble, the action of Detinue is ill recited.

In the Book of Entries 278 & 128. Conuſans 7. and 32 H. 6. Purchaſe's Caſe cited in Michelborn's Caſe, which ſee there to be adjudged in the point.

As to the nature of the Action, It was Reſolved, That as well the Common Law, as the ſaid Act of 28 E. 1. did extend onely to Treſpaſs ſimpliciter, and not to Treſpaſs ſecundum quid, ſc. upon the Caſe; for theſe are not actions of Treſpaſs without addition, no more than they can hold plea in an action of Treſpaſs upon Trover, or Bailment and Converſion, or the like, but onely of Treſpaſs ſimpliciter, vi & armis; and alſo of ſuch Treſpaſs in which any Freehold cannot come in debate, as is aforeſaid; And according to this Reſolution it was adjudged in the Kings Bench, Hill. 5 Jac. Reg. Rot. 876. in Jeremy Gray's Caſe, That Judgment given in the Court of Maſhalſea in an action upon the Caſe upon Trover and Converſion, was reverſed, becauſe the Statute doth not extend to Treſpaſs upon the Caſe; and therewith alſo agreeth Michelborn's Caſe. But although that this action of Aſſumpſit upon general conſideration, quod indebitatus exiſtit, be againſt the Law, as appeareth in Slade's Caſe in the fourth Part of my Reports, yet if they had Juriſdiction of the cauſe, their proceding therein was not void, but voidable by Writ of Error. But thereof ſhall be ſaid at large in the diſcuſſion of the ſecond point, which now followeth.

2. It was Reſolved, That the action well lieth againſt the Defendants: and difference was taken when a Court hath Juriſdiction of the cauſe, and proceedeth inverſo ordine, or erroneouſly, there the party who ſueth, or the Officer or Miniſter of the Court who executeth the Precept or Proces of the Court, no action lieth againſt them. But when the Court hath not Juriſdiction of the cauſe, there the whole proceeding is coram non Judice, and actions lie againſt them without any regard of the Precept or Proces. And therefore the ſaid Rule cited by the other ſide, ſc. Qui juſſu judicis aliquod fecerit (but when he hath not Juriſdiction, non eſt judex) non videtur dolo malo feciſſe, quia parer. neceſſe eſt, was well approved; but it is not of neceſſity to obey him who is not Judge of the cauſe, no more than it is a meer ſtranger. For the Rule is, Judicium à non ſuo judice datum nullius eſt momenti. And the ſame fully appeareth in our Books. And therefore in the Caſe betwixt Bowſer and Collins in 22 E. 4. 33. there Piggot ſaith, That if the Court hath not power and authority, then their proceeding is coram non judice: As if the Court of Common Pleas hold plea in an Appeal of Death, Robbery, or any other Appeal, and the Defendant is attainted, it is coram non judice, which all the Judges agreed. But if the Court of Common Pleas in a plea of Debt doth award a Capias againſt a Duke, Earl, &c. which by the Law doth not lie againſt them, and the ſame appeareth in the Writ it ſelf; yet if the Sheriff arreſt them by force of the Capias, although that the Writ be againſt Law, notwithſtanding, inaſmuch as the Court hath Juriſdiction of the cauſe, the Sheriff is excuſed. And therewith agreeth 38 H. 8. Dyer 60. b. The ſame Law, If a Juſtice of Peace maketh a Warrant to arreſt one for Felony who is not indicted, although that the Juſtice erre in the Warrant, yet he who maketh the arreſt by force of this Warrant, ſhall not be puniſhed by Writ for falſe Impriſonment, becauſe that he is Judge of the cauſe; and therewith agreeth 14 H. 8. 16. But if one be indicted before Juſtices of Peace and confeſſeth the Felony, and hath a Coroner, and becometh an Approver, and maketh an Appeal, ſuch Appeal before the King was adjudged void, as it appeareth in 9 H. 4. 1. and 2 H. 4. 19. See 44 E. 3. 44. and the reaſon of this Caſe (as ſome ſuppoſe) is, becauſe that the Commiſſion of Peace extendeth onely ad inquirendum (ſc. to inquire before them) audiendum & terminandum; and ſo the appeal of the Approver is out of their Commiſſion, becauſe that the Approver doth not make his appeal before the Juſtices, but before the Coroner, and the Coroner recordeth the ſame to the Court. But the reaſon which is given in 9 E. 4. 1. is, that the Juſtices of the Peace have not power to aſſign him a Coroner, no more than they can enquire of Treaſon, as it is there holden, becauſe it is not within the Commiſſion. So where the Sheriff who is preſcribed by the Law to hold his Torne within the month after Michaelmas, &c. holdeth his Torne after the month, and taketh an inditement of Robbery at the ſame Torne, and the Indictment is by Certiorari removed into the Kings Bench, by the advice of all the Juſtices the party ſo indicted was diſcharged, becauſe that the indictment was utterly void, and coram non judice, foraſmuch as at that time the Sheriff had not authority to hold the Court. And it was ſaid by the Juſtices, That if a man hath a Leet which hath been holden at a certain day, if he holdeth the ſame at another day, that ſuch Court holden is void, and without warrant; otherwiſe is it of a Court Baron. But if the Court of Common Pleas hold plea in Debt, Treſpaſs, &c. without an original, it is not void, for they are Judges of theſe pleas, and it cannot be ſaid that the proceeding is coram non judice. And therewith agreeth 19 E. 4. 8. And therewith, in the very point, agreeth the ſaid Book of 6 R. 2. That Judgment in the Marſhalſea, when none of the parties is of the Houſhold, is avoided by plea without a Writ of Error, which proveth that the ſame is void. Vide 20 E. 4. 16. 22 E. 4. 31. and 10 H. 6. 13. it is agreed in the point alſo, That in Treſpaſs before the Steward and Marſhal, if none of the parties be of the Houſhold, there it is coram non judice, becauſe they exceed their power. The ſame Law, if they hold plea out of the verge, as it is holden in Plo. Com. Plat's Caſe 37, and the ſame agreeth with the Rule, Extra territorium jus dicenti non paretur impune. Vide 22 Aſſ. 64. Plo. Com. 394. b. 37 Aſſ. p. 17. 39 E. 3. 33, 34. 39 Aſſ. p. 6. 7 H. 4. 27. 11 H. 4. 36. 36 H. 6. 32. 22 E. 4. 32. 1 R. 3. 1. 2 R. 3. 2. 5 H. 7. 17. b. 9 H. 7. 12. 21 E. 3. Barre 271. 3 Mar. Dyer 135. And with this difference all the Books are well reconciled. And as to the ſaid Caſe of 7 E. 3. 23, 24. by the Common Law it belongeth to the Office of the Marſhal to keep the Court from Whores, as appeareth in Fleta cap. 5. Mareſchalli intereſt virgatam à meretricibus omnibus protegere & defe-

The ſame being the Law, it appeareth, that the Report of the ſaid Book of 7 E. 3. is ſo obſcure and imperfect, that much of the ſubſtance of the matter ought to be ſupplied by intendment.

And the Chief Juſtice in the concluſion of his Argument did obſerve, That all the Caſes in which before there was diverſity of opinions betwixt this Court and the Court of Kings Bench, are now unanimouſly Reſolved. 1. That the general count in an action upon the Caſe Quod cum indebitatus fuit in ſuch ſum, ſuper ſe aſſumpſit, without ſhewing the cauſe of the Debt, is ſufficient. 2. That a particular count in ſuch caſe ſhewing the cauſe of the Debt, although it appeareth that the Plaintiff may have an action of Debt, well lieth, as it was Reſolved in Slade's Caſe. 3. That by Aſſumpſit of the Teſtator, &c. to pay a Debt or Duty, an action upon the Caſe lieth againſt Executors, &c. as it was adjudged in Pinchon's Caſe in the 9th Part of my Reports. 4. This caſe of Juriſdiction of the Marſhalſea is now adjudged by both Courts, ſc. in the Caſe of Jeremy Gray in the Kings Bench, and in the Caſe at Bar in this Court. Againſt which Judgments there is no opinion in any of our Books, but as before appeareth, many concurring in terms with them in all the points now reſolved. So that our Succeſſors, as I believe, may take up the ſaying of the Prince of Poets.

Leonard Lovies's Caſe.

[78] IN an Ejectione firmæ brought by Robert Prowt againſt Roger Worthen, upon demiſe made to the Plaintiff by Leonard Lovies Gent. 13 Martii, 7 Jac. Regis, of 8 acres of land in Clannon in the County of Devon for five years, from the laſt day of June then laſt paſt. The Defendant pleaded Not guilty: And thereupon the Jury gave a ſpecial Verdict to this effect; Leonard Lovies Eſq; was ſeiſed of the Manors of Affaland and Heanton in the Counties of Devon and Cornwall, and of the Manors of Rillaton, Pengelly, Willeſworthy and Triveſquite in the County of Cornwall, in his demeſn as of fee, and had iſſue Thomas his eldeſt Son, William Lovies, Humfrey Lovies, and Richard Lovies, which William afterwards had iſſue Leonard the leſſor of the Plaintiff) and the ſaid Leonard the Grandfather, 26 Septemb. anno 12 Eliz. by his Deed did enfeoff Robert Prideaux Eſq: Humfrey Specot Eſq; and others, and their heirs to the uſes and intents in certain Indentures tripartite of the ſame date expreſſed and declared: That is to ſay, Of the Manors of Rillaton, Pengelly and Willeſworth, and of the Manor of Affaland to the uſe of Leonard Lovies the Grandfather for his life without impeachment of Waſt; and afterwards to the uſe of ſuch fermors or tenants to whom he ſhould demiſe any part of the premiſes for or during life or lives, and for any term of years, as in any ſuch demiſe or demiſes ſhall be limited and appointed, &c. and afterwards to the uſe and [b] performance of the laſt Will and Teſtament of the ſaid Leonard Lovies, and to the uſe of ſuch perſon end perſons ſeveral to whom the ſaid Leonard the Grandfather by his laſt Will ſhould demiſe any eſtate or eſtates of and in the ſaid Manors laſt mentioned, or of any part of them, according to the true intent and meaning of his ſaid laſt Will; and after the performance of his laſt Will, to the uſe of the ſaid William Lovies, and to the heirs males of his body iſſuing; and for default of ſuch iſſue, to the uſe of Humfrey Lovies and the heirs males of his body lawfully begotten; and afterwards to the uſe of Richard Lovies and to the heirs males of his body lawfully begotten; and for default of ſuch iſſue, to the uſe of Leonard the Grandfather and the heirs males of his body upon the body of Ibot his wife begotten, and afterwads to the uſe of the heirs females of the body of the ſaid Leonard the Grandfather; and for default of ſuch iſſue, to the uſe of the ſaid Leonard the Grandfather, and his heirs for ever: And of the Manor of Heanton, to the uſe of the ſaid Leonard the Grandfather for his life without any impeachment of Waſt, and to the like uſes as aforeſaid, Saving that the ſaid Humfrey is preferred as to this Manor before William, and then to William, with ſuch remainders over as is aforeſaid: And of the ſaid Manor of Triveſquite to the like uſes as aforeſaid, Saving that Richard Lovies is preferred to this Manor in remainder to him and his heirs males of his body, before William and Humfrey, and afterwards to the ſame uſes as aforeſaid. In which Indentures there is a power of Revocation, ſc. That if the ſaid Leonard the Grandfather ſhall be minded or diſpoſed to alter, change, or make void the ſaid feoffment, vel aliquem aſſum eorundem maneriorum ſeu aliquem ſtatum vel ſtatus qui accreſcerent (Angliè) ſhould grow, or ſhould be executed by reaſon of any uſe or uſes in any of the ſaid Mannors, &c. Or if the ſaid Leonard the the Grandfather ſhould be diſpoſed to have again the ſaid Mannors or any part of them; or to give or diſpoſe of the ſaid Mannors or any part of them, in any other manner than they before are limited; or to have again the ſaid Mannors or any part of them, to him and his heirs, as in his former eſtate, and thereupon Leonard the Grandfather by his Writing ſealed with his Seal and ſigned with his own Hand, ſhould notifie and ſignifie his will and pleaſure to the ſaid Roger and Humfrey, &c. That then after ſuch notice and ſignification in ſuch Writing as aforeſaid, ſuch and ſo many of the ſaid Mannors whereof he ſhould make ſuch notice or ſignification in ſuch Writing, ſhould be all revoked and utterly void, and ſhould be to the uſe of the ſaid Leonard and his heirs; and that [79] the ſaid feoffees then ſhould be ſeiſed to the uſe of the ſaid Leonard the Grandfather and his heirs for ever, Leaſes in form aforeſaid to be made, alwayes excepted and repriſed. And afterwards, ſc. 26 Aprilis, anno 14 Eliz. Leonard Lovies the Grandfather purchaſed to him and his heirs of George Digby Eſq; the ſaid 8 acres, in which, &c. and afterwards 16 Martii, 18 Eliz. by his Writing ſealed with his Seal, and ſubſcribed with his own Hand, reciting his ſaid power of Revocation ſignified by the ſaid Writing to the ſaid Roger, Humfrey, &c. did revoke and make void the ſaid feoffment concerning onely the ſaid Mannors of Rillaton, Pengelly and Willeſworthy, and of the ſaid Mannor of Affaland (the Barton onely there excepted.) And further declared and ſignified to them, That ſo much and no more of the ſaid Feoffment and Indentures which contained the ſaid premiſes (except before excepted) ſhould be utterly fruſtrate and void. And the ſaid Leonard the Grandfather ſo being ſeiſed of all the aforeſaid premiſes as the Law requireth, 20 Martii, 18 Eliz. made his laſt Will [a] in writing, and deviſed the ſaid acres in which, &c. amongſt other things, to Thomas Lovies his eldeſt Son, by theſe words following.

I deviſe to Thomas Lovies my eldeſt Son all my Mannors, &c. within the County of Cornwall, wherein, or which I the ſaid Leonard Lovies have or had any eſtate of Inheritance, the lands by me ſold onely excepted; and alſo all my Mannors, Lands, Tenements, Rents, Reverſions, Services and Hereditament with the appurtenances, within the County of Devon, wherein or in which I have or had, beſides the lands by me ſold, any manner of Inheritance: Except, and alwayes reſerved out of this preſent gift, grant, will and bequeſt, my Mannor of Triveſquite within the ſaid County of Cornwall, and all the Meſſuages, Lands and Tenements in Triveſquite aforeſaid, within the Pariſh of St. Mabin in the ſaid County of Cornwall, and alſo the Patronage of the Rectory and Parſonage of St. Mabin aforeſaid in the ſaid County of Cornwall; And alſo except, and alwayes reſerved out of this preſent gift, grant and bequeſt, as well the Barton onely of my Mannor of Affaland in the ſaid County of Devon, as all my Mannor of Heanton, alias Highaunton, with the Patronage of the Rectory and Parſonage of Heanton, alias Highaunton aforeſaid, in the ſaid County of Devon, and my tenement called Tenaker in the Pariſh of Clawton in the County of Devon aforeſaid, To have, hold, occupy and enjoy the premiſes with the appurtenances, except before excepted to my ſaid Son Thomas, [b] and to his heirs males of his body lawfully begotten, from and after my death for and during the term of 500 years then next enſuing, fully to be compleat and ended. Upon this condition, That my ſaid Son ſhall allow all ſuch eſtates, grants and conveyances thereof already made, or at any time to be made by me the ſaid Leonard Lovies, of and in the Mannors, Meſſuages, Lands and Tenements, and other the premiſes, to him by this my laſt Will given, granted and bequeathed, according to the true meaning, purport and effect of the ſaid leaſe and leaſes ſo made or to be made. Provided alwayes, That if my ſaid Son Thomas, or any the iſſue males of his body lawfully begotten, alien, give or grant the premiſes or any part thereof to them by theſe preſents given, granted and appointed, other then to leaſe, demiſe or grant the ſame or any part thereof, to any perſon or perſons for term of any number of years, as may and ſhall be determined upon the deaths of any three perſons to be named within the ſaid ſeveral leaſes, demiſes and grants, and whereupon the old and moſt accuſtomed rents and ſervices ſhall be yearly reſerved, to have continuance during the ſame ſeveral leaſes: That then all the premiſes for default of ſuch iſſue males of the body of the ſaid Thomas lawfully begotten, or to be begotten, or ſo much thereof as ſhall be aliened, given, granted or otherwiſe than [c] as aforeſaid, by the ſaid Thomas, or by the ſaid iſſue males, immediately upon every or any ſuch alienation, gift or grant ſo made or to be made of the premiſes, or any part thereof, contray to the true meaning of theſe preſents, ſhall remain and come to my Son William Lovies, and to the heirs males of his body lawfully begotten; and for default of ſch iſſue, or if the ſaid William or any of his iſſue males of his body lawfully begotten, make any manner of alienation, gift or grant, otherwiſe than my ſaid Son Thomas, or otherwiſe than they may lawfully do by vertue of the Statute made in the 32 year of the Reign of King H. 8. in that caſe provided, or any of his ſaid iſſue males may lawfully do by theſe preſents; Then all the ſaid premiſes, for default of ſuch iſſue, or ſo much thereof ſo aliened, given or granted by my ſaid Son William, or by any of the iſſue males of his body lawfully begotten, otherwiſe than as aforeſaid, ſhall remain and come to my Son Humfrey Lovies, and to the heirs males of his body lawfully begotten, &c.

And afterwards the ſaid Leonard Lovies the Grandfather died ſeiſed of the ſaid 8 acres of land, [80] in which, &c. and of other the premiſes, prout lex poſtulat, and that the ſaid 8 acres are holden in Socage, and that the ſaid tenements deviſed by the ſaid Will at the time of the death of the ſaid Leonard the Grandfather, were of the yearly value of 24 l. 14 s. 10 d. per annum & non ultra; and that the tenements whereof the ſaid feoffment was made, and not revoked at the time of the death of the ſaid Leonard the Grandfather, were of the yearly value of 55 l. 6 s. 1 d. And that the ſaid Mannor of Triveſquite onely is holden by Knights Service in Capite, and that the ſaid Leonard the Grandfather had not any other lands, and that Thomas Lovies after the death of the ſaid Leonard the Grandfather entred into the ſaid 8 acres, in which, &c. and died without heir male of his body, having iſſue Julian his daughter, who took to her husband Robert Doily Eſq; who entred into the ſaid 8 acres, in which, &c. And that the ſaid William Lovies died, having iſſue the ſaid Leonard Lovies in the Writ and count mentioned, who entred into the ſaid 8 acres, in which, &c. upon the poſſeſſion of the ſaid Robert and Julian, and demiſed to the Plaintiff the ſaid 8 acres, in which, &c. as in the Declaration is alledged, who entred; upon whom the Defendant by the commandment of the ſaid Robert Doily and Julian his wife, did enter and eject him. And if the entry of the ſaid Leonard Lovies the leſſor was lawful or not, was the Queſtion, &c.

After that this Caſe (being of great difficulty and conſequence) had been often argued at the Bar; for it began 8 Jac. Regis, Rot. 4251. This Term it was argued by the Juſtices, and it was concluded, That Judgment ſhould be given againſt the Plaintiff, becauſe that the entry of the ſaid Leonard Lovies the leſſor was not lawful. And in this caſe divers points were moved and reſolved by the Court; ſome upon the Statutes of 32 & 34 H. 8. of Wills; and ſome at the Common Law.

Upon the ſaid Statutes. 1. If a man be ſeiſed of three acres of equal yearly value, one of them being holden of the King by Knights Service in Capite, and having iſſue two Sons, giveth the acre holden, and one of the other acres, to his younger Son in tail; by which he hath executed his power, that he cannot deviſe by his Will any part of the third acre; and afterwards he purchaſeth other three acres of equal value holden in Soccage: Now he having the reverſion in fee expectant upon the gift in tail (made to his younger Son) and the three acres newly purchaſed holden in Socage, can deviſe but two parts of the ſaid lands newly purchaſed, in reſpect of the ſaid reverſion.

[b] But two Objections were made againſt the ſame. 1. That the reverſion doth depend upon the eſtate which was given in tail, according to the power and authority given him by the Acts of 32 & 34 H. 8. to the younger Son, upon which Wardſhip or Primer Seiſin is ſued and given by the ſaid Acts to the King; That the ſaid reverſion depending upon the ſaid eſtate tail, ſhall not hinder the deviſe of the other lands holden in Soccage afterwards purchaſed, becauſe the King is once ſatisfied for the ſame. As if a man maketh a feoffment in fee of lands, whereof part is holden by Knights Service in Capite, to the uſe of his eldeſt Son and his heirs males of his body, and afterwards to the uſe of his younger Son in tail or in fee, and dieth; if the King be once ſatisfied of the Wardſhip or Primer Seiſin after the death of the father, and afterwards the eldeſt Son dieth without iſſue, he ſhall not have Primer Seiſin after the death of the elder, as it hath been often Reſolved, for the ſaid Statutes were ſatisfied with the firſt. See in the Caſe at Bar; The ſaid Statutes once wrought upon the gift in tail of the acre in Capite, and therefore the reverſion of the ſame acre ſhall not reſtrain the deviſe of lands holden in Socage newly purchaſed. 2. The ſaid reverſion is fruitleſs, and not of any yearly value, as long as the eſtate tail continueth, and therefore is not within the ſaid Acts, for the ſame do not extend to ſuch hereditaments which are not of any yearly value, as it is reſolved in Butler and Baker's Caſe, in the third part of my Reports.

But it was Reſolved, That the ſaid reverſion expectant upon the eſtate tail did reſtrain the deviſe of the whole Socage land newly purchaſed by the expreſs letter of the Act of 34 H. 8. And further be it declared and enacted, That all and ſingular perſon and perſons having ſole eſtate, &c. in fee ſimple, &c. of or in any Mannors, Lands, Tenements, &c. in poſſeſſion, reverſion or remainder, &c. holden of the King by Knights Service in Capite: So without queſtion the deviſor hath an eſtate in reverſion of lands ſo holden, and by conſequence he cannot deviſe but two parts of the lands newly purchaſed. And as to the Caſe which hath been put, that the younger brother in remainder, after that the King hath been once ſatisfied, ſhall not ſue Livery, It was agreed for good Law, becauſe in ſuch caſe the words and meaning of the Statute is ſatisfied, and the younger Son doth claim by purchaſe, and not as heir to the eldeſt Son, and therefore after his death he cannot be in Ward, or pay Primer Seiſin. And therewith agreeth 14 Eliz. Dyer 340. and Matthew Mene's Caſe in the 9 Part of my Reports. And Coke Chief Juſtice ſaid, That it was reſolved in the Kings Bench, [81] Hill. 35 Eliz. in Clement Howard's Caſe, That if a man ſeiſed of lands in fee, part of which is holden of the King by Knights Service in Capite, conveyeth two parts of them to any of his Sons, or to the uſe of his wife for life or in tail, in ſuch caſe he may by his Will deviſe the reverſion of the two parts, although that the Statute be in the disjunctive, by act executed, or by his Will, yet the intent of the Act was, that he ſhould have power to diſpoſe two parts entirely as to all eſtates, and to leave onely the third part to diſcend. And the ſame appeareth by the words of the Statute of 34 H. 8. ſc. to give, diſpoſe, will or aſſign by his Will, or act executed, by himſelf ſolely, &c. or by all theſe wayes or any of them; which is as much as to ſay, either by Will, or by act executed, or by them both. And as to the ſaid words of the Statute (in poſſeſſion, reverſion or remainder) It was Reſolved, Where the ſaid Leonard Lovies had a remainder in tail expectant upon the eſtates in tail limited to his Sons, that ſuch remainder was not within the ſaid Act. And therefore if A. be ſeiſed of lands holden in Socage, and B. ſeiſed of lands in fee holden by Knights Service in Capite, maketh a leaſe for life, or a gift in tail to C. the remainder to A. in tail, or in fee; A. by his Will deviſeth all his land holden in Socage, and dieth, living the leſſee for life, or during the gift in tail, the deviſe is good for all the lands holden in Socage, for ſuch remainder is not within the intendment of the Statute, but onely ſuch remainder which may draw Wardſhip and Marriage by the Common Law. As if a man make a leaſe for life or for years, and afterwards granteth the reverſion for life or in tail, the remainder in fee, and afterwards the grantee for life dieth, or the donee in tail dieth without iſſue, ſuch a remiander which is now in point of reverſion, is within the Statute, for the ſame by the Common Law ſhall draw in ſuch caſe Marriage and Wardſhip, &c. And that it ought to be a remainder of ſuch nature, appeareth by the words of the Act it ſelf next following, Or if any Rents or Services incident to any reverſion or remainder; for no Rent or Service can be incident to any remainder but of ſuch nature.

As

As to the second Objection, It was Resolved, That there was a difference betwixt hereditaments which of their nature are not of any annual value, as goods and chattels of Felons and Fugitives, Waif, Stray, and the like. (See for that in Butler and Bakers Case, and the notable opinion of Priſot Chief Justice in this Court, in 32 H. 6. upon the Statute of 1 H. 4.) and things which of their nature are of annual value, but in respect of a gift or lease abſque aliquo inde reddendo, they are not of any present value, as in the Case at Bar, although that the reversion in present is not of any annual value, yet the land it self is of annual value; and therefore such reversion is deviseable, as it was Resolved by Popham and Anderſon Chief Justices in the Court of Wards, Trin. 34 Eliz. in Bedingfields Case; where the Case was, That Edmond Bedingfield of Oxborough in the County of Norfolk, Esq; was seised of six Manors in the Counties of Norfolk and Suffolk, s. of one in his demesn as of fee, and of the others in tail, with the reversion expectant to him and his heirs, and had issue Tho. Bedingfield; divers of which Manors were holden of the Queen by Knights service in Capite, and every one of them of equal yearly value. The said Edmund by his last Will in writing devised all the said Manors to divers persons and their heirs, upon trust and confidence for payment of his Debts, and advancement of his Children, and died; and the estate in tail which descended to his issue, was more than the third part of the whole. Now the question was, If the devise should be void for a third part of the Manor in possession, and a third part of the reversions in fee; or if it should be good for the whole entire Manor in possession, and for the entire reversions. And these doubts arose upon two Branches of the Statute of 34 H. 8. the first is in these words, All and singular person and persons having a sole estate in fee simple in possession, reversion or remainder, holden of the King by Knights service in chief, shall have power, &c. to dispose two parts: by which clause it seemeth the devise should be void for the third part of the Manor in possession, for the devisor had sole estate of the reversion in fee holden by Knights service in Capite. The second clause was, And that the King shall have, &c. for his third part, &c. such Manors as shall descend as well in tail as fee simple; and that the Will of every such devisor of and for the two parts of the said Manors residue, shall stand good, albeit the Will be made of all his fee simple lands. By which Branch it seemeth clearly, That if the devisor had not any reversion in fee but only the said estate tail, that the devise should be good for all the Manor in possession, but the having of the reversion upon the consideration of the said former clause, made the question: and it was quæſtio tortuoſa & difficultatis plena. In which case was first Resolved by the two Chief Justices, That a reversion in fee expectant upon an estate in tail seck and fruitless, was within the said Act, for the cause and reason aforesaid. 2. It was Resolved, That the said devise should be good for two parts of the reversions, and for the whole Manor in possession, and that by the meaning of the makers of the Act upon both Branches, to the end the debts of the devisor should be paid, and his last Will performed, which was one of the principal motives of the making the said Act; and ſic determinata fuit ſpinoſa illa quæſtio. Vide 14 Eliz. Dyer 308. The Lord Paget being the Queens tenant by Knights service in Capite, levied a fine to the use of himself for life, and afterwards to the use of the right heirs of the Lord Paget, and died; the eldest son of full age sued Livery, and paid the value of the third part of the land in possession, and the moity of the reversion in fee, according to the usual rate: which proveth, That the Acts of 32 and 34 H. 8. being in the affirmative, and which give benefit to the King in respect of the possession, took not away such benefit which the Common Law gave to the King for the reversion of the same land. [b] [82]

It was also Resolved, That although hereditaments which of their nature are not of any annual value cannot be devised, yet if they be holden in Capite, they shall restrain the devise of Manors, Lands, &c. and shall make them void for a third part. For the hereditament holden by Knights service in Capite, needeth not to be deviseable. And the Chief Justice in his Argument for the more perspicuity, divided the said intricate and prolix Acts into several Branches: The first Branch out of the Act of 34 H. 8. which hath been mentioned before, All and singular person and persons having sole estate in fee simple, &c. of and in any Manors, &c. The second, Holden of the King by Knights service in Capite. The third is out of the Act of 32 H. 8. Saving, &c. to the King the custody, Wardship, or Primer Seiſin, the clear yearly value of the third part of the same Manors, Lands, &c. The fourth clause is out of the Statute of 34 H. 8. May give, dispose, will or assign two parts of the same Manors, &c. The fifth clause is out of the Act of 34 H. 8. That the King shall take for his third part, &c. such Manors, Lands, &c. as shall descend as well of the inheritance in fee tail as in fee simple. And out of these several Branches six times were observed; for Judicis officium eſt, ut res, ita tempora rerum Quærere, quæſito tempore tutus eris. And omnia tempus habent, & habet ſua tempora tempus. The first time is tempus habendi, every person having, &c. The second time is tempus tenendi, holden of the King, &c. The third time is tempus diſponendi, may give, dispose, &c. and it is to know, that By such disposition there is a vesting either in the Subject or the King; In the Subject, either by act executed by the Common Law in the life of the Kings tenant, or by last Will, which vesteth only by force of these Acts; in the King, only by the death of his tenant, for the Wardship or Primer Seiſin vesteth in him. The fourth time is tempus appretiandi ſeu æſtimandi, the clear yearly value, &c. The fifth time is tempus providendi, plenam tertiam partem, to descend in fee or in tail, a full third part, &c. to descend or come by descent, as well of estate of inheritance in fee tail as in fee simple. The sixth time is by construction of all the parts, s. tempus continuandi, ſeu tempus continuum. [b]

And it was holden, That the said three former times ought to concur, s. the time of having, the time of holding, and the time of diſpoſing ought to concur together. And therefore if a man be seised of an acre of land in fee, holden of the King by Knights service in Capite, and of other two acres in fee holden in Socage, and the tenant enfeoffeth his younger Son of the acre holden in chief, and of one of the other acres, To have and to hold to him and his heirs; and afterwards he purchaseth lands holden in Socage, that in this case he may devise all the lands newly purchased holden in Socage, and that for three Reasons. 1. Because he had not any lands holden by Knights service in Capite at the time of the devise, for the said Acts have made a marriage or conjunction of the lands which the Kings tenant had in Socage, with the lands which he holdeth of the King by Knights service in Capite; for the words of both the Acts are, Every person, &c. having Manors, Lands, &c. may give, dispose, &c. two parts of the same Manors, Lands, &c. And the Saving in the said Act of 32 H. 8. is Saving a third part, &c. of the same Manors, lands, &c. so that when the tenant hath conveyed the lands holden in Capite to his son, now when he maketh his Will of the lands newly purchased, he hath not any lands holden of the K. in Capite at the time of the devise, and the Statutes restrain only the lands in Socage, which he had at the time of the having of the lands holden in Capite. 2. The Acts give to him full power and authority to give, dispose, will or assign two parts for the advancement of his wife, preferment of his children, or payment of his debts: So that when the Statute hath given him power to convey two parts (whereof the land holden by Knights service in Capite is part) the intention of the makers of the Act never was to presume him who hath according to the Act conveyed the land, to have the same land for any intent or purpose. And as it is resolved in Mights Case in the 8th. Part of my Reports, Trin. 7 Jac. Land which is conveyed to one of the said three ends cannot be said covenous, because it is warranted by the Act.

[83] 3. It was observed, the great benefit which the King hath by these Statutes; for the K. tenant in Capite before these Statutes might have so conveyed the land to some of the said uses, that the King should never have Wardship nor Primer Seisin, as appeareth in Sir George Cursons Case in the sixth Part of my Reports. And therefore it shall not be reason to interpret the Statute in prejudice of the Subject against the express letter, s. by a Saving of a third part of the Kings lands which the Kings tenant then had, to extend it beyond the words to lands holden in Socage, which he purchased after he had conveyed over the lands holden in Capite. But the greater Question was, That if Leonard Lovies had conveyed (as was admitted) the land holden by Knights service in Capite to William Lovies his second Son in fee, &c. with power of Revocation; so that he had power upon the land, and might dispose of it, If that should restrain the power of Leonard Lovies to devise all the land in Socage newly purchased. But the Chief Justice held it all one for the reasons and causes aforesaid; and so much the rather, because the Statutes gave to him power to give, dispose, &c. two parts, &c. at his will and pleasure; so inasmuch as his will and pleasure appeareth to convey the land to William, as is aforesaid, with power of Revocation, he thereby pursueth the power which the Statutes give to him, which Nichols Justice granted. And as these Statutes have been put in ure according to the express purview, although that damage hath accrued to the Subject, as in Vincents Case briefly touched by the Lord Dyer, 22 Eliz. 367. It was resolved, That if the Kings tenant by Knights service in Capite convey the lands to the use of his wife and her heirs, or to the use of his youngest Son and his heirs, and dieth, his eldest Son within age, that although the eldest be disinherited, yet affliction is added to affliction, he shall be in ward to the King, although he hath nothing by descent, by the express purview of the Statute: So no interpretation shall be made for the benefit of the King against the express purview; and therewith agreeth Wray Chief Justice in Butler and Bakers Case. And therefore if a woman the Kings tenant in Capite hath issue a Bastard daughter, and conveyeth the lands to her Bastard daughter, and dieth, the King shall not have Wardship; for if it be within the Statute of 32 H. 8. it ought to be a child in Law and truth, and not in reputation, as of the land in Socage tenure, ſo that the time of having, holding and diſpoſing, did concur. And therewith agreeth the opinion in Butler and Baker's Caſe. So, and for the ſame reaſon it is there holden, That if a man be ſeiſed of lands holden by Knights Service in Capite, and of lands in Socage, and by his Will in writing deviſeth all the ſaid lands, and afterwards alieneth the lands holden in Capite, that this deviſe is good for the whole land in Socage; and many other Caſes of the like effect are put in Butler and Baker's Caſe which you may ſee there. And where the Statute of 34 H. 8. ſaith, two parts as well of the ſaid Mannors, Lands, Tenements, Rents and Heraditaments, as of all and ſingular his other Rents and Heraditaments: Theſe laſt words (as of all and ſingular his other Rents) ought to be referred to the beginning of the ſentence, ſc. having a ſole eſtate, &c. of or in any Mannors, Lands, &c. holden in Capite. For if he hath not any land in Capite, he is not reſtrained to deviſe but two parts, for then he may deviſe the whole: but theſe words were needfull to be added, for the beginning of this Branch extendeth onely to enable the tenant to deviſe, &c. two parts of the lands holden in Capite onely; and therefore it was needfull to add, As alſo all and ſingular his other Rents and Heraditaments not holden in Capite by Knights Service: but all the words together prove (as hath been ſaid) that the time of having, holding and diſpoſing ought to concur. [84]

[b] it is resolved in Thormtons Case, 17 & 18 Eliz. Dyer 345. Vide 12 Eliz. Dyer 296, and yet a Chantry in reputation was adjudged within the Act of 1 E. 6. cap. 14. 22 Eliz. Dyer 368. in the Dean of Pauls Case. And the Chief Justice said, That it was Resolved in the Court of Wards, Trin. 25 Eliz. That where Sir Nicholas Strange Knight was the Kings tenant of the Manor of Hunston, and of divers other Manors, Lands and Tenements holden in Capite, in the County of Norfolk, and Hamond Strange his eldest Son and heir apparent purchased the said Manors, Lands and Tenements of him bona fide for money, and the said Sir Nicholas died, the said Hamond of full age, and this matter was found by office. And it was Resolved by Wray and Anderson Chief Justices, That he should not pay Primer Seisin, for the words of the Statute, are give (which implieth to be done ex mera liberalitate & voluntate: See Bracton, lib. 2, cap. 5, fo. 11.) And although the words are, dispose and assign, yet the conclusion is for the preferment of his children, for every preferment ought to be also ex mera liberalitate & spontanea voluntate, and accordingly it was Resolved (as then it was said) in Porriges Case in 12 Eliz. And Randals Case in 4 & 5 Phil. & Mar. 158. was cited by every one of the Justices in the argument of this Case. A man seised in fee of land of Socage tenure assureth the same to the use of his wife for Joynture in 32 H 8. and afterwards 2 Ed. 6. he purchaseth lands holden by Kings service in Capite, and of two parts thereof maketh his Will and dieth, his heir within age. If the Queen should have any of the Socage land to make a full third part of the whole, was the question: And Resolved she should not, for the words of the Act of 34 H. 8. of Explanation are, and having no lands holden by Knights service: which proveth, that the time of having, holding in Capite by Knights service, and of disposing, ought to concur. And a difference was taken and agreed between a disposition, by act executed in the life of the devisor, and by his last Will in writing. And therefore if a man seised of lands in fee holden in Socage of the yearly value of 20 l. per annum, and hath not any lands holden in Capite by Knights service, and maketh his Will in writing, and thereby deviseth the Socage land to another in fee, and afterwards he purchaseth lands holden by Knights service in Capite, of the yearly value of 20 s. and dieth, this devise shall not be good for all the Soccage land, for nothing is disposed or transferred over by the Will, till the death of the devisor. And there was an union of the land holden in Capite, and of

As to the fourth time, ſc. From what time the value of the lands whereof the King ſhall have the third ſhall be taken, It was Reſolved, That the value of the lands ſhall be taken as they are at the time of the death of the Kings tenant, for then by the Saving in caſe of act executed, the title of Wardſhip and Primer Seiſin veſteth in the King; and in caſe of Will it alſo taketh effect for two parts by the death of the tenant, and the third part doth deſcend to the heir, of which the King ſhall have the Wardſhip or Primer Seiſin. So that tempus appreciandi ought to concur with the time of the death; but the time of veſting in the Subject by act executed, and the time of value, do not meet together. And the reſolution of Vigil Parker's Caſe in the eighth Part of my Reports, was cited, and agreed to be good Law: where the Caſe was, That Vigil Parker ſeiſed of the Mannor of Fuſhill in fee, holden of the King by Knights Service, as of his Dutchy of Lancaſter, anno 27 Eliz. made a feoffment of half of the Mannor to the uſe of himſelf for life, and afterwards to the uſe of Mary, whom he did intend to marry, for life, with divers remainders over; he married Mary Coney, and afterwards demiſed the other half to divers, for payment of his Debts and Legacies, and died: And it was Reſolved, That foraſmuch as the advancement of wife is as well within the Statute, as payment of his debts, and the Statute (as to values) principally taketh its effect by the death of the Kings tenant; for this cauſe, although the eſtate of the wife hath the precedency, it was reſolved, That the third part of the King ſhall be taken equally out of both parts, and not out of the half ſo deviſed onely and accordingly, as it appeareth there, it had been reſolved divers times before. [b]

As to the fifth time, ſc. To provide a third part to diſcend, It is to know, That if a man ſeiſed of certain lands, part of which is holden in Capite by Knights Service of the yearly value of 60 l. per annum, all which lands are conveyed to one of the ſaid three uſes, and afterwards he purchaſeth lands of the yearly value of 20 l. per annum or more, in tail or in fee, and leaveth the ſame to deſcend for the third part to the King, the ſame is good. For this time to provide a third part, needeth not to concur with the time of having, holding or diſpoſing by act executed; but it ſufficeth if this time concur with the time of the value, ſc. the time of the death of the Kings tenant: and this appeareth by the expreſs words of the Act of 34 H. 8. That the King ſhall take for his third part ſuch Mannors, Lands, &c. as ſhall deſcend in fee tail or fee ſimple, without any words of reference or reſtraint, or any union made of theſe lands, which deſcend with the land holden in Capite by Knights Service, as the other clauſes aforeſaid are.

As to the ſixth time, ſc. tempus continuum, to ſome purpoſe time ought to continue uſque ad mortem, and in ſome caſe poſt mortem; uſque ad mortem, the eſtate conveyed to any of the ſaid three purpoſes, ought to continue till the death of the Kings tenant, as is reſolved in Bingham's Caſe, in the ſecond Part of my Reports: poſt mortem. 1. The tenure by Knights Service in Capite ought to continue after death, for if the tenure be but during the life of the tenant, ſo that it doth not continue after his death, the ſame ſhall not reſtrain the deviſe of the other lands, as it is holden in Butler and Baker's Caſe. 2. The eſtate of the land holden ought to continue after the death of the tenant; and therefore if tenant in tail be to him and the heirs males of his body, the remainder to another in fee of land holden by Knights Service in Capite, and he is ſeiſed of other lands in Socage in fee, and by his Will in writing he deviſeth all his Socage lands, and dieth without iſſue male, in this caſe the deviſe is good for the whole Socage land, for the eſtate of the lands holden doth determine by his death, ſo that there was not any cauſe of Wardſhip by the Common Law. The ſame Law, If the eſtate of the land holden be defeated by Condition after the death of the tenant. Vide 13 Eliz. Dyer. 3. The privity of the heir of the tenant ought to continue after his death; and therefore if the King tenants in Capite conveyeth all his lands to any of the ſaid three uſes, and afterward is attainted of Treaſon, and afterwards he dieth his heir within age, in this caſe the King ſhall not have the Wardſhip, becauſe that he dieth without heir in reſpect of the corruption of bloud, as it was reſolved in Sir Everard Digby's Caſe, Mich. 7 Jac. in the eighth part of my Reports. [85]

Queſtions at the Common Law. 1. If the uſes limited by the ſaid Tripartite Indentures to William Lovies in tail, with the remainder over, are in contingency or not? or if the uſes be preſently executed by the Statute of 27 H. 8. of Uſes, in William Lovies with the remainder over? And the Chief Juſtice held, That the uſes were in contingency, and not executed till the death of Leonard Lovies the Grandfather, for when he hath by the ſaid Indentures limited to himſelf an eſtate for life, and upon the matter power to make leaſes for life, lives or years, without any reſtraint of lives or years, then when the limitation is farther to the uſe of the performance of his Will and Teſtament, and to the uſes of ſuch perſon and perſons ſeverally to whom he by his laſt Will ſhall deviſe any eſtate or eſtates. By theſe words without queſtion he may deviſe the lands to any perſonin tail or in fee, (for he hath power before to make leaſes for lives or years, without any limitation) and by conſequence the uſe limited to William Lovies in tail, with all the remainders over, are in contingency. For where it is doubtfull or incertain whether the uſe or eſtate limited in futuro ſhall ever veſt in eſtate or intereſt or not, there the uſe or eſtate is ſaid to be in contingency, becauſe upon a future contingent it may either veſt or never veſt, as the contingent ſhall happen. And therefore there is a difference betwixt ſuch a contingency as aforeſaid, and a limitation of eſtates by words of contingency, which extend upon the limitation of former eſtates, and which veſt in eſtate or intereſt preſently to take effect in poſſeſſion in futuro; as in 5 E. 3. 27. William leaſes to John for the life of John, rendring to William 40 s. rent during the life of William, and after the death of William to John and his heirs, this remainder to John cannot preſently veſt, becauſe peradventure it ſhall never veſt in eſtate or intereſt, and the contingent in this caſe is the time of the death of William, for if William dieth, John living, the remainder is good, but if William over-live John and dieth after him, [b] the remainder is void. Vide Plo. Com. in Colthirſt's Caſe. Paſc. 36 Eliz. Rott. 348. between Alton and Hore in the Kings Bench, the caſe was; That a fine was levied to the uſes of A. and the heirs males of his body, till he or the heirs males of his body hath done ſuch a thing, and after ſuch thing done unto the uſe of another in tail, and dieth without iſſue without any thing done, It was adjudged, That the remainder was in contingency, and never fell. If a man hath made ſeveral leaſes of two ſeveral acres of land for two ſeveral and diſtinct terms, as well in the commencement as in the end, and afterwards maketh a leaſe of both acres, to begin after the the determinations of the ſaid ſeveral terms for 40 years, it ſhall not expect to begin after the laſt leaſe, but ſhall veſt preſently in intereſt reddendo ſingula ſingulis, as it is adjudged in Juſtice Windham's Caſe in the fifth Part of my Reports, (and ſee 6 E. 3. 43. a good Caſe. See Boraſton's Caſe betwixt Hinde and Ambrey in the third Part of my Reports) for it veſts preſently in intereſt, to begin in poſſeſſion after the determination of a former term for years. But in the Caſe at Bar, nothing can veſt by the deviſe to William Lovies, nor the remainders over till the death of the deviſor, becauſe he hath power by his Will to deviſe to any perſon any eſtate, be it in fee ſimple if he will: Ergo, it cannot preſently veſt in William Lovies, and by conſequence in none of the remainders; upon which it followeth, that in the mean time the uſe of the fee veſts again in Leonard the Grandfather, (as it was adjudged in Sir Ed. Clers Caſe) and then he was ſeiſed of lands holden in Capite at the time of the purchaſe of the ſaid 8 acres in which, &c. And for this cauſe, he having diſpoſed two parts by act executed according to the Statute, cannot deviſe the ſaid 8 acres. For it appeareth by the Record, that he hath conveyed by feoffment lands and tenements of the yearly value of 55 l. 6 s. 8 d. and the land mentioned to be deviſed is but of the value of 24 l. 14 s. 10 d. per annum, and the feoffment cannot extend to the ſaid 8 acres, for they were purchaſed after; but being a laſt Will ſhall be direction to declare uſes upon the feoffment, and when the land ſhall paſs by the Will it ſelf, and when by the feoffment, See Sir Ed. Clere's Caſe. * But againſt this it was objected, That the fee which Leonard the Grandfather hath by operation of Law, is vaniſhed by his death, in as much as he made no diſpoſition of the land in fee ſimple by his Will, which was granted as had been reſolved before. But it was Anſwered and Reſolved, That the ſaid reverſion in fee expectant upon the eſtate tail, did not vaniſh, as [86] fully appeareth. Another Objection was made, That foraſmuch as the words of the Statutes of 32 & 34 H. 8. are, Lawfully execute in his life, &c. in this caſe foraſmuch as the ſaid uſes were in contingency, no execution of any eſtate was, but after the death of Leonard the Grandfather, and ſo out of the Statute. To which it was anſwered, That after the death of the ſaid Leonard the Grandfather, the ſaid eſtates were derived, and took their eſſence and effect by force of the feoffment made, and ſo upon the matter executed in his life. Alſo it was holden by the Chief Juſtice, That the remainder to William Lovies by the Will is contingent, foraſumch as no alienation is found to be made by Thomas; for in effect it is a deviſe to Thomas and his heirs males. Provided, that if he alien it, that then for want of iſſue male of his body, it ſhall remain to William, &c. So that there are two main impediments to the remainder, ſc. that there was not any alienation; and if there had been an alienation, then alſo it ſhould be repugnant, that after the alienation the land ſhould remain to William, and ſo quacunque via data the remainder as this caſe is doth not veſt in William. And the ſeveral pennings of the deviſe to Thomas with contingency to remain over to William, and of the deviſe to William and the remainder over were obſerved, which prove ſeveral intents in the Teſtator, as appeareth in Edrich's Caſe, in the fifth part of my Reports, upon the Statute of 32 H. 8. Of Rents. But this point was reſolved by the Court. Another point at the Common Law was alſo moved in this Caſe, ſc. Whether the ſaid revocation mentioned in the Record, were ſufficient or not. Touching which, there are three things to be conſidered.

1. His Power, reſerved to him by the Proviſo of Revocation.
2. If he hath purſued his power.

Firſt, the words of the Power divide themſelves into five Branches. 1. That if the ſaid Leonard Lovies ſhall be diſpoſed to alter, change, or to make void the aforeſaid feoffment, &c. 2. Or any uſe or uſes, &c. above limited. 3. Or any eſtate or eſtates which ſhall grow or be executed by reaſon of any uſe, &c. 4. Or if the ſaid Leonard Lovies the Grandfather ſhall be minded to have again all and ſingular the ſaid Mannors, &c. or any part of them. 5. Or to diſpoſe or give the ſaid Mannors or any part of them in any other manner, or to have again the ſame or any part of them to the ſaid Leonard and his heirs in his ancient eſtate, and thereupon ſhall ſignifie his will and pleaſure to the feoffees or any of them, &c. That then immediately, &c. the Mannors, &c. ſhall be to the uſe of Leonard the Grandfather and his heirs, in his ancient eſtate. Then the the Revocation ſtands upon upon two parts: 1. He ſignifie that ſo much of the Indentures which concern certain Manners ſhall be void, which was objected cannot be, becauſe that the Indenture was made 26 Sept. 12. Eliz. and the feoffment was made 28 Sept. following, and therefore the Indenture precedent could not avoid the feoffment which paſſed by ſubſequent Livery. Alſo he declareth, That ſo much of the feoffment and Indentures, and no more, as concern only parcel of the premiſes, ſhall be void; and admitting that the feoffment and indenture may be avoided, and made void in all, yet it cannot be avoided in part, s. the Deed of Indenture as to one Mannor to be made void and to loſe its force, and as to another to ſtand with the Deed, and of ſuch effect, as it was objected, in the ſecond Branch, s. I will that ſo much and no more of the ſaid feoffment and Indentures, and every cláuſe and article therein contained, to be utterly fruſtrate and void, &c. 3. The nature of the things to be revoked was conſidered, That all the declarations and limitations of the uſes at the time of the Deed of Revocation, were only in contingency, and nothing in eſtate in poſſeſſion, reverſion, or remaider or intereſt, but only in poſſibility, which cannot be revoked, or changed, or altered; for revocation, alteration or change, doth preſuppoſe a former eſſence, as the Rule of the Logician is, Omnis privatio præſupponit habitum. And although that future powers and authorities annexed to eſtates, as a power to make leaſes, &c. given to him who hath an eſtate for life may with the eſtates be revoked, yet it was objected, That when all is in contingency or poſſibility it cannot be revoked; and the uſe which by operation of Law was veſted in Leonard Lovies the Grandfather, cannot be revoked, for the Proviſo of the ſaid Indentures extend only to uſes declared by the ſame Indentures, and not to an uſe created by the Law. But it was anſwered and reſolved by the Court, That the revocation was good: For uſes and powers in contingency and poſſibility, may by mutual aſſent of the parties be revoked and determined, for as they may be raiſed by Indenture, ſo by proviſo or limitation annexed to them in the ſame Indenture, they may be extinct or deſtroyed either before or after their eſſence. And it was Reſolved, that theſe words, The ſaid Indentures, and every clauſe and article therein contained, extend to all the uſes and limitation in contingency and poſſibility. And this Reſolution agreeth with common Experience, s. That eſtates limited to one, two, three Sons, &c. before that any of them be born, are by the like Proviſo's uſually and without queſtion daily revoked. And without queſtion the Indentures, as to the direction and declaration of uſes, may loſe their force in part, and ſtand good in part; and if the operation as to part be taken away by the Proviſo, then the feoffment for that part is to the uſe of the feoffor and his heirs; and by conſequence in the Caſe at Bar, Leonard Lovies had an uſe veſted in him by operation of Law upon the feoffment, untill other declaration was made by his Will. Now by the Revocation he hath an abſolute eſtate in fee ſimple, and in his ancient eſtate without any limitation. [b] [87]

Alſo the Chief Juſtice held, That the ſaid deviſe to Thomas was but for years, becauſe it is ſo deviſed in expreſs words: and againſt the expreſs words in this caſe, no inference or interpretation ſhall be made: for the words are, Item, I give, grant, will and bequeath, to my Son Thomas all my Mannors, &c. To have and to hold to my ſaid Son Thomas, and to the heirs males of his body lawfully begotten, from and after my death, for and during the term of 500 years then next enſuing fully to be compleat and ended, &c. and the remainders to William Lovies and others, to every of them and to their ſeveral heirs males of their bodies, without any reſtraint to any number of years. And note, the liberty given to Thomas is in theſe words, Otherwiſe than to leaſe, &c. the ſame for years determinable upon the death of any three perſons or leſs number of perſons: but in the liberty given to William and the other, the words, Otherwiſe than they may lawfully do by the Statute of 32 H. 8. Which Act he doth not mention in the deviſe to Thomas. So inſomuch as that Thomas hath not an eſtate but for 500 years, ſo long as he hath iſſue of his body he giveth him power but to demiſe for years, but to William who hath an eſtate in tail, he leaveth him power to leaſe the lands for three lives or 21 years, according to the Statute of 32 H. 8. which giveth power to tenant in tail, &c. and therewith agreeth Juſtice Wineb. But theſe words, During the term of 500 years, ſhall make a limitation to a term for years to determine it, for want of iſſue male. And that the ſame is but a term for years in Grants, the Books are expreſs in the point, 11 Aſſ. 21. 33 Aſſ. p. 17. 39 E. 3. 37. 19 E. 3 Accompt 56 9 H. 6. 58. 22 H. 6. 33. 34 H. 6. 27. Litt. 168. 10 Eliz. Dyer 276. Vide 21 H. 8. br. Eſtates, the like. But as to that point which hath been controverted betwixt this Court and the Court of Kings Bench, in a former action brought upon this deviſe, no Reſolution as to that point was now given by the Court. Note, Reader, if a term be deviſed to one and the heirs males of his body, his heir ſhall not have it but his Executors, for a term is but a Chattel which cannot be entailed, and ſuch deviſee may well alien the term to whom he pleaſeth. And ſo it was adjudged Trin. 25 Eliz. in the Kings Bench in Peacocks Caſe; and anno 21 Eliz. ſo Reſolved by Anderſon and Walmeſley, being a Caſe referred to them out of the Chancery, between Higgins and Mills. Hill. 8 Jacobi.

Doctor Leyfield's Caſe.

[88] JOhn Leyfield Doctor in Divinity brought an action of Treſpaſs in the Kings Bench, Hill. 8. Jac. Rot. 1282. againſt Henry Hillary, of taking and carrying away his Corn and Hay at Old Cleve in the County of Somerſet. The Defendant pleaded in barr, That Queen Elizabeth was ſeiſed of the Rectory of Old Cleve in the ſame County in her demeſn as of fee in the Right of her Crown of England; and by her Letters Patents 20 Junii, 35 Eliz. (without ſaying he ſhewed forth) demiſed the ſaid Rectory to Conand Prowſe for his life, who 26 Jan. 3 Jac. demiſed the ſaid Rectory to George Pincomb for eight years, if the ſaid Conand ſhould ſo long live, and the Defendant as ſervant to the ſaid George took the Corn and Hay as Tithes ſevered from the nine parts, and averred the life of the ſaid Conand: Upon which the Plaintiff did demur in Law, becauſe that the Defendants plea did amount unto the General Iſſue. And it was adjudged in the Kings Bench, That the barr was inſufficient, becauſe the Defendant in his plea did not ſhew to the Court the Letters Patents of Queen Eliz. made to Conand Prowſe, which the Court took to be matter of ſubſtance, and which the Defendant ought to have ſhewed forth, although he in whoſe right he juſtified had but part of the eſtate. Whereupon a Writ of Error was brought in the Exchequer Chamber, and there two Errors were moved; one, which was aſſigned by the Defendant for his cauſe of demurrer, 1. That the ſaid plea did amount to the General Iſſue, becauſe the Defendant gave not to the Plaintiff any co-
[b] lour, in which caſe no Judgment ought to have been againſt the Defendant, but the Court ought to have ruled him to anſwer over; the ſecond, That for want of ſhewing the Letters Patents, the Court ought not to have given Judgment againſt the Defendant, for two cauſes. 1. Becauſe that by Law the Letters Patents needed not to be ſhewed forth. 2. If they ought to have been ſhewed, yet the ſame is but matter of form, and not of ſubſtance; and therefore by the Statute of 27 Eliz. cap. 5. becauſe that he ſhewed not the ſame for ſome cauſe of his demurrer, he ſhall not take advantage of it.

As to the firſt, it was objected, That the ſaid plea in barr doth amount to the General Iſſue, becauſe the Defendant hath not given any colour to the Plantiff, nor any poſſeſſion upon which he may ground his Action. And thereupon they cited 21 E. 4. 65. In Treſpaſs for taking and carrying away of certain Cart-loads of Beans at Bodmon, againſt the Prior of Bodmon; the Defendant ſaid, That the Corn was growing in a certain place in B. in the Pariſh of Bodmon, whereof he was Parſon inparſonee, and (being driven by the Court to ſhew how he came to the ſame Parſonage) ſaid, That he had the Impropriation by title of Preſcription; and how that the Corn was ſevered from the nine parts, and that he took them as his own goods (and gave colour) that he delivered them to one T. who delivered them to the Plaintiff to keep, and that the Defendant took them. And in 21 H. 6. 30. Robert, Parſon of the Church of Clifford, brought an action of Treſpaſs againſt divers, and declared of his taking and carrying away of his goods, 1. Wheat, Barley, &c. three Coverlets, and three Blankets. As to the Corn of Wheat and Barley, &c. the Defendant ſaid, That before the Treſpaſs one A. was Parſon of the ſaid Church, and the Pariſhioners had ſowed their lands with Wheat and Barley the firſt day of May, and afterwards the ſame day the ſaid A. made the Defendants his Executors, and died; and gave colour to the Plaintiff, That he was inſtituted and inducted Parſon of the ſaid Church, and afterwards the Pariſhioners ſevered the Corn from the nine parts, and the Plaintiff as Parſon took the Corn, and the Defendants as Executors took it out of his poſſeſſion. And 19 H. 6. 20. In treſpaſs againſt B. Prior of L. for breaking of his Cloſe, and taking away his Graſs being in Cocks. The Defendant as to the breaking of the Cloſe pretended his Freehold; and as to the Cocks, he ſaid, That he himſelf is Parſon inparſonee, and that the place where is ſo much land of ſuch a Town within the ſame Pariſh, (and he was driven by the Court to give a name to the Cloſe) and that the Cocks were there growing, and ſevered from the nine parts; and you claiming to be Parſon of the ſame Church by the Kings preſentment by his Letters Patents, whereas you were not inſtituted nor inducted, took the ſame Cocks, and we took them [89] back again. And there Forteſcue and Newton conceived that the colour was not good. And in 2 H. 4 5. The Vicar of Saltaſh brought an Action of Treſpaſs for carrying away his goods in S. The Defendant alledged, That the Dean of Windſor was Parſon of S. and that he as ſervant took the goods as his Maſters goods, and the Plaintiff would have taken them from him, and he would not ſuffer him. And by the Rule of the Court it was holden no plea, becauſe that the Defendant doth not acknowledge any poſſeſſion in the Plaintiff, nor property at any time in him of the ſaid goods. 34 H. 6. 10. b. The Abbot of St. Mary of York brought an action of Treſpaſs againſt John Parſon of the Church of P. for taking of 30 l. at D. in the County of York. The Defendant ſaid, That there is a Chappel of our Lady in the City of York, in the Defendants Pariſh, in which Chappel there is an Image of our Lady, to which the People uſe to offer Gold and Silver; and that the 30 l. were Offerings there, and that he took them away, as it was lawfull for him to do; and gave colour to the Plaintiff, 1. That he did deliver the money to B. to keep for the Defendants uſe, who delivered the mony to the Plaintiff, and the Defendant took the ſame out of his poſſeſſion, &c. And in 39 H. 6. 1 & 2. In Treſpaſs, the Plaintiff declared of taking two Horſes. The Defendant ſaid, That the Lord Latimer is Lord of the Barony of Godford, which is an ancient Barony, and hath been time out of mind, mind, &c. Within which he and his Anceſtors, and all thoſe whoſe eſtate he hath in the ſaid Barony, have had Waif and Stray time out of mind, &c. And further ſaid, That the Horſes were ſtollen, and brought within the Barony, where, &c. and there the Horſes waived, for which cauſe the Defendant as Servant to the ſaid Lord, and by his commandment ſeiſed them, &c. and the Plaintiff took them, and the Defendant took them again; and Exception was taken to this plea, becauſe the Defendant gave not to the Plaintiff any colour: for although they were waives out of his Franchiſe, and the Defendant ſeiſed them, the Plaintiff hath not colour to take them; for which the Defendant ſaid, That the Plaintiff ſuppoſing that the property was in him before the ſtealling took them. But by the whole Court, the Plea was nothing worth, without ſaying in facto that the property was in him; for which cauſe he pleaded accordingly. And many other Caſes were put to this purpoſe, which I purpoſely omit. Vide 22 E. 4. 24. Againſt which it was argued by the Counſel on the other ſide, That in this caſe there needeth not any colour to be given, for two cauſes. 1. Becauſe the Defendant doth juſtifie as Servant. 2. Becauſe the beginning of the barr is with the Queens Letters Patents.

As to the firſt, 18 E. 4. 3. was cited, where in an action of Treſpaſs for breaking of his Cloſe, and taking and carrying away 30 loads of Wheat; The Defendant pleaded, That one Sir C.M. was ſeiſed of a Carue of land, whereof the place where, &c. in his demeſn as of fee, and ſowed the ſame land with Wheat, and that the Defendant as his Servant, and by his commandment entred into the ſame land and cut the Wheat, and carried it away, as it was lawful for him to do. And it was moved, That the bar was not good becauſe he gave no colour. And it was holden by all the Juſtices, that he ſhould not in this caſe give colour to the Plaintiff, becauſe that in all caſes where a man juſtifieth as Servant to another, and by his commandment, he ſhall not give to the Plaintiff any colous. [b]

As to the ſecond, colour always ought to be given by him who is firſt in the conveyance, or elſe all that before it is waived; and therewith agreeth 10 H. 7. 14. 15 E. 4. 32. 18 E. 4. 10. & 22 E. 4. 25. And in this caſe Queen Elizabeth is the firſt in conveyance by the Letters Patents, and the Plaintiff cannot ſuppoſe that the defendant claimeth by former Letters Patents, for then it ſhould give to the Plaintiff a good title; as in 12 H. 6. Colour 54. In Treſpaſs for breaking his Cloſe, the Defendant ſaith, That one H. did enfeoff him, and the Plaintiff claiming by colour of a leaſe made to him for term of years before the feoffment, where nothing paſſed, entred, &c. And there Fitzherbert conceiveth that the plea is not good; for if ſuch a leaſe was, it paſſeth preſently, and when he pleadeth that the Plaintiff claiming by colour of a leaſe for years, where nothing paſſeth, the ſame is repugnant to it ſelf: for when he ſaith by colour of a leaſe, this word Leaſe, implieth a leaſe in Law, for otherwiſe it is no leaſe. As in Aſſiſe, it is no plea to ſay, that one H. did enfeoff him, and the Plaintiff claim by colour of a feoffment where nothing paſſed, entred, for the Law doth intend it is no feoffment without Livery; and therefore it is the uſe to plead, That the Plaintiff claiming by colour of a deed of feoffment where nothing paſſed, &c. for by the deed without Livery nothing in truth paſſeth. So if the Defendant ſhall ſay in caſe at Bar, That the Plaintiff claimeth in by colour of a former grant of the ſaid Queen by her Letters Patents, &c. the ſame implieth a lawfull grant, &c. But both theſe caſes were diſallowed by the Juſtices. For as to the firſt, It is true, when the Defendant in treſpaſs, &c. pleades, that the Freehold is in John at Stiles, and that he by his commandment entred; or that J. S. is ſeiſed of his demeſn as of fee, which is all one (as the Book is in 18 E. 4.) and that the Defendant as his Servant, and by his commandment entred, there he needeth not to give any colour, becauſe that notwithſtanding the fee or freehold be to one, yet the Plaintiff may have a leaſe for years; and therewith agreeth 22 H. 6. 50. But when ſpecial title is made, as in 2 R. 3. 8. John Atwood brought Treſpaſs of breaking of his Cloſe againſt John Dingle and William Dingle, the Defendants ſay, That one Thomas Atwood was ſeiſed thereof, and enfeoffed I. B. and R. S. who enfeoffed Sir John Norbury Knight, and the ſaid John Dingle in his own right, and the ſaid William as ſervant to him, &c. and gave colour to the Plaintiff by the ſaid Thomas Atwood. And 1 H. 7. 19. Robert Redneſh brought a Writ of Forcible Entry upon the Statute of 8 H. 6. againſt I. B. who pleaded, That John Hoke and Henry Atwood were ſeiſed, &c. and enfeoffed Fines and Sackvile in fee, and the Defendant as Servant, &c. and gave colour prout oportet, and traverſed the force; for when the Defendant maketh ſpecial title to him in whoſe right he juſtifieth as Servant, there it ſhall not be intended that the Plaintiff hath any intereſt in the land, and ſo is the difference. [90]

As to the 2 Reaſon, The Defendant ought to give colour by former Letters Patents, ſ. colore quarundam literarum patentium fact' præd' the Plaintiff de tenementis prædictis ante, &c. pro termino, &c. ubi nihil tranſivit, he ſhall not ſay that the Plaintiff claiming colore conceſſionis ſive dimiſſionis, &c. And that the colour ſhall be given in ſuch caſe, appeareth in 7 H. 7. 14. a. where in the ſame caſe, colour was given.

But it was Reſolved, That in the caſe at Bar colour ought not to be given to the Plaintiff. And the reaſon that colour ſhall be given in a Writ of Entry ſur diſſeiſin, a Writ of Entry in the nature of an Aſſiſe, Aſſiſe, Treſpaſs, &c. is, That the Law, (which preferreth and favoureth certainty as the mother of quiet and repoſe) to the intent that either the Court ſhall adjudge thereupon if the Plaintiff demur, or that a certain iſſue may be taken upon a point certain, requireth that the Defendant when he pleadeth ſuch ſpecial plea, that notwithſtanding that the Plaintiff may have right, the Defendant ſhall give colour to the Plaintiff, to the end that his plea do not amount to the General Iſſue, and ſo to leave all the matter at large to the Jury, which ſhall be full of multiplicity and prolixity of matter. And although that colour be not but a fiction, yet lex fingit ubi ſubſiſtit æquitas: See Doctor and Student, cap. 53. fol. 160. But when the ſpecial matter of the plea, notwithſtanding that the Plaintiff had right before, utterly barreth him of his right, in ſuch caſe the Defendant needeth not to give any colour, because he barreth the Plaintiff of his right, if he had any; in which Case it should be in vain to give the Plaintiff colour, where it appeareth upon the matter of the plea that he had not right. For because that in real action, as Assise, Writ of Entry in the nature of Assise, &c. if a collateral Warranty be pleaded, and the Defendant doth rely upon it; or if an Estoppel be pleaded, or a fine with proclamations, &c. there needeth not [b] any colour to be given, because that the plea is barred although he hath right; and therewith agreeth 35 H. 6. Trespass 160. So, and by the same reason, If the Defendant conveyeth to him title by Act of Parliament, as it is holden in 3 E. 4. 2. when one justifieth his Entry by a cause which bindeth one in his blood for ever, he shall not give any colour: and therewith agreeth 22 E. 4. 4. See 5 H. 7. 10. 3 E. 3. tit. Assise. But if a man pleadeth a descent in barr, yet the Defendant ought to give colour, for that bindeth the possession, and not the right, as it is agreed in 19 H. 6. 41. and 22 H. 6. If in Trespass for taking away of goods the Defendant justifieth, because that he hath Waif within his Mannor; and sheweth, that one stole the said goods de quodam ignoto and waived them within his Mannor, for which the Defendant seised them, it is good without any colour, and therewith agreeth 12 E. 4. 5. b. But it was there holden by all the Justices, That if the Defendant had said, that A. was possessed of the goods as of his proper goods, and that one B. had stoln the goods as above, that he ought to give colour to the Plaintiff, for then he proveth that no property was in the Plaintiff, so he had no colour of action; but there in the same case he sheweth that they were stoln extra possessionem cujusdam ignoti, so it is not denied but that the property was to the Plaintiff, and he is not bound to shew expresly in whom the property was. The same Law of a Sale in Market overt, If he had said, That such a one sold them, he needeth not to give colour; but if he saith, That such a one was possessed of his goods as of his proper goods, and sold them in Market overt, he ought to give colour. And all this appeareth in the said Book of 12 E. 4. But I conceive, that the said Case is not well reported, for the reason there given maketh against the opinion of the Justices; for their reason is, That the plea shall not be good without colour, when the property is alledged in a certain person, because it is proved, that no property was to the Plaintiff, and so had no colour of action: Ergo, it is a good cause that no colour shall be given, because it is an absolute barr of the property, and of all the Plaintiffs right, as it appeareth before. And so is the Book in 30 H. 6. 1. in the same case when the property is alledged in a person certain, and therewith agreeth 21 E. 4. 18. b. and 21 E 4. 65. a. And in 9 E. 4. 22. the Defendant when he justifieth for Wreck gave colour; and it is holden in 21 E. 4. 18. and 21 E. 4. 65. that in such case no colour shall be given, and the reason of all the Books agree with it. So when the matter of the plea doth barr the right [91] of the Plaintiff, no colour shall be given. Also when the Defendant entitleth himself by the Plaintiff himself, no colour shall be given, 13 H. 7. 6 H. 7. 14. Also when a man pleads to the Writ, or to the action of the Writ, no colour shall be given, 21 E. 4. 4. And for the Case of Tithes, which is the Case at Bar, he who justifieth for them shall not give colour, for to whomsoever the property is, and whosoever severeth them from the nine parts, they belong to the Parson. And therewith agreeth 12 E. 4. 21 E. 4. 18. b. & 65.

And as to those Cases which have been put on the contrary party. 1. In the Case of 21 E. 4. 6. where colour was given in the case of Tithes, Brian Chief Justice there held, that it was not needfull to be given, for such plea was good without colour; and as to the case of 21 H. 6. 30. there colour was given, but not by the Rule of the Court, and the opinion of 19 H. 6. is not to the contrary, inasmuch as he taketh upon him to give colour if any was needfull, but such colour which he gave was not good. The case of 2 H. 4. is not of Tithes, but of other goods, and therefore is not to be resembled to this Case. In the Case of 34 H. 6. 10. there needeth not any colour to be given, but there Moil towards the end of the Case, saith, If any man taketh my goods or money, and offereth them to an Image, in that case I am barred against him as of goods sold and tolled in open Market, in which case no colour shall be given. And as to the Case of 39 H. 6. 1 & 2. the Case of Waif, when the Defendant alledgeth that the property was to the Plaintiff, &c. It was resolved that no colour shall be given. And it appeareth before by 21 E. 4. 5. and other Books, that no colour shall be given in case where the Defendant alledgeth that the goods and waif were the stoln goods cujusdam hominis ignoti; for in the end of the said Case of 39 H. 6. 2. the Reporter saith, Quere, If in this case colour ought to be given to the Plaintiff, because by this plea the property of the horses is not denied to be to the Plaintiff, before the stealing, and then it seemeth the plea is good without colour; and there the Reporter further saith, Vide such matter in a Replevin, anno 5 E. 3. And the Case which he meaneth is in Hill. 5 E. 3. 3. William de Newport of London brought a Replevin against Sir Henry de Nevil Knight, and declared of the taking of his goods to the value of &c. v. 10 Lasts of Herrings in the Town of Walring. The Defendant pleaded, That the Lasts of Herrings were cast by tempest of the Sea out of any ward upon his land in Walring, where the Plaintiff hath declared; and that the Defendant hath liberty of Wreck through the whole Town, as appendant to his Mannor of Walring, and so his own goods. Judgment if he shall be answered in this Writ? And in [b] this case two points were Resolved. 1. That against this special matter the Plaintiff was not received to a simple averment, without answering to the cause. 2. Notwithstanding that the Defendant did not acknowledge that the property was at any time in the Plaintiff, yet the plea was good; for when goods are found in the Sea, then they are out of the custody and possession of every one, then the Lord upon whose lands they are cast, needeth not acknowledge whose goods they were; and the Plaintiff by the Rule of the Court was driven to answer: Wherefore he said, that the Defendant took the goods out of the possession of the Merchants and Mariners; and offered it in issue, and the Defendant was driven by the Court to joyn issue therein. In which case it is to be observed, That if the Defendant had generally claimed property, he shall not say that the property was onely in him, but further, and not in the Plaintiff, or otherwiſe he doth not anſwer the declaration: But in the caſe at Bar, becauſe the matter of the plea doth barr the Plaintiff of his right, he ought not to deny the Plaintiffs property.

Note Reader, every colour ought to have four Qualities.

1. It ought to be a doubt to the Lay-people, 19 H. 6. 21. 11 H. 4. 3. 19 E. 4. 3. 23 H. 6. 54. 10 H. 6. 8. 36 H. 6. Treſpaſs 162. 36 H. 6. 7. 20 H. 6. 27. As where the Defendant ſaith, that the Plaintiff claiming by colour of a Deed of feoffment, &c. the ſame is good, for it is a doubt to Lay-people, If land ſhall paſs by Deed onely without Livery, or not.

2. That colour as a colour ought to have continuance, although that it want effect; as if the Defendant giveth colour by colour of a Deed of demiſe made to the Plaintiff for the life of I. S. who was dead before the Treſpaſs, it is not any colour, for it doth not continue, but the Defendant may gainſay the effect of it, that he claimeth by colour of a Deed of demiſe to him for life where nothing paſſeth; and ſo there is a difference betwixt the continuance of the colour, and the effect of it. 2 E. 4. 19. 19 H. 6. 21. 9 H. 4. 3. 8 H. 6. 9. 14. 38 H. 6. 67. 9 E. 4. 18. Vide 19 E. 4. 3. 7 H. 7. 13 & 14.

3. It ought to be ſuch a colour, that if there be defect ſhall maintain the nature of the action; as in an Aſſiſe, to give him colour of a freehold, and not as Gardian in Knights Service, 2 Aſſ. p. 6. 28 Aſſ. p. 28. 43 E. 3. Aſſiſe 53. 32 H. 6. 6. nor to his Anceſtor where the action is of his own poſſeſſion.

4. Colour ought to be given by the firſt conveyance as hath been ſaid, otherwiſe all the conveyance before is waived, 10 H. 7. 14. 15 E. 4. 32. 18 E. 4. 10. 22 E. 4. 25. Long. 5 E. 4. 134. 21 H. 6. 32.

As to the other Error which was aſſigned, theſe two points were argued, 1. If the Letters Patents ought to be ſhewed by the Defendant, who juſtifieth as Servant to him who hath but a parcel of the eſtate of him to whom the Letters Patents were granted. 2. Admitting that he ought to ſhew them, if the leaving out of this clauſe (Cur. hic prolat.) be matter of ſubſtance or matter of form; [92] for if it be but matter of form, then foraſmuch as the Plaintiff hath not ſhewed the ſame particularly and expreſly for his cauſe of demurrer, he ſhall not take advantage of the ſame by the ſaid Statute of 27 Eliz. cap. 5. And as to the firſt, Auſtin's Caſe in 1 & 2 Ph. & Mar. Dyer 115. was cited, where in an Information of Intruſion in the Mannor of Eaſtfarleigh in Kent, the Defendant pleaded the Letters Patents of King H. 8. unto Sir Tho. Wyat in tail, and that Sir Thomas made a leaſe to him for thirty ſix years, without ſhewing forth to the Court the Letters Patents; and the Lord Dyer in the reporting of the ſaid Caſe, ſaith, Note this, And the ſame ſtands, as it was ſaid, upon great reaſon, for the leſſee having but parcel of the eſtate, the Letters Patents do not belong to him, but to his leſſor. And therewith agreeth 29 Aſſ. p. 2. John Eatbred's Caſe, and the reaſon there given, is, Becauſe that the Patent doth not remain with him who hath but parcel of the eſtate. And in 28 H. 8. Dyer 29. In Treſpaſs the defendant ſaid, That the place where was 10 acres of land, whereof the King was ſeiſed in fee in the right of his Crown; and by his Letters Patents granted the land to the Lady Carew for term of life, who leaſed to the Defendant for years, and averred the life of the firſt leſſee, and ſo juſtified: And it was moved if the plea were good without ſhewing of the firſt Letters Patents; and it was holden by Brown, Willowby and Baldwin, That he ſhall not be driven to ſhew them, becauſe that the Letters Patents do not belong to him, no more than a Sub-Collector, Under-Sheriff, or Incumbent, becauſe they have not any means to make their grantors or maſters to ſhew them. And by them there is a difference, when the Patentee doth grant over his whole eſtate or intereſt, there the Patent belongeth to him, and therefore he ſhall ſhew it forth, but when he granteth but parcel, it is otherwiſe: and with the caſe of Incumbent agreeth 31 E. 3. Monſtrans des faits 177. & 31 H. 6. 14. and the caſe of Sub-Collector and Under-Sheriff, 22 H. 6. 42. & 31 H. 6. 14. 12 E. 3. Monſtrans des faits 65. A Sub taxer ſhall juſtifie the taking of goods without ſhewing the Commiſſion; but if a man will juſtifie the impriſonment of the body of a man by Warrant, he ought to ſhew the Warrant.

But it was Reſolved, That the leſſee for years in the Caſe at Bar ought ſhew the Letters Patents made to the leſſee for life: For it is a Maxim in the Law, That he who is party or privy in eſtate, or he who juſtifieth in the right of him who is party or privy plead a Deed, although he who is privy doth not claim but parcel of the original eſtate, yet he ought to ſhew the original Deed to the [b] Court. And the reaſon that Deeds being ſo pleaded ſhall be ſhewed to the Court, is, That to every Deed two things are requiſite and neceſſary; the one, that it be ſufficient in Law, and that is called the Legal Part, becauſe the Judgment of that doth belong to the Judges of the Law; the other concerns matter of fact, ſc. if it be ſealed and delivered as a Deed, and the Trial thereof belongeth to the Country. And therefore every Deed ought to prove it ſelf, and to be proved by others: Approve it ſelf upon its ſhewing forth to the Court in two manners. 1. As to the compoſure, the words to be ſufficient in Law, and the Court ſhall judge that. 2. That it be not raſed or ineterlined in material points or places, and that alſo in old time the Judges did judge upon their view, the Deed to be void, as it appeareth in 7 E. 3. 57. 25 E. 3. 41. 41 E. 3. 10, &c. but of late times the Judges have left the ſame to be tried by the Jury, if the raſing or interlining were before the delivery. 3. That it might appear to the Court and to the party, if it were upon condition, limitation, or power of revocation, &c. to the intent that if it be conditional, or if there be a limitation, or power of revocation in the Deed, If the Deed be ſingle, or if there wanteth a Counterpart of the Indenture, the other party might take advantage of the condition, limitation, or power of revocation. And therewith Littleton agreeth, Conditions 90 & 91. 40 Aſſ. 34. And theſe are the reaſons of Law, that Deeds pleaded in Courts, ſhall be ſhewed forth in Courts. And therefore it appeareth, that it is dangerous to ſuffer any who by the law in pleading ought to ſhew forth the Deed it ſelf to the Court upon the General Iſſue, to prove in Evidence to a Jury by Witneſſes that there was ſuch a Deed, which they have heard, ſeen and read; or to prove it by a Copy: for the viciouſneſs, raiſings or interlinings, or other imperfections in theſe caſes, will not appear to the Court; or peradventure the Deed may be upon condition, limitation, or with power of revocation, and by this way Truth and Juſtice, and the true reaſon of the Common Law ſhould be overthrown. But yet in great and notorious extremities, as by caſualty of fire, that all his Evidences were burnt in his houſe, if the ſame ſhall appear to the Judges, they may in favour of him who hath ſo great loſs by fire, ſuffer him upon the General Iſſue to prove the Deed in Evidence to the Jury by Witneſſes, that affliction be not added to affliction. And if the Jury find it, although it be not ſhewed forth in Evidence, it ſhall be good enough, as it appeareth in 28 Aſſ. p. 3. And in 12 Aſſ. p. 16. the Judges would not ſuffer a Deed to be given in Evidence, which was not ſhewed forth to the Jury. Vide 26 Aſſ. p. 2. the like. But the Copy of a Record may be ſhewed forth in Evidence to the Jury, for Records are of ſo high a nature, and ſuch credit in Law, that they cannot be proved by other means than themſelves, and no raſure or interlinings ſhall be intended in them.

[93] And therefore a Copy of a Record being teſtified to be true, is ſuffered to be given in Evidence; but the ſure way is, to exemplifie the ſame under the great Seal, or at the leaſt under the Seal of the Court. And in the ſaid caſualty by fire, there ought to be great care and diſcretion in the Judges, for notwithſtanding any ſuch caſualty by fire, he in pleading ought to ſhew forth the Deed to the Court, otherwiſe his plea ſhall be inſufficient, and Judgment ſhall be given againſt him; for the Law will rather ſuffer a miſchief to a private man in a private caſe, then an inconvenience, which by the breaking of the Rule of Law, ſhould be brought in. Alſo the Deed ought not onely, as hath been ſaid, approve it ſelf, but it ought to be proved by other, ſc. by Witneſſes, that the ſame was ſealed and delivered; for otherwiſe although the fabrick and compoſition of the Deed be legal, yet without the other it is not of any effect. And all this which hath been ſaid of Deeds, as to the legal part, may be alſo affirmed of Letters Patents from the King. And the ſaid Maxim aforeſaid is proved by many Authorities in Law: And therefore in 3 H. 6. 20, 21, 22. in William Pole's Aſſiſe the caſe was ſuch; Sir John Clinton Knight by his Deed indented did enfeoff William Daventure and his heirs, yeilding to the ſaid Sir John and his heirs the yearly rent of five Marks, with clauſe of diſtreſs; which rent after the death of the ſaid Sir John, deſcended to Sir William Elington Knight, as to his Couſin and heir, which Sir William by his Deed ſhewed forth, granted to the ſaid Sir William Pole now Plaintiff, (who was a Lawyer) pro conſilio impenſo & impendendo, 26 s. 8 d. parcel of the ſaid rent. To have and perceive to him for his life, and that he was thereof ſeiſed and diſſeiſed. And there Weſtbury and others take a difference, when the firſt grantee granteth over as great an eſtate as he had, and where he granteth a leſs eſtate; for when he granteth as great an eſtate as he hath, the whole eſtate of the rent doth remain in the perſon of the ſecond grantee, in which caſe the firſt Deed of right belongeth to the ſecond grantee; and therefore in an Aſſiſe brought by him of this rent, he ought to ſhew forth the firſt Deed: but where he granteth a leſs eſtate then he hath, ſc. where he that hath a fee ſimple granteth for life, or maketh a gift in tail, the ſecond grantee ſhall not be driven to ſhew forth the Deed made to his grantor, becauſe that the fee doth remain in the leſſor or donor to whom the Deed belongeth, and to no other, and therefore he ſhall not be driven to ſhew the firſt Deed. But the Opinion of the Court was againſt the Plaintiff, and the reaſon was, becauſe he is privy in the eſtate of the rent, and claimeth by the firſt grantee. Vide Litt. Lib. 3. cap. Releaſes 106. Note, every Releaſe made to him who hath a Reverſion or remainder in fait, ſhall ſerve and aid him who hath the Freehold, as well as he to whom the releaſe is made, if the tenant for life
[b] hath the Releaſe in hand to plead; and the reaſon thereof is, becauſe there is privity in eſtate betwixt him in the reverſion or remainder, and the tenant for life, and yet the Deed doth not belong to him, but to him in the reverſion or remainder. In the ſame manner Littleton ſaith, Where a Releaſe is made to tenant for life, or to tenant in tail, the ſame ſhall enure to him in the reverſion or remainder, as well as to the tenant of the freehold, and they ſhall have as great advantage of it, if they can ſhew it; but in reſpect of the privity of eſtate, if they cannot ſhew it, they ſhall not take advantage of it. And therewith agreeth 35 H. 6. Monſtrans des faits 118. where Priſot Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas holdeth, That in many caſes a man ſhall not plead a Releaſe or Deed which belongeth not to him, nor can he have an action to recover, without ſhewing of it. As if the diſſeiſor maketh a leaſe for life, who is impleaded in a Præcipe, and maketh default after default, and the diſſeiſor is received, he ſhall not plead a Releaſe made by the diſſeiſee to the tenant for life, without ſhewing it. So the Lord by Eſcheat ſhall not plead a Releaſe made to the diſſeiſor by the diſſeiſee without ſhewing of the Deed, and yet it doth belong to him, nor hath he any remedy for to come by it. And it was ſaid, That theſe Caſes were ſtronger Caſes than the Caſe at Bar; for when the ſaid Conand made a leaſe to the ſaid George for years, the leſſee might bind the ſaid Conand by Covenant, or otherwiſe, to ſhew the Letters Patents to the Court, when need ſhould be; but ſo cannot the Tenant for life, or he in the remainder or reverſion, for there no contract is made betwixt him who pleadeth the Deed, and him to whom the Deed is made.

It is further ſaid in 35 H. 6. that it agreed, That Gardian in Knights ſervice ſhall not plead a Releaſe made to his tenant, without ſhewing of it, and that is adjudged as it is there ſaid; and tenant in Dower ſhall plead a Releaſe made to her husband without ſhewing of it. And in 14 H. 8. 4. it is agreed by all, That he who is privy in eſtate, as feoffee, leſſee for years, &c. and he who juſtifieth as Servant to him who is privy, ought to ſhew the Deed in Court which they plead, &c. And in Debt againſt the heir he ſhall not plead a Releaſe made to the Executor without ſhewing it, for that is privity betwixt them; and therewith agreeth 13 E. 2. Monſtrans des faits 42. And there is another Maxime in Law, That where a man is a ſtranger to a Deed and doth not claim the thing compriſed in the grant, nor nothing out of it, nor doth any in the right of the grantee as Baily or Servant, there he ſhall plead the Patent or Deed without ſhewing it. If the tenant pleadeth a grant of the Lord with Attornment, he ſhall not ſhew it, and ſo of the like; but when he who claimeth the things, or any right or intereſt out of them, or juſtifieth in the right of the grantee, there he ought to ſhew the firſt grant, as the ſecond grantee of the rent-charge ſhall ſhew the firſt grant, and ſo ſhall his Baily; and the grantee of the rent-charge ſhall not plead the Releaſe of the diſſeiſee to the diſſeiſor without ſhewing of it; for although he doth not claim the land of which the leaſe is made, yet he who hath a rent of land, hath right in the land which by releaſe of all his right ſhall be extinct, and there he ought to ſhew the Deed in ſuch caſe; and therewith agreeth 20 H. 7. 6 & 8. and 14 H. 8. 5. The diſſeiſee ſhall not plead a Releaſe to the diſſeiſor, nor of the right in the land, nor of rent going out of land, without ſhewing of it; for where one claimeth the thing to whom a Releaſe is made, or a right or intereſt out of it, the Law maketh privity in reſpect of his eſtate or right in the land, to ſuch intent that he ſhall not have avail of the Deed without ſhewing of it. Which Caſes are ſtronger Caſes than the Caſe at Bar; for in the Caſe at Bar, he claimeth eſtate and intereſt in the land it ſelf which is demiſed by the Letters Patents, and therefore he ought to ſhew them. [94]

As to the Caſes which have been urged to the contrary, and firſt to Auſtin's Caſe, there is not any Authority in the Book, that the ſame was allowed or diſallowed by the Court; and the ſaid Caſe of Eatbred in 29 Aſſ. p. 2. There the Prior alien made a leaſe for life, which he made as Prior out of the inheritance of the houſe, and not by force of the Letters Patents, by which but a chattel paſſeth. And in the Caſe of 28 H. 8. there Fitzherbert, Mountague, and Knightley held, That the Letters Patents ought to be ſhewed in ſuch caſe, & ſic gens contra gentem.

As to the ſecond Point, it was objected, That it was but matter of form, and the ſubſtance is the grant of Queen Eliz. by her Letters Patents, which is confeſſed by the Plaintiff by his demurrer. And the Book in 6 E. 4. 2. was objected, where Choke holdeth, that if one be bounden upon condition to perform the Covenants in certain Indentures; and he pleadeth performance without ſhewing them in Court, and the Plaintiff replieth, and ſheweth a breach, he maketh the barre good; for he ſaith, That of ſuch things which are not material, the replication ſhall make the barre good; by which it was inferred, that the ſhewing of the Indentures was a thing of form, and not of matter. And a Judgment was cited Mich. 29 & 30 Eliz. in this Court in the Mayor and Commonalty of Launceſton's Caſe in Treſpaſs in Cornwall, the Letters Patents of Queen Elizabeth were pleaded, ſc. that Queen Elizabeth by her Letters Patents conceſſit, &c. without ſaying (Cur' prolat.) upon which the other party did demurr generally, and the plea adjudged good. But it was reſolved, that the ſame was matter of ſubſtance, as appeareth by the cauſes for which Deeds ſhall be ſhewed forth. And as to the ſaid Caſe of the Mayor and Commonalty of Launceſton, it was true, that ſuch Judgment was given upon arguments of other points. But in a Writ of Error Mich. 30 & 31 Eliz. upon the Statute of 27 Eliz. Error was aſſigned, That the Letters Patents were not ſhewed forth; and it was reſolved, That for this cauſe the plea was inſufficient in ſubſtance. And for this cauſe it was Reſolved by all the Juſtices of the Common Pleas, and the Barons of the Exchequer, that the Judgment ſhould be reverſed. And of ſuch opinion in the Caſe at Bar, were all the Judges of the Common Pleas and Barons of the Exchequer, and ſo the Judgment given by the Judges of the Kings Bench in the Caſe at Bar was affirmed. [b]

Obſerve good Reader, That this Caſe is adjudged by all the Judges of England, and Barons of the Exchequer.

Note Reader, as to the ſaid three Caſes put in 35 H. 6. ſc. of the Gardian, and Tenant in Dower, and of Tenant by the Courteſie, they are good Law: For as to the ſaid two Caſes of Gardian and Tenant in Dower, there is a difference where a particular eſtate or intereſt is gained by the Law, and where by the act of the party. And in the Caſe at Bar, the intereſt is gained by the act of the party, who might provide for himſelf; but when the Law doth create the eſtate, and the Deed doth not belong to him, nor ever was in his power, then he ſhall not ſhew it, as in the ſaid caſe of Gardien by Knights Service; and therewith agreeth 20 E. 3. Darr. Preſentment 13. 33 E. 3. Gard. 162. And therefore the Gardien in Knights Service in a Writ of Dower brought againſt him, ſhall not plead detainment of Charters, becauſe they do not belong to him, but to the heir, as it is holden in 10 E. 3. 49, &c. The ſame Law of Tenant in Dower, as it is holden in 5 E. 3. Hors de ſon fee 2. 3 H. 6. 31. 7 H. 6. 1. 7 H. 5. 5. Vide 11 H. 4. 83. 15 H. 8. And ſo of Tenant by Statute Merchant, Staple, Elegit, &c. for they came to the poſſeſſion by execution of Law, and againſt the terre Tenant who hath the Deed; for, Judicium redditur in invitum: and therewith agreeth 24 H. 7. 6. But the Tenant by the Courteſie ought to ſhew the Releaſe made to his wife, for although that his eſtate be created by the Law, yet the Deed doth belong to him, and he had it in his power, becauſe the Deed was made to his wife, and he might detain the ſame during his life. Vide 14 H. 8. [95]

Note Reader, when a plea doth amount to the General Iſſue, and the Plaintiff doth demur upon it, if the Defendant will not plead the General Iſſue, but joyn in Demurrer, the Court ſhall adjudge againſt him at the Common Law upon the general Demurrer. And after the ſaid Act of 27 Eliz. upon ſuch ſpecial cauſe ſhewed as was in the Caſe at Bar. And by theſe Reaſons and Differences you will the better underſtand your Books; and the Books which prima facie to ſome ſeem to diſagree, are well reconciled.

Mich. 10 Jacobi.

Edward Seymor's Caſe.

[b] BEtween William Heywood Gent. Plaintiff in an Ejectione firmæ in the Kings Bench, and Samuel Smith Defendant, upon a demiſe made by Edward Seymor Eſquire, 9 Martii, 4 Jac. Reg. of a houſe within the Pariſh of St. Anne within the Precinct of Black-friers, within the Ward of Farringdon within, London, for three years, &c. and that the Defendant had ejected him, &c. The Defendant pleaded Not guilty; and upon this iſſue a ſpecial Verdict was given to this effect: Sir Tho. Cheiney Knight was ſeiſed of the ſaid Meſſuage in fee, and 6 Decembr. 1 Eliz. by his Will in Wring demiſed the ſaid Meſſuage to Henry Cheiney his Son, (afterwards Lord Cheiney) and to the heirs of his body, the remainder to John Cheiney, and to the heirs males of his body, the remainder to the next heirs males of the ſaid Thomas Cheiney, and to the heirs males of their bodies, the remainder to the next heirs of the ſaid Sir Thomas Cheiney; and afterwards the ſaid Sir Thomas Cheiney died ſeiſed: after whoſe death the ſaid Henry Cheiney died, his Son entred into the ſaid Meſſuage, and was thereof ſeiſed in tail, with the remainders over in tail, the reverſion in fee to him and his heirs. And 18 Decemb. 22 Eliz. by Indenture enrolled in the Chancery within ſix months, for a certain ſum of money bargained and ſold the ſaid Meſſuage to William Higham Gent. and his heirs, by force whereof he entred and was ſeiſed accordingly. And afterwards the ſaid Henry Cheiney, ſc. Octob. Mich. 32 Eliz. levied a fine with proclamations of the ſaid Meſſuage to the ſaid William Higham and his heirs, with general Warranty to him and his heirs againſt all men. William Higham 19 Decemb. 23 Eliz. did enfeoff of the ſaid Meſſuage Edw. Stanhope Eſq; in fee, who 30 Jan. 26 Eliz. [96] enfeoffed the Lord Seymor in fee, who ult. Octob. 26 Eliz. of the ſaid Meſſuage did enfeoff Edward Lord Seymor in fee; And that the ſaid John Cheiney in remainder had iſſue Thomas Cheiney, and died; and afterwards the ſaid Henry then Lord Seymor died, anno 29 Eliz. without iſſue; and that the ſaid Thomas Cheiney was Couſin and heir to the ſaid Henry Lord Cheiney, and the ſaid Thomas Cheiney, 16 Novemb. 31 Eliz. entred into the ſaid Meſſuage, claiming the ſaid Meſſuage by force of the ſaid remainder in the ſaid Will; and that the ſaid Edward Lord Seymor died, having iſſue the ſaid Edward the leſſor of the Plaintiff his Son and heir, who entred into the ſaid Meſſuage, and made the leaſe to the Plaintiff, as it is alledged in the Declaration; and that the Defendant as Servant of the ſaid Thomas Cheiney, and by his commandment did eject him: And if upon the whole matter the ſaid Defendant lawfully entred or not, the Jury pray the advice of the Court. And this Caſe was argued at the Bar and at the Bench in the Kings Bench, and therein divers Points were Reſolved by the whole Court.

1. That by the Deed indented of bargain and ſale inrolled, the bargainee had an eſtate diſcendible to his heirs, determinable upon the death of Tenant in tail, and alſo he had the reverſion in fee expectant upon the eſtate in remainder in tail, and that the wife of the bargainee ſhould be endowed. And therewith agreeth 24 E. 3. 22. in Caly's Caſe; but ſuch Dower ſhall be determinable by the death of Tenant in tail;

2. It was Reſolved, That a fine levied to the bargainee doth not make a diſcontinuance of the remainder to John Cheiney, becauſe it doth not touch or diſplace the remainder, and no eſtate of freehold paſſeth by the fine, but the fine with proclamations doth corroborate the eſtate of the bargainee; and by the Statutes of 4 H. 7 cap. 24. and 32 H. 8. cap. 36. maketh his eſtate more perdurable; for where it was (having regard to the eſtate tail) determinable upon the death of tenant in tail, now it is not determinable till the death of tenant in tail without iſſue, but if the fine had been levied before the bargain and ſale enrolled, it had been a diſcontinuance; but in the Caſe at Bar the fine doth operate upon the eſtate precedent which paſſeth by the bargain and ſale, and is guided by the precedent eſtate, and no concluſion, for he may confeſs and avoid, as in 6 R. 2. Eſtoppel 111.

[b] 3. It was objected, That where by the feoffment of the bargainee the remainder of John Cheiney was diſplaced and put to a right, ſo as the Warranty in the fine doth deſcend upon John Cheiney, who hath but a right, and therefore ſhall barr him: It was reſolved by the whole Court, That this Warranty ſhould not barr the remainder, for divers cauſes. 1. Becauſe every Warranty ought to be knit and annexed to an eſtate, for every Warranty hath his eſſence by dependency upon an eſtate; and in this Caſe at the time of the fine levied the Warranty was annexed to the fee ſimple determinable upon the death of tenant in tail without iſſue, and to the reverſion in fee, but did not extend to the eſtate of John Cheiney in the remainder, for the ſame was not then diſplaced or deveſted, but continued in him, for John Cheiney at the time of the fine levied, and after, was ſeiſed of his remainder. Then if the Warranty at the time of the mention of it be annexed to an eſtate, the Conuſee by his feoffment or act cannot extend it farther then it was at the time of the creation of; and therefore when the eſtate tail to which the Warranty is annexed is determined by the death of the tenant in tail without iſſue, the Warranty which hath its eſſence by dependency is alſo determined, for there is no eſtate which ſhould ſupport it. And therefore it was agreed, That if a man maketh a gift in tail, and warranteth the land to him and his heirs, and afterwards tenant in tail maketh a feoffment in fee, and dieth without iſſue, the feoffee ſhall not rebutt the donor in a Formedon in the reverter, becauſe that the eſtate to which the Warranty is annexed is determined: but it is holden in 7 E. 3. 34 & 35. That if a man maketh a gift in tail, and warranteth the land to him his heirs and aſ-

ſigns, and afterwards tenant in tail maketh a feoffment in fee and dieth, he ſhall rebutt the donor by force of the ſaid Warranty in a Formedon in the reverter. And this Book is cited by Wilby in 46 E. 3. 3 & 4. which Book is good Law, if it be intended of a gift in tail made before the Statute of Donis Conditionalibus, for when the Warranty was annexed to an eſtate in fee ſimple, and the donor had but a poſſibility of reverter, which might be barred by a collateral Warranty. Vide 45 Aſſ. pl. 6. and Plo. Com. in the Lord Barkleys Caſe 234. But when a man maketh a gift in tail with Warranty after the Statute, this Warranty, in what manner ſoever it be made, cannot extend to barr the reverſion in fee, for the eſtate to which the warranty extendeth, is determined by the death of tenant in tail without iſſue, and as hath been ſaid, a feoffment or other act done by the donee ſubſequent, ſhall not extend the warranty further than the eſtate tail to which the warranty at the time of the creation of it was annexed. 2. It is a Maxim in Law, That no Warranty ſhall extend to barr any eſtate of freehold or inheritance which is in eſſe in poſſeſſion, reverſion or remainder [97] (and not diſplaced and put to a right) before or at the time of the warranty made, although that afterwards, and at the time of the deſcent of the warranty the eſtate of freehold or inheritance be diſplaced and diveſted. And therefore if there be father and ſon, and the ſon hath a rent ſervice, rent charge, or rent ſeck, or common of paſture iſſuing out of certain land, and the father releaſeth to the tenant of the land with warranty, and dieth, it ſhall not barr the ſon, for of the rent or common the ſon was actually ſeiſed at the time of the warranty made, and he who is in poſſeſſion needeth not to put in his claim, either to avoid the fine or collateral warranty. And in the ſame caſe, although the ſon after the warranty made be diſſeiſed of the rent or common, and afterwards the father dieth, it ſhall not barr him, becauſe that the warranty at the time of the creation of it, did not extend to any eſtate of freehold or inheritance in eſſe at the time of the creation of the ſame: but if the ſon be diſſeiſed of the rent or common, and affirm himſelf to be diſſeiſed by bringing of an Aſſiſe, and afterwards the father releaſeth with warranty and dieth, there the collateral warranty ſhall barr the ſon of his rent or common, becauſe he had put a bare right at the time of the warranty made. Vide 31 Aſſ. p. 13. 22 Aſſ. p. 38. 41 Aſſ. p. 6. 33 E. 3. Garranty 74. So if my collateral Anceſtor releaſeth to my tenant for life and dieth, it ſhall not bind me, becauſe that the reverſion doth continue in my perſon; But if my tenant for life be diſſeiſed, and my Anceſtor releaſeth to the diſſeiſor with warranty, and dieth, it ſhall bind me, becauſe as well the eſtate of the tenant for life, as my reverſion, was deveſted out of me at the time of warranty made, and with this agreeth 45 E. 3. 21. b. and 21 H. 7. 11.

4. It was clearly Reſolved, That a warranty cannot enlarge an eſtate, 22 H. 6. 15. 19 H. 6. 73. b. 20 H. 6. 73. 2 H. 4. 13. 43 E. 17. 43 Aſſ. p. 42. Vide 12 Aſſ. p. 17. 12 E. 3. Tail 3. 22 E. 4. 16. b. 44 E. 3. 10. 44 Aſſ. Baſſingborns Aſſiſe.

5. It was Reſolved, That the feoffment of the Conuſee was no diſcontinuance of the remainder of John Cheiney, ſo that his entry ſhould be taken away; for none can diſcontinue the remainder or reverſion. But he only to whom the land was entailed. And therefore if tenant in tail granteth totum ſtatum ſuum to one, and he maketh a feoffment in fee, it ſhall not take away the reentry of him in the remainder or reverſion.

6. It was Reſolved, That if the collateral warranty ſhould bind, that it might be well given in [b] Evidence to the Jury, although that ſome opinions are obiter to the contrary in 22 Aſſ. p. 37. and 7 H. 5. 6. Vide 34 E. 3. tit. Droit. For although a collateral warranty giveth not a right, yet in Law it barreth and bindeth a right, and therefore it may be given in Evidence; and ſo much the rather, becauſe that now in an Ejectione firmæ, and other perſonal actions, it may be pleaded by way of barr. 15 E. 4. Entry 42. 20 H. 7. 4. a. 1 H. 7. 12. 21 H. 7. 32. 2 E. 4. 4. 8 E. 4. 19. 21 E. 4. 82. 22 E. 4. 4. 3 H. 6. 27. & 36. 20 H. 6. 44. 35 H. 6. Treſpaſs 160. 27 H. 8. 22. And that a collateral warranty may be given in Evidence, and found by the Jury upon Not Guilty pleaded in an Ejectione firmæ, appeareth in the firſt Part of my Reports in Chudleighs Caſe. And according to thoſe Reſolutions in Trinity Term, 9 Jac. Regis, Judgment was given for the Defendant. Whereupon the Plaintiff brought a Writ of Error upon the new Statute in the Exchequer Chamber; where it was Reſolved in the ſame Term by all the Judges of England, and Barons of the Exchequer, That the Judgement given by the Juſtices in the Kings Bench ſhould be affirmed; and that the warranty did not bind the remainder of John Cheiney, for the Reaſons and Cauſes before recited.

Note Reader, every eſtate deſcendible to the heir, either is an eſtate of inheritance or eſtate of freehold. Eſtate of inheritance is either fee ſimple or fee tail; Eſtate of fee ſimple is either eſtate of inheritance abſolute and indeterminable, as where lands are given to a man and his heirs, he hath ſuch a pure and abſolute eſtate which can never determine; or a Fee ſimple determinable, and that is in two manners, ſc. either expreſly derived out of an abſolute and pure eſtate in Fee ſimple, or implicite, and derived out of an eſtate tail; out of an abſolute ſtate in Fee alſo in two manners. Firſt, upon condition, as upon morgage, and that is called a fee ſimple conditional. Secondly, by limitation, as if A. enſeoffeth B. of the Mannor of D. to have and to hold to him and his heirs, ſo long as C. hath heirs of his body, and that is called a fee ſimple limited and qualified; and in both theſe caſes, all the eſtate of their land is in the feoffee; and therefore upon none of them a remainder, or a reverſion cannot be expectant. Implicite and derived out of eſtate tail, as in the caſe at Bar; when tenant in tail doth bargain and ſell the ſaid meſſuage by deed indented and enrolled to William [98] Higham and his heirs, and afterwards levieth a fine to him and his heirs with proclamations, he hath an eſtate in fee ſimple as long as the tenant in tail hath heirs of his body derived out of the eſtate tail, and the ſame is a more inferior and ſubordinate eſtate in fee ſimple than the other two before: for upon it a remainder or reverſion may be expectant.

And yet in all theſe caſes, he who hath ſuch eſtate of inheritance may plead that he is ſeized of the land in his demeſn as of fee without ſhewing the beginning of his eſtate, as well when he hath a fee ſimple derived out of an eſtate tail as a fee ſimple, conditional or limited. Eſtate of freehold deſcendible in like manner, either is expreſſed or implied; expreſſed, as if a man deviſeth land to one and his his heirs during the life of I. S. or tenant for life granteth his eſtate to one and his heirs; in theſe caſes the leſſee or grantee hath an eſtate of freehold deſcendible, but no eſtate of inheritance, for he ſhall be puniſhed for waſt, and he in the reverſion or remainder ſhall enter for forfeiture, and his heir ſhall not have his age; for he in a manner is but a ſpecial occupant; nor ſhall he be in reſpect thereof charged as heir in Det. Implicite as in the caſe at Bar. Tenant in tail bargaineth and ſelleth the land to William Higham and his heirs, he hath an eſtate deſcendible and determinable upon the death of the tenant in tail, and yet he hath a better eſtate then the other hath, for he ſhall not be puniſhed for waſt; or if he maketh a feoffment none ſhall enter for forfeiture, and his wife ſhall be endowed determinable upon the death of tenant in tail; And yet you Pleaders look well to it, that in ſuch caſe you do not begin your Plea, That the bargainee fuit ſeiſitus in dominico ſuo ut de feodo. But the ſure way is to plead the ſpecial matter, and to add the life of the tenant in tail.

And ſo you will the better underſtand your books. *s. [b] And I conceive in the caſe at Bar, the remainder of John Cheiney by the feoffment of the conuſee to Edward Stanhope and his heirs was not diſplaced, nor put to a right; for the conuſee had a fee ſimple determinable upon the death of Henry Lord Cheiney without iſſue of his body, and when he made a feoffment his determinable eſtate in fee ſimple in poſſeſſion, and his abſolute fee ſimple expectant upon the eſtate tail of John Cheiny in the remainder ſhould paſs, and ſhould not diveſt the remainder of John Cheiny: for the feoffment which in him is not tortious, cannot be tortious in another. But when tenant for liſe, or tenant in tail make feoffment, the feoffment in it ſelf is tortious; for tenant for life cannot give in fee, and therefore the feoffment it ſelf is tortious: and in caſe of an eſtate tail is tortious as to his iſſues. But when he who hath a fee ſimple, although that it be determinable, maketh a feoffment in fee: he who hath the fee ſimple, giveth a fee ſimple, and thereby he doth no wrong to his heirs, and by conſequence no wrong to him in the remainder. Alſo the eſtate tail by the ſaid fine is utterly barred, and a new eſtate in fee ſimple created.

Note alſo Reader, There are ſome titles to which a warranty ſhall not extend, as the title in caſe of diſcharge, condition upon mortgage, &c. conſent to raviſher, &c. for theſe no Action lieth, in which there may be voucher or rebutter. Neither ſhall a deſcent take away entry in ſuch caſes; and they continue in the ſame plight and poſſeſſion, as they were by their original creation; and they by no Act can be diſplaced or diveſted out of their original eſſence. Vide 34 Edw. 3. Garantie 72. A collateral warranty ſhall not bar a title of Dower, for the ſame continueth the being according to the original creation: and yet for the ſame an Action is given; and therefore there is a difference betwixt a collateral warranty, and a fine levied, and five years paſſed; for upon a fine and five years paſſed all the ſaid rights are bound; and the title of Dower alſo, if an Action be not brought within the time preſcribed by the Statute. Vide Plo. Com. 373.

Mich. 10 Jacobi Regis.

Beawfages Caſe.

IN this Term it was moved at the Bar, if the Sheriff who hath Fieri facias may take an Obligation of the Defendant to pay the money in Court at the return of the Writ. And the doubt which was conceived upon it, was upon the general words of the Act of 23 Hen. 6. Cap. 10. And if any of the ſaid Sheriffs, or other Officers, or Miniſters aforeſaid, take any obligation in other form, by colour of their offices, that it be void: And ſuch obligation to pay the money in Court, is in other form then the Statute preſcribeth.

[b]

But upon conſideration of all the parts of the ſaid Act, It was reſolved, That ſuch obligation was not made void by the ſaid Act. And therefore the coherence of the Proviſions of the ſaid Act is to be obſerved.

Firſt (as to this matter) it is enacted, That Sheriffs, &c. ſhall let out of priſon all perſons arreſted by them, or in their ward by force of any Writ, Bill, or Warrant, in any action perſonal, or for cauſe of Endictment of Treſpaſs, upon reaſonable ſurety of ſufficient perſons having ſufficient within the Counties where ſuch perſons are ſo let to bail, to keep their days, &c. except perſons in execution by Capias utlagat', Excom' capiendum, ſurety of peace by the command of any Juſtice, Vagrants.

The ſecond clauſe is, That no Sheriffs, &c. take, or cauſe to be taken or made any obligation by any aboveſaid, by colour of their office, if not only to themſelves, of any perſon nor by any perſon who is in their ward by courſe of Law, but upon the name of their office, upon condition condition written, that the priſoners appear at the day contained in the ſaid Writs, Bills, or Warrants, and in ſuch places where the ſaid Bills, Writs, or Warrants require.

Then cometh the ſaid clauſe: And if any of the Sheriffs, &c. take any obligation in other form [100] by colour of their offices, that the ſame ſhall be void.

So that the firſt clauſe containeth the precept and commandment to Sheriffs, that they ſhall let priſoners to bail, who were arreſted in perſonal Actions; the which the Sheriff could not do before this Act, as it appeareth by 22 Hen. 6. 46. 19 Hen. 6. 43. 21 Edw. 4. 77. Fitzherb. Natur. Brev. a. & b.

The ſecond branch containeth the form of the obligation, by which he ſhall be let to bail.

The third, the penalty, if the Sheriff do not obſerve and perform the form preſcribed by the Statute; ſo that upon the coherence and dependency of the branches, the latter words, although they are general, ſhall extend only to the precedent branch, ſc. To obligations taken of thoſe who are in their ward.

And according to this reſolution it hath been adjudged in this Court. Trin. 34 Eliz. Rott. 1656. In debt by Dawſon Sheriff of B. againſt Burman, upon an obligation the Defendant pleaded the Statute of 23 H. 6. and ſhewed that one K. did recover debt and dammages againſt him, and brought a Writ of Fieri fac' againſt him directed to the Sheriff of B. and that he made the obligation to the Plaintiff for the Execution, and that the obligation was void by the ſaid Act; upon which the Plaintiff did demur; And it was reſolved, firſt, That the ſaid obligation was not within the ſaid Statute, becauſe the Statute extendeth only to ſuch obligations, which any in his ward maketh to him. Secondly, That the obligation was not void by the Common Law; whereupon the Plaintiff had Judgment. And the like Judgment was alſo given in this Court, Mich. 28. & 29. Eliz. Rott. 1502. Between Burwey and Ket, upon an obligation taken by the Sheriff pro ſolutione pecuniæ debitæ Dominæ Reginæ, upon an Extent out of the Exchequer.

Note Reader, that whereas it is ſaid in the laſt clauſe of the Act, That if any of the ſaid Sheriffs, or other Officers or Miniſters aboveſaid, take any obligation in any other form by colour of their offices, that it be void. It is to know, that there be two manner of forms, ſc. Forma verbalis, & forma legalis. Forma verbalis ſtands upon the letters and ſyllables of the Act; Forma legalis is forma eſſentialis, and ſtands upon the ſubſtance of the thing to be done, and upon the ſenſe of the Statute, quia Notitia ramorum hujus Statuti non in ſermonum foliis ſed in rationis radice poſita eſt. And according to this diſtinction hath this branch of this Act been expounded; And therefore in 37 H. 6. 1. If the Sheriff take a ſimple obligation of one in his ward, who was bailable, it is void; for that obligation [b] wanteth the eſſential form preſcribed by the Statute; for there wanteth the Condition, which is part of the ſubſtance; So there Moile ſaid, if the Sheriff had let one to bail, which is excepted in the Statute, and is not bailable, and had taken a ſimple Obligation, that it ſhould be void, quod alii Juſticiarii conceſſerunt; for by the exception it appeareth that it was not the intent of the Statute, that they ſhould be ſet to bail, and ſo the obligation is taken in another form then the Statute intended. And I conceive that as well in the ſame caſe of 37 H. 6. as in the caſe of Dive and Manningham in Plo. Com. 67. The obligation which hath condition to ſave the Sheriff harmleſs (when the Sheriff againſt Law let one to bail who is not bailable) is againſt Law, and void by the Common Law. And herewith agreeth William Wiſebams caſe 15 Eliz. Dyer 324. And in 7. E. 4. one was in the cuſtody of the Sheriff by force of a Capias directed unto him upon an Indictment of Treſpaſs and the party made an obligation to another (by the denomination of the Sheriff) upon ſuch condition as the Statute preſcribeth for the ſurety of the Sheriff; And there it is holden that the obligation is void, becauſe the Act preſcribeth the obligation to be made to the Sheriff himſelf, and the ſame is part of the eſſential form. So if the Sheriff addeth to the condition, that he ſhall be in ward without dammage to the King and the Plaintiff, &c. That the ſame ſhall make the whole condition void for the cauſe aforeſaid. So if the Sheriff or Goaler taketh an obligation of a Priſoner, with condition to be true Priſoner, or to pay for his meat and drink: So if the Sheriff addeth another thing to the matter preſcribed by the Statute, as to pay ſo much more for a horſe, &c. this Addition doth make the whole Obligation void, for the ſame is taken in other forms (touching the ſubſtance of the matter) then is preſcribed by the Statute. And with all this agreeth Plo. Com. in Dive and Manninghams caſe, 67, 68, 69. But in Paſch. 27 Eliz. In the Kings Bench, in an action of debt brought by Sir William Drury, late Sheriff of the County of Suffolk, upon an obligation of twenty pound againſt A. B. who demanded oyer of the bond, by which it appeareth that the Defendant was only bound in it, and of the condition, which was that one More whom the ſaid Sheriff had arreſted by force of a Latitat out of the Kings Bench, ſhould appear in perſon at the day contained in the Writ, &c. and pleaded the Statute of 23 H. 6. And that the obligation was taken in other form, then the ſaid Act preſcribed, &c. upon which the Plaintiff did demur in Law; And it was objected that there were three variances from the form preſcribed by the Statute, ſc. one in the Obligation, and two in the Condition; In the obligation, becauſe the Plaintiff took but one ſurety, and the Statute preſcribeth reaſonable ſurety of ſufficient perſons in the plural number, having ſufficient within the Counties where ſuch perſons are ſo let to bail, in which caſe there ought to be two ſureties at leaſt, and here is but one ſurety, and the plural number cannot be ſatisfied with the ſingular; and ſo againſt the words of the Act for the more; and the more able the ſureties are, they will the rather cauſe him who is ſo bailed to appear, and thereby Juſtice ſhall proceed with more expedition, and ſo not againſt the intention of the Statute. And with all this agreeth the opinion of Montague, Chief Judge of the Common Pleas in Dive and Manninghams Caſe.

Alſo in the Condition, firſt the words are, That the priſoner ſhall appear in perſon, where the words of the Statute are, ſhall appear generally (without the words in perſon) 2 That he ſhall appear at the day, &c. ad reſpondendum; whereas theſe words, ad reſpondendum, are more than the Statute preſcribeth, and by conſequence the obligation void, as in the ſaid Caſes of 37 H. 6. 7 E. 4. and Dive and Manninghams Caſe.

But it was Reſolved by Sir Chriſtopher Wray, Sir Thomas Gawdy, and the whole Court of Kings Bench, That the ſaid Obligation was not made void by the ſaid Act. For as to the firſt, the words, upon reaſonable ſurety of ſufficient perſons, are added for the ſurety of the Sheriff; and therefore if he will take but one ſurety, it is at his peril, for he ſhall be amerced if the Defendant doth not appear, and therefore the Statute doth not make the Obligation void in ſuch caſe; for the branch which preſcribeth the form, requireth that the Obligation ſhall be made to the Sheriff himſelf, &c. by name of his Office, and that the priſoners appear, in which clauſe no mention is made of the ſureties; ſo that the intent of the Act was, That foraſmuch as the ſame was at the peril of the Sheriff to leave the ſame to his diſcretion to take one or more for his indempnity, and peradventure it ſhall be better for him ſometimes to take one who is ſufficient, then two others; and although that the ſurety or ſureties have not ſufficient as the Statute mentioneth, yet the Obligation was good enough, for theſe words of the Act as to this purpoſe and point, and more for counſel and direction of the Sheriff, than for precept or reſtraint of him, and that for the ſafety of the Sheriff: for if the Defendant cannot find two ſufficient ſureties, having ſufficient within the ſame County, the Sheriff is not bound to let him to bail. And this Reſolution agreeth with the old Rule, ſc. Quilibet poteſt renunciare juri pro ſe introducti. As to the ſaid two additions in the Bond, more than is in the Statute, It was Reſolved, It is true, there is a verbal difference from the form preſcribed by the Statute, but none in ſubſtance and effect; for he who is ſo bailed ought to appear in perſon, for ſo much is implied in this word of the Act (ſhall appear.) And therefore at the Common Law when any tenant or Defendant was commanded to appear in any Court, he ought before the Statute thereof made, in [b] all caſes have appeared in proper perſon. And therewith agreeth F. N. B. 25. and the Books before cited, ſo for that cauſe the other addition is not material, for he who ought to appear, ought to appear ad reſpondendum, & parum differunt quæ re concordant. Et eſt ipſorum legiſlatorum viva vox, rebus & non verbis legem imponimus. Vide 21 Eliz. Dyer 364. there the condition was in the conjunctive, appear and anſwer, in the copulative, and yet the Obligation good. Trinit. 27 Eliz. in the Kings Bench between Danby and Hethcote, in a Writ of Error upon a Judgment given in the Marſhalſey, it was Reſolved, That if a Sheriff or Goaler for the eaſe and enlargement of any who is in his Ward, take a promiſe to ſave him harmleſs, that although the Statute doth not ſpeak but only
[ ] of an Obligation with Condition, yet the ſame is in equal miſchief. And Wray Chief Juſtice ſaid, That the Statute ſhould ſerve for little or no purpoſe, if promiſes ſhould be taken within the Statute. And the ſaid clauſe is general, ſc. If the Sheriff take any Obligation in other form, that the ſame ſhall be void, within the Equity of any Obligation, and Aſſumpſit is taken; for as it is ſaid in old Verſes, Verba ligant homines, taurorum cornua fures,

Cornu bos capitur, voce ligatur homo.

Quando verba ſtatuti ſunt ſpecialia, ratio autem generalis, generaliter ſtatutum eſt intelligendum. And it appeareth by the Preamble, that the Statute was made to avoid Perjury, Extortion and Oppreſſion, three moſt horrible and odious ſins, and for the ſuppreſſing of them, and for the advancement of Truth and Juſtice, the words of the Act ſhall have a benign and favourable interpretation, in rebus enim quæ ſunt favorabilia animæ, quamvis ſunt damnoſa rebus, fiat aliquando extentio ſtatuti. And the Extortions and Oppreſſions which are done to priſoners are the moſt odious, for the ſame is ſevire in dolentes, & addere afflictionem afflictis. And it is true, that before this Statute, the Sheriffs, Goalers, &c. ſometimes for eaſe and enlargement, and ſometimes by oppreſſion and dures, would extort of the priſoners by colour of their Offices divers ſums of moneys and other vails, and ſo by ſuch pilling and polling they were enriched, and the priſoners impoveriſhed, and the proceedings of Juſtice delayed.

And it is well ſaid in Dive and Manninghams Caſe, 68. That Extortion is no other than Robbery, but is more odious than Robbery; for Robbery is apparent, and hath always the appearance of vice, but Extortion carrieth a viſage of truth, and is more hardly to be tried and diſcerned; and oftentimes accompanied with the damnable and damned ſin of Perjury, in the breaking of the Oath which the Officer taketh when he is admitted to his Office, and therefore it is more odious. Ex- [102] tortio eſt crimen, quando quis colore officii, extorquet quod non eſt debitum, vel quod eſt ſupra debitum, vel ante tempus quod eſt debitum; and it is called crimen expilationis, and crimen concuſſionis.

Alſo it was ſaid, That the ſaid Aſſumpſit did not bind the priſoner at the Common Law, becauſe the Conſideration was againſt Law. Vide 19 Eliz. Dyer, Onleys Caſe.

Mich. 10 Jacobi.

Alfride Denbawd's Caſe.

ALfride Denbawd alias Burnard, brought a Writ of Error in the Exchequer Chamber againſt Peter Woodley, Hill. 9 Jac. Reg. Rot. 1151. in the Kings Bench. And the Caſe was; That Peter Woodley brought Treſpaſs againſt the ſaid Alfride and one Thomas D. Quare clauſum fregit, at Aiſhbarton in the County of Devon. The Defendant pleaded Not guilty; and at the Aſſiſes in the Country Alfride was found guilty, and the Plaintiff had judgment againſt the ſaid Alfride. Whereupon the ſaid Alfride brought a Writ of Error, and the Error which was aſſigned, was, Becauſe that one of the Jurors, of the principal Pannel appeared only at the Aſſiſes, upon which at the prayer of the Plaintiff a Pannel of Tales de Circumſtantibus was returned by the Sheriff in this form: The title was, Nomina decem talium, &c. and under it he returned eleven Jurors. And it was argued, That this judgment was erroneous for two cauſes. 1. Becauſe that but one of the principal Pannel appeared only, and two at leaſt ought to appear. 2. That inaſmuch as he entitleth the Pannel of Tales, Nomina decem talium, he cannot return eleven. [b]

As to the firſt, The awarding of the ſaid Tales ought to be warranted by the Statute of 35 H8. cap. 6. for at the Common Law the Juſtices of Niſi prius could not grant any Tales. And it was objected, That the awarding of the Tales in the Caſe at Bar, was not warranted by the ſaid Act; for the words of the Act are, And that the Juſtices ſhall and may proceed to the Trial of every ſuch iſſue, with thoſe perſons that were before impannelled and returned, and with thoſe newly added, &c. So that theſe words (thoſe perſons) being in the plural Number, cannot be ſatisfied with one ſingular perſon; as upon the Statute of Weſt. 2. c. 11. Cum dom. &c. dederit eis Auditores compoti, &c. if one Accompt before one Auditor, in debt for the arrearages upon ſuch Accompt, he ſhall wage his Law, as it is holden in 20 H. 6 41. and the reaſon there given is, becauſe that the Statute ſpeaketh of Accompt before Auditors. Vide 5 H. 4. cap. 8. 11 H. 4. 56. 8 H. 6. 15. 20 H. 6. 17. 14 H. 6. 24. 20 H. 6. 45. 22 H. 6. 35. v. 49. E. 3. 2. & 44. E. 3. 31. [103]

Note Reader, there is not any Act of Parliament which by expreſs words taketh away the wager of Law in an action of Debt upon arreages of Accompt, but at the Common Law the Defendant ſhall have his Law in an action of Debt upon arrerages of Accompt, whether the Accompt be before one Auditor, or many, as it appeareth in 38 H. 6. 6. but the reaſon why the Defendant ſhall not wage his Law when the Accompt is made before Auditors, is upon the Statute of Weſt. 2. cap. 11. for now this Statute hath made the Auditors Judges of Record, becauſe they have power thereby to commit the Defendant to priſon, which none can do if they be not Judges of Record; and with this reaſon, ſc. that they are Judges of Record agreeth 2 H. 6. 41. and ſo H. 6. 24, 25. and for this cauſe he was ouſted of Law by all the Juſtices in ſuch caſe. But if the Accompt be before one Auditor only, the ſame is out of the Statute, for he cannot commit the Defendant to priſon, and therefore it remaineth at Common Law. So the Lord who is found in ſurpluſage, the Statute is made againſt the Accomptant only, and the Lord cannot be committed to priſon, and therefore it alſo remaineth at the Common Law, as it is adjudged in 14 H. 6. 24. Vide 10 H. 6. 25. 38 H. 6. 6. 20 H. 6. 41. b. And it appeareth by the Judgment of the whole Parliament in 5 H. 4. Caſe 8. That in an action of Accompt before Auditors, that the Defendant ſhall not wage his Law, but there the remedy is given by examination, to diſcern if the matter lie in Accompt, and if not, there to allow the Defendant his Law; and therefore the Books in 43 E. 3. and 49 E. 3. are ill Reported.

And further, thoſe of Counſel with the Plaintiff in the Writ of Error, cited the Caſe of 22 H. 6. 46. where the Cuſtom of Forreign Attachment being alledged againſt perſons in the plural number, ſhall not be ſatisfied with one; and the Caſe of Rediſſeiſin, where the Statute of Merton, Cap. 3. ſaith, Aſſumptis tecum Cuſtodibus placitorum Coronæ Domini Regis; this plural Number ſhall not be ſatisfied with one: if there are more than one: and with that agree 27 Aſſ. p. 5. 50. E. 3. 17. 39 H. 6. 42. So in grants made by Corporations, the plural Number ſhall not be ſatisfied with one, as appeareth in the Caſe of the Cooks of London in Plo. Com. So in Writs, if the Writ be that the Defendant falſo fabricavit diverſa facta, he connot declare upon one only. 35 H. 6. 37. b. Vide 7. E. 4. 31. 20 H. 6. 45, &c. But it was Reſolved, That in caſe when but one of the principal Pannel appeareth, the Statute giveth authority to Juſtices of Niſi Prius to award Tales de Circumſtantibus: For it is Enacted by the ſaid Statute, For the more ſpeedy tryal of Iſſues to be tried by twelve men hereafter to be had, that in every Writ of Habeas Corpora or Diſtringas with a Niſi Prius, where a full Jury ſhall not appear before the Juſtices of Niſi Prius, or elſe after an appearance of a full Jury, by challenge of either of the parties the Jury is like to remain untaken for default of Jurors; That then the ſame Juſtices, upon requeſt made by the party, Plaintiff or Demandant, ſhall have authority by force of this Act to command the Sheriff, or other Miniſter or Miniſters to whom the making of the ſame Return ſhall appertain, to name and appoint, as often as need ſhall require, ſo many of ſuch able perſons of the ſaid County then preſent, &c. as ſhall make a full Jury. By which words without queſtion, although that one only appeareth, the Court may award Tales of eleven. Then cometh the clauſe which hath been mentioned before, which doth not reſtrain the generality of the firſt words. And the Caſes put before, which give authority in the nature of a Commiſſion, as in the Caſe of Auditors of the Accompt, Rediſſeiſin, &c. are not to be [b]

reſembled to this Caſe upon the ſaid Act of 35 H. 8. which is made for more ſpeedy Trials, which always, and all other Statutes of like nature, ſhall be taken favourably in the furtherance and advancement of the expedition of Juſtice; and it is as great miſchief and delay of Juſtice when one onely, as when four or more appear. And for this cauſe, if the Body of the Act had been in the plural Number, yet it ſhould be conſtrued to extend to the Caſe, when one onely of the principal Pannel appeareth. And therewith agreeth the Opinion of the Court of Common Pleas in Mich. 7 & 8 Eliz. Dyer 245. in the ſame point, ſc. that the Juſtices of Niſi Prius have power to award Tales when one Juror onely appeareth; for there it is ſaid, So was the meaning of the makers of the Statute. And there Brown held, That if two of the principal Pannel appear, and at the prayer of the Plaintiff 12 de Circumſtantibus are returned, and then the two principal are drawn forth by challenge; then the Trial ſhall be all by the twelve de Circumſtantibus. But the Lord Dyer maketh a Quere of it. But at the Common Law, the Jurors of Tales paſſed in Trial without any Juror of the principal Pannel; and this Act hath been always expounded favourably. And therefore in Mich. 17 Eliz. No Hundredor appeared, and all Hundredors were returned upon the Tales:
[104] And 23 Eliz. Dyer 376. they have power to grant a Tales de Circumſtantibus, directed Coronatoribus for favour or affection of the Sheriff by the ſaid general words of the ſaid Act of 35 H. 8. Mich. 35 & 36 Eliz. Julius Cæſar Maſter of the Court of Requeſts in the Kings Bench, brought an Action for ſlanderous words againſt Philip Corſini. The Defendant pleaded not guilty, and ſaid, that he was an Alien born, &c. and prayed trial per medietatem linguæ, and it was granted; and at the Niſi Prius in London but ſix Engliſhmen and five Aliens appeared. And the Plaintiff prayed a Tales de Circumſtantibus per medietatem linguæ, and it was granted, ſo that there wanted one Alien; and the Record was, Ideo alius alienigena de Circumſtantibus per vic. London. ad requiſitionem infranominati Julii Cæſaris per mandatum Juſtic. de de novo appoſit', cujus nomen panell. prædict. affilatur ſecundum formam ſtatuti in hujuſmodi caſu nuper editi & proviſi, Qui quidem jurator ſic de novo appoſitus viz. Chriſtianus Dethick aliegena exactius ſimiliter venit, ac in juratam illam ſimul cum aliis juratoribus, prædictis prius impanellatis & juratis juratus fuit. And the Jury found for the Plaintiff, and aſſeſſed damages to 100 l. And it was moved in arreſt of Judgment, That no Tales is to be granted de Circumſtantibus, when the trial is per medietatem linguæ by the Juſtices of Niſi prius, by the ſaid Act of 35 H. 8. for three Reaſon.

1. The Tales ought to enſue the nature of the principal Pannel, and that alwayes is ad requiſitionem defendentis, and in this caſe the Plaintiff prayeth the Tales.

2. The words of the Act are in the plural Number, The Jury is like to remain untaken for default of Jurors: and here it was but for the default of one Juror.

3. The Act giveth not authority in this caſe to Juſtices to grant a Tales, for in the former part of the Act it is ſpoken of the freehold of the Jurors, and of iſſues to be returned upon the Jurors; and an Alien hath not any freehold, neither ſhall iſſues be returned upon him. Alſo the Statute ſaith, That if there be any default of Jurors others of the ſame County ſhall be returned, &c. and an Alien is not properly ſaid of any County. And notwithſtanding theſe, becauſe that the Statute was for the ſpeedy execution, and ſhall be expounded favourably to effect the intent and purpoſe of the makers of the Act, Judgment was given for the Plaintiff.

As to the firſt Objection which hath been made, it was Reſolved, That the title was the miſpriſion of the Sheriff; and it cannot be taken that the Juſtices ſhall grant Tales onely of ten, but of as many as in all ſhall make a Jury. And that appeareth, becauſe that eleven were returned, and eleven appeared, and eleven ſworn with him of the principal Pannel. And therefore it was Reſolved, That this miſpriſion of the Sheriff ſhould be amended, and decem put out of the title; and then the title ſhall be good and formal, Nomina talium, &c. or it may be Nomina juratorum de novo appoſit. ſecundum formam ſtatuti.

[b] Note Reader, at the Common Law in the granting of a Tales, five things are to be conſidered, 1. The time of granting, &c. of it. 2. The number of the Tales. 3. The order of them. 4 The manner of Trial, ſc. either by them with others, or by themſelves only, 5. The quality of them are to be conſidered.

As to the firſt, four things are to be conſidered. 1. That the time of granting of them is upon default of ſo many of thoſe of the principal Pannel, that there cannot be a full Jury. 2. That at the time of the granting of them, the principal Array ſtand, for Tales are words ſimilitudinary, and have reference to the reſemblance which at that time ought to be in eſſe; and therefore if the Array be quaſhed, or all the polls challenged and tried out, no Tales ſhall be awarded, for at that time ne ſont quales, but in ſuch caſe a new Venire fac. ſhall be awarded; but if at the time of the granting of the Tales the princial Pannel ſtand, and afterwards be quaſhed, as is aforeſaid, yet the Tales ſhall ſtand, for it ſufficeth if there were quales at the time of the granting of them; and that appeareth in 34 H. 6. Eſtoppel 30. 3. It is to be obſerved, That he who is meerly Defendant cannot pray a Tales, until the time the Plaintiff hath made default. 4. In ſome caſe a Tales ſhall be granted after a full Jury appeareth and is ſworn; as if a Jury be charged, and afterwards before the Verdict given in Court one of them dieth, a Tales ſhall be awarded, and no new Venire facias; and therewith agreeth 12 H. 4. 10. So if any of the Jurors impannelled die before that they appear, and the ſame appeareth by the return of the Sheriff, the Pannel ſhall abate, but if need be a Tales ſhall be awarded. Vide 21 E. 4. 11. And the time of challenge and trial of the Tales is after that the principal Pannel is tried; and if the principal Pannel be affirmed, the ſame triers ſhall try the Tales, but if it be quaſhed, then the two triers of the principal Pannel ſhall not try them. 9 E. 4. 14 H. 7. 1. & 33. H. 6. 21. vide 19 H. 6. 48.

As to the ſecond, ſc. the Number, three things are to be obſerved. 1. In all caſes the Tales ought to be under the number of the principal in the Venire fac' (if it be not in case of an Appeal) as in Attaint under 24, and in other Actions where the Venire fac' is of 12 under 12. and the reason why more may be granted in an Appeal on the part of the Plaintiff is, Because the Defendant may challenge peremptorily, and if default be in the Plaintiff, then the Defendant may pray a Tales; and the reason is in favorem vitæ, and that he may dispatch and free himself of trouble and the question of his life, for fear that the Witnesses should die, &c. and therewith agreeth 14 H. 7. 16 E. 4. 6. 37 H. 6. 12. 18 E. 4. 5. b. and therefore I think that the Book in 48 E. 3. 1. is misprinted. Vide 49 E. 3. 1. & 48 E. 3. 28. The 2. that the number ought always to be certain, as 10, or 8, or 6, or 4, &c. Vide Octo tales Br. 11. But now upon the said Act of 35 H. 8. a Tales de Circumstantibus may be granted as well to an incertain, as of a certain number, and that by force of the words of the said Act, sc. so many, &c. as shall make up a full Jury. [105]

As to the third, sc. the Order, it is to know, that always in every new Tales the number shall be diminished, as if the first be 10, the second shall be 8, and so always less; and therewith agree 14 H. 7. 1. tit. Tales, Br. 15. Vide 47 E. 3. p. 10. But if the Tales be awarded, and afterwards is quashed by challenge, he may have anew of the same number as before; and therewith agreeth 20 H. 6. 40.

As to the fourth, sc. To the manner of Trial, sc. by them with others, it is common every day, and by them only, when after the granting of 10 Tales, and octo Tales, the principal Pannel is quashed, there the trial may be only of Tales, or if the Tales do not amount to a Jury, a Tales to supply the former Tales may be granted; and therewith agreeth 36 H. 6. tit. Enquest 30.

As to the fifth, sc. to the Quality of the Tales, they ought to be of the same quality as the principal are; and therefore if the first be per medietatem linguæ, of English and Aliens, the Tales ought to be so. So if the principal be out of a liberty, and all those things which are required by Law in the principals, are required in the Tales. Vide 4 E. 4. 11. 7 H. 6. 40. 30 Ass. p. 42. And afterwards by the Advice of all the Justices of the Common Pleas, and Barons of the Exchequer, the Judgment was affirmed; and so the principal Case at Bar is adjudged by all the Judges of England and all the Barons of the Exchequer.

Note Reader, in Assise, if so many of the Recognitors make default, that there be not 12, the Justices of Assise cannot award a Tales de Circumstantibus, for although that Justices of Assise are named in the said Act of 38 H. 8. as well as Justices of Nisi Prius, yet forasmuch as the said Act giveth not power to Justices of Assise or Nisi Prius, but where the Trial shall be by 12 men in every Writ of Habeas Corpora, or Distringas with Nisi Prius; and that cannot be in an Assise: for, Assisæ capiantur in proprio Com', and never can be taken by Nisi Prius in proprio Com', and no exposition can be made against express words; for that should be Viperina expositio quæ corroderet ventrem textus: And of such opinion was Catelyn Chief Justice in his time, and Gerard Attorney General, and after them Wray and Anderson Chief Justices, Justices of the Assise in Norfolk Circuit. Mich. 10. Jacobi.

Humfrey Lofield's Case.

THomas Young and Dorothy his wife, brought an Action of Debt against Thomas Milton and Ann his wife, Executrix of Humfrey Lofield, upon an Obligation of 100 l. made 20 Decem. 6 Jac. by the said Humfrey Lofield to the said Dorothy dum sola fuit. The Defendants demanded Oyer of the Bond and Condition, which was, That if the within Humfrey Lofield, his Executors, Administrators and Assigns, and every of them, shall well and truly observe, perform and keep all and singular the Covenants, Payments, Reservations, Grants, and Articles and Agreements contained in a Pair of Indentures bearing date the day of the date of the Obligation made between the said Humfrey and Dorothy dum sola fuit, which on his and their parts, &c. And pleaded, That by the said Indenture, which they shewed forth, that the said Dorothy, in consideration of the rent after by the same Indenture reserved, demised to the said Humfrey Lofield a Wine-cellar in Gravesend, To have and to hold to the said Humfrey Lofield, his executors and assigns, after the Feast of the birth of Christ then next following, pro termino unius anni integri extunc prox' sequentis & si in fine dicti unius anni ambæ partes placerent, agrearent, & contentatæ forent, quod eadem præsens dimissio foret renovata, sive continuata pro aliquo longiori tempore, tunc habend' & tenend' dimissa præmissa dict' Humfrido Lofield executoribus & assignatis suis ab & post dictum festum Nativitatis Dom' tunc prox' sequen' datum Indentur' usque plenarium finem & terminum trium annorum extunc prox' sequent', reddendo inde annuatim durante dicto termino dictæ Dorotheæ, executoribus & assignatis suis 40 l. ad quatuor usual' dies festos, sive terminos, &c. sc. the Annunciation, &c. with clause of distress if the rent were behind by the space of 10 days after any of the Feasts, &c. And pleaded, That he occupied the said Cellar for the space of the said first year, and at the end of the said year performed all the Covenants, Payments, Reservations, &c. in the said Indentures, &c. The Plaintiff replied, and for breach shewed, That the said Humfrey Lofield did not pay 10 l. due in the said first year at the Feast of the birth of Christ for one quarter. Upon which the Defendant did demurr in Law. And this plea began in the Common Pleas, Trin. 10. Jac. Rot. 3434. And it was argued by the Serjeants of Counsel with the Defendant, That the lessee should not pay any rent for the first year, and that for three causes. [106] [b]

1. Becauſe the reſervation, as it is made, doth depend upon a contingency, ſc. if at the end of the firſt year both parties agree that the leaſes ſhall be renewed and continued for any longer time, than to have and to hold the ſaid Cellar to the ſaid Humfrey from the Feaſt of the birth of Chriſt next enſuing the date of the Indenture for three years, Reddendo inde annuatim durante dicto termino dictæ Dorotheæ, &c. 40 l. &c. So that the Reddendo doth depend upon the ſaid contingent, which never took effect, for the leaſe was not continued beyond the firſt year.

2. The reſervation of the rent is durante termino prædict', which being ſpoken in the ſingular Number, ſhall relate only to the term of three years laſt mentioned, and not to the term of one year, which was certain and compleat before the contingent.

3. Every reſervation and exception ſhall be taken ſtrictè againſt the leſſor, and beneficially for the leſſee, becauſe that every reſervation doth charge and encumber the land demiſed; and the words of reſervation are the words of the leſſor, and the reſervation is his act, and therefore ſhall not be extended beyond the words; and ſo it is holden in Hill and Granges Caſe in Plo. Com. 171. And to this purpoſe the common Caſes in 12 E. 3. Aſſ. 86. 17 E. 3. 52. & 17 Aſſ. p. 10. 10 E. 4. 18. 12 H. 8. 19. a. and divers others were cited.

And it was further ſaid, That if two tenants in common joyn in a grant of an Ox, or a pair of Spurs, or a Hawk, the grantee ſhall have two Oxen, &c. but if they make a gift in tail, or a leaſe for life or years, rendring an Ox, &c. to them and their heirs, they during their lives, nor their heirs after their deaths, ſhall have but one Ox, &c. And ſo if a man maketh a gift in tail of two [107] acres, one at the Common Law, and the other in Borough-Engliſh, rendring an Ox to him and his heirs, and the donee having two ſons dieth, the eldeſt ſon inherit one acre, and the younger the other, in this caſe the donor or his heirs ſhall have but one Ox, becauſe the reſervation ſhall be taken ſtrictly againſt him and his heirs.

But it was Reſolved, That the ſaid reſervation ſhould extend to the firſt year; for the proper place of a reſervation is to come after the limitation of all the eſtates. And therefore if a man by deed indented demiſeth lands to A. habendum to him for life, the remainder to B. and to the heirs of his body, and for want of iſſue of his body, to remain to D. in tail, or for life, Reddendo inde to the leſſor and his heirs an annual rent, this reſervation ſhall extend to all the eſtates before. Vide 34 E. 3. Avowry. And although the future term be incertain, yet it is certain that the leſſee ſhall have the Cellar for one year, and the reſervation ſhall extend to it, for durante termino prædᵗ, although it be in the ſingular Number, yet it is named collective, and ſhall have relation to every term demiſed by the Indenture. And it is to be obſerved, That if the leſſee had held the Cellar beyond the firſt year, that the reſervation had extended without queſtion to the firſt year; and the conſideration of making of the leaſe, was only in conſideration of the rent reſerved in the ſaid Indentures. And in old time rent reſerved upon leaſes, &c. was called vivus redditus, becauſe that the leſſor lived by it. Vide Plo. Com. Hill and Granges Caſe 171. Such conſtruction ſhall be made in caſe of reſervation of rent, that the leſſor ſhall not loſe his rent at any day, &c. And Hill. 23 Eliz. Rot. 1410. in the Common Pleas, Dioniſe Paſmer brought a Replevin againſt George Prowſe for taking of his cattel at Halberton, in a place called Terleigh Down in the County of Devon; the Caſe, as appeareth by the Record, was ſuch: A leaſe was made of a houſe and lands for years, if the leſſee ſhould ſo long live; and afterwards the leſſor by his deed indented granted the meſſuage and land to another, To have and to hold the reverſion to the grantee for life, cum per mortem, ſurſum redditionem, vel foriſfacturam of the leſſee, aut aliter acciderit, Reddendo inde annuatim, to the grantor and his heirs, cum reverſio prædicta acciderit 9 s. 4 d. per annum; the leſſee died, the grantor of the reverſion diſtrained for the arrearages of rent, as well before the death of the leſſee as after; and in this Caſe four Points were Reſolved clearly by the whole Court.

[b] 1. That by the demiſe of the meſſuage and land for life, the reverſion thereof ſhould paſs; but by grant of the reverſion land in poſſeſſion ſhall not paſs.

2. By the grant of the meſſuage and land, Habendum reverſionem, &c. for life after the death of the leſſee, &c. That the Habendum is good; for in Judgment of Law, nothing but the reverſion is granted by the premiſes; and as in Throckmortons Caſe, Plo. Com. 147. when a reverſion is granted, Habendum the land, the Habendum is adjudged good: ſo when the land is granted Habendum the reverſion; and after the death of the leſſee, &c. is in conſtruction as much as to ſay, as to take effect in poſſeſſion after the death, &c. Alſo the Habendum had been good, although no mention had been made either of the land, or of the reverſion in the Habendum; for the principal office of the Habendum is to limit the eſtate in the land contained in the premiſes.

3. It was reſolved, That by the ſaid reſervation, the rent ſhall not begin before the reverſion fall into poſſeſſion; and theſe words, cum reverſio prædicta acciderit, ſhall be expounded according to the intent of the parties, which was not that the grantee for life ſhould pay the rent reſerved, before that he might take the profits to raiſe the rent out of them.

4. That the diſtreſs was well taken for the arrearages after the death of the leſſee, and for the arrearages incurred before. Not by the Lord Dyer in 23 Eliz. 376, 377. which proveth that reſerſervations ſhall be expounded according to the reaſonable intendment of the parties, to be collected by the words of their deed. And it is apparent, that the intent of the parties in the Caſe at Bar, was, That the leſſee ſhould pay rent for the time which by force of the ſaid leaſe he occupied the ſaid Cellar: But foraſmuch as the Obligation was forfeited, the Court moved the Plaintiff to take the arrerages, coſts and dammages, with which he was content, and ſo no Judgment was given.

Note Reader, as to the ſaid Caſe put at the Bar, of a gift in tail of one acre at Common Law, and of one acre in Borough-Engliſh, rendring an Ox, and afterwards the donee dieth, having iſſue two ſons, ſo that the one acre deſcendeth to the one, and the other to the other, that but one Ox ſhall be be paid. For the better underſtanding of the Law, and of the reaſon thereof in this Caſe and other the like, It is to know, That there is a difference in Law, when by operation of the Law without the act of the party, there ſhall be a multiplying of an entire ſervice, and when not. And therefore there is a difference betwixt very Lord and very Tenant, and between Donor and Donee, or Leſſor and Leſſee: For in the caſe of very Lord and very Tenant, as well the annual as the caſual [108] entire ſervices in many caſes ſhall be multiplied, as it appeareth in Bruertons Caſe, in the ſixth Part of my Reports, and in the eighth Part of my Reports in John Talbots Caſe. But in the Caſe of Donor and Donee, or Leſſor and Leſſee, the entire rent ſhall not be by any diviſion either of the reverſion or of the poſſeſſion by act in Law multiplied. And therefore if in the ſaid caſe of one acre at Common Law, and the other in Borough Engliſh, the Donee dieth having iſſue two ſons, this ſeveral deſcent which is an act in Law ſhall not charge each of them with the entire ſervice, no more than if the donor in the ſame caſe dieth having iſſue two ſons, ſo that the reverſion deſcendeth ſeverally by act in Law; yet the donee nor their heirs ſhall not be charged but with one entire ſervice. So if a man be ſeiſed of two acres, one of the part of his father, and of the other of the part of his mother, and maketh a leaſe of both for life, reſerving yearly a Lamb to the leſſor and his heirs, and the leſſor dieth without iſſue of his body, the ſeveral heirs ſhall not have two lambs, but one lamb only. So if a man giveth lands to two men, and to the heirs of their two bodies begotten, yielding a Hawk, and they die, their ſeveral iſſues ſhall pay but one Hawk: And the reaſon of theſe and other like caſes, that the entire ſervices in theſe caſes ſhall not encreaſe, is, becauſe that the reſervation of the donor or the leſſor is his title only, and when he himſelf reſerveth but one, the Law, which is always grounded upon Right and Equity, will never encreaſe the ſame, or give to him more than himſelf hath reſerved. And the reaſon of this difference appeareth in Woodlands Caſe in Plo. Com. 94. For encroachment of the donor upon the donee, or of the leſſor upon the leſſee, ſhall not bind them in an Avowry, as it ſhall betwixt Lord and Tenant; and the reaſon is, becauſe that when the donor and leſſor, or the heir of any of them avoweth, he ought to ſhew the original reſervation, by which it will appear, how much the donor or leſſor hath reſerved. And with this agreeth the Judgment in Sir William Foſters Caſe in the eighth Part of my Reports, That the donor or leſſor need not in an Avowry alledge ſeiſin, nor encroachment upon them ſhall bind them, becauſe that the reſervation is their title. But if there be Lord and Tenant, and the Tenant maketh a gift in tail, or a leaſe for life, the remainder in fee, there encroachment by the Lord upon the donee or leſſee ſhall bind them, for the Lord need not to ſhew the commencement of the Seignory, but it ſhall not bind the iſſue in tail; and therewith agreeth 20 E. 3. Avowry 131. 5 E. 4. 2. F.N.B. 11 a. [b] The ſame Law is, when the Law doth create the tenure; as if Lord and tenant be by fealty, and the yearly rent of a Lamb, and the tenant maketh a gift in tail to two men, and to the heirs of their two bodies without any reſervation, then the donees ſhall hold of the donor by the like ſervices as he held over. Litt. 4. b. 33 H. 6. 7. &c. yet if the donees having iſſue die, their ſeveral iſſues ſhall pay but one Lamb, for the donor or his heirs in Avowry ought to ſhew the tenure betwixt the Lord and the tenant, and the gift in tail, ſo that it will appear to the Court, that but one lamb at the time of the gift was due; and the Law, to the prejudice of the heirs of the donees, ſhall not encreaſe it. But there is a difference betwixt thoſe which are entire ſervices; for ſome ſervices by the meer operation of the Law ſhall encreaſe. And therefore if a man ſeiſed of two acres, one at the Common Law, and the other by the cuſtom of Borough-Engliſh, and maketh a gift in tail of both; and the donee having iſſue two ſons dieth, both the ſons ſhall do fealty. The ſame Law of Homage, if it be reſerved by the party, or created by the Law. So if the donor dieth having iſſue two ſons, both the ſons ſhall have homage and fealty. So there is a difference betwixt entire ſervices of profit and of no truſt, and ſervices of truſt and no profit. The ſame Law is, if there be Lord and tenant by Knights ſervice, and the tenant giveth the tenancy to two men, and to their heirs of their bodies, and they die having iſſue, their iſſue ſhall hold ſeverally by Knights ſervice, for the ſame is for the defence of the Lord and of the Realm: And ſo another difference betwixt an entire ſervice for the profit of the Lord, and an entire ſervice for the publick defence of the Realm. See all theſe cited in John Talbots Caſe; and by theſe and other differences there put, all the Books proving them, are well without any contrariety or difficulty agreed and reconciled.

Mich. 10 Jacobi, which began Paſc. 10 Jac. Rot. 1639. In the Common Pleas.

Arthur Legat's Caſe, in the ſubverſion of Peſtilent Patents of thieviſh Concealers.

[109] ARthur Legat Gent. brought an Ejectione firmæ againſt Edward Cockle, upon a demiſe made of ſix acres of Wood in Wimondham in the County of Norfolk by John Smith, 19 Octob. 8 Jac. Reg. for three years, and that the Defendant did eject him, &c. The Defendant pleaded Not guilty, and a ſpecial Verdict was found to this effect. The King and Queen, Philip and Mary, were ſeiſed of the Mannor of Wimondham in the County of Norfolk in fee in the right of their Crown of England (whereof the ſix acres of Wood in which, &c. were parcel) and 9 Julii, 4 & 5 of the ſaid Philip and Mary, by their Letters Patents under the Great Seal of England, in conſideration of ſervice done by Sir George Howard Knight ex certa ſcientia, mero motu, & gratia ſpeciali, gave and granted to the ſaid Sir George Howard (inter alia) omnes illas duas peciis terræ noſtræ vocat' Nettlehamſted & Wikemans, containing by eſtimation 15 acres, jac' & exiſten' in Wimondham in Com' Norf. modo vel nuper in tenura ſive occupatione Jo. Colman ac nuper Monaſt' de Wimondham
[b] quond' ſpect' & pertin' &c. quæ quidem omnia & ſingula præmiſſa cum pertinentiis à nobis ac à patre & fratre noſtris præfatæ Reginæ concelata & detent' fuer', ac redditus & reventiones inde nec alicujus inde parcellæ ante hæc reſponſa fuer', Habend' præd' Georgio Howard milit' hæred' & aſſignatis ſuis, &c. And that the ſaid ſix acres of Wood whereof, &c. were parcel of the ſaid land called Nettlehamſted and Wikemans; and that the ſaid Mannor of Wimondham whereof, &c. at the time of the making of the ſaid Letters Patents non concelat' nec detent' fuit, ſed fuit in onere & compoto, and the rents and profits thereof (ſaving the lands called Nettlehamſted and Wikemans) were anſwered to the King before and at the time of the ſaid Letters Patents. And if the ſaid lands Nettlehamſted and Wikemans, being parcel of the ſaid Mannor, ſhould paſs or not, was the queſtion. And if the ſaid lands do not paſs by the ſaid Letters Patents, then they found for the Plaintiff, and if, &c. And in this caſe three queſtions were moved.

1. If the ſaid two parcels of the Mannor of Nettlehamſted and Wikemans ſhall be as this Caſe is in Law, ſaid to be concealed and detained from the Queen, when the Mannor whereof, &c. is in charge to the King and Queen, although in truth the ſaid parcel called Nettlehamſted and Wikemans were occupied by an intruder, who anſwered nothing for them.

The ſecond Queſtion was, That foraſmuch as the ſaid grant was of the ſaid two parcels by ſpecial names of Nettlehamſted and Wikemans in Wimondham in the County of Norfolk, and hath theſe certainties, ſc. modo vel nuper in tenura ſive occupatione Johannis Colman, ac nuper Monaſterio de Wimondam quondam ſpectant', &c. (all which were true) if the ſaid two parcels ſhould paſs, notwithſtanding that they ſhall not be ſaid in Law concealed or detained.

3. If the ſaid grant by Letters Patents ex certa ſcientia, mero motu, & gratia ſpeciali, ſhould make the grant good, notwithſtanding the falſity of the ſaid clauſe, Quæ quidem, &c.

And as to the firſt, it was Reſolved, That when the King and Queen were anſwered of the ancient Rent of the Mannor, although the Fermors, or Officers or Miniſters of the King ſuffer any to intrude into any parcel of the Mannor, yet it ſhall not be ſaid in Law concealed or detained; for the Mannor is in charge, and by conſequence in Law every part of it, & turpis eſt pars quæ non convenit cum ſuo toto.

As to the ſecond, it was objected, That there was multiplicity of certainty in the clauſe of the grant it ſelf. 1. In the thing granted, ſc. by certain names. 2. By certain content, ſc. fifteen acres. 3. In a certain Town. 4. In a certain County. 5. In the occupation of a certain perſon. 6. In title, Nuper Monaſterio de Wimondham ſpectan'; and all theſe are true: and therefore although [110] in truth the ſaid lands called Nettlehamſted and Wikemans were not concealed, yet they ſhall paſs, for utile per inutile non vitiatur: And therefore they cited the Book in 22 E. 3. 9. where King E. 3. granted to William Earl of Salisbury the ſon omnes advocationes Eccleſiarum quæ pertinent ad prioratum de Montague, &c. & quas nuper conceſſimus William then Earl of Salisbury patri præd' Willielm. And in truth, the Advowſon of the Church of W. then in queſtion, was not granted to the fathes, and yet there the grant is holden good: And if it were in the caſe of a common perſon, the falſe Quæ quidem ſhould not avoid the grant.

But it was anſwered and reſolved by the whole Court, that the grant was void for four Reaſons. 1. Becauſe that the cauſe of Quæ quidem, &c. was in Judgment of Law the ſuggeſtion of the Patentee. 2. It was a clauſe of reſtraint, to reſtrain the grant to a thing onely concealed from the King and Queen, &c. and not in charge. 3. The King and Queen did not intend to diminiſh any part of their Revenue. 4. Foraſmuch as the words are in the conjunctive concelata & detenta fuer', &c. in which caſe if the land may be ſaid detained from the King or not.

As to the firſt, ſc. That the ſaid clauſe Quæ quidem, &c. ſhall be taken in Law as the ſuggeſtion of the party, in 19 E. 3. Grant 58. The King by his Letters Patents giveth Licence to appropriate the Advowſon of D. to the Prior of C. quæ quidem advocatio non tenetur de nobis, &c. and in truth the the Advowſon was holden immediately of the King, and the Licenſe was holden void, for the book ſaith that the ſuggeſtion was falſe. And in 31 E. 4. 48. If the King grant the Mannor of D. &c. quod quidem manerium ad manus noſtras devenit ratione eſcheat' &c. and in truth the Mannor cometh not to the Kinſt by eſcheat, the grant is void; and the reaſon that Huſſey Chief Juſtice there giveth is, Becauſe the falſity cometh on the ſurmiſe of the party. And therewith agreeth 8 H. 7. 3. 37 H. 8. Br. Patents, and 9 H. 6. 28. And in 16 E. 4. 7. it is holden, That the Patentee ſhall not take advantage of any other title, than that which is expreſſed in the Letters Patents. And in the Act of Confirmation of Letters Patents, an. 18 El. c. 2. there is a Proviſo: provided always, That this Act, &c. ſhall not extend to any Letters Patents, which at any time ſince the beginning of her Majeſties Reign have been, or hereafter ſhall be granted by the Queens Highneſs to any perſon or perſons, of any Mannors, Lands, &c. by force of any information, ſuit or ſuggeſtion made or to be made to her Highneſs, that the ſame Mannors, Lands, &c. were concealed lands. And always after this Act, and after the like Act of Confirmations of Letters Patents, anno 43 Eliz. Cap. 19. the ſaid clauſes of Quæ quidem, &c. and ordinary proviſions concerning concealments, were conſtrued and taken in Law for informations, ſuggeſtions and ſuits of the Queens Patentees for concealed lands. [b]

As to the ſecond, The ſaid clauſe of Quæ quidem, &c. contains words of reſtraint inſerted for the Kings benefit, for it implieth a ſuggeſtion to the King (as hath been ſaid) and an anſwer made to it by the King, ſc. The ſuggeſtion of the Patentee to the King is, That he hath found lands which are concealed from him, of which he hath not any rent, profit, or other benefit anſwered; and therefore that it would pleaſe the King in reward of his ſervice, to grant theſe lands to him, which he by his induſtry hath found to belong to the King. To which the King anſwereth, I am content to grant to you the ſame lands, ſo as according to your ſuggeſtion they are concealed from us, and whereof we have not any rent or profit anſwered: Upon which the ſaid clauſe of Quæ quidem, &c. was added in the Patent, to reſtrain the Kings grant to lands only which were concealed from him, and to no other, whereof the King was anſwered any rent or profit. Quæ reſtringendi cauſa additur in caſu domini regis, ſi falſum ſit vitiat cartam. And therefore a notable cauſe was cited, which was adjudged Mich. 22, & 23. Eliz. in the Kings Bench, but the ſame is entred Paſch. 21 Eliz. Rot. 33. where the caſe was, that Francis Vowe brought an Ejectione firmæ againſt Richard Smith, upon a demiſe made by Leonard Vowe 3. Octo. 20 Eliz. of a meſſuage in Hallangton in the County of Leiceſter; the Defendant pleaded Not guilty; and at a Niſi prius before Sir James Dyer then Chief Juſtice of the Bench, a ſpecial Verdict was found to this effect. William Dexter was ſeiſed of the Mannor of Hallangton in the County of Leiceſter in fee, whereof the ſaid meſſuage, &c. were parcel, and in the time of R. 2. did thereof enfeoff Henry Earl of Derby and his heirs; and afterwards the ſaid Earl took upon him the Crown and Government of the ſaid Realm, by the name of Henry the fourth. And afterwards 2 Aprilis ann' regni ſui 7. *ad humilem petitionem & ſupplicationem quorundam Johannis Miton & Margaretæ uxoris ejus conſanguineæ & hæredis dicti Willielmi Dexter, videlicet, filiæ Willielmi, filii prædicti Willielmi Dexter, de gratia ſua ſpeciali per literas ſuas patentes ſigillo Ducatus ſui Lancaſtriæ confect' gerentes datum eiſdem die & ann', dedit & conceſſit præfat' Joh. vacuæ erunt. And the firſt certificat was Octabis Trinit' Anno regni dicti dn'æ reginæ Eliz. 20. And afterwards, ſc. The firſt day of October then next following, The ſaid Leonard Vowe obtained Letters Patents under the Great Seal, according to the ſaid Privy Seal. And the firſt day of October in the twentieth year aforeſaid, The ſaid John Farneham by deed indented and inrolled, bargained and ſold unto the ſaid Richard Smith now Defendant, the ſaid meſſuage in quo, &c. To have and to hold to him and his heirs, by force of which he entred, upon whom the ſaid Leonard Vowe did enter and made the Leaſe prout, &c. And if upon the whole matter aforeſaid, the ſaid Letters Patents made to the ſaid John Farneham, were ſufficient in Law to paſs the ſaid meſſuage; then they found for the Defendant; and if not, then for the Plaintiff, and aſſeſſed dammages and coſts. And in this caſe upon argument made at Bar and Bench, four points were reſolved.

1. That the ſaid Letters Patents of Anno 17 Eliz. were void in Law, becauſe they were in the nature of a reſtitution, and the ſuggeſtion of the ſaid Leonard Vowe recited in the ſaid Letters Patents, that he was next heir of the body of the ſaid Margaret Myton was falſe; and although it was but matter in fact, yet becauſe it was the principal motive of the ſaid grant in the nature of a Reſtitution, and the intention of the Queen expreſſed in the Letters Patents was that the intention of the grant of the ſaid. Hen. 4. ſhould take effect, which the Queen reciting the Letters Patents of King Hen. 4. and the imperfection of them declareth her intention in theſe words; volentes dictam intentionem prædicti regis Henrici 4. effectum capere & non evacuari, which could not be if the right heir of the body of the ſaid Margaret Myton be not reſtored; for this cauſe the ſaid grant of the Queen Eliz. of Anno 17. was void.

2. It was reſolved, That the ſaid clauſe of Quæ quidem &c. was in Judgment of Law the ſuggeſtion of the Patentee, and added to reſtrain the ſaid grant in ſuch manner, that if the ſaid clauſe of quæ quidem, &c. be falſe, although the ſaid meſſuage be granted by certain name, yet the grant is void.

3. It was reſolved, That when the Kings officers by force of any matter of record, may have ſo certain notice of the lands or tenements compriſed therein, that they may put them in charge to the King, although that the record it ſelf be not of any effect or validity in Law; yet in Judgment of Law, ſuch lands or tenements ſhall never be ſaid concealed, for the negligence or lacheſs of the Kings [112] Officers or Miniſters ſhall not turn to the Kings prejudice in ſuch caſe. And therefore any grant or demiſe of any land in certain title under the Exchequer Seal, where it ought to be under the great Seal, or under the great Seal where it ought to be under the Dutchy ſeal, or under the ſeal of the Dutchy, or of the Court of Augmentations, where it ought to be under the Great ſeal: yet ſuch land againſt ſuch record cannot be ſaid to be concealed. And therefore although the ſaid grant of Hen. 4. under the Dutchy ſeal, where it ought to have been under the Great Seal, although that nothing paſſeth by it: yet by reaſon thereof the ſaid Mannor of Hallington can never after be ſaid to be concealed. So if King Ed. 3. by his Letters Patents under the Great Seal demiſeth the Mannor of D. for life, or for years, which leaſe was void by reaſon of the miſnoſmer of the leſſee, or any other ſuch imperfection, yet the ſaid Mannor never after can be ſaid to be concealed, And if any parcel of the poſſeſſions of the Crown be in charge in the Dutchy, or of the Dutchy in the Exchequer, theſe ſhall never be ſaid concealed. And it was ſaid that this word (Conceal) was a word of new invention, in times paſt not uſed or known to the ſages of the Law, but in one Writ which Stamford Prerog. b. ſpeaketh of, which Writ is called, Writ de terris concelatis, and lieth after a general livery ſued; but ſuch Writ is now alſo concealed, for it is not found in the Regiſter, either Original or Judicial.

4. That no Lands or Tenements whereof the King is ſeiſed, &c. although it be concealed from the King, cannot be ſaid in Law ſubſtracted or detained from the King; for the King cannot be diſſeiſed or deforced of any Land, &c. But if the Kings Tenant be diſſeiſed, and dieth without heir, then the right eſcheateth to the King, and there in truth the land is detained from the King; but ſuch right ſhall not paſs by the general grant of the King of Lands, &c. Hill. 38. Eliz. it was reſolved by Popham and Anderſon Chief Juſtices in the Caſe of one Shane ſent out of Ireland, That the clauſe of quæ quidem, in the like Letters Patents of concealment of lands in free land, did amount to a ſuggeſtion, and being falſe, made the grant of divers Rectories by certain name void, as here in the fourth point appeareth.

As to the third reaſon, to the end the final intention of the King by theſe Letters Patents was to reward the ſervice of the Patentee, and not to diminiſh any part of the Revenue of his Crown, but only to paſs that which was concealed from him. And the opinion of June in 9 H. 6. 28. was cited, If a man ſueth to the King by petition, to have a Mannor, and ſaith in his petition, that the Mannor is worth but 10 l. and hath a Patent of the ſame Mannor, and afterwards it is found upon Re-
[b] cord, that the Mannor is of the value of 40 l. per annum, the Patent ſhall be repealed, for the King intended to diminiſh his Revenue by 10 l. per annum, and upon the ſuggeſtion of the Patentee he was deceived in the value, and thereby he decreaſeth his revenue 40 l. per annum. Vide 16 C. 3. Grants 54.

As to the fourth Reaſon, The ſaid clauſe Quæ quidem hath a double conjunctive, ſc. concelata & detenta; and as it appeareth by the fourth point of Vowes Caſe, lands, &c. cannot be detained from the King. And ſo it was Reſolved in Shanes Caſe, Hill. 31 Eliz. where the Caſe was; Queen Elizabeth by her Letters Patents under the Great Seal of Ireland, ex certa ſcientia, mero motu, & gratia ſpeciali, granted unto Edm. Barret, the Rectory of Sroze in the County of Longford in Ireland, (inter alia) parcel of the poſſeſſions of the late Priory of Loughſendy, Quæ omnia & ſingula præmiſſa à nobis & progenitoribus noſtris diu antehac concelata, ſubſtracta, & injuſte detenta fuerunt & adhuc ſunt, To have and to hold to the ſaid Edmond Barret and his heirs. And it was reſolved, that this grant was void, becauſe that the ſaid Clauſe of quæ quidem was in the Judgment of Law the ſuggeſtion of the Patentee, and the ſaid Rectory could not be unjuſtly detained from the Queen; and the words are in Conjunctive, Concelata, ſubſtracta, & injuſte detenta. And ſo

Francis

Francis Shane who occupied the said Rectory did prevail against the said Patentee. And the second Conjunctive is, Et redditus & reversiones inde, nec alicujus inde parcellæ antehac responsa fuer', so that both the Conjunctives ought to be true, otherwise the grant is void.

As to the third point in the principal Case it was resolved, where the said grant was to Sir George Howard, ex certa scientia, mero motu, & gratia speciali: Ex certa scientia importeth that the King hath knowledge of the thing he granteth. As it is said in 2 E. 3. 7. in John de Bretaines Case, but the same is intended of the truth, which is the proper object of knowledg, and not of falsity which is non ens, and of that the King cannot have knowledg, but in such case the King notwithstanding these words, is utterly deceived in his grant; and therefore they shall not give the Patentee any advantage.

Ex mero motu properly importeth the honour and bounty of the King, who rewardeth the Patentee for the merit of his service of his own meer motion, without any suit of the party. And it was said that these words were added after the Statute of 4 H. 4. Cap. 4. by which Act the King declareth, that he will abstain to grant any part of his Revenues, Lands, or Wardships, if not to those who have deserved, and those who sue for any such thing shall be punished, and should not have the thing for which the suit was made. After which Act to the end it might not appear that there was any suit, these words were added sc. ex mero motu. And the said Act is entituled in the Roll Brangwyn, which in the British tongue is a White Cornelle, in English a White Crow: and it was called Crow because he was oftentimes calling and requiring: and White because he hath aulica & candida vestimenta. [113]

Ex gratia sua speciali, in respect of grace and favour, which the King hath conceived to the Patentee.

And it was resolved there was a difference between Clauses of quæ quidem; For some are added only to make a more plain demonstration of the certainty of the thing granted, and some which concern the Kings Title, or the value of the land granted, or to make a restraint of the grant as hath been said before; And additions only to make more certainty shall not make void the Kings grant of a thing certain; as 10 H. 4. 2. in Sir John Lestranges Case it is holden, That if the King by Office found hath a Mannor in Ward, and granteth the said Mannor by a certain name in such a County quod quidem manerium nuper seisitum fuit in manus nostras, &c. and in truth this Mannor never was seised, it shall not avoid the grant, for it is not material whether the King had seised it or not; and it was added but to make more certainty to that which was certain enough before; and therefore it shall not avoid the grant although it be false. Otherwise it is of a general grant, as in the principal Case there it was. [a]

So in Mich. 22. & 23. A Case between the Earl of Rutland and Thomas Markham was by the commandment of Queen Elizabeth, referred to Bromley Lord Chancellor, Gerard Attorney, and Popham Sollicitor; and the Case was such: The Queen granted to Thomas Markham Officium custodis parcorum sive boscorum de Billowe & Birkland in foresta de Sherewood in com' Nott', quod quidem officium Henric' nuper Comes Rutland' nuper habuit. To have and to hold the said office to the said Thomas Markham for term of his life; and in truth the said Henry Earl of Rutland never had the said office; and yet it was resolved by them that the grant was good, because quod demonstrandi causa additur rei satis demonstratæ frustra fit. So if the King demiseth a Mannor by special name, quod quidem manerium nuper fuit in tenura sive occupatione Johannis Stile: and in truth he never had it, yet the grant is good, for in these Cases the King is not deceived in his title, nor in the value which he intendeth to grant, nor in the restraint which he for his profit intendeth to make. [b]

Also it was resolved, That there was a difference betwixt the Kings case, and the case of a common person; for a subject who may intend his private, shall not avoid his grant in these and the like cases, being made upon a false insinuation and suggestion; but the King who mindeth the condition of the publick, shall avoid his grant in these cases jure regio, as it is said 21 E. 3. 47. in the Earl of Kents case. And the same is an high and great Prerogative which the King hath, that when he maketh any grant upon such false suggestions as aforesaid, they are void in Law. So when upon false insinuations or pretences, he maketh any grant of any Monopoly, &c. which in truth is to the prejudice of the King and the Commonwealth, the King jure regio shall avoid such grants, and such Letters Patents by Judgment of Law shall be cancel'd. And it was said that Perpetuities, Monopolies, and Patents of Concealments were born under an unfortunate Constellation; for so soon as they have been brought in question, Judgment hath always been given against them, and none at any time for them; and each of them hath two inseparable qualities, sc. to be troublesom and fruitless.

As to the said case of 29 E. 3. 8. the case is there, That the King being founder of the Priory of Mountague (which was a Priory alien) the King for cause of war of France seised the said Priory, and by his Charter granted to William Mountague Earl of Salisbury the Father, the Advowson of the said Priory to him and his heirs, and also the keeping of the said Priory during the war, with all the appurtenances, and all the profits belonging to the same, as wholly as the same came to his hands. And after the said Earl died, William his son and heir then within age; to whom the King by another Charter granted omnes advocationes Ecclesiarum quæ pertinent ad prioratum de Mountague, tenendum usq; ad legitimam ætatem præfati Willielmi, & quas nuper concessimus præfato Comiti Sarum Patri; where it is taken, That the Advowsons appertaining to the said Priory shall not pass by the said general words. And there Green Chief Justice saith, Surely he conceived, That although the King had never granted the Advowsons to the Earl the Father, That by the second Charter they should pass to William the Son by those words; for in as much as he grants, &c. to hold till his full age, although that which he says after (the which he granted to his Father) be false, the grant is good. But Norton contrary; so that Greens reason was, because that the said words or restriction came after the Habendum, sc. after a full and absolute grant. Also if the said opinion of Green shall be Law, the said case is out of the reason and rule of the case at Bar, as it appeareth before. And Judgment was [114] given for the Plaintiff, whereupon the Defendant brought a Writ of Error, and the Error aſſigned was in the point adjudged, which point was argued again at the Bar, and at the Bench; for Mich 11 Jacobi the Judgment was affirmed by the whole Court for the cauſes and reaſons reported before.

Note Reader, That Hill. 36 Eliz. an Information was exhibited in the Kings Bench againſt Hugh Vaughan for intruding into the gate of the late Priory of Friers Preachers in Langley Regis, in the County of Hereford, and upon not guilty pleaded the Jury gave a ſpecial Verdict to this effect. Richard Prior of the late Priory Anno 38. Hen. 8. with the conſent of the Covent by their Indenture enrolled did ſurrender and grant to Hen. 8. his Heirs and Succeſſors all their poſſeſſions, &c. by force whereof, and of the Act of 31 Hen. 8. The King was ſeiſed of the ſaid Scite, and 7. Feb. 31 Hen. 8. demiſed the ſame by the name of the Scite of the late Priory to the Suffragan of Dover for his life abſque aliquo inde reddendo, and afterwards the ſaid Suffragan died; and the Scite by mean conveiances deſcended to Queen Elizabeth. And afterwards 27. Junii 8 Eliz. a Commiſſion was directed under the Exchequer ſeal to William Cook Eſquire, and others giving them authority to ſurvey the ſaid Scite (inter alia) and to certifie to the Exchequer in what reparation it was, and what Lead, Stone and Iron was requiſite to repair it; which Commiſſioners 3. Septembris following by force of the ſaid Commiſſion, did certifie in writing under their Seals (inter alia) That there was an old Church appertaining to the ſaid late Priory, which was in great ruine and decay, and was covered with Lead, which lead was worth 33 l. 6 s. 8 d. And the Timber and Stones were little worth, &c. After which certificate the Lead, Timber and ſtones were ſold by the Treaſurer and Under-Treaſurer of the Exchequer An. 9 Eliz. to one Webſter for 33 l. 6 s. 8 d. who in the Court of Exchequer acknowledged the debt. And afterwards the Queen 9 Aprilis Anno 16. by her Letters Patents, ex certa ſcientia, mero motu, & gratia noſtra ſpeciali, granted the ſaid Scite of the late Priory inter alia to Edward Grimſton the Father, and Edward his ſon and their heirs under this Proviſo. Proviſo ſemper quod ſi prædicta præmiſſa aut aliqua inde parcella, aut redditus aut proficua eorundem non ſunt nec fuerunt ante 10 diem Aprilis anno regni noſtri 14. à nobis nec à patre, fratre, nec ſorore noſtris concelat', ſubtracta, vel injuſtè detenta, & ſic concelat', ſubtract', vel injuſte detent' remanſerunt uſque prædictum 10 diem Aprilis anno 14. ſupradictо, quo die præd' Edwardus & Edwardus, &c. ſuis propriis ſumptibus & expenſis ad revelationem inde fieri procuraverant, quod tunc hæ literæ patentes quoad hujuſmodi parcellam ſic non concelatam, ſubtractam, vel injuſte detentam vacuæ erunt. And further found that the Queen never took any profit of the ſaid Scite, but the ſaid Church as aforeſaid. And if, &c. And it was objected that the ſaid Scite ſhould paſs by the Letters Patents, becauſe that although it ſhall be admitted that the Scite it ſelf could not be ſaid to be concealed in that caſe, and although that the ſaid Scite could not be ſaid ſubſtracted and unjuſtly detained from the Queen, and the words are in the disjunctive, aut redditus aut proficua eorundem, &c. Yet foraſmuch as the rents and profits were ſubſtracted and unjuſtly detained from the Queen, and the words are in the disjunctive, aut redditus aut proficua eorundem, &c. For this cauſe the ſaid Letters Patents were ſufficient to paſs the ſaid Scite. Alſo it was objected, That the ſaid Commiſſion under the Exchequer Seal, is not any ſuch authentical Record in Judgment of Law, to prove that the ſaid Scite was not concealed. But it was reſolved by the whole Court, That upon the ſaid ſpecial matter found, the ſaid Scite ſhould not paſs by the ſaid Letters Patents. And in this caſe ſix points were reſolved.

1. That when there is any Record by which the certainty of the Kings Lands (which is not in charge) ſo particularly appeareth, That the Kings officers may put it in charge (without any reſpect to the time of the ſaid Record, ſo that it be after the Kings title accrued) ſuch land can never be ſaid to be concealed. As if a man ſeiſed of the Mannor of D. in fee by Deed enrolled, granted the ſaid Mannor to King Hen. 8. his Heirs and Succeſſors, and the King or any of his Succeſſors after the ſaid grant have never taken any rent or profit thereof, yet this Mannor ſhall never be ſaid to be concealed. So in the Caſe at Bar, when the King demiſeth the ſaid Scite of the late Priory to the Suffragan of Dover for life, although that nothing be reſerved; this Scite ſhall never after be ſaid to be concealed: and ſo of the like.

2. It was reſolved, That in the Kings Caſe, although that one wrongfully taketh rents and profits of the lands, yet the ſaid rents and profits cannot be ſaid to be witholden or unjuſtly detained, for the King may charge him who taketh the rents or profits of his lands as Bailiff, to render account; for in the Kings Caſe the Law in ſuch caſe maketh a privity, and therewith agreeth 33 Hen. 6. 2 & 3. And when the Land it ſelf is not concealed, the ſaid words, aut redditus aut proficua eorundem, &c. concelata, ſubtracta, vel injuſte detenta, &c. will not paſs it, for the Kings intent was to paſs nothing but that which was concealed from him; For otherwiſe by pretence of the Patentee, if the Kings Leſſee hath detained his rent reſerved upon his Leaſe, it ſhould paſs by the ſaid words, which was abſolutely denied by all the Juſtices, for no ſuch conſtrained conſtruction ſhall be made in the Kings grant, to paſs his inheritance againſt the Kings intention, and upon the ſuggeſtion of the Patentee himſelf.

3. It was reſolved, as before in Shaues caſe, that in the ſame caſe land cannot be ſaid to be ſubſtracted or unjuſtly detained.

4. That the ſaid words ante decimum diem Aprilis anno 14. Eliz. ſhall be in conſtruction of Law taken for the whole time after the latter title of the Queen, untill that day, and not for a month, or a year, or two years, &c. upon which great uncertainty would follow; but all times after the Queens title until that day ſhall be taken, notwithſtanding the disjunctive words ſubſequent, à nobis, aut à ſorore, fratre, vel patre noſtris.

5. That the ſaid Commiſſion under the Exchequer Seal, and the return thereof was ſufficient to inſtruct the Kings officers to put the Scite in charge, and the ſame ſerveth for a ſufficient Record to that purpoſe; but an office found by force of a Commiſſion under the Exchequer Seal, was not ſufficient to entitle entitle the King, in caſe of Attainder of Felony, Mortmain, Ceſſavit, or the like. So note the difference betwixt an Office of Inſtruction and Intitling.

Laſtly, It was reſolved, That foraſmuch as the Queen was anſwered ſome part of the profits of the Scite, no part thereof can be ſaid to be concealed.

Mich. 10 Jacobi Regis.

Robert Pilfold's Caſe.

Robert Pilfold brought an Action of Treſpaſs in the Kings Bench, Trin. 7. Jac. Rot. 795. againſt Robert Dawkes quare clauſum & domum fregit, at Saint Olaves in Southwark, in the County of Surry, with a Continuando for a long time, to the dammages of the Plaintiff 40 l. The Defendant pleaded not guilty, &c. which was tried by Niſi prius for the Plaintiff, and dammages aſſeſſed occaſione tranſgreſſionis prædictæ to 49 l. and for coſts of ſuit 20 s. upon which Verdict the Plaintiff at the day in bank, being the day of the return of the Diſtringas remitted 9 l. parcel of the 49 l. aſſeſſed for dammages, and prayed Judgment of 40 l. (to which dammage he had declared) with encreaſe of coſts, and had 9 l. of encreaſe added by the Court, which in all did amount to 50 l. and had his Judgment accordingly. And thereupon Dawkes the Defendant brought a Writ of Error in the Exchequer Chamber; And in this caſe it was aſſigned for Error, that the dammages and coſts together did amount to more than the dammages alledged in the Declaration: And it was ſtrongly argued that it was Error, for miſa & cuſtagia are included in this word Dammages; and therefore where the Statute of 8 H. 6. giveth double dammages in a Writ of Entry, in an Action upon the Statute, or in Aſſize, there the coſts alſo ſhall be treble, and yet the Statute giveth only treble dammages; but treble coſts are included within this word Dammages. And therewith agreeth 14 Hen. 6. 13. 19 Hen. 6. 32. 22 Hen. 6. 57. 12 Ed. 4. 1. Fitz. 248. And in 4 & 5 Phil. & Mar. Dyer 159. b. Domingo Bilota brought an [116] Action upon the Caſe againſt one Pointel, becauſe he ſued him before the Admiral for a thing done upon the land, in which caſe the Statute of 2 Hen. 4. Cap. 1. giveth to the Plaintiff double dammages, without ſpeaking of any coſts, and yet there he recovered as well double coſts as double dammages. And in 18 Edw. 4. 23. The Jurors may aſſeſs the dammages and coſts entirely if they will, for dammages do include the whole, 42 Edw. 3. 7. That the Plaintiff ſhall not recover more dammages than he himſelf hath declared of; and therewith agreeth 2 H. 7. 7. 9 Eliz. Dyer. And in 13 Hen. 7. 16. 17. In Treſpaſs the Plaintiff declareth to his dammages of twenty Marks, and the Jury gave twenty two Marks for coſts and dammages. Brian, this is good for twenty Marks, but they ſhall not give coſts beyond the ſumm of dammages alledged in the Declaration; & alii concord; and that was ſaid, was a caſe in the point, for which cauſe it was concluded, that the Judgment in this caſe was erroneous. [b]

But at length it was reſolved by all the Judges of the Common Pleas, and Barons of the Exchequer, that the Judgment ſhould be affirmed. And I have thought it neceſſary to report at length the reaſons and cauſes of the Judgment. And therefore,

Firſt, At the Common Law before the Statute of Glouceſter (which was made 6 E. 1. Cap. 1.) A man ſhould not recover dammages in any real Action, as in Dower before the Statute of Merton, Cap. 1. nor in Aiel, Mordanceſter, &c. before the ſaid Statute of Glouceſter; but in Actions mixt, as in Aſſize, Entry in the nature of Aſſize, &c. or in perſonal Action, as Treſpaſs quare clauſum fregit, of taking away of goods, &c.

Secondly, That in all caſes where a man ſhall recover dammages, he ſhall recover coſts, which is meant of all caſes, where he ſhould recover dammages; either before the ſaid Act of 6 E. 1. or by the ſaid Act.

Thirdly, In all caſes where a man either before, or by the ſame Statute ſhall not recover dammages, either ſingle, or double, or treble, &c. There the Plaintiff ſhall not recover coſts, for this Act is an Act of Creation, which createth and giveth recompence to the Plaintiff; where in the ſame caſe no recompence was given before.

Fourthly, But otherwiſe it is of an Act of Addition, ſc. which addeth greater recompence and ſatisfaction than was given before ſuch Act; but if the Act doth encreaſe the dammages, there the Plaintiff ſhall recover his dammages encreaſed by the Statute, and alſo coſts. And therefore in a Quare impedit dammages are given to the Plaintiff by the Statute of Weſt. 2. made in 13 E. 1. cap. 5. but no coſts ſhall be there recovered, becauſe the ſame is an act of Creation, which newly gave recompence to the Plaintiff, where none was recoverable before. And therewith agreeth 27 H. 6. 10. 2 Hen. 4. 17. 9 Hen. 6. 66. But in an Action upon the Statute of 2 Hen. 4. againſt him who ſueth in the Admiralty for a thing done upon the land, the ſame is an Act of Addition, for dammages and coſts were in ſuch caſe recoverable at the Common Law: See for that, 8 Ed. 4. 13, & 14. and the Statute encreaſeth the dammages to double, and yet he ſhall recover coſts alſo, for the Statute encreaſing the dammages, doth not take away the coſts. So afterwards at the ſame Parliament at Glouceſter Anno 6 Ed. 1. cap. 5. An action of Waſt is given, where there was but a prohibition againſt Tenant in Dower, &c. at the Common Law, and no dammages ſhall be recovered in it, but for Waſt done after the prohibition delivered. And againſt Tenant for life, or years, no prohibition lay; and therefore [b]

the Statute of Ed. 1. c. 5. which giveth treble dammages for waſt done before the Writ brought, and the place waſted, is a Law of Creation, and which giveth remedy where none was before, and therefore there no coſts ſhall be recovered. And therewith agreeth 2 H. 4. 17. 9 Hen. 6. 66. b. & 19 H. 6. 32. And therefore the Books in 5 Hen. 5. 13. & 5 Edw. 4. 7. are ill reported. But in a Raviſhment of Ward, which is a Law of Addition, ſc. which addeth the recovery of the Ward himſelf, or the value of him: Yet dammages and coſts ſhall be alſo recovered, becauſe an action lay at the Common Law for Raviſhment of a Ward, in which the Plaintiff ſhould recover his dammages and coſts. And therewith agreeth 27 H. 6. 10. So in an action for forcible entry into Lands upon the Statute of 8 Hen. 6. or in an Aſſiſe for a diſſeiſin done with force, there the Plaintiff ſhall recover treble dammages and coſts alſo, becauſe that at the Common Law the Plaintiff ſhould recover treble dammages and coſts alſo in both the caſes, for this Statute is but an act of Addition; and therewith agreeth 14 Hen. 6. 13. 19 Hen. 6. 32. 22 Hen. 6. 57. 12 Edw. 4. 1. F. N. B. 248. But in a Decies tantum, which is a Law of Creation, there the Plaintiff ſhall recover the penalty given by the Statute, and no more: for the ſame is a Law of Creation, 2 Hen. 4. 17. So upon the Statute of 5 Edw. 6. of Ingroſſers, the Plaintiff ſhall not recover coſts, but only the penalty given by the Statute, becauſe that the Plaintiff had not any remedy at the Common Law, 35 Hen. 8. br. Dammages 200.

Fifthly, It is to know, that this word (Damna) is taken in the Law in two ſeveral ſignifications, the one properly and generally, the other relativè & ſtrictè; properly, as in the Caſes which have been put upon the Statute of 2 Hen. 5. and 8 Hen. 6. where coſts are included within that word: for damnum in his proper and general ſignification dicitur à demendo, cum diminutione res deterior fit, and in this ſenſe coſts of ſuit are dammages to the Plaintiff: for by them res ſua diminuitur. But when the Plaintiff ſheweth the wrong done to him to the dammages of ſuch a ſum, the ſame is to be taken relative for the wrong which is paſt before the Writ brought, and are aſſeſſed occaſione tranſgreſſionis prædictæ, and cannot extend to coſts of ſuit, which are future, and of annother nature, ſc. to legal expences, and whereof no certainty then can be known. So theſe are two diſtinct things, ſc. damna pro injuria illata, and expenſæ litis; and therefore in the ſaid Acts of Parliament of 2 H. 4. and 8 H. 6. they are taken in their proper and general ſignification, and in favour of the Plaintiff who always when he recovereth he is favoured in Law. But in the caſe at Bar, it is taken in his relative ſignification, regarding the wrong which is paſt; and ſo they are expreſly aſſeſſed by the Jury, and that alſo in the Plaintiffs favour: And the difference was well obſerved betwixt perſonal actions, and real actions in which dammages are to be recovered. For in perſonal actions, they ſhall declare to dammages, becauſe they ſhall recover dammages only for the wrong done before the Writ brought; but in real actions the demandant ſhall never count to dammages, becauſe he is to recover dammages pendant the Writ: and therefore it is holden in 33 H. 6. 47. a. In a Writ of Entry Sur diſſeiſin, or in nature of an Aſſize, where the party ſhall recover dammages, and a Writ is awarded to enquire of the dammages, that the Plaintiff ſhall recover dammages from the time of the diſſeiſin until the time of the warding of the Writ of enquiry of dammages, and not after, notwithſtanding that the Writ of Enquiry was not ſerved after ſeven years paſt, and iſſue be joyned triable by Verdict, he ſhall recover dammages, but from the time of the diſſeiſin until the time of the Verdict: But in a Præcipe quod reddat, of a rent of the poſſeſſion of the demandant himſelf, he ſhall recover the arrearages behind, as well hanging the Writ as before: and therewith agreeth 7 Edw. 4. 51. b. 13 Aſſi. p. 2. 17 Aſſi. p. 10. 29 Aſſi. p. 59. 31 Aſſi. p. 33. 36 Aſſi. p. 2. 40 Edw. 3. 24. 7 Hen. 4. 16. 16 Hen. 7. 5. a. 6. a. And as in real actions the demandant ſhall not count to dammages, becauſe it is incertain to what the dammage ſhall amount, becauſe he ſhall recover thoſe hanging the Writ; ſo in the caſe of coſts they ſhall be recovered for the expences hanging the Writ, which being uncertain, cannot be comprehended in the count, becauſe the count doth entend to dammages paſt, and not to expences of ſuit. And coſts are not always included in this word Dammage; For if Treſpaſs be brought againſt two Defendants, and the one is found guilty by himſelf, and the other by himſelf, and dammages are ſeverally aſſeſſed, yet the coſts ſhall be joyntly taxed. And therewith agreeth 36 Hen. 6. 13. and 12 Ed. 4. 1. And the Books in 42 Ed. 3. and 2 H. 7. were agreed to be good Law, ſc. that the Plantiff ſhall never recover more dammages, than he hath declared of, ſc. dammages for the wrong done; but Expenſa litis may be added to it; and therefore 34 Edw. 3. Dammages 7. was denied to be Law, ſc. That in Waſt the Plaintiff declared to dammage of 10 l. and the Jury found dammages to 20 l. and the ſame was trebled; and the reaſon there given is, becauſe that the Statute of Glouceſter enacteth, that the Defendant make agreement of the treble of that the Waſt is taxed at; but the Statute is to be intended of dammages lawfully taxed. And ſo it was holden by the Lord Dyer Trin. 10. Eliz. in an action of Waſt brought by the Lord Abergaveny, that the Jury cannot value the waſt more than the Plaintiff hath declared of in his declaration. And therewith agreeth Hill. 3. Ed. 4. Rot. 137. And yet in ſome caſes the Plaintiff ſhall recover more dammages than he himſelf counted of.

And as to the caſe of 13 Hen. 7. 16, & 17. which cauſe hath been cited out of Brooks Abridgment, the Book at large was confeſſed to be good Law, For the caſe, as it is there reported is ſuch; In an action of Treſpaſs brought by Dorrel, he declared to his dammages of 20 Marks, the Defendant pleaded not guilty: And they taxed the dammages and coſts of his ſuit joyntly to 22 Marks, which is the principal caſe word by word, which is clear that the Verdict cannot ſtand; for it doth not appear how much is for dammages, and how much for coſts; and then it may be they have given greater dammages then the Plaintiff hath declared of, ſo that the Verdict is incertain; and therefore Brian ſath well: that in ſuch caſe the Plaintiff can have Judgment but of 20 Marks.

Then all which followeth is but the Collection of the Reporter: ſo that according to his opinion, and of the other, the Jury cannot give coſts beyond the ſum of the dammages which the Plaintiff hath hath counted of: which Collection is not warranted by the opinion of Brian: for in as much as the damages and costs were jointly taxed, the Plaintiff could not have Judgment but of 20. Marks for the incertainty, although that costs might be given beyond the damages in the Declaration. And therefore Abridgments are of good and necessary use to serve as Tables to find the Cases in the Books at large, or Records: and not to ground any opinion upon Abridgments. For example, the case in 45 Edw. 3. 19, 20. where the Case was, That Lands were given to I. de C. with Johan the sister of the donor, Habendum eis & hæredibus suis imperpetuum. And Fitz. in abridging of the Case, title Tail 14. saith, That the gift was adjudged fee simple, and not frankmarriage. And Statham in abridging the Case title Tail, saith, That it was an estate in frankmarriage. And Brook title Frankmarriage 1. saith, Quære, quia non adjudicatur; ideo tutius est petere fontes quam sectari rivulos. Note Reader, the principal case was adjudged by the Court of Kings Bench. And afterwards that Judgment was affirmed by all the Judges of the Common Pleas, and Barons of the Exchequer, and the Record was sent back into the Kings Bench according to the Statute. [118]

Mich. 10 Jacobi Regis.

Cheyney's Case.

THis Term Serjeant Nichols moved this Case: Cheney brought a Writ de valore maritagii, and issue was taken upon the tenure; and before the Justices of Nisi Prius in the County of York it was found for the Plaintiff, and the Jury did assess 40 s. Damages, and 10 s. Costs, and did not enquire of the value of the marriage, as they ought to have done; and he moved, that the Plaintiff might have a Writ to enquire of the value, and to supply the defect of the Verdict; and he cited two Presidents, one, Pasc. 3 Jac. Rot. 745. in a Ravishment of Ward brought by the Lord Barkley against Hill, the Defendant pleaded Not guilty, and the Jury found him guilty, and that the heir was within age, and married, &c. and assessed damages and costs, and found not the value of the marriage, and a Writ to enquire of the value issued forth. And the like Writ was awarded Trin. 38 Eliz. Rot. 1703. And in 4 & 5 Mar. Dyer 135. a Quare Impedit brought by Poyner, the Jury was not charged to enquire of four Points, Sc. De plenitudine, Ex cujus Præsentatione, Si tempus semestre transierit, and the value of the Church per annum; there the Plaintff may have a Writ to enquire of these points. Vide 8 Eliz. Dyer 241. 9 Eliz. Dyer 260. [b]

And the Case was oftentimes debated, and at last it was Resolved, That the Verdict was insufficient: For the Chief Justice said, That in a Writ de Valore Maritagii, three things are to be recovered, s. The value of the Marriage, Damages, and Costs, quod fuit concessum per totam Curiam. [119]

2. It was Resolved, That the issue be in this case of Valore Maritagii upon the tenure, yet as upon a consequent or dependant upon the issue, the Jury are, as parcel of their charge, if they finde for the plaintiff, to enquire of the value of the Marriage, Damages and Costs; and if the Jury do tax an excessive value, or excessive damages, an attaint lieth thereof. And thereof in Assise, if the issue be joyned upon a Release, and a mediate ouster confessed, there if the issue be found for the plaintiff, yet as parcel of their charge, the Recognitors of the Assise shall enquire of the seisin and disseisin, for that is the point of the Writ, and thereupon an Attaint lieth. And therewith agreeth 11 H. 4. 27. 34 H. 6. 32 b. 16 Ass. p. 1. 16 E. 3. Attaint 41. Vide 32 E. 3. Cessavit 25. 33 H. 6. 25. And in Trespass against two, one appeareth, and pleadeth Not guilty; in this case this first Enquest shall assesse the damages for the whole Trespass by both defendants; and afterwards the other appeareth, and pleadeth Not guilty, and is found guilty, the finding of the damages by the first Enquest to which he was not party, shall binde him; and therefore if they be outragious or excessive, the defendant in the last Enquest shall have an Attaint. And therewith agreeth 44 E. 3. 7. and F. N. B. 107. E. So in trespass Quare clausum fregit, if the issue be joyned upon a feoffment, and the Jury giveth outragious damages, an Attaint lieth for the enquiry of the damages, as a consequent upon the issue, and parcel of their charge. So in the Case at Bar, If the Jury had found outragious damages or value, an Attaint had lien.

3. It was Resolved, That the omission in the Verdict shall not be supplied by a Writ of Enquiry of Damages, for that shall prevent the plaintiff of his Attaint, which shall be mischievous, for then such omission might be of purpose to deprive the plaintiff of his Attaint. But the Rule is, That when the Court ex officio ought to enquire of any thing upon which no Attaint lieth, there the omission of it may be supplied by a Writ of Enquiry of Damages (as in the said case of Quare Impedit, to enquire of the four points, for of them no attaint lieth, as it is holden in 11 H. 4. 8. because as to them the Enquest is but of Office) but in all cases when any point is omitted whereof Attaint lieth, there it shall not be supplied by a Writ of Enquiry of Damages, upon which an Attaint lieth; And therefore the Presidents which have been cited, and all other which are against these Rules, passed sub silentio, without the advice of the Court, and against the Rule of Law. And therefore in Detinue, if the Jury finde Damages and Costs, and no value, as they ought, it shall not be supplied by a Writ of Enquiry of Damages for the reason aforesaid; And therefore by the Rule of the Court a new Venire facias was awarded. Mich. 10 Jacobi, which began Trin. 10 Jac. Rot. 2413. In the Common Pleas.

The Case of the Mayor and Burgesses of Lyn-Regis, concerning Misnaming of Corporations.

[123] THE Mayor and Burgesses of Lyn Regis in the County of Norfolk, brought an Action of Debt against John Pain Gent. Executor of John Pain Esq; upon an Obligation made by the Testator to the Plaintiffs, 27 Jan. 6 Jac. Reg. in 3000 l. The Defendant pleaded not the Testators deed; and the Jury gave a special Verdict: That King H. 8. 7 Junii in the 29th of his Reign, by his Letters Patents under the Great Seal, reciting, That the same King by his Letters Patents 27 Junii, anno 16. had granted to the Mayor and Burgesses and Inhabitants burgi sui de Lyn Episcopi in comitatu suo Norfolc'. quod ipsi imperpetuum essent unum corpus corporatum, & una communitas perpetua in re & nomine, & quod habeant successionem perpetuam, ac nomen Majoris & Burgensium burgi prædicti Lyn Episcopi in comitatu Norfolc. haberent & gererent, & per idem nomen essent personæ habiles & capaces in lege, &c. And by the same Letters Patents, reciting that what by Act of Parliament, 4 Feb. 27 H. 8. it was enacted, That the said King his heirs and successors Kings of England, should have the Mannors of Lyn Episcopi, and Gaiwood, inter alia, the said King by the said Letters Patents did declare, Quod eadem villa de Lyn Episcopi de cætero vocaretur & nominaretur Lyn Regis, vulgariter nuncupat. Kings Lyn, & non per aliud nomen: And granted to the said Mayor, Burgesses and Inhabitants burgi sui prædicti quod ipsi imperpetuum nomen Majoris & Burgensium burgi sui de Lyn Regis vulgariter nuncupat. Kings Lyn, in Comitatu suo Norf. haberent & gererent, & per idem nomen vocarentur & nominarentur & non per aliud nomen, & quod per idem nomen essent personæ habiles, &c. And the Jury further found, That 27 Jan. anno 6 Jac. Regis, the said John Pain the Testator in vita sua prædictum scriptum obligatorium fecit, sigillavit, & ut factum suum deliberavit præfat. Majori & Burgensibus burgi domini Regis de Lyn Regis, vulgariter nuncupat. Kings Lyn in Comitatu suo Norf. per nomen Majoris & Burgensium de Lyn Regis in comitatu Norf. sed utrum super tota materia, &c. prædictum scriptum obligatorium in narratione specificat. sit factum prædicti Johannis Pain testatoris necne, iidem Juratores ignorant & inde petunt advisamentum Justiciarorum & Curiæ, &c. And this Case was oftentimes argued at the Bar.

And it was Objected on the Defendants part, That the said Obligation did vary from the true and right name of the Corporation, and by consequence was not the Testators deed; and the material variances were, because they were incorporated by the Name of Majoris & Burgensium burgi domini Regis de Lynn Regis, &c. and the Obligation was made by them by the Name of Majoris & Burgensium de Lynn Regis, omitting after the word Burgensium, two words, sc. Burgi Regis, which are parcel of the Name of the Coporation. And it was observed by them, First, that the Name of the Corporation is like to the proper Name, or the Name of Baptism. 2. After that the King hath given to them their Name, then it is added, Et quod per idem nomen vocarentur, &c. 3. Negative words are added to the affirmative words, sc. Et non per aliud nomen: but the Obligation doth vary from the proper Name of the Incorporation, and is not made by the same Name, but by another Name, directly against the letter and intent of the Kings Charter. And it was strongly urged, That the place of the Incorporation is of the essence of the Corporation; for without a place, no [b] Corporation can be founded, and the place is the principal part by which the Corporation may be known and distinguished from others. And therefore it may be fitly resembled to the visage of a man, which is the principal part by which he is known and discerned. And therefore a Case was cited Mich. 29 & 30 Eliz. in the Exchequer Chamber, in which Mariet was Plaintiff against Paschall and others Defendants, of a demise made by Thomas Fanshaw Esq; the Queens Remembrancer of the Court of Exchequer, of certain lands in Denge in the County of Essex, &c. and upon Not guilty pleaded, the Jury gave a special Verdict to this effect: The Master and Chaplains of the Savoy were incorporated by the Name Magistri & Capellanorum Hospitalis Henrici nuper Regis Angliæ septimi de Savoy, by force of certain Letters Patents made to them 4 H. 8. And the Master and Chaplains of the said Hospital being seised in fee of the Mannor of Denge in the County of Essex, whereof the lands in which were parcel, anno 26 E. 6. by deed indented demised the said Mannor to John Paschall for 99 years, per nomen Magistri Hospitalis Henrici Regis Angliæ septimi vocat. the Savoy, & Capellanorum ejusdem Hospitalis. And if this lease were made according to the true Name of their Incorporation, was the Question. And it was adjudged in the Exchequer that the lease was void, because they had mistaken their Name of Incorporation in the most material part of it, sc. in the place; for the true Name is, Hospitalis, &c. de Savoy, and in the demise it is Hospitalis, &c. vocat. de Savoy; and the material variance in respect that (de) signifieth the place it self, and vocat. signifieth a Name which might be applied to another place; as Prior & confratres Hospitalis Sancti Johannis de Jerusalem in Anglia, and many other cases, as of Mount Carmel, Bethlehem, and others, which in truth are in the Land of Canaan, and yet are applied to certain places in England: all which you may see cited before in the Case of the Hospital of the Charter house, and therefore I omit them here. And it was said, That upon the said Judgment, a Writ of Error was brought brought in the Exchequer Chamber, where the case was often argued again at the Bar, and yet the said Judgment was never reversed. So in the Case at Bar, forasmuch as this word (Burgi) is omitted, which is the place of the Incorporation, the same is such a material variance, that the obligation is void: And although it is said, de Lynn Regis; yet it is well proved that the same is a Town, but by that it doth not appear that it is a Burough, for every Burough is a Town, but every Town is not a Burough. And therefore Litt. lib. 2. cap. 10. of Burgage saith, It is to know, That the ancient Buroughs are the most ancient Towns that are within England: For those Towns which are now Cities, or Counties, in ancient times were Buroughs, and called Buroughs, and from [124] such ancient Towns called Buroughs come the Burgesses to the Parliament, when the King hath summoned his Parliament. Item, for the greater part such Buroughs have divers Customs and Usages which other Towns have not, &c. By which there appeareth a manifest difference in Judgment of Law betwixt a Burough and a Town. And the opinion of Cavendish Chief Justice in 40 Ass. p. 27. was cited, where he holdeth that all the ancient Buroughs are of Record in the Exchequer. And with Littleton agreeth, 41 Edw. 3. 32. a. 21 Edw. 4. 53, & 54. 21 Hen. 7. 5. by Frowick, &c.

Another variance was observed, That this word (Regis) was omitted, for the true name of the Corporation is burgi sui de Lynn, i. Regis de Lynn: and in the Obligation not only Burgi is left out, but Regis also; which (as it was urged) was also a material variance, for Regis ought to be twice added, sc. Burgi Regis de Lynn Regis: And therefore the Case of Eaton Colledge, Trin. 3. & 4. Phil. and Mary. Dyer 150. was cited. Where it appeareth that King Hen. 6. did incorporate the said Colledge per nomen præpositi & sociorum Collegii beatæ Mariæ de Eaton juxta Windsor, and in the time of E. 6. Sir Tho. Smith Knight, being Provost there, a lease was made per nomen præpositi & sociorum Collegii regalis de Eaton juxta Windsor, omitting Collegium in the first place, and yet in the second place Collegii Regalis was added. And by the opinion of all the Justices it was a void lease. And so it was adjudged Mich. 10 & 11 Eliz. So in the Case at Bar, the leaving out of the word Regis in the first place, although the same be observed in the second place, maketh a material variance. Many other Cases were put upon the general ground of misnaming of Corporations, which I purposely omit, because that these cases which are here mentioned, were the most material, and all the other shall be generally cited with reference to the Books at large in the the end of this case.

But the Court held the Obligation good, and that the Plaintiff ought to have Judgment for to recover. In which Case two points were resolved.

1. As to these words per idem nomen, & non per aliud: that this word (Idem) hath two significations, sc. idem syllabis seu verbis, and idem re & sensu, and it needeth not that the name of the Corporation be in grants or Conveyances, idem syllabis seu verbis, but it sufficeth if it be idem re & sensu. And according to these significations divers Cases have been resolved and adjudged. Mich. 10 & [b] 11. Eliz. Dyer 278. The Dean and Chapter of Carlile were incorporated Anno 33 Hen. 8. by the name of Decanus & Capitul. Ecclesiæ Cathedralis Sanctæ & individuæ Trinitatis Carlienſis, and they make a Lease by the name Decanus Ecclesiæ Cathedralis Sanctæ Trinitatis in Carlile, & tot' Capitulum Ecclesiæ præd'; which Lease is not made by the same name, which is idem syllabis & verbis: for first this word (Individuæ) is omitted. 2. In Carlile, where the name is Carlienſis, sc. of Carlile. 3. This word (Totum) is added. 4. The order of the words is not kept, for the true name of the Corporation is Decanus & Capitul. Ecclesiæ Cathedralis Sanctæ & individuæ Trinitatis Carlienſis, and the Lease is, Decanus Ecclesiæ Cathedralis, &c. & totum capit. de Ecclesia præd'. But notwithstanding these, It was resolved by Dyer, Weston, Welsh, Southcot, Carew and Harpur, that the Lease was good notwithstanding these variances, and the reason is there given, because that these variances are not in the substance of the name.

In Mich. 29 & 30 Eliz. Between Hall and Wingat in an Ejectione firmæ in the Kings Bench, The case was, That the Dean and Canons of Windsor were incorporated by Act of Parliament in 22 Edw. 4. by this name: The Dean and Canons of the Kings free Chappel of Saint George the Martyr within his Castle of Windsor. And in the time of the reign of King Philip and Queen Mary, they make a lease of certain Lands by this name, The Dean and Canons of the King and Queens free Chappel of Saint George within the Castle of Windsor: and in this case three variances were observed. 1. Where the name was by the Act of 22 Edw. 4. The Dean and Canons of the Kings free Chappel: the Lease was made by the Dean and Canons of the King and Queens free Chappel, &c. 2. Where the Corporation was, Saint George the Martyr, the Lease was, of Saint George, leaving out, the Martyr. The 3. was, within his Castle, sc. within the Kings Castle of Windsor. And it was adjudged that in this case any of them was a variance in substance, sc. of the King and Queens Chappel, for the true name of the Corporation by the Act of 22 Edw. 4. was of the Kings free Chappel: and although that at the time of the making of the Lease in truth the Chappel was the King and Queens free Chappel, yet the Corporation ought to be such as was given by the founder, and shall not be altered by the alteration of the name of the founder, or of the owner of the Castle. For if a Colledge be incorporated in the time of King E. 6. by the name of Master and Fellows of Kings Colledge, if they make a lease in the reign of Q. Eliz. they cannot make a lease by the name Master and Fellows of Queen Colledge: But for the other two variances the Court Resolved, that they were variances in syllables and words and not in substance, & parum differunt quæ re concordant, for St. George, includes the Martyr, as the [125] Trinity implyeth and includeth this adjective individuæ; and within his Castle of Windsor, and within the Castle of Windsor, is all one in substance and effect.

In which Case, the Chief Justice was of Counsel with Wingat, and in another also in which Wingat was Plaintiff, and Judgment was given for him in both cases, Hill. 3 Eliz. in the Kings Bench. Betwixt Henry Fisher in an Ejectione firmæ, and William Bois Defendant, of certain Lands in Ellam in Kent the Case was; By Act of Parliament Anno 1 Ma. A Colledge in Oxford was incorporated by the name Gardiani & Scholarium domus sive Collegii Scholarium de Merton in Universitate Oxoniæ, and they make a Lease of the said Lands per nomen custodis domus sive collegii de Merton in Oxonia & Scholar' ejusdem domus. And in this case four variances were observed. 1. For this word, Gardianus Custos. 2. Where the true name of the Colledge was per nomen domus sive collegii scholarium de Merton; the Lease was per nomen domus sive collegii de Merton, omitting Scholarium. 3. For in Universitate Oxoniæ, the lease was in Oxonia. 4. Scholars were misplaced, for they came in the end, whereas in the Act they are named immediately after the Gardian. And it was adjudged, that for the second variance, it was a variance in substance; for the Act hath baptized the Colledge by the name of Colledge of Scholers of Merton; and they make a Lease by the name of the Colledge of Merton himself, who in truth was the founder: but for Gardianus, it is Custos, and for the University of Oxford, and Oxford, they are all one in effect and substance; and therefore no material variances. And for the misplacing of the said words, it is not material dummodo proprius sensus remanet. And the Chief Justice was of Counsel with the Colledge against the said Lease. So in the case at Bar, the said variance are only in syllabis & verbis, and not in sensu & re ipsa, and therefore are not material: for per idem nomen, shall be intended idem sensu & re, and not per aliud, that is, aliud sensu & re. And it is to know, that in the Case at Bar these words Burgenses de Linne Regis, imply that Linne Regis is Burgus; for Burgus and Burgenses sunt conjugata. And as Littleton above saith that from Boroughs come the Burgesses, &c. And Linne Regis, imply also, that the same is Burgus suus, that is Regis. And these words vulgariter nuncupat' Kings Linne, are included within these words, Linne Regis; so that the name in the Obligation by matter apparent therein doth carry a sufficient certainty of demonstration of the true name of the Incorporation.

[b] 5. Edw. 4. 20. The Abbot of York was incorporated by the name Abbas Monasterii beatæ Mariæ Eborum, and an Obligation was made to the Abbot by this name Abbati Monasterii beatæ Mariæ extra muros civitatis Eborum, and although that the Abby was extra muros civitatis Ebor'; yet because in truth it was within York, the Obligation was good. And therefore the Abbot there brought his Action of debt by his true name; and in his Declaration he said that the Obligation was made to the Plaintiff, by the name, &c. which implyeth an averment that the Abby was within York; and the Writ was ruled a good Writ by the opinion of the whole Court; and yet there was more variance in syllabis & verbis, then in the case at Bar, but because that in truth and substance, as it appeareth by the averment, all was one in effect, the Obligation made to them was good, and yet the name in the Obligation doth not import of it self the true name of the Corporation without averment. And therefore in pleading, or in a special case, in many cases, if by expres averment, or by the finding of the Jury it shall be made apparent to the Court, that the true name of the Incorporation, and the name in the Lease, grant, &c. are all one in effect, it will much enforce the matter, although that in words there are some substance of difference. And therefore it was well found in the special Verdict in the case at Bar, That the said John Payn the Testator, prædictum scriptum obligatorium fecit, sigillavit, & ut factum suum deliberavit præfatis Majori & Burgensibus burgi domini Regis de Linne Regis vulgariter nuncupat' Kings Linne in commitatu suo Norf. (which is the name of the Corporation without any manner of variance) per nomen Majoris & Burgensium de Linne Regis in comitatu Norf. which importeth all averments requisite by the Law in this case.

And it is well observed in Sir Moile Finches case in the sixth part of my Reports, that till this generation of late years it was never read in our Books, That any body politick or corporate did endeavour or attempt by any suit to avoid any of their leases, grants, conveyances, or other of their own deeds, nor of any other grants, &c. made to them by the misnaming of their true name of Incorporation. But after that a window was opened to give them light to avoid their own grants by the misnaming of themselves, what suits and troubles (to avoid grants, &c. as well made to them as by them) have followed thereupon every one knoweth. But there it was said, That for every curious or nice misnosmer God forbid, that their leases or grants, &c. shall be defeated, for there will be [126] a found difference betwixt Writs and Grants, and in all cases it is true, quod apices Juris non sunt Jura: For if a Writ abateth, one may of common right have a new Writ, but one of common right cannot have a new Obligation, or a new Lease, or Grant, &c. And I well approve of the Book in 25 Edw. 3. 4. 8. Where the case was, That a Præc' quod redd' was brought against the Prior of Worcester, and demanded a Manor, and the Writ was Præcipe Priori Wigorniæ, &c. The Tenant said, that in Worcester there were two Priories, s. the Priory of Fryers Preachers, and the Priory of our Lady; and the Writ was abated: So I conceive it shall be reason a multo fortiori to drive him who would avoid a writing, demise, grant, &c. made by a Corporation, or to it, by reason of any verbal or literal misnosmer, to shew that there are two Corporations within the same City, Borough, or Town, &c. s. one by the true name, and another by such name as is contained in the Deed, &c. and so leave the Deed, &c. good for or to one of them. But when in truth there is but one Corporation, Leases, Grants, &c. made by them, or to them, ought not to be avoided by such nice and verbal variances, when in substance the true name of the Incorporation, either by matter expressed or necessarily implyed within the words themselves appeareth to the Court.

And as to the said case of the Hospital of the Savoy, It is true that Judgment was given in the Exchequer by Baron Clark and Baron Gent'. against the opinion of Sir Roger Manwood Chief Baron totis viribus. And after the Writ of Error brought, the case was argued at the Bar; and the said Thomas Fanshaw compounded with Paschall for his lease, and I was of Counsel with the said Thomas Fanshaw: And I conceive that there is little difference betwixt the Major and Commonalty of the City of London, and the Major and the Commonalty of the City called London, if it cannot be shewed that there are two distinct Corporations which have two distinct names. Also, there is a difference betwixt ancient Corporations, and Corporations made of late times; for ancient Corporations may by by uſage have divers and ſeveral names, and Leaſes, Grants, &c. by any of them ſhall be good enough. And theſe, and divers other differences you ſhall find in your Books following, ſc. See the Caſe of the Dean and Chapter of Norwich, in the third Part of my Reports. 73. &c. *Plo. William Clun's Caſe.

WIlliam Clun Executor of Ann Breather was Plaintiff againſt Henry Archer Defendant, and demanded 9 l. debt. And declared that the ſaid Ann Breather 26 Novemb. 3 Jacobi Regis by Indenture of the ſame date did demiſe to the ſaid Henry two Mills, one Garden, and divers lands in Coperſale in Eſſex from the feaſt of Saint Michael the Arch-Angel then laſt paſt for 50 years, if the ſaid Ann ſhould ſo long live. Reddendo & ſolvendo pro omnibus præd' præmiſſis præfat' Ann Breather executor' & aſſignatis ſuis annuatim pro quolibet anno durante continuatione dimiſſionis prædict' ad domum manſionalem Johannis Archer in Witham prædict' plenariam ſummam triginț' & ſex librarum bonæ & legalis monetæ Angliæ ad quatuor feſta ſive terminos in anno uſualia, viz. feſta nativitatis domini Jeſu Chriſti, Annunciationis beatæ Mariæ virginis, nativitatis ſancti Johannis Baptiſtæ, & ſancti Mich. Arch-Angeli, vel infra treſdecem ſeptimanas proxim' poſt quemlibet præd' dierum feſtival' per equas & equales portion'. By force of which the ſaid Henry Archer entred into the ſaid tenements, and had and held them uſque ad & poſt feſt' Annuntiationis beatæ Mariæ virginis, anno regni regis nunc 9. ſc. uſque 2. diem Aprilis anno 9. ſupradicto, quo quidem 2. die Aprilis præd' Anna apud Cooperſale prædict' obiit, and for 9 l. for the quarter due at the feaſt of the Annuntiation Anno 9. ſupradicto, he brought that action, upon which declaration the Defendant did demur in Law; And this Caſe was often argued at Bar: At this Term it was argued by the Juſtices Houghton, Dodderidge, Crook, and the Chief Juſtice: And it was reſolved, that the action of Debt was not maintainable: and becauſe that duo ſunt inſtrumenta ad omnes res confirmandas & impugnand', ratio & authoritas. Firſt I will Report the Reaſons of this Reſolution, and then divers Authorities in the point. And there were three reaſons ſhewed in this Reſolution. [127] [b]

1. Becauſe the disjunctive is added for the benefit of the leſſee, and it is more benefit to have the laſt day, in which caſe there are two days of payment, one voluntary, and that at the election and liberty of the leſſee to pay the ſame at the days of the ſaid Feaſts; the other day of payment is at the end of the thirteen weeks, and that is the extreme and legal time. And therefore foraſmuch as Ann Breather dieth before the extreme and legal time, the leſſee is diſcharged of the rent by the Act of God for the ſame quarter. See Hill and Granges caſe. Plo. Com. 172, 173. the moſt extreme time is the legal time. And it is to know, that in the caſe of payment of Rent going out of the land, there are four times of payment. The firſt time of payment voluntary and not ſatisfactory, and yet good to ſome ſpecial purpoſe.

The ſecond, voluntary, and in caſe ſatisfactory, and in caſe not.

The third, legal and ſatisfactory, abſolutely and not coercive.

The fourth, legal, ſatisfactory, and coercive.

As to the firſt, if the leſſee, donee, or tenant payeth his rent before the day, the ſame is voluntary and not ſatisfactory, for the cauſe rendred in the third Reaſon. But if it be paid in the name of ſeiſin of rent, although it doth not enure by way of ſatisfaction: yet it ſhall give a ſufficient ſeiſin to this purpoſe to have his Aſſiſe, or other remedy; for the law hath a delight in giving of remedy. And therewith agreeth Lit. cap. Attornment 127. b. Vide 45 Edw. 3. 44. b. 49 E. 3. 15. 15 Edw. 3. Execution 63. 37 Hen. 6. 33. 39 Hen. 6. 36. 5. Edw. 4. 2.

As to the ſecond, if the rent be payable at the feaſt of Eaſter, if the Tenant pay the rent in the morning, and the leſſor dieth at two before evening of the ſame day: this payment was voluntary, and yet it is a good ſatisfaction againſt the heir; but not againſt the King, 44 Edw. 3. 3.

As to the third, the legal time is a convenient time before the laſt inſtant of the day, which is the moſt extreme time, and is ſatisfactory and not coercive; for till the end of the day no remedy is given by the Law, 21 Hen. 6. 40.

As to the fourth, the ſame is when the rent is due and behind; and therefore it is well ſaid by the Poet, Judicis officium eſt ut res, ita tempora rerum Quærere, quæſito tempore tutus eris.

The ſecond reaſon was, when the Leſſee doth not make payment the firſt day according to his election, then the rent is abſolutly due at the ſecond day, and the ſecond day is as well parcel of the reſervation as the firſt day. And therefore after the non-payment at the firſt, it is now upon the matter [128]

as much in Law, as if it had been reſerved at the ſecond day only, for then his election is paſt, as in 17 Eliz. 344. If a man by deed granteth a Rent charge to one and his heirs, and doth not ſay, for him and his heirs, and dieth, now the time of election to make it an Annuity is paſt: and therefore if the grantee bringeth a Writ of Annuity againſt the heir, it ſhall not diſcharge the Land, becauſe that when no Election doth remain, it is as much in Law, as if Election had never been. And therefore upon the Books in 43 Ed. 3. Bar. 194. 44 Ed. 3. 32. 15 Ed. 3. Execut. 63. 5 Ed. 2. 2. This caſe was put, if one on the firſt of October maketh a leaſe for years, or for life, or a gift in tail, yeilding by the year a pair of guilt Spurs at the feaſt of Eaſter, or twenty ſhillings at the Feaſt of Saint Michael the Arch-Angel: In this caſe if the leſſee doth not pay the Spurs at the Feaſt of Eaſter, nothing is due till the Feaſt of Saint Michael.

The third reaſon was, becauſe that the rent reſerved is to be raiſed of the profits of the lands, and is not due until the profits are taken by the leſſee: for theſe words Reddendo inde, is as much as to ſay, that the leſſee ſhall pay ſo much of the iſſues and profits at ſuch days to the Leſſor, for reddere inde nihil aliud eſt quam acceptum reſtituere, ſeu reddere eſt quaſi retro dare, and Redditus dicitur à reddendo, quia retro it, ſc. to the leſſor, donor, &c. as provent' à proveniendo; and obventus ab obveniendo. And that is the reaſon that the rent ſo reſerved is not due before the day of payment incurred, becauſe it is to be rendred and reſtored of the iſſues and profits. And that is the cauſe, That if land be evicted, or if the leaſe determine before the legal time of payment, no rent ſhall be paid, for it ſhall never be apportioned in reſpect of part of the time, as it ſhall be upon eviction of part of the land. And therefore if tenant for life maketh a leaſe for years rendring rent at the Feaſt of Eaſter, and the leſſee occupieth the lands three quarters of the year, and in the laſt quarter before the Feaſt of Eaſter, the tenant for life dieth, here ſhall be no apportionment of the rent for three quarters of the year, becauſe that no rent was due until the Feaſt of Eaſter, and the Feaſt of Eaſter doth incur in the life of the leſſor, and no apportionment ſhall be in reſpect of time; but in the ſame caſe, if part of the land had been evicted before the Feaſt of Eaſter, and the Feaſt of Eaſter incurred in the life of the leſſor, there ſhall be an apportionment of the rent, but not in reſpect of the time which continueth, but in reſpect that parcel of the land leaſed is evicted.

[b] And this difference appeareth in our Books of 27 E. 3. 84. b. In Debt againſt Executors, declaring, That their Teſtator did grant him a Penſion of 20 l. to remain with him in the Kings Wars at the time that he ſhould be reaſonably warned, to take effect at four terms of the year equally; and ſheweth, That he went with him to Calis by the warning of their Teſtator, and was there armed; and demanded Judgment, and prayed his debt. To which the Defendant ſaid, That for the firſt quarter he was paid 5 l. and ſhewed forth an Accquittance, and before the ſecond quarter ended, the Teſtator died, and demanded Judgment of the action; and Mowbrey of Counſel with the Plaintiff moved, That foraſmuch as you do not deny the Penſion to be granted as one entire by the Law, upon condition which we have performed, ſc. that we have remained with him, We pray our debt. Wilby Chief Juſtice, by the Rule of the Court, doth award that the Plaintiff ſhall take nothing by his Writ, becauſe it ſhall not be apportioned in reſpect of part of the time, although that it fell by the Act of God. Vide 10 E. 4. 18. 20 H. 6. 6. 9 E. 4. 1. 30 H. 8. br. Apportionment 7. If I be bound to you by Obligation of 20 l. to be paid at four uſual Feaſts of the year by equal portions, the obligee ſhall not have an action of Debt before all the terms incurred; the ſame Law of a Contract: but if a rent be reſerved upon a leaſe for years at four uſual Feaſts of the year, the leſſor ſhall have an action of debt after the firſt day, and ſhall not ſtay till the whole be due, becauſe the ſame is accounted in Law as a reſervation of parcel of the iſſues and profit of the lands, which is no debt before the day, as in the ſaid caſe of Obligation or Contract. And that is the true difference betwixt the caſe of the Obligation, and a rent reſerved upon a leaſe for years, in Litt. 117. b. Vide F. N. B. 267. Note a difference betwixt a Recogniſance of a debt payable at ſeveral days, for the ſame is not like to an Obligation; but to a rent reſerved upon a leaſe for years. Vide 3 Mar. Dyer 103. another difference betwixt a Covenant or Promiſe, and Contract or Obligation. Vide 5 Mar. Action ſur le Caſe br. 108. 10 E. 2. Execution 137. and 16 E. 2. ibid. 138. vide 9 E. 3. 7.

For Authorities in the point, I have ſeen the Report of a Caſe Mich. 34 H. 8. in the time of Baldwin Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas, that it was the opinion of all the Juſtices. And if a man ſeiſed of land in fee 1 die Octob. maketh a leaſe of the ſame land for ten years, from the Feaſt of St. Michael then laſt paſt, yeilding to him and his heirs a yearly rent of 20 l. at the feaſt of St. Michael the Archangel, or within one month after; That in this caſe if the leſſor dieth between the Feaſt of St. Michael and the end of the month, that the heir ſhall have the rent as incident to the reverſion, and not the Executors as rent behind, becauſe it was not due till the end of the month. The ſame [129] Law if the leſſor betwixt the two days hath granted the reverſion over, and the tenant attorneth, the grantee ſhall have the rent as incident to the reverſion. And Mich. 2 & 3 Phil. & Mar. Prideaux moved Mountague Chief Juſtice, and other Juſtices of the Common Pleas, That if a man maketh a leaſe for years, yeilding a yearly rent at the Feaſt of Eaſter, or one month after, with condition of re-entry, and the leſſee tendreth the rent at the laſt inſtant of Eaſter day; If the leſſor may enter upon demand made at the laſt inſtant of the month: And it ſeemeth not, becauſe that the leſſee hath liberty then to pay it. And the differenee was taken betwixt the disjunctive reſervation, and when the reſervation it at a certain Feaſt; and a Condition is added, That if it be behind by the ſpace of a moneth after the Feaſt, that then the leſſor ſhall re-enter, there the leſſee, for the ſalvation of his leaſe cannot tender it at the laſt inſtant of the Feaſt-day, becauſe he hath not ſuch liberty or election as in the other caſe. And it was ſaid by the new Serjeants, That in the time of the Lord Baldwin it was Reſolved by all the Juſtices, That in the ſaid caſe of a disjunctive reſervation, if the leſſor dieth betwixt the two days, the heir ſhall have the rent, and not the Executors: which case the Chief Justice shewed in Court Reported by an ancient and learned Bencher of the Inner Temple, Trin. 31 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, Rot. 666. between Smith plaintiff, and Bustard defendant, where the Case was in effect, That Smith leased certain lands for years, yielding yearly a rent of 35 l. at the Feasts of St. Michael, and the Annunciation of our Lady, or within twelve dayes after every of the said Feasts payable at the Font-stone in the Temple Church, upon condition, that if the said rent of 35 l. or any part of it be behind, and not paid by the space of twelve dayes next after any of the said Feasts or dayes of payment thereof as is aboveſaid, that then the said lease shall be void; and it was adjudged, that the lessee in safeguard of his lease should have twelve dayes after the twelve dayes to pay the said rent, for when the rent is not paid at the first day, it is as much as if it had been reserved upon the twelfth day after: and where it is said, per præd. spatium 12 dierum post, &c. by good construction all the words ought to take effect, sc. post aliquod præd. festorum seu dierum solutionis inde; and dies solutionis is the twelfth day of the Feast, and therefore the lessee shall have twelve dayes after the twelfth day, which is dies solutionis post festum, &c. and that for the more avail of the lessee, for whose benefit further time was given; and these words, præd. spatium 12 dierum, may stand in good sense. sc. per præd. spatium 12 dierum post præd. 12 dies, for that is præd. spatium, although it had not the beginning as the other hath. And so the Quære in 3 & 4 Phil. & Mar. 142. well resolved and adjudged, Trinit. 39 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, between Pilkington and Dalton: the Case was; A Parson of a Rectory made a lease for years, rendring rent at the Feast of St. Michael, or within one month after; the lessor died ten dayes after the Feast of St. Michael, and was barred by Judgment of the Court, because the lessor died before that the rent was due. Mich. 40 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, the Case was, The Lady Pawlet late the wife of Chedwick Pawlet, seised of the Manor of Wade in the County of Southampton for her life, by deed indented leased the said Mannor to William Pawlet for 99 years, if the said Dame Elizabeth should so long live, yielding the yearly rent of 100 l. at the Feast of St. Michael the Archangel, and the Annunciation of our Lady, or within fourty dayes after every of the said Feasts; William Pawlet made Dulcibel his wife Executrix, and died; Dulcibel took husband John Moor Esq; the Lady Elizabeth Pawlet made Ed. Walgrave her Executor, and died the 13 day after the Feast of St. Michael; her Executor brought an Action of debt for the half year ended at the Feast of St. Michael, before the death of the Lady Elizabeth, and the whole Court was against the Plaintiff; but by entreaty of some of the Justices, John Moor gave to the Plaintiff 10 l. And in the Case at Bar Judgment was given, That the Plaintiff should take nothing by his Bill. [b]

Mich. 11 Jacobi, Rot. 1427. In the Common Pleas.

James Osborn's Case.

James Osborn Gent. brought an Action upon the Case against Francis Middleton, and declared, That where the plaintiff 14 Feb. 4 Jac. Regis had bought diversa bona & catalla, viz. unum fulcrum lecti, Anglicè a field Bedstead with a Testern and Curtains of Say, unum Canopium, vocat. a Canopy for a Bed of Dornix, unum operimentum, vocat. a Rug, &c. ad valentiam, 40 s. pro undecim libris eidem Francisco super 28. die Jun. tunc prox. sequen. solvend', and declared upon Assumpsit, &c. (upon certain considerations mentioned in the Declaration) ad deliberand. bona prædict. &c. the which the defendant had not done, &c. the defendant pleaded non assumpsit; and the Jury found for the plaintiff, and assessed damages and costs, upon which the plaintiff had Judgment; and the Defendant brought a Writ of Error, and assigned Error, That damages were entirely given for divers things, and for some of them no damages ought to be given: For where it is said unum fulcrum lecti, Anglice, a field Bedstead, for that damages may be given; but for the addition subsequent, sc. With a Testern and Curtains of Say, no damages ought to have been given: for fulcrum lecti doth not include more then the Bedstead it self, for fulcrum dicitur à fulciendo, quo lectus sustinetur, and when damages are entirely given, and for part no damages ought to have been given, there the Jury did not do well in assessing damages; and therefore no Judgment ought to have been given in such case. And therewith agreeth 9 Hen. 7. in Rescous, and 28 Hen. 6. 10 b. and the Case in 22 Eliz. Dyer 370. was cited, where the case was, That Clifford brought a Writ of Ejectione custodie terræ & hæredis, &c. and declared accordingly, and the issue was taken upon the traverse of the tenure, which was tried by Nisi prius for the plaintiff, and damages generally assessed; and it was said in arrest of Judgment, that an Action did not lie pro custodia hæredis, but pro custodia terræ onely; and therefore in the Case supra, damages were entirely assessed for the ejectment of the land and heir, the plaintiff relinquished the damages, and prayed judgment of ejectment of the Land onely. All these Cases were agreed by the Court. [130] [b]

And further in proof thereof, two Judgments were cited, the first in Mich. 14, & 15 Eliz. in the Kings Bench in trespass by Poley against Osborn for breaking of his Close, and beating of his Servant and did not say per quod servitium, &c. amisit) the defendant pleaded not guilty, and the Jury found him guilty generally, and assessed damages also generally. And it was moved in arrest of Judgment, because that damages were entirely given, where by the Law no damages ought to have been given to the plaintiff for the battery of his Servant, if he had not alleged that by reason thereof he loſt his ſervice: for otherwiſe the ſervant ſhould have the Action of Battery, and not the Maſter. To which it was anſwered by the plaintiffs Counſel, That it ſhall be intended that the Court, (which ought to direct the Jury in points of Law) had given direction to the Jury for how much according to Law they ſhould aſſeſs damages. And therefore it ſhall be intended in the Caſe at Bar, that the Jury have given damages onely for the breaking of the Cloſe, and not for the beating of the ſervant; for as much as for that (as the caſe was) no damages ought to have been aſſeſſed: and they likened the ſame to the Common Caſe, If a man bringeth an Action upon the Caſe againſt another for ſcandalous words (exempli gratia) for theſe, Thou art an arrant Knave, a Coſoner, and a Traitour, the defendant pleads not guilty, and the Jury find for the plaintiff, and aſſeſs damages generally, it is well done, for it ſhall be intended, that the Court did direct the Jury to give damages onely for the actionable words, ſc. Thou art a Traitour, and not for the other words for which no Action lieth.

But it was reſolved by the Court, That in the ſaid Poley's caſe the Jury in aſſidendo damna male ſe geſſerunt, for when damages are entirely aſſeſſed, it ſhall be intended for that which the plaintiff complaineth. And therefore it ſhall be good policy in ſuch caſes to direct the Jury to give damages
[131] for the thing onely for which damages ought by Law be given. As if in the ſame caſe the Jury had given damages particularly for the breaking of the Cloſe, the ſame had been good. And as to the caſe of ſlanderous words, the Court agreed the ſame caſe to be good Law for two reaſons.

1. That the ſame is an Action upon the Caſe, and therefore he might well declare his caſe as the truth was.

2. Altogether is but one ſcandal, and although that no Action lieth for the ſaid words, Thou art an arrant Knave, a Coſoner, by themſelves; yet being ſpoken at the ſame time, and coupled with actionable words, they aggravate them: but if at one time the defendant call the plaintiff Traitour, and at another time he calls him arrant Knave and Coſoner, and the plaintiff bringeth his Action upon the Caſe, and alleged the ſaid ſeveral words to be ſpoken at ſeveral times, as ſeveral cauſes of Action; there if upon not guilty pleaded, the Jury aſſeſs damages entirely, Judgment ſhall be ſtayed for the whole; for he groundeth his Action upon two ſeveral ſcandals where one is not actionable.

Another caſe was adjudged in the Kings Bench, Mich. 30, & 31. Eliz. but the ſame was entred Mich. 28, & 29. Eliz. Rot. 476. the caſe was ſuch. Moor brought an Action upon the Caſe againſt Bedel, and declared; That where Paſch. 22 Eliz. Bedel had recoved by default in an Action of Waſt, and 45 l. damages, after which Judgment, ſc. ultimo Novembris 24 Eliz. they ſubmitted themſelves to the award of Palmer and Povey of all matters then in variance betwixt them, in conſideration that the plaintiff had aſſumed to perform the award on his part; the defendant made reciprocal promiſe to perform it on his part, and that he would not ſue out Execution upon the ſaid Judgment in the Action of Waſt. And afterwards 10 Decemb. 24. The ſaid Arbitrators made an award in writing to this effect. They award that Moor ſhall pay to Bedel 10 l. at certain dayes, and 15 l. at other certain dayes, and for the payment of the 15 l. one William Salter ſhall be ready to ſeal and deliver 15. Obligations, &c. And further they award, That where certain Copy-hold Land of the Mannor of Langley in the County of Bucks, of which the ſaid Bedel hath made a Leaſe for years by Indenture contrary to the Cuſtom, &c. That the ſaid William Salter pro poſſe ſuo ſhould do that no advantage ſhould be taken of the forfeiture; and in conſideration thereof, that Bedel ſhould diſcharge Moor of 20 l. of the ſaid 45 l. recovered in the Action of Waſt, and that upon the readineſs of William Salter to ſeal and deliver the ſaid 15. Obligations, Bedel by his Deed ſhould releaſe to Moor all Actions then depending, and all demands until the fifeteenth day of June anno 24. ſuprad', [b] And ſhewed that the 10 l. was paid according to the award, and ultimo Octob. 24 Eliz. Salter did offer to be bound in the ſaid 15. Obligations, and did his endeavour pro poſſe ſuo that no advantage ſhould be taken of the forfeiture, &c. and aſſigned two breaches of the award, the one that the defendant had not made the releaſe upon requeſt had; The other, that he had ſued execution upon the ſaid Judgment by Fieri facias, and had levied 4 l. parcel.

The defendat pleaded Non aſſumpſit, and this iſſue was tried for the plaintiff, and 40 l. damages given. And in this caſe two points were reſolved which were onely moved in the Kings Bench. The one, that although the parties have been bound by Obligation to perform the award (as in this caſe by mutual promiſes) yet as to all that which was to be done by William Salter, being a ſtranger tothe ſubmiſſion the award was void; for they are not bound to perform any award, but that which is within the ſubmiſſion, and ſo was it adjudged Paſch. 24 Eliz. Rot. 2417. between Eccleſfield and Maliard in the Kings Bench, and therewith agreeth 17 Edw. 4. 5. b. by all the Juſtices: Vide 22 Hen. 6. the opinion to the contrary, but the Caſe is good Law, but ill reported; for in an Action of Debt upon an Obligation, The defendant pleads that the Obligation is endorſed upon ſuch condition, that if the defendant ſtand to the Arbitrement and award of A. and B. of all quarrels and debates betwixt the plaintiff and him, &c. that then the Obligation ſhall loſe its force; and ſaid that they awarded, that the defendant ſhould pay to one Kendal 20 l. which he hath paid him, Judgment, &c. Aſhton of Counſel with the plaintiff took exception to the plea, becauſe it appeareth that this Arbitrement is void, ſo the obligation remaineth in force: but that without queſtion is a Non ſequitur: for if no Arbitrement, or a void Arbitrement be made, which is all one in Law, the Obligation is not forfeited, nor the Obligee ſhall not loſe the benefit thereof; and therefore all which followeth there (as I conceive) is miſtaken by the Reporter, as an opinion not pertinent to the caſe in queſtion. Vide 28 Henry 6. 13. 8 Edward 4. 22. 19 Edward 4. 1. 21 Edward 4. 75.

2. Al-

2. Although that many things are awarded to be done in satisfaction of another (as that case was) and some are within the submission, and some out, and so void; and although that all were intended by the Arbitrators to be a plenary and entire recompence, for the things that the other should do in consideration thereof, notwithstanding if any thing given or done to the party, although it be of small value, be within the submission, the award is good, although it appear by the intent of the Arbitrators, that that which is within the submission, without the others was not a plenary satisfaction for the thing to be done by the other party; whereupon Judgment was given for [132] the plaintiff; and thereupon the said Executors of Bedel brought a Writ of Error upon the new Statute; and the said Exceptions moved in arrest of Judgment were moved again in the Kings Bench. And the Justices of the Common Pleas and Barons of the Exchequer did agree as to them with the Justices of the Kings Bench. And then another Error appearing in the Record was assigned, which was not moved in the Kings Bench and that was, That there were two breaches assigned by the plaintiff, one of refusal to make the said Release, and the other the suing of Execution; and as to the Release, the award was void, and by consequence damages being entirely given, the Judgment given for those damages was erroneous. And it appeareth that the said Release was out of the submission; for the submission was of all things in variance, Ult. Novemb. 24 Eliz. and the award was, that Bedel should release to Moor all demands untill the fifteenth day of July, Anno 24 Eliz. and the request to make the release was Anno 26 Eliz. and so one of the Breaches was out of the submission. Against which it was objected, that it is true, when two points are put in issue, and for the one no action lieth, and damages are entirely assessed, the same is erronious, because that both are directly within the charge of the Jury, as in the said case, of breaking of the close and battery of his servant. But in the said case between Moor and Bedel, the defendant in the action upon the case, pleads Non assumpsit modo & forma, which is onely their charge, and it shall be intended that the Court did direct the Jury as to damages for that breach onely which is within the award and the submission: and that case depended long in advisement. And after that the case had been often argued at the Bar before them, and upon conference amongst themselves, it was resolved by them all, That it shall be intended (if it be not specially found) that damages were given for both the breaches. And therewith agreeth Clifford's case aforesaid in 22 Eliz. Dyer, where the issue was joined upon the tenure, and damages generally assessed, extended as well to the custody of the body as of the land; and for as much as in the said case betwixt Moor and Bedel, one of the breaches was out of the submission, as it was resolved by all the Justices and Barons, the Judgment given in the Kings Bench was for that cause reversed.

But in the Case at Bar it was unanimously agreed that the Judgment was well given by the Judges of the Common Pleas, and that the same should be affirmed. And in this case these differences were agreed. 1. In the cases in which two things are directly put in issue, or obliquely enquired of by [b] the Jury; and the case at Bar, where there is but one thing onely, for Fulcrum lecti is onely the thing for which damages are given, and for the Testerne and Curtains no damages were assessed, for they are not alleged positivè but expositivè, sc. unum fulcrum lecti Anglice; and the exposition doth extend to more then fulcrum lecti doth signifie; and therefore all the residue is a meer nugation, and void, as a thing not alledged. And by the Statute of 36 Ed. 3. cap. 15. It is enacted, That all pleas which shall be pleaded, &c. be pleaded, shewed, defended, answered and debated in the English tongue: and that they shall be entred and enrolled in Latine; and that the Laws and Customs of the Realm, Terms and Proces be holden and kept as they are, and have been before these days. And it was resolved, That this Statute as to the first was introductive of a new Law, but as to the two other branches, they are declarative of the old; for of old time, and before the Conquest, the original Writs and all the Proces and proceedings upon them were entred in Latine, and infinite Records before this time are yet extant entred in Latine: and yet for the better illustration of the truth, an English Deed, French or Dutch, &c. may be entred in a plea, or special verdict. 41 Edw. 3. 16. tit. Brief & abatement. 49. (the book at large being all printed) In a Præcipe quod reddat, the Writ was, Præcipe quod reddat filio & heire, where it should be hæredi in Latine, and for this cause the Writ was abated. For as Shard Chief Justice saith in 29 Edw. 3. 31. Latine is a formal Language to put in Writs, &c. and English are the words of the people; and yet when English or French is parcel of a name, there it shall be suffered in a Writ. And therefore if the name of a Mannor be A. beside K. he may demand it in a Præcipe by that name in English, for peradventure notwithstanding the name, the said Mannor lieth in K. And therefore in a Præcipe if he shall sue in Latine A. juxta K. then without question if any part of the Mannor shall extend into K. the Writ shall abate. And therewith agreeth 44 Edw. 3. 12. & 29 Edw. 3. 31. So if the Surname be Fitz John, he may be so named in a Writ; for if he shall be named in a Writ Præcipe Willielmo filio Johannis: it shall be a good plea to say that his father had another Christian name, as Richard, &c. and so shall abate the Writ. And so it is holden in 29 Edw. 3. 30, 31. 40 Edw. 3. 22. 44 Edw. 3. 12, & 13. 11 Ass. p. 29. 11 Edw. 3. Estoppel 228. 10 Edw. 4. 12. So I have read that one Henry had to his surname In the Hall, and he brought a Writ by that name, which consisted of three English words, and yet well, [133] for his name is not Henricus in aula, Vide 29 Edw. 3. 2. a. So that brevia tam originalia quam judicialia patiuntur Anglica nomina.

2. It was resolved, That words which pass under the name of Latine are of four sorts. 1. Good Latine allowed by Grammarians. 2. Words significant, and known to the Sages of the Law, but not allowed by the Grammarians, not having any countenance of Latine. 3. In what cases Mala Grammatica, false Latine, or no Latine, and yet having countenance of Latine, shall abate or destroy, and where not. 4. Words insensible, and of no signification, and which have not any countenance of Latine, are utterly rejected; of the first sort were good and true Latine, and that without question is within the Statute of 36 Edw. 3. Of the ſecond ſort, are meſuagium, toftum, gardinum, bruera, jampna, maremium, &c. Which and divers other of the ſame nature are allowable, not onely in pleading, but in original Writs alſo; for theſe words are known in the Law, and to the Judges thereof, and ſuch alſo are within the words of the ſaid Act of 36 Edw. 3. And ſo in other Sciences it is frequent, as the Profeſſors of the Civil Law uſe, repriſalia, fuida, ſhopa, ſollaria, and many other the like; and many times they uſe to explain them by Anglicè, &c. as Sollaria, Anglicè Ware-houſes; and the Phiſitians uſe this barbarous word Brothium, for broth, and other the like. The third ſort are falſe or incongruous Latine, the ſame ſhall abate an Original Writ, but ſhall not make any Judicial Writ, Count, pleading, or Judgment vitious (for falſe Latine ſhall be in ſuch caſes amended) à multo fortiori ſhall not avoid a grant, or other deed; And therefore neither falſe Latine nor falſe Engliſh ſhall make void a grant or other deed, when the meaning of the party appeareth, Mic. 3 and 4 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, Rot. 1350. The Obligation was in Octogenta libris, with condition for payment of 40 l. and although this word octogenta is no Latine, yet it was adjudged a good Obligation of octoginta libris.

Note Octoginti is 800 Mich. 44. & 45. Eliz. Rot. 1031. in the Common Pleas, the Obligation was in ſeptengenta libris, with condition for the payment of 350 l. And it was adjudged, That that word ſeptengenta ſhould be taken for ſeptinginti, that is, 700 l. So in 9 Hen. 6. 7. Obligation of viginti libris taken for viginti libris, and 9 Hen. 7. 6. and 2 Hen. 4. 8. acc' Accordingly Mich. 11. Jacobi Regis in the Common Pleas, a Bill was made in Engliſh, ſc. in ſewtene pounds which was falſe Engliſh, and yet it was adjudged a good Bill of ſeventeen pounds, for the intent of the parties appeareth. Alſo when there is no Latine word for divers things, as for a Stirrop, but a feigned word
[b] Stapedia; and ſo for Velvet there is no Latine word for it: and therefore in that caſe it may be ſaid in pleading two or three virgatis velveti. And in all ſuch caſes where it is no Latine, and yet it is ſignificant, and hath the continuance of Latine, it is wiſely done to make an illuſtration of ſuch words, to adde Anglice, as in the caſe before, Anglice of Velvet, and ſo of the like; as in the caſe at Bar, operimentum, Anglice a Rug, there being no Latine word for a Rug. And theſe are alſo within the ſaid Act of 39 E. 3. Of the fourth ſort are inſenſible words, &c. as in the caſe of Replevin Paſch. 36 Eliz. between Thomas Gawyn and Sir Edmond Ludlow, the Count was of divers goods and chattels, and amongſt them was vitrium, and upon iſſue joined the Jury aſſeſſed damages entirely for all. And it was reſolved, that if vitrium be a word inſenſible, and of no ſignification, then damages cannot be given for it, But for the reſidue onely: but the Court did ſtrongly incline, that it was but falſe Latine; for vitrum is Latine for Glaſs, and vitrium hath countenance of Latine, and doth ſufficiently aſſertain the Court that he intended it for Glaſs: And ſo quacunque via data, Gawyn had judgment to recover. And afterwards by all the Juſtices in the caſe at Bar the Judgment was affirmed.

[134] IN debt brought by two Executors, one was ſummoned and ſevered, and afterwards he who was ſevered died, and the defendant pleadeth the ſame in abatement of the Writ.

And it was reſolved, The Writ ſhall not abate againſt the Book briefly reported in 38 Edw. 3. 11. where the Reporter ſaith the contrary, Ter. Trint. 16 Rot. &c. and 20 Edw. 3. Accom. 78. The Executors of the Earl of Salisbury brought an Accompt, and one was ſevered and afterwards died, and the Writ by award was abated. But for the better underſtanding of the true reaſon of the Law in this caſe and the like, theſe differences are to be obſerved. The firſt is betwixt original real Writs, and Writs judicial. For if two Coparceners bring a real action, and the one is ſummoned and ſevered, and afterwards dieth having iſſue or no iſſue the Writ ſhall abate. So if two Joyntenants bring an Aſſize or other original real Action, and the one is ſummoned and ſevered, and he who is ſummoned and ſevered dieth, the Writ ſhall abate, although the thing in demand ſhall ſurvive; for a man in a real Action ſhall never recover upon a Writ either falſe in words, or unapt for his caſe; becauſe he may have another true and apt Writ: neither ſhall a man recover a moity, where he may have a Writ to recover the whole. And ſometimes by the ſubſequent Act of God the words of the Writ well brought became falſe or unapt for his caſe, and in ſuch caſe the Writ ſhall abate. And there-
[b] with agreeth 5 Edw. 3. 3. in a Writ of Aiel. John de Hatton's Caſe, 38 Edw. 3. 35. b. 37 Hen. 6. 11. b. 19 Rich. 2 Brief 925. 38 Edw. 3. 34. But if two Coparceners bring a Scire facias upon a fine levied which is a Judicial Writ, &c. and the one Coparcener is ſummoned and ſevered, and dieth without iſſue, the Judicial Writ ſhall not abate. The ſame Law in caſe of two Joyntenants; but if the Coparcener who dieth hath iſſue, then the Writ ſhall abate, as it is adjudged in 42 Edw. 3. 2. & 8. Vide 32 Edw. 3. Brief 292. 12 Edw. 3. ibidem 258.

The ſecond difference is in real Writs Original, where he who is ſummoned and ſevered dieth, which is the Act of God by which the Writ is abated, or taking of Husband, or entry into the Land

Land by him who is ſummoned and ſevered, which ſhall not abate the Writ, for theſe are Acts of him who is ſummoned and ſevered, and the Writ by ſuch Acts (where there is not any ſummons and ſeverance) becometh onely abateable. And therewith agreeth 39 Edw. 3. 16.

The third difference is between real Actions concerning free-hold or inheritance as is aforeſaid, without having regard to ſurvivor, and Actions meer perſonal, or perſonal, and in ſome manner mixt with realty, in which Chattels or entire things are demanded: there if one Plaintiff be ſummoned and ſevered, his death (where the entire thing doth ſurvive to the other) ſhall not abate the Writ. As in a Writ of ward of the body. 37 Hen. 6. 11. 38 Edw. 3. 35, &c. Vide 50 Edw. 3. 7. 30 Edw. 3. 14. 38 Edw. 3. 36. 1 Hen. 5. 12. 9 Hen. 6. 56. 7 Edw. 3. 364. 17 Edw. 3. Brief 665. 38 Edw. 3. 48. Vide 17 Edw. 3. 11. F. N. B. 35. 3 Hen. 5. 4. Quare impedit 71. 10 Eliz. Dyer 279. And in ſuch caſe of Quare impedit in ſome caſe the death of one of the parties ſhall not abate the Writ without ſome ſeverance, ſc. or otherwiſe the Plaintiff who ſurviveth ſhould be without remedy, &c. as upon a plenarty and ſix months paſt, or that laps incur, which reaſon peradventure would reconcile all the Books aforeſaid, which prima facie ſeem to diſagree; and that is the reaſon given in ſome of the ſaid Books, in 38 Edw. 3. 36. 9 Hen. 6. 30, &c. That otherwiſe the wrong done to the Plaintiff ſhall be unpuniſhed, or otherwiſe the laps ſhould incur, &c. and peradventure ſuch wrong would trench to the diſinheritance of the ſurvivor for ever. As if two purchaſe an Advowſon in fee, and a ſtranger uſurpeth, and they bring a Quare impedit, and the ſix months paſs, and afterwards one of them dieth, if in this caſe the Writ ſhould abate by the Act of God, the ſurvivor ſhould be diſinherited of the Advowſon for ever. But when after the death of one of the Plaintiffs, the ſurvivor may have a new Writ without any prejudice to him, there you ſhall find [135] in ſome of the ſaid Books, that the Writ hath been abated. But without queſtion if one of the Plaintiffs in a Quare impedit be ſevered and dieth, the Writ ſhall not abate. In a Writ of Detinue of Charters brought by three Coparceners, Vide 19 Edw. 3. Severance 14. 20 Hen. 6. 45. 2 Edw. 3. Severance 19. In a Writ of Debt by Executors, which is the caſe now in queſtion, 5 Edw. 2. Brief 802. 16 Edw. 2. Executors 111. 3 Hen. 7. 1. For there the debt demanded is entire and doth ſurvive, but in theſe caſes if one Plaintiff dieth without ſeverance, the Writ ſhall abate. Vide 2 Rich. 3. 1. Vide 37 Hen. 6. 17.

In 42 Edw. 3. 32. Two brought a Writ of Warranty of Charters, &c. and the one dieth, the Writ ſhall abate, for that is an Original; but in a quid Juris clamat by two, and one of them dieth, the Writ ſhall not abate, for the ſame is a Judicial Writ, 48 Edw. 3. 12. And regularly in all Judicial Writs in perſonal Actions, the death of one of the Plaintiffs ſhall not abate the Writ. 41 Edw. 3. Execution 38. 11 Rich. 2. Brief 638. Vide 25 Edw. 3. 38. b. & 18 Hen. 6. 2. Vide 20 Edw. 3. Severance 17. That Summons and Severance lieth not in quid juris clamat, but the Nonſuit of the one is the Nonſuit of both, for the Tenant ſhall not be put to Atturn to one onely.

Another difference between Writs in which ſomething is to be recovered, and Writs in which nothing is to be recovered, but they are to diſcharge the Plaintiff onely of a Burthen. And therefore in a Writ of Error the death of one of the Plaintiffs ſhall abate the Writ. 3 Hen. 7. 1. 2 Rich. 3. 1. a. 19 Aſſ. p. 7. & 44 Edw. 3. Brief 584. But in Audita querela which is alſo Original, the death of one of the Plaintiffs, or one of the Defendants ſhall not abate the Writ. 2 Rich. 3. 1. 11 Rich. 2. Brief 638. becauſe he is to recover nothing, but onely to diſcharge himſelf of a burthen and charge. And for this cauſe the Nonſuit of the one is not the Nonſuit of the other in an Audita querela; but there ſhall be Summons and Severance. 15 Edward 5. Severance 23.

Note Reader, Summons and Severance is alwayes ſaid before appearance, and Nonſuit after appearance, where the Severance is without Proces, &c. 38 Edw. 3. 9. 26 Aſſ. p. 35.

Richard Smith's Caſe.

[b] Richard Smith Adminſtrator of George Barkhouſe was Plaintiff in a Quare Impedit againſt the Biſhop of Peterborough, Thomas Abbot and Hugh Lloyd Clerk; and the Writ and Count was, de placit. quod permittat ipſum Rich. præſentare idoneam perſonam ad medietatem Eccleſiæ de Woodford in Com. Northampton, quæ vacat & ad ſuam ſpectat donationem. And in this caſe after many Arguments at Bar, and now this Term at the Bench, divers points were reſolved.

1. That none ſhall have a Quare impedit præſentare ad medietatem Eccleſiæ, but when there are two ſeveral Patrons, and two ſeveral Incumbents of the Church within one and the ſame Town, ſo that the one Patron hath a diſtinct and ſeparate half of the tithes to him from the other, in the ſame Town; and ſo hath the other Patron and his Incumbent mutatis mutandis. And in this caſe the Advowſon and the Church are ſevered in right and in poſſeſſion. But when there is but one incumbent, although that the Advowſon be divided and ſevered into ſeveral hands, yet there ſhall never be Quare impedit præſentare ad medietatem ſeu tertiam partem Eccleſiæ, &c. And the reaſon of this difference is manifeſt. For every Quare impedit is in the poſſeſſion, and reſpecteth the Church which belongeth to the Incumbent: and therefore in the Writ of quare impedit it is quod permittat ipſum præ- ſentare ad Eccleſiam de W. And thereby appeareth that the ſtate and quality of the Church doth direct the quare impedit; and therefore when the Church is not ſevered, but there is but one Incumbent, one Church, one Cure, it is not poſſible that in reſpect of the ſeveralty of the Advowſon, that quare impedit ſhould be brought ad medietatem Eccleſiæ; for there is not any moity in the Church, but [136] the ſame is entire; but he who preſenteth hath a moity, &c. the Advowſon: And therefore when at the beginning of the Church, one Church of one town was divided and ſevered in two parts, and the Advowſon of the one part allotted to one, and of another part to another; and that there ſhould be two ſeveral Incumbents, one de una medietate Eccleſiæ, and the other de alia medietate Eccleſiæ, and one part of the Town goeth to one, and the other to another; There where one Patron preſenteth to the moiety of the Church, and is diſturbed, he may well have a quare impedit quod permittat ipſum præſentare ad medietatem Eccleſiæ; for in truth the Incumbent ſhall not have but the moiety of the Church, and not the whole Church, or the whole profits of the Church, nor the whole Cure of Souls. But the Writ of Droit de advowſon is brought to recover the Advowſon, and the Writ is Præcipe quod reddat advocationem Eccleſiæ and therefore the ſtate and quality of the Advowſon, and not of the Church ſhall direct the Writ; for the Incumbent of the Church ſhall not be removed by that Writ, for the Advowſon doth appertain to the Patron, and Eccleſia to the Incumbent; and therefore it was utterly denyed, That if a conſideration be made of three Advowſons, ſo that all make but one Incumbent in one Church, in that caſe although that the Advowſons are ſeveral to preſent by turns, yet the quare impedit ſhall be in ſuch caſe præſentare ad Eccleſiam, for now upon the matter there is but one Church and one Incumbent, Vide F. N. B. 39. f. g. 5 Hen. 7. 8. And it was Objected that admitting that in ſuch caſe as hath been put, ſc. where there are two ſeparate Incumbents, that the quare impedit ſhall be maintainable de medietate Eccleſiæ, yet ſuch ſpecial caſe ought to be ſet forth in the Count, or elſe it ſhall not be intended, and no ſuch ſpecial matter is alleged in the Count in the Caſe at at Bar. To which it was Anſwered and Reſolved, That the Count in the Caſe at Bar was ſufficient to aſcertain the Court, That there were two Patrons, and two Incumbents: For the Count was, That one William Thorley fuit ſeiſitus de manerio de Thorleys in Com' præd', ad quod advocatio medietatis Eccleſiæ præd', &c. pertinuit & adhuc pretinet, in dominico ſuo ut de feodo, &c. And alwayes one is ſaid to be ſeiſed de advocatione medietatis, when there are two ſeveral Patrons; and ſo Priſot holdeth in 33 H. 6. 11. b. in Sir John Odingſel's Caſe: and therefore in the Caſe at Bar, when the plaintiff declareth, That William Thorley was ſeiſed de advocatione medietatis, the ſame implieth two ſeveral Patrons and two Incumbents, for there the Advowſon and the Church are ſevered in right and in poſſeſſion. 14 H. 6. 15. per Newton acc' Fitzh. Nat. Br. 31 b.

[b] In 31 E. 1. Droit 68, 69. it appeareth, That a man ſhall have a Writ of Right de medietate advocationis, where the Advowſon is parted betwixt two Coparceners, and one is diſturbed by a ſtranger: But a Writ of Right de advocatione medietatis Eccleſiæ lieth wher two Patrons preſent two ſeveral Parſons to one Church, as there are in ſome Churches two Parſons, againſt the opinion of Finchden in 45 E. 3. Fines 41. Vide 45 E. 3. 12. 17 E. 3. 38. Poining's Caſe. Vide 17 E. 2. Dower 163. a Writ of Dower de tertia parte advocationis. Vide F. Quare Impedit. Mich. 22 H. 6. Rot. 469. a Writ of Quare Impedit was præſentare ad 2. partes Eccleſiæ. Vide 6 E. 6. 78. Dyer. the Lord Windſor's Caſe.

And it was objected, There was not any Writ in the Regiſter of any Quare impedit præſentare ad medietatem ſeu tertiam partem Eccleſiæ, but onely ad Eccleſiam.

To which it was anſwered, and reſolved, That when the Regiſter giveth a Writ for the whole, it is a ſufficient warrant to bring it of any part, if the caſe will warrant it. And the latter part of the opinion of Priſot in 33 H. 6. 11. was denied, ſc. That when there are two Patrons and two Incumbents of the ſame Church, ſo that the Church it ſelf is divided into moyeties, that there a Quare Impedit will not lie to preſent to a moity, for Reaſon and many Authorities in Law are againſt it, as it appeareth before. But in ſuch caſe I conceive, That the Patron de medietatis advocatione, may have a Quare impedit præſentare ad Eccleſiam, for upon the matter as to him it is one Church. And ſo the Plaintiff may have, as I conceive, a Writ in the one form or in the other; and therewith agreeth Windſor's Caſe in the fifth part of my Reports, where the Count was de advocatione 3. partis, and yet the Writ was ad Eccleſiam, and not ad tertiam partem. And ſo you will the better underſtand the reaſon of your Books and thereby attain to the true ſenſe. and underſtanding and judgment of the Law. And afterwards Judgment was given, That the Writ was good, and the defendant [137] ruled to anſwer, and ſo he did. Vide Trinit. 14 Eliz. Rot. 1060. Paſch. 37 Eliz. Rot. 1226. Sir Thomas Stanhope's Caſe. Paſch. 41 *Eliz. Paſch. 7 Jacobi Regis.

The Caſe of Cheſter Mill upon the River of Dee.

A Cawſey or Milſtank of ſtone in the River of Dee and City of Cheſter before the Reign of King Edw. 1. was made and erected, for the neceſſary maintainance of certain Mills, ſome of the Kings, others of the Subjects, which ſtood at the end of the Cawſey; and now of late a Decree was made by certain Comiſſioners of Sewers, for a breach to be made by ten Rods in length in the ſaid Cawſey, which Cawſey (as it was admitted by both ſides) was erected before the Reign of King Edw. 1. and ſo hath continued untill this day, without any exaltation or inhauncement. And if by any Decree of the Commiſſioners, by force of any Statute, any breach might be made of this Cawſey, was the queſtion, which was referred by Letters of the Lords of the Privy-Counſel to the two chief Juſtices, and the chief Baron; and upon hearing of Counſel Learned divers dayes, and upon conſideration had in the time of the laſt Vacation of all the Statutes concerning Sewers, and upon conference had amongſt themſelves, It was Reſolved as followeth. [b] [138]

1. Whereas it is Enacted by the Statute of Magna Charta, Quod omnes Kidelli deponantur, &c. de cætero penitus per Thameſim & Medeweyam, & per totam Angliam niſi per coſteram Maris, It was Reſolved, That this Statute doth extend onely to Kidels, that is, Penweares for taking of fiſh; but the firſt Statute which extendeth to the putting down or abating of any Mills, Mill-ſtanks and Cawſeys, was the Statute of 25 Edw. 3. Cap. 4. which Act appointeth ſuch onely to be put down or abated, which were levied or erected in the Reign of King Edw. 1. or after; but upon the Staeute made 1 Hen. 4. Cap. 12. upon complaint in Parliament of great damages which have happened by the outragious inhauncing of Mills, Mill-ſtanks, and other Impediments made and erected before the Reign of King Edw. 1. the ſaid ancient Mills and Mill-ſtanks were appointed by act then made to be ſurveyed, and ſuch as were found much inhaunced to be corrected and amended; Saving alwayes reaſonable ſubſtance of ſuch Mills, Mill-ſtanks, Weares, &c. ſo in old time made and levied. None of which acts extend to the caſe in queſtion; for this Cawſey was erected before the Reign of King Edw. 1. and was never exalted or inhaunced after the erection thereof. And the Statute of 12 Edw. 4. Cap. 7. confirmeth all the ſaid Acts, and by them the generality of the ſaid Act of Magna Charta is reſtrained, as by the ſaid Acts appeareth. And by the Statute of 25 Hen. 8. Cap. 5. none of the ſaid Acts (as to the point in queſtion) is repealed: For firſt, the ſame Act doth appoint the manner, form, tenor and effect of the Commiſſion of Sewers, by which power and authority is given to the Commiſſioners to ſurvey Walls, &c. Sewers, Cawſeys, Mills, &c. and them to correct, repair, amend, put down or reform, as cauſe ſhall require, according to their wiſdom and diſcretion; and therein as well to ordain and do, after the form, tenor and effect of all and ſingular the Statutes and Ordinances made before firſt day of March, anno 23 Hen. 8. as alſo to enquire by the Oaths of honeſt and lawful men, &c. through whoſe default the ſaid hurts and damages have happened, &c. By which it appeareth, That the diſcretion of the Commiſſioners was limited, ſc. to proceed according to the Statuters and Ordinances before made; and then all the ſaid ſubſequent clauſes, and alſo to reform, repair and amend the Walls, &c. by force of this word (ſaid) hath relation to the precedent purveiw of the Act: And further, to reform, amend, proſtrate and overthrow all ſuch Mills, &c. and other impediments and annoyances (aforeſaid) as ſhall be found by inquiſition, or by your ſurvey and diſcretion to be exceſſive and hurtfull: which word (aforeſaid) referreth this clauſe alſo to the precedent purveiw, &c. ſc. ſuch impediments and annoyances as are againſt the Statutes and Ordinances before made.

Alſo it is further Enacted by the ſaid Act, That all and every Statute, Act and Ordinance heretofore made concerning the premiſes, or any of them, not being contrary to this preſent Act, nor heretofore repealed, ſhall from henceforth ſtand and be good and effectual for ever. But the ſaid Acts of 25 Edw. 3. and 1 Hen. 4. are not contrary to any clauſe of this Act, nor were repealed before. And alwayes ſuch conſtruction ought to be made, that one part of the Act may agree with the other, and all to ſtand together. And if they had intended to have repealed the ſaid former Acts, they would not have repealed them by ſuch general and doubtful words, concerning Cawſeys, Mill-ſtank and Mills, when they concerned the Inheritances of many Subjects. And according to this Reſolution we certified the Lords of the Councel, That the ſaid Statutes of 25 Edw. 3. and 1 Hen. 4. remained in force; and that the Authority given by the Commiſſion of Sewers, doth not extend to Mills, Mill-ſtanks, Cawſeys, &c. erected before the Reign of King Edw. 1. if they be not exalted and inhaunced beyond their former altitude, and thereby made more prejudicial: In which caſe they are not to be thrown down or over-turned, but to be reformed by the abatement of the exceſs and inhauncement onely. Mich. 7 Jacobi. In the Common Pleas.

Keighley's Case.

[139] THis Term, upon Evidence to a Jury in Essex in the Case of one Keighley, It was Resolved by the whole Court of Common Pleas, That if one who is bound by prescription to repair a Wall contra fluxum Maris, and he keepeth the Wall in good repair, and of such heigth, and so sufficient as it was accustomed; and by the sudden and unusual increase of water, salt or fresh, the Walls are broken, or the Water over-floweth the Walls; That in this case the Commissioners of Sewers ought to tax such persons who hold any Lands or Tenements, or Common of Pasture, or profit of Fishing, or hath or may have any loss, damage or disadvantage by any manner of means in the same places, according to the quantity of their Lands, &c. for no fault in this case was in him who ought to repair it. And the Statute of 23 Hen. 8. Cap. 4. first doth authorize the Commissioners to enquire by the Oaths of honest and lawfull men &c. through whose default the said hurts or damages have happened, &c. and who hath or holdeth any Lands or Tenements, &c. or hath or may have any hurt, loss, or dis dvantage, &c. and all those persons, and every of them to tax, &c. which ought thus to be intended, That when one by prescription or otherwise [b] ought to repair any Wall, Sewer, &c. that he ought to do it; but if he be not able to do it, and for inevitable necessity it ought to be repaired, in prevention of a great and publick hurt; or if no default be in him by reason of the extraordinary rage and violence of the water, That the Commissioners of Sewers in such cases have power by the said Act to charge all who have any loss, &c. according to the quantity of their Land, &c. But when one is bounden by prescription or otherwise to repair a Wall, &c. if any fault be in him, and the danger be not inevitable, but that he himself may well repair it, The Commissioners may by the true intent of the Act charge him onely to repair it; and if through his fault the danger become inevitable, or that he himself is not able to repair it, by which as it hath been said, all are charged, &c. Every one of them may have an Action upon the Case against him who is so bounden to repair the Wall, &c. and shall recover their damages according to their loss.

In 18 Edw. 3. 23. an Action upon the Case was brought against B. and counted that the said B. was seised of certain Lands in K. by reason whereof he and his Ancestors, and all the terre-tenants time out of mind, &c. have made and repaired, when need should be, so many Perches of the Wall of the Sea in K. &c. and for want of reparation, &c. the water entred and drowned the plaintiffs Land, &c. And the defendant traversed the Prescription upon which they were at issue, and it was found for the plaintiff, and that there was fault in the Wall for not repairing of it; for which the plaintiff recovered his damages, and a Writ was awarded to the Sheriff to distrain B. to repair the Wall there where there was need, and a fault.

Note Reader, this Judgment in an Action upon the Case, and the reason thereof, is pro bono publico: for, Salus Populi est, Suprema Lex; and therefore it is part of the Judgment in this Action upon the Case, That the defendant shall be distrained to repair the Wall.

And in the Case at Bar, the Law is grounded upon great Reason: For although that by the Law one be bound to keep and repair it, yet impotentia excusat legem. And that which cometh by the act of God, and is so inevitable, that by no providence or industry of him that is bound, it can be prevented, shall not charge him.

And therefore if Tenant for life or years do not repair a Sea-wall, so that by his fault the land is drowned, and becometh unprofitable, it is Waste; but if the land be drowned by the extraordinary rage and violence of the Sea without his fault, it is no Waste: no more than if a house be burned by Lightning, or overthrown by Wind and Tempest, without fault in the lessee, it is no [140] Waste. And many times Tides are occasioned by strong winds. And therewith, as to the Waste, agreeth the Opinion of the Court of Common Pleas, in 6 Eliz. in Justice Dalison's Reports.

And the Court had consideration of another clause of the said Act of 23 Hen. 8. Cap. 5. And to make and ordain Statutes, Ordinances, &c. after the Laws and Customs of Romney-Marsh in the County of Kent, or otherwise, after your own wisdom and discretion.

And it was Resolved clearly, That the severall Commissioners shall follow the Laws and Customs of Romney-Marsh: But in case where any particular place within their Commission, had such Laws and Customs as Romney-Marsh had, there they may follow them; for consuetudo loci est observanda.

Lastly, it was Resolved, That these words in the Act, &c. According to your wisdoms and discretions, are to be intended and interpreted according to Law and Justice; and every Judge or Commissioner ought to have two Salts, &c. Salem Sapientiæ, ne sit insipidus, and Salem Conscientiæ, ne sit Diabolus. Also discretion, as it is well described, is Scire per legem quid sit justum: and therefore the Commissioners of Sewers ought to pursue as well their Commission, as the Oath expressed in the Act of 23 Hen. 8. which they take to execute their Commission of Sewers in the same manner as it is there prescribed. And therewith agreeth the description of Discretion in Rook's Case, in the fifth part of my Reports.

And

And it was well observed, That every Statute, Ordinance and Provision which is made by force of Commission of Sewers, ought to consist upon four Causes:

1. The Material cause, and that is Substance.
2. The Formal cause, and that is the Manner, with convenient Circumstance.
3. The Efficient cause, and that is their Authority according to their Commission.
4. The Final cause, and that is pro bono publico, & nunquam pro privato.

And whereas the Opinion of Walmesley Justice in Wekes Case was, if the owner of the land were by Prescription bound to repair the River bank, that yet upon such Commission awarded, ought not to charge him onely with the whole. Upon Conference with Walmesley, and Flemming Chief Justice, Yelverton, Williams, and other Justices, it was agreed by Walmesley himself, and all the other, That the said Resolution upon the difference aforesaid, was good in Law: and Walmesley explained his Opinion in Rooks Case, That the Commissioners ought not to charge him who is bound by Prescription onely; which he intended, where there is no fault in him: for the same agreeth with the said words of the Act of 23 Hen. 8. and there is no inevitable necessity for insufficiency or otherwise, but if he himself may do it, there he alone shall be charged to do it by force of the said Commission. And he said, That his Reason given in Rooks Case implieth as much. sc. for otherwise it may be that all the Countrey shall be drowned; which Reason imports his meaning, That all those who had Lands in danger should not be charged, but in case of insufficiency of him who is bound, or by other inevitable necessity. [b]

Mich. 7 Jacobi.

The Case of the Isle of Ely.

A Case was referred by the Lords of the Counsel to Coke Chief Justice, Daniel and Foster Justices of the Court of Common Pleas, Concerning a Decree made by the Commissioners of Sewers, for the making of a new River within the Isle of Ely; and in effect the case was such. The Commissioners of Sewers had decreed, That a new River should be cut out of the old River of Ouse, and through the main land within the same Isle, for seven miles, unto another part of the same River: And for the doing thereof, they had taxed several as well Fen-Drayton, Samsey, Over-Wivelingham, Rampton, Cottenham, and nine other Towns within the County of Cambridge, out of the Isle, as the Inhabitants of the said Isle, and the tax was general, sc. so much of one Town, and so much of another, and so of all of them. [141]

And in this Case two Questions were moved:

1. If the Commissioners of Sewers might by force of their Commission make a new River, or not.
2. If such general taxation upon the Town was lawful, or not.

And as to the first, it is to see, what might have been done by the Common Law, before any Statute made thereof. And it is to know, That by the Common Law, before the Statute of Hen. 6. Cap. 5. the King of Right ought to defend his Realm, as well against the Sea, as against the Enemies, that the same be not drowned or wasted: And also to provide, that his Subjects have their passage through the Realm by Bridges and High-wayes in safety. And therefore if the Sea-walls be broken, or the Sewers or Gutters are not scowred, that the fresh waters cannot have their direct course, the King ought to grant a Commission, to enquire, and to hear and determine these defaults. Which Commission appeareth in the Register, amongst the Commissions of Oyer and Terminer; in which it is said, Nos eo quod ratione dignitatis nostræ Regiæ ad providendum salvationi Regni nostri circumquaque sumus stricti, &c. And with that agreeth the Statute of 6 Hen. 6. Cap. 5. and the Statute of 23 Hen. 8. Cap. 5. [b]

And see a notable President, Pasch. 44 E. 3. Middl. coram Rege, Præceptum est Vicecomiti quod distringat A. B. & alios quod ipsi defectus walliarum erga terras suas reparan', & si ipsi sufficientes non fuerunt, quod distrin' omnes tenentes terrarum, &c. qui defensionem, commodum, salvamen, vel damnum ratione reparationis, seu non reparationis walliæ præd' habent seu aliquo modo habere poterint, ita quod quilibit tenentium præd' juxta quantitatem tenuræ suæ ibid', contributionem præfat' A. B. & aliis ad wallias illas faciendas & reparandas faciant indilate: Which Record was before any Act of Parliament that limited any form of Commission.

The second thing observable in the said Commission at the Common Law, is this clause, Ad hujusmodi wallias, fossata, gutturas, sueras, pontes, calceta, & gurgites in locis necessariis reparand', & quotiescunq; & ubi necesse fuerit de novo facienda: By which it appeareth, That by the Commission in the Register at the Common Law, that the ancient walls, gutters or Sewers might be repaired or new made; but no new walls, gutters or Sewers, by force of the said Commission might be made. Then it is to see, in what case the Statutes have made provision in these cases. And it is to know, That the Statute of 6 Hen. 6. Cap. 5. doth enlarge the said Commission which was at the Common Law; for where these words (de novo facienda) refer onely to old Walls, Gutters, Sewers, &c. the said Act hath these words, Et eadem & alia quotiescunque & ubi necesse fuerit de novo facienda; which words (& alia) being added to the former Commission, give to the Commissioners power to make new Walls, Gutters, Sewers, &c. but this Act did not endure but for ten years; and by 18 Hen. 6. Cap. 10. the like Commiſſion was eſtabliſhed for ten years; and by 23 Hen. 6. Cap. 9. for fifteen years; and by 12 Edw. 4. Cap. 6. for fifteen years; and by 4 Hen. 7. for twenty five years; and 6 Hen. 8. Cap. 10. for ten years, and until the next Parliament. And afterwards the Statute of 33 Hen. 8. Cap. 5. was made, which reciteth none of the former Acts as the other do, but enacteth, That there ſhall then after a Commiſſion of Sewers, according to the manner, tenor, form and effect hereafter enſuing, and rehearſeth the form of the Commiſſion de verbo in verbum: which Commiſſion omitteth the ſaid words (& alia) and follow-[142] eth the Commiſſion in that point which was at the Common Law. The words of the Act of 23 Hen. 8. being, And alſo to reform, repair and amend the ſaid Walls, Ditches, Banks, Gutters, Sewers, &c. and the ſame (omitting theſe words, and other) as often, and where need ſhall be, to make new. And the former clauſe concerning execution of the former Statutes and Ordinances, is reſtrained with theſe words (touching the premiſes) which refer onely to repair the old Walls or Sewers, or to make them new. And alſo a ſubſequent clauſe, That all and every Statute, &c. heretofore made concerning the premiſes, (which reſtraineth that clauſe ut ſupra) not being contrary to this preſent Act, nor heretofore repealed, ſhall ſtand and be good and effectual for ever. So that it was Reſolved by the Juſtices, That by force of the ſaid Commiſſion founded upon the Act of 23 Hen. 8. the Commiſſioners could not make the ſaid new River out of the main Land, for four cauſes.

1. That this Act doth preſcribe the manner and form of the Commiſſion in expreſs words, which extend onely to reparation and new making of old Walls, Gutters, &c.

2. That theſe words (& alia) which were included in the Statute of 6 Hen. 6. and all the ſaid Acts are left out of this Commiſſion.

3. All the former Acts were for a time, but this Act which eſtabliſheth this Commiſſion, is made perpetual by the Statute of 3 Edw. 6. Cap. 8. and therefore it ſhall be hard to enlarge it beyond the words, and to give power to Commiſſioners to try inventions at the charger of the Countrey, which ſhall never take good effect, but via trita eſt tutiſſima.

4. It appeareth by the Regiſter in the Writ of Ad quod damnum 252. and F. N. B. 225. That if an old Ditch or Trench coming from the Sea to a Town, by which Boats and Veſſels uſe to paſs to the ſaid Town; now if it be ſtopped by the outrage of the Sea, and a man would ſue to the King, to have leave to make a new trench, and to ſtop the old trench, he ought firſt to ſue Ad quod damnum, to know what damage it ſhall be to the King or others: By which, and by the Writ in the Regiſter de antiqua trenchea obſtruenda & nova facienda ſeu habenda, it appeareth, that no new trench or river which runneth to the Sea, can be made without the Writ of Ad quod damnum, and there-
[b] upon to obtain leave of the King to do it. For if any Commiſſioners might do it ex officio, great inconvenience would follow thereupon for private gain, as well as for publick damage or ſtopping of Havens, (which are the gates of the Kingdom) and other common Rivers, as particular nuſance and prejudice to private men, by drowning of their Lands and Inheritance. And therefore ſuch new Rivers cannot be made without the Kings Licence, grounded upon a Writ of Ad quod damnum. See the Writ of Ad quod damnum in ſuch caſe, becauſe it is excellent.

But it was reſolved, That new Inventions, as of an artificial Mill to caſt out the water, or of a great River out of the main Land, and other the like, are not warranted by the ſaid Commiſſion upon the ſaid Act of 23 Hen. 8. quia nihil ſemel inventum eſt & perfectum. So when an old Sewer is newly to be made or cleanſed, ſome ſmall alteration in reſpect of the natural change of the current, or otherwiſe for the publick good of ſuch place (and ſo in the like caſes) may be made. So when an old wall by the extream outrage of the water is broken, to preſerve the lands within the ſame Level from inundation; another wall, in caſe of inevitable neceſſity for the publick good of that part, may be made to defend the people and their Lands within the ſame Level. For this manner of defence by walling, is no new invention, but the old way and mean well approved of by experience, and upon the matter it is but a new making of the old wall in a place by inevitable neceſſity more fit than the other. But if by the timely reparation of the old wall, the extream danger may be avoided, no other ought to be made; for ſi aſſuetis mederi poſſis nova non ſunt tentanda: but when new inventions are propoſed, as is aforeſaid, if they are apparently profitable, no owner of the land there will deny to make contribution for his advantage; and then the ſame ought to be made by a voluntary conſent, and not by conſtraint by force of the ſaid Commiſſion of Sewers upon the ſaid Act of 23 H. 8. But ſometimes when a publick good is pretended, a private benefit is intended. And if any ſuch new invention be in truth (quod raro aut nunquam fit) good for the Common-wealth, and yet no conſent can be obtained for the making of it, then there is no remedy but to complain in Parliament, and there to provide relief, as Sir John Popham late Chief Juſtice of England did, who exhibited a Bill in Parliament anno 3 Jac. for making of a new River in the ſaid Iſlle, which he himſelf upon his great charge begun, knowing that without an Act of Parliament, none could be forced by force of the Commiſſion of Sewers, to contribute to ſuch a new attempt. But the Bill was utterly rejected.

Alſo it was Reſolved, that none can be taxed towards the reparation, but thoſe who have prejudice, damage or diſadvantage by the ſaid nuſances or defaults, and who may have benefit and profit by the reformation or removing of them. Alſo the Tax, Aſſeſment and charge ought to have [143] theſe qualities. 1. It ought to be according to the quantity of their lands, tenements and rents, and by number of acres and perches. 2. According to the rate of every perſons portion, tenure or profit, or of quantity of Common of paſture, or of fiſhing, or other Comodity. And therefore it was clearly Reſolved by them, That the tax generally of a ſeveral ſum in groſs upon a Town is not not warranted by their Commiſſion, but it ought to have been particular, according to the expreſs words, upon every owner or poſſeſſor of lands, tenements, rents, &c. obſerving the qualities aforeſaid.

And it is to be obſerved, That there are three manner of Statutes which concern Sewers: The firſt conſiſting in defendendo & reparando wallias, ſeweras, &c. The 2. in deſtruendo & amovendo nocumenta, &c. The 3. which concerneth both the points, tam in deſtruendo & amovendo quam in defendendo. Of the firſt ſort are Magna Charta, cap. 15, & 16. 6 H. 6. cap. 5. 18 H. 6. cap. 10. 23 H. 6. cap. 9. 12. E. 4. cap. 6. 4 H. 7. cap. 8. 6. H. 8. c. 10. Of the ſecond ſort, are Magna Charta Cap. 23. 25 E. 3. cap. 4. 45 E. 3. cap. 4. 1 H. 4. cap. 12. 9 H. 6. cap. 9. 12 E. 4. cap. 7. Of the third ſort of Statutes, which concern both the former ſorts, are 23 H. 8. cap. 5. 25 H. 8. cap. 10. 3 E. 6. cap. 8. and 13 Eliz. cap. 9.

Scropes's Caſe.

THe Caſe between Thomas Bridges and Anne his wife plaintiffs, and Elizabeth Scrope and other defendants, was ſuch: Nicholas Scrope was ſeiſed in fee of the Mannors of Harleſton and Mount; and having iſſue the ſaid Anne one of the plaintiffs by Winifrid his wife, by Indenture dated 26 Junii, 23 Eliz. for the preferment of Winifrid his wife and Anne their daughter, did covenant with others to ſtand ſeiſed of the ſaid Mannors to the uſe of the ſaid Nicholas Winifrid, and Anne for their lives, and afterwards to the ſaid Anne, and the heirs of her body, with divers remainders over; with a Proviſo, That if the ſaid Nicholas during his life, and after his debts paid, mentioned in a Schedule annexed to the Indenture, ſhall be diſpoſed either to determine, diſannul, change, alter, enlarge, diminiſh or make void the uſes or eſtates, or any of them, of the premiſes, or any part thereof; That then it ſhall be lawful to and for the ſaid Nicholas, at all times at his pleaſure, by his writing indented under his Hand and Seal, ſubſcribed in the preſence of three Witneſſes, to determine, diſannul, &c. And alſo by the ſame writing at his will and pleaſure, or any other writing whatſoever, ſigned and ſubſcribed as aforeſaid, to limit declare and appoint the uſes of the ſame to the perſons aboveſaid, or to any other perſons, &c. Winifrid died, the ſaid Nicholas married Eliz. Morrice; and by Indenture ult. Novemb. 33 Eliz. ſubſcribed in the preſence of three Witneſſes, in conſideration of a Joynture to be made to the ſaid Eliz. did covenant with Wykes and Warnford, to ſtand ſeiſed of the ſaid Mannor of Harleſton to the uſe of the ſaid Nicholas and Eliz. for their lives, and afterwards to the uſe of the right heirs of the ſaid Nicholas, &c. and other Conveyances of the fee ſimple were afterwards made. And it was Reſolved by the two chief Juſtices, and the chief Baron, That although in this caſe there is not any expreſs ſignification of his purpoſe or determination to determine, diſannul, &c. Yet foraſmuch as by the ſaid Indenture of 33 Eliz. he covenanteth to ſtand ſeiſed to the uſe of himſelf, and the ſaid Elizabeth then his wife, and afterwards to his right heirs, the ſame ſhall innure to two intents. 1. To declare his purpoſe and determination to determine and diſannul, &c. and therefore ipſo facto the former uſes ceaſe. And 2. the Covenant in the ſame Indenture doth inure to raiſe a new uſe to the ſaid Nicholas and Elizabeth his wife, and to the heirs of the ſaid Nicholas. And ſo it was Reſolved in a Caſe in the Kings Bench, between Frampton and Framton, Trin. 2. Jac. Regis, quia non refert an quis intentionem ſuam declaret verbis, an rebus ipſis, vel factis; and when he limiteth new and other uſes, he thereby doth ſignifie his purpoſe to determine and alter the uſes before. But it was Reſolved, That all incident circumſtances preſcribed by the Proviſo, ſc. as to Subſcription, Witneſſes, and other circumſtances, ought to be obſerved in the ſecond Indenture. [b] [144]

THE REPORTS OF Sir Edward Coke Kt, &c.

PART XI.

Anno 32 Eliz.

The Case of the Lord Lord De La Ware.

AT the Parliament holden 39 Eliz. the Case was such: Thomas la Ware, Knight, Lord la Ware, Son and Heir of William, Son and Heir of George, Brother and Heir of Thomas Lord la Ware, exhibited his Petition to the Queen to this effect, That whereas the said Thomas his Great Grand-father was called to Parliament by Writ of Summons, An. 3 H. 8. and afterwards the said Thomas the Besayel died; after whose death Thomas his son was called to divers Parliaments by Writs of Summons, and afterwards by Act of Parliament, An. 3 Ed. 6. for divers causes mentioned in the said Act, it was enacted, That the said William, during his life, should be disabled to claim or enjoy any dignity or Lordship in any Right, Estate, &c. by Discent, Remainder, or otherwise, and afterwards the said Thomas, son of Thomas, died; after whose death, the said William being so disabled, was not called to any Parliament by Writ of Summons, till Queen Elizabeth called him to Parliament by Writ of Summons, and sat as puisne Lord of the Parliament, and afterwards he died. And now the said Thomas his son being called, this Parliament by Writ of Summons sued to the Queen, that he might have the place in Parliament of his Great Grand-father, viz. between the Lord Berkley and the Lord Willoughby of Eresby: And the said Petition was endorsed in these words, Her Majesty hath commanded me to signifie to your Lordships, That upon the humble suit of the Lord la Ware, she is pleased that the matter shall be considered and determined in the House, Rob. Cecil. Which Petition being read in the Upper House of Parliament, the consideration thereof was committed to the Lord Burghley, Lord Treasurer, and divers other Committees, who at his Chamber at Whitehal, heard the Councel Learned on both parties, in the presence of two Chief Justices, and divers other Justices; and two Objections were made against the Claim of the said Lord la Ware. [1] [b]

First, Forasmuch as his Father was disabled by Act of Parliament to claim the Dignity, the Petitioner could not convey by him who was disabled, as Heir to his Great Grand-father, and by consequence he cannot have the place of his Great Grand-father, But his Fathers place. But it was resolved by the Justices, That there was a difference betwixt a Personal and Temporal disability, and a disability absolute and perpetual: As where one is attained of Treason and Felony, the same is an absolute and perpetual disability by corruption of Blood, for any of his posterity to claim any Inheritance in Fee-simple as Heir to him, or to any Ancestor above him; but when one is but disabled by Parliament (wihout any Attainder) to claim the Dignity for life, the same is a personal disability for life onely, and his Heir after his death may claim as Heir to him, or to any of his Ancestors above him.

The ſecond Objection was, That the ſaid William had accepted of a new Creation of the Queen, which dignity newly gained, did diſcend to the Petitioner, which he could not wave, and therefore the Petitioner could not have other place then his Father had. To which, it was anſwered and reſolved, That the Acceptance of a new Creation by the ſaid William, could not hurt the Petitioner, becauſe that the ſaid William was at that time diſabled, and in truth, was not a Baron, but onely an Eſquire; ſo that when the old and new Dignity diſcend together, the old ſhall be preferred. Which reſolution was well approved by all the Lords Committees, which was accordingly reported to the Lords of the Parliament, and allowed by them all.

Whereupon it was ordered by the Lords, That the Queen ſhould be acquainted with it by the Lord Keeper of the Great Seal, which was done accordingly, and the Queen confirmed the ſame alſo: All which was ordered and entred accordingly. Whereupon, at the ſame Parliament the [2] Lord de la Ware in his Parliament Robes, was by the Lord Zouch (ſupplying the place of the Lord Willoughby, then within age,) and the Lord Berkley alſo in their Robes, brought into the Houſe, and placed in his ſaid place, viz. next after the Lord Berkley; Garter King of Arms attending upon them, and doing his office: And I was of Councel with the Lord de la Ware.

Auditor Curle's Caſe.

[b] IT is enacted by the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 66. That there ſhall be two perſons to be named by the Kings Highneſs, which ſhall be called the Auditors of the Lands of his Graces Wards, and ſhall be called the Fourth Officer of the ſame Court: Which Office is in part Miniſterial, as to the auditing of Accompts, and in part Judicial; for he is ſworn by force of the ſaid Act, That you ſhall not take nor receive of poor nor rich, any gift or reward in any matter or cauſe depending in the ſame Court: And in the ſame Statute there is a Proviſo, That John Peryent which by the Kings Letters Patents hath been heretofore, and now is Auditor of his Graces Wards Lands, ſhall continue and be one of the two Auditors mentioned in this Act, during the term of his natural life. King Henry the Eight, An. 32. of his Reign, by his Letters Patents under the Great Seal, doth nominate and conſtitute John Peryent unum Auditorum curiæ ſuæ Wardorum & liberationum, habendum to him for time of his life, with a Fee of forty marks per annum. John Peryent, An. 36 H. 8. doth ſurrender his Eſtate and Patent to Henry the Eight, and the King by his Letters Patents under the Great Seal, in complementum tam prioris quàm poſterioris actus (viz. of 32 & 33 H. 8.) granteth to John Peryent and William Took officium unius Auditorum curiæ ſuæ Wardorum, habendum dictis John Peryent & Willielmo Took conjunctim & diviſim pro termino vitarum ſuarum & eorum alterius diutius vivent', [3] cum feodo 40 marcarum. Peryent dieth An. 6 Ed. 6. and William Took doth exerciſe and enjoy the Office alone until 30 Eliz. and then dieth. Queen Elizabeth, An. 31. of her Reign, by her Letters Patents in complementum, &c. ut ſupra, granteth to Walter Took and William Curle officium unius Auditorum curiæ ſuæ Wardorum, &c. habend' dict' Waltero & Willielmo & alteri eorum conjunctim & diviſim pro termino vitarum ſuarum & eorum alterius diutius viventis. Our Lord the King that now is Anno 4. during the lives of Walter Tooke and William Curle, by his Letters Patents (in which is recited the Grant made of the ſaid Office by Queen Elizabeth to Walter Took and William Curle) & in complementum, &c. ut ſupra, granteth to John Churchil and John Tooke, Officium unius Auditorum, curiæ ſuæ prædictæ, habend' eiſdem John Churchil & John Tooke immediate poſt mortem prædict' Walteri Tooke & Wil. Curle & eorum alterius diutius viventis, vel à tempore quo officium illud per forisfacturam, ſurſum redditionem, ſive quemcunque alium modum primo & proximè vocaverit, aut ad manus noſtras devenire contingerit. And afterwards John Churchil dieth, and the King Writing both the Letters Patents, the one made to Walter Tooke and William Curle, and the other to John Churchil, and John Tooke in complementum, &c. ut ſupra, & ea intentione ut ſint duæ perſonæ poſt mortem aliquorum prædict' Walteri, Willielmi & Johannis qui ſint vocat' Auditores terrarum Wardorum ſuorum, ſecundum vim & intentionem Actus prædict', grants to Richard Percival Officium unius Auditorum curiæ ſuæ prædict', &c. habendum poſt mortem prædict' Walteri Tooke, Willielmi Curle, & Johannis Tooke, vel aliquorum duorum eorum qui citius mori contigerint, vel à tempore quo, &c. ut ſupra: And afterwards Walter Tooke dieth, and William Curle, and John Tooke, and Richard Percival, are alive. And in this caſe divers Queſtions were made and argued by Learned Councel, on both parts, at divers days, as well in Michaelmas Term laſt paſt, as this Term: And upon good conſideration and confidence amongſt the two Chief Juſtices, and the Chief Baron, theſe points were reſolved.

1. That the Letters Patents made to John Peryent and William Tooke de officio unius Auditorum curiæ ſuæ Wardorum, were good: For although that the Statute doth Enact, That there ſhall be two perſons which ſhall be called the Auditors of the Lands, &c. So that there ſhall be two

two persons and called two Auditors, yet it is but unum officium, and they both are but one Officer; and so the Statute it self speaketh, For two persons called Auditors, shall be called the Fourth Officer of the same Court: So that the Grant de Officio unius Auditoris, or unius Auditorum, is good enough; for mala grammatica non vitiat conceſſionem. And if the Grant had been in English, viz. The Office of one Auditor, or one of the Auditors of the Lands, &c. it had been good. And so is the Book adjudged by the advice of all the Justices in the like case, in 9 Ed. 4. fol. 1. Why King Edward the Fourth by his Letters Patents Anno 4. of his Reign, granted to William Swyrenden and John Bagot, Officium unius Clericorum de Corona in Cancellaria dicti Domini Regis, for term of their lives, &c. And in Assise brought in the Kings Bench, Catesby took exception to that Grant, because that it doth appear that Officium unius Clericorum is granted to two which could not be; That two could have the Office of one, no more then if he granted to two the Chief Justice of this place, it shall be void; for the matter it self proveth, That two cannot have it in Common, for none can be Chief Justice but one. But if Officium Clerici de Corona be granted to two, the same is good enough; and many other Exceptions were taken by him. And the Book saith, That the Justices said, that they talked of all these points with the Justices of the Common Pleas, and it seemed to them, that these matters were not to the purpose to stay Judgment, and so was conceived: For which cause it was awarded, That Swyrenden and Bagot should recover the Office, and their damages taxed by the Assise. By which Resolution of all the Justices, it appeareth, That when there is an Office of Clerk of the Crown in Chancery, that it is all one to grant Officium unius Clericorum de Corona, and to grant Officium Clerici de Corona to two, because there is but one Office: So in this case at the Barr there is but one Office, and two persons to supply it, and therefore the Grant is good; and in this case, this word (unius) is not numerative, but to note the unity, particularity, and identity of the Office. [b]

2. It was resolved, That although these two persons called Auditors, are but one Officer, yet the words in the Grant, viz. Conjunctim & divisim, & alterius eorum diutius viventis, are material: And if one office be granted to two, Pro termino vitarum ſuarum, (without more) by the death of the one of them, the Grant shall be void: For being an Office of trust, there shall be no Survivor of it. And in this case no Survivor can be: For inasmuch as it is enacted by the Act of Parliament, by which this new Court was erected, That there shall be two persons, &c. who have (as is aforesaid) Judicial voice, the King cannot constitute one onely, for the Subject by the Act hath interest in it, Et ſecurius expediuntur negotia commiſſa pluribus: But the King may constitute one at one time by one Patent, and another at another time by another Patent. And although he may so do, yet he who is first constituted, hath not any Judicial voice till the other be appointed; for it is enacted by the Statute, That two persons, &c. shall be one Officer: And therefore it was resolved, That these words Conjunctim & divisim, & alterius eorum diutius viventis, shall serve to this purpose, That the Survivor shall be one of the persons, to whom another shall be added. [4]

3. It was resolved, That this nomination by the King ought to be under the Great Seal of England, and not by word, nor by the Privy Seal, nor Signet, &c.

4. It was resolved, That the Grant made by the King to John Churchil and John Tooke in Reversion, after the death of Walter Tooke and William Curle, was void for three causes.

First, Because the same is as it hath been said, a Judicial Officer; for Auditors are one of the Judges of the Court: And as none can give any judgment of things which happen in futuro, so none can be a Judge in futuro; and the rule is, That Officia judicialia non concedantur antequam vacent: And great inconvenience would follow thereupon: For he who at the time of the Grant in Reversion, may be able and sufficient to supply the Office of Judicature, and to administer Justice to the Kings people, before that the Office falleth, may become unable and insufficient to perform it. And it was resolved, That neither the Office of Master of the Wards, nor of the Surveyor, nor Attorney of the same Court, can be granted in Reversion, because they are Judicial Offices.

Secondly, Although the Office be in part Judicial, and in part Ministerial, and Offices Ministerial may be granted in Reversion; yet because two persons shall have both these as one Office and one Officer, the same is by the Act of Parliament so entire, that it cannot be divided; for the King cannot make two Auditors of the Ministerial Office, and two as to the Judicial Office, for then there should be four persons, and the Act doth restrain it to two; neither can the King make one person to have the Judicial voice, and the other the Ministerial Office; for then there should be two Officers, and two Offices, and the Act maketh but one Officer; and then the one should have a distinct Office and voice, whereas the Act doth conjoyn them in two persons.

Thirdly, These words in the said Grant in Reversion, Vel à tempore quo, &c. officium illud per mortem forisfactur', ſurſum redditionem, ſeu quemcunque alium modum, &c. vacari contigerit, cannot (if the Ministerial Office might be onely granted in Reversion) take effect by the death of Walter Tooke, to make another to exercise the Office with the Survivor, because that a Grant to two; and then if Walter Tooke had died during their two lives, there should be three Officers, where the Act restraineth the same to two onely; and although that one dieth, the same doth not make the Grant, which is void at the time of the making of it good. Also the words are, Quando officium illud, &c. vacare contigerit; and that in this case shall be intended the whole Office; and that is not void till after the death of both the Patentees in possession. [b]

5. It was resolved, When Walter Tooke dieth, then William Curle doth remain one of the persons, &c. and the King may add another to him; and until another be added, his voice is suspended, as in the case of 14 H. 4. 35. If a Writ issue to the Sheriffs of London, and one one of them dieth, the other cannot execute the Writ, becauſe that his power is ſuſpended until he have a Companion choſen to him.

6. It was reſolved, That the Grant made to Richard Percival, is void: Firſt, becauſe it is a Judicial Office, and (as is aforeſaid) cannot be granted in Reverſion: Secondly, Admitting that it may be granted in Reverſion, the ſame reciteth the Grant made to John Tooke and John Churchil, as a good Grant, whereas it was void; and the Grant of Percival is to begin after that, and ſo the King is deceived in his Grant.

Trin. 10 Jacobi.

Sir John Heydon's Caſe.

[5] SIr John Heydon Knight, brought an Action of Treſpaſs of Battery, and wounding (which in truth was in a cruel and barbarous manner) at Fakenham in Norfolk, againſt Froxmere Cocket, Thomas Cocket, and Jeffrey Cobb; Froxmere Cocket appeared, againſt whom the Plaintiff declared with Simul cum, &c. And Froxmere Cocket pleaded, not guilty, and thereupon Venire facias iſſued, &c. And Thomas Cocket appeared, againſt whom the Plaintiff alſo declared with Simul cum, &c. who pleaded alſo not guilty, upon which, another Venire facias iſſued; and both theſe iſſues came to tryal at the Aſſizes at Thetford in Norfolk, An. 8. Jac. Regis, before the Cheif Juſtice of the Common Pleas, and in truth the iſſue againſt Froxmere was firſt tryed, and the Jury aſſeſſed Two hundred pound damages; and at the ſame Aſſizes the iſſue againſt Thomas Cocket was tryed, and de bene eſſe damages were aſſeſſed to Fifty pound; and the cauſe which moved the Jury to extenuate the damages againſt the others, was, That although they were parties, and of one quarrel, yet Froxmere Cocket was the moſt malicious and cruel. and he gave the ſaid barbarous and grievous wounds: Jeffrey Cobb appeared, and confeſſed the Action, and a Writ of Enquiry of Damages awarded upon the Roll, but none iſſued. And a great queſtion was moved and depended by divers Terms, how, and againſt whom, and for what damages, Judgment ſhould [b] be entred. And at the laſt, upon conſideration had of the Preſidents, and of our Books, it was reſolved by the whole Court, as followeth.

1. When in Treſpaſs againſt divers Defendants, they plead not guilty, or ſeveral Pleas, and the Jury findeth for the Plaintiff in all, the Jurors cannot aſſeſs ſeveral damages againſt the Defendants, becauſe that all is one Treſpaſs, and made joynt by the Plaintiff, by his Writ and Declaration; and although that one of them is more malicious and de facto doth more and greater wrong then the others, yet all coming to do an unlawful Act, and of one party, the act of one is the act of all, the ſame party being preſent. And therefore in ſuch caſe, if one onely giveth the mortal blow, whereupon death followeth, it is murder in all who are preſent, and of the ſame party, although the others do not intend to give the blow ſo mortal, as appeareth in Mackallies caſe, in the ninth part of my Reports: But in Treſpaſs againſt two, if the Jury find one guilty at one time, and another at another time, there ſeveral damages may be taxed; but if the Plaintiff himſelf confeſſeth, that they committed the Treſpaſs ſeverally, there the Writ ſhall abate; and ſo there is a difference by finding by Verdict, and confeſſion of the party. Vide 36 H. 6. 27. in Maintenance, 2. H. 7. 16. b. Alſo there is a difference betwixt an expreſs confeſſion, and not gain-ſaying, 8 H. 6. 13. 10 Ed. 4. 8. 11 H. 7. by Mordant, 8 H. 5. 5. 8 Ed. 3. 8. b. 17 Ed. 3. 43. a. 21 Ed. 3. 13. 18 Ed. 3. 49.

2. It was reſolved, That in Treſpaſs againſt two, where one cometh and appeareth, &c. againſt whom the Plaintiff declareth Simul cum, &c. who pleadeth and is found guilty by the Enqueſt to damages, and afterwards the other cometh, and pleads, and is found guilty; the Defendant who firſt pleaded ſhall be charged with the damages taxed by the former Enqueſt; for the Treſpaſs which the Plaintiff hath made joynt by his Writ and Declaration, and done at one time, cannot be ſevered by the Jury, if the Jury find the Treſpaſs to be done by all at one time, as the Plaintiff hath ſuppoſed. Againſt which it was objected, That the ſame may be miſchievous againſt the Defendant who laſt pleadeth; for exceſſive damages by conſent between the Plaintiff and the firſt Defendant may be found, with which the ſecond Defendant ſhould be charged; and he ſhould not have any remedy for to relieve himſelf by Attaint, in as much as he is a meer ſtranger to the iſſue, upon which the damages were aſſeſſed. But it was reſolved, That in ſuch caſe he ſhould have an Attaint; For although he be a ſtranger to the iſſue, yet becauſe that by the Law he is privy in charge, he ſhall have an Attaint; and therewith agreeth 44 Ed. 3. 7. adjudged in the [143] point; and F. N. B. 107 a. accordingly; and in 44 Ed. 3. 6. In Treſpaſs of Battery there is a maxim taken, That in every caſe where the Enqueſt is taken by the Wife of the party, by the ſame Enqueſt damages ſhall be tryed by all. Vide Paſchæ, 9 H. 6. rot. 345. in the Common Pleas, Exoneratio Juratorum de damnis aſſidendis in tranſgreſſione ſuper veredicto ſuo, eo quod prius aſſeſſa fuerat per alium Juratorum verſos alios in le ſimul cum: But in Michaelmas, 39 H. 6. 1. in an Action of Treſpaſs againſt many (who had pleaded in Bar the laſt Term) and one of them made default, which was recorded there; It is reſolved by the whole Court, That for ſaving of a Diſcontinuance, a Writ of Enquiry of Damages ſhall be awarded; but none ſhall iſſue, becauſe he ſhall be contricontributory to the damages taxed by the Enqueſt, at the coſts of the parties, if they find for the Plaintiff; and if they find againſt the Plaintiff, then the Writ of Enquiry of Damages ſhall iſſue forth. And the reaſon that no Writ ſhall iſſue forth at the firſt, to enquire of the damages, until, &c. is becauſe that if a Writ ſhall iſſue, and damages be found, it is but an Enqueſt of Office, and not at the coſts of the parties; and yet the Enquiry (if it ſhould be lawfull) ought to ſerve for all the damages; for the enquiry of them ſhall not be twice, and the others who have pretended to the Enqueſt, if the iſſue be found againſt them, ſhall be chargeable with thoſe damages which are found by Enqueſt of Office; and if they be exceſſive, they ſhould not have any remedy, and yet no default is in them; for they cannot have an Attaint, becauſe it is but an Enqueſt of Office: But in caſe when in Treſpaſs againſt two, they plead not guilty ſeverally, and ſeverall Venire facias are awarded; the Enqueſt which firſt paſſed, ſhall aſſeſs damages for all, and the ſecond Enqueſt ſhall not aſſeſs damages; but he ſhall be contributory to the damages aſſeſſed by the firſt, notwithſtanding he be not a party to it; and yet if the damages be exceſſive, he ſhall have an Attaint, and ſo no damages or miſcheif ſhall accrue to him in ſuch caſe. Vide 21 Ed. 3. 57. And there in the ſaid Book of 39 H. 6. 1. Winſlade the Prothonotary ſaith, It had been a common courſe here, that ſo ſoon as one hath made default, to award a Writ of Enquiry of Damages againſt him: And according to the ſaying of Winſlade in 19 H. 6. 8. a Writ of Enquiry of damages is awarded in ſuch caſe, but againſt Law, as before appeareth. And further, in arreſt of Judgment it was moved, That there was a Diſcontinuance againſt Jeffery Cobb, and the Diſcontinuance is not helped by the Statute of 32 H. 8. nor any other Statute; for the Judgment is given upon confeſſion, and not upon a Verdict. Alſo Jeffery Cobb is not party to the iſſue or the Enqueſt which aſſeſſeth the damages. Vide Mich. 1 & 2 Phil. & Mar. An iſſue joined betwixt the Demandant and the Vouchee, is out of the Statute of 32 H. 8. and yet he was party to the iſſue, But it was reſolved, That the ſaid Act did extend to the Caſe at Bar, becauſe that Jeffery Cobb was party to the Original; and one of the Defendants in the Action; for the words of the Statute of 32 H. 8. are, If any iſſue be tryed by oath of twelve or more indifferent men for the Plaintiff or Defendant, or for the party of the Tenant or Defendant, &c. So that the Vouchee is out of theſe words; but Jeffery Cobb in this caſe is one of the Defendants, and ſo within the words of the Act, and a Verdict in this caſe is given, to which he is ſo privy, that he may have an Attaint. Alſo it was affirmed by all the Prothonotaries, and ſo reſolved, That after the Writ of Enquiry of damages awarded, there is no diſcontinuance after in the Common Pleas, betwixt the Plaintiff and the Defendant, againſt whom the Writ of Enquiry, &c. is awarded; but the courſe is otherwiſe in the Kings Bench: And ſo it was adjudged between Tooly Plaintiff, and Prieſton Defendant, Mich. 29 and 30 Eliz. in the Common Pleas, and afterwards affirmed in a Writ of Error in the Court of Kings Bench: But there are divers preſidents in this Court, that in ſuch caſe diſcontinuances have been taken, which is a ſure way, Et abundans cautela non nocet. And afterwards in the caſe at Bar, Judgment was given for Sir John Heydon Plaintiff, for the Two hundred pound aſſeſſed, &c. againſt all the Defendants: Upon which Judgment, a Writ of Error was brought, and all the ſaid payments were moved and debated again at the Bar, and at the Bench in the Kings Bench, and upon good conſideration the Judgment before given, was affirmed by the whole Court. [b]

Note Reader, in Mich. 28 and 29 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, Richard Gomerſal brought an Action of Accompt againſt John Gomerſal of divers Receipts and Parcels; to all which, but to one, the Defendant pleaded to iſſue (and to one parcel pleaded nothing) and the iſſues were found for the Plaintiff: And it was moved in Arreſt of Judgment, That the Plea was diſcontinued, becauſe he did not anſwer to Parcel, as it is agreed in 7 Ed. 4. 24. and 7 H. 6. 5, &c. And it was objected, That that Diſcontinuance was not remedied by the Statute of 32 H. 8. Becauſe that no anſwer is given to one Parcel, and of Parcel the Plaintiff could not have Judgment according to his Declaration; for of the Parcel to which no Anſwer was made, no Judgment can be given.

3. But it was reſolved, and ſo affirmed in the Kings Bench, That the Statute of 32 H. 8. did extend unto it; for it is thereby Enacted, That after Verdict found, Judgment ſhall be given, any Diſcontinuance, &c. notwithſtanding: And accordingly Judgment was given of ſo much as was found by that Verdict. See Herlakinden's caſe in the Fourth part of my Reports. [7]

4. In the caſe at Bar; for as much as in Judgment of Law, the ſeveral Juries gave one Verdict at one time, the Plaintiff may have Election to have Judgment De melioribus damnis by any of the Enqueſts, and the ſame ſhall bind all; but there ſhall be but unica executio. Vide Mich. 10 & 11 Eliz. Rot. 758. Hill. 17 Eliz. Rot. 1042. lib. intrat. 589. ſect. 12. But in the caſe at Bar, in truth the greater damages were firſt taxed. Vide 19 H. 6. 8. by Hody.

5. It was reſolved, That where no Treſpaſs, the Defendants plead ſeveral Pleas all tryable by one Jury, and both the iſſues are found for the Plaintiff, the Jury cannot ſever the damages; and if they do, all the Verdict is faulty, as it appeareth, Hill. 43 Eliz. Rot. 1694. in the Common Pleas between Auſten Plaintiff, and Willard and two others Defendants in Battery; one pleaded not guilty, and the other pleaded of his own aſſault; and both the iſſues found for the Plaintiff, and ſeveral damages were given againſt them; and per Curiam it was not good.

And in this caſe a Record was cited, by which it appeareth, That Edward Miles brought Treſpaſs (which began in the Kings Bench, 7 Jac. Regis, Rot. 413.) againſt Richard Prat, Thomas Richardſon and Nicholas Babbs, for breaking and entring of his Cloſe and Houſe at Nedeham Market; and for taking and carrying away of a Cubbard of the value of Forty ſhillings, with divers Deeds, Evidences, contained in the ſaid Cubbard; a Copper of the value of Forty ſhillings, a Lead of the value of Ten pounds, and Forty yards of Wainſcot, of the value of Nine pound, to the damages of the ſaid Edward of Two hundred pounds, Nicholas Babbs pleaded not guilty generally, Thomas Richardſon to all the Treſpaſs, but the breaking and entring the Cloſe and Houſe, pleaded not guilty: Richard Prat to all the Treſpaſs but the breaking and entry of the Houſe, and taking and carrying away of the Cubbard and Lead, pleaded not guilty. As to the breaking of the Cloſe and Houſe, Thomas Richardſon ſaid, and as to the breaking of the Cloſe and Houſe, and taking and carrying away of the Cubbard and Lead, Prat ſaid actio non, and pleaded in Bar a Statute

[b] Staple of One hundred and fifty pound, acknowledged by Miles to Thomas Prat, and that the ſaid Houſe and Cloſe, and the ſaid Copper and Lead (inter alia) were extended by force of the ſaid Statute, and by Liberate delivered to the ſaid Thomas Prat, who died poſſeſſed and inteſtate; and the Adminiſtration of the Goods and Chattels of the ſaid Thomas were committed to the ſaid Richard Prat; for which, the ſaid Richard Prat in his own right, and Richardſon as his ſervant entred into the ſaid Cloſe and Houſe, and took the ſaid Copper and Lead, as the Goods and Chattels of the ſaid Richard Prat, by reaſon of the ſaid Adminiſtration: Miles replyed, That there was no Record of the ſaid Extent and Liberate remaining in the Chancery. Prat and Richardſon rejoined, That there was ſuch a Record of the ſaid Extent and Liberate remaining in Chancery. All theſe Pleas were entred Mich. 7 Jac. Regis, and day was given to bring the Record apud Weſtm. die Mercurii proxime poſt Craſtin. Purification. beatæ Mariæ ſuo periculo; and alſo a Venire facias was then awarded for tryal of the ſaid iſſues retornable the ſame day. All which done Prat and Richardſon failed of the Record, whereupon it was awarded that Miles ſhould recover damages, and upon that it was then awarded Venire facias tam ad triand. exitus prædict. quam ad inquirend. de damnis, retornable. Die Mercurii proxime poſt quinden', Paſchæ. And then it is entred in ſuch manner, Poſtea continuat inde proceſſus inter partes præd. de prædict. placito per Jurat. poſit. inde inter eas in reſpect. coram domino Rege, apud Weſtm. uſque diem Martis prox. poſt Octab. Sancti Mich. tunc prox. ſequen', Niſi Juſtic. domini Regis ad aſſiſas in Com. prædicto capiend. aſſign. prius die Martii 24 die Julii apud Bury St. Edmundi in Com. prædicto performam Statuti, &c. *Venerint pro defect. [8] And although there was a full Diſcontinuance in the caſe, and although the Iſſue of Nul tiel Record, is not within the Statute of 33 H. 8. which ſpeaketh of the Verdict of twelve or more indifferent men: Yet for the Reaſons before rehearſed, Judgment was given for the Plaintiff, and afterwards a Writ of Error was brought upon that Judgment, and the onely Error aſſigned, was the ſaid Diſcontinuance; but for other Errors not aſſigned, as it was openly ſpoken in the Caſe at Bar, the Judgment given in the ſaid Caſe of Miles, was reverſed.

Priddle and Napper's Caſe.

IN an Attachment upon a Prohibition in the Common Pleas by John Priddle, qui tam, &c. againſt Thomas Napper, Gentleman, Proprietor of the Rector of Tintenhul in the County of Somerſet, and pleaded, That where one Robert Sherburn alias Whitlocke, late Prior of the Priory of St. Peter and Paul the Apoſtles, of Mountacute in the County of Somerſet, ordinis Clunacenſis, was ſeiſed of Two and twenty Acres of Land, called Perins-hill alias Guilberts-hill in Tintenhul in the ſaid County, and of the Rectory of Tintenhul, Eidem Prioratui pertin. & ſpectan', ac parcel. eiſdem Priorat. exiſten. in his Demeſn, as of Fee in the Right of the ſaid Priory. And that the ſaid Prior and all his Predeceſſors, Priors of the ſaid Priory, before the Diſſolution of the ſaid Priory, were Rectors of Tintenhul aforeſaid, and had ever enjoyed the Rectory aforeſaid Simul & ſemel with the ſaid Two and twenty Acres of Land, In manibus ſuis propriis in jure Prioratus ſui prædicti. ratione cujus idem nuper Prior & omnes prædict. alii Priores ejuſdem nuper Prioratus per totum tempus prædictum ante prædictum tempus diſſolutionis Prioratus illius, uſque ad tempus diſſolutionis, &c. Habuerunt & tenuerunt, ac idem nuper Prior tempore diſſolutionis, &c. Habuit & tenuit prædictas viginti & duas acras terræ exonerat', acquietat', & immunes de omnibus & omnimodis decimis, &c. And that the twentieth of March, Anno 30. the ſaid Prior and Covent by their Deed enrolled in the Chancery, gave, granted, and ſurrendred the ſaid Priory, [9] the ſaid Rectory, Land, and all the poſſeſſions thereof to King Henry the Eighth, his Heirs and Succeſſors; and that by force thereof, and of the Statute Anno 31 of King Henry the Eighth, of Diſſolutions, King Henry the Eighth was ſeiſed of the ſaid Rectory, and of the ſaid Land in his Demeſn as of Fee, as in the Right of his Crown; and ſhewed the Clauſe of the Statute Anno

31 Hen. 8. of diſcharge of payment of Tithes; by force whereof, the ſaid King Henry the Eighth was ſeiſed of the ſaid Two and twenty Acres, diſcharged of payment of Tithes, and conveyed the Inheritance of the ſaid Two and twenty Acres to Sir Thomas Freke, and others; who 38 Eliz. demiſed the ſame to the ſaid John Priddle for Ninety and nine years, if three of his Sons or any of them ſhould ſo long live; and added their lives, and that the Defendant Proprietarius Rectoriæ prædictæ, &c. before the Biſhop of Bath and Wells ſued the Plaintiff for Tithe-Corn growing in the Two and twenty Acres of Land, &c. And the ſaid Thomas Napper to have a Conſultation, alleged a Grant by Letters Patents of Queen Elizabeth, in the ſecond year of her reign, of the ſaid Rectory to Rive and Evelin, and to their Heirs; and by mean conveyance, conveyed the ſaid Rectory to the ſaid Thomas Napper in Fee, and that he libelled for the ſaid Tithes, as was lawfull for him to do. Abſque hoc quod prædictus Prior & omnes prædeceſſores ſui Priores præd. nuper Prioratus à tempore cujus cont. memoria hominum non extitit ante tempus diſſolutionis, &c. Nec non uſque ad tempus diſſolutionis, &c. Habuerunt & tenuerunt prædict. vigint. & duas acras terræ exonerat', acquietat. & immunes de omnibus & omnimodis decimis quibuſcunque ſuper prædict. vigint' & duas acras terræ quoviſmodo provenient', &c. prout, &c. & hoc, &c. unde petit Judicium, & breve dicti domini Regis de conſultatione ſibi in hac parte concedi, &c. Upon which, Iſſue was joyned, and the Jury before the Juſtices of Niſi prius gave a ſpecial Verdict, That the Prior and his Predeceſſors, time out of minde, &c. untill the time of the Diſſolution, were ſeiſed of the ſaid Two and twenty Acres of Land in their Demeſn, as of Fee in the right of the ſaid Priory; and that Thomas, late Prior of the ſaid Priory, was ſeiſed of the Advowſon of the ſaid Church of Tintenhul in Fee in the right of his Priory: And he being ſo ſeiſed H. 8. the Eighth day of May, in the Twentieth year of his Reign, by Letters Patents (the Exemplification of the Enrollment of which he ſhewed forth) De gratia ſua ſpeciali ac certa ſcientia & mero motu ſuis licentiam dedit præfat. Thomæ tunc Priori nuper Prioratus, & ejuſdem loci Conventui & Succeſſoribus ſuis, quod ipſi & Succeſſores ſui dictam Eccleſiam Parochialem de Tintenhul prædicta, impropriare, conſolidare, incorporare, annectere, & unire, & eam ſic appropriat', conſolidat. incorporat', & unitam, in proprios ſuos uſus tenere poſſint; with Proviſo to endow a Vicarage, and that a competent annual ſum ſhould be diſtributed to the poor, with uſual non obſtante: And that John Biſhop of Bath and Wells, Ordinary of the ſaid place, 4 Sept. 1529. by Indentures triparite, viz. One part ſealed with the Seal of the Biſhop, the other part ſealed with the Seal of the Prior and Covent of Bath (which confirmed the ſaid Indenture) and the third part ſealed with the Seal of the Dean and Chapter of Wells (which alſo confirmed the ſaid Indenture) Eccleſiam parochialem de Tintenhul dictæ noſtræ Dioceſis & ſui Patronatus (ut aſſerunt) dictis Priori & Conventui & Succeſſoribus ſuis & domui ſive Prioratui ſuo prædict. cum conſenſu pariter & aſſenſu metuendiſſimi in Chriſto Principis & Domini Henrici Octavi Dei gratia, &c. Authoritate noſtra ordinaria annectimus, appropriamus & unimus per præſentes, ita quod cedente vel decedente Rectore ejuſdem Eccleſiæ Parochialis qui nunc eſt, ſeu aliter ipſa Eccleſia quoviſmodo vacari contigerit, liceat ipſis Priori Conventui ſuiſque Succeſſoribus per ſe vel per alium ſeu alios ipſorum nomine poſſeſſionem dictæ Eccleſiæ Parochialis authoritate propria intrare, &c. Et in proprios uſus convertere & imperpetuum retinere: With Endowment of a Vicarage, and proviſion of a yearly Penſion to the poor: And afterwards the then Parſon of the ſaid Rectory died, after whoſe death the ſaid Thomas, Prior of the ſaid Priory, did enter into the ſaid Rectory, and was as well of the ſaid Rectory, as of the ſaid Two and twenty Acres of Land ſeiſed in his Demeſn, as of Fee in right of the ſaid Priory. And afterwards, the ſaid Thomas Prior, died, and Robert Prior, ſucceeded him. And that the ſaid Prior Thomas, and Prior Robert, all times after the ſaid Approbation held the ſaid Rectory with the ſaid Two and twenty Acres of Land in their own hands Simul & ſemel, in the right of his Priory, and found the Surrender of the ſaid Priory; and that the ſaid King Henry the Eighth, the Four and twentieth day of July, Anno 36 H. 8. by Indenture under the Seal of the Court of Augmentations, demiſed the ſaid Rectory to William Petre, Doctor of Law for One and twenty years, who aſſigned the ſame over to Edward Napper, and that no Tithes were paid untill the ſecond year of the reign of Queen Mary, and then the ſaid Edward Napper had a ſentence in the Court of Audience againſt one Thomas Guil, then Farmer of the ſaid Two and twenty Acres; and that after the ſaid ſentence, untill the Eighth year of Queen Elizabeth, Tithes were paid of the ſaid Two and twenty Acres, and conveyed the ſaid Rectory from King Henry the Eighth, by mean conveyance to Queen Elizabeth, and by the ſaid Letters Patents, and by diverſe mean Conveyances to Napper. Et utrum ſuper tota materia, &c. Præd. Robertus nuper Prior & omnes prædeceſſores ſui Priores ejuſdem à tempore cujus contrar', &c. Ante tempus diſſolutionis, &c. Nec non uſque ad tempus diſſolutionis, &c. Habuerunt & tenuerunt prædict. 22 acras terr' exonerat', acquietat', & immunes de omnibus & omnimodis decimis quibuſcunque, &c. Juratores penitus ignorant, & petunt adviſamentum Curiæ in præmiſſis, & ſi, &c. And this caſe was oftentimes argued at the Bar by the Serjeants, and now this Term it was argued at the Bench. And in this caſe theſe points were reſolved.

[10]

1. That the Information upon which the Prohibition was granted, was ſufficient in matter: For although that every Pariſh Church is ſuppoſed to be Preſentative, and the Incumbent ought to come in by admiſſion, inſtitution, and induction; yet the Plaintiff in this caſe may preſcribe, That the Prior and his Predeceſſors, &c. time out of minde, &c. have been Rectors of the ſaid Church; for the ſame doth amount, That the ſame was Impropriate, &c. and the beginning of a thing done, time out of minde, cannot be known, viz. Whether it came by Union or Appropriation, and therewith agreeth 21 Edw. 4. 65. a. Where in Treſpaſs for taking of certain Cart-loads of Beans at Bodman againſt the Prior of Bodman, the Defendant ſaith, That the Beans were growiug in a certain place in B. in the Pariſh of B. of which Pariſh he is perſona impersonata, viz. Incumbent; and he was driven to ſhew how he came to the Parſonage; for which he alledged title by preſcription, and how the Corn was ſevered from the nine parts, and that he took it, and the ſame was allowed for a good title to the Rectory: Wherefore as to this point, the Information was reſolved to be good; but the addition of the Impropriation had made it without queſtion. Alſo it was holden, That the Concluſion of the preſcription of the unity, viz. Ratione cujus, the Prior held the ſaid Land diſcharged of Tithes, was not formal; for in truth, by the unity (as it ſhall appear after) the Land was not diſcharged of Tithes, but of payment of Tithes; and ſo are the words of the Statute of 31 H. 8. (as alſo ſhall be after ſhewed) But yet it ſeemeth, that for as much as the preſcription it ſelf is well alledged in ſubſtance, ſo as the foundation of the prohibition is well, that the miſpriſion of the concluſion, and conſequence thereupon, ſhall not be a cauſe to grant a Conſultation.

2. That the Defendants Plea Pro conſultatione habenda (for he is in a manner an Actor) was inſufficient, becauſe he hath traverſed a thing not traverſeable, for the preſcription of the unity
[b] ought to have been traverſed; and not the concluſion, viz. Ratione cujus, and that for divers cauſes; one in Logick, The concluſion of a Syllogiſm cannot be denied, but the Major or Minor propoſition; ſo the ſame holdeth in Law, which is the perfection of Reaſon: And therefore in a Præcipe if one plead, That the Mannor of D. is Ancient Demeſn, and the Land in demand is parcel of the Mannor, and ſo Ancient Demeſn; the Demandant cannot ſay, That the Land in demand is not Ancient Demeſn, for the ſame is the concluſion upon the precedent propoſitions, viz. The firſt, That the Mannor is Ancient Demeſn; the ſecond, That the Land in demand is parcell of the Mannor; for Sequitur concluſio ſuper præmiſſis, and therefore it cannot be denied; and therewith agreeth 41 Ed. 3. 22. 48 Ed. 3. 11. and many other Books: So in the caſe at Bar; the Major. Where there is a perpetual unity of Rectory and Land therein, untill the time of Diſſolution, &c. there the Land is diſcharged of Tithes; but here hath been a perpetual unity of the Rectory of Tintenhul and the Two and twenty Acres; Ergo, the Two and twenty Acres are diſcharged of Tithes; this concluſion cannot be denied. Secondly, It is not onely a concluſion, but a concluſion of Law; and matter in Law ſhall not be put in Iſſue to be tryed by the Countrey; for the Rule is, Quod quiſque norit, in hoc ſe exerceat, and therefore, Sicut ad quæſtionem facti non reſpondent Judices, ita ad quæſtionem Juris non reſpondent Juratores: and if the Jury take upon them to know the Law, and do miſtake the Law, the Judges of the Law ſhall give Judgment upon the ſpecial matter, according to Law, without having regard to the concluſion of the Jury, who ought not to take upon them the Judgment of the Law; and therewith agreeth, Plo. Com. Amy Townſhend's Caſe. Vide 5 Hen. 7. Carew's Caſe. 9 H. 6. 38. 13 H. 7. 22, &c. And the Lord Barkley's caſe. Plo. Com. 230. One pleadeth a gift to King Henry the Seventh, and to the Heirs-males of his body, virtute cujus he was ſeiſed in Fee; the other confeſſeth the gift, virtute cujus he was ſeiſed in Tail, and no traverſe to the virute cujus, for the concluſion is the concluſion of the Law.

3. The Iſſue is not well joyned. Firſt, Becauſe the matter of the diſcharge is by reaſon of unity, which is by force of the Statute of 31 H. 8. and not by the Common Law; and Iſſue is joyned upon a diſcharge by the Common Law, viz. Preſcription in the Prior and his Predeceſſors to hold the ſaid Two and twenty Acres of Land diſcharged of Tithes, with a diſcharge by the Common Law. Secondly, Every Iſſue ought to conſiſt upon an Affirmative and Negative, and here is not any Affirmatve; for that which cometh after the ratione cujus is not alledged affirmativè or poſitivè, but as a conſequence upon the precedent matter. Vide 8 H. 6. 6. 36 H. 6. 15. 9 Ed. 4. 36. 6 H. 7. 5. And therewith agreeth the Reſolution of the Judges in the Biſhop of Canterbury's Caſe, [11] in the Second Part of my Reports. So that here is not any Iſſue joyned of any matter alledged in the Information.

4. Upon the Verdict divers points were moved at the Bar. Firſt, If the ſaid Appropriation (as it was found) were good, or not. Secondly, If it were not good by the Common Law, if the Statute of 35 Eliz. cap. 3. hath ſupplied the Imperfection of it, or not. Thirdly, When the Jury finde ſufficient matter to the Bar Parſon of the Tithes, which was not parcell of their Iſſue, nor within the Iſſue, if without regard of this matter a conſultation ſhall be granted. Fourthly, If by the ſaid Impropriation and Unity, ſo ſmall time before the diſſolution, which could not be above nine or ten years, it ſhould be ſuch a diſcharge of Tithes as is intended within the Statute of 31 H. 8.

As to the firſt, it was objected, That the ſame Impropriation was void for two cauſes: 1. Becauſe the King hath given Licence of Impropriation of the Church of Tintenhul, by words of the Preſent tence, where it appeareth at the time of the Licence given, there was an Incumbent then of the ſame Church; ſo that no Appropriation could be made in præſenti, but in futuro, by ſpecial words to take after the death of the Incumbent. For as no Appropriation can be made of a Church which is full of an Incumbent, but in ſpecial manner to take effect after the death of the Incumbent: So the Kings Licence (without which the Appropriation cannot be made) ought to be ſpecial alſo; otherwiſe the King is deceived in his Grant, and by conſequence the Appropriation is void; and that no Appropriation can be made without the Kings Licence, vide Sir William Ethingham's Caſe, in 17 Ed. 3. 39. and Plo. Com. in Grendon's Caſe, fol. 493. b. And that in ſuch caſe the Appropriation ought to be made in, which ſpecial manner appeareth in Grendon's Caſe, and in 8 Eliz. Dyer 244. The ſecond cauſe was, That the Appropriation in the Caſe at Bar, was made to take effect in poſſeſſion, and not in ſuch ſpecial manner after the death of the Incumbent, as appeareth before it ought by the Law.

But

But it was resolved, The Appropriation was sufficient in Law: For it is true, that the Licence is general, and therefore it shall be taken in such sense, that it may take effect, and that is to be appropriated after the death of the Incumbent: And when the Letters Patents may be taken to two intents good, in many cases they shall be taken to such intent as is most beneficial for the King; but if Letters Patents may be taken to one intent good, and to another intent void; then for the Kings Honour, and for the benefit of the Subject, they shall be taken in such manner, that the Kings Grant shall take effect; for it was not the Kings meaning to make a void Grant; and therewith agreeth 21 Ed. 4. 44. and Roger Earl of Rutland's Case, in the Eighth Part of my Reports; and in the Lord Stafford's Case, in the same part; and the Case of Sir John Molins, in the Sixth part of my Reports; and the Lord Chandos Case, in the same Part; and the Earl of Cumberland's Case, in the Eighth Part of my Reports: And so it was resolved to the principal Case, That the Licence shall be taken to this intent, to take effect after the death of the present Incumbent; and so much the rather, because the Letters Patents were Ex certa scientia & mero motu, and therewith agreeth a Record in the Book of Entries, tit' quare impedit, division' Appropriation. Where the License of Appropriation was general, and the Appropriation of the death of the Incumbent in these words, Volens & concedens ut cedente vel decedente ipsius Ecclesiæ nunc Rectore, quod prædictus Abbas & Conventus ejusdem Ecclesiæ corporalem possessionem apprehenderent, ac fructus, proventus & obventiones perciperent & libere haberent. And see the same Book, tit. Droit 1. [b]

As to the second cause, the same is mistaken; for it appeareth by the Instrument of Appropriation found within the Record, That it was by expres words to take effect after the death of the then Incumbent, Ita quod cedente vel decedente Rectore dictæ Ecclesiæ qui nunc est, &c. Another reason was added, That in as much as always the Kings Licence of Appropriation is made to the Body Spiritual, to which the Church shall be appropriated, and not to the Bishop, &c. And therefore it shall be presumed, that they would obtain the same in such form that it should avail them. Also the Licence of Appropriation is alwayes generall, and so are all the presidents; for although the Rector be alive at the time of the making of the Licence, he may dye, or resign, &c. before the Appropriation.

As to the second point, admitting the said Appropriation had been void, it was objected, that the Act of 35 Eliz. hath made it good; For thereby it is enacted and declared, That all Mannors, Lands, Tenements, and Hereditaments, which at any time heretofore were the possessions of any Abbey, Monastery, Priory, &c. which after the said Fourth day of February, in the Seven and twentieth year of the Reign of King Henry the Eighth, were granted or conveyed, or mentioned to be granted or conveyed, in or by any Letters Patents whatsoever, made by the said late King Henry the Eighth, to any person, &c. were and shall be reputed, taken and adjudged to have been lawfully and perfectly in the actual and real possession of the said late King, his Heirs and Successors, at such time as the same were granted by the said late King. And where it was answered by the Plaintiffs Council, That the said Act of 35 H. 8. extended onely to Letters Patents made onely by King Henry the Eighth; and the Letters Patents in the Case at Bar, were made by Queen Elizabeth: And so out of the said Act of 35 Eliz. it was resolved, That in truth the said Act of 35 Eliz. did not extend to this Case, but not for the Cause alledged by the Plaintiffs Council: For although it is true, that Queen Elizabeth granted the Inheritance of the said Rectory, yet it appeareth by the special Verdict, That King Henry the Eighth by his Letters Patents indented, had demised the said Rectory to William Petre, Doctor of Law for One and twenty years; and the Act of 35 Eliz. doth enact, That all Mannors, Lands, Tenements, and Hereditaments, mentioned to be granted, or conveyed by any Letters Patents whatsoever, made by King Henry the Eighth, to any person or persons, Bodies Politick or Corporate, shall be reputed, taken and adjudged to have been lawfully and perfectly in the actual and real possession of the said late King, his Heirs and Successors; in which purveiw four things were observed. [12]

1. The favourable penning of it, viz. Mentioned to be granted, although in effect nothing passeth by the Grant.

2. The generality of the words; first, concerning the quality of the Letters Patents, viz. In or by any Letters Patents whatsoever, be they under the Great Seal, the Exchequer Seal, the Court of Augmentation Seal, the Dutchy Seal, &c. Secondly, concerning the Estate or Interest which is mentioned to pass by the Letters Patents, which is left at large, and is not restrained to any in certain: And therefore if the Letters Patents purport a Grant for life, or for years, the Statute hath as great operation, as to the purview of the Act, as if the Letters Patents had purported a Grant of the Land in Tail, or in Fee.

3. The generality of the Purview; for it doth not extend onely to make the Grant good, but to vest the Mannors, Lands, Tenements, and Hereditaments, of the late Abbots, &c. in the actuall and reall possession of King Henry the Eighth.

4. Not onely in King Henry the Eighth, but to him, his Heirs, and Successors: So that Lands shall be as well vested in the King, his Heirs, and Successors, when the King granteth the Land for life or years, as where he granteth it in Fee-tail or Fee-simple; and so the Purview doth extend to three other Cases.

First, Where any such Laws, Tenements, or Hereditaments, came to the hands or possession of the late Kings Henry the Eighth.

Secondly, Or which were put in charge to, or for his Highness in his Court of Exchequer, or any other Courts of his Majesties Revenue.

Thirdly, Or by any Auditor, or other Officer of the said late King; and in every of these Caſes the Purview hath as great operation, as in Caſes of Letters Patents, as to veſt ſuch Lands, Tenements, or Hereditaments in the King, his Heirs or Succeſſors.

But yet it was reſolved, That the ſaid Act of 35 Eliz. did not extend to this Caſe; For the Purview hath a qualification or reſtraint which hath not been mentioned before at the Bar: and that is, That in the ſaid four Caſes, ſuch Lands, Tenements, and Hereditaments, ſhall be reputed, taken, and adjudged, in the actual and real poſſeſſion of the ſaid late King, his Heirs and Succeſſors, at ſuch time as the ſame did ſo come to his Majeſties hands or poſſeſſion, or were ſo put in charge, or granted, or conveyed by the ſaid late King as aforeſaid (then cometh the qualification or reſtraint) notwithſtanding. Firſt, Any defect, want, or inſufficiency of, or in any Surrender, Grant, or Conveyance of the ſaid Mannors, Lands, Tenements, or Hereditaments, or any part thereof to the ſaid late King Henry the Eighth. Secondly, Or any other matter or cauſe whatſoever, by which his Highneſs was or might have been entituled to the ſame: So that the ſcope and Purview of the Act was to veſt in King Henry the Eighth, all the Lands, Tenements, and Hereditaments, which Abbots, &c. had, notwithſtanding the defects aforeſaid: But if the ſaid Appropriation were void, and was not given to the King by the Statute of Monaſteries, then the Prior of Montacute in the Caſe at Bar, had nothing in the ſaid Rectory, but the Advowſon onely, and Jus præſentandi: But yet the ſaid Act of 35 Eliz. is of great uſe and effect. For in as much as the Statute of 31 H. 8. gave not to the King any Monaſteries, Priories, &c. but onely which had been ſurrendred, granted to the King, &c. or were diſſolved; or which ſhould be ſurrendred, granted, &c. or diſſolved. This Act in the ſaid four Caſes hath ſupplied the defect or want of a Surrender, Grant, or Conveyance, alſo of an inſufficient Surrender, Grant, or Conveyance; ſo that be there any Conveyance to the King, or not; and if any be, although it be inſufficient, the ſaid Lands, Tenements, and Hereditaments, are actually veſted in the King his Heirs and Succeſſors. Secondly, If the Abbot, Prior, &c. had been diſſeiſed; or in any other Caſe, where an Office, Scire facias, Seiſure, &c. was requiſite to veſt the poſſeſſion in the King; there the latter words, viz. Or any other matter or cauſe whatſoever, by which his Highneſs was or might have been entituled to the ſame, did ſupply all ſuch means by which the King might have been lawfully entituled, and put in actual poſſeſſion. Vide 33 Hen. 8. Brook, tit. choſe in Action 14. The Queſtion there made where an Abbot, &c. was deſſeiſed, well explained and reſolved. But although that there be defect in the Appropriation, yet (if the Rectory be in reputation appropriate, and ſo hath been uſed) the ſame is given to the King by the Statute of 27 Hen. 8. or [13] 31 Hen. 8. And therefore in 19 Eliz. in the Dean of Paul's Caſe, it was adjudged in the Kings Bench, That a Chantery or Colledge in reputation, and not in Law, was given to King Edward the Sixth, by the Statute of 1 Ed. 6. within theſe words, All and all manner of Chanteries, Colledges, &c. 27 June, Anno 29 Eliz. in the Chancery, upon an Aid Pryer of the King, by the courſe of the Common Law; the Caſe was between the Lord St John, Plaintiff, and the Dean and Chapter of Gloceſter, Defendant, for the Parſonage Impropriate of Penmark in the County of Glamorgan, becauſe that the Patron (who before the Appropriation, had granted the Advowſon to the Body Eccleſiaſtical, to which the Appropriation was made) in Anno 18 Rich. 2. was but Tenant in Tail, and yet it alwayes continued as a Church appropriate. It was Reſolved, by Sir Thomas Bromley, Lord Chancellour of England, Gilbert Gerrard, Maſter of the Rolls, Shute and Windham Juſtices, (which the Lord Chancellour in that Caſe aſſociated unto him) that that Rectory in Reputation was given to the King, by the Statute of Monaſteries.

Another Caſe was Trin. 30 Eliz. in the Exchequer Chamber, between T. Grimes and H. Smith, for the Parſonage of Bulbenham, in the County of Leiceſter, which Anno 22 Ed. 4. was appropriate to the Abby of Sulby, and no Vicarage endowed there, &c. according to the purview of the Acts of 4 H. 4. 12. 15 R. 2. 6. But there had continued a Vicar in Reputation, and the Rectory continued alſo as appropriated; and it was reſolved, That that Rectory was given to the King by the Statute of Monaſteries.

Hill. 4 Jac. in the Chancery, between Bedel and Bear for the Church of Kumbalton, which was appropriated in An. 40 Ed. 3. and the defect was, That Humphrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford, (who granted the Advowſon of the ſaid Church to the Body Eccleſiaſtical, to which the Appropriation was made) was but Tenant in Tail; and reſolved clearly, That it was given to King Henry the Eighth, by the Statute of Monaſteries.

Note Reader, In the Statute of Monaſteries there is a ſaving of Rights, &c. but the Founders, Donors, &c. are excepted out of the ſaving; ſo they are bound by the Body of the Act.

As to the third point, upon the Verdict, it was reſolved, That for as much as the eſpecial matter found by the Jury, was not parcel of their charge, nor pertinent to the Iſſue, (admitting, That the ſpecial matter had been ſufficient to have barred the Plaintiff of the Tithes) ſhall not be regarded; for the party grieved thereby cannot have an Attaint, nor the Witneſſes puniſhed for perjury by the Statute of 5 Eliz. becauſe the ſaying of the Jury, nor the Teſtimony of the Witneſſes was not material to the Iſſue: ſo that in as much as the Iſſue is joyned upon preſcription in [b] the Prior and his Predeceſſors, to hold the ſaid Two and twenty Acres diſcharged of Tithes, time out of mind, &c. they cannot give in evidence an Unity of the Rectory and Land for ten years onely; that if any colour ſhould be, that the ſame ſhould be a diſcharge, it is not a diſcharge by preſcription, time out of mind by the Common Law, but by the Statute of 31 H. 8. So that for the inſufficiency and impertinency of the points and parts of this Prolix Record, the other Juſtices did not ſpeak to the fourth point of the Verdict. But the Cheif Juſtice (for the better direction of this and the other lik Caſes) did declare how that the point had been reſolved before, and the Cauſes and Reaſons of the Reſolution thereof. It was long time in all the Courts at Weſtminſter, a great Queſtion upon the ſaid breach of the Statute of 31 H. 8. and the cauſe of the doubt thereof ſtood upon two conſiderations.

1. Upon the conſideration of the Nature and Qualities of Tithes before the ſaid Act.

2. Upon the words and purview of the Branch of 31 H. 8.

And as to the firſt, Quota pars, that is, Decima pars, which we call Tithes, is an Eccleſiaſtical Inheritance Collateral to the ſtate of the Land, and of their proper nature, due onely to an Eccleſiaſtical perſon by the Eccleſiaſtical Law; and therefore no unity of poſſeſſion can either extinct or ſuſpend them, but they notwithſtanding any unity, do remain in eſſe: So that they may be demiſed or granted to any Spiritual man, nowithſtanding any ſuch ſuſpenſion. Tithes are more Collateral to Land then a Warren, which the owner of the Land hath in it: For by the Feoffment of the Land without excepting of the Warren, the Warren is extinct, as it is holden in 35 H. 6. 56. But if a Prior who hath a Parſonage impropriate, infeoffeth another of part of the Glebe, yet he ſhall have Tithes againſt his own Feoffment, as it is holden in 42 Ed. 3. 13. a. And they are not like to a Leet; and yet if the Lord of a Leet purchaſeth Lands within it, his Leet is not ſuſpended, nor (if he make a Feoffment of the Land) his Leet is not extinct, as it is holden in 7 Ed. 2. tit. Avowry 211. And in 8 Ed. 2. ibid. 212. But he hath an Inheritance by the Common Law in the Leet, which is diſcendible, and which he may grant over to whom he pleaſe: But ſuch Inheritance a Lay-man cannot have in Tithes by the Common Law, neither ſhall they paſs by ſuch words as Temporal Inheritances ſhall paſs. And therefore Mich. 31 & 32 Eliz. in a Prohibition betwixt John Parkins and Thomas Hinde, Parſon of Babington in the County of Somerſet, the Caſe was, That the ſaid Parſon by Deed indented, did Leaſe his Glebe, Cum omnibus proficuis & commoditatibus eidem ſpectantibus for Ninety and five years, rendring rent Pro omnibus exactionibus & demandis quibuſcunque dictæ Rectoriæ pro clauſo peæditto ſpectantibus; and the queſtion was, if the Leſſee ſhould have the ſaid cloſe diſcharged of Tithes, during the Term: And it was reſolved by the whole Court, That the Tithes ſhould not paſs by [14] ſuch generall words; and as they are Tithes not ſevered, they are meer Eccleſiaſtical; for the ſubſtraction of which, no remedy lieth by the Common Law. If a Parſon purchaſeth Lands within his Rectory, and leaſeth his Rectory; the Leſſee ſhall have Tithes of the purchaſed Lands, and therewith agreeth 30 H. 8. Dyer 43. Vide 32 H. 8. Brook, tit. Diſmes. Then in as much, that if Tithes be conſidered of themſelves, before the ſeverance of them, they are meer Eccleſiaſtical, and ſo Collaterall to the eſtate of the Land, that no unity can extinguiſh or ſuſpend them, but notwithſtanding ſuch unity, they remain in eſſe: Then the words of the Act are to be conſidered, which are, That as well the King, his Heirs and Succeſſors, as all and every ſuch perſon and perſons, their heirs and aſſigns, which have or hereafter ſhall have, any Monaſteries, Parſonages appropriate, or other Hereditaments, &c. ſhall have, hold, retain, keep, and enjoy, all the ſaid Parſonages appropriated, &c. Houſes, Lands, Tenements, and other Hereditaments, &c. diſcharged and acquitted of payment of Tithes, as freely and in as large and ample a manner, as the ſaid late Abbots, Priors, &c. had, held, occupied, poſſeſſed, uſed, retained or enjoyed the ſame at the days of their diſſolutions: And upon theſe words, For as much as the unity doth not diſcharge nor ſuſpend the Tithes, but that they were in eſſe at the time of the diſſolution: And for as much alſo as theſe words (diſcharge and acquit) imply actuall immunity and freedom; and that the King and his Patentees have not them diſcharged and acquitted, but ſub modo, viz. In as large and ample manner, &c. as the ſaid late Abbots, &c. And the ſaid late Abbots held not the ſaid Lands in caſe of Unity diſcharged, but charged with the payment of them; for theſe cauſes ſhortly, it was doubted, If the ſaid Act ſhould extend to the Caſe of a perpetual unity; and it was urged, That if the ſaid Act of 31 H. 8. in caſe of perpetuall unity ſhall diſcharge in reſpect of it the Land of Tithes, it ſhould be wrong; and as it is ſaid in Plo. Com. in the Earl of Leiceſter's Caſe, The Parliament is a Court of moſt high Honour and Juſtice, of which none ought to think a diſhonourable thing. And the Doctour and Student, fol. 164. cap. 55. It cannot be intended, That a Statute which is made by Authority of the whole Realm, as well of the King, and the Lords Spiritual and Temporal, as of all the Commons ſhould do any thing againſt Truth, &c. And Forteſcue. c. 8. Prudentiâ etiam & ſapientiâ neceſſario ſtatuta hujus regni referta putandum eſt, dum non unius aut centum ſolùm conſultorum virorum, ſed pluſquam trecentorum electorum hominum, quali numero olim Senatus Romanorum regebatur, ipſa ſunt edita.

But at length upon great deliberation, it was reſolved and adjudged, That a perpetual unity, time out of mind, &c. till the diſſolution ſhould be prima facie a diſcharge of the Land of payment [b] of Tithes by force of the ſaid branch of 31 H. 8. for divers cauſes.

1. The Statute doth not ſay diſcharge of Tithes, but diſcharge of payment of Tithes, and divers other Reaſons, the cheif of which was, For the infinite impoſſibility, and impoſſible infiniteneſs; ſo that ſuch immunities and diſcharges which Religious Houſes had before of memory, cannot be known. And expreſly it was reſolved, That generall Allegation of Unity at the time of the Diſſolution, &c. without adding, That it was perpetuall, was not ſufficient: And although that it had been a perpetual unity, yet if the Farmers of the Lands of the Rectory had paid Tithes before the diſſolution, then the intendment and preſumption of Law, upon the perpetual unity, failed: And all this you may ſee in the Archbiſhop of Canterbury's Caſe, in the Second Part of my Reports: and divers Judgments and Reſolutions there cited. So that ſuch unity which is within the ſaid branch of the Act of 31 Hen. 8. ought to have four qualities. 1. Such unity ought to be juſta, righfull and not by wrong. 2. It ought to be æqualis, viz. Fee in the one, and the other; For if the Abbots, Priors, &c. have held by abuſe, time out of mind, &c. the ſame is not an unity within the Statute. 3. It ought to be perpetual, time out of mind, &c. 4. It ought to be libera, free of payment of any Tithes: But if their Farmers at Will, for years, &c. have paid Tithes to them (as hath been ſaid) the unity perpetual will not ſerve. But it was asked, What if the Appropriation were made in the times of Ed. 4. H. 6. H. 4. R. 2. Ed. 3, &c. and yet in Law, within time of memory; and unity had continued from the time of the Appropriation untill the diſſolution, and Tithes were never paid, neither by the Abbots, &c. or their Farmers: Should not the Statute extend to theſe cauſes? And it was anſwered, No, upon the point of unity; For if he will have aid of the Act of 31 Hen. 8. the unity as hath been ſaid, ought to be perpetual. But in ſuch caſe, here may be alledged the ſaid branch of the Act of 31 H. 8. concerning the diſcharge of payment of Tithes, &c. and that the Abbots, &c. time out of time, &c. untill the diſſolution, have held the Land diſcharged of Tithes as he may well preſcribe by the Cummon Law) and give ſuch evidence, that he may approve it: And ſo if in truth, the Land be diſcharged, he hath ſufficient remedy to relieve himſelf. See the Biſhop of Wincheſter's Caſe, in [15] the Second Part of my Reports: But if the Abbey or Priory, &c. were founded within time of memory, there he cannot preſcribe at all. And foraſmuch as in the principall caſe, the Appropriation was made in 20 H. 8. ſo that it appeareth to the Court, that before that time the Two and twenty Acres were charged with Tithes; for of Common Right, Tithes ought to be paid: For that cauſe the Cheif Juſtice did conclude, That the Two and twenty Acres were as this caſe is chargeable with Tithes; but if the parties be not herewith ſatisfied, they may begin again: For in as much as the Information, as it is reſolved, is good; and the Plea, Pro conſultatione habenda, altogether inſufficient; and the Verdict impertinent to the Iſſue, they would not grant a conſultation; and thereunto the whole Court agreed.

Doctour Grant's Caſe.

THe Caſe was, That Gabriel Grant; Doctour in Divinity, Parſon of the Pariſh of St. Leonard in Foſter-lane, Infra præcinctum Sancti Martini the Grand, did Libell in the Spiritual Court before Doctour Maſter, Official of the Dean and Chapter of Weſtminſter, againſt Edward Tailor, Farmer of a great and ancient Houſe, called the Deans Houſe, within the Precinct of St. Martins le Grand, late parcell of the poſſeſſions of the Abbot of Weſtminſter: And alledged, That every Pariſhioner or Inhabitant having, or occupied a Manſion-Houſe, Shops, Ware-Houſes, Cellers and Stables, within the ſaid Pariſh of St. Leonard, within St. Martins le Grand, yearly every quarter of the year, at the Feaſts of Eaſter, the Birth of Chriſt, St. John the Baptiſt, and St. Michael, time out of mind, &c. or at leaſt from the Foundation, Dotation, and Erection of the ſaid Rectory of St. Leonard, by equall portions to the Parſons of the ſaid Rectory for the time being, Nomine & loco decimarum ſuarum, juxta ratam cujuſlibet viginti ſo-
[16] lidat. redditus per annum, ex qualibet hujuſmodi domo, ſhopa, ſollar', cellar', ſive ſtabulo ſic tent. ſive occupat. in prædicta parochia, duos ſolidos legalis monetæ Angliæ, &c. And that the ſaid Edward Tailor and his Family, did dwell in the ſaid Houſe three years, and had poſſeſſed the ſame for the ſame time Sub annuali redditu ſexdecim librarum ſeu ſaltem 12 librarum, &c. and ſo demanded Two ſhillings in the pound, &c. The ſaid Edward Tailor did exhibite an Information and Suggeſtion to the Court, That the late Abbot of Weſtminſter, and all his Predeceſſors, till the diſſolution of the ſaid Monaſtery which was An. 30 H. 8. had held the ſaid Houſe diſcharged of Tithes, and alledged the Statute of 31 H. 8. concerning the diſcharge of payment of Tithes, and conveyed to himſelf a leaſe for years, and thereupon had a Prohibition; to which the ſaid Doctour Grant approved, and Tailor declared againſt him to the effect aforeſaid, and Doctour Grant traverſed the ſaid Preſcription of diſcharge of Tithes; whereupon Iſſue was joyned, and tryed before me in London for Doctour Grant: And now it was moved by Tailor's Councel, That upon the ſaid Libel, no Conſultation ought to have been granted; for of common right, no Tithes ought to be paid for Houſes of Habitation, nor for any Rent reſerved upon any Leaſe of them; for Tithes ought to be paid of things which grow and renew year by year by the act of God, Vide Regiſter. 54 b. F. N. B. 53. tit. Diſmes 16. and not for dwelling-houſes, or of Rents iſſuing out of Lands, reſerved and created onely and meerly by the Act of the party: And therefore in the City of London, the Parſons have Two ſhillings and eight pence in the pound, &c. in name of Tithes; but the ſame is by Decree made Anno 1535. which is enacted and confirmed by Authority of Parliament, An. 37 H. 8. c. 12. But St. Martins le Grand is not included within the ſaid Decree and Act, for the ſame is within London, and not of it; and therefore it remaineth at the Common Law. And in 30 Ed. 3. fol. 1. a. and 38 Ed. 3. fol. 13. by Finchden it is ſaid, That the profits of the Churches in London, are the Oblations and Obventions.

But it was reſolved by the whole Court, That a Conſultation ſhould be granted, for it may have a lawfull beginning; for it may be, that for all the Tithes of the Land, upon which the Houſes are built, this Modus decimandi hath time out of mind been paid; and although the ſame be after built, it ſhall not take away the right of the Parſon in ſuch caſe. And becauſe it might have a lawfull beginning, and that the ſame hath been uſed time out of mind, &c. For this cauſe it was reſolved, That a Conſultation ſhould be granted.

It was reſolved, That for theſe moneys he might ſue in the Eccleſiaſticall Court, becauſe they are in the nature of Tithes, viz. Modus decimandi; and every ancient City and Borough hath for the moſt part ſuch Cuſtom De modo decimandi for their Houſes, for the maintenance of their Parſon. [b]

And as to the opinions in 30 Ed. 3. and 38 Ed. 3. it was ſaid, That Obventio dicitur ab obveniendo, and includeth Oblations, Rents, or other Revenues, which may well agree with the Reſolution before; and afterwards Conſultation was granted.

Sir Henry Nevil's Caſe.

Paſchæ, 9 Jac. Regis, Rot. 925. In a ſecond Deliverance between Alexander Goodcrome, Plaintiff, and Henry Moor, Defendant, in the Common Pleas, upon the long and intricate Record, the Caſe was ſuch. Sir Henry Nevil Knight, was ſeiſed of the Mannor of Wargrave, which extended into Warfield, and divers other Towns in his Demeſn as of Fee; whereof a Houſe, a yard of Land, and eighteen Acres of Lands were parcell. And Alexander Goodcrome alleged a Cuſtom in this manner, viz. That in the ſaid Mannor of Wargrave there is, and time out of mind, &c. here was a Cuſtomary Mannor, viz. The Mannor of Warfield; which Mannor of Warfield, for all the time aforeſaid, did conſiſt of Demeſn Lands, and Services Cuſtomary, viz. Of the aforeſaid Meſſuage, and yard of Land, and of eighteen Acres of Land, and all Rents and other the appurtenances cuſtomary in Warfield, to the ſaid cuſtomary Mannor appertaining; Et quod prædict. tempore quo, &c. Necnon, time out of mind, &c. divers parcells of the ſaid Meſſuage, and yard of Land aforeſaid, and of the ſaid eighteen Acres, were cuſtomary Lands of the ſaid Mannor of Warfield, and demiſed and demiſable by Copy of Court Roll of the ſaid Mannor of Warfield, by the Lord of the ſaid Mannor, or by the Steward of the Lord of the ſaid Mannor, for the time being, to divers perſons willing to take the ſame, in Fee ſimple, for life or years, at the will of the Lord, according to the cuſtom of the ſaid Mannor, &c. And that the ſaid Mannor of Warfield, is, and for all the time aforeſaid, was parcell of the ſaid Mannor of Wargrave, holden of the ſaid Mannor of Wargrave by Copy of Court Roll of the ſaid Mannor of Wargrave, and demiſed and demiſeable by Copy of Court Roll of the ſaid Mannor of Wargrave, by the Lord of the ſaid Mannor, or by his Steward for the time being, to any perſon or perſons willing to accept the ſame, in Fee-ſimple, for life or years, at the Will of the Lord, according to the cuſtom of the ſaid Mannor of Wargrave, by the name of one Meſſuage, and one yard of Land, and of eighteen Acres of Land, and all Rents, and other appurtenances in Warfield. [b]

And Sir Henry Nevil at the Court of his Mannor of Wargrave, An. 28 Eliz. did grant to Robert Albany the Mannor of Warfield, by the name of Unius Meſſuagii, unius virgatæ terræ & 18 Acr. terræ, & omnium reddit. & aliorum pertin. in Warfield, To have and to hold to the ſaid Robert Albany and his heirs, at the Will of the Lord of the Mannor of Wargrave, according to the Cuſtom of the ſame Mannor: And the ſaid Alexander further ſaid, That within the ſaid Mannor of Wargrave there is, and time out of mind, &c. there hath been a cuſtom, That every Cuſtomary Lord of the Mannor of Warfield, by his Steward, hath uſed and accuſtomed to hold a Court within the ſaid Mannor of Warfield, for and concerning his Cuſtomary Tenants of the ſaid Mannor of Warfield, according to the Cuſtom of the ſaid Mannor of Warfield: And that the ſaid two Acres, with the appurtenances in which, &c. are, and time out of mind, &c. were parcell of the ſaid Cuſtomary Mannor of Warfield, and demiſed and demiſeable, &c. And the ſaid Goodcrome did claim by Grant, by Copy, the ſaid two Acres made by the Steward of the Lord of the ſaid Cuſtomary Mannor of Warfield; and iſſue was taken. Whether within the ſaid Mannor of Wargrave there is, and time out of mind, &c. there was a Cuſtomary Mannor, viz. The Mannor of Warfield demiſed and demiſeable by Copy of Court Roll of the ſaid Mannor of Wargrave, provided, &c. And the Viſne was De vicineto manerii de Wargrave, and the tryall was at the Bar, and the iſſue was found for Goodcrome the Plaintiff, viz. That there was ſuch a Cuſtomary Mannor; and it was moved in Arreſt of Judgment, That there could not be ſuch a Cuſtomary Mannor by Law; for of a Copyhold (which is but a tenure at will) there cannot be Lord, Meſn, and Tenant; but of a Freehold at the Common Law.

But it was reſolved by the whole Court, That a Cuſtomary Mannor may be holden by Copy, and ſuch Cuſtomary Lord may hold Courts, and grant Copies, and ſuch Cuſtomay Mannor ſhall paſs by Surrender and Admittance, and fines ſhall be paid upon Admittance as well upon Alienation as Diſcent. And there may be Lord Cuſtomary Meſn, and Cuſtomary Tenant, as well in caſe where the Meſnalty is a Tenant at Will according to the cuſtom of the Mannor, as well as where there is a Tenancy at Will, at the Common Law of a Mannor. And if ſuch Cuſtomary Mannor be forfeited, the Lord ſhall have the Cuſtoms and Services appertaining to it; As if Tenant at Will of a Mannor grant Copies, and reſerve Rent and Services, theſe Rents and Services are annexed to the Mannor, and ſhall attend upon the owner of the Mannor after the will determined, although that the Lord of the Mannor doth not claim by or under, but above him and without any privity of eſtate: So in caſe of him who is Tenant for life or years of a Mannor, the Rents and Services reſerved by them, ſhall go to them in the Reverſion: And ſo note a difference betwixt a Reſervation at the Common Law, and by the Cuſtom of the Mannor. And afterwards a Writ of Error was brought, and the ſame matter aſſigned for Error, which was cleary over-ruled by the whole Court of Kings Bench; and Exception was alſo taken to the Viſne, that it ſhould be alſo of Warfield, but it was not allowed; for the iſſue riſeth upon the Cuſtom within the Mannor of Wargrave, and it appeareth that the Tenements in Warfield are parcell of the Mannor of Wargrave; and thereupon the Judgment was affirmed: And it was ſaid that the Mannor of Aileſham in the County of Norfolk, is holden by Copy, and other Mannors in other places.

Doctor Ayray's Caſe.

John Alcock, Gentleman, brought an Action of Treſpaſs againſt Henry Ayray, Doctor of Divinity, William Witham, William Parſons, and Thomas Prieſt (which Plea began in the Kings Bench, Trin. 9 Jac. Regis, Rot. 43.) And declared of a Treſpaſs the firſt of March, in the Eighth year of the King in a Houſe of the Plaintiff, called the Parſonage Houſe, and the Plaintiffs Cloſes, viz. One called the Parſonage Cloſe, and another containing ten Acres of Glebe Lands at Charleton upon Otemore, in the County of Oxford. The Defendants pleaded Not guilty, and a ſpecial Verdict was given to this effect, That the places in which, &c. were parcell of the Glebe of the Rectory of Charleton upon Otemore; whereof the ſaid Henry Ayray at the time of the Treſpaſs, &c. was, and yet is Parſon. And that King Edward the third in the Fourteenth year of his Reign by his Letters Patents under the Great Seal, Ad honorem Dei, & augmentation. cultus Divini, de gratia ſua ſpeciali conceſſit & licentiam dedit Roberto de Egleſfield Clerico ipſius nuper Regis, quòd ipſe in quodam Meſuagio ſuo cum pertin. in Oxon. in Parochia Sancti Petri in oriente, quandam Aulam Collegialem de Scholaribus, Capellanis, & aliis, perpetuis temporibus duratur', ſub nomine Aulæ Scholaribus Reginæ de Oxon', quæ per unum Præpoſitum de dictis Scholar. juxta ordinationem præfati Roberti inde faciend. gubernabitur, conſtruere & de novo fundare, ac meſuagium illud cum pertin. præfatis Præpoſito & Scholaribus dare poſſit & aſſignare, Habendum [19] & tenendum ſibi & ſucceſſoribus ſuis Præpoſitis & Scholaribus, Aulæ illius pro eorum inhabitatione imperpetuum. Et eiſdem Præpoſito & Scholaribus, quòd ipſi meſuagium prædictum a præfato Roberto recipere poſſint & tenere ſibi & ſucceſſoribus ſuis prædictis, ſicut prædictum eſt, tenore preſentium licentiam ſimiliter dedimus ſpecialem. Et memoratam Aulam cum Præpoſito & cæteris ſociis per electionem in futurum habitantibus & morantibus in eadem, quos ad verum Collegium erigimus & exiſtere extunc præponimus, & ut Collegium licitum & approbatum agnoſcimus, authoritate noſtra plena qua poſſumus, acceptamus, ratificamus, & confirmamus: Statut. de terris & tenementis ad manum mortuam non ponendis edit', aut quocunque alio ſtatuto vel ordinatione in contrarium factum non obſtante. Nolentes quod prædictus Robertus vel hæredes ſui, ſeu præfatus Præpoſitus & Scholares aut ſucceſſores ſui ratione præmiſſorum, &c. occaſionentur, moleſtentur in aliquo, ſeu graventur, &c.

Further they found, That King James that now is, 11 October, Anno 8. of his Reign, had exemplified under the Great Seal the ſaid Charter in the Records of the Chancery, enrolled in the Tower of London. And in the Exemplication, the Clauſe of ſub nomine, was, ſub nomine Aulæ Reginæ de Oxon', whereas in truth the Charter was ſub nomine Aulæ Scholarium Reginæ; ſo that this word (Scholarium) was in that Clauſe omitted.

And further they found, That the ſaid Robert Egleſfield, Poſtea virtute licentiæ prædictæ fundavit Collegium prædict. in Oxon. prædict', & condidit diverſas leges & ſtatuta pro regimine Collegii prædicti & ſcholarium in eo allocat. & allocand. prout patet ex Rotulo patentium de Anno 1 Regis Rich. 2. Juratoribus prædictis in evidenc. oſtens; the Tenor of which is entred in the ſpecial Verdict in hæc verba: By which it appeareth, That the ſaid Robert de Egleſfield by the ſaid Charter did nominate the ſaid Colledge, Aula Reginæ æternaliter nominand', and Scholares alſo he nominated in divers places Socii; and by the ſaid Deed conſtituted divers Ordinances and Statutes, for the better Government of the ſaid Colledge. And the Jury further found, That King Henry the Eighth was ſeiſed of the Advowſon of Charleton upon Otemore aforeſaid, ſaid, in Fee in the right of his Crown, and 4 July, 35 of his Reign, granted the ſaid Advowſon to Richard Andrews and Nicholas Temple, and their Heirs, who by their Deed 8 July, 35. granted the ſaid Advowſon to William de Devendiſh, and Francis Shaw, and their Heirs. And that 8 July, 1509. one Hugh Hodgeſon tunc Præpoſitus Aulæ præd. & Scholares ejuſdem Aulæ, per nomina Hugonis præpoſit. Collegii Reginæ in Univerſitate Oxoniæ & Sociorum & Scholarium ejuſdem Collegii, by their Deed under their Common Seal, did preſent one Allen Scot to the ſaid Church, then void, who was admitted, inſtituted, and inducted; and that the ſaid Allen Scot, 20 May, Anno 10 Elizabeth, (the ſaid Allen then being Parſon of the ſaid Church, and Provoſt of the ſaid Hall) by his Deed demiſed the ſaid Rectory of Charleton upon Otemore to William Shillingford for Eighty one years, and afterwards, viz. the thirtieth day of the ſame month of May. The Provoſt of the Hall or Colledge aforeſaid, and the Scholars of the ſaid Hall, by the name of Provoſt, Fellows, and Scholars of the Hall or Colledge of the Queen in the Univerſity of Oxford, Patrons of the Rectory of the Church of Charleton ſuper Otemore, by writing under their Common Seal, confirmed the ſame Demiſe; and that Hugh Biſhop of Oxford, Ordinary of the ſaid place, confirmed it alſo in the ſaid tenth year, in the life of the ſaid Allen Scot; and that Allen Scot died. After whoſe death, the ſaid Henry Ayray was lawfully, the ſaid Church being then void, preſented, inſtituted, and inducted; and that the ſaid Henry Alcock had the Eſtate and Intereſt of the ſaid William Shillingford, who entred into the ſaid Rectory, and was thereof poſſeſſed. And that the ſaid Henry Ayray then being Parſon, and the other Defendants, by his commandment entred into the Tenements, in which, &c. upon the poſſeſſion of the ſaid Henry Alcock; and the Queſtion which the Jury referred to the Court, was, Whether the ſaid Demiſe of the ſaid Rectory, were well confirmed or not. And it was objected, That as well the ſaid Confirmation, as the ſaid Preſentation, were utterly void, by reaſon of the miſtaking of the true name of the Corporation: And therefore the firſt Queſtion which was made, was, What was the true name of the Corporation; and they conceived, That the true name of the Corporation was Præpoſitus & Scholares Aulæ Scholarium Reginæ de Oxon'; and that name they collected out of the words of the Charter it ſelf, That the King did Licence the ſaid Robert Egleſfield to Found Quandam Aulam Collegialem de Scholaribus, &c. ſub nomine Aulæ Scholarium Reginæ de Oxon', quæ per unum Præpoſitum de dictis Scholaribus, &c. gubernabitur. Then the ſame being the true name, betwixt the true name of the Corporation and the ſaid Confirmation, five differences were obſerved, [20] three in Addition, one in Alteration, and one in Omiſſion.

In Addition, firſt of the word (Sociorum) for the Confirmation is, Provoſt, Fellows, and Schollars, where it ſhould be Provoſt and Schollars.

Thirdly, Of this word (Univerſitate.)

In Alteration, viz. (de) for (in) for the true name of the Corporation was de Oxon. And the Confirmation was in Univerſitate Oxon.

In Omiſſion, of this word (Scholarium) in a Material place, where it ſhould be Aulæ Scholarium Reginæ. it is Aulæ Reginæ.

And in the Preſentation, divers variances were obſerved; one Alteration, viz. Collegii for Aulæ; and the other miſpriſions, in Addition, Alteration and Omiſſion.

And all theſe were argued at the Bar by Coventry and George Croke, on the Plaintiffs part, and by Thomas Crew and Telverton, Solicitor for the Defendant; and all the ſaid Variances, but one, were reſolved by all the Juſtices to be without any queſtion, and not worthy of Argument; and were not of any force to impeach the ſaid Confirmation or Preſentation: And the onely point, which had any ſcruple, was the ſaid Variance of leaving out (Scholarium) after this word (Aulæ.) And the ſame doth depend onely upon the conſideration of the true name of the Corporation; and what diverſity was betwixt this Caſe, and the Caſe of Fiſher and Boys, reported by me in the Tenth part of my Reports, in the Caſe of the Major and Burgeſſes of Lynne, you may ſee there; which Caſe was affirmed by all the Juſtices to be good Law.

And yet it was reſolved, That in the Caſe at Bar, as well the Confirmation as the Preſentation, was good enough, notwithſtanding the Omiſſion of the Iteration of this word (Scholarium.) For it was reſolved, That upon conſideration of the ſaid Charter of King Edward the Third, and of the ſaid Inſtrument of the ſaid Robert de Egleſfield, the true name of the Corporation was Præpoſitus & Scholares Aulæ Reginæ de Oxon'; for it appeareth by the Charter, it ſelf required onely once Scholares, and not any double Iteration of it (which was ſaid was Oculus quæſtionis) and that for divers Reaſons.

1. That in the clauſe of ſub nomine, this word is but once mentioned.

2. Although that in the ſub nomine it is ſaid Aulæ Scholarium Reginæ, yet in Conſtruction, as in many Caſes is uſed, it ought to precede theſe words Aulæ Reginæ; and that for three Cauſes.

First, Otherwiſe it ſhould be a ſole Corporation conſiſting upon a Provoſt onely; for then the Corporation ſhould be per nomen Præpoſiti Aulæ Scholarium Reginæ, and not a Corporation aggregate of many, as every one hath agreed it was.

Secondly, Preſently after theſe words, Sub nomine Aulæ Scholarium Reginæ, theſe words were added, Quæ per unum Præpoſitum de dictis Scholaribus, &c. gubernabitur: So that it clearly appeareth, that this word (Scholares) was but once mentioned in the Corporation.

Thirdly, Such conſtruction is directly by the three Interpreters Omni exceptione majores, viz. Of Edward the Third, in his Charter, the ſaid Founder Robert Egleſfield in his Inſtrument of Foundation, and the Incorporation it ſelf.

1. In the Charter in the next ſubſequent words, it is ſaid, Ac Meſuagium illud cum pertin. præfat. Præpoſito & Scholaribus dare poſſit, &c. Where theſe words Præpoſit. & Scholares are joyned together; alſo there the Habendum is Habendum & tenendum ſibi & ſucceſſoribus ſuis, Præpoſitis & Scholaribus Aulæ illius. In which words the King not onely doth conjoin the ſaid words together, but alſo the giveth precedency to this word Scholaribus, before Aulæ illius, and no mention of theſe words after, alſo Nolentes quod præfat. Præpoſitus & Scholares aut ſucceſſores ſui, &c.

2. In the Inſtrument of the ſaid Robert Eglesfield, the Founder doth ordain, That the ſaid Colledge ſhall be always called Aula Reginæ, and not Aula Scholarium Reginæ; and he ſaith, Aula Reginæ æternaliter nominanda.

3. The Incorporation it ſelf, from the ſaid time of Incorporation, never accepted any Grant, or made any Grant with double iteration of this word (Scholares) but with a ſingle mention of it onely, as appeareth by many, and almoſt infinite preſidents: Alſo it was never called in Vulgar Appellation, Queens Schollars Colledge; neither doth any one know it by ſuch name, but every one doth know it by the name of Queens Colledge. And by this determination of the true name, it appeareth, That there is not any affinity betwixt the ſaid Caſe of Fiſher and Boys, and the Caſe at the Bar; for there is a double iteration of this word (Scholares) in two materiall places, and in the Caſe but onely one ſingle mention of it.

And as to the other Variances, it was reſolved, That none of them were materiall.

For firſt, Nomen eſt quaſi rei notamen, and Nomina ſunt notæ rerum, and were invented to make a diſtinction between perſon and perſon; and in the Caſe at Bar, the Colledge was called by ſuch name that it might be well diſtinguiſhed from every other Colledge in the ſame Univerſity.

Secondly, Although it be ſaid in 21 Ed. 4. 55. and other Books, that the name of Incorporation is like the name of Baptiſm: Yet if the perſon be ſo deſcribed, that he may be certainly [21] known from other perſons, the Omiſſion, or in ſome Caſe the miſtaking of the name of Baptiſm ſhall not avoid the Grant; as a gift Omnibus filiis J. S. or primogenito filio J. S. or uxori of J. S. or filiæ of J. S. when there is but one, &c. 37 H. 6. 10. 11 Ed. 4. 2. 18 Ed. 3. 30 Ed. 3. 18. 12 Aſſ. 16. and in 27 Ed. 3. 385. The name of Baptiſm of the the Abbot of W. was Richerus, and he by the name of Richardus, Abbot of W. made a Grant; and although his name of Baptiſm was miſtaken, yet becauſe the other words, viz. Abbot of W. did certainly deſcribe the perſon; for this cauſe the Grant, notwithſtanding the miſtaking of the name of Baptiſm, was good. So if a Grant be made to J. S. Et Margaretæ uxori ſuæ, where the Wives name is Margery; or to J. S. Et Mariottæ uxori ſuæ, where the Wives name is Marion, yet the Grant is good; although the name of Baptiſm be miſtaken, becauſe uxori ſuæ is a certain deſcription of the perſon. 1 H. 5. 8. 46 Ed. 3. 22. 1 Aſſ. 11. 12 Aſſ. 16. 9 H. 7. 9. 3 H. 6. 25. 12 R. 2. Feoffments & Faits 58. 22 Edw. 3. Brief 936. 9 Edw. 3. 14. 46 Edw. 3. 22. 14 H. 7. 21. So (King) is a name of Incorporation; yet a Grant made to the King by the name of (Sovereign Lord James) omitting this word King, is good enough: For, Nihil facit error nominis cum de corpore conſtat; and this was an old and conſtant opinion in the Caſe of Corporations. And therefore in 26 Ed. 3. 66. 67. Iſabel, Queen of England, brought a Writ of Covenant againſt William, Prior of Coventry, for that Hugh, Prior of Coventry, his Predeceſſour, and his Covent, did ſubmit themſelves to the Award of the ſaid Queen and her Council, for the Heritage which was of R. N. in Coventry, Et partibus adjacentibus; and of the Queens Tenements in Coventry, and of thoſe which were in aid of her, and alſo of the Tenements of the Prior of Coventry, and which were in aid of him; and the Deed of Covenant, was Hugh, Prior of our Lady of Coventry. Mutford who was of Council with the Defendant, you have omitted in your Writ and Count (Our Lady) Judgment for the variance betwixt the Corporation and the Specialty: To which Green of the Plaintiffs Council ſaid, That the Prior, and alſo the Church of Coventry, is founded by the name of St. Michael, and ſo I cannot have a Writ according to the Specialty; for you may abate the Writ, notwithſtanding the Deed ſhall be good; and Mutford by the Rule of the Court was put to Anſwer; for which cauſe he pleaded other matter. So that in thoſe days the miſtaking of the name of the Saint, to whom the Corporation was dedicated, was not ſufficient to make void the [b] Deed; becauſe that Hugh, Prior of Coventry, was a certain deſcription of the Corporation. But he might abate the Writ, becauſe he might purchaſe another Writ. See F. N. B. in the Writ de Corodio habendo, the name of the Saint omitted.

And where there was a Prior of Our Lady of Southwark, and a Prior of the Trinity of London; and the ſaid Prior of Our Lady of Southwark, of old time by the name of the Cannons of Southwark, granted by their Deed to the other Prior, by the name of Cannons of London, An Annuity, &c. The ſame was adjudged good in 17 Edw. 3. 32. For although the preciſe name of the Corporation was not purſued, and the Saint to whom the Houſe was dedicated left out; yet becauſe that in truth the Prior of each of the Houſes was one of the Cannons thereof; for that cauſe (for as much as conſtabat de perſonis) prudent and grave Antiquity did adjudge ſuch a Grant good.

Alſo it appeareth in our Books, that the name of the Corporation of Templers, was, Magiſter Militiæ Templi de Jeruſalem in Anglia & confratres ſui, 3 E. 3. 11. 5 Edw. 3. 36. 31 Edw. 3. Tryal 99. And the name of the Corporation of the Priory of St Johns of Jeruſalem, Prior Hoſpitalis Sancti Johannis de Jeruſalem in Anglia & confrates ſui, as appeareth in 44 Edw. 3. Then the Statute de Templariis is worthy of conſideration, Anno 17 Edw. 2. in the preamble, of which mention is made, De adnullat. ordinum Militiæ Templi & de fratribus ejuſdem ordinis, and and in the Body of the Act, Ordo Militiæ Templi & de fratribus ejuſdem ordinis. And it is Enacted by the ſame Act, Quod omnia terræ tenementa, &c. quæ fuerunt dictorum Templariorum, aſſignentur & liberentur ordini fratrum Hoſpitalis Sancti Johannis Jeruſalem. Habend. & tenend. eiſdem Priori & fratribus & ſucceſſoribus ſuis, de Domino Rege & aliis Dominis feodorum prædict', per illa eadem ſervicia per quæ fratres ordinis Militiæ Templi ea tenuerunt: In which Act, although the Makers of the Act do not follow the preciſe words of the Corporation, either of the Templers or Hoſpitalers; yet becauſe they were ſo certainly deſcribed, Quod conſtat de perſonis, the words of the ſaid Act were ſufficient to transfer the Poſſeſſions, Magiſtri Militiæ Templi Jeruſalem in Anglia & confratrum ſuorum, Priori Hoſpitalis Sancti Johannis Jeruſalem in Anglia & confratribus ſuis. And ſo hath it been alwayes allowed in our Books. 1 Edw. 3. 9. 3 Edw. 3. 11. 5 Edw. 3. 36. 35 H. 6. 46. Vide 2 Edw. 4. 24. John, Abbot of D. maketh an Obligation by the name of J. C. Clericus de D. and held good; and yet the Abbot is a dead perſon, as to all reſpects, but to ſuch Acts which he doth as Abbot: And a man may have a Writ of Right of Advowſon, De Advocatione Eccleſiæ de D; and then if there be two Churches in one Town, the Tenant ſhall have the veiw; but if there be two Churches in one Town dedicated to two ſeverall Saints, for example, St Mary and St. Peter, then if a Writ be brought de Advocatione Eccleſiæ Sanctæ Mariæ de D. the Tenant ſhall not have the view; So by that appeareth, That in a Writ of Right of Advowſon, wherein the Advowſon of the Church ſhall be recorded, the Demandant may in his Writ, add or omit the name of the Saint at his pleaſure. 48 Ed. 31. 21 Ed. 3. 57. 36 H. 6. 16. Regiſtr. 33. & F. N. B. 49. Si Præbendarius Præbendæ de N. in Eccleſia Sancti Petri Eborum, without ſaying in Eccleſia Cathedrali, which is in truth its right name. So there in Eccleſia Sancti Pauli London', and in Eccleſia beata Mariæ Lincoln', &c. And in 18 Ed. 3. fol. 10, & 11. the Caſe was, That in the Town of Toft Newton there was two Churches, one of St. Michael, the other of St. Peter and St. Paul: And the truth was, That Toft-Newton was one Town, and in that was a Church known by the name of the Church of Toft-Newton; and in Newton, which was a Hamlet of Toft-Newton, was another Church known by the name of Newton onely; and there a Quare impedit was brought ad Eccleſiam de Tof-Newton, without ſaying more, and well, although the Saint was omitted; becauſe there was a ſufficient difference by which the Church, whereof the Writ is brought, may be known. And therefore Wilby, Cheif Juſtice, who gave the Rule, ſaid, That the Church is certain enough; for which cauſe, anſwer. And there Iſſue was taken not of the name of the Town, but of the ſirname of the Church, viz. That there were two Churches in Toft Newton, without that that any of the Churches beareth the name of Newton. And in 17 Ed. 3. 48. one was named Burgenſis de novo Caſtro ſuper Tinam, and Exception was taken, That Burgeſs ought to be of a Town certain, and not of a Caſtle, Sed non allocatur; for the ancient Judges of the Law did reject ſuch niceties concerning Appellations or Names. [22]

And as to the Addition of this word (Sociorum) in the Preſentation, the ſame doth not impeach the Preſentation; for notwithſtanding this Addition, the Colledge is certainly enough deſcribed, that it may be diſtinguiſhed from every other; and for any thing that appeareth in the Caſe, Socii & Scholares may be Synonima: And in the ſaid Charter, the King nameth Scholares by the name of Socii, Vide 20 Ed. 4. 20. according to the Reſolution.

And for the Addition of (Univerſitate) it was clearly over-ruled, as before it was in the ſaid Caſe of Fiſher and Boys, and for the Reaſons and Cauſes there rehearſed.

So for the Addition of theſe words (vel Collegii) after this word (Aulæ) and for putting of this word (Collegii) in the place of (Aulæ) none of theſe have any colour of any materiall variance, but they are they the ſame re & ſenſu. And the ſaid King Edward the Third in his Charter called the ſaid Hall a Colledge, as in truth it is. [b]

And I have the briefer reported this Caſe, becauſe I have publiſhed the Caſe of the Major and Burgeſſes of Lynne, in the laſt part of my Commentaries, which ſtands in effect upon the ſame Argument; and divers Judgments cited there, do tend to the ſame end.

Trin. 12 Jacobi.

Henry Harpur's Caſe.

IN an Ejectione firmæ between John Werral Plaintiff, and Henry Harpur Eſquire, and Barbara his Wife, Defendants, which began Trin. 11 Jac. Regis, Rot. 553. in the Kings Bench. The Plaintiff declared, That were Thomas Seylyard, Eſquire, and Elizabeth his Wife, 24 May, Anno Regni Domini Jacobi, nunc 11. apud Bredon, in the County of Leiceſter, by their Indenture, &c. ſhewed forth, demiſed to the ſaid John, a Houſe, thirty Acres of Land, ten Acres of Meadow, and twelve Acres of Paſture, with the appurtenances in Workington in Parochia de Bredon, in the County aforeſaid: And alſo unam capellam cum pertin. in Workington in Parochia de Bredon prædict', nec non omnes & omnimodas decimas quaſcunque annuatim provenient. in Workington & Willeſdon prædict. in Parochia de Bredon prædict. in Com. prædict. per nomina totius illius Meſuagii, cum omnibus domibus, &c. clauſis terris, pratis, paſtur', communis, & hæreditamentis illic pertinen. in campis ſeu hamlet. de Workington in Parochia de Bredon in com. prædict', ac etiam per nomina omnium & omnimodarum decimarum quarumcunque annuatim creſcen. in hamlet. de Workington & Willeſdon in prædict. Parochia de Bredon, cum pertin', habend. & tenend. tenementa & decimas prædict. cum pertin', from the Feaſt of the Annunciation of our Lady, then laſt paſt, for ſeven years; by force whereof, the ſaid John Wirral in tenementa & decimas prædicta, 24 die Maii, Anno 11. ſupradict. intravit, & fuit inde poſſeſſ. quouſque prædict. Henricus & Barbara poſtea, viz. Eodem 24. die Maii, Anno 11. ſupradicto apud Bredon prædict. vi & armis in tene-
[b] menta & decimas prædict. cum pertinen. ſuper poſſeſſionem ipſius Johannis inde intraverunt, and did eject him to his damages of forty pound. And upon Not guilty pleaded, the Jury gave a ſpecial Verdict to this effect. Henry Beaumont, Knight, was ſeiſed in Fee of the Mannor of Gracedieu, in the County of Leiceſter, and held the ſame of the King by Knights Service in capite; and was alſo ſeiſed in Fee of the Mannor of Normanton, in the County of Derby, and held the ſame of the King by Knights Service in capite. And the firſt day of October, 2 Jacobi, by Indenture, bearing date the ſame day and year, in conſideration of a marriage to be ſolemnized between him and Barbara Faunt; and for the advancement and preferment in living of ſuch Iſſue which he and the ſaid Barbara ſhould have, did Covenant and Grant with Andrew Noel and Henry Haſtings, Knights, and their Heirs, That the ſaid Henry Beaumont and his Heirs, would ſtand ſeiſed of the ſaid Mannors, to the uſes following, viz. Of the ſaid Mannor of Gracedieu to the uſe of the ſaid Henry Beaumont, and the Heirs-males of the body of the ſaid Henry, upon the body of the ſaid Barbara to be begotten; and afterwards to the uſe of John Beaumont, his ſecond Brother and the Heirs-males of his body; and after to the uſe of Francis Beaumont his younger Brother, and the Heirs-males of his body; and afterwards to the uſe of the right Heirs of the ſaid Sir Henry. And of the Mannor of Normanton to the uſe of the ſaid Henry and Barbara for the Joynture of the ſaid Barbara, and to the Heirs of the body of the ſaid Henry; and afterwards to the uſe of the ſaid John Beaumont, and to the Heirs-males of his body, and afterwards to the uſe of the right Heirs of the ſaid Sir Henry: And afterwards the ſaid Sir Henry married the ſaid Barbara.

And the Jury further found, That one Edward Sharp was ſeiſed in Fee of the ſaid Tenements and Tithes ſpecified in the Declaration, &c. and held them of our Sovereign Lord the King, as of his Mannor of Eaſt-Greenwich in Free-Soccage by Fealty onely; and 7 Martii, Anno 3. Domini Regis nunc, by his Indenture, bearing date the ſame day and year, and enrolled according to the Statute, in conſideration of One thouſand two hundred and twenty pounds, bargained and ſold unto the ſaid Sir Henry Beaumont and his Heirs, the ſaid Tenements and Tithes, in which, &c. by force whereof he entred, and was ſeiſed thereof in his Demeſn as of Fee. And afterwards the ſaid Sir Henry, 7 July, Anno 3. made his laſt Will and Teſtament in writing, and thereby deviſed that his Executors ſhould ſell the ſaid Tenements and Tithes, in which, &c. And made his Siſter Elizabeth, John Town, and Edward Sharp, his Executors. And the ſaid [24] Sir Henry ſo being ſeiſed of the Mannors, Tenements, and Tithes, as is aforeſaid, 7 July, Anno 3. ſupradicto, died thereof ſeiſed, having Iſſue on the body of the ſaid Barbara, one Barbara his Daughter and Heir. And that the ſaid Mannor of Gracedieu at the time of the making of the ſaid Indenture, and at the time of the death of the ſaid Sir Henry, was of the yearly value of thirty pound; and that the Mannor of Normanton was then of the yearly value of eighteen pound; and that the Tenements and Tithes, in which, &c. were then of the yearly value of three pound: And that the ſaid Executors for money, ſold the Tenements and Tithes, in which, &c. to Thomas Wroth, Eſquire, and William Towſe, Eſquire, and their Heirs, who conveyed them to Elizabeth, one of the ſaid Executors, and her Heirs, who married Thomas Seylyard, who made the Leaſe, ſpecified in the Declaration to the Plaintiff, Prout, &c. by force, whereof the ſaid John Wirral entred into the ſaid Tenements and Tithes, in which, &c. and was poſſeſſed thereof, till the Defendants Vi & armis into the Tenements and Tithes did enter and eject the Plaintiff, and ſo ejected and put out of his poſſeſſion; did hold him out, and yet do hold him out: And if upon the whole matter the Defendants fendants were guilty, or not, the Jury prayed the Advice of the Court. And after that this Caſe had been argued in ſeverall Terms at the Bar, and this Term by the Juſtices at the Bench, It received the ſame Reſolution which was in Lovie's Caſe, which I have publiſhed in the Ninth Part of my Reports; and therefore I will make a more Summary Report of this Caſe

And in this Caſe it was firſt reſolved, That if the Kings Tenant by Knights Service in Capite, convey his Lands holden in Capite, To one of his ſons in Fee, or to the uſe of his Wife in Fee, &c. and afterwards he purchaſeth Lands holden in Soccage, That in this Caſe he may by his Will in writing, deviſe all the Land in Soccage for the Reaſons and Cauſes in the ſaid Lovie's Caſe.

Secondly, That the Reverſion of the Fee which the ſaid Sir Henry hath expectant upon the Eſtates in Tail, ſhall hinder the Deviſe of the other Lands for a third part of the other Lands holden in Soccage; although upon the Creation of the ſaid Eſtate of the Mannor of Normanton, to him and his Wife, and the Heirs of his Body; the King is to have a third part in Ward during the life of the Wife, by the Statute, for the ſame Eſtate, upon which the Reverſion doth depend; and although it be a ſick Reverſion without Rent, or any profit.

Thirdly, That although the Reverſion of the Fee doth continue in him, yet he may deviſe two parts of the Lands new purchaſed; and if he grant over the Reverſion in Fee, he might have deviſed all the Land in Soccage purchaſed after. [b]

Fourthly, That although he hath executed his power for more then two parts, to the uſe of his Wife; yet for the Lands in Soccage which he purchaſeth after (if the Reverſion had not continued in him) he might have deviſed the whole, notwithſtanding the Execution of his power before. And foraſmuch as the Reverſion of the Fee doth continue in the Caſe at Bar, the Deviſe was good for two parts; and the ſame Reaſons were given for all theſe Reſolutions in that Caſe at Bar, which are reported in Lovie's Caſe.

Fifthly, It was objected, That nothing paſſed to John and Francis, Brethren of the ſaid Sir Henry, for two cauſes.

1. Becauſe they were not within the conſiderations expreſſed, viz. For the advancement of the ſaid Barbara, and of the Iſſues which he ſhall beget on the body of the ſaid Barbara; ſo that the Brothers are out of the conſideration; For expreſſum facit ceſſare tacitum. And therefore if I Covenant by Deed indented, that in conſideration of One hundred pound paid to me by my ſon, That I will ſtand ſeiſed to the uſe of him and his Heirs; if the Deed be not enrolled according to the Statute, nothing ſhall paſs, becauſe that the expreſs valuable conſideration doth take away the tacite and implyed conſideration of bloud; and no other conſideration can be added, then is contained in the Deed, becauſe that the ſubſtance of the Agreement is by aſſent of the parties referred to the Deed.

2. It is not found de facto, that the ſaid John and Francis were his Brethren, and ſo by the Covenant nothing veſts in them in Remainder; and then when Sir Henry dieth without Iſſue-male, the Mannor of Gracedieu doth diſcend to Barbara in Fee-ſimple; ſo that a full third part, and more doth diſcend to her: For which cauſe the Deviſe ſhall be good for all the ſaid Lands and Tithes, in which, &c. holden in Soccage; and ſo Judgment ſhall be given for the Plaintiff for the whole.

But it was reſolved, That the uſes were well raiſed to the Brothers in Remainder, and a Judgment was cited in this Court in Debt between Elizabeth Bedel, Plaintiff, and Michael Bedel, Defendant, which began Hill. 1 Jac. Rot. 375. and is in the Seventh Part of my Reports; whereupon the Record of the Caſe was ſuch. Robert Bedel ſeiſed in the Fee of a Houſe, &c. in Juer and Langley, in the County of Buckingham, had iſſue by Elizabeth his Wife, three Sons, whereof James was the ſecond, and the ſaid Michael Defendant the third; by Deed indented, tripartite between the ſaid Robert and his Wife of the firſt part, and the ſaid James his ſecond ſon of the ſecond part, and the ſaid Michael his ſon on the third part, in conſideration of natural affection, and fatherly love which he had to the ſaid James and Michael: And for their better preferment and advancement, the ſaid Robert did covenant with the ſaid James and Michael, That he and his Heirs would ſtand ſeiſed of the ſaid Houſe, &c. to the uſe of himſelf for life, and afterwards to the uſe of the ſaid Elizabeth his wife for life; and afterwards of one moyety to the uſe of the ſaid James in Tail, and of the other moyety unto the uſe of the ſaid Michael in Tail; and afterwards Robert died, and all this matter was found by ſpecial Verdict; and the ſole queſtion of this Caſe was, If any uſe ſhould be raiſed to Elizabeth his Wife. And the two objections were moved againſt the Wife, which have been made againſt the Brothers in the Caſe at Bar. [25]

And it was reſolved, as to the firſt, That the conſideration that ſhe was his Wife, was apparent in the Deed, and no other conſideration was expreſſed to raiſe a Uſe to her, but that ſhe was his Wife: And therefore if the Caſe which hath been put, ſhould be admitted, where the Father doth covenant by Deed indented with his Son, in conſideration of One hundred, that he will ſtand ſeiſed to the uſe of him and his heirs; that in that Caſe the Deed ought to be enrolled, or nothing ſhall paſs: Yet it is not to be likened to the Caſe at Bar, becauſe that there is a valuable conſideration expreſſed in the Deed to be given by the Son; but ſo it is not in the Caſe at Bar. And a conſideration which ſtandeth with the Deed, may be added notwithſtanding, that it is not contained in the Deed, as it is adjudged in 3 & 4 Ph. & Ma. Dyer 146. Viller's Caſe, and ſo reſolved in the Firſt Part of my Reports, in Mildmay's Caſe.

As to the ſecond, it was reſolved, That it needeth not to be added that ſhe was his Wife, for the the ſame is apparent in the Deed, Et Manifeſta probatione non indigent. Vide 13 H. 4. 17. in Aſſiſe of Mortdanceſter. 46 Ed. 3. 33 H. 6. 13. 3 H. 6. 32. Plo. Com. in Talbot's Caſe, &c. That things apparent need not to be added; and if it be truth ſhe was not his wife, the ſame ſhall come in of the other part; and for theſe cauſes it was adjudged, That the Uſe was well raiſed to the ſaid wife. Upon which Judgment, a Writ of Error was brought in the Exchequer Chamber, Mich. 5 Jac. And after divers Arguments heard at the Bar, the Judgment was affirmed for the Reaſons and Cauſes aforeſaid, una voce by all the Juſtices of the Common Pleas, and Barons of the Exchequer.

Sixthly, It was reſolved, That for the Mannor of Gracedieu, the Eſtate-tail did vaniſh by the death of Sir Henry, without Iſſue-male; and therefore ſuch Eſtate-tail which ſo vaniſheth by his [b] death, is not any cauſe to reſtrain the Deviſe for any part, as oftentimes it hath been reſolved; but the Reverſion in Fee in this Caſe, is the cauſe to reſtrain the Deviſe for the third part: So that it was reſolved upon the whole matter, That the Plaintiff ſhould have Judgment for two parts againſt the Defendants. But the Chief Juſtice well obſerving the Declaration, and the Viſne, in the concluſion of his Argument, moved theſe Exceptions.

1. That the Ejectione firmæ is brought De omnibus & omnimodis decimis in Workington, &c. without ſaying, garbarum, fœni, lanæ, agnellorum, or any certainty of the nature or quality of the Tithes, whereof a certain Judgment may be given, or Execution had, Habere facias poſſeſſionem; and the ſame appeareth in the Aſſiſe brought De quadam portione Decimarum, &c. in 7 Ed. 6. Dyer 84. And although that the certain number of them ſhall not be expreſſed, for the fruitfulneſs or barrenneſs may encreaſe or diminiſh them; yet the ſeverall kinds ought to be expreſſed. Alſo it may be, That all the Tithing doth conſiſt in modo decimandi, by payment of a yearly ſum in ſatisfaction of Tithes, whereof no Ejectione firmæ lieth. And the Statute of 32 H. 8. which giveth the Action for Tithes, gives it as they ſhould or might do for Lands; but in an Action for Lands, the Plaintiff ought to ſhew the quality or nature of them, as Land, Meadow, Paſture, Wood, &c. Paſchæ, 5 Jac. Regis, The Counteſs of Oxford brought a Writ of Dower to be endowed of Predial Tithes, &c. within ſuch a Town: And in the ſame Caſe it was holden, That the moſt certain Aſſignment is of the third Sheaf; for if the Garbs of the third part of the Arable Land be aſſigned, it is in the Election of the Terre-Tenant, whether he will ſow the ſame, or not. So Mich. 3. & 4. Eliz. reported by Serjeant Benlows for Law, in Dower of a Mill in Wadeſmil in the County of Hertford, the Aſſignment was of the third part Molendini, viz. De integro Molendino per quemlibet tertium menſem, &c.

2. It is not formal to bring an Ejectione firmæ de una capella, but it ought to be by the name of a Houſe.

3. The Viſne was de vicineto Parochiæ de Bredon, which was ill awarded: For firſt, the Leaſe and the Ejectment alſo were alleaged to be done in Bredon which ſhall be intended to be a Town, and the Houſe and Lands are alleaged to be in Workington (which alſo ſhall be taken for a Town) in the Pariſh of Bredon; ſo that now it appeareth to the Court, That there is a Town called Bredon, a Pariſh called Bredon, and Workington a Town in the Pariſh of Bredon, and the Tithes were alleaged to be in Workington and Willeſdon (which alſo ſhall be intended to be a Town) in Parochia de Bredon: So that the Viſne ought not to be out of the Pariſh of Bredon, but out of Bredon, Workington, and Willeſdon; for the Viſne ſhall be always awarded out of the place, which containeth the [26] moſt certainty. And although that Workington and Willeſdon are called Hamlets in the pernomen, yet the Court ought to adjudge upon that which is alleaged by the Plaintiff in his Declaration. And the Chief Juſtice ſhewed the reaſon that moved him to take theſe Exceptions, which was, That if they ſhall give Judgment, it might be reverſed by a Writ of Error for theſe cauſes, which might be a blemiſh in time to come to their Reſolution concerning the matter in Law: For which cauſe, with the conſent of the whole Court, for the cauſe aforeſaid, no Judgment was entred. But it was ſaid at the Bar, That the Court of Wards where a Bill doth depend for this matter, (and by order of which Court, the matter in Law was to be adjudged by the Common Law) would take order for the poſſeſſion accordingly.

Henry Pigots Caſe.

BEnedict Winchombe, Eſquire, brought an Action of Debt againſt Henry Pigot, which was entered. Trin. 11. Jac. Regis, Rot 566. in the Kings Bench, upon an Obligation made to the Plaintiff in Sixty pound, 2 May. 8 Jac. The Defendant without demand of Oyer of the Obligation, or Condition pleaded Non eſt factum. And the Jury gave a ſpecial Verdict to this effect, That the Obligation was made to the plaintiff in the manner he had declared, and found the Obligation in theſe words. Noverint univerſi per præſentes nos Goergium Watkins, Generoſ. Henricum Pigot de Civitate Oxon' Draper, & Johannem Pyme de eadem Civitate Cordwayner teneri & firmiter obligari Benedicto Winchomb armig' in 60 libris, &c. And in truth, the Plaintiff was Sheriff of the County of Oxford, and the Condition of the Obligation was, That the ſaid George Watkins ſhould appear in the Kings Bench, Menſe Paſchæ, to anſwer to George Cottle in a Plea of Treſpaſs; and that the ſaid Obligation was delivered by the ſaid Henry Pigot, as his Deed to the uſe of the Plaintiff; and that after the delivery of the Deed, theſe words following, viz. (Vice-Com' Comitatus Oxon') were inſerted and enterlined in the ſame writing after the ſaid words (prædictum Benedicto Winchcomb armig') and before the ſaid words (in ſexaginta libris) before in the ſaid Obligation mentioned, without the knowledge and privity or command of the ſaid Benedict; And whether upon the whole matter, &c. it ſhall ſeem to the Juſtices and Court, that the ſaid writing be the Deed of the ſaid Henry, or not, the Jury know not, and pray the Advice of the Court, &c. And in this caſe theſe points were reſolved. [b] [27]

Firſt, When a Legal Deed is raſed whereby it becometh void, the Obligor may plead, That it is not his Deed; and give the matter in evidence, becauſe at the time of the Plea pleaded, it is not his Deed.

Secondly, it was reſolved That when any Deed is altered in a point material by the Plaintiff himſelf, or by any ſtranger without the privity of the Obligee, be it by interlineation, addition, raſing, or by the drawing of a Pen of a line through the midſt of any material word, that the Deed thereby becometh void: As if an Obligation be to be made to the Sherif for appearance, &c. and in the Obligation the Sheriffs name is left out; and after the delivery thereof, his name is inſerted or enterlined, either by the Obligee or a ſtranger, without his privity, the Deed is void. So if an Obligation be raſed, by which the firſt word cannot be ſeen, or if it be drawn with a Pen and Ink through the word, although that the firſt word be legible, yet the Deed is void, and ſhall never make an Iſſue, whether the ſame were in any of the Caſes altered by the Obligee himſelf, or by a ſtranger, without his privity: So if one make an Obligation of ten pound, and after the ſealing of it, ten pound is added, and it is made twenty pound; it is void. So if the Obligor himſelf altereth the Deed by any of the ſaid ways; although it be in words not material, yet the Deed is void: But if a ſtranger without his privity altereth the Deed by any of the ſaid ways in any point not material, it ſhall not avoid the Deed. Vide Dyer. 9 Eliz. fol. 261, b. And therefore in the principal caſe, the addition by a ſtranger, without the privity of the plaintiff, being in a point not material for any thing that appeareth to the Court; for this cauſe, Judgment was given for the Plaintiff; and ſo you will the better underſtand the Book in 14 Hen. 8. fol. 25. b. And in this caſe it was moved at the Bar, when a Deed ſhall be good in part, and void in part: As to that, I conceive, there is a difference, when a Deed is void ab initio, and when it becometh void by Miſfeſance ex poſt facto. Alſo there is a difference when the Deed which is void in part ab initio, doth conſiſt upon the entierty, and when upon divers ſeveral Clauſes; and in theſe alſo there is a difference, when the ſeveral Clauſes are abſolute and diſtinct, and when they are ſeveral, and yet the one hath dependency upon the other.

As to the firſt, it is agreed, in 14. Hen. 8. 25. 26. &c. That if any of the Covenants of an Indenture, or the Conditions endorſed upon an Obligation, are againſt Law, and ſome good and lawful; that in this Caſe the Covenants or Conditions which are againſt Law, are void ab initio and the others ſtand good. So if three diſtinct obligations be written upon one piece of Parchment and one of them is red only to the Obligee, and he being a Layman not lettered, ſealed this Deed, it is good for that which was read, and ab initio void for others: And this caſe is agreed by Brudnel and Pollard, in 14 Hen. 8. 26. in 9 Hen. 5. fol. 15. One brought Debt for twenty pound againſt another, and declared upon an Obligation of the ſame ſum; the Defendant pleaded, That he was a Layman, and could not read, and that he did acknowledge to be boud to the Plaintiff by the ſame Deed in twenty ſhillings which he hath paid, and ſhewed an Acquittance thereof; and as to the remnant of the ſum in the ſaid Obligation, it was not his Deed, and the ſame was holden a good Plea; Which Caſe being of an entire ſum, proveth without queſtion, That if there be two abſolute and diſtinct clauſes in a Deed, and the one be read to the party not lettered, and the other not, that the Deed is good for the clauſe which was read, and ab initio void for the reſidue: And although that the Deed conſiſting upon an entire ſum, was void for all, as it is agreed in 14 H. 8. & 30 Ed. 3. 31. yet it was wiſely done by the Defendants Council in 9 Hen. 5. to plead the truth of his Clients caſe, and not to leave the matter upon any queſtion in Law, when the truth of the matter would take away all queſtions, in 30 Ed. 3. caſu ultimo. In Aſſiſe before Stuffe and others in the Country, the Defendant pleaded a Feoffment of the Plaintiff to him by Deed of the Land, To [b] have and to hold to him and his heirs, comprehending a Letter of Attorney for to deliver Seiſin, &c. And in truth, the Plaintiff was a Layman not lettered, and that the Deed made with Warrant of Attorney was read to him, according to the form of an Eſtate-tail, and that upon the ſame intent, he ſealed and and delivered the Deed with the Letter of Attorney in it, to make Livery of Seiſin: And in that caſe, although the Clauſe of Feoffment in Fee, and the Warrant of attorney, are two diſtinct Clauſes; yet foraſmuch as the Warrant of Attorney doth depend upon the Feoffment, and hath relation to an Eſtate in Fee, although it were well and truly read; all was adjudged to be void: And Thorp Juſtice ſaid, That every Deed ought to have writing, ſealing, and delivery, and when any thing ſhall paſs from them who had not underſtanding but by hearing onely, it ought to be read alſo: And it is true, that he who is not lettered, is reputed in Law [28] as he who cannot ſee, but hear onely; and all his underſtanding is by his hearing. And ſo a man who is lettered and cannot ſee, is as to this purpoſe taken in Law for a man not lettered: And therefore if a man be lettered, and be blind, if the Deed be read unto him in other manner, he ſhall avoid the Deed, becauſe all his underſtanding in ſuch caſe is by his hearing, as it was reſolved in the caſe of John Shuter, of the County of Wilts, in the Star-Chamber, Mich. 9. Jac. Regis, who was a man of One hundred and fifteen years old, at the time of his death. In 47 Edw. 3. 3. John Pinſchon brought an Action of Debt againſt Thomas Gerves, and others, Executors of John Northgate, upon an Obligation made by the Teſtator of One hundred pound, the Defendant pleaded a Releaſe of the Plaintiff of all manner of Actions; and alſo the Plaintiff by that Deed had received Twenty pound of the Teſtator, &c. And the Deed was read, which expreſſed, That he had received Twenty pound in ſolutione de 100*l.* & etiam remiſ. omnimodas actiones, &c. To which the plaintiff ſaid, That the Teſtator was endebted to him in Twenty pound for other Contracts; and it was agreed betwixt them, that the Plaintiff ſhould releaſe that Twenty pound; and becauſe that the Plaintiff was a Layman, and knew not what was written within the Deed, and what not, by Agreement the Deed was delivered to the ſaid Thomas Gerves, now one of the Executors, to keep upon ſuch Condition, That if the Deed do not ſpeak but of Twenty pound, in which he was bound to him, that then the Deed ſhould be delivered to John Northgate; and if not, that it ſhould be delivered to the Plaintiff: And there Finchden, Chief Juſtice, ſaith, If that which you ſay be true, you may ſafely deny the Deed; for as to parcel which was made according to the Agreement, the Deed is good; and as to the other parcel, that a thing is written, of which you know nothing: So that as to parcel you may acknowledge a Deed of parcel, and as to parcel which was not read to him, to deny the Deed. And the ſame is in a manner affirmed by Perſay, but he ſaith it ſhall be abſurd for Lay-people to plead, Not his Deed as to parcel: But afterwards it ſeemed, That the delivery to Thomas Gerves, was not any delivery of the Deed, if the Conditions were not performed: For which cauſe the Plaintiff ſhewed, That the Conditions were performed, and that the Deed by the plaintiffs aſſent was deliverd to the Teſtator; upon which iſſue was taken, viz. That the Deed was not delivered to him in his life time with the plaintiffs aſſent, which caſe is cited in 14 Hen. 8. 26. to be adjudg-

[b] ed, but is there ill reported by the Reporter. But if a Deed containeth divers diſtinct and abſolute Covenants, if any of the Covenants be altered by Addition, Interlineation, or Raſure, this Miſeſeance Ex poſt facto ſhall make void the whole Deed, as it is holden in 14 Hen. 8. 25, 26. For although that they are ſeveral Covenants, yet it is but one Deed. 3 Hen. 7. fol. 5. If two be bounden in an Obligation, and afterwards the ſeal of one of them is broken off, this Miſeſeance Ex poſt facto ſhall make void the whole Deed againſt both. Vide Matthewſon, Mic. 39 and 40 Eliz. In the fifth part of my Reports.

Trin. 12. Jac.

Alexander Powlters Caſe.

ONe Alexander Powlter of New-Market, in the County of Cambridge, of extream malice of ill will Felleo animo did burn a Houſe in the ſaid Town, upon which the moſt part of the ſaid Town was burnt and conſumed: For which offence, at the Aſſiſes at Cambridge, in Autumn laſt paſt, he was Indicted and Convicted by Verdict, and prayed his Clergy; and if he ſhould have his Clergy, or not, was the queſtion. And now this Term all the Judges of England met together for the reſolving of this point; and upon the conſideration of divers intricate, ill-compiled and compoſed Statutes, they were in doubt whether he ſhould have his Clergy, or not. But it was agreed by them all, that the ſame was Felony at the Common Law, as appeareth by Britton; fol. 16. and Bracton, and 11. H. 7. fol. 1. And it was accounted in Law a heinous and exorbitant Felony; for by the Statute of Weſt 1 cap. 15. it is declared, That ſuch as are taken for Houſe-burning Felonioufly done, or for counterfeiting the Kings Seal, or for Treaſon, touching the King himſelf, ſhall in no ways be repleviſable. By which it appeareth, Firſt, That it was Felony at the Common Law; and ſecondly, That it was ſo heinous, that he was not bailable, no more then for High Treaſon.

But

But yet it was resolved, That for the great favour and respect which the Law doth attribute to men of Holy Church, for this Felony at Common Law, the offender (who was not so disabled, that he could not be enabled by any dispensation which might be made to be a member of the Church; as if he were blind, &c. or in respect of Sex, viz. A Woman, as appeareth in 22 Ed. 3. Corone 461.) should have his Clergy by the Common Law. For the Common Law doth not deny beneficium clericatus the benefit of his Clergy, but in certain cases: As if a man be convicted of any Heresie, he shall not have his Clergy for any Felony, &c. the same Law of a Saracen, Jew, or other Infidel, Gravius est enim divinam quam temporalem lædere Majestatem; the same Law in High Treason against the King; and of Petit Treason also before the Statute of 25 Ed. 3. 4. Vide 19 H. 6. 47. for High Treason, accordingly. But a man excommunicated by the Holy Church for any Ecclesiastical cause, or Outlawed by the Common Law for any Felony, because that he might have his Clergy, shall have his Clergy. Also in case of Sacriledge a man shall be ousted of his Clergy, as it appeareth in 20 Ed. 2. Corone 193. 12 Ass pl. 39. 12 Ed. 3. Corone 120. 22 Ed. 3. ibid. 357. 26 Ass. 19. 27 Ass. 42. at the Common Law, Insidiatores viarum, & depopulatores agrorum, had not their Clergy, as appeareth by the Statute of 4. H. 4. 2. And before the Statute of 4 H. 4. 2. And before the Statute of Articuli Cleri, cap. 15. he who confessed the Felony, could not have his benefit of Clergy, because he could not make his Purgation. And although the Statute speaketh onely in case of Abjuration, and of an Approver, yet the Judges in favorem Ecclesiæ did extend it to all Confessions upon the Arraignment of the Offender. 10 Ed. 3. Corone 147. 12 Ed. 3. Corone 117. 27 H. 6. 7. 34 H. 6. 49. 7 Ed. 4. 29. 8 Ed. 4. 26. 9 Ed. 4. 28. 13 Ed. 4. 3. 22 Ed. 4. Corone 44. 15 H. 7. 9. And Clergy not onely at the Suit of the King upon Indictment, but upon Approvement, and at the Suit of the party in Appeal, 40 Ed. 3. 42. 40 Ass. 17. 11 Hen. 4. 93. And generally in all cases, when the life or any [b] member of the offender, as cutting off his hand, &c. is not in jeopardy, the offender shall have his Clergy, as in case of Petit Larceny, Stanford 124 a. So that it was resolved, That at the Common Law for this Felony for burning of Houses, the offender shall have the priviledge of his Clergy.

Then it is to see if this priviledge be taken away by any Statute: And therefore it is to know, That by the Statute of 23 H. 8. 1. it is enacted, That no person or persons which shall be found guilty of any manner of Petit Treason, or for wilfull Murder, of Malice prepensed, or for robbing [30] of any Churches, Chapels, or other holy places; or for robbing of any person or persons in their dwelling-house, or dwelling-place, &c. Or for robbing of any person or persons in or near the High-way; wilfull burning of any dwelling-houses or Barns wherein any Corn is, or the procurers or Abetters of the same, be admitted to the benefit of his or their Clergy (such as be within holy Orders, that is to say, Of the Orders of Subdeacon, or above, onely excepted.) So that this Statute doth ouste the principal offenders aforesaid, of the priviledge of his Clergy, and their Accessories before. And it is to be marked, that the Statute doth not say, That no person or persons that shall upon his or their Arraignment, plead not guilty, and shall be found guilty; for then that should be taken for found guilty by Verdict: But the words are, That no person that shall be found guilty of petit Treason, &c. And the same may extend as well to Confession of Record (for the Court findeth him guilty upon his own confession before them) as to finding by Verdict of Twelve men, when the Offender denieth the fact, and pleadeth not guilty; and the case of Confession is the stronger case: For although he be found guilty by Verdict, yet he may be innocent, and for that he may have his Clergy at Common Law, and make his purgation; but if he hath confessed the offence upon Record, he shall not have his Clergy by the Common Law, because he cannot clear himself, when the Court findeth his Confession on Record; for in the intendment of Law (against an expres and voluntary confession in Court) he cannot be innocent. Confessus in judicio pro judicato habetur, & quodammodo sua sententia damnatur. And therewith agreeth a Proviso in the said Act of 23 Hen. 8. which hath made him who confesseth the Felony, in equipage with him who is adjudged for the Felony, the words of which are; Provided, That this Act extend not to give any benefit to any such persons, which after their Confession or Judgment given against them, of or for Felony, &c. Vide 25. Edw. 3. 42. and Stanford 122. c. Attainder by confession is the strongest Attainder that can be, for the vehement presumption that the Law hath of the truth; for it shall be absurd to say, That he hath not done such a Felony, after that the party himself hath confessed the same to the destruction of him and all his offspring. [c]

And where the Statute of 8 Hen. 6. 9. enacteth, That if the party grieved recovereth by Assise, or by Action of Trespas, and it is found by Verdict, or in other manner, in due form of Law; That the Defendant entred with force, &c. that the Plaintiff shall recover treble damages in such case, if the Defendant confesseth the Action, or maketh default, or pleadeth not, or pleadeth an insufficient Plea, and upon Demurrer, Judgment is given against him. In all the said Cases, the same is a finding within the Statute; For their is one finding by the Jury, and another by the Judges; and when the Defendant confesseth it, the Judges find sufficient matter before them to give Judgment: See for the same, Serjeant Bendlows Reports. And so was it taken in 6 H. 8. and in 4. & 5. Phil. & Mary, in a Writ of Error; and so I have heard the Lord Dyer vouch a Judgment accordingly in [b] divers of the said Cases, upon the Statute of 8 Hen. 6. And therefore the opinion of Stanford, fol. 12. That in case of Confession, the offenders in these great and heinous offenses, shall have their Clergy, is not taken to be Law; and the constant and continual experience of Judges in their Circuits hath been to the contrary. Also this Act of 23 H. 8. extendeth as well to Appeals and Approvements, as Indictments: But yet in this Statute there were found divers great defects; for the ſaid Offenders, and their Acceſſories before, have by an eaſie means their Clergy, notwithſtanding this Statute: For if the Offender had upon his Arraignment ſtood mute, or would not directly anſwer (which is all one) or would have challenged above the number of Twenty, he ſhould have the benefit of the Clergy, notwithſtanding this Statute; for in theſe caſes they are not found guilty of the Felony, as the Statute ſpeaketh, but ſhall have Judgment fort and dure for their contumacy, becauſe they will not anſwer according to Law, nor put themſelves upon their Country. Alſo if the Offender had not appeared, but had been Outlawed for any of theſe offenſes, yet notwithſtanding thoſe Statutes, he ſhould have his Clergy; for he was not found guilty of the Felony, but Outlawed for his default. Alſo although the Defendant had committed Burglary, yet if it were without Robbery; he ſhould have his Clergy, notwithſtanding this Statute; and ſo ſhould the Acceſſories as well before as after: And ſo as to ouſte the Acceſſories before of their Clergy in all the ſaid offenſes, the words are (be found guilty) ſo that the ſame defects are alſo in this clauſe as in the former.

After that was the Statute of 25 H. 8. cap. 3. made, which reciteth the Act of 23 H. 8. and further enacteth, That if in thoſe caſes the perſon arraigned ſtandeth mute, or will not directly anſwer, or challenge above the number of Twenty, he ſhall loſe the benefit of his Clergy in like manner and form as if he had directly pleaded, &c. and thereupon had been found guilty according to the Laws of the Land. By which words, the intention of the makers of the Act appeareth, That he who is found guilty of any of the ſaid offenſes (which extendeth as well to Confeſſion, as to Verdict) ſhall loſe his Clergy: And therefore although the Act of 23 Hen. 8. is not revived, yet there are ſufficient words in the Act of 25 Hen. 8. to ouſte him, who is found guilty, of his Clergy: And the ſame
[31] alſo appeareth, was the meaning of the makers of the Act of 5 & 6 Ed. 6. For if the Act of 25 H. 8. had not extended to him who is is found guilty by Verdict or Confeſſion, they would not have received the ſame to ouſte the Offender of the priviledge of his Clergy onely; in caſe when he ſtood mute, or would not anſwer, or challenge above the number of twenty; and not where he is found guilty by Verdict or Confeſſion. Alſo the words of the Act of 5 & 6 Ed. 6. are, that the ſaid Act of 25 H. 8. ſhall remain and be in full ſtrength and vertue, in ſuch manner and form as it did before the making of the Act of 1 Ed. 6. And before the ſame Act, without queſtion, he who was found guilty by Verdict or Confeſſion, was ouſted of his Clergy. But this Act of 25 H. 8. had not by any words in any caſe taken away Clergy of the Acceſſory before, which was a great defect, for if he were found guilty according to 23 H. 8. as well the acceſſory before, as the principal before, was ouſted of his Clergy, but if he ſtood mute, or anſwered not directly, or challenged above the number of twenty: In theſe caſes the principal was ouſted of his Clergy by 25 H 8. Yet in the ſame caſes the acceſſory before was not ouſted of his Clergy. And this Act of 25 H. 8. doth not extend to appeals or approvements, but onely to Indictments; for the words are, if any perſon be indicted &c, It was enacted by the ſame Statute, That if any be indicted for Felony, the ſtealing of any Goods in any County, and thereupon arraigned, be found guilty, or upon malice ſtands mute, or challengeth peremptorily above the number of twenty, without directly anſwering to the Law; they ſhall loſe the benefit of their Clergy, in the ſame manner and form as they ſhould, if they had been indicted, arraigned, and found guilty in the ſame County, where the Robbery or Burglary was done or committed. If it ſhall appear to the Juſtices, before any ſuch Felons or Robbers be arraigned, by evidence given before them, or by examination, That the ſame Felonies, whereupon they be ſo arraigned, had been ſuch Robberies or Burglaries, &c. Wherefore by the ſaid Statute they had loſt the benefit of their Clergy, if they had been found guilty thereof in the ſame Shire. And there is alſo defect in this branch; for the ſame doth not extend to the caſe, when the Offenders for any of the ſaid offenſes are Outlawed, &c. And alſo it doth not extend to acceſſories before in ſuch caſes: And it is to know, That when the Offender doth confeſs the Indictment, or ſtandeth mute, or challengeth above the number of twenty, although that no evidence can be given againſt him, yet the words of the Statute are (or by Examination) which words have relation when the Offender doth confeſs the offence, or ſtandeth mute, or challengeth above the number of twenty. Then was the Statute of 1 Ed. 6. 12. by which it is enacted, That no perſon that ſhall be in due form of Law, attainted or convicted of Murder, of Malice prepenſed, poyſoning of Malice prepenſed, break-
[b] ing of any Houſe by day or night, any perſon being then in the ſame Houſe and put in fear or dread, or for robbing of any perſon in or near the Highway; or for felonious ſtealing of Horſes, Geldings, or Mares; or for felonious taking of any Goods out of any Church, &c. or being thereof indicted or appealed, and thereupon found guilty by Verdict of twelve Men: or ſhall confeſs the ſame upon his or their arraignement, or will not anſwer directly, or ſtand mute, ſhall not be admitted to have the benefit of Clergy or Sanctuary. And that in all other caſes of Felony, other than ſuch as are before mentioned; all perſons that ſhall be arraigned and found guilty, or ſhall confeſs the ſame, or ſtand mute in form aforeſaid, or will not directly anſwer, ſhall have the priviledge of Clergy or Sanctuary, as they might have had before the Firſt year of King Henry the Eighth. And this Act of 2 Ed. 6. hath made divers great alterations.

1. By this general clauſe, Clergy was reſtored to him who offended in burning of Houſes, and to the acceſſories before.

2. All acceſſories before in caſe of Petit Treaſon, Murder, Burglary, or other offences mentioned in the Act of 23 Hen. 8. were reſtored to their Clergy by the ſaid general clauſe; and therefore they erred, who held, that the acceſſory to a Burglary, ſhould be ouſted of his Clergy: For at that time, as well every acceſſory in Burglary, as well before as after, ſhould have his Clergy; and the ſame appeareth by the Judgment of the whole Parliament of 2 & 3 Phil. & Mary. by which it is enacted, That the benfit of Clergy ſhould be taken from Benedict Smith, &c. for the murder of Rufford, if the ſaid Benedict ſhould be found guilty, as acceſſory to the murder, &c. Note, the ſaid murder was ſo barbarous and ſo heinous, that Clergy was taken from him, and others, being but acceſſory before, after the offenſe committed. Vide 3 & 4 Phil. & Mary. Dyer. 133. where mention is made he was ouſted of his Clergy by the ſame Act of 2 & 3 Phil. & Mary, which proveth, That if the ſame Act had not been made, that he might have his Clergy.

it

3. By this general clauſe, Clergy was reſtored to heinous offenders in piracy upon the Seas, which was taken away by the Statute of 28 Hen. 8. cap. 15. and in divers other caſes.

4. The words concerning Attainder, of breaking of Houſes onely, ſhould be repugnant and very abſurd, if they be not ſupplied by a reaſonable intendment and good conſtruction; For as Stanford 126. a. well obſerveth, If any break any Houſe by night, without intent to commit Felony, it is not Burglary nor Felony (and therefore theſe words, with felonious intent, fail;) and alſo, if he break a Houſe in the day, although he hath a felonious intent, if he carry away nothing, it is not Felony; and therefore in that caſe, theſe words, (And ſteal Goods felonioufly) are inſerted: And yet Stanford holdeth, That theſe general and incertain words ought to be ſupplied with an Intendment, viz. Where he is Attainted and Convict of breaking of the Houſe in the night Burgulariter, or of the breaking of the Houſe in the day, and of the ſtealing of the Goods there within; but as to the caſe of Burglary, this Act hath made an alteration more ſtrict then 23 Hen. 8. had, For this Act doth take away Clergy in caſe of Burglary, without any ſtealing of Goods. [32]

5. This Act of 1 Ed. 6. doth add a thing not material, and omitteth a thing much material, which was compriſed within the Acts of 23 & 25 Hen. 8. For that took away Clergy from him who poyſoned another of prepenſed Malice, which without queſtion is wilfull Murder; and for that the offender was ouſted of his Clergy by the ſaid Acts of 23 & 25 Hen. 8. And it omitteth the heinous offence of burning Houſes, and yet taketh away Clergy from him who committeth Burglary, although he impair the Houſe, little or nothing, and implicite alloweth Clergy to him who burneth the whole Houſe; and not onely one houſe, but the greater part of a Town, as it was in the caſe now in queſtion.

6. There is a great defect in this Act in ouſting offenders of their Clergy; for it doth not extend where the offender doth challenge above the number of twenty, which was included within the Act of 25 Hen. 8. But the ſame is remedied by the reviving of the Act of 25 Hen. 8. by the Statute of 5 & 6 Ed. 6. as appeareth before.

7. There is a great Repugnancy in the ſaid general Clauſe; For notwithſtanding that, If any offender who is to be reſtored to the benefit of the Clergy, whereof he was ouſted by any former Statute, challenge above the number of twenty; or if he be Outlawed for the ſame Felony, he ſhall not be reſtored to his Clergy; for this clauſe doth not extend but where the offender is found guilty by Verdict or Confeſſion, or ſtandeth mute, or will not directly anſwer.

8. He who committeth Robbery or Burglary in one County, and carrieth the Goods into another County, &c. who was ouſted of his Clergy by 25 Hen. 8. was reſtored to his Clergy by theſe general words.

9. This Act extendeth to all perſons, viz. as well to thoſe who are within holy Orders, who were excepted out of 25 Hen. 8. as to other Lay-people.

10. This Act of 1 Ed. 6. in other points hath ſupplied ſome of the defects which were in the former Statutes, concerning the offences mentioned in the ſame Act.

For firſt, The former Statutes did not extend, as appeareth before, where the Offender was Outlawed for any of the Offenſes mentioned in them; but this Act extendeth to men Outlawed, Attainted by Battel, Abjured, Attainted by Parliament; for the words are, If any hereafter ſhall in due form of Law be attainted; which words extend to every manner of Attainder. [b]

Secondly, This Act doth extend by expreſs words to the caſe of Confeſſion; for the next words of this Act are (or Convict) and the ſame is by Verdict or Confeſſion: So that the clauſe for ouſting of Clergy, is better penned as to theſe points, than the general clauſe for Reſtitution of Clergy, as it appeareth before. And it is to be marked, That this Act of 1 Ed. 6. extendeth as well to Appeals and Approvements, as to Indictments. And afterwards the Statute of 5 & 6 Ed. 6. cap. 10. was made, the title of which was, That ſuch as rob in one Shire, and flie into another, ſhall not have the benefit of the Clergy.

This Act firſt reciteth the ſaid Act of 25 H. 8. which reciteth the other Act of 23 H. 8. And in which, mention is made of burning Houſes; and further, the addition which the Act of 25 H. 8. maketh; and alſo the branch concerning the ſtealing of Goods in one County, and of carrying the theft into another County. And for the ſaid Act of 5 & 6 Ed. 6. reciteth the Purview of the ſaid Act of 1 Ed. 6. word for word (in which the omiſſion of burning of Houſes, appeareth) and alſo the ſaid general and beneficial branch for Clergy of the Act of 1 Ed. 6. And then after the recital of theſe three Statutes, the words of the Act of 5 & 6 Ed. 6, are, By reaſon whereof divers and many perſons, ſince the ſaid firſt year, have committed ſuch Robberies and Burglaries, and after have been taken with the manner in another County, and there indicted, arraigned, and found guilty, have had and enjoyed their Clergy; which they could not have had, if the ſaid Statute of 25 H. 8 had ſtood in force; For redreſs whereof, be it enacted, That the ſaid Act made in the ſaid Five and twentieth year, touching putting of ſuch offenders from their Clergy; and every Article, Clauſe, and Sentence contained in the ſame, touching Clergy, ſhall from henceforth, touching ſuch offences from henceforth to be committed and done, ſtand, remain, and be in full ſtrength and vertue, in ſuch manner and form, as it did before the making of the ſaid Act of 1 Ed. 6. any Clauſe, Article, or Sen-

Sentence compriſed in the ſaid Act, made in the ſaid firſt year, to the contrary notwithſtanding.

And the whole ſcruple of this Caſe, doth conſiſt upon theſe words of the body of the Act of 5 & 6 Ed. 6. and of a conceit which Stanford maketh, Lib. 2. cap. 43. fol. 128. a. That the Act of 25 Hen. 8. is not revived in all, but onely in that part which concerneth the ſtealing of Goods in one County, and the carrying of them into another, by reaſon of theſe words (ſuch offenders, and [33] ſuch offenſes, &c.) which hath relation onely to the offender, which is expreſſed before in the ſame Act.

To this was added by others, two other Objections. Firſt, That the Title or ſtile of this Act is particular, viz. That ſuch as rob in one County, and flie into another, ſhall not have benefit of Clergy; whereby the intent of the makers of the Act, appeareth to what thing the ſaid Act ſhall extend: And the caſe of Stradling and Morgan, Plo Com. 203. b. proveth, That where the particular ſtile of the Act of 7 Ed. 6. concerning the Revenues of the King, doth limit and qualifie the general words of the body of the Act, viz. (Any Receiver) to extend onely to the Kings Receivers, according to the title of the Act.

Another Objection was made by ſome, That admitting that the ſaid Act of 5 & 6 Ed. 6. hath revived the whole Act of 25 Hen. 8. Yet foraſmuch as the Act of 23 Hen. 8. was not revived, the ſaid Alexander Powlter in the caſe now in queſtion, ſhall have his Clergy: For as it hath been ſaid, the Act of 23 H. 8. extendeth onely when the offender is found guilty (which is our caſe,) and the Act of 25 H. 8 reciteth the ſaid Act of 23 H. 8. and maketh addition when the offender ſtandeth mute, or will not anſwer, or challengeth above the number of Twenty: So that the Act of 25 H. 8. extendeth not to the caſe where the offender is found guilty by Verdict or Confeſſion, becauſe the Act of 23 H. 8. hath provided for that. And in as much as the general words of the ſaid Act of 1 Ed. 6. hath taken away the force (but in one ſpecial caſe as aforeſaid) of both the Statutes of 23 H. 8. and 25 H. 8. and the Act of 5 & 6 Ed. 6. hath revived onely the Act of 25 H. 8. for this cauſe in the caſe now in queſtion, the benefit of Clergy is not taken away.

Againſt which it was argued by the other Juſtices.

Firſt, that the Statute of 5 & 6 Ed. 6. hath revived the whole Act of 25 H. 8. concerning Clergy.

Secondly, that the Act of 25 H. 8. hath taken away the benefit of Clergy from him who is found guilty of burning Houſes, by Verdict or Confeſſion.

Thirdly, They cited a Judgment in Parliament to prove it.

Fourthly, They confirmed it by a conſtant opinion and proceeding of the Juſtices of Aſſiſes in their Circuits.

As to the firſt, is was ſaid, That this Relative (ſuch) referreth rather to the precedent matter, than to the particular form of words, to the end, That the remedy intended by the makers of the Act, ſhould be of as great extent as the malady and miſchief was, (ſuch) ſhall be taken (ſuch in miſchief, and ſuch in inconvenience,) and all ſuch as inform of words, as is mentioned before. [b] And therefore the Statute of Weſtm. 2 cap. 5. is, Cum quis jus præſentandi non habens præſentaverit ad aliquam Eccleſiam, &c. per quod hæredes infra ætatem exiſtentes per fraudem & negligentiam cuſtodum, &c. Statutum eſt quod hujuſmodi præſentationes, &c. non ſint hujuſmodi rectis hæredibus, &c. ita præjudiciales. And the caſe in 44 Ed. 3. 21. That an Infant had an Advowſon by diſcent, and avoided an Uſurpation without Averment, that he was in Ward; becauſe that this word (hujuſmodi) viz. ſuch; ſhall be taken ſuch in miſchief, viz. to provide for all the miſchief; and having an Advowſon by diſcent (which was the ſubſtance) it matters not, whether he was in Ward, or not. So the Statute of Weſtm. 2. cap. 12. the preamble ſaith, Per appellatores nihil habentes, &c. And the body of the Act is, Statutum eſt quod cum aliquis ſic appellatus, &c. Yet without queſtion, If the Appellor be ſufficient, notwithſtanding this word (if) the Statute extendeth to it. And where the Statute of 21 Hen. 8. 15. ſpeaketh in the Preamble of Leaſes made for great Fines (for the Incomes, &c.) And the Purview is, That all ſuch Termors ſhall or may ſalſifie it, hath been always taken, That the Statute extendeth to Leaſes made, either for a ſmall Fine, or for no Fine: So the Preamble of the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 33. ſpeaketh of Diſſeiſins with ſtrength: And the body is, That the dying ſeiſed of ſuch Diſſeiſor, &c. the ſame extendeth to a Diſſeiſin without force; for, ſuch in miſchief: And ſo it is holden in 3 & 4 Phil. & Mary. Dyer 219. and ſo in many other Caſes. And as to the ſtile, or title of the Act, it is not any parcel of the Act; and old Statutes are without any title, and many Acts are of greater extent than the titles are; As the Statute of Uſes, 27 Hen. 8. cap. 10. the title is, An Act expreſſing an Order for Uſes and Wills; and yet the body of the Act doth extend to Joyntures and Dowers of Women.

And ſo in this caſe they argued, That the body of the Act of 5 & 6 Edw. 6. was more ſpacious than the title, but not more ſpacious than the preamble; for the preamble doth extend to two miſchiefs, one implicitè by recitál and the other explicité by expreſs words: Implicitè by the recital of 23 & 25 H. 8. which extendeth to burning of Houſes; and by recital of 1 Ed. 6. in which was the omiſſion of burning of Houſes (which was thought to be by the negligence of the writer; for it is a more heinous offence, than many other there mentioned,) Explicitè, of Robbery, &c. in one County, and carrying into another County; then when the words are, For redreſs whereof be it enacted, &c. It doth not refer onely to the later, which was the offence of commiſſion, but alſo to the omiſſion of the offence of burning of Houſes in the Statute of 1 Ed. 6. And then this word (ſuch) ſhall have reference to burning of Houſes, as well in the Statute of 23 H. 8. as in the ſaid Act of 25 H. 8. Both which are recited in the ſame Act of 5 & 6 Ed. 6.

Another

Another reaſon was added, That the Purview of the Act of 5 & 6 Ed. 6. hath a double ſentence, viz. That the ſaid Act of 25 H. 8. touching the putting of ſuch offenders from their Clergy, if it ſhall be admitted to extend onely to Robbery in one County, and carrying into another; yet there is another ſentence in the ſame Act, and every Article, Clauſe, and Sentence, contained in the ſame, touching Clergy, ſhall from henceforth touching ſuch offences, remain, and be in full ſtrength and vertue.

And it was argued, That the latter clauſe ſhould extend to the whole Act of 25 H. 8. for divers reaſons.

1. Becauſe that the firſt ſentence had been ſufficient for the Robbery in one County, and carrying into another; and then this latter ſentence which hath more general words, viz. And every Article, Clauſe, and Sentence, &c. ſhould be vain and ſuperfluous, Et viperina eſt expoſitio quæ corrodit viſcera textus.

2. There was not but one clauſe or ſentence, concerning Robbery in one County, and carrying into another; and this branch of 5 & 6 Ed. 6. ſaith, All and every Article, Clauſe, and Sentence, concerning Clergy; ſo that it ſhall be hard, that theſe general words ſhall be reſtrained to a particular clauſe and ſentence; but the good expoſitor doth make every ſentence to have its operation to ſuppreſs all the miſchiefs before in the ſaid Act, and chiefly thoſe which are expreſſed in the Act it ſelf (as it is in the caſe in queſtion.) And although that the latter words of this ſentence, be, Shall from henceforth concerning ſuch offences, remain in force. In good conſtruction theſe words (ſuch offences) ought to have reference to ſuch offences, as are contained in any Article, Clauſe, or Sentence of the Act of 23 Hen. 8. concerning Clergy. And by ſuch conſtruction, ſuch heinous offence ſhall not paſs in effect with impunity; and malefactors ſhall not be encouraged to burn, not onely Houſes, but Towns and Cities, and ſhall paſs with a little burning in the hand. And by this Conſtruction, all the Statutes will ſtand together, and be well reconciled, and ſhall agree with the conſtant and continual experience of the Judges. And it is frequent in our Books, That Penal Statutes have been taken by Intendment, to the end, they ſhould not be illuſory, but ſhould take effect according to the expreſs intention of the makers of the Act. And therefore it was enacted by the Statute of 27 Ed. 3. cap. 1. That he who draweth any one to the Court of Rome, in a plea which might be determined in the Kings Court; or of things whereof Judgment is given in the Kings Court; or who ſue in any other Court, to defeat or impeach the Judgments given in the Kings Courts, ſhould have day containing the ſpace of two months, &c. And if they come not at the ſame day in proper perſon, they ſhall be out of protection, &c. [b]

A Queſtion was moved in 10 Ed. 3. 11. (which was within three years after the making of this Act) If the offendor make not default, but appeareth, and pleadeth, and is condemned, if he ſhall have the high and penal judgment of Præmunire given by the ſame Act. But afterwards in 39 Ed. 3. 7. Judgment was given againſt the Biſhop of Chichester, who appeared, That he ſhall be put out of protection, &c. And yet the Letter of the Statute is, That if they do not appear the ſame day they ſhall be out of Protection; à fortiori, when he appeareth and anſwereth nothing to it, ſuch Judgment ſhall be given, for in equal miſchief, much more ſtronger; when in ſuch caſe he appeareth and pleadeth, and is found guilty, there he ſhall have Judgment upon the ſaid Statute, as it is adjudged in Ferebies caſe in 44 Ed. 3. 36. a. & b. And yet it is out of the words of the Act, which onely ſpeaketh of default; and infinite Judgments upon the ſame Statute have been given accordingly. And therefore Qui hæret in litera hæret in Cortice; which caſe was ſaid hath greater defect of words, then the caſe now in queſtion.

By the Statute of 8 H. 6. cap. 12. it is ordained, That if any Record, or any parcel thereof, &c. be voluntarily carried away, &c. by reaſon whereof any Judgment be reverſed, and ſuch ſtealer, carrier away, withdrawer or avoider, &c. are adjudged for Felons.

And in 2 Rich. 3. 19. an Action of Debt was brought againſt J. B. whereas in truth his name was W. B. Proces continued untill he was Outlawed, and the Original was raſed, and the 3 Capias made W. B. and the Rolls raſed and made accordingly. This Act was reſolved to be Felony by all the Juſtices; and yet by that, the Outlawry was made good, &c. So by the Statute of 25 Ed. 3. the killing of the Maſter is adjudged Treaſon, and the ſame extendeth by conſtruction to the Miſtreſs, as it is holden in 19 H. 6. 47. And in many other caſes, Penal Statutes have been taken by Intendment to remedy the miſchief, in advancement of Juſtice, and in ſuppreſſion of crimes and heinous offences.

As to the ſecond, The Statute of 25 H. 8. hath taken away the Clergy from him, who is found guilty of burning of any Houſe; for the ſaid Act of 25 H. 8. takes away Clergy from him, who in ſuch caſe upon his Arraignment ſtands mute, or will not plead, or challengeth above the number of twenty: In like manner and form, as if he were found guilty after the Laws of the Land; which are affirmative words, and taketh away the Clergy from him, who is found guilty according to the Laws of the Land. [35]

As to the third point, The makers of the Statute of 4 & 5 Phil. & Mary. c. 4. knowing that by the ſaid Statute of 25 H. 8. which was revived by the Statute of 5 & 6 Ed. 6. Clergy was taken from the principal offenders in the ſaid caſe of burning of a Houſe, and not of one Acceſſory; have provided that the Acceſſories before, in ſuch caſe ſhall be ouſted from their Clergy; which was taken by divers of the Juſtices to be a good interpretation of the whole Parliament, of all the ſaid Acts concerning this matter, That if the principal ſhould have his Clergy, it ſhould be abſurd, and never ſeen in the whole Law; that the Clergy ſhould be taken from the Acceſſory onely, and leave the principal offender at large to have his Clergy. Secondly, It ſhould be in vain by the ſaid Act of 4 & 5 Phil. & Mary, to take away Clergy from the Acceſſory before, and to leave the principal to have his Clergy. For if the principal hath his Clergy before Judgment, the Acceſſory ſhall not be arraigned; as it is holden in the Fourth part of my Reports.

Note Reader, That the ſaid Act of 4 & 5 Phil. & Mary, taketh away Clergy from him who is Acceſſory, before the offence of burning of a Houſe, &c. ſhall extend where the Acceſſory is Outlawed or otherwiſe Attainted or Convicted, or ſtandeth mute, or denieth to anſwer directly, or challengeth above the number of twenty; which is well and perfect to that, but that Act doth not extend to every Burglary, or breaking of houſes, &c. but onely when robbery is done.

As to the fourth point, Upon Conference had with divers Clerks of Aſſiſes, and other ancient Clerks, and upon the ſight of divers and many Records, it appeareth, That the principals and Acceſſories before have been ouſted of their Clergy, in the caſe of burning of Houſes: For their manner of Entry where Clergy doth not lye, is to ſay Cul. ſuſ. per coll. But when Clergy lieth, the Entry is, Petit librum, &c. And all the preſidents but one (which was before Sir John Puckering, and his Companions, Juſtices of Aſſiſe, in the County of Eſſex) were, Cul. ſuſ. per Collum, without the words, Petit librum. Upon all which matter, and upon view of the ſaid preſidents, it was reſolved, That the ſaid offender in the caſe in queſtion ſhould be put from his Clergy; and accordingly at the laſt Aſſiſes in the County of Cambridge (although the offender could read well) Judgment was given upon him, and Execution done accordingly; and order given, that he ſhould be [b] hanged in chains near the place where the offence was done, and ſo he was.

Note Reader, As to Burglary and Robbery in Houſes, &c. For as much as Doubts and Queſtions may ariſe upon it, as hath been ſaid, I have thought it neceſſary (by way of Appendix) to make a ſhort Explanation of it, and of ſome other things, to the intent, That of the one ſide, great offenſes ſhould not paſs unpuniſhed, nor of the other ſide, the ſubject be deprived of the priviledge which the Law giveth him.

By the Statute of 18 Eliz. cap. 7. it is enacted, That if any perſon ſhall commit any Felonious Burglary, and ſhall be found guilty by Verdict, or ſhall be outlawed, or upon his Arraignment ſhall confeſs the ſame; in every ſuch caſe he ſhall be put from his Clergy. By this Act it is commonly holden, and ſo publiſhed in ſome Books in Print, That none ſhall have Clergy who committeth any [ ] Felonious Burglary. And it is to ſee if the ſame be well underſtood, and the ſecret thereof is worthy your apprehenſion and knowledge, for this Statute of 18 Eliz. extendeth onely to three caſes, viz. Where the offender is Outlawed, or is found guilty by Verdict, or confeſſeth the ſame: And therefore if any one be indicted of Burglary generally at the Common Law, (without ſomething ſpecial and without any allegation according to certain Statutes in ſuch caſe, provided) if the offender be Outlawed, or if upon not guilty pleaded, he be found Guilty by Verdict; or if he confeſs the ſame, he ſhall be ouſted of the priviledge of Clergy by this Statute, but if he be arraigned upon ſuch generall Indictment, and ſtandeth mute, or will not anſwer, or challengeth above the number of twenty; in ſuch caſes, upon ſuch Indictment, he ſhall have his Clergy. And therefore it ſhall be wiſely done, that the Indictment do comprehend according to the Statutes of 23 Hen. 8. 1. 1 Ed. 6. 12. That ſome perſon was in the Houſe, and put in fear, &c. for in ſuch caſe the ſame Act doth put him from his Clergy; or according to the Statute of 5 Ed. 6. 9. the owner, his wife, or children, being ſleeping or waking; for if any ſuch ſpecial matter be contained in the Indictment, then if the offender ſtandeth mute, or will not directly anſwer, or challengeth above the number of twenty, he ſhall be put from his Clergy.

Alſo the ſaid Acts of 1 & 5 Ed. 6. are neceſſary to be explained, viz. The Act of of 1 Ed. 6. 12. ought to be expounded as it hath been before: and although that this Act doth extend to a ſingle Burglary without Robbery, yet it requireth, that ſome perſon be then in the Houſe that is put in fear: For if the party were there, and was not put in fear; as if he be ſleeping, or awake, or in another part of the Houſe, and not put in fear; then notwithſtanding ſuch Burglary, he ſhall have his Clergy; notwithſtanding the Statute of 23 H. 8. doth joyn Robbery with Burglary in ſuch
[b] caſe, and the Statute of 1 Ed. 6. 12. which extendeth to ſingle Burglary, but both agree, That the perſon ought to be put in fear. And the laſt Act alſo of 5 Ed. 6. is worthy of Expoſition, For firſt, the ſame joyneth Robbery with Burglary: So that the offender breaketh the houſe in the night, with a Felonious intent, without taking any thing; although that the perſon be put in fear, yet he ſhall have his Clergy. Secondly, This Act doth extend onely when the offender is found guilty of the Felony, and not when the offender is Outlawed, or ſtandeth mute, or will not anſwer, or challengeth above the number of twenty; and therefore the ſureſt way is in the Indictment, to follow the Statute of 1 Ed. 6. 12. For that as to Burglary is the moſt ſure and compleat Law, as to ground an Indictment of Burglary.

But all this which hath been ſaid extends to the principal offenders in Burglary, and it is requiſite that ſomething be ſaid in what caſes the Acceſſories in this offence ſhall have the Clergy, and in what not. The Statute which taketh away the priviledge of Clergy, in this and divers other caſes, is the ſaid Statute of 4 & 5 Phil. & Mary: for the Act of 23 Hen. 8. which denieth Clergy to the Acceſſory before, is (as hath been ſaid) taken away: As to that by the ſaid general clauſe of 1 Ed. 6. and the Act of 18 Eliz. doth not extend but to the Principal: And therefore the words of the ſaid Act of 4 & 5 Phil. & Mary, are to be conſidered; and as to this purpoſe they are. All and every perſon and perſons that ſhall maliciouſly command, hire, and counſel any perſon or perſons, to do any Robbery in any dwelling Houſe or Houſes, ſhall loſe the benefit of his Clergy; and of ſuch effect was the Statute of 23 Hen. 8. 1. And the Statute of 25 H. 8. extendeth onely to the principal, by which it appeareth, That if the commandment be made to do any Felony or

Robbery

Robbery of Goods, that ſuch an Acceſſory before ſhall have his Clergy, Vide Stanford, lib. 1 *cap.*24. For which other Felonies, Burglary may be committed.

But let us leave Burglary which ought to be done in the night, and let us ſee in what caſes a man ſhall be put from his Clergy, when he breaketh any dwelling Houſe in the day time.

1. Upon the Statutes of 23 H. 8. 25 H. 8. 1 Ed. 6. cap. 12. 5 & 6 Ed. 6. 9. it is clear, That there ought to be an Actual Felony done, beſides the breaking of the Houſe in the day, for the breaking of the Houſe onely in the day time, although it be with a Felonious intent, without taking away ſomething, is not Felony; and therefore there needeth no Clergy in the caſe. [b]

2. Upon the ſaid Statutes of 23 & 25 H. 8. there oughe to be then either the owner, his Wife, or his Children, or ſervants there put in fear; and by 1 Ed. 6. 12. ſome perſon ought to be in the Houſe and put in fear: And by 5 & 6 Ed. 6. cap. 9. If the owner, Wife, or ſome of his Children or Servants, be in any part of the Houſe ſleeping, or waking, and all the other points concerning the Attainder, Conviction, ſtanding mute, &c. in caſe of Burglary, doth extend alſo to Robbery in a dwelling houſe in the day time: And he who robbeth any perſon in any Booth or Tent in any Fair or Market, the owner, his Wife, Children, or ſervants, being aſleeping or awake, ſhall be put from his Clergy by the Statute of 1 Ed. 6. cap. 12. and 6 Ed. 6. cap 9. But two things in the caſe of Robbery in a dwelling Houſe in the day time, are to be reſerved. None of theſe Statutes putteth the party from his Clergy in caſe of Robbery, in a dwelling Houſe in the day time, but in two caſes.

1. If any perſon be put in fear upon the Statute of 1 Ed. 6. cap. 12. and other Statutes before.

2. If the owner, his Wife, his children, or ſervants, be then in another part of the ſame Houſe, although that they be not put in fear, the offender ſhall be put from his Clergy by the Statute of 5 & 6 Ed. 6. c. 9. but if a ſtranger be there by the owners leave, the offender ſhall have his Clergy, for it is out of the words; and of ſuch opinion is Stanf. 125. b. who voucheth the opinion of all the Juſtices to be accordingly,

But a doubt was conceived upon theſe Statutes, If any in the day time hath broken an out-houſe, as a Barn, Stable, &c. if the ſame ſhall be ſaid as to put the offender from his Clergy, a dwelling-houſe; and afterwards the Statute of 39 Eliz. c. 15. was made, by the which it is enacted, That he who ſtealeth to the value of five ſhillings in any dwelling-houſe or out-houſe in the day time, although that no perſon be within it, ſhall be ouſted of his Clergy. And it is to know, That none of the ſaid Statutes do extend to any Acceſſory before the Robbery in a Houſe in the day time, but onely (as it hath been often ſaid) the Statute of 23 H. 8. and the Statute of 4 & 5 P. & M. and the Statute of 23 H. 8. as to this point, is taken away by the Statute of 1 Ed. 6. c. 12. Then it is to ſee, in what caſes the Acceſſory before ſhall have his Clergy, and in what not. And therefore the ſaid Act of 4 & 5 P. M. is to be again revived and conſidered as to this point. For in caſe where the Clergy is taken away from the Principal, in caſe of Robbing in any dwelling houſe in the day, before the ſaid Act of 4 & 5 P. & M. in ſuch caſe the Clergy is taken from the Acceſſory before by the Statute of 4 & 5 P. & M. [37]

But firſt, This Act doth not extend to Acceſſories before, in caſe of robbing in a Booth or Tent, be it in the day or in the night; for theſe are not eſteemed in Law for a dwelling houſe, as the Statute of 4 & 5 P. & M. ſpeaketh, and as well appeareth in the recital of 5 & 6 Ed. 6. c. 9. Alſo the Statute of 4 & 5 P. & M. doth not extend to the offence within the Act of 39 Eliz. which was made long time after the Act of 4 & 5 P. & M. and the Act of 39 Eliz. doth take away Clergy from the Principal offender onely. And you may take this for a general rule, That every Act which taketh away Clergy from the Principal, and ſpeaketh nothing of the Acceſſory; that the Acceſſories as well before as after, ſhall have their Clergy, as it was holden by all the Juſtices, 1 Mar. fol. 99. Dyer.

Another general Rule is, In all caſes where a man is ouſted by any Statute for any offence from the benefit of his Clergy, the ſame offence ought to be contained in the Indictment, or Appeal, in ſuch manner and form, and with the ſame circumſtances as is contained in the Statute, or otherwiſe the offender ſhall have his Clergy; becauſe that the Statute which ouſteth him of his Clergy not being purſued, the offender is left to the Common Law.

For example, upon the ſaid Act of 4 & 5 P. & M. the words are, All and every perſon or perſons that ſhall maliciouſly command, hire, or counſel any perſon to commit or do any Petit Treaſon, wilful Murder, or to do any Robbery in any dwelling houſe, &c. or wilfully to burn a dwelling houſe, &c. And thereupon the caſe in 2 Eliz. Dyer 183. was, That a man is indicted of Robbery of another in his Manſion-houſe, he being in the ſaid houſe, and put in fear; and another is indicted, becauſe that he Feloniouſly before the ſaid Robbery, procured and counſelled the Principal to commit that Robbery; in which Indictment of the Acceſſory, this word (Feloniouſly) was left out. And by the opinion of all the Juſtices of Aſſiſe in their Aſſembly, except the Chief Juſtice, and Anthony Brown, for want of this word (Feloniouſly) in the Indictment, the party had his Clergy, becauſe that the words of the Statute of 4 & 5 P. & M. were not purſued. Alſo in 18 Eliz. a ſervant of the Lady Laxton of London, was indicted for procuring Feloniouſly of the Robbery of his Miſtreſs by one Crompton: but in the Indictment there wanted Conſuluit, Conduxit, vel præcepit, and alſo Maliciouſly; and therefore Clergy was allowed to him after Judgment by the opinion of the Juſtices.

Metcalfes Case.

WOod and others brought a Writ of Accompt in the Common Pleas against Metcalfe, and upon Issue found against him, Judgment was given Quod computet, & ideo in misericordia quia non prius computavit. Upon which Judgment, Medcalfe brought a Writ of Error; and now two Questions were moved.

First, If after this Judgment, the Writ of Error lieth or not?

Secondly, If a Writ of Error lieth not, If the Record be removed or not? And it was argued on the Plaintiffs side, That the Writ of Error well lieth: For after this Judgment, if the Plaintiff dieth, or if the Plaintiff be a Woman, and after this Judgment taketh Husband, the Writ shall not abate; and so it is adjudged in 27 Ed. 3. 87. a. and therewith agreeth 24 Hen. 4. 1. wherein a Writ of Accompt against one as Bailiff, and ne unque son bailie pleaded; and after tryal against the Defendant, Judgment was given, that the Defendant should Accompt; and afterwards the Plaintiff dieth, his Executors shall have a Scire facias against the Defendant, which was served, and he appeared not; for which a Capias ad computand' issued forth against him retornable at a certain day; and the Plaintiff prayed an Exigent against him, and had it. Vide 21 Ed. 3. 32. and in 21 Ed. 3. 7. In Robert de Holywels case, it is adjudged, That after such Judgment, the Plaintiff cannot be Nonsuit; but notwithstanding his default, he may have a Capias ad computandum within the year, and a Scire facias after the year; and therewith agreeth 3 Hen. 4. 7. And there it is said, That by the Judgment that the Defendant shall Accompt, that the Original is determined, 21 Hen. 6. 26. in John Ferrers case: But there it is said, That although that in such case the Plaintiff cannot be Non-
[b] suit, yet the default of the Plaintiff in such case shall be a Bar to him for ever; and so is a judgment there cited in 19 Ed. 3. by Wilby, Vide 18 Ed. 2. Accompt 123. 21 Ed. 3. 7. 1 Hen. 7. 2. 3 Hen. 4. 7. 41 Ed. 3. 3. a. It is holden, that if two be adjudged to Accompt, and the one dieth, the other shall accompt all one, and the Writ shall not abate Vide 31 Ed. 3. Accompt, Saltham. Vide 34 Ed. 1. Brief 854. 1 Ed. 4. In a Writ of Accompt, the Defendant was awarded to Accompt, and a Capias ad computandum awarded; and the Defendant came in by Cepi corpus, and the Auditors were assigned to him, &c. For which the Defendant entered in Accompt and pleaded a payment by the command of the Plaintiff, the Plaintiff traversed the Commandment; and upon that they were at Issue, and after Issue joyned, the Defendant was bailed by Recognisance; and afterwards the Issue was discontinued by the Demise of the King, Edward the Fourth, before Verdict given. And in that case two points were resolved.

1. That the Bail were discharged by the Demise of the King.

2. That after such Judgment given, that the Defendant should Accompt, always the Entre is, Ideo consideratum est quod prædict' M. computet, & idem, M. in misericordia, quia prius non computavit, which proveth, That the same is a Judgment, and by consequence a Writ of Error lieth upon it.

But it was resolved by the whole Court, That the Writ of Error upon this Judgment quod computet, &c. before the final Judgment given, lay not. And the same appeareth by the words of the Writ of Error, Quia in recordo & processu, & etiam in redditione judicii loquelæ quæ fuit in curia nostra coram vobis, &c. per breve nostrum inter W. & M. quod idem M. redderet præfat' W. rationabilem computum suum de quo fuit Receptor denariorum, &c. Error intervenit manifestus ad grave damnum ipsius M. &c. Nos errorem si quis fuerit modo debito corrigi, & partibus prædictis plenam & celerem Justiciam fieri volentes in hac parte, Vobis mandamus; quod si judicium inde redditum sit, tunc recordum & processum loquelæ præd' cum omnibus ea tangentibus, &c. nobis, &c. mittatis & hoc breve, &c. And all the Question of this case was, What Judgment was intended in the Writ of Error viz. That, quod defendent computet, or the latter Judgment. And it was resolved, That no Writ of Ertor lieth till the last Judgment be given; and that for divers Reasons.

1. When a thing (whereof there is divers degrees and qualities) is found indefinitely mentioned in a Writ, Count, or other Record, the principal thing, and the most worthy shall be intended; as 6 Eliz. Dyer 236. A penalty inflicted by Act of Parliament to be recovered in any of the Courts of Record of the Queen, shall be intended of the principal Courts at Westminster, 20 Hen. 6. 23.
[39] In an Accompt, supposing the Defendant to be his Receiver from the Feast of St. Michael, shall be next the Feast of Michael Archangel, and not St. Michael De monte tumbæ.

So 13. Hen. 4. 44. 21 Hen. 6. 8. 37 Hen. 6. 29. If the Father and Son be of one name, viz. J. S. if J. S. be named generally in a Writ, Count, or other Record, it shall be meant of the Father; for he is the more worthy. So 10. Ed. 4. 11. 7 Rich. 2. Tit. Bar. 241.

If a man be bound to prove a thing, he ought to prove it by the principal proof in Law, and that is by Jury: And so if it be spoken of Fee, it shall be meant Fee-simple; and if of Escuage, it shall be intended the principal Escuage in certain. Vide Lit. fol. 21. And see a notable case to this purpose, in 5 Edward 1. Reseeit 165. Where the case was, That in Admeasurement of Pasture against a man and his Wife, Judgment was given that Admeasurement should be made; and afterwards it was done in the Country, and retorned into the Common Pleas, 15 Hillary. At which day, the Husband made default, and the Wife came into the Court before the Judgment Judgment given in the Principal, and prayed to be received; notwithſtanding that, it was ſaid. That ſhe was come too late after the Admeaſurement awarded, which is a Judgment: To which it was ſaid by Herle. That that was not a Judgment upon the Principal. And where the Statute of Weſt. 2. cap. 3. is, Si uxor ante judicium venerit, &c. The Statute muſt be intended of the Principal Judgment.

So in 22 Ed. 3. Tit. Reſceit 139. in an Aſſiſe of Mortdanceſter againſt the Husband and Wife, the Aſſiſe was Awarded by Defauls, and the Aſſiſe remaineth pro defectu juratorum; and now the Wife prayed to be received: And it was objected, That Judgment was given, that the Aſſiſe ſhould be taken: and afterwards the Wife who came before the final Judgment, was received; and therein agreeth 17 Ed. 2. Reſceit 173. and 22 Aſſ. pl. 22. After the Aſſiſe Awarded, the Wife was received. 24 Ed. 3. 29. and divers other Books.

2. The ſaid words, Si judicium inde redditum ſit, &c. are intended not onely of the Principal Judgment, as appeareth before, but alſo of the whole Judgment, viz. When all the matter within the Original is determined, as in 34 Hen. 6. 18. in Humphrey Bohuns Caſe, in a Quare impedit brought againſt two; one pleadeth to iſſue, and the other confeſſeth the Action; upon which confeſſion, Judgment is given: And he againſt whom Judgment was given, ſueth a Writ of Error to remove the Record into the Kings Bench: Priſot and the whole Court, the ſame cannot be; for the Writ of Error ſhall rehearſe all which are parties to the Original Writ; and then the Writ ſaith, Et ſi judicium inde reditum ſit, tunc recordum illud habeatis; wherefore the ſame proveth that it cannot be before the whole matter be determined. To which Littleton ſaith, If a Writ of Treſpaſs be brought againſt two, and one appeareth and pleadeth; ſo that he is attainted of the Treſpaſs, and Judgment given againſt him, notwithſtanding that the matter is not determined againſt the other, yet he againſt whom the Judgment was given, ſhall have a Writ of Error, and the Plea ſhall be removed. Priſot, no truly, and the contrary to what you ſay, was here lately adjudged in the Caſe of the Lord Cromwel, againſt Cawary, and others. 32 Hen. 6. 5 & 6. b. In Treſpaſs by the Lord of S. againſt one for taking of his Cattle, as to parcel, the Defendant pleaded not guilty, and as to the other, he pleaded another plea, upon which the Plaintiff did demur, and afterwards the Iſſue was found for the Plaintiff, upon which he had Judgment: Yet he ſhall not have a Writ of Error, till the whole matter be determined. [b]

And the reaſon of the ſaid Caſe is, That if the Record be removed, till the whole matter be determined, there ſhall be a failer of right: For the Judges of the Kings Bench cannot proceed upon the matter which is not determined, and upon which, no Judgment is given; and the whole Record ought to be either in the Common Pleas or in the Kings Bench: alſo the Original is entire, and cannot be there, and here likewiſe. 39 Hen. 6. Tit. Error 11. A man caſt in a Writ of Error of a Judgment given (where the Judgment was given of the Principal, and of the Damages, and not of the Coſts;) for which cauſe it was rejected, becauſe that the Writ is Conditional, Si judicium inde redditum ſit, 12 Eliz. Dyer 291. In a Formedom brought by Fitz-Williams, againſt Coply, the Demandant had Judgment for part, &c. and afterwards the Tenant brought a general Writ of Error before the Diſcuſſion of the reſidue, and earneſtly prayed, that the Record might be removed into the Kings Bench; but the Court would not grant it, before the whole matter demanded was determined; for otherwiſe they ſhould proceed in a Plea without a Warrant; and alſo the Writ of Error ſaith, Si judicium inde redditum ſit: And this word (inde) goeth to the whole demand

So in the caſe at Bar, the Record ſhall not be removed untill the whole matter of the Accompt be determined, and Judgment be given for the whole, and that cannot be till the Judgment be given of the arrerages and damages, &c. Ne curia Domini Regis deficeret in juſtitia exhibenda, The Record ſhall not be removed till the whole matter be determined.

3. The Writ of Error is to be meant, not onely De principali & integro, but alſo De judicio graviter damnoſo: And as to that, it is to know, That the Original Writ of Accompt, notwithſtanding the ſaid Award, doth remain undetermined; and upon that the Judgment in the end ſhall be given: for the Original is, that the Defendant Computet, &c. and then the Defendant doth enter in Accompt before Auditors, &c. before whom he pleads to Iſſue, which is found by Verdict, or in other manner, that he is in arrerages of a certain ſum; and then the Plaintiff by force of the ſaid Original Writ of Accompt ſhall have finall, or definitive Judgment. Ideo conſideratum eſt quod præd' W. recuperet verſus præfat. M. as much as he is found in arrerages, Et damna occaſione interplacitationis, &c. And that is the Judgment by which the Defendant is charged with the Accompt, which is the effect of his ſuit; and the other Award is but as an Acceſſory unto it: For by the Award quod computet, no ſum is recovered, nor doth it make an end of the Original; but is onely a means to bring it to the end: But the Judgment, by which he ſhall recover not onely the arrerages of the Accompt, but damages alſo (as is aforeſaid) is the end and determination of the Original: And therefore the Writ of Error may well ſay ad grave damnum of him who was Defendant in the Accompt; for by the Judgment he hath loſs, but not by the Award; and therefore the Judgment meant in the Writ of Error is Judicium graviter damnoſum to the Defendant. [40]

The fourth Reason was. That the Award quod computet, is but an Award, as an Award that the Assise shall be taken, Award in Wast, of a Writ of Enquiry in Wast, in Trespass, &c. a Writ of Enquiry of Damages, in partitione facienda, and Award quod partitio fiat, an Award that one shall be ousted of Aid, and the like, which are but Awards of the Court, and are but interlocutory and not definitive; whereupon no Writ of Error lieth till the last Judgment be given: And therewith agreeth, 7 Rich. 2. Tit. Error 68. by Belknap, Skipwith, and the whole Court; That a man prayeth in Aid, and be ousted of the Aid by Award, he shall not have a Writ of Error of that Award, before that the principal plea be determined. Vide 17 Ed. 3. 5. In Bar in Presentment: Et à sententia interlocutoria non appellatur jure Civili.

5. Till the latter Judgment, the parties have done by the Roll, which proveth that the Plea doth remain undetermined. And Hill. 39. Eliz. Rot. 327. Anne Countess of Warwick brought a [b] Writ of Partition against Henry Lord Berkley, where Judgment was given upon a special Verdict, Quod partitio fieret; and before the last Judgment, viz. (after Partition made) Quod partio firma & stabilis imperpetuum teneatur; the Lord Berkley brought a Writ of Error, and it was resolved, That the Writ of Error lay not till the Principal Judgment given, which determineth the Plea: As in a Writ of Dower when Judgment is given that she shall recover her Dower, there the Original is determined; and yet the Shrieff shall make Execution of the third part by Meets and Bounds, which Process needeth not to be retorned.

And for direct Authority in the point in terminis terminantibus, in 21 Ed. 3. fol. 9. Thorp came to the Bar, and said, How that A. brought a Writ of Accompt against B. who was Awarded to Accompt, and a Capias ad computandum issued against him: And now the said B. hath brought a Writ of Error to disturb the Accompt; and prayed, That the Record might not be sent till he hath accompted: Stouse, no more it shall not be; for the Plea is not ended untill he hath accompted: And for that cause the Court granted him, That the Record should not be removed. Vide 21 Ed. cap. 3. Tit. Accompt, Statham. Vide 6. Ed. 4. cap. 2 & 3.

And it is holden in 1 Hen. 7. 2. b. in these words. So soon as the Defendant is adjudged to Accompt, and they are at issue before Auditors, and the Enquest is ready to pass, and the Plaintiff maketh default; now shall the Plaintiff be Nonsuit, and shall not be reserved after: And if the Plaintiff be present, and will not sue forward, he shall be barred in the Principal Action: For they say, That though the party be adjudged to Accompt, yet the Action is not clearly determined until the Accompt be determined; for the Accompt doth depend upon the Original, and all is but one; and so the Nonsuit or Discontinuance now upon the Process upon the Accompt, is a Discontinuance of the whole Action: And it is not like to other Actions where the Plaintiff hath once Judgment, for to recover; then the Action is clearly determined to all intents: And when he sueth a Scire facias to have Execution, he may be Nonsuit in it; but that maketh nothing to the Original Judgment.

And yet upon consideration of these, and all the other Books, it may well be that to divers intents and purposes (as in the said Books appeareth) the said Award (quod computet) is a Judgment, but not such a Judgment (for the Causes and Reasons before) as is intended within the words of the Writ of Error, Si judicium inde redditum sit; And for the most part every particular case which hath been ruled in the said Books, may well stand upon several and particular Reasons.

[41] Note Reader, Whereas it is said in this case, That a Writ of Error lieth not upon an Award, till the principal Judgment is given; and where it is also said, That no Writ of Error lieth until the whole matter in the Original be determined: Both these Rules are regularly true; but yet each of them hath Exceptions; for as to the first in 18 Hen. 7. Trin. Rot. 3. in the Kings Bench the case was, That one Eaton was indicted of the death of John M. before the Justices of the Peace in the County of Lincoln; upon which, a Capias was Awarded, and that upon an Exigent; after which, Eaton died before any Attainder; upon which Award of the Exigent, his Administrators brought a Writ of Error; and it was adjudged, That the Writ of Error did lie; and the reason was, Because that by the Awarding of the Exigent, his Goods and Chattels were forfeited; and of such Awards which tend ad tale grave damnum of the party, a Writ of Error lieth, although the Principal Judgment was never given; and in this case, Exceptio probat regulam, & sic de similibus.

As to the second, you shall find in 36 Hen. 6. Tit. Fieri facias 3. it is holden, That in Debt against divers, by several Præcipes, if there be Error in the Judgment against one, he shall have a Writ of Error: For in these Originals, in which are several Counts, and Error is against one, he shall have a Writ of Error, and the Record of his Count, and the pleading &c. shall be severed from the Original, and removed into the Kings Bench; and yet the Original doth stay here, (as well because the Court of Common Pleas is in possession of it, as because that otherwise the Common Pleas could not proceed to determine the residue without the Original; and in such case, as I conceive, If Error be in the Original upon a Certiorari, the Chief Justice shall certifie but the tenor of it.) But where the Original is one, and one Count, he cannot have a Writ of Error till the whole be determined: For the Record cannot be in the Kings Bench, and here also.

Alſo it is to be noted, That in the principal caſe of 36 Hen. 6. ubi ſupra, That the Writ of Entreſur Diſſeiſin was brought of Land, and of Rent; as to the Land, they were at iſſue, and it was found for the Demandant; and the Rent did depend in Plea; for which cauſe, for the Land he ſhall have Judgment, &c. And there Priſot ſaith, Bring to us a ſpecial Writ of Error, if you will, and we will adviſe (when we ſee the Writ) if it ſhall be allowed, or not. And in the ſame caſe the opinion of the Courts, was, That the party in the principal Caſe ſhould not have Judgment of his coſts of Suit, until the Original (that is, all the Original matter) be determined; for he cannot know what damage he ſhall be at before that the Suit be determined. Vide Dyer 12 Eliz. 291. b. [b]
Vide 36. Hen. 6. 13.

As to the ſecond point it was reſolved, That the Record is not removed, becauſe that until ſuch Judgment given as is intended in the Writ, the Chief Juſtice of the Common Pleas hath not Authority to ſend it; for the words are, Si judicium inde redditum ſit, tunc recordum & proceſſum, &c. mittatis, &c. And therefore the Record doth yet remain in the Common Pleas; upon which they may proceed, notwithſtanding the Roll be marked Mittitur, &c.

Mich. 12. Jac.

Richard Godfreys Caſe. [42]

Robert Bullen Plaintiff, in a Replevin againſt Richard Godfrey Eſquire, Owen Godfrey, and John Hayns, which began Mich. 11. Jac. Regis Rot. and declared, That they took his Cattle, viz. Two Cows, &c. at Bathele, in a place called the Common, &c. The ſaid Richard doth avow, and the ſaid Owen and John as Bayliffs to Richard, make Conuſance of taking the ſaid Cattle, becauſe that the ſaid Richard Godfrey, was, and yet is ſeiſed of the Mannor of Bathele, in the County of Norfolk, (whereof the place where was parcel,) &c. in Fee. And that the ſaid Richard, and all thoſe whoſe eſtate he hath in the ſaid Mannor, time out of mind, have had a Leet one in the year, viz. within a month after Michaelmas, to be holden before his Steward, as to the ſaid Mannor appertaining: And that ſuch Steward for the time, being time out of mind, &c. hath uſed to ſwear twelve or more of the Inhabitants and Reſiants within the Leet aforeſaid, to be chief Pledges of the Leet, to enquire of all the Articles concerning Leet, and to preſent them: And that within the ſaid Mannor, time out of mind, there hath been ſuch Cuſtom, that the ſaid chief Pledges of the ſaid Leet for the time being, ſo ſworn, have uſed time out of mind, &c. at every Leet to preſent (inter alia) that themſelves, the chief Pledges ſhould pay to the Lord of the Manor for the time being Pro capital' argent' ſive pro certo Letæ Ten ſhillings, and have paid it at the ſame Leet.

And that at the Leet holden at the ſaid Manor, within a month after the Feaſt of St. Michael. 10 Jac. before Thomas King, then Steward of the ſaid Richard Godfrey of the ſaid Leet, the ſaid Steward ſwore the ſaid Robert Bullen, John Shaxton, Robert Daniel, and others, to the number of [b] twelve chief Pledges of the Leet, and to enquire of the Articles of the Leet; and they being ſo ſworn, at the ſaid Leet Contemptuosè recuſaverunt præſentare quod ipſi iidem capitales plegii ſolverunt præfato Ricardo Godfrey, tunc domino Manerii prædicti ad illam eandem Letam, pro capitali argento, ſive certo Letæ xs: Necnon adtunc & ibidem contemptuosè recuſaverunt ſolvere Ricardo ad eandem Letam, (the ſaid chief Silver or certainty of Leet) ob quòd prædict' Thomas King Seneſchallus, &c. &c. ad illam eandem Letam finem ſex Librarum ſuper eoſdem capitales plegios ad tunc & ibidem impoſuit.

And becauſe the ſaid ten ſhillings for chief Silver, or certainty of Leet, and the ſaid Fine of ſix pound, to the ſaid Richard Godfrey, were behind and not paid; the ſaid Richard Godfrey did avow, and the ſaid Owen and John did acknowledge taking of the ſaid Cattle in the place, where, &c. for the ſaid ſeveral ſums of ten Shillings, and ſix pound, &c. Upon which Avowry, the Plaintiff did demur in Law. And in this caſe four points were moved and Argued at the Barr.

1. If the ſaid Fine being joyntly impoſed, was lawful?
2. If it were not duly ſet; if it were void, or voidable?
3. If the Avowant might diſtrain for the ſaid chief Silver, or certainty of Leet?
4. When the Defendant Avoweth the taking for two diſtinct cauſes; and it appeareth of his own ſhewing, that one of them is not any cauſe in Law, and that the other is a juſt cauſe, if he ſhall have Retorn of the Cattle?

And this caſe was ſundry Terms argued at the Bar, and this Term by the Bench.

As to the firſt Queſtion, it was reſolved, That the Fine impoſed upon the Jurors joyntly, was not lawfully ſet, but ought to have been aſſeſſed upon them ſeverally, and chiefly in this caſe, Becauſe what produceth the Fine was ſeveral; for the refuſal of every of them was ſeveral and perſonal; and the refuſal of the one is not the refuſal of the other: And therefore it was reſolved, That if ſome refuſe, and the others are ready to preſent, &c. Thoſe who refuſe, ſhall be onely fined. And therefore the caſe which Priſot putteth in 35 Hem. 6. Tit. Examination 17. That if one of the Enqueſt eſcapeth after that they were ſworn, ſo that they cannot give their Verdict, although that the others were not aſſenting to it, that yet they ſhould be all fined, was utterly denied to be Law; for nemo debet puniri pro alieno delicto, to which he is not party, privy, conſenting nor aſſenting, [43] for then it might be ſaid Rutilius fecit, Æmilius plectitur. And it was ſaid, That the ſaid Caſe was ill reported, and ill printed. Vide Plo. Com. 519. Welkdons caſe. One Juror who onely miſdemeaned himſelf, was onely impriſoned and fined. Vide 36 Hen. 6. 28. And with this reſolution agreeth, 10 Ed. 3. fol. 9. 10. where William Freeman brought a Replevin againſt the Abbot of Ramſey, and others, of taking of his Cattle; the Lord avowed the taking, by reaſon that he is Lord of the Hundred of F. within which Hundred he had many Leets to hold once in the year in the Town of M. within the ſame Hundred, &c. And that the ſaid William Freeman is Reſiant, &c. And that at ſuch a Leet holden within the Hundred, twelve were ſworn to preſent things preſentable; and this William was one of them: And after that they had received the Articles, they were commanded to anſwer to the ſaid Articles, &c. And they refuſing, that this William and the others were amerced; and the Ammercement of William was affered to half a week, and for the ſame he avowed. To which, Aſhton of Council with the Plaintiff, took Exception againſt the Avowry, becauſe the Avowant doth ſuppoſe they were amerced in common; and afterwards he ſaid, That the Amercement of William was affered, and ſo was the Afferance ſeveral, and the Amercement common. Judgment of the Avowry? To which it was anſwered and reſolved, That ſo ſhall the Law be; for becauſe that all refuſed, all ſhall be amerced; but when the ſum ſhall be impoſed or affered, it ſhall be upon every one ſeverally Secundum qualitatem delicti ſalvo contenemento ſuo; and afterwards the Plaintiff was commanded to ſay further. And in 4 Eliz. Dyer 211. the Jurors of a Leet refuſing to anſwer the Articles of the Leet according to their Oath, the Steward did ſet a Fine upon each of them.

It was further reſolved, That in a ſtronger caſe then the caſe at Bar, where the foundation is joynt, yet the Fine ſhall be ſeveral: As in Aſſiſe againſt two, the Diſſeiſin is found with force, although the Diſſeiſin be joynt, yet the Fine ſhall be ſeveral: And therewith agreeth 10 Ed. 3. 10. a. So in 30 Ed. 3. 1, 2. 30 Aſſ. pl. 49. Two were joyntly convicted in the Kings Beneh, in a Bill of Treſpaſs of Reſcous done in Middleſex, to the damages of forty pound, who joyned in Attaint. And there it is holden, That though the Fine and Impriſonment be ſeveral, yet foraſmuch as the Plaintiff hath joyned them in one Action, they may well joyn in an Attaint againſt him. And ſo F. N. B. 75. g. in a Court Baron, if two are amerced for one Treſpaſs outragiouſly, they ſhall not joyn in a Writ De Moderata miſericordia; for they ſhould be ſeverally amerced, although the Treſpaſs be made jontly: So in a plaint ſued by two, if they be Nonſuit, the Amerciament ſhall
[b] be ſeveral. And it is to know when Judgment is given in the Kings Beuch or Common Pleas, against two & ideo in miſericordia, yet when it is affered by the Coroners in the Country, the Amercement ſhall be ſet upon them ſeveral. Vide 1 Hen. 7. b. and Greſlys caſe, in the Eighth part of my Reports. But if a Jury appear at the Bar, and the Plaintiff be Nonſuit, the Judges may amerce the Plaintiff; and the Jury who are of the ſame Country may affereit, as it is holden in 18 Ed. 3. 13. And there is a difference as to this purpoſe, betwixt a Fine and an Amercement: For the Fine is ſet by the Court, and therefore needeth not to be affered; but an Amercement ough to be affered by the Country; and therewith agreeth 7 H. 6. 12. 10 H. 6. 7. Vide Greſleys caſe, and Plo. Com. Weldons caſe, 519. And when there are divers Defendants, and they are by Law to pay a Fine, then the Judgment is ideo capiatur, and the ſame is for a Fine; for the impriſonment is not but till the Fine be paid, and therewith agreeth 17 Edward 3. 73. a. 9 Edward 3. 6. Vide 34 Henry 6. 14. And that is the Cauſe; that when the Entre is ideo capiatur, that he ſhall not be amerced, becauſe he is to pay a Fine. And although the Entre be ideo capiantur, yet it ſhall be taken reddendo ſingula ſingulis; for the damages of the party they ſhall be taken by a joynt capias ad ſatisfaciendum; but for the Fine due to the King, they ſhall be taken ſeverally by Capias pro fine, as appeareth before; that they ſhall be ſeverally impriſoned, and ſeverally fined; for it is not reaſon, that three ſhould be impriſond, till the other hath paid his Fine. And in all caſes, when the mean to attain to the Fine is ſeveral, the Fine it ſelf ought to be ſeveral; and yet in ſome caſe the Fine or Amercement ſhall be impoſed upon divers joyntly, ſometimes upon a Country, ſometimes upon a Hundred, and alſo upon a Town, &c. As for the eſcape of a Murderer, &c. Vide 22 Ed. 3. Corone 238. 2 Ed. 3. Ibid. 147. 3 Ed. 3. Ibid. 302. 316, & 10 Ed. 3. 10. a. And that is for the incertainty of the perſons, and for the infiniteneſs of the number.

And it was obſerved, That of Courts, ſome may fine and not impriſon, as the Court Leet; ſome cannot fine nor impriſon, but amerce, as the County-Court, Hundred, Court Baron, &c. For no Court may fine and impriſon which is not a Court of Record, as is F. N. B. 73. b. If a man be convicted before the Sheriff in a Writ of Recaption, the Defendant ſhall be but amerced; but if he be convicted in a Writ of Recaption before the Juſtices, viz. in a Court of Record, the Defendant ſhall be fined and impriſoned; but then he ſhall not be amerced, and therewith agreeth, 9 Hen. 5. 1. b. Some may impriſon and not fine, as the Conſtable at the Petit Seſſions, for any affray made in diſturbance of the Court, may impriſon but not fine. Some Courts cannot impriſon, fine, nor amerce, as the Eccleſiaſtical Courts holden before the Ordinary, Archdeacon, &c. or their Commiſſaries, and the like, who proceed according to the Canon or Civil Law. Vide Brook, Tit. Error 177. And ſome Courts may fine, impriſon, and amerce, as the caſe requireth, as the Courts of Record at Weſtminſter, and elſewhere.

It was alſo reſolved, That the reaſonableneſs of the Fine ſhall be judged by the Juſtices; and if it appears to them to be exceſſive, it is againſt Law, and ſhall not binde; for exceſſus in re qualibet jure reprobatur communi, as exceſſive diſtreſs is forbidden by the Common Law, 41 Ed. 3. 26. (For the Act of Articuli Super Chartas, cap. 12. Non capietur gravis diſtrictio, extendeth to the King onely onely.) Vide 27 Aſſ. pl. 51. 28 Aſſ. pl. 50. 11 Hen. 4. 2. 8 Hen. 4. 16. And it appeareth by the Statute of Weſtm. 1 cap. 35. That exceſſive or outragious Aid is againſt Law, and therewith agreeth Glanvil, lib. 9. fol. 70. F. N. B. 82. and F. N. B. 75. and Magna Charta, cap. 14. Exceſſive Amercement is againſt Law. Nullus liber homo amercietur, &c. Niſi ſecundum qualitatem delicti; 10 Ed. 4. 10. a. Accompt. The ſame Law of exceſſive Diſtreſs in reſpect of the multiplicity, is againſt Law. 27 Aſſ. 50, 51. F. N. B. 178. b. 9 H. 7. 3. An Aſſiſe lieth of often Diſtreſs. 14 Henry 4. 9. An exceſſive Fine at the Will of the Lord, ſhall be ſaid oppreſſion of the people.

And if Tenant in Dower hath Villains or Tenants at Will, who are rich, and ſhe by exceſſive Fines and Taxes maketh them poor and Beggars; it is by the Law adjudged to be againſt Law, and to be Waſte, as appeareth in 16 H. 3. Waſte 135. 16 Hen. 7. & F. N. B. 60. b. & Regiſter' Judic' 25. Waſte lieth in exulando Henricum & Hermanum, &c. Nativos, quorum quilibet tenuit unum Meſuagium & unam virgatam terræ in villa de T. per graves & intolerabiles diſtrictiones. By which it appeareth, That ſuch intolerable oppreſſion of poor Villains, and Tenants at Will, is to the diſ-inheritance of him in the Reverſion, and againſt the Common Law of the Land.

And in the fourth Part of my Reports, If Fines of Copiholds of a Manor be in certain, the Lord cannot demand, or exact exceſſive or unreaſonable Fines; and if he do, the Copiholder may deny to pay it, and the reaſonableneſs of the Fine ſhall be determined by the Juſtices, &c. Quam rationabilis debet eſſe finis non definitur, ſed omnibus circumſtantiis inſpectis pendet ex Juſticiariorum diſcretione. And ſo it was adjudged in the Common Pleas, between Stallon Plaintiff, and Brady, Servant of Thomas Willows, Lord of the Manor of Fendition, in the County of Cambridge, Paſchæ 9 Jac. Rot. 1845. [b]

As to the ſecond point, it was reſolved, That when a Fine is ſet againſt Law, as joynt, when it ſhould be ſeveral, as in the Caſe at Bar; or if it be unreaſonable, it may be avoided by Plea, and Judgment of the Court in which the Suit dependeth, for other remedy is not given to him.

As to the third point, it was reſolved, That the Avowant could not diſtrain for this certainty of Leet, becauſe it was againſt common right, and for the private of the Lord of the Leet, which the Lord could not have without preſcription; and therefore as he ought to preſcribe in the Principal, ſo he ought to preſcribe in the Diſtreſs. In 6 Ed. 3. 10. the caſe was, That William brought a Replevin againſt John, of taking of his Cattle; the Defendant avowed, that the ſaid John was chief deſigner of the ſame Hundred (which is meant of the Leet) of F. And ſaid, that the Lord of the Hundred had every year two marks to receive; the one moyety at the Hundred holden next after the Feaſt of Eaſter, and the other moyety at the Hundred next after the Feaſt of St. Michael. And that the Lords, time out of mind, had been ſeiſed of the ſaid Preſtation, to receive the ſame by the hands of the chief Deſigners.

And further ſaid, That they levied the ſaid two marks of all the Reſians within the precinct of the Hundred, according as they had Lands and Goods; and he and all the chief Deſigners had ſo levied it, time out of mind; and as to one mark, the Plaintiff was aſſeſſed according to his Lands and Goods which he had, in eight pence; and for the eight pence behind, he avowed: In which it was obſerved, That the ſaid two marks being againſt common right, he did preſcribe to levy it: And there Sir William Herle ſaid, That in many places of England, thoſe which are in deſign, ſhall make the Preſtation, and the Freeholders not.

In 11 Hen. 4. 89. and Reſid' 13 Hen. 4. 9. in a Replevin, the Defendant as Bailiff of the Abbot of Cerve, becauſe that the Abbot is ſeiſed of the Hundred of Tetecombe, in the County of Dorſet, and hath there a Hundred from three weeks to three weeks, and hath three Leets every year; one to be holden 15 Michael, the ſecond the Monday after Hillary, and the third at Holyday; to which Leets come three Deſigners with their deceivery, and preſent things preſentable, whereof one is called the firſt deſign, the ſecond, the ſecond deſign, and the third, the third deſign; who with their deſigns yield de ceco Letæ, a certain Rent at the Leet days; and becauſe the deſigne comes not the Monday after Hillary, Anno 10. the ſame deſign was amerced ſix pence; and alſo that the Rent de certo Letæ was not paid at the Leet holden after Eaſter, the deſigner was amerced with all the deſign; and ſo for two cauſes he avowed: And there Terwitt took Exception to the Avowry, That the Lord ſhould not amerce the deſign for non-payment of the Rent. To which Sir William Thirning, Chief Juſtice, who gave the Rule, anſwered, That he ſhould be amerced in that caſe where the ſame is payable at the day of the Leet. Secondly, the Court there held Clearly, That where a man of deſign is amerced in the Hundred, or Leet, that his Cattle ſhall be taken, that is, diſtrained well enough in what place ſoever they are found within the Hundred, although it be in another deſign. Vide 15 Eliz. Dyer 322. For an Amercement in a Court Baron, the Lord ſhall not diſtrain without preſcription. Vide 44 Ed. 3. 13. But for a Fine, and all Amercements in a Leet, a Diſtreſs is incident of common right. See Greſleys caſe before. [45]

As to the fourth point, Admitting that he may diſtrain for the certainty of the Leet, and that the ſetting of the Fine is void; and he hath avowed the taking of the Cattle for both cauſes; and it appeareth of his own ſhewing, that he hath no cauſe for one, if he ſhould have a Retorn, or not, was the queſtion. And it was objected, That in ſuch caſe he ſhould not, becauſe that the Avowant is an Actor, and the Avowry is in lieu of an Action: And if a Writ be brought for two things, and it appeareth by the Plaintiffs own ſhewing, that he hath no cauſe for Action of one, the whole Writ ſhall abate; for they ſaid, That the Writ which is the foundation of the Action, ought to comprehend truth; and if it be apparant, That there wanteth truth in the Writ, the Writ ſhall abate bate. And therefore ſome took a difference, when one bringeth an Action for two things, and it appeareth in the Writ that he miſtaketh the truth of the matter of one of them, there all the Writ ſhall abate. As if a man bring an Action of Debt, or avoweth for a Rent at two days, and one is not come, it was ſaid, the whole Writ or Avowry ſhall abate: But when the Demandant miſtaketh the Law for one of them, as if Waſte be aſſigned in Oaks and Blackthorn, there is a miſpriſion of the Law. Others took difference betwixt General Writs, as Dower, Unde nihil habet, Aſſiſe, Waſte, &c. And therefore if the Demandant in Dower, make her demand to be endowed of the third part of the Common, ſans number; or if he bring an Aſſiſe of Land and Annuity; or if he aſſign Waſte in Timber and Blackthorn; in ſuch caſes, foraſmuch as the Writs are general, [b] it ſhall ſtand for ſo much as may be maintained by Law, for the Writ doth remain true; but in ſuch caſe the Count, Plaint, or Aſſignment, ſhall abate for the reſt; but it is otherwiſe when the Writ doth comprehend Certainty, and it appeareth that the Writ doth not lie for part, there the whole Writ ſhall abate.

Know Reader, That the Law doth not warrant theſe differences in all, but the common and true rule and difference is; Where a man bringeth an Action, be the Writ general, or certain, and particular; and he demandeth two things, and of his own ſhewing, That he cannot have an Action, or better Writ for one of them; there the Writ ſhall not abate for the whole, but ſhall ſtand for that which is good: But when a man bringeth an Action for two things, and it appeareth, That he cannot have the Writ for one thing, but he may have another in another form; there the Writ ſhall abate for all, and ſhall not ſtand for that which is good. And therefore, if Executors bring a ſpecial Writ upon the Statute of 4 Ed. 3. cap. 7. for breaking the Teſtators Cloſe, and carrying away a certain ſum of money in vita Teſtatoris; and although it be certain, and it appeareth of his own ſhewing, yet foraſmuch as for the breaking of the Cloſe, he cannot have an Action, the Defendant was ruled to anſwer to the money, in 11 Henry 4. cap. 3. 38 Henry 8. cap. 24. 25.

In Detinue of a Box ſealed with Charters and Muniments concerning the Plaintiffs Inheritance, the Plaintiff counted of four Charters come to the Defendants hands by Trover, and entituleth himſelf well to three; and it appeareth by his Count, that the fourth did concern Land, whereof the Plaintiff and his Wife were joyntly ſeiſed, as appeareth by his own ſhewing; but becauſe the ſame went to the Action, as to the Husband (for he alone, in ſuch caſe, cannot have any other Action;) for this cauſe it was adjudged, That the Writ ſtood good for the Remnant, 9 Hen. 6. 54. 16 Hen. 7. 5.

If a man bring a Formedon of Land, and of an Advowſon, although that the Writ be certain, yet foraſmuch as it goeth to the Action of the Writ; as to that the Writ ſhall ſtand good for the Land. 9 H. 7. cap. 4. and 16 H. 7. cap. 5. 37 H. 6. 25. b.

So if a mann make Avowry of the taking of Diſtreſs for divers Rents arear, and it appeareth upon his own ſhewing, that parcel is not yet due, yet the Avowry is good for the Remnant, and ſhall not abate the whole. Vide 44 Edward 3. 13. 48 Edward 3. 4, & 5. 22 Eliz. Dyer 369. 370.

A man brought a Writ of Ejectione cuſtodiæ terræ & hæredis, and the parties pleaded to Iſſue, and is was found for the Plaintiff, and the Plaintiff had Judgment of the Land onely; for it lieth not [46] of the Heir. Vide 8. Ed. 2. Brief 847. 41 Ed. 3. Brief 543. 26 Ed. 3. 64. 9 H. 6. 10. 46. 11 H. 6. 5. 22 H. 6. 14. 26 H. 6. Attaint 4. 6 Ed. 4. 7. 8 Ed. 4. 3. 18 Ed. 4. 27. 21 Ed. 4. 24. But if a man bringeth a Writ of Entry of the nature of an Aſſiſe of two Acres, whereof his own ſhewing for one, he ought to have a Writ of Entry in the Per; or in the like caſes, there the whole Writ ſhall abate, becauſe he may have a better Writ, as to one Acre; and the ſame doth not extend to the Action, but to the Writ onely, 16 H. 7. 5. Accompt. Vide 20 H. 7. p. ultimo. And Judgment was given for the Plaintiff againſt the Avowant.

Micb. 12. Jac.

Richard Lifords Caſe.

IN Treſpaſs by Thomas Stamp Gentleman, Plaintiff, againſt John Clinton Defendant, which began Trin. 12 Jac. Rot. 343. and declared (inter alia) of his Cloſes, called Wittenhams in Peaſmer, in the County of Berk; the Defendant pleaded, That one John Liford deceaſed, Father of the ſaid Richard Liford, was ſeiſed of a Capital Meſſuage, called Peaſmer Farm, and of divers Lands and Tenements appurtenant to it, in Peaſmer aforeſaid, whereof the ſaid Cloſe called Wittenhams were parcel, &c. in his Demeſn, as of Fee; and the laſt of July, 4. Jac. by his Deed, indented, demiſed, to the ſaid Thomas Stamp, and to one Mary Parker, the Tenements aforeſaid, in which (Excepto uno cotagio vocat' the Forge, ac omnibus arboribus, quercubus, ulmis, & fraxinis ad tunc creſcen', ultra creſcentium 21 annorum (arboribus decas' nō exiſten' maeremium tantummodo reſervat' &c.) To have and to hold, the Tenements aforeſaid, with the appurtenances whereof, &c. (Except before excepted) to the ſaid Thomas Stamp, and Mary Parker, for, and during during the natural life of the ſaid Thomas and Mary, and the longer liver of them: By force of which Demiſe, the ſaid Thomas and Mary, afterwards, Et ante præd' tempus quo, &c. into the Tenements aforeſaid, in which, &c. did enter, and were, and yet are thereof, ſeiſed as of Freehold for term of their lives. And the ſaid John Liford being ſeiſed of the Reverſion, 8 Jan. 6. Jac. by his Deed indented for him and his, did Covenant with John Winchcomb and Vincent Smith, as well in conſideration of a Marriage, to be ſolemniſed betwixt the ſaid Richard, ſon and heir of the ſaid John Liford and John Shepreve, as in conſideration of Paternal love and affection to the ſaid Richard, and his other ſons; that he and his heirs Extunc in poſterum ſtarent & eſſent ſeiſiti de Tenementis prædict' cum pertin. ſuperius dimiſſis, to the uſe of the ſaid Richard, and the Heirs-males of his body; and after wards to the uſe of Thomas his ſon, and the Heirs-males of his body; and with divers other Remainders to Daniel and Nathaniel, his ſons, leaving the Reverſion of the Fee-ſimple in himſelf: By force whereof, and of the Statute of Uſes, the ſaid Richard was ſeiſed of the Reverſion of the Tenements in Tail; and the ſaid John Clinton by his Commandment, did enter into the ſaid Cloſes called Wittenhaws, to ſhew to Henry Lawrence and William Lawrence, certain Oaks then growing in the ſaid Cloſes; which at the time of the Demiſe, were above the Age of one and twenty years, and which to the ſaid Richard Liford, de jure pertinebant, and there then ſold to them ſix Oaks, &c. prout ei bene licuit, quæ eſt eadem fractio, &c. and demanded Judgment of the Action, &c. Upon which Plea, the Plaintiff did demur in Law: And this caſe was divided into two general Queſtions; the Firſt, What thing was excepted by the exception of the Trees? Secondly, What thing ſhould paſs by the ſaid Conveyance of the Reverſion? [47]

And that the Trees ſhould not paſs to Richard Liford, For Objections were made.

Firſt, that by the exception, the Trees remain as Chattels in the Leſſor.

The ſecond admitting, That by the exception, the Trees do remain in him as an Inheritance; then by the exception the ſoil it ſelf is excepted to the Leſſor.

The third, That a Freehold or Inheritance in poſſeſſion, cannot be by the Rules of the Common Law, parcel of the Reverſion expectant upon the Freehold.

The fourth, That by the ſaid Covenant, John Liford covenanted to ſtand ſeiſed de Tenementis præd' cum pertin' ſuperius dimiſſis, and therefore Richard Liford could not have more then were demiſed, and the Trees were not demiſed.

As to the Firſt, they conceived, That by the exception the Trees were Chattels in the Leſſor, divided in Law from the Freehold and Inheritance of the Land: For when a man Leaſeth Lands for life, the property of the Trees is in the Leſſee, and the Leſſor hath but a poſſibility to have them again, viz. If they remain annexed to his Inheritance when the Leſſee for life dyeth: And therefore it is reſolved by the whole Court in the Abbot of Tores Caſe, in 21 Hen. 6. 40. That if a man maketh a Leaſe for life of his Land, he cannot give the Trees to a ſtanger, becauſe that he hath not but a poſſibility; and by conſequence when he excepteth them to himſelf, they remain in him as Chattels. And it is holden in 12 Ed. 4. 8. That if a man maketh a Leaſe for years, and the Leſſee cutteth the Trees, the Leſſor cannot take them away. Vide 13 H. 7. 9. 12 Ed. 4. 52. And if the Leſſor cutteth the Trees, the Leſſee ſhall have them as it is holden in 44 Ed. 3. 44. Which Books [b] and many others, prove, That the property of the Tree is in the Leſſee for years, à fortiori in the Leſſee for life; and therefore when the Leſſor excepteth them, he ſhall have them as Chattels ſevered from the Land. And they much relied upon the Book in 2 El. Dyer 184. in Daunſeys Caſe, where queſtion is made, when Trees are excepted in caſe of Leſſee for years, whether they ſhould be Chattels in the Leſſor; of which they would never have made any doubt, in caſe of Leſſee for life; for the Law maketh a great difference between an exception, in the caſe of a Leaſe for life. And therefore if a man maketh a Leaſe for life of a Manor, excepting one Acre, this Acre, during the Leaſe, is not parcel of the Manor; For in ſuch caſe, in a real Action brought of the Manor, exception ought to be made; otherwiſe it is in caſe of a Leaſe for years, as appeareth 38 H. 6. 38. a. Plo. Com. 103. in Fulmerſtons Caſe. So if the King maketh a Leaſe for life of a Manor, without ſpeaking of the Advowſon, there the Advowſon doth remain in the King as in Groſs, quod omnes conceſſerunt, as appeareth in 38 H. 6. 34. b. And there it is adjudged, That by Grant of the Reverſion, habendum the Reverſion with the Advowſon, the Advowſon ſhall not paſs to the Patentee; for the Advowſon in ſuch caſe was ſevered and became in groſs as to the Fee, which was ſaid hath great affinity with the caſe at Bar.

Secondly, Admitting that the Trees are reſerved as an Inheritance in the Leſſor; then the Land it ſelf, upon which the Trees grow, is thereby excepted, as it is reſolved in Ives caſe, in the Fifth part of my Reports. Vide 44 Ed. 3. 22. 46 Ed. 3. 22. 17 Aſſ. pl. 49. 3 H. 6. 45. 16 Ed. 4. 2. 14 H. 8. 1. 33 H. 8. Br. Reſervation 79. 6 & 7 Ed 6. Dy. 39. And then it cannot paſs by the Conveyance of the Reverſion for it was not any part of the Demiſe: And therefore if a man maketh a Leaſe for life of a Manor, excepting one Acre, and afterwards granteth the Reverſion of the Manor to another in Fee, the Acre in poſſeſſion ſhall not paſs, but is ſevered from the Manor for ever: As if A. be diſſeiſed of an Acre, parcel of his Manor, although the Acre in right be parcel of the Manor, the right of that Acre ſhall not paſs, but is ſevered from the Manor for ever, as it is holden in 38 H. 6. 38. a. So if a man be diſſeiſed of a Common appendant, notwithſtanding the Diſſeiſin, the ſame in right is Appendant to the Manor; and yet if during the time of the Diſſeiſin, a Feoffment in Fee be made of the Manor, the Common is ſevered and extinct for ever, as it is holden in 4 Ed. 3. 46. & F. N. B. 180. f. So in the caſe at Bar, by the exception of the Trees, the Soil it ſelf is excepted, wherefore it cannot paſs by the Grant of the Reverſion.

Thirdly, It was objected, That a Reverſion expectant upon a Freehold, may be Parcel or Appendant to a Freehold and Inheritance in poſſeſſion, but a Freehold or Inheritance in poſſeſſion, cannot be parcel or Appendant to a Reverſion expectant upon a Freehold, as it is holden in 38 H. 6. 38.

Fourthly, The Conveyance of the Reverſion doth not touch the Trees, and the Soil under them; for the ſaid Conveyance doth recite the ſaid Demiſe of the Land, with the exception of the Trees, [48] and conveyeth Tenementa præd' cum pertin' ſuperius dimiſſ. and the exception is not any parcel of the Demiſe; as it is agreed in 3 H. 6. 45. And therefore the ſaid Conveyance doth not extend to the Trees excepted, and by conſequence they cannot paſs with the Reverſion; and for theſe cauſes the Plaintiff ought to recover.

On the other ſide it was argued by the Defendants Council, and reſolved by the whole Court, that the Plaintiff ought to be barred.

And as to the Firſt, it was anſwered and reſolved, that the Trees notwithſtanding the Exception, do remain parcel, and grow out of the Inheritance of the Land, and are not Chattels, nor ſhall go to Executors, but ſhall deſcend to his Heir, if no conveyance had been made of the Reverſion, and that for divers cauſes.

1. The Law doth not favour Fractions and Severances of Trees from the Free-hold and Inheritance of the Land, becauſe that by them the Trees were often waſted and deſtroyed: And therefore if a man by Deed indented, bargaineth and ſelleth, give and granteth, his Manor of D. and all his Trees growing upon the ſame to another, and the Deed is not enrolled according to the Statute; foraſmuch as the Manor ſhall not paſs, the Trees ſhall not paſs to the bargainee, and ſo ſevered from the Manor, although they are granted by expreſs words; and that the grant of every one ſhall be taken ſtrongly againſt him, as it was reſolved in 9 Eliz. And ſo was it holden in 15 Eliz. in Andrews Caſe, in the Common Pleas, which I my ſelf heard. In 23 Eliz. Dyer 374. A man demiſeth, granteth, and to Farm letteth a Farm, &c. together with all manner of Timber, Underwood and Hedgrows, thereunto appertaining (except all great Oaks growing in one certain Cloſe about the Farm-houſe) to have and to hold the Farm for one and twenty years, rendering Rent; and the doubt was, Whether the Leſſee might cut down and ſell the Timber-Trees, not excepted, without being impeached for the Waſt; and the Lord Dyer conceived, that he might by this word (Grant) and by the meaning of the Exception of great Oaks, &c. Alſo the habendum which conveyeth the Limitation for years, doth not make mention of Timber, &c. But Periham, Windham, and Mead, gave Judgment again the Defendant, That he could not cut down the Timber, for they were not ſevered from the Inheritance, nor paſſed by the Grant.

The ſecond Reaſon was, That when a man Leaſeth his Land for life or years, the Leſſee hath but a particular intereſt in the Trees; but the general intereſt of the Trees doth remain in the Leſſor; For the Leſſee ſhall have the waſt and fruit of the Trees, and the ſhadow for his Cattle, &c. but the in- [b] tereſt of the body of the Tree is in the Leſſor, as parcel of his Inheritance; and the ſame appeareth in 29 H. 8. Dyer 46. where it is holden in expreſs words, That it cannot be denied the property of great Trees, viz. Timber is reſerved by the Law to the Leſſor, but he cannot grant it without leave of the Termor, for the Termor hath an intereſt in it, viz. To have the Waſt and Fruit growing upon it, and the ſhrouds of them for fewel, but the very property of the Tree is in the Leſſor, as annexed to his Inheritance: And all that word by word, appeareth in the ſaid Book. And in 1 Mar. Dy. 90. it is alſo holden, That the Leſſee ſhall have the Fruit of the Trees, and the Branches for fewel, and incloſure of Fences. And in 10 H. 7. 3. the Leſſee hath not intereſt in the Trees, but to lop them, or for ſhadow for his Cattle; So that there it is ſaid, that the Leſſee hath an intereſt in the Tree, and the Leſſor alſo. See Herlokendens Caſe, in the fourth part of my Reports. And upon conſideration of theſe and many other Books, it was reſolved, That when no Exception is in the Leaſe of the Trees, the Leſſee hath ſuch a particular intereſt in the Tree, as is aforeſaid, and the Inheritance of the Tree is in the Leſſor: and by this difference all our Books are well reconciled. Which difference alſo appeareth in the Books themſelves; for in Waſt againſt Leſſee for life or years, in caſe of cutting of Trees, it is ſaid in the Writ Ad exhæredationem of the Leſſor. And the Leſſor after that he hath made a Leaſe for life, may by Deed grant the Trees or reaſonable Eſtovers out of them, to another and his Heirs, and the ſame ſhall take effect after the death of the Leſſee; and ſuch grant by the Leſſor is good, in reſpect of the Inheritance which he hath in ſuch caſe in the Trees: And the Leſſor may by word, command the Leſſee to cut down the Trees, as it is holden in 18 Ed. 3. 54. 2 H. 7. 14. But it is true which is ſaid in the ſaid Book of 21 H. 6. 46. b. That ſuch gift to a ſtranger, is void, during the eſtate for life, for the particular prejudice that may grow to him who hath the eſtate for life. And in 50 Ed. 3. 10. in Frankleys Caſe, it is ſaid That at the Common Law it was never ſeen that any Tithe ſhould be paid of great Trees, becauſe that, they are parcel of the Inheritance, and the ſame is provided by the Statute of 45 Ed. 3. 3. That in ſuch caſe a Prohibition lieth, as before hath been uſed, which proveth, That the Comman Law was ſuch, before the making of the Statute. So it was holden, Paſchæ, 42 Eliz. between Sampſon and Worthington, in the Common Pleas, That if Timber Trees have been uſually topped and lopped, no Tithes ſhall be paid of them; for as the Law doth priviledge the body of the Tree, being parcel of the Inheritance; ſo it priviledgeth the Branches alſo. And therewith agreeth Doctor and Student 175. So if a man cut down his Timber Trees, Tithes ſhall not be paid, for the Germins which are growing ex radicibus ſeu ſtipitibus, in reſpect that the Root is ſome part of the Inheritance, as it [49] was holden, Paſchæ, 29 Eliz. in this Court. So if a Timber Tree become arida, ſicca, & non portans folia nec fructus in æſtate, nec exiſtens maeremium, and the owner cut it down, no Tithes ſhall be paid thereof, for the Inheritance which was once in him; which priviledge extendeth to it when it becomes becomes Dotard, as it was adjudged in the Common Pleas, Hill. 2 Jac. Rot. 229. between Brook and Rogers. So for the Bark of Oaken Timber Trees, no Tithes ſhall be paid for the cauſe aforeſaid, and therewith agreeth Doctor and Student, 175. But for Acorns; Tithes ſhall be paid becauſe they grow yearly, as appeareth in the Regiſter, fol. 49. And a man may have an Inheritance in Fee-ſimple in Lands, as long as ſuch a Tree ſhall grow. 27 H. 8. 29. becauſe a man may have an Inheritance in the Tree it ſelf. See 46 Ed. 3. 1. in Treſpaſs, 32 H. 6. 2, 20 H. 6. 22. 5 H. 4. 2. It is enacted by the Statute of Weſtm. 2. cap. 22. Cum duo vel tres teneant boſcum, &c. That if one Tenant in Common in Fee-ſimple doth waſte in Trees, the other ſhall have an Action of Waſte, and the Writ ſhall ſay ad exhæredationem, as in 29 Edw. 3. fol. 19. If one Coparcener before Partition, maketh a Feoffment in Fee to another, and one of them committeth Waſte in the Trees, an Action of Waſte lieth, and that is provided for the preſervation of Trees. And F.N.B. 49. If a Parſon of a Church and one A. are Tenants in Common of a Wood, and A. endeavoreth to do Waſte, the Parſon for the preſervation of the Timber Trees, ſhall have a Prohibition againſt him, that he do no Waſte; and the reaſon thereof (as the Chief Juſtice ſaid) was, That if the Parſon of a Church will waſte the Inheritance of his Church to his private uſe in cutting down of Trees, the Patron may have a Prohibition againſt him; for the Parſon is ſeiſed as in the right of his Church, and his Glebe is the Dower of his Church, for of it he was endowed; and ſo ſpeaketh many ancient Records: And ſo foraſmuch as a Prohibition lieth againſt him, it is reaſon that he have the like remedy againſt him who holdeth in Common with him; And thereupon a notable reſolution holden at Carliſle, 35 Edw. 1. was cited to this effect; for there upon complaint made (in theſe words) Will our Lord the King underſtand, That Sir Anthony, Biſhop of Durham, waſtes and deſtroyeth all the Wood appertaining to his Church in the Biſhoprick of Durham, by giving, and ſelling, and ill keeping, and of railing of Forges of Iron and Lead, and burning of Coals, &c. whereof if our Lord the King that now is Patron of the Churchgive not remedy, the Church aforeſaid ſhall be diſ-inherited and impoveriſhed, in prejudice of our Lord the King in his Crown, and of the Chapter of Durham. Ita reſponſum eſt: Inhibeatur per breve de Cancellaria Epiſcopo & Miniſtris ſuis ne faciant vaſtum de contentis in petitione. By which it appeareth. That the Parliament did refer him to the Ordinary remedy of the Common Law by a Writ of Prohibition in ſuch caſe. And Mich. 23 Ed. 1. inter adjudicata coram Rege, Hunt. fol. 83. in Theſaur' Scaccarii ſic adjudicatur, quod Eccleſia eſt infra ætatem & in cuſtodia domini Regis, qui tenetur jura & hæreditates ejuſdem manutenere & defendere. Et Rot' Patent' An. 14 H. 3. M. 8. Archiepiſcopus Dublin fecit finem de 300 marcis pro deafforeſtatione foreſtæ Archiepiſcopatus ſui. Vide 2 H. 4. 3. b. If a Biſhop or Archdeacon abate and cut down all the Wood that he hath, he ſhall be depoſed as a Delapidator of his houſe. 29 Ed. 3. 16. Accompt. Vide 27 Aſſ. pl. 10. 20 H. 6. 46. 10 Ed. 4. 19. And the Treatiſe entituled, Ne rectores proſternant arbores in cœmiterio, which is but a Declaration the Common Law in theſe words, Prohibemus ne Eccleſiarum rectores arbores in cœmiterio creſcent' preſumant proſternere indiſcrete, niſi cum Cancellus Eccleſiæ neceſſaria indiget refectione, &c. And it is regularly true; Meliorem conditionem Eccleſiæ facere poteſt Prelatus, deteriorem nequaquam. [b]

As to the ſecond Objection, difference was taken betwixt a Wood which may be demanded in a Præcipe by the name of ſo many Acres of Wood, and Trees growing out of any Wood which cannot be demanded in a Præcipe, by the name of Land or Paſture, &c. where they grow. For if ſuch a Wood whereof a Præcipe lieth, be parcel of my Manor of C. and I leaſe my Manor excepting Woods, thereby the Soil it ſelf is excepted, and in a Præcipe brought of the Manor, exception ought to be made of ſo many Acres of Wood: But in ſuch caſe, if I except all my Trees which grow out of any Wood, but upon Land or Paſture, thereby the exception of the Trees, the Soil it ſelf is not excepted, but ſufficient nutriment out of the Land is reſerved to ſuſtain the vegetative life of the Trees; for without that the Trees which are excepted, cannot ſubſiſt; but if the Leſſor cut them down, and by Licence of the Leſſee, root them up; in ſuch caſe the Leſſee ſhall have the Soil; for ceſſante cauſa ceſſat effectus. And this difference may be gathered out of Ives Caſe, in the Eight Part of my Reports. Vide 14 Hen. 8. 1. If I by Deed grant all my Trees within my Manor of D. to one and his heirs, the Grantee ſhall have an Inheritance in them, without any Livery or Seiſin. See Sir Francis Barringtons Caſe, in the Eight Part of my Reports. And in a Præcipe brought againſt Leſſee for life where the Trees are excepted, it needeth not in ſuch caſe to make exception of Trees, becauſe that no Præcipe lieth of them; but they ſhall be recovered by him who hath righe paramount by the Recovery of the Land: See for the ſaid Rule of exception, 4 Ed. 3. 48. 17 Ed. 3. 62. 10 Hen. 7. 17. F.N.B. 201, &c. And by the difference, apparant in our Books they are all well reconciled. And in the ſaid exception, five things were obſerved.

1. That notwithſtanding the exception, they remain as parcel of the Inheritance. [50]
2. That the Soil it ſelf is not excepted, but ſufficient nutriment for the growth of the Tree.
3. That the Leſſee ſhall have the Paſture under the Tree, as in 4 Edward 6. Waſte, Br. 136. Nothing ſhall be recovered in Waſte, but the circuit of the Root, and not the latitude of the Branches.
4. That the Leſſor ſhall have all the benefit of the Trees.

And 5. the Aeries of all Fowl with Aery in the Trees, and the Fruits,

And it was reſolved, That although fictione juris quoad the Leſſee the Tree is divided from the Freehold, yet in facto and truth, as to all other it is parcel of the Inheritance of the Leſſor: For it was ſaid, That Timber Trees cannot be cut down with a Gooſe-quill; as if Tenant in Tail ſelleth all the Trees to another, the ſame is a Chattel in the Vendee, and his Executors ſhall have them; and in ſuch caſe fictione juris they are ſevered from the Land; but if Tenant in Tail dieth before actual ſeverance as to the Iſſue in Tail, they are parcel of his Inheritance, and ſhall go with it, and the Vendee cannot take them; and yet as to the Tenant in Tail himſelf, they were ſevered for a time. 18 Ed. 4. 6. 11 Hen. 4. 32. Plo. Com. 259. & 438. 27 H. 8. 5. So in the caſe at Bar, quoad the Leſſee fictione juris they are divided for a time; but as to the Leſſor, and all others, they remain parcel of the Inheritance.

Alſo it was reſolved, That there is a difference betwixt the caſes which have been put and the caſe at the Bar: For it is true, That if a man make a Leaſe for life of a Manor, to which an Advowſon is appendant, and excepteth one Acre with the Advowſon; in ſuch caſe, if he grant over the Reverſion, the Acre with the Advowſon ſhall not paſs to the Grantee, but they are ſevered and diſunited from the Manor for ever; as an arm or a member is divided from the body: But the Trees notwithſtanding the Exception, are growing out of the Land, and have their nutriment out of it, and are not rei veritate divided from it. And therefore if a man maketh a Feoffment in Fee of a Manor, excepting the Trees, and afterwards the Feoffee buyeth the Trees, they are again made parcel of the Inheritance; although they were abſolutely divided for a time, and that appeareth in Herlakendens Caſe, in the Fourth part of my Reports. But in the ſame Caſe, if one Acre or a Houſe had been excepted, and the Feoffe after purchaſe the Acre or the Houſe, none of them ſhall be parcel of it again. And ſo the difference appeareth inter partem integralem, ſimilarem, & diſſimilarem, & inter partem diſſimilarem ſolo annexam ſive adhærentem; as is ſaid in 9 Ed. 3. 2. (Robert de Vanlores Caſe) ut domus, & partem diſſimilarem excreſcentem, ut arbor.

[b] As to the third Objection, it is true. That an integral part, or thing appendant in poſſeſſion, cannot be parcel, &c. of a Reverſion expectant upon an eſtate for life, as hath been ſaid; but the Trees (as hath been often ſaid) are growing out of the Inheritance, and attendant upon it: As by grant of the Reverſion, the Charters and Evidences ſhall paſs as things attendant upon the Inheritance; and in truth they are the ſinews of the Inheritance. So if I have a Manor, in which there is a Park and Fiſh-ponds, and I leaſe the Manor, except the game of Deer, and the Fiſh, and afterwards I grant over the Reverſion, the Grantee ſhall have the Deer, and the Fiſh, as things attendant upon the Inheritance; ſo not onely thoſe which have vegetative life, but alſo thoſe which have ſenſitive life, ſhall go with the Inheritance. And it is reſolved in 14 Hen. 8. 25. in Wiſtows Caſe of Grayes Inn, That if a man have a Horſe-mill, and the Miller taketh the Millſtone out of the Mill, to the intent to pick it to grinde the better, although it be actually ſevered from the Mill, yet it remaineth parcel of the Mill, as if it had been always lying upon the other ſtone, and by conſequence by the Leaſe or conveyance of the Mill it ſhall paſs with it: So of Doors, Windows, &c. the ſame Law of Keys, although they are diſtinct things, yet they ſhall paſs with the Houſe; à fortiori in the caſe at the Barr, the Trees which are growing out of the Inheritance ſhall paſs with it. And in the caſe at the Bar, there ſhall be a great inconvenience if the Trees ſhall not paſs with the Inheritance; for in all the Leaſes for life or years made by the King, either of Land within th Survey of the Exchequer, or of the Dutchy, the Trees are excepted; and if they ſhall be reputed as Chattels, or if they ſhall not paſs with the Reverſion as parcel of the Inheritance, great inconvenience will follow, although that the Trees be particularly granted. Vide Swains Caſe, in the Eighth part of my Reports, which note well.

As to the Fourth and laſt Objection, it was reſolved, Firſt, That if the Reverſion had been conveyed over by the name of Tenements, or of his reverſion generally, without queſtion the Trees would paſs: And although that he covenanteth to ſtand ſeiſed de Tenementis præd' cum pertin' ſuperius dimiſſis, &c. yet thereby the Inheritance of the whole Land paſſeth, and by conſequence the Trees being parcel of the Inheritance, ſhall paſs with it, and the Trees ſhall not paſs as things leaſed, but as things annexed to the Inheritance, notwithſtanding that they are not demiſed. And in the Argument of this point, theſe caſes were cited, Paſche, 41 Eliz. in this Court, between the Lady Ruſſel Plaintiff, and Gulwell Defendant, in an Action of Debt upon an Obligation, where the caſe was, That the Plaintiff by Deed indented, leaſed to the Defendant a Farm called D. except one Cloſe by name; and the Leſſee by the ſame indenture covenanted with the Leſſor to do divers things concerning the premiſſes, and was bound in the ſaid Bond to perform all the Covenants and Agreements in the ſaid Indenture; and if theſe words (the premiſſes) ſhould extend to the Cloſe [51] excepted, was the Queſtion, (and Mountague in Dive and Manninghams Caſe, that (the premiſſes) ſhould extend to the thing excepted.) But it was reſolved, That in the principal caſe (præmiſſa) ſhall not extend to the thing excepted, but are as much in effect as prædimiſſa. And Paſche, 10 El. one by Deed indented, demiſed certain Lands between Pond-Meadow of the one part, and Todes-yard of the other part, and the Leſſee covenanted to repair the Hedges between the premiſſes; and it was adjudged, that it did not extend to the Abuttals, but (præmiſſa) ſhould be taken in Law for (prædimiſſa) ſo in the caſe at Bar, Tenementa præd', & Tenementa prædict' ſuperius dimiſſa, and præmiſſa, and prædimiſſa, or præconceſſa, are all one in judgment of Law. But Paſche, 36. Eliz. in this Court between the Earl of Pembrook and Simons (Servant of Sir Henry Barkley) the caſe was, That the Father of the Plaintiff had granted to Sir Henry Barkley the keeping of Staffordale-Walk. and of Brewcomb-Walk, in the Forreſt of Fromſelwood, for term of his life: The Plaintiff by his Deed did confirm the eſtate of the ſaid Sir Henry in Brewcombe-Walk, and granted Staffordal-Walk,

Walk, to him and the Heirs-males of his body, with a Proviſo, That if he cut down any Trees in the premiſſes, that then his eſtate ſhall ceaſe. And afterwards Sir Henry cut down Trees in Brew-comb-Walk; and it was reſolved that theſe words (the premiſſes) ſhould extend to it, for the Deed hath operation in it by way of Confirmation, and therefore there (præmiſſa) ſhall be taken as well for præconfirmata, as præconceſſa, but ſhall not extend to any other part of the Foreſt; although it was not named before without the Deed hath not any operation. And the Chief Juſtice ſaid, That as to cutting down of Trees, Graſs, Corn, and other things annexed to the Soil, there are great variances of opinions in our Books, not onely againſt whom the Action Vi & armis ſhall be brought for the recovery of the damages, but alſo concerning the propriety of them. And therefore if one Diſſeiſe me, and during the Diſſeiſin, he cutteth down the Trees, or Graſs, or the Corn growing upon the Land, and afterwards I re-enter, I ſhall have an Action of Treſpas againſt him Vi & Armis, For the Trees, Graſs, Corn, &c. For after my Regreſs, the Law, as the Diſſeiſor, and the Servants doth ſuppoſe that the Freehold hath always continued in me; but if my Diſſeiſor mak th a Feoffment in Fee, Gift in Tail, Leaſe for Life or Years, &c. and afterwards I re-enter, I ſhall not have an Action Vi & armis againſt thoſe who came in by Title; for this Fiction of the Law, that the Freehold hath continued always in me, ſhall not have relation to make him who cometh in by Title, to be a wrong doer, Vi & armis, for in fictione juris ſemper æquitas exiſtit; But in ſuch caſe, I ſhall recover all the mean profits againſt my Diſſeiſor in the ſame manner as the [b] Diſſeiſee in ſuch caſes ſhall recover in an Aſſiſe at the Common Law before the Statute of Gloceſter, cap. 1. damages onely againſt the Diſſeiſor. Alſo it is to be preſumed, That the Feoffee hath given conſideration or recompence to the Diſſeiſor, and that the Leſſee hath paid Rent to him, or other conſideration; and therefore in reaſon the Diſſeiſor is to be charged with the whole. The ſame Law, if my Diſſeiſor be diſſeiſed, and afterwards I re-enter, I ſhall not have an Action of Treſpas againſt the ſecond Diſſeiſor; and if I ſhould puniſh the ſecond Diſſeiſor, he ſhould be twice charged; and therefore I ſhall recover all the mean profits againſt my Diſſeiſor, his Servants, and others who have done the Treſpaſs by his Commandment, and in his right; and ſo hath the Law been always taken upon conſideration of all thee Books in 9 Ed. 3. 2. Peter de Vanlores Caſe, 10 H. 6. 14. 19 H. 6. 27. 22 H. 6. 21. 32 H. 6. 32. 33 H. 6. 46. 34. H. 6. 30. 37 H. 6. 35. 38 H. 6. 28. 2 Ed. 4. 18. 9 Ed. 4. 39. 11 Ed. 4. 4. 20 Ed. 4. 18. 21 Ed. 4. 5. & 74. 22 Ed. 4. 21. 6 H. 7. 9. 10 H. 7. 27. 12 H. 7. 25. 13 H. 7. 15. b. And all the ſame is true quoad actionem; ſed quoad proprietatem, the Regreſs of the Diſſeiſee doth reveſt the property in him, as well for the Corn, as for the Graſs and Trees, and as well againſt the Feoffee, Leſſee, &c. and ſecond Diſſeiſor, as againſt the Diſſeiſor himſelf; for the Act of the Diſſeiſor may alter my Action, but his Act cannot take away my Action, Property or Right. And in that alſo is great variety of Opinions in our Books: For ſome as to the Diſſeiſor himſelf, have taken a difference between things which come by the operation of the Diſſeiſor himſelf (as if he ſow the Land, and afterwards cut them and carry them away, the Diſſeiſee after his re-entry cannot take them; for if he had not ſowed the Land, no Corn had been there, and it is for the advancement of Tillage that the Land do not lie freſh) and things which come by the Act of God, as Graſs, Trees, &c,

But upon conſideration of all the Books, it hath been reſolved, That it is all one, and there is no diverſity betwixt them; for the Rule and Reaſon of the Law as it hath been ſaid, That after the Regreſs of the Diſſeiſee, the Law doth adjudge as to the Diſſeiſor himſelf, that the Freehold hath continued in the Diſſeiſee, which Rate and Reaſon doth extend as well to the Corn, as to Trees or Graſs, &c. The ſame Law, if the Feoffee, or Leſſee, or the ſecond Diſſeiſee ſow the Land, or cut down Trees or Graſs, and ſevereth them, and carrieth them away, or ſelleth them to another, yet after the Regreſs of the Diſſeiſee, he may take as well the Corn as the Trees and Graſs, to what place ſoever they be carried; for the Regreſs of the Diſſeiſee hath relation as to the property, to continue the Freehold againſt all in the Diſſeiſee ab initio, and the carrying of them from the Land, doth not alter the property; and if the Diſſeiſee taketh them, they ſhall be recooped in damages againſt the [52] Diſſeiſor; and ſo hath it been often reſolved and put in experience upon conſideration of the Books in 27 H. 6. 1. 37 H. 6. 6. 12 Ed. 4. 5. a. 14 Ed. 4. 6. 15 Ed. 4. 31. 2 H. 7. 1. 3 H. 7. 1 & 6. 5 H. 7. 16. 12 H. 7. 25. 28 H. 8. Dyer 31 b. 1 Eliz. Dyer. 173.

Laſtly, it was reſolved by the whole Court in the Principal caſe, That when the Leſſor excepted the Trees, and afterwards had an intention to ſell them, the Law gave to him and them who would buy, power as incident to the exception, to enter and to ſhew the Trees to thoſe who would have them; for without ſight none would buy, and without entry they could not ſee them; as in 9 H. 6. 29. A man ſeiſed of a Houſe in a Borough. &c. deviſeable deviſed the ſame to a Woman in Tail; and if the Woman died without Iſſue, that his Executor might ſell and diſpoſe of it for his Soul: In this caſe the Executor might by the Law enter into the Houſe, to ſee if it were well repaired or not, to the intent to know at what value the Reverſion is to be ſold. Quod fuit conceſſum per totam curiam, 43 Aſſ. pl. 7. The Law giveth power to him who ought to repair a Bridge to enter into the Land, and to him who hath a Conduit within the Land of another, to enter into the Land to mend it, when cauſe requireth, as it is reſolved in 9 Ed. 4. 35. So it is agreed in 2 R. 2. Bar 237. If I grant to you my Trees in my Wood, you may come with Carts over my Land to carry the Wood. Temps. E. 1. Grants 41. Lex eſt, cuicunque aliquis quid concedit, concedere videtur & id ſine quo res ipſa eſſe non potuit, and that is a maxim in Law. Vide 5 Ed. 3. Tranſ. 13. 20 Ed. 3. Avowry 124. 8 Ed. 4. 5. in Manxels Caſe, fol. 13. See in my Reports, Lib. 4. & 5. Part 2.

And

And as to the Plea in Bar, it was holden, That it was without form, and without knowledge of Good pleading, and that for four cauſes.

Firſt, The Defendant pleads a Leaſe for life of the Tenements in which, to the Plaintiff, and to Mary Parker, by force whereof they entered, and were, and yet are ſeiſed, &c. which is an Averment of the life of Mary Parker, which upon the matter is, that the Plaintiff hath nothing in the Tenements in which, &c. but joyntly with Mary Parker who is alive, not named in the Writ; and yet he doth not plead the ſame to the Writ, but doth conclude and demandeth Judgment, if he ſhall have Action, which is not well pleaded; for every Plea ought to have apt concluſion, and therewith agreeth 40 Ed. 3. 9. 43 Ed. 3. 27. 36 H. 6. 18. Vide 22 Aſſ. pl. 53. 14 H. 4. 7. 4 H. 6. 27. 18 H. 6. 32. 9 H. 7. 2. So if a man plead an Eſtopple, he ought to relie upon it, and not demand Judgment of Action.

[b] Secondly, The Plea containeth double matter, one to the Writ by Joyntenancy, the other in Bar by the exception in the Covenant.

Thirdly, In pleading of a Leaſe for life which paſſeth by Livery and Seiſin, it is meer ſurpluſage to plead an Entry of the Leſſees.

Fourthly, He doth not add, That the Trees which are ſold, were not Dottards, which are excluded out of the Exception; but he doth add, That they De jure pertinebant to Richard Liford, which is not formal, for he ought in good pleading to have added, That they were not Dottards. But upon the whole matter, ſufficient matter appeareth to the Court to give Judgment againſt the Plaintiff; for which, by the Rule of the Court, the Plaintiff took nothing by his Bill.

Mich. 12. Jac.

The Caſe of the Tailors of Habits, &c. of Ipſwich.

TRin. 11 Jac. in the Kings Bench, Magiſtri, Gardiani, & Communitas Sciſſorum & operatorum pannorum villæ Gipwic' in the County of Suffolk, brought an Action of Debt for Three pound thirteen ſhillings and four pence, againſt William Shenning, and declared, That whereas the King by his Letters Patents had incorporated the Plaintiffs by the ſaid name, and granted to them, That they ſhould have full power and authority to make and conſtitute reaſonable Laws, Ordinances, and Conſtitutions in Writing, which to them ſhould ſeem good, wholſome, profitable, honeſt, and neceſſary, according to their diſcretion; for the well ordering and governing, &c. of the Society aforeſaid, &c. and to ſet Fines and Amercements for breach of the ſaid Laws, &c. And recited the Statute of 19 H. 7. 7. By which it is enacted, That no Maſter, Wardens, and Society of Craſts and Myſteries, take upon them to make any Acts or Ordinances, nor to execute any Acts or Ordinances, in exhæredationem ſeu diminutionem prærogativæ vel aliorum aliquorum, nec non contra commune profic' populi niſi iidem actus & ordinationes examinat' & approbat' fuerunt per Cancellar', Theaſaur' Angliæ, Capital', Juſtic', utriuſque Banci, vel tres eorum, vel aliter coram Juſtic' Aſſiſe in eorum itineribus, &c. ſub pœna foriſfact' 40 l. pro quolibet tempore quo ipſi in contr' facerent. And afterwards the ſaid Corporation, in the fourth year, made divers Conſtitutions, and (amongſt others) that no perſon exerciſing any of the ſaid Trades within the Town of Ipſwich Præd' ſhould

[b] keep any Shop or Chamber, or exerciſe the ſaid Faculties, or any of them, or take any Apprentice or Journeyman, till they had preſented them to the ſaid Maſters and Wardens of the ſaid Society, for the time being, or any three of them, and ſhould prove that he had ſerved ſeven years, at the leaſt, as an Apprentice. and before he ſhall be admitted by them to be a ſufficient Workman; and if any offend in any part thereof, That he ſhould forfeit and pay to the ſaid Maſter and Wardens, and Society aforeſaid, for every ſuch offence five marks, and to levy the ſame by Diſtreſs, or Action of Debt, &c. The which (amongſt other) was allowed by the Juſtices of Aſſiſe of the ſame County, according to the ſaid Act of 19 H. 7. And that the ſaid William Shening Tailor, uſing the Trade of a Tailor after the ſaid Orders made and ratified as aforeſaid, viz. The tenth of October in the tenth year of the King, came to the ſaid Town of Ipſwich, and there uſed the Trade of a Tailor by the ſpace of twenty days, before he had preſented himſelf to the ſaid Maſter and Wardens, or any three of them, or had made proof that he had ſerved as Apprentice for ſeven years in the ſaid Trade, and before he was admitted by the ſaid Maſter or Wardens, or any three of them, to be a ſufficient Workman, Per quod actio accrevit, to the Maſter, Wardens, and Communalty, to have of the ſaid Henry the ſum of Three pound thirteen ſhillings and four pence, &c.

The Defendant pleaded that he was an Apprentice by the ſpace of ſeven years, viz. From the firſt of September, in the firſt year of the King, till the ſecond of September in the eighth year, to one Henry Backet, in the art of a Tailor, &c. And that the ninth of September, Anno 10. Anthony Penny, Eſquire, Inhabitant in Ipſwich, retained him to be his houſhold-ſervant to ſerve him for one year: And that within the ſame time, he by the Commandment of the ſaid Anthony made divers Cloath and Garment for him, his Wife, and Children, as was lawfull for him to do, which is the ſame uſe and exerciſe of the Trade of a Tailor, whereof the Plaintiffs have declared: Upon which the Plaintiffs did demur in Law. And in this caſe upon Argument at the Bar and Bench, divers points were reſolved.

1. That

1. That at the Common Law no man might be forbidden to work in any lawfull Trade, for the Law doth abhor idleneſs, the mother of all evil, Otium omnium vitiorum mater, and chiefly in young men, who ought in their youth, (which is the time of their ſowing) to learn lawfull Sciences and Trades which are profitable to the Commonwealth, and whereof they might gather the fruit in their old age, for jeuneſſe oiſeuſe, vieilleſſe diſetteuſe; and therefore the Common Law doth abhor all Monopolies, which forbid any one to work in any lawfull Trade; And the ſame appeareth in 2 H. 5. b. a Dyer was bound that he ſhould not uſe the Dyers craft for two years; and there Hull held, that the Obligation was againſt the Common Law, and (by God) if the Plaintiff were here, he ſhould go to priſon, till he pay a fine to the King; So, and for the ſame cauſe, If a Husband be bound that he ſhall not ſow his Land the Obligation is againſt Law. And ſee 7 Ed. 3. 65. b. If he who taketh upon him to work, be unskilfull, his ignorance is a ſufficient puniſhment to him; for imperitia eſt maxima mechanicorum pœna, & quilibet quærit in qualibet arte peritos: [54] And if any one taketh upon him to work, and miſdoeth, an Action upon the Caſe lieth againſt him. And the Statute of 5 Eliz. 4. which forbiddeth any perſon to uſe or exerciſe any Craft, Myſtery, or Occupation, if he hath not been an Apprentice by the ſpace of ſeven years, was not enacted onely to the intent that Workmen ſhould be skilfull, but alſo that youth ſhould not be nouriſhed in idleneſs, but trained and brought up in lawful Sciences and Trades: And therefore it appeareth, that without an Act of Parliament, none can be in any wiſe retained to work in any lawful Trade. Alſo the Common Law doth not forbid any perſon to uſe any Arts or Myſteries at his pleaſure, Nemo prohibetur plures negotiationes ſive artes exercere, untill it was forbidden by Act of Parliament, 27 E. 3. 6. 1. That the Artificers and people of Myſtery, tye every one of them to one Myſtery, and that none uſe other Myſtery then that which he hath choſen; but preſently this reſtraint of Trade and Traffick was found prejudicial to the Commonwealth, and therefore at the next Parliament it was enacted, That all people ſhould be free as they were at any time before the ſaid Ordinance.

2. That the ſaid reſtraint of the Defendant, for more then the ſaid Act of 5 Eliz. hath made, was againſt Law: And therefore for as much as the Statute hath not reſtrained him who hath ſerved as an Apprentice for ſeven years, to exerciſe the Trade of a Tailor; the ſaid Ordinance cannot forbid him to exerciſe his Trade, till he be preſented before them, or till he be allowed by them to be a Workman; for theſe are againſt the Freedom and Liberty of the Subject, and are a means of Extortion in drawing moneys to them, either by delay, or ſome other ſubtil device, or of oppreſſion of young Tradſemen, by the old and rich of the Trade, not ſuffering them freely to live in their Trade: And all this thing is againſt Law, and againſt the Commonwealth. But Ordinance for the well ordering and goverment of men of Trade and Myſteries are good, but not to reſtrain any one in his lawfull Myſtery.

3. It was reſolved, That the ſaid branch of the Act of 5 Eliz. is intended of publick uſe and exerciſe of a Trade to all who will come, and not to him who is a private Cook, Tailor, Brewer, Baker, &c. in the Houſe of any one for the uſe of a Family: And therefore if the ſaid Ordinance had been good and agreeable to Law, ſuch private exerciſe and uſe had not been within it; for every one may live in ſuch private manner, although he hath never been an Apprentice in the Trade.

4. It was reſolved, That the Statute of 19 H. 7. 7. doth not ſtrengthen any of the Ordinances [b] made by any Corporation, with one ſo allowed and approved as the Statute ſpeaketh, but leaveth them to be affirmed as good, or diſaffirmed as unlawful by the Law, the onely benefit which the Incorporation getteth by ſuch allowance is, that they ſhall not incur the penalty of forty pound mentioned in the Act, if they put in uſe any Ordinances which are againſt the Kings Prerogative, or the common profit of the people. And afterwards Judgment was given, that the Plaintiffs ſhould take nothing by their Bill.

Edward Savels Caſe.

Edward Hamond brought a Writ of Ejectione firmæ againſt Edward Savel, and William Bows; for that, viz. That whereas one James Smith the firſt day of April, in the eleventh year of King James, at Leeds in the County of York, did let to the ſaid Edward Hamond one Meſſuage with the appurtenance in Leeds aforeſaid, and one Cloſe called Dovecot Cloſe, containing three Acres to the ſaid Meſſuage, belonging or appertaining in Leeds, for the term of three years, and declared of an Ejectment, &c. the Defendant pleaded not guilty; and the Jury found, as to the Houſe, that the Defendant was not guilty; and as to the ſaid Cloſe called Dovecot Cloſe, the Defendant was found guilty.

In Arreſt of Judgment, it was moved, That an Ejectione firmæ doth not lie of a Cloſe, although it hath a certain name, but it ought to be of ſo many Acres: And although he ſaith in this caſe, containing three Acres, yet he doth not ſhew of what nature the Acres are, as Land, Meadow, Paſture, Wood, &c. and the certainty ought to be compriſed in the Declaration, becauſe he ſhall recover

And although that by good Order, the moſt worthy ſhall have the preceeency, and ſhall be preferred before the leſs worthy; and an entire thing preferred before a part, &c. yet if the ſaid Order be not preciſely followed, the Judges will not abate the Writ or Count. Vide 6 Ed. 3. 42. & 9 Ed. 3. 3. And for the aforeſaid exception, Judgment was ſtayed.

Doctor Foſters Caſe concerning Recuſants.

W*Illiam Shoyle* did exhibit an Information againſt Richard Foſter, Doctor of Phyſick, That the ſaid Richard Foſter of the Pariſh of St. Anthony, in the Ward of Cordweyner, London, 20 Junii, Anno Domini Regis nunc 11. was of the age of ſixteen years and above, and from the ſaid twentieth day of June, till the tenth day of May then next following, that is to ſay, By the ſpace of a eleven whole months and more, did not repair to his Pariſh Church aforeſaid, nor to any other Church, Chappel, or uſual place of Common Prayer or Divine Service, but per totum tempus prædictum voluntariè & obſtinatè abſque aliqua cauſa rationabili abſtinuit ab eiſdem; contra formam ſtatuti in hujuſmodi cauſa editi & proviſi, per quod actio accrevit eidem Domino Regi ac præfato Willielmo Shoyle qui tam pro Domino Rege quam pro ſeipſo ſequitur ad habendum & exigendum de præfato Richardo Foſter 220 l. legalis monetæ Angliæ, viz. pro quolibet menſe, &c. 20 l. &c. unde idem Willielmus Shoyle petit inde tertiam partem, juxta formam ſtatuti prædict. To which Doctor Foſter pleaded, that the ſaid William Shoyle qui tam, &c. pro prædictis 220 l. in eadem informatione conten' ſen aliqua inde parcella proſequi non debet. For he ſaith, That by an Act of Parliament, Anno 23 Eliz. it was enacted, That every perſon above the age of ſixteen years, which ſhall not repair to any Church, &c. but ſhall abſent himſelf againſt the Statute of 1 Eliz. for the uniformity of [57] Common Prayer; and being thereof lawfully convicted, ſhould forfeit to the late Queen for every month, after the end of the ſaid Seſſion of Parliament, &c. twenty pound, &c. And further, that all the forfeitures of any ſum of moneys limited by the ſaid Act, ſhould be divided in three equal parts, that is to ſay, One third part to the ſaid late Qeen to her own uſe; and an other third part to the ſaid Queen for the relief of the poor of the Pariſh, &c. and the other third part to ſuch perſon who would ſue for the ſame in any Court of Record by Action of Debt, Bill, Plaint, or Information, &c. And afterwards by another Act of Parliament, Anno 28. of the ſaid late Queen, it was enacted, That every offender in not repairing to Church to Divine Service, &c. againſt the Form of the ſaid Act, which after ſhall happen to be once convicted in ſuch Terms of Eaſter and St. Michael the Archangel, which ſhould be next after ſuch conviction, ſhould pay into the Receipt of the Exchequer, according to the rate of twenty pound for every month as ſhould be contained in the Indictment, upon which ſuch conviction was; and alſo for every moneth after ſuch conviction, without any other Indictment, ſhould pay into the Receipt of the Exchequer, &c. And if any default ſhall be in any part of payment, &c. that then, and ſo often the ſaid late Queen might by Proceſs out of the Exchequer, take, ſeiſe, and enjoy all their Goods, and two parts of their Lands, Tenements, and Hereditaments, Leaſes and Farms, &c. And where by the ſaid Act of 3 Eliz. a third part of the forfeitures for not coming to Divins Service, was limited to the Poor, &c. By the the ſaid Act of 28 Eliz. it is ordained, That it ſhall be lawfull for the Lord Treaſurer, Chancellor, and chief Baron of the Exchequer, &c. to aſſign and diſpoſe of it, &c. And further, by the Act of 35 Eliz. that pro magis feſtina (Anglice, more ſpeedy) levatione, and recovery for and by the ſaid Queen, omnium & ſingularium pœnarum, debitorum, forisfactur', and payments that then after ſhould become payable, by vertue of the ſaid Act of 35 Eliz. or the ſaid Statute made in Anno 23. (inter alia) It was enacted by the Authority of the ſaid Parliament of 35. Quod omnia & ſingula dicta pœna debit', forisfactur', & ſolutiones forent & potuiſſent eſſe recuperat' & levat' ad uſum dictæ Dominæ Reginæ per actionem debiti, billam, querelam, ſive informationem, vel aliter, in Curia de Banco Regis, Communi Banco, vel Scaccar', in tali modo & in omnibus reſpectibus prout per ordinarium curſum communium legum aliquod aliud debitum ſolubile (Anglice, due) per aliquam talem perſonam, in aliquo caſu, foret vel potuiſſet eſſe recuperat' ſive levat', &c. And further by the [b] ſaid Act of 35. it was enacted, That a third part of the penalties to be recoverd by the ſaid Act ſhould be diſpoſed of to the poor, according to the Act of 28 Eliz. aforeſaid. And the ſaid Richard further ſaith, That by the ſaid Statute of 35 aforeſaid, it appeareth, That all and ſingular the penalties, debts, forfeitures, and payments, which after the ſaid Act of 35 aforeſaid, ſhould grow or be payable by force of the ſaid Act, or of the ſaid Statute of 23 Eliz. concerning Recuſants, ſhould and muſt be recovered and levied to the uſe of the ſaid Queens Majeſty, &c. And that no third part of the penalties, debts, forfeitures, and payments aforeſaid, by the ſaid Act of 35 Eliz. Alicui perſonæ quæ pro eadem ſequi voluerit limitat' vel proviſ. exiſtit. Et hoc idem Richardus paratus eſt verificare, unde petit judicium ſi prædict' William Shoyle, qui tam, &c. pro prædict' 220 l. &c. proſequi debeat. Upon which Plea, the Attorney general did demur in Law, and ſix objections were made by the Defendants Counſel againſt this Information.

1. That the Defendant is not ſuch a perſon as is within the ſaid Act of 23 Eliz.

2. That the Informer is not ſuch a perſon that may exhibte any ſuch Information upon the ſaid Act of 23 Eliz.

3. That the Judgment which ſhall be given in this caſe, is not within the ſaid Act of 23 Eliz.

4. Admitting all theſe payments againſt the Defendant, it was further objected, That by the ſaid Act of 28 Eliz. the branch which giveth a Popular Action, istaken away.

5. If the ſaid Act of 28 Eliz. doth not take it away, that the Statute of 35 Eliz. hath abrogated the ſame.

6. That if the Defendant ſhall be charged at the Suit of the Informer, he might be charged again at the Kings Suit, and ſo twice charged.

To the firſt, The perſon-Delinquent is deſcribed by the Act, by an attribute which the Defendant wanteth; for the words of the ſaid Act of 23 Eliz. are, Every perſon above the age of ſixteen years, which ſhall not repair to ſome Church, Chappel, or uſual place of Common Prayer, but forbear the ſame contrary to the tenor of a Statute made in the firſt year of her Majeſties Reign for Uniformity of Common Prayer: and being thereof lawfully convicted, ſhall forfeit to the Queens Majeſty for every moneth, &c. twenty pound, &c. By which it appeareth, That no perſon ſhall incur this forfeiture, if not that he be before lawfully convicted; ſo that a Recuſant convicted is onely within the purview of this Act: And it doth not appear in the whole Record, that the ſaid Richard Foſter hath been convicted; and for that cauſe he is not a perſon within this Act. And penal Statutes are to be followed (chiefly in Informations) ſtrictly, and in terminis, according to [58] the purview of the Act. And therefore Poſche, 20 Eliz. a caſe was adjudged in the Exchequer, That where an Information was exhibited and ſhewed the Uſurious contract in certain, upon which it appeared, that the ſum of ten pounds was reſerved, and received for the loan of one hundred pound, againſt the form of the Statute, &c. And although it appeared that the ſame was corrupt, and that he concluded contra formam ſtatuti, ye becauſe he did not expreſly ſay, that the ſame was per corruptam accommodationem, according to the words of the penal Statute, the Information was adjudged inſufficient: See in the caſe at Bar, foraſmuch as the Statute ſaith, That every perſon, &c. being lawfully convicted, ſhall forfeit; he ought of neceſſity to have ſhewed, That the ſaid Doctor Foſter was lawfully convicted. Vide 3 *Ma. 2. None can inform upon the Statute of 23. but for the King alone; for in the former part of that Act it is provided, That every perſon that ſhall ſay or ſing Maſs, &c. ſhall forfeit the ſum of two hundred marks, and that every perſon that ſhall willingly hear Maſs, ſhall forfeit the ſum of one hundred marks, and afterwards cometh in the ſaid Act the clauſe of forfeiture of twenty pound by the month to the Quen, and afterwards inflicteth ten pound by the moneth for him who keepeth a School-Maſter, and then followeth the clauſe of diſtribution of the forfeitures: And that all forfeitures of any ſums of money limited by this Act, ſhall be divided into three equal parts, &c. And it was objected, that this clauſe doth extend onely to the ſaid forfeitures of two hundred marks, and one hundred marks, &c. Which penalties were not given to any perſon certain, but indefinitely and general, that they ſhall be forfeited; and therefore this clauſe of diſtribution doth extend to them; but the forfeiture of twenty pound by the month for Recuſancy, was expreſly given to the Queen, and ſo was not any of the other forfeitures; and therefore this clauſe of diſtribution ſhall not extend to that which was before to the Queen, but to thoſe penalties which were left indefinitely, and given to no body.

Dyer* 131. 2 Eliz. Dyer 183. 20 Eliz. Dy. 367.

2. None can inform upon the Statute of 23. but for the King alone; for in the former part of that Act it is provided, That every perſon that ſhall ſay or ſing Maſs, &c. ſhall forfeit the ſum of two hundred marks, and that every perſon that ſhall willingly hear Maſs, ſhall forfeit the ſum of one hundred marks, and afterwards cometh in the ſaid Act the clauſe of forfeiture of twenty pound by the month to the Quen, and afterwards inflicteth ten pound by the moneth for him who keepeth a School-Maſter, and then followeth the clauſe of diſtribution of the forfeitures: And that all forfeitures of any ſums of money limited by this Act, ſhall be divided into three equal parts, &c. Which penalties were not given to any perſon certain, but indefinitely and general, that they ſhall be forfeited; and therefore this clauſe of diſtribution doth extend to them; but the forfeiture of twenty pound by the month for Recuſancy, was expreſly given to the [57] Queen, and ſo was not any of the other forfeitures, and therefore this clauſe of diſtribution ſhall not extend to that which was before to the Queen, but to thoſe penalties which were left indefinitely, and given to no body.

3. The words of the Act of 23 Eliz. are, (being thereof lawfully convicted) and Conviction ought to be either by Verdict or Confeſſion, and cannot extend to a Judgment upon a Demurrer as in our Caſe, for there is not any Conviction, for always Conviction ought to precede Judgment. And therefore the difference between a Clerk-Convict, and Attaint, is, That he who is convicted by Verdict or Confeſſion, &c. and hath his Clergy before Judgment, is called a Clerk Convict; and he who hath his Clergy after Judgment, is a Clerk-attainted; and therewith agreeth Stanford fol. 138. C. who holdeth, That there are two manner of Clerks, viz. A Clerk-Convict, and a Clerk-attainted: A Clerk-Convicted, is he who prayeth his Clergy before Judgment given againſt him of the Felony, and hath his Clergy allowed to him, &c. A Clerk-attainted, is he who prayeth his Clergy after Judgment upon him for the Felony: But in the Caſe at Bar, Doctor Foſter is a Recuſant (if Judgment ſhall be given againſt him) Attaint, and not Convict. And Stanford, fol. 1. 85. B. ſaith, So it is clear in my judgment, that he cannot be called Clerk Convict, till he hath a Verdict paſſed againſt him: And upon that it was ſaid, That if the Defendant will not anſwer to the Indictment, ſo that he is condemned by Nihil dicit, the ſame is out of this Statute which ſpeaketh onely of Conviction. And therefore upon the Statute of 1 Ed. 6. 12. which taketh away Clergy in divers caſes, the words of which are, No perſon or perſons that ſhall be hereafter in due form of Law, Attaint, or Convict; that theſe words ſhall not extend to him who will not anſwer. Vide Stanford fol. 126. a. So that the Caſe at Bar is caſus omiſſus out of the ſaid Act, for here upon the Demurrer upon the Defendants Plea, no Conviction can be, before Judgment; but if the Law ſhall ſerve for the Informer, Judgment ſhall be given without any Conviction, whereof the Statute ſpeaketh: And ſuch Penal Act ſhall not be taken by Intendment or Equity.

4. But admit it ſhall be a Conviction within the Statute, then by the ſaid Act of 28 Eliz. all the penalty of twenty pound by the month is given unto the Queen, for the words are, That every ſuch offender in not repairing to Divine Service, &c. as hereafter ſhall fortune to be once convicted, ſhall in ſuch of the Terms of Eaſter or Michaelmas, as ſhall next happen after ſuch Conviction, pay into the Receipt of the Exchequer, after the rate of twenty pound for every month, which ſhall be contained in the Indictment, whereupon ſuch Conviction ſhall be; and ſhall for every month after ſuch Conviction, without any other Indictment or Conviction, pay into the Receipt of the Exchequer, &c. after the rate of twenty pound the month, &c. and default be made, &c. The Queens Majeſty ſhall and may by Proces out of the Exchequer, ſeiſe all the Goods and two parts of the Land, &c. By which it appeareth, That the whole Penalty for Recuſancy is given to the Queen, and by conſequence the Informer is excluded.

[59]

5. The Statute of 35 Eliz. is ſtronger; for that by expreſs terms giveth the whole penalty given by the ſaid Act of 23 Eliz. for Recuſancy to the Queen; the letter of which Act is, And for the more ſpeedy levying, and recovering for, and by the Queens Majeſty, of all and ſingular the pains, duties, forfeitures, and payments, which at any time hereafter ſhall accrue, grow, or be payable, by vertue of this Act, or of the Statute of the three and twentieth year, &c. Be it enacted, That all and every the ſaid pains, duties, forfeitures, and payments, ſhall and may be recovered and levied to her Majeſties uſe, by Action of Debt, Bill, Plaint, Information, or otherwiſe, in any of the Courts commonly called the Kings Bench, Common Pleas, or Exchequer, in ſuch ſort, and in all reſpects, as by the ordinary courſe of the Common Laws of this Realm, any other debt due by any ſuch perſon in any other cauſe, ſhould or may be recovered or levied: In which, theſe words in the Preamble are to be obſerved.

First, for the more ſpeedy recovering and levying for and by the Queens Majeſty; here is the perſon expreſſed who ſhall recover.

Secondly, Of all and ſingular the pains; which words contain what things the Queen ſhall recover, viz. All and ſingular the pains, &c. and generale dictum generaliter eſt intelligendum.

Thirdly, The body of the Act, Be it enacted that all and every the ſaid pains, &c. ſhall and may be recovered and levied to her Majeſties uſe: And if all the pains and every of them ſhall be recovered to the Queens uſe, then it followeth, That the Informer ſhall recover nothing. And many Caſes were put where a latter Act ſhall take away a former, and the ground was taken, that leges poſteriores priores contrarias abrogant. But more particularly, and more to the purpoſe, two Caſes were alledged, Why the later Statutes of 28 & 35 Eliz. did abrogate the diſtribution of the Act of 23 El. &c.

The firſt, That when an Act of Parliament giveth power or intereſt to a perſon certain, by that expreſs deſignation to one, all others are excluded, although that ſuch Statute be in the Affirmative and ſo it is holden in Plo. Com. in Stradlings caſe, 100. b. That where the Statute of 31 Ed. 3. 12. enacteth, That Error in the Exchequer ſhall be corrected and amended before the Chancellor and Treaſurer, it cannot be corrected before any other; and there a general rule is put, That when a thing is to be done before one perſon certain, it cannot be done before another; and yet the Statute of 31 Ed. 3. is in the Affirmative: So in the caſe at Bar, the certain deſignation of the Queen, is an abſolute excluſion of all others, Quia exclusio unius eſt exclusio alterius: And a caſe was cited out of Juſtice Dalliſons Reports, in An. 3 Eliz. That for as much as the Statute of 8 H. 6. cap. 9. of Forcible Entry, deſigneth Juſtices of Peace to make reſtitution thereby (although the Statute was in the Affirmative) others are excluded, and therefore neither Juſtices of Oyer and Terminer, or Goal-delivery, ſhall do it. Vide 27 H. 8. 13. in Weſt, 23 Aſſ. 17. in Rediſſeiſin, 4 Eliz. Dyer 211. Commiſſion, upon 28 H. 8. of the Admiralty, &c.

The

The second cause was, in respect of the generality of the words, viz. All and singular the pains, &c. and all and every the pains, &c. which words imply a Negative: For if the Queen shall recover all and singular, and all and every the pains, &c. then no other person shall recover any of them, Et qui omne dicit nihil excludit, & generale tantum valet in omnibus, quantum singulare in singulis. And thereupon they cited the case in 33 H. 8. 50. where the words of 27 H. 8. 27. are, That all Grants by Letters Patents, to be made for terme of life or years, of any Office concerning the Lands within the Survey of the Court of Augmentation, &c. shall be sealed with the Great seal of that Court; and it is conceived there, that the same implieth a Negative. So that if the Grant be under the Great Seal of England, it shall be void; as Amy Townsends Case, Plo. Com. 113. Many other Cases were put to such effect, which I here purposely omit.

6. It was objected, That if the Defendant shall be charged at the Suit of the Informer, he may be by force of the said two Statutes, and chiefly of the Statute of 35 Eliz. charged again, and so hence charged; and Nemo debet bis puniri pro uno delicto; and the case hath the greater mischief, because that by the Statute of 3 Jac. cap. 4. That no Traverse to any Indictment of Recusancy shall be allowed, but to the direct point of not coming to Church, or that the party hath conformed himself: So that he cannot plead, that another Information is depending, or that he is auter foits convict, &c. at the Suit of the Informer.

As to the first Objection, it was answered, and resolved by the whole Court, That he may be convicted in the same Indictment or Information, preferred or exhibited against him; and so was it holden by all the Judges of England assembled at Russel-house, where Sir John Puckering, then Keeper of the great Seal, dwelt. Vide 10 Ed. 4. 11. & 7 Rich. 2. Bar. 241. And that stands well with the words of the Statute, for he shall forfeit nothing before Conviction; and so hath the Law always been taken upon the Statute of 3 H. 6. 3. which enacteth, That if a Customer, &c. be duly attainted or convicted, &c. he shall forfeit to the King, &c. and all other Statutes which have such form of Penning; and it is not possible that he can be convicted without Suit: and Convict in this case shall be taken for Attaint; for he shall forfeit nothing till Judgment. Vide F. N. B. 73. d. 30 Ed. 3. 1. b. In Attaint, and many Books, where Convict is taken for Attaint. See before in the case of Alexander Powlter of Clergy. [60]

As to the second point, it was answered and resolved, That the said branch of 23 Eliz. of Distribution, shall extend as well to the clause of penalty for Recusancy, as to the clause of saying and hearing Mass, &c. First, because it is all one to say, shall forfeit generally, and shall forfeit to the Queen; for the Queen shall have them in both cases without any more, Et expressio eorum que tacite insunt nihil operatur. Secondly, Divers Acts of Parliaments giveth the penalty forfeited to the King, and yet afterwards makes distribution of the penalty to another, viz. To him who will sue, as the Statute of 3 H. 6. 3. 3 H. 7. 7. &c. Thirdly, By two Judgments in Parliament, viz. In the said Acts of 28 & 35 Eliz. For by the same Acts, the Distribution made by the Act of 23 Eliz. of the penalty of twenty pound by the month for Recusancy, is quodam modo altered, which proveth, That the said Clause of Distribution in 23 Eliz. extendeth to Recusancy, &c.

As to the third, it was resolved, That he against whom any Judgment is given, either upon Nihil dicit, or insufficient Plea pleaded, and a Demurrer upon it, is convicted within the Purview of this Act; for it is true that non sequitur, that one is convicted, ergo. he is attainted or adjudged, but it is a good consequence; one is attainted or adjudged, ergo. he is convicted; for he who is attainted or adjudged, is convicted and more. And ex vi termini (that) extendeth to him who is condemned, as Cicero 7. Verr', Convincere adversum testibus. Idem in Catilinam, Conscientia convictus reticuit. And where by the Statute of 8 H. 6. 9. it is provided, That if the party grieved shall recover by Assise, or by Action of Trespass, &c. and it be found by Verdict, or in other manner in due form of Law, that the party Defendant entreth with force in Land and Tenements, &c. That the party shall recover his damages treble against the Defendant.

And in 6 H. 8. the case was, That in such Action brought by the party grieved, if the Attorney for the Defendant plead Non sum informatus, the Plaintiff shall recover his treble damages; for this word (found) hath two significations, viz. Either by Jurors, or by the Judges; and the finding of the Judges, viz. Their Judgment upon Non sum informatus, or upon Nihil dicit, is within the said Act. And so was it adjudged in a Writ of Error, 4 & 5 P. & M. All which is reported by Bendloes, Serjeant at Law. So I my self heard the Lord Dyer, Mich. 14 & 15 Eliz. say, in the Court of Common Pleas, That so Judgment was given in such case for the treble damages upon the Defendants defaults, Quia fatetur facinus qui judicium fugit. And the same Law is he said, If the Defendant plead an Insufficient Bar, which upon Demurrer is adjudged against him. [b]

As to the fourth point, it was resolved, That the Act of 28 Eliz. hath not taken away the Liberty which the informer hath by the Statute of 23 Eliz. for divers causes. 1. The title is, For the speedy execution of certain Branches of the Statute made in the three and twentieth year, &c. So that the makers of the Act of the eight and twentieth, do not intend any abrogation, but the more speedy execution of divers Branches of the Act of 23 Eliz. 2. The Act of 28 giveth more speedy execution onely, at the Queens Suit, viz. Upon Indictment: For the Queen for the whole penalty, had not remedy by the Statute of 23 but onely by Indictment; for the Statute maketh the same inquirable, &c. before divers Justices named in the Statute; and such inquiry is always by Indictment. Also in the same Act there is a Proviso, That every person guilty of any offence against this Statute, which shall, before he be thereof Indicted, or at his arraignment or trial before Judgment, submit and conform himself before the Bishop of the Dioces, &c. or before the Justices, where he shall be indicted, arraigned, or tryed, &c. shall be discharged, &c. By which it appeareth, That in this new case of Forfeiture, the Parliament gave not to the Queen other remedy for the Recovery of the whole penalty, but by way of Indictment. And the Statute of 28 Eliz. doth extend onely to the Queens Suit by way of Indictment, as it appeareth by the words of the same Act, viz. After the rate of twenty pound for every month, contained in the Indictment, and by divers Branches in the Act; and namely, that Proclamation shall be made upon the Indictment, &c. to appear, &c. So that this Act doth not give to the Queen, any other remedy then they had before, by way of Indictment; but the more speedy proceeding upon the Fundamental remedy: But gave not to the Informer more speedy proceeding, but left him to his former proceeding. 3. This Act of 28 El. giveth not the penalty to any new person, to whom it was not given before; for the Act of 23 El. gave the forfeiture to the Queen, &c. 4. The words of this Act, are, Every offender that shall hereafter fortune to be once convicted, shall, &c. pay twenty pound for every moneth, contained in the Indictment: So that the sense is, Every offender that shall fortune to be once convicted upon any Indictment, &c. shall pay twenty pound for every moneth, contained in such Indictment: And therefore it appeareth, That the same doth extend onely to the Case of Indictment for the Queen, [61] and not to the Action Popular, or Information. 5. Upon these words, the Defendant shall not take the benefit of this clause, if he do not add, That he was convicted at the Queens Suit; for the words are. That shall hereafter fortune to be convicted: So that if his fortune be not to be convicted at the Queens Suit, he is not within this Act, but left to the Informer, 6. The Statute is in the Affirmative, and Regularly Statutes in the Affirmative, do not take away precedent Acts Affirmative, if it be not in certain cases, as shall be after said: But the Statute of 28 Eliz. (as was well observed) hath altered the Statute of 23 Eliz. in one material Point, viz. As to the Jurisdiction in these words; That every Conviction hereafter for any offence before mentioned, shall be in the Court commonly called the Kings Bench, or at the Assises, or Goal delivery, and not elsewhere, &c. Which clause without Question, being general, extendeth not onely to the Queens Suit, but also to the Suit of the Informer. And the said Act of 35 Eliz. doth extend onely to the Queens Suit, but giveth to her no nother remedy then by Indictment, viz. By Action of Debt, Bill, Plaint, Information, and in other Courts, as in the Common Pleas, and Exchequer; and so as to the Queens Suit in other Courts, the Statute of 28 Eliz. is altered, but doth not touch the Popular Suit of the Informer, nor alter the Statute of 28 Eliz. concerning the Restriction to Courts, as to the Informer: nor the Act of 3 Jac. 4. which giveth Jurisdiction to the other Justices; as Justices of Peace doth not alter the same as to the Informer: For this Act doth extend onely to the Kings Suit by way of Indictment, viz. By enquiry onely, and doth not make any mention of the Suit of the Informer, but leaveth the same as it was before: So that this Act of 28 Eliz. doth confine the Informer onely to the Court of Kings Bench; or of Justices of Assise or General Goal-delivery, and with Negative words, viz. and not elsewhere.

As to the fifth Objection, The Act of 35 Eliz. doth not abrogate the Statute of 23 Eliz. as to the Popular Action, for four causes.

1. Before this Act (as hath been said before) remedy was given to the Queen, by way of Indictment; and to the Informer, by Bill, Plaint, or Information: Now this Act doth intend to give more speedy remedy to the Qeen onely, and not to the Informer; and so are the words of the Preamble, For the more speedy recovering for and by the Queens Majesty, of all and singular, the pains, &c. So that the purpose of this Act was not to ouste the Statute of 23 Eliz. but to put away
[b] delay, and to give to the Queen a more speedy recovery then she had before.

2. The words of the Body of the Act, are, That every of the said pains, &c. shall and may be recovered to her Majesties use, &c. This Act hath made three alterations. First, In the manner of her Remedy, viz. where the remedy was by Indictment: Now the Queen may have an Action of Debt, Bill, Plaint, Information, or otherwise. The second alteration is concerning Courts; the Queen is not now confined to the Kings Bench, or to Justices of Assise, or Goal-delivery; but now may sue in the Common Pleas, or the Exchequer, at her pleasure. The third alteration was, concerning the charging of one person at the Queens Suit, who was not charged before: For at the said Assembly in Russels House, Hil. 35. Eliz. three points were resolved by all the Judges. 1. That a Feme-Covert was within the Act of 1 Eliz. cap. 2. and shall forfeit twelve pence for not repairing to the Church every Sunday and Holiday. 2. That the Act of 23 Eliz. although it is more penal, and doth inflict imprisonment for that not Feasance to him that is not able to pay; yet that a Feme-Covert was within this Statute of 23 Eliz. First, Because that this Act doth refer to the said Act of 1 Eliz. And without question she was within the Act of 23 Eliz. Secondly, Women-Covert were a great part of the Realm, and very dangerous, because they had the education of their children, and the governance of their servants.

3. That forasmuch as the Remedy of the Queen, was by Indictment, and the Feme-Covert was onely Indicted, and the Husband was not party to it, he was not subject to the Wives forfeiture of twenty pound by the month: For the Husband shall never be charged for the act or default of his Wife, but where he is made a party to the Action, and Judgment is given against him and his Wife; as for the debt of the Wife, or for Trespass done by her &c. the Action of Debt upon the Case, Trespass, &c. shall be brought against the Husband and Wife, and the Husband shall plead, &c. and shall be party to the Judgment: But if a Feme-Covert be indicted of Trespass, Ryot, or any other wrong, there the Wife shall answer, and shall be party to the Judgment onely: And therefore the fine set upon the Wife in such cases, shall not be levied upon the Husband; and therefore the Informer was as to a Woman-Covert, in better case then the Queen: For as much as Remedy was given to him for the said Forfeiture, by Action of Debt, Bill, Plaint, or Information, the Informer former for the said Forfeiture of the Feme-Covert, might have an Action of Debt, Bill, Plaint, or Information, against the Husband and Wife, for the recovery thereof, and so make the Husband a party; but so could not the Queen alone by way of Indictment: And therefore the Preamble of [62] the Act was true, That for the more speedy levying and recovering for and by the Queens Majesty, of all and singular the pains, forfeitures, &c. by vertue of the Statute of 23 Eliz. &c. The Act gave remedy to the Queen by Action of Debt, Bill, Plaint, or Information. So that where the Queen for the said Forfeiture of Women-Coverts, ought before this Act to have stayed till the death of the Husband, to levy or recover the same against the Wife; and if the Wife had died before her Husband, in many cases the forfeiture was in danger to be lost: Now this Act in adding remedy for the Queen, by Action of Debt, Bill, &c. hath given to the Queen present remedy to recover the same against the Husband and Wife; and to this purpose were the subsequent words added, viz. In such sort, and in all respects, as by the ordinary course of the Common Laws any other Debt, due by any such person in any other cause, shall or may be recovered. But for the Debt, or duty due by a Feme-Covert in an Action of Debt, &c. brought against the Husband and Wife, the Husband shall be charged for the same: And thereupon many Informations upon this Statute for the Queen, were exhibited against Husbands and Wives, for the Wives forfeitures upon the Statute of 23 Eliz. in the Kings Bench, &c. And that was the chief intention of this Statute of 35 Eliz. to make the Husbands of Feme-Coverts, Recusants, to be charged at the Kings Suit for the forfeitures of their Wives. So that now the Husbands and Wives may be charged in that case, as well at the Queens Suit by Action of Debt, Bill, Plaint, &c. as at the Informers Suit. But if the King taketh his remedy by Action of Debt, Bill, Plaint, or Information, then no Proclamation can be made thereupon; for that is onely upon Indictment, and onely upon Indictment before the Justices of Assise, or general Goal-delivery by the Act of 28 Eliz. and now before Justices of Peace; also by the Statute of 3 Jac. cap. 4. But the King in case where he proceedeth by Action of Debt, Bill, Plaint, or Information, shall have execution according to the Common Law, as he should have upon the said Statute of 23 Eliz. The words of which Act of 35 Eliz. are not penned simpliciter, viz: That all and singular the pains shall be recovered to her Majesties use: For as hath been said, the same was not the intent of the makers, but secundum quid & sub modo, viz. In such sort, and in all respects, as by the ordinary course of the Common Laws, any other Debt due to such person, should or might be recovered or levied. By which it appeareth, that this Act doth alter the remedy one- [b] ly at the Queens Suit; that where before she proceeded upon Indictment onely, according to the Statute (in which case the Husband of the Wife, Recusant, was not charged;) now she shall proceed by Action, &c. as any other debt may be recovered at the Common Law; in which case, for the Debt of the Wife at the Common Law, the Husband was charged. And in other Statutes which have the like reference, no alteration is made of the Law before, but onely as to the point to which the reference is made, as it is holden in 14 H. 7. 17, 18. in Everard Digbies Case; Where it is enacted by the Statute of 1 H. 7. cap. 1. That the Demandant may maintain a Formedon in the Discender or Remainder against the Pernor of the profits, and the same Pernors to vouch, &c. as if they were Tenants indeed: The case was, That Everard Digby brought a Scire facias against the Pernor of the profits. And it is there holden, That the Pernor shall not vouch in a Scire facias; for it shall be intended in such Action, in which he may vouch. And the said words do not alter the Law of Voucher in any other point, then in that to which the reference is made. viz. That notwithstanding that he is not Tenant of the Land, but Pernor of the profits, that yet he shall vouch, but gave him no new Voucher to other respects; and therefore he shall not vouch in an Action brought against him, in which no Voucher lay before. So in the case at Bar, the Act of the five and thirtieth year of Queen Eliz. shall be intended to extend to that onely to which the same is referred, and shall not alter or abrogate any Law before. So the Statute of Westm. 2. cap. 4. which giveth the quod ei deforceat, &c. to him who hath lost by default; and giveth also to the Demandant to vouch in it, but not simpliciter, but secundum quid, viz. Ac si esset tenens in priori brevi si warantum habuit, the same extends onely to the point to which it is referred, viz. Notwithstanding that he be Demandant, but the same doth not alter or abrogate the Law in other cases: And therefore if the Tenant plead another Bar, and doth not maintain the first Recovery, he shall not vouch at all; also he shall not vouch another, then him in the Reversion; also he shall not vouch in any Action, in which no Voucher lyeth. Vide 9 Ed. 3. 22. 23 Ed. 3. Counter plea de Voucher, 101. 33 H. 6. 16. 14. H. 7. 18.

4. This Act of 35 Eliz. is all in the Affirmative; and therefore shall not repeal or abrogate a Precedent Affirmative Law: And the said Rule, that Leges posteriores priores contrarias abrogant, was agreed; but as to this purpose, Contrarium est multiplex. First, In quality, viz. If one be [63] an expres and material Negative, and the last is an expres and material Affirmative; or if the first be Affirmative, and the latter Negative. Secondly, In matter, although that both be Affirmative; as by the Statute of 33 H. 8. cap. 23. it is enacted, That if any person being examined before the Kings Council, or any three of them, shall confess any Treason, Misprision, or Murder, or be of them vehemently suspected, he shall by tryed in any County where the King pleaseth, by his Commission, &c. And afterwards another Law was made, 1 & 2 P. & M. cap. 10. in these words, That all tryals hereafter to be had for any Treason, shall be had according to the course of the Common Law, and not otherwise: This latter Act (although that the latter words had not been) hath abrogated the first, because they were contrary in matter: But the same doth not abrogate the Statute of 35 H. 8. cap. 2. of Tryal of Treasons beyond the Seas, notwithstanding the Negative words, because it was not contrary in matter, for that was not tryable by the Common Law.

Vide

Vide 3 Mary, Dyer 132. Acc' Vide Stanford, fol. 89, 90. So the Statute of 1 Ed. 6. of Chauntries, being in the Affirmative, hath abrogated the Statute of Westm. 2. cap. 41. which gave the Cessavit de Cantaria also in the Affirmative; for the one is contrary to the other in matter. Thirdly, Contrariety in respect of prescript, form, as in Amy Townsends case in Plo. Com. And many other Contrarieties there are, which are not necessary to be recited: Onely it is to know, That for asmuch as Acts of Parliaments are established with such gravity, wisdom, and universal consent of the whole Realm, for the advancement of the Commonwealth, they ought not by any constrained construction out of general and doubtful words of a subsequent Act, be abrogated. Sed hujusmodi statuta tanta solennitate & prudentia edita (as Fortescue speaketh, cap. 18. fol. 21.) ought to be maintained and supported with a being and favourable construction: For Fortescue there saith. Quod Angliæ Statuta non Principis voluntate, sed totius Regni assensu conduntur, quo populi læsuram illa facere nequeunt, vel non eorum commodum procurare, prudentia enim & sapientia ipsa esse referta putandum est, dum non unius, aut centum solum consultorum virorum prudentia, sed plusquam trecentorum electorum hominum, quali numero olim Senatus Romanorum regebatur, edita sunt. And therewith agreeth the case in 4 Ed. 4.. 3, 4. & 12. And the case of Chester Mills in the Tenth Part [b] of my Reports. 6 Ed. 6. Dyer 72. pl. 3. And where the Statute of 16 Rich. 2. cap. 5. doth enact, That all the Lands and Tenements of one Attainted in a Premunire, shall be forfeited to the King, the case in Paschæ. 21 Eliz. was, That one Trudging being Tenant in Tail of certain Lands and Tenements, was attainted in a Premunire: and the question before all the Judges of England was, If the Estate Tail were were barred or not, and it was resolved by all the Judges, That those general words have not repealed the Statute of Donis Conditionalibus, but that he should forfeit onely for his life, and the Issue in Tail should inherite. And for the same reason it was resolved in this Case.

1. That this Statute of 23 Eliz. which hath inflicted the penalty of twenty pound by the month, hath not taken away the Statute of 1 Eliz. which hath given the forfeiture of twelve pence for every Sunday and Holiday, but that both shall be paid; for the one may well stand with the other: For the forfeiture of twelve pence is forfeited as soon as the Sunday or Holiday passeth, but the twenty pound is not forfeited till the end of the month; so that the twelve pence is forfeit by way of prevention: Also the forfeiture of the twelve pence is given onely to the poor, and the twenty pound to the Queen, &c. And the neglect of Divine Service in the Sabbath and Holidays, is worthy of greater punishment. And the Statute of 23 Eliz. hath not taken away the Statute of 1 El. as to the said forfeiture of twelve pence, as appeareth by the Statute of 3 Jac. cap. 4. For by the same Act, a more speedy remedy is given for the said forfeiture upon the Sabbath.

2. The said Branch of the Act of 28. Eliz. viz. That every Conviction hereafter shall be in the Court commonly called the Kings Beneh, or before the Justices of Assise, &c. and not elsewhere, doth not abrogate the whole power of Justices of the Peace, to whom Authority was given by 23 Eliz. For yet any of them may take an Indictment, and the same by benign Interpretation, to abrogate as little as may be: For asmuch as the said Act of 23 Eliz. doth restrain onely the Conviction, so that the power to take the Indictment, doth remain as it was holden by all the Judges and Barons of the Exchequer in Edward Plowdens Case. Also in the same case it was holden by them, That whereas the said Edward was indicted before Justices of Peace, and proclaimed before the Justices of Assise, the same was (as to the Proclamation) against the expres letter of the Act: But such Indictment ought to have been removed into the Court of Kings Bench, and upon that Process to be made, &c.

3. That the Statute of 7 Jac. cap. 6. doth provide, That if a Feme-Covert be convicted, that [64] she shall be committed to prison, until, &c. And this Affirmative Law doth not take away the remedy which was given to the King, for the forfeiture of a Feme-Covert, by the Statute of 35 El. Or to the Informer, by the Statute of 35 Eliz. because all the said Acts are Affirmative; but she shall be punished but upon one of them.

Also the the Negative clause in the Act of 3 Jac. viz. That no person shall be charged for his Wives offence, &c. doth not extend to a Feme-Covert to be charged either upon the Statute of 35 Eliz. at the Queens Suit, or upon the Act of 23 Eliz. at the Informers Suit; for the words are expresly penned, That no person shall be charged for his Wives offence, by force of the Act, viz. of the Act of 3 Jac.

And where it is objected, That the expres designation of one person, is the exclusion of all other, the same is true in all Acts which are introductive of a new Law, as the said Acts of 31 Ed. 3. & 8 H. 6. But here are two Acts of Parliament, and the Act of 35 Eliz. doth not give it to a new person, but to the same person, 23 Eliz. hath given it, viz. to the Queen; and it is but an Act of Addition to give a more speedy remedy, then was given by the Act of 23 Eliz. As in a Writ of Mesn, the Proces by the Common Law was Distres infinite; and although that the Statute of Westm. 2. cap. 9. giveth more speedy Proces, and in the end fore judges; yet the Plaintiff may take what Proces he will, either at the Common Law, or upon the said Statute, because both are in the Affirmative. And therewith agreeth F.N.B. 137. 14 H. 7. 10. 36 H. 6. 3. 3 Ed. 4. 27. 48 Ed. 3. 14. 15 H. 7. 16. Stradlings Case, Plo. Com. 207. 17 Eliz. Dyer 243. 46 Ed. 3, 4. 21 Ed. 3. 11. 30 Ed. 3. 11. 20 H. 6. 11. 29 Ass. pl. 35. 29 Ed. 3. 24. 8 Ed. 3. 52. 22 Rich. 2. Damages 130.

And it was observed, That in many cases the designation of a new person in a latter Act of Parliament, shall not exclude another person who was authorised to do the same thing by a precedent Act. It is enacted by the Statute of 8 H. 6. cap. 16. That after Office found, &c. he who findeth himself ſelf grieved, may within one month traverſe, and to take the Lands and Tenements to Farm, and that then the Chancellor, Treaſurer, and other Officer, ſhall let them to him to Farm, until, &c. Vide 13 Edw. 4. 8. And now by the Statute of 1 Hen. 8. 16. he hath liberty by the ſpace of three months; and afterwards by the Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 40. the Statute gave authority to the Maſter of the Wards, with the advice of one of the Council, to make a Leaſe of the Wards, Lands, or of an Ideot, during the time, they ſhall remain in the Kings hands: Although that the later Act, deſign another perſon, yet the ſame doth not utterly take away the firſt: For if before any Leaſe made by the Maſter of the Wards, the Chancellor and Treaſurer make one according to the Statute of 8 H. 6. then the ſaid Maſter cannot demiſe it. And ſo if the Maſter make it firſt to another, [b] the Chancellor and Treaſurer cannot Leaſe the ſame to the party grieved, as Stanford holdeth, Prerogat. Regis, fol. 60. a, b. Where he mentioneth the Rule, Quod leges priores contrarias poſteriores abrogant, 43. Aſſ. pl. 9. the Statute of 13 Ed. 3. de Mercatoribus, which giveth the Aſſiſe to Tenant by Statute Merchant, ſhall not take away the Aſſiſe which the Tenant of the Freehold hath before, but both well ſtand together. So in 33 Hen. 8. Dyer 50. If it were enacted, the younger Son ſhould have an Appeal of the death of his Father, the ſame ſhould not exclude the eldeſt of his Suit, becauſe there are not any words of Reſtraint.

As to the other Objection, That the generality of the words, All and every, &c. imply a Negative, becauſe qui omne dicit nihil excludit.

To that it was anſwered and reſolved. 1. That the ſaid words are not ſimpliciter general, but ſecundum quid, as hath been ſaid; which is a full anſwer to this Objection.

2. That in the Principal caſe in 33 H. 8. Dyer 50. the Leaſe made under the Great Seal of Lands, within the Survey of the Court of Augmentation, by the authority of the ſame Book, is not void. Vide Porters caſe, in the Firſt Part of my Reports, and Gregories caſe in the Sixth Part of my Reports; and the Statute of 23 H. 8. 1. enacted generally, That all Attaints hereafter to be taken, ſhall be in the Kings Bench or Common Pleas (but the makers of the Act do not ſtay there, but add theſe words) and in none other Court. Vide Dyer 202. b. So it was enacted by the Statute of 6 Ed. 6. That the Quarter Seſſions in the Counties of Angleſey &c. ſhall be always holden at Beaumorris only, Et non alibi infra Comitat' Angleſey, &c. And a Seſſions were holden at Newburgh in the ſame County, and divers perſons there indicted, &c. And 4 & 5 Phil. & Mary, it was reſolved by all the Judges of England. That all was Coram non judice, and void, by reaſon of the ſaid Negative prohibition: By which it appeareth, That the General and Affirmative words was not the cauſe of the Reſolution.

And the Chief Juſtice ſaid, That although there be Negative words in an Act of Parliament, yet in many caſes the ſame ſhall not bind the Kings Bench, becauſe the Pleas there are Coram ipſo Rege. And thereupon he put the caſe of 21 Ed. 3. 55. & 21 Aſſ. pl. 12. the Abbot of Weſtminſters caſe, That where it is enacted by the Statute of Weſtm. 1. cap. 3. That from henceforth nothing be demanded, nor taken, nor levied by the Sheriff, nor by other, for the eſcape of a Thief or Felon, till the eſcape be adjudged before Juſtices errants; the caſe was, That it was preſented in the Kings Bench, that the Abbot of Weſtminſter had ſuffered certain Clerks attainted before the King, which were in the Abbots priſon, delivered to him out of the Marſhalſey, to eſcape; and there Pole who was of Council with the Abbot, moved the Court, That by force of that Statute, till the Eſte, the Abbot ought not to be impeached; or, that he ſhould be put to anſwer, and it was not allowed; for which cauſe Pole pleaded, that they did not eſcape. So when a Statute doth create a new Law, and aſſigneth certain Juſtices to execute it; although the Juſtices of the Kings Bench are not by expreſs words authoriſed by the Act, yet they may execute the ſame. As the ſaid Statue of 8 H. 6. 9. gave power to Juſtices of Peace to make reſtitution; and thereby Juſtices of Oyer and Terminer, or Gaol-delivery, &c. ſhall not make reſtitution; and ſo it was reſolved, as hath been ſaid. Yet if the Indictment were removed into the Kings Bench, Coram Rege, they ſhall Award reſtitution; and ſo upon Argument it was reſolved in the Kings Bench, in 4 H. 7. 18. and thereupon a Writ of Reſtitution was awarded; and therewith agreeth 15 H. 7. 5. b. & 7 Ed. 4. 18. And the Chief Juſtice cited a Reſolution of the Judges, Mich. 37 & 38 Eliz. in this caſe, in the General Pardon of 35 Eliz. That is an Exception of all penalties or forfeitures converted to a debt by Judgment, Order, Decree, or Agreement. [65]

Now the queſtion moved to the Juſtices, was, If a Recuſant convicted upon Proclamation made according to the Stat. of 28 El. ſhould be within this Exception? and it was reſolved, not; for the words of the Stat. are, Shall be convicted, as if he had been found guilty by Verdict, and doth not ſpeak of any Judgment: Alſo, although the Parl. upon ſuch Conviction ordain, (which is in the nature of a Judgment) That he ſhall pay the forfeitures, &c. Yet the ſame is not ſuch a Judgment as is meant within the ſaid General Pardon. But it was reſolved, That if he had been convicted, and Judgment given thereupon according to the Statute of 23 Eliz. that ſuch Judgment is within the Exception; and it was well obſerved, that the Statute of 1 Jac. cap. 4. doth enact, That all Statutes made againſt Recuſants in the Reign of Queen Eliz. ſhall be put in due and exact execution.

As to the laſt Objection, it was reſolved, That no ſuch double charge can accrue to him, but that he may plead, That he was autre foits Convict, &c. and ſo by Plea avoid the double charge. And where by the Statute of 3 Jac. cap. 4. it is enacted, That no Indictment, &c. nor any Proclamation, Outlawry, or other proceeding thereupon, ſhall be avoided, by reaſon of any default of Form, or lack of Form, or other defect whatſoever, (other than by direct Traverſe to the point of not coming to Church, or not receiving the Sacrament, whereof ſuch perſon ſhall be indicted) but that the ſame Indictment ſhall ſtand in force; any ſuch default in form, or other defect whatſoever, notwithſtand-ſtanding; the Recuſant may well plead any Collateral Bar, as Pardon, Submiſſion, auter foits Convict or other Bar; for this Act doth extend only to defects within the Indictment, or other proceedings.

And that the Informer cannot charge any who is convicted before, at the Queens Suit, upon the Statutes of 23 & 35 Eliz. or 3 Jac. Regis. But thoſe who are concealed, and not charged at the Kings ſuit. The Informer may exhibit Informations againſt them, upon the Statute of 23 Eliz. into the Kings Bench, or before Juſtices of Aſſiſe, or General Gaol-delivery, and ſo charge them, who peradventure, otherwiſe, ſhall never be charged; for by the Statute of 23 Eliz. he ought to be charged within a year and a day: So that for any forfeiture before the year and the day, no remedy can be taken, either by the King, or by the Informer, becauſe the time is limited certain by the Act of 23 El. &c. And therefore it was ſaid, That in this caſe the Informer was neque falcator, neque meſſor, but ſpicelegus, viz. a Gleaner. And theſe Recuſants, Feme-Coverts, or others, who have not been convicted at the Kings Suit; that the Informer may find them, and charge them, otherwiſe they might eſcape unpuniſhed. And in the Principal caſe, for a great part of the time, If the Informer had not exhibited his Information, the King ſhould have loſt all for ſo much of the time as was part before the year; whereas in this caſe he ſhall have two parts, whereof one ſhall be for the poor; And afterwards Judgment was againſt the Defendant.

Note Reader, Trin. 31 El. in this Court between Stretton qui tam, &c. and Taylor, it was adjudged, That after a Popular Action brought, although the Kings Attorney will enter ulterius non vult proſequi; or if the Defendant pleadeth a ſpecial Plea, although the uſe is, that the Attorney reply generally only; yet if he will not reply, or proſecute for the King, the Informer may proſecute for his part; for by the Suit of the Informer brought, he hath made the Popular Action his private [66] Action, which the King nor any other can releaſe, as to his intereſt; and the condemnation or acquittal of the party at his Suit, is a Bar againſt all others, and againſt the King: And yet the King in all caſes, before any Action brought by an Informer, may pardon or releaſe it, and the ſame ſhall be a Bar againſt all people; and this difference was granted, and denied by none, 1 Hen. 7. 3. and therewith agreeth 37 H. 6. 4. a. 5 Ed. 4. 3. 2 R. 3. 12. Mich. 39 & 40 El. It was adjudged in this Court, That if depending an Information, the Informer qui tam, &c. dieth, That yet the Kings Attorney may proſecute the Suit for the King, for the Information by the party, ſhall ſerve the King after his death.

The Caſe of the Maſter and Fellows of Magdalen Colledge in Cambridge.

John Warren brought an Ejectione firmæ againſt John Smith, Maſter of Arts, which began in the Kings Bench, Paſchæ, 9 Jac. Rot. 288. and declared of a Leaſe made by Francis Caſtillion Knight, 20 Decemb. 8 Jac. As of a Houſe in London, in the Pariſh of St. Buttolph without Algate, in the Ward of Algate, from the Feaſt of St. Michael the Archangel, then laſt paſt; by force of which the Plaintiff entred, and was poſſeſſed until he was ejected by the Defendant. The Defendant pleaded Not guilty; and the Jury gave a ſpecial Verdict, viz. That long time before the Treſpaſs and Ejectment, Roger Kelk, Doctor in Divinity, Maſter, and the Fellows of the Colledge of St. Mary Magdalen, in the Univerſity of Cambridge, was ſeiſed of the ſaid Meſſuage, with the Appurtenances, in his Demeſn as of Fee, in the right of the ſaid Colledge. And ſo being ſeiſed the thirteenth day of December, in the 17 Eliz. by their Deed in Engliſh, between the ſaid Queen, of the one part; and the ſaid Maſter and Fellows of the Colledge, of the other part, and enrolled in the Chancery: The ſaid Maſter and Fellows for divers conſiderations, them thereunto eſpecially moving, did give and grant to our Soveraign Lady the Queen, All that their Meſſuage (which was the Meſſuage mentioned in the Declaration) with the Appurtenances lying in the Pariſh of St. Buttolph without Algate, London, To have and to hold the ſaid Meſſuage, with the Appurtenances to our ſaid Soveraign Lady the Queen, her Heirs and Succeſſors for ever;
[65] yielding and paying therefore yearly to the ſaid Maſter and Fellows, and their Succeſſors, at the Feaſt of St. Michael the Archangel, 15 l. with Clauſe of Diſtreſs, and under this Condition or Proviſo following, viz. Provided nevertheleſs, That if our ſaid Soveraign Lady the Queen, her Heirs and Succeſſors, ſhall not ſufficiently convey, and aſſure by Letters Patents under the Great Seal of England, the ſaid Meſſuage with the Appurtenances to one Benedict Spinilo, Merchant of Genoa, and his Heirs, before the firſt day of April next enſuing, That then this preſent Indenture, and every Gift, Grant, and Article therein contained, ſhall ceaſe and be utterly void, and of none effect; as by the ſaid Indenture, whereof one part was ſealed with the Seal of the ſaid Maſter and Fellows, and the other with the Great Seal of England, appeareth.

And further they found the Act of 13 Eliz. cap. 10. by which it is enacted by Authority of Parliament, That from thenceforth, all Leaſes, Gifts, Grants, Feoffments, Conveyances, or Eſtates, to be made, had, or ſuffered by any Maſter and Fellows of any Colledge, Dean and Chapter of any Cathedral or Collegiate Church, Maſter or Warden of any Hoſpital, Parſon or Vicar, or any having any

any Spiritual or Eccleſiaſtical Living, or any Houſes Lands Tithes, Tenements, or other Hereditaments, being parcel of any Colledge, Church, Cathedral, Hoſpital, Rectory, Vicarage, or any other Spiritual Living, &c. to any other perſon or perſons, Bodies Politick or Corporate, other than for the term of 21 years, or 3 lives, ſhall be utterly void and of none effect, to all intents, conſtructions and purpoſes, &c.

And further they found the Act of Confirmations of Letters Patents made 18 Eliz. cap. 2. by which it is recited, That where after the 18 day of November, in the firſt year of the Reign of the ſaid Queen, divers and ſeveral Honors, Caſtles, Lands, Tenements, Rents, Reverſions, Services, and other Hereditaments, were conveyed and aſſured to the ſaid late Queen, her Heirs and Succeſſors, by divers and ſundry perſons, and Bodies Politick, as well for the diſcharging and ſatisfaction of great Debts and ſumms of money, as for other good Conſiderations; for the perfect aſſurance, Confirmation, and further ſurety of which, it was Enacted by Authority of Parliament, That all Feoffments, Fines, Surrenders, Aſſurances, Conveyances and Eſtates in any manner conveyed, had or made, or to be made at any time within ſeven years after the end and Seſſion of the ſame Parliament, To or for our Soveraign Lady the Queens Majeſty, by or from any perſon or perſons, Bodies Politick or Corporate, of any Honours, Caſtles, Mannors, Lands, Tenements, &c. for any debt, ſum or ſums of money, or other conſideration whatſoever, ſhall remain [b] and be good and available in Law to all intents conſtructions and purpoſes, according to the true meaning, intent and purpoſe of the ſame, Saving to all and every perſon and perſons, &c. And further it was enacted, That all Letters, Patents, Indentures and other Writings, ſealed with the Great Seal of England, or the ſeal of the Dutchy of Lancaſter, or the Seal of the County Palatine of Lancaſter then made or granted by the ſaid Queen for any ſum of money, or for any other conſideration, ſhould be good perfect and effectual in Law, &c. againſt the ſaid Queen her Heirs and Succeſſors, according to the tenor and effect of the ſaid Letters Patent, &c. And further found, That the ſaid Queen Eliz. 29 Jan. in the 17 year of her Reign, by her Letters Patent under the Great Seal, did grant unto the ſaid Benedict Spinola (who was then a Free Denizen) the ſaid Meſſuage with the appurtenances, to have and to hold to him his Heirs and Aſſigns for ever: The which Benedict Spinola, 15 Junii 22 Eliz. by his Deed indented and Inrolled within 6 months in the Chancery, for money, did bargain and ſell the ſaid Meſſuage, with the appurtenances to Edward Earl of Oxford, and his Heirs; by force whereof the ſaid Earl entred, and was thereof ſeiſed in his Demeſne of Fee, prout lex poſtulat. and he being ſo ſeized Rowland Broughton Gentleman and Elizabeth his wife, Craſt. Trin. 24 Eliz. levied a Fine of the ſaid houſe with the appurtenances to the ſaid Earl of Oxford and his heirs with Proclamations, which were found at large according to the Statute. And afterwards 9 Maii 25 Eliz. the ſaid Earl did Leaſe the ſaid Houſe to Edward Hamon for 51 years, who 9 N. 26 Eliz. aſſigned all his intereſt and term for years in the ſaid houſe to William Maſhaw, who 4 Oct. 2 Jac. died thereof poſſeſſed inteſtate; after whoſe death Alice his wife took Adminiſtration of his goods, &c. and 1 Feb. 4. Jac. took to Husband the ſaid Francis Caſtilion Knight: And that the ſaid Roger Kelke Maſter of the ſaid Colledge 8 Jan. 1602 (which was in 44 Eliz.) died; and after his death Barnaby Gooche Doctor of the Civil Law was Maſter of the ſaid Colledge elect; and that the ſaid Edward Hamon in the name and ſtead of the ſaid Earl then Tenant of the ſaid Houſe, did pay to the ſaid Barnaby Gooche Maſter of the ſaid Colledge 15 l. of the rent aforeſaid, due to the Maſter and Fellows of the ſaid Colledge at the Feaſt of St. Michael 1606; which 15 l. the ſaid Barnaby Gooche then Maſter received, and by writing under his hand without a Seal acknowledged that he had received it: and that the ſaid Barnaby Gooche within five years after he [68] was choſen Maſter and Prefect and after the receipt of the ſaid rent, viz. 5 Feb. 4 Jac. into the ſaid houſe with the appurtenances, upon the poſſeſſion of the ſaid Francis Caſtillon and his wife did enter in the right of the ſaid Colledge. And the ſaid Maſter and fellows of the ſaid Colledge 5 Feb. 4 Jac. by their Indenture under their common Seal, did demiſe the ſaid houſe, with the appurtenances, to the ſaid J. Smith the Defendant for ſix years; And that the ſaid Francis Caſtillon Knight did re-enter upon the poſſeſſion of the ſaid John Smith, and made the Leaſe to Warren, as in the Declaration, who was ejected by the ſaid J. Smith, as in the Declaration. And the Queſtion which the Jury referred to the Court was, Whether upon the whole matter the entry of the ſaid J. Smith were lawful or not?

And this Caſe was argued at the Bar by Hobart then Attorney General, Mountague the Kings Serjeant and George Croke for the Plaintiff. And Yelverton the Kings Sollicitor, and Thomas Crew for the Defendant.

And in this Caſe four points were moved and argued at the Bar.

1. If the ſaid Conveyance made to Queen Elizabeth by the Maſter and Fellows of the ſaid Colledge, of the ſaid houſe, parcel of the poſſeſſions of the ſaid Colledge after the Act of 13 Eliz. were reſtrained by the ſaid Act?

2. Admitting that the ſaid conveyance were reſtrained by the ſaid Act, If the ſaid Act of 18 Eliz. hath ſupplied the defect thereof, and hath made the ſame perfect and effectual?

3. Admitting alſo, That the Act of 18 Eliz. doth not extend, nor give any force unto it, If the ſaid Fine levied, and five years paſſed, ſhall bind the right of the Maſter and Fellows of the ſaid Colledge for ever?

4. If the ſaid acceptance of the Rent by the ſaid Maſter of the ſaid Colledge ſhall diſable or conclude him to enter into the ſaid houſe? And if any of theſe two Points ſhall be adjudged againſt the Defendant, then his entry is not lawful, and by conſequence Judgment ſhall be given for the Plaintiff, Bonum defendentis ex integra cauſa, malum ex quolibet defectu.

As to the first it was objected, That by the Rule of Law, The King not being named in the Act, is by Law exempted out of the Act: for the Law giveth to the King this Prerogative, That for the [b] dignity of his Royal Person, he is not by construction of Law within these common words, Person or Persons, Bodies Politick or Corporate. And be the Statute in the Affirmative, or be it in the Negative, which is stronger, it shall not bind the King, if he be not specially named, but he shall take benefit of a Statute, although he be not named; as the Statute of West. 1. cap. 35. which setteth reasonable aid (as well to make the eldest Son Knight, as to marry the eldest Daughter) in service: It is enacted, That from henceforth of every whole Knights Fee only there be given twenty shillings, and of twenty pound land holden in soccage twenty shillings, and of more, more, and of less, less: But it was holden, That for as much as the King was not named, he was not boun den by that Law; and to set that same certain, was the Act of 25 E. 3. cap. 10. made, in which Act the King was specially named. Vide Fit. Nat. B. 82 f. acc. Also the Statute of Limitations, s. of Merton, ca. 8. West. 1. cap. 3 & 32. H. 8. cap. 2. have never bound the King. So the Stat. of West. 2. cap. 5. which giveth the plea of Plenarty by 6 months, doth not bind the King, because the Act is general, and doth not name the King. The Statute of 27 E. 1. which giveth Tryal in the Country by Nisi prius, shall not bind the King, Fitz. Nat. B. 241. b. 24 E. 3. 23, &c. So the Statute of 18 E. 1. of Quia emptores terrarum, doth not bind the King, as it is holden in 10 H. 7. 23, &c. The Statute of Magna Charta cap. 11. enacteth in the Negative, Quod communia placita non sequuntur curiam nostram, sed teneantur in aliquo loco certo; but the same doth not bind the King, as was adjudged in 23 H. 3. Bre. & 31 E. 1. Prerogative 28. for he may have a Quare Impedit in the Kings Bench. And many other Cases upon this large and common ground, which you may find in our Books, and chiefly in Plow. Com. 240. in the Lord Berkleys Case. Vide 11 H. 4. Quare Impedit 120. 11 H. 4. 87. B. Prerogative 57. 12 H. 7. 21. in Stoners Case, 4 E. 3. 34. 30 E. 3. 5. 7 H. 4. 32. 4 Mar. Dyer 145. So in the Case at Bar, for as much as the Queen was not named in the said Act of 13 Eliz. she was not bound thereby, but was at Liberty to take the grant as she was before the said Act of 13 Eliz.

Also it was urged, That alwaies after the said Act of 13 Eliz. divers Masters and Fellows of Colledges, Deans and Chapters, Masters and Wardens of Hospitals, and others having Spiritual and Ecclesiastical Livings, have made any Estates and Leases to the Queen Elizabeth, and to the King that now is, which are granted and transferred over to many persons; and all these were made by the advice of men Learned in the Law, and of the Councel Learned of the late Qu. and of the King that now is, and the change of so common and constant opinion, upon which the Estates and intents of so many men doth depend, shall be a great cause of trouble, Suits of Law, and the undoing of [69] many persons, who have not only spent their substance, or the greatest part of it upon such Estates and Leases, but also have spent much upon Buildings and other charges upon them, all which shall be utterly lost by the change of the said continual practice; and in such changes, Rerum progressus ostendunt multa quæ initio præcaveri aut provideri non possunt: And another saith, Quod in ædificiis lapis male positus non est removendus; And the Law saith, Interest Reipublicæ quod sit finis litium.

As to the second Point, It was argued by the Plaintiffs Councel, That admit the Queen were bound by the Act of 13 Eliz. yet the said Act of 18 Eliz. hath made the grant of the Queen good and effectual: for admit the said grant to the Queen were voidable afterwards, or presently void and of none effect, yet the said Act hath made it unavoidable, good and effectual: for the words are, For the perfect assurance confirmation, and further security of such assurances, conveyances and estates, &c. It is enacted, That they shall stand, remain and be good and effectual in Law to all intents, constructions and purposes, according to the true meaning and purport of the same. So that it appeareth by the words of the Act, that the full intent of the makers of it, was to make that perfect which was imperfect, and to make that assured which was not sure, and to add greater force to that (by addition of further security) which was defective before. And to this purpose the makers of the Act, not only in the said precedent words, but in those which are subsequent, are very provident and in a manner curious to take away all evasion which might be made out of it, and therefore first it is enacted, That they stand, remain, and shall be good and available in Law. And to answer a secret Objection which may be made upon words of the Act, s. All Feoffments, Fines, Assurances, Conveyances, Estates, &c. and that they ought to be sufficient, for an insufficient thing in Law is reputed as nothing; and to oust the same, these words are added, To all intents, constructions and purposes, according to the true meaning, intent and purpose thereof. So that the Act doth not say, That they shall be good and availeable according to the strict construction and operation of the Law (for if they were good and availeable in Law, then there needed not any Act to make them perfect or sure, or to add further security) but the words are, According to the true meaning, intent and purpose of them. And without question in the Case at Bar, the true intent and meaning of the Master and Fellows, and of Queen Elizabeth, and the purpose of the Indenture, was to convey the said house to the Queen, her Heirs and Successors, for so much the Indenture doth purport, although it be not of force to convey it. And it was said, That if a Bishop had made an Estate or Lease to the Queen Eliz. and afterwards the Act of 18 Eliz. were made, the same had been a good Estate or Lease to the Queen, although it was never confirmed by the Dean or Chapter. So if any Infant had levied a Fine to the Queen, or to others for the Queens behoose, that after the Act of 18 Eliz. the Infant should never reverse the said Fine for nonage. And many other Cases were put out of their own invention, which I purposely omit.

As to the third Point they argued, That the said Master and Fellows of the said Colledge were a Corporation aggregate of many, and have the entire Fee in them, and by the Stat. of 4 H. 7. shall be bound by Fine or non-claim by five years, as it is adjudged in Croft and Howels Case, Plow. Com. 538.

and

and in Stowels Caſe, Plow. Com. 376. Vide 7 E. 6. 83. Dyer, Vide 24 E. 3. 58. And that the Statute of 13 Eliz. doth not aid them in this caſe, becauſe the ſame doth extend only to Leaſes, Gifts, Grants, or other Aſſurances or Conveyances done or ſuffered, and notwithſtanding the word (Suffered) yet there ought to be an aſſurance made or ſuffered to which they ſhall be party, by a common recovery of Lands had againſt them, as the common recovery of an annuity by conſent againſt them, as it appeareth in Eytrenes Caſe, 14 El. in the Fifth Part of my Reports. But this Caſe of Fine levied between ſtrangers and non-claim by five years, was never queſtioned or doubted. And it ſhall be a great weakning to the general Aſſurance of the Realm, if this Act ſhall be conſtrued againſt the letter to exempt all thoſe named in the Act, ſo that they ſhall notbe bounden by any Fine or Non-claim.

As to the fourth point, Foraſmuch as the Maſter, who is the head of the Corporation, hath accepted of the Rent, and made an Acquittance under his hand, he hath concluded himſelf to enter during the time that he is Maſter; And foraſmuch as he is concluded, the Fellows without their Head, cannot enter, and ſo they are concluded. And upon this they concluded, That for all theſe four points, or for ſome of them, for if any of them ſhall be adjudged for the Plaintiff, Judgment ought to be given againſt the Defendant. Againſt which it was argued by the Defendants Councel and they concluded that Judgment ſhould be given for the Defendant.

And as to the firſt, which was the principal part of the Caſe, it was argued by the Defendants Council and reſolved by the Juſtices, ſ. Coke chief Juſtice, Sir John Croke, Sir John Dodderidge, and Sir Robert Houghton Juſtices, upon ſolemn Argument in Court, that the ſaid Act of 13 Eliz. did [70] extend to retein the Maſter and Fellows of the ſaid Colledge, to convey the ſaid Houſe, parcel of the Poſſeſſions of the ſaid Colledge to the Queen, although the Queen were not expreſly named in the ſaid Act.

And firſt, it was reſolved, That the general words of the Act do extend to the Queen, for the words are, To any perſon or perſons, body politick or corporate, and without queſtion the Queen was a perſon, as it is ſaid in 10 H. 7. 18. Rex eſt perſona mixta. And that ſhe was a body politick appeareth in Plow. Com. in the caſe of the Dutchy of Lancaſter, 213. and in the Lord Berkleys caſe, 234. and in many other Books. Then if the Act be general, and the Queen be clearly included within the words, if ſhe ſhall be exempt out of the Act, the ſame ought to be by conſtruction of Law; and as this caſe is, the Law ſhall not make ſuch conſtruction for the reaſons apparent in the Act it ſelf, ſ. 1. The Queen, Lords Spiritual and Temporal, and the Commons who made the ſaid Act, have adjudged, as in the preamble appeareth, long Leaſes made by Colledges, &c. to be unreaſonable, and againſt reaſon (a fortiori, an Eſtate in Fee ſimple, &c.) And the Law which is the perfection of reaſon, will never expound the words of the Act againſt reaſon. 2. The Parliament hath adjudged them cauſes of Dilapidation. 3. To be the decay of all ſpiritual livings. 4. The decay of Hoſpitality. And 5. The utter impoveriſhing of ſucceſſors incumbents in the ſame.

And upon all theſe followeth a conſequent fearful and dangerous ſ. decay of the true Religion and Spiritual worſhip of God: For it is recorded in Hiſtory, that there were amonſt others two grievous perſecutions, the one under Dioceſian, the other under Julian, ſurnamed the Apoſtate, one of them intending to have extirpated all the Profeſſors and Preachers of the Word of God; and therefore the Record ſaith, Occidit omnes Presbyteros, but notwithſtanding thatReligion did flouriſh, for, ſanguis Martyrum eſt ſemen Eccleſiæ, and yet that was a heavy and grievous perſecution: But the perſecution under the other was more grievous and dangerous, for (as the Hiſtory ſaith) occidit Presbyterium, for it robbed the Church, and ſpoiled ſpiritual perſons of the revenues, and bereft them of that whereby they ſhould live; and thereupon in ſhort time followed great ignorance of the true Religion and Service of God, and thereby great decay of the Chriſtian profeſſion; for none would apply himſelf, or his ſons, or any other he had under his charge to the ſtudy of Divinity, when they ſhould have, after a long and painful ſtudy, nothing to live upon. See all this word by word in the Biſhop of Winchesters caſe, in the Second Part of my Reports.

And therefore it was unanimouſly reſolved, That general Statutes, which provide neceſſary and [b] profitable remedy for the maintenance of Religion, the advancement of good Learning, and for the relief of the Poor, ſhall be extended generally according to their words; And God forbid that by any conſtruction the Queen who made the ſaid Act, with the aſſent of the Lords and Commons, ſhoud be exempted out of this Act of 31 Eliz. which provideth neceſſary and profitable remedy for the maintenance of Religion, the advancement of good Literature, and the relief of the poor. And out of theſe Colledges, Deans and Chapters, &c. as well the Church is furniſhed with grave and learned Divines, as the Common-wealth with learned men for the better adminiſtration of Juſtice as well Temporal as Eccleſiaſtical; which (ſ. Religion and Juſtice) are the main Pillars which ſupport the Kings Crown.

And therefore of all others the King, as hath been ſaid, is perſona mixta, Medicus Regni, Pater Patriæ, & Sponſus Regni: Who by a Ring is wedded to the Realm at his Coronation, ſhall not be exempted out of this Act by conſtruction of Law, which ſhall be againſt reaſon, and cauſe of Dilapidations, decay of ſpiritual livings, and hoſpitality, and utter impoveriſhing of ſucceſſors, and by conſequence the decay of Religion, and Juſtice ſhall follow. And therefore it is true, quod ſumma ratio eſt quæ pro Religione facit: And Weſt. 1. cap. ult. ſumma Charitas eſt facere Juſtitiam ſingulis, & omni tempore quando neceſſe fuerit. And it is to know, That the Law will never preſume that any one will do a thing againſt reaſon, or any Religious duty.

And therefore it is reſolved in Chomeleys caſe, in the Second Part of my Reports, Whereas a Reverſion expectant upon an Eſtate in tail is granted to one for the life of the Tenant in tail and it was ſaid, That by poſſibility this grant might take effect, for the Tenant in tail having no iſſue, might become Monk and enter into Religion, and then the Grantee might have it during his natural life: But there it is reſolved, That ſuch ſuperſtitious and irreligious profeſſion ſhall not be preſumed in Law. 1*M.*10. *H.*6.8. John S. brought an action of debt againſt Johan Rect. de T. in Com. B. The Defendant ſaid that he was before the Writ brought, dwelling at B. in the County of N. and it was not allowed; for a Parſon ſhall be intended in Law to be reſident upon his Benefice, for the cure of Souls which he had there. For a Parſon who hath cure of Souls, and is non reſident, non eſt diſpenſator ſed diſſipator, non ſpeculator ſed ſpiculator, and therefore no ſuch thing ſhall be preſumed.

[71] So in the caſe at Bar, the Law ſhall never make conſtruction againſt the maintenance of Religion, advancement of Learning, and ſuſtenance of the Poor. It is enacted by the Statute of 1 & 2 Ph. & Ma. cap. 8. That it ſhall be lawful, &c. to give Lands, Tenements, &c. by feoffment, grant, or other aſſurance, or by his laſt Will and Teſtament in writing, to any ſpiritual body politick or corporate, notwithſtanding the Statute of Mortmain. One Allaine Clarke ſeized of certain lands in London in Fee, 4. & 5. Phil. & Mar. by his laſt Will in writing deviſed them to the Maſter, Fellows and Scholars of Trinity Colledge in Cambridge, and to their ſucceſſors for ever, for the finding of certain Grammar Scholars, &c. And *Mich.*8.9.Eliz. A great queſtion was moved.

1. Although the ſaid Colledge conſiſted not only of Divines, but of others alſo.

2. That the intent was to find Grammar Scholars, &c.

3. That in the Statute of 34. & 35. *H.*8. of Explanation of Wills, bodies politick and corporate are exempted out of it.

Yet by the opinion of all the Juſtices of both Benches, and the chief Baron of the Exchequer, the deviſe was holden to be good; and the Statute of 1. & 2. Phil. & Mary (being made for the maintenance of Religion, advancement of Learning, and the exhibition of poor Scholars) ought to be favourably expounded; and although the lands were holden of the King, yet in ſuch caſes the Act was expounded to bind the King. See the words of the Stat. 4. *H.*7. of fines are general. Yet the ſucceſſor of a Biſhop, Parſon, Vicar, or any other ſole Corporation, ſhall not be bound by conſtruction of Law as a corporation aggregate of many ſhall be; for there the Biſhop without the Dean and Chapter, the Parſon and Vicar, without the Patron and Ordinary, &c. might by their ſufferance bind their ſucceſſors, which ſhould be cauſe of Dilapidations, and diminution of ſpiritual livings. And therefore by conſtruction of the general law ſhall be excepted, as it is holden in Stowels caſe, in Plow. Com. 376. and Howels caſe Plow. Com. 538.. By the Statute of 23*H.*8.*cap.*10. It is enacted,, That all conveyances made to the uſe of Pariſh Churches, Church-wardens, Guilds, Companies erected of devotion, or common aſſent, &c. and all other like uſes and intents, ſhould be void.

And one Nicholas Guibſon being ſeized of a houſe and Wharf in London, after the ſaid Act deviſed them to Avis his Wife, upon condition to found a Free-School, and for the ſuſtenance of certain poor men and women, and it was queſtioned if this condition were againſt the ſaid Act of 23.*H.*8. Mich. 34. & 35. Eliz. as it appeareth in the Firſt Part of my Reports.

[b] And it is there adjudged, that the ſaid general words of the Act of 23.*H.*8. do not extend to take away the ſaid good and charitable uſes, for inſtruction of youth in good Literature, and for ſuſtenance of the poor; for there it is ſaid, That no time was ſo barbarous to take away learning and knowledge, nor no time ſo uncharitable, to take away the ſuſtenance of poor people: So that it appeareth by theſe caſes, That by conſtruction of Law, lands conveyed for the advancement of Learning, or Suſtenance of the poor, have been preſerved and maintained by the general words of the ſaid Act.

But it was never ſeen, That a general Act, made for the maintenance of Religion, advancement of Learning, and maintenance of the Poor, ſhould be by the conſtruction of Law ſo expounded, that a by-way ſhould be left open, by which the ſaid great and dangerous miſchiefs ſhould remain, and the neceſſary and profitable remedy depreſſed. For the Office of Judges is, to make conſtructions which ſhall repreſs the miſchief, and advance the remedy, and to ſuppreſs all evaſions for the continuance of the miſchiefs, and ſuch by-way ſhall never be erected by conſtruction, although it be for the Kings benefit: And that appeareth by the Act of 1.El. By which Archbiſhops and Biſhops are reſtrained to make any conveyance, &c. other then for 3 lives, or 21 years, to any perſon or perſons, bodies politick or corporate, other than to the Queen, her Heirs and Succeſſors; out of which there are three material things to be obſerved.

1. That the Queen had been included within the ſaid words, Perſon and perſons, body politick, &c. if the ſaid excluſion or exception had not been made.

2. That if the ſaid by-way had not been contained in the ſame Act, the ſame had never been raiſed by a conſtruction in Law.

3. That foraſmuch as the ſame words are uſed in the ſaid Act of 13. Eliz. 1. to any perſon or perſons, bodies politick or corporate, and no exception or excluſion made of the Queen; by conſequence it appeareth, that it was the meaning of the makers of the ſaid Act, that the Queen ſhould be bound thereby, and ſo much the rather, becauſe they had ſo good a pattern before them as the Act of 1. Eliz. was, for the ſupportation of the Crown; and although the true intent of the ſaid Act of 1 Eliz. was for the ſupportation of the Crown, yet by importunity of Suitors many Eſtates and Leaſes were made to the Queen by Arch Biſhops and Biſhops with intent to grant them over to Subjects to private uſes; which the King that is now perceiving, of his pious and religious care, That the Poſſeſſions of the Archb. and Biſhops ſhould not be diminiſhed by the ſaid by-way, by an Act of Parliament in the firſt year of his Reign, in the firſt Seſſion thereof cap. 3. reciting, That where Archbiſhops biſhops and Biſhops by the Law could not convey any of their Poſſeſſions to other Subjects, His moſt Excellent Majeſty knowing, That divers with great ſuit had endeavoured to fruſtrate the true intent of the Law, of his Chriſtian and Princely piety and care intending to protect the ſaid poſſeſſion from alienation or diminution, for the better maintenance of Gods true Religion and Hoſpitality, and for avoiding of Dilapidations, and thereby for ever after to avoid all Suits and importunities concerning the ſaid Poſſeſſions hath of his meer and pious motion vouchſafed, that it ſhall be enacted, that every Arch-biſhop and Biſhop and their Succeſſors ſhall be after the end of the ſame Seſſion of Parliament, utterly diſabled in Law, to make, levy or ſuffer any alienation, aſſurance, demiſe, charge or conveyance of their poſſeſſions to the King his Heirs or ſucceſſors: And that every ſuch alienation, &c. ſhall be utterly void and of none effect to all intents, conſtructions and purpoſes. The ſecond reaſon is, That the King ſhall not be exempt by conſtruction of Law, out of the general words of acts made to ſuppreſs wrong, becauſe he is the Fountain of Juſtice and common Right; and the King, being Gods Lieutenant, cannot do wrong, Solum Rex hoc hon poteſt facere, quod non poteſt injuſte agere; and therewith agreeth 13 E.4.8. and the caſe of Alton woods, in the firſt part of my Reports &c. And although that a right was remedileſs, yet the Act which provideth neceſſary and profitable remedy for the preſervation of it, and to ſuppreſs wrong, ſhall bind the King, as it appeareth in the Lord Berkelyes Caſe, Pl. Com. 246. If tenant in tail before the ſtatute of Donis, had alienᵈ either before Iſſue to bar the Iſſue in tail, or after Iſſue, to bar as well the Donor as the Iſſue in tail, it was tortious, but no remedy was given for the ſame, till the ſtatute of Donis conditionalibus, made 13 E.1. which Act ſaith Dominus Rex perpendens, quod neceſſarium & utile eſt in præd. caſibus apponere remedium, &c. ſtatuit, quod non habeant illi, quibus tenementum ſic fuit datum ſub conditione poteſtatem alienandi, &c. And the Lord Berkelyes Caſe was, That Land was given to King *H.*7. and to the Heirs males of his body; and the queſtion was, Whether the King, foraſmuch as he was not expreſly reſtrained in the Act poſt prolem maſculum ſuſcitatum, might alien or not? and it was adjudged, That he could not alien, but that he is reſtrained by the ſaid Act, for three cauſes.

1. Becauſe that ſuch alienation before the ſtatute was wrongfull, although that ſuch wrong wanted remedy; for there it is ſaid, It ſhall be a hard argument to grant that the Statute which reſtraineth men to do wrong and ill; ſhould permit the King ſo to do.

2. Foraſmuch as the ſaid Act is, ſtatutum remediale, and provideth a remedy for this remedileſs wrong, and that it was neceſſary and profitable to provide ſuch remedy, it was adjudged, That it ſhould bind the King. [b]

3. Becauſe it was an Act for the preſervation of the poſſeſſions of Noble men, Gentlemen and others, the ſame alſo ſhould bind the King; and the ſame Act ſhall not bind the King onely when he taketh an eſtate in his natural capacity, as to him, and the Heirs males of his body, but alſo when he claimeth an Inheritance as King by his prerogative: And therefore if Tenant in tail, after the ſaid Act, be attainted of Treaſon, although the King claim the forfeiture as King by his prerogative. Yet the King is bound by the ſaid Act, for there ſhall be no forfeiture to bar the Iſſue in tail; as it was at the common Law, as it is holden in 7 *H.*4.31. 8 *H.*4.9.7. *R.*2. Aide del Roy. So in the caſe at Bar, the ſaid Act of 13 Eliz. hath all the ſaid three qualities. For,

1. It was to ſuppreſs wrong: For Dilapidations and diminution of ſpiritual livings or wrongs, and ſuch wrongs as are quodam modo, puniſhed by the Law, for the Maſter, Dean, &c. for Dilapidations or waſting, or diminution of the Revenues of their houſe, might be deprived, as appeareth in 29 E. 3. 16. 2 *H.*4.3. 11 *H.*6.20. *H.*6.46.9 *E.*4.34.35 *E.*1. Reſolved in a Parliament holden at Carliſle, which ſee before in Richard Liſords Caſe, and a notable preſident in 19 *E.*3. Rex amovit cuſtodem hoſpitalis de ſuo Patronatu, quia malo diſpendit profiua domus, &c. becauſe it is againſt the office and duty to waſte the poſſeſſions of their houſes, which are committed to them pro bono publico.

2. This Act of 13 El. is, actus remedialis, and was neceſſary and profitable to provide ſuch remedy for the publick good of the whole Eccleſiaſtical eſtate, &c. [c]

3. This Act is an Act of preſervation, to preſerve the poſſeſſions of Colledges, Deans and Chapters, Hoſpitals; and therefore for theſe three cauſes it ſhall bind the Queen.

And where it is enacted by the Statute of *Weſt.*2. *cap.*5. Quod quotieſcunque aliquis jus non habens tempore hujuſmodi cuſtodiar' præſentaverit, &c. It was reſolved by Coke, Chief Juſtice, Dodderige and Houghton Juſtices, That that Act made to ſuppreſs wrong, ſhould bind the King, and to the Law is well reſolved in a caſe which was left doubtfull in 35 *H.*6.60. Rateliffes Caſe.

And to conclude this reaſon, it is notably ſaid in 24 *E.*3.41. That the Law is reaſon and equity, to do right to all, and to keep men from wrong and miſchief, and therefore the Law ſhall never make any conſtruction againſt Law, Equity, and Right.

The third Reaſon is, That the general words of Statutes, which tend to perform the will of the Founder or Donor, ſhall bind the King, although he be not named. And the ſame appeareth in the Statute of Templers, 17 *E.*2. where it is ſaid, Ita ſemper quod pia & celeberrima voluntas Donator' in omnibus teneatur & expleatur, & perpetuo ſanctiſſime perſeveret. And the ſaid Act of Donis, &c. is notable to this purpoſe, for there it appeareth, that it was neceſſary and profitable that the will of the Donor ſhould be kept; the words of which Act to this purpoſe, are; Propter quod Dominus Rex perpendens quod neceſſarium & utile eſt, &c. apponere remedium (and what was ſuch remedy) ſtatuit quod voluntas donatoris in carta doni ſui manifeſte expreſſa de cætero obſervetur; which bound the King, as it is adjudged in the ſaid Lord Berkleys Caſe; where *f.*247. it is ſaid, That men ought to obſerve the intent and will of other men, and to break that which is ill. And in the Caſe at Bar, the intent of the Founder of the ſaid Colledge was for the maintenance of Divines, the advancement of Liberal Arts and Sciences, and the bringing up of Youth in Vertue and Learning, which God forbid ſhould not be [73] performed; and therefore it is a ſtronger caſe, and in a more Godly and publick Degree then the ſaid Act De Donis, &c. which was enacted for the preſervation of private Eſtate tailes to particular Families.

The fourth Reaſon is, That the Maſter and Fellowes of the ſaid Colledge are by the Act diſabled to grant; and then if they be diſabled to grant, the Queen cannot take from thoſe who are ſo diſabled: The words of the Act are, All Leaſes, Gifts, Grants, &c. to be made, &c. or ſuffered by any Maſter or Fellows of any Colledge, &c. ſhall be utterly void and of none effect, to all intents, conſtructions and purpoſes, any Law, Cuſtome or uſage to the contrary notwithſtanding; which is as much as to ſay, That every Maſter and Fellows of a Colledge ſhall be diſabled to make any Leaſe, Gift, Grant, &c. but that every ſuch Leaſe, Gift, Grant, &c. ſhall be utterly void to every intent and purpoſe; for when by Authority of Parliament the Grants to be made by any Maſter or Fellows of a Colledge are made utterly void to all intents, &c. thereby the Maſter and Fellows are diſabled by Parliament to make any Grant; for in every Grant there ought to be Grantor, Grantee, and thing granted; and when the Grant of a thing is made void thereby, the Grantor is diſabled to grant it. But this diſability is not ſimpliciter, but ſecundum quid, for if the Maſter and Fellowes of a Colledge make ſuch a Grant, it ſhall not be avoided by the Maſter himſelf, but by the Succeſſor, as it was reſolved in this Caſe, and often times has been reſolved before.

[b] The fifth Reaſon is. In Acts of Parliament, which are to be conſtrued according to the intent and meaning of the makers of them, the original intent and meaning is to be obſerved; and it appeareth that the intent and meaning of the Maſter and Fellows was, That they would convey the ſaid houſe to Benedict Spinola and his Heirs, and becauſe they could not do it de directo, they attempted to do it ex obliquo, to grant the ſame to the Queen and her Succeſſors, but upon condition contained in the ſame Grant, That the Queen within three months after ſhould grant the ſaid Houſe to the ſaid Benedict Spinola and his Heirs: So that it was endeavoured, That the Queen who was the Fountain of Juſtice, ſhould thereby be made the Inſtrument of Injury and wrong; and of the breaking of a pious and excellent Law which ſhe her ſelf had made for the maintenance of Religion, advancement of the Liberal Arts and Sciences, and for ſuſtenance of the poor. And where the Maſter and Fellows were ſeiſed of the ſaid Houſe to them and their ſucceſſors for ever, in jure Collegii pro bono publico, and to godly and charitable uſes, now the ſame ſhould be converted for the private uſe of Spinola and his Heirs for ever; and ſo (as the Statute of Carliſle An. 35 E. 1. ſpeaketh) Quod olim in uſus pios ad divini cultus augmentum & cætera opera pietatis charitatiſve fuit erogatum, nunc in ſenſum reprobum eſt converſum. And the Poet doth well reprehend that.

——— Fuit hæc ſapientia quondam,
Publica privatis ſecernere, ſacra profanis.

And it was reſolved, That the Law will never make an interpretation to advance a private and to deſtroy the publick, but always to advance the publick, and to prevent every private, which is odious in Law in ſuch caſes, And therefore it is well ſaid in Heydons Caſe, in the Third Part of my Reports, The Office of Judges is always to make ſuch conſtruction to repreſs the miſchief and to advance the remedy; and to repreſs ſubtill evaſions and inventions for the continuance of the miſchief, & pro privato Commodo, and to add force and life to the cure and remedy, according to the true intention and meaning of the makers of the Act, pro bono publico. And if it ſhall be lawfull for Maſters and Fellows of Colledges, Deans and Chapters, &c. to convey to the Queen with ſuch Conditions to grant to a ſubject; without queſtion ſuch conſtruction ſhall tend to the continuance of the miſchief, & pro privato commodo: And therefore in 17 Ed. 3. 59. The Friers Carmelites, who [74] then had not any place of habitation, obtained of one John Merite who was ſeiſed of ten Acres of Meadow, holden of the Biſhop of Winchester, to have the ſaid Land for a place of habitation, for them; and becauſe the ſaid John Merite, could not grant the ſaid ten Acres to them by reaſon of the Statute of Mortmain, by covin betwixt the ſaid John Merite, and the Friers Carmelites to take away the Biſhops Seignorie, which was the impediment; The ſaid John Merite, to take an evaſion out of the Statute of Mortmain, granted the ſaid ten Acres to the King, his Heirs and Succeſſors, whereby the Biſhops Seigniorie ſhould be extinct, to the intent that the King ſhould grant over the ſame to the Friers Carmelites, which he did accordingly; And becauſe it was by Covin betwixt them, as aforeſaid, to take away the Biſhops Seigniory, It was adjudged that the ſaid Charter ſhould be repealed, and that the Fries Carmelites ſhould be diſtrained to deliver the Charter to be Cancelled. Out of which Caſe, five things were obſerved.

1. That he who maketh the King, who is the Fountain of Juſtice to be the Inſtrument of fraud [63] and covin, and thereupon obtaineth Letter. Patents, that they are void, quia dolus circuitu non tollitur.

2. If the King be endeavoured to be made an Inſtrument to take away the right of another, and to that end a man attaineth Letters Patents, that ſuch Letters Patents ſhall be repealed.

3. That although ſuch Covin and Fraud was not contained in the grant made to the King, but appeareth onely by advancement, yet the Patent ſhall be repealed.

4. Although the Friers Carmelites were of a profeſſion of Religion, and had not any Houſe of habitation before, ſo that the ſame ſeemed to be a work of piety and charity to provide for the habitation of them; yet, Non facias malum, ut inde fiat bonum.

5. That ſuch Charter, ſo obtained, was adjudged to be repealed by the Common Law, and the like caſe was, 21 E. 46. b. The Maſter and Scholars of Mertons Caſe. See in Bracton, in the beginning ginning of his ſecond Book. Nihil aliud poteſt Rex in terris, cum ſit Dei Miniſter & Vicarius, quam quod de jure poteſt. And a little after, Itaque poteſtas juris ſua eſt, non injuriæ, (and obſerve well) cum ſit author juris, non debet inde injuriarum naſci occaſio, unde jura naſcuntur. And the Chief Juſtice ſaid, That if one who intendeth to ſell his Land, had by fraud conveyed the ſame by Deed indented to the Queen, to the intent to deceive the purchaſor, and afterwards he ſelleth the Land to another for valuable conſideration, and maketh conveyance accordingly: in this caſe the purchaſor ſhall enjoy the Land againſt the Queen, by the Statute of 27 Eliz. 4. for although the Queen is not excepted, yet the Act being general, and made to ſuppreſs fraud, it ſhall bind the Queen.

So if Tenant in Tail be ſeiſed of Land, the Remainder over in Tail or in Fee, and he in the remainder knowing that the Tenant in Tail will alien the Land, and by recovery bar the remainder to the intent to debar the Tenant in tail of his Birth-right and power which the Law giveth him to [b] bar the remainder, and of purpoſe and intent to deceive the purchaſor granteth his remainder to the Queen by Deed inrolled, and afterwards Tenant in tail for valuable conſideration alieneth the Land by a common Recovery, and dieth without Iſſue, the purchaſor ſhall enjoy the Land againſt the Queen, by the ſaid Statute of 23 Eliz. the words of which are, That every conveyance, &c. made, &c. ſhall be deemed onely againſt ſuch purchaſor, &c. to be utterly void; In which words it is to be obſerved. That ſuch former fraudulent conveyance made by the ſeller himſelf, is not onely reſtrained, but generally, That every conveyance made of purpoſe and intent to deceive a purchaſor, ſhall be void; And therefore the conveyance of the remainder to the Queen, of purpoſe and intent to deceive a purchaſor is directly within the words and purview of the Act.

And of ſuch opinion was Popham, Chief Juſtice, openly in the Exchequer Chamber. And the ſaid Caſes of 17 E. 3. 59 & 21 E. 3. 46. are ſtronger then this is, where the party grieved was relieved by the Common Law, foraſmuch as the King cannot be an inſtrument of fraud and deceit; & cum ſit author juris, non debet inde injuriarum naſci occaſio, unde jura naſcuntur. See Cholmeley's Caſe in the Second Part of my Reports.

And it was ſaid, That the Law hath given to the King a great prerogative above his Subjects, that where by fraud or falſe ſuggeſtion he is deceived, that he himſelf in ſuch caſes ſhall avoid his own Grant, jure Regio, and the ſame appeareth, 21 E. 3. 47. in the Earl of Kents Caſe, and Stamford prerogative. 84. a.

The ſixth reaſon, That the Statute hath made void all Leaſes, Grants, &c. other then for 21 years, or 3 lives, whereupon the accuſtomed Rent or more is reſerved, which expreſs and demonſtrate of theſe two particular caſes, do exclude all others. And as to all the Caſes which have been put on the other ſide, It was reſolved,

1. That none of them do impugne any of theſe Reaſons or Grounds.

2. That where the King hath any Prerogative, Eſtate, Right, Title or Intereſt, that by general words of an Act he ſhall not be barred of them, as in the ſaid caſe of reaſonable aid, the King hath an Eſtate and intereſt in it, and therefore the general words of the Act of Weſt. 1. cap. 46. ſhall not extend to it.

Alſo the King hath a prerogative quod nullum tempus occurrit Regi, and therefore the general Acts of Limitations, or of Plenarty do not extend to him.

So the King by his Prerogative may ſue in what County he pleaſe, and of this Prerogative he is [75] not barred by the general purview of the Act of Magna Charta, cap. 11. And ſo of the reſt.

But in the Caſe at Bar, the King is not excluded of any Right, Eſtate, Title, Intereſt or Prerogative that he had before the Act in the ſame Houſe; and therefore for all theſe Reaſons it was concluded, That this Act of 13 Eliz. ſhould bind the Queen.

Note Reader, That the general Statute of 32 H. 8. cap. 36. of Fines for avoiding of controverſies ſhall bind the King, as it appeareth in the Seventh part of my Reports. As to the number of the Leaſes which have been made after the Statute of 13 Eliz. by Maſters and Fellows of Colledges, Deans and Chapters, Maſters of Hoſpitals, &c. To that it was anſwered.

1. That the ſame was more ex conſuetudine Clericorum, who imitated preſidents of Leaſes made before 13 El. then of any grave advice of men learned in the Law.

2. Multitudo errantium non parit errori patrocinium.

3. The inconvenience is greater and doth concern more perſons, and in a more high degree in this part then on the other; for in the famous Univerſities of Cambridge and Oxford there are 42 Colledges, beſides the Colledges of Weſtminſter, Wincheſter, of Eaton, and Greſham. Dignities and Prebends in Cathedral Churches 400. 24 Deans and Chapters, Archdeacons, Parſonages and Vicarages 8803, Hoſpitals an exceeding great number; ſo as to give to all theſe power from time to time for ever by a mean, or by way to alien the poſſeſſors of the Colleges, Deans and Chapters, Archdeacons, Prebends, Parſonages and Vicarages, Hoſpitals, &c. which were given to Religious Pious, Charitable and publick uſes, ſhall be of greater inconvenience and conſequence then the overthrowing of certain Eſtates and Leaſes made after the Act of 13 Eliz. of the poſſeſſions either of Eccleſiaſtical perſons, or of the poor, originally given for the maintenance of works of piety and charity, and now transferred to private perſons, and converted to private uſes, and the reſtoring of thoſe poſſeſſors to their original foundation or indowment. 1. for the maintenance of Religion, the advancement of the Liberal Arts and Sciences, ſuſtenance of the poor, and other works of charity, pro bono publico.

4. The ſame ſhall tend to the great prejudice of Arch-biſhops and Biſhops, for if Deans and [b] Chapters ſhall have power to alien; not onely their poſſeſſions, but their Cathedral Churches; where ſhall then be Cathedra Epiſcopi? or where ſhall be his Prebends? qui præberent auxilium Epiſcopo, in consultation for the suppressing of Heresies or Errors, and the true instruction of men in Religion and the spiritual worship of God committed to their charge, and in the celebration of Divine Service, &c. So of Arch-deacons, &c.

in

5. There never was any judicial opinion in any Court, That the Queen was not bound by the Act of 13 Eliz. but on the other side, it was resolved in the highest Court of Justice, That Queen Elizabeth was bound by the said Act, and therefore it was resolved in Parliament, holden in 43 El. by Popham and Anderson, Chief Justices assistants to the Lords in Parliament: That the Queen was bound by the said Act of 13 El. which I have reported in my Fifth Book, in the case of Ecclesiastical persons, which resolution of the Judges, the Lords and Commons in Parliament allowed of. And therefore in the Act of Confirmations at the same Parliament of Grants, &c. made to the Queen, and of Grants made by the Queen, s. 43 Eliz. cap. 1. in the clause of Grants made to the Queen, there is an exception in these words (other then Conveyances and Estates heretofore had or made by any Ecclesiastical person or persons, bodies politick or corporate, not having power or ability by the Laws of the Realm to make the same) by which words the whole Parliament did well approve of the said resolution of the Judges as to this point.

Also at the Parliament holden 1 Jacobi when the Bishops Will was read to restrain them to convey to the King, &c. It was moved by the most Reverend Arch-bishop Whitgift, That Deans and Chapters, and others having Ecclesiastical livings, should be restrained and inserted in the said Bill also, as well as Arch-bishops and Bishops.

And it was again resolved by the Justices assistants at the same time, That they were restrained by the Statute of 13 Eliz. to make any Conveyance to the King of any part of their possessions; and so it was said, It had been resolved before that time and for that cause they were left out of the said Bill, concerning the disability of Arch-bishops and Bishops at the same Parliament of 1 Jac. And of what Authority the resolution of the Judges assistants in Parliament is, appeareth in 39 E. 3. 1 b. The Duke of Lancaster and Blanch his Wife brought a Scire facias against the Lady Latimer, and question was moved concerning the abatement of the said Judicial Writ. And there Thorp Chief Justice did relate to the Court, That he was in Parliament when such question was debated, and there it was resolved, That the Writ shoul not abate.

To which Chavendish Serjeant said, My Lords, you are Judges, and we have not other Judges then you in this place; also that which was resolved in Parliament is not of Record, and if you shall [76] adjudge that we shall answer, we will answer.

To which Thorp Chief Justice (who gave the rule) said, We who are Judges may record it so soon at it was in writing, and that it was adjudged there, we will not judge the contrary, wherefore answer; upon which Book the Chief Justice did strongly rely, as well for the Authority of the resolution of the Judges in Parliament, as for the credit of the Report of the Judges.

Note Reader, As it is observed in the Case of 43 Eliz. f. 14. the said Act of 13 Eliz. hath been always construed beneficially to prevent all inventions or evasions against the true intention of the same Act as it appeareth by the divers resolutions there reported. And also, That oftentimes it hath been holden, That where the Statute saith Master and Fellows of any Colledge, be the Colledge, incorporate by the same name, or by the name of Warden and Fellows, or Warden and Scholars, or Warden Fellows and Scholars, or by the name of Master, Fellows and Scholars, or Master and Scholars, or Provost, Fellows and Scholars, or by any other name of Corporation; and be the Colledge temporal for the advancement of the Liberal Arts and Sciences, or meer Ecclesiastical, or mixt, every such Colledge is within the provision of this Act; the same Law where the Statute saith, Master or Warden of any Hospital, be the Hospital incorporated by any other name or be a sole Corporation, or a Corporation agregate of many persons, the Statute doth extend to all manner of Hospitals, & sic de cæteris, for this Act hath been always taken in a favourable construction.

As to the second Point, it was resolved, That the Statute of 18 Eliz. hath not given any force or effect to the said Grant made by the Queen, but that after this Act the Grant doth remain of the same force as it was before this Act; and that for three causes.

1. This conveyance to the Queen is out of the words of the Act of 18 Eliz. for two causes.

1. Because the words of the Statute are, Where since the 18 day of November, in the first year of her Majesties Reign, divers and sundry Manors, Lands, Tenements, &c, have been conveyed and assured to her Highness, her Heirs and Successors, by and from divers and sundry persons and bodies politick, as well for satisfaction of great debts and sums of money, as for the other good considera-
[b] tions; for the perfect assurance, confirmation, and further surety whereof, Be it enacted, That all feoffments, Fines, Surrenders, Assurances, Conveyances and Estates, to or from our Sovereign Lady the Queen her Heirs and Successors, by or from any person or persons, bodies Politick or Corporate of any Manors, Lands, Tenements, for any debt, sum or sums of money, or other consideration whatsoever shall stand, &c. good, &c. So that it appeareth, That onely such conveyances are established by this, Act, which are for satisfaction of debts and sums of money, or other good consideration; which words in the Preamble are joyned to the body of the Act, for presently after the same words, the Statute saith For the perfect assurance, &c. whereof, Be it enacted. And therefore although the words are in the body of the Act (For any debt, sum of money, or other consideration whatsoever) leaving out (Good) before consideration; yet it is necessarily implied, not only by the said connexion of the Preamble to the purview, but also is implied in the word (Consideration) For An. 16. Eliz. Dyer 336 b. Consideration is described to be a cause or occasion meritorious, requiring a mutual recompence in Fact or in Law: And in asmuch as the said Grant to Queen Elizabeth was not for any debt, sum of money, nor

nor other good consideration, for this cause the said grant was out of the words of the said Act: And it was observed, that the Queen should never pay the said Rent reserved upon the said Grant, for the rent is payable only at the Feast of St. Michael the Archangel, and by force of the said condition which is compulsariè, the Queen ought to grant the same over before the first day of April, or forfeit her Estate.

2. There was not only omission of good consideration, but also an addition of an ill and fraudulent practice, to make the Queen who was the Fountain of Justice, to be an instrument, and that compulsarily by condition (which in truth was against the honour and dignity of the Queen) to convey the same unto a Subject, the said Benedict Spinola, and all the same to make an evasion (if it might be) out of the said Act of 13 Eliz.

3. Admitting that the said Grant had been for satisfaction of debt, or other good consideration, yet the said Act of 18 Eliz, shall not be extended to this case; for the better apprehension of which, and for the true understanding and construction of the said Act, it is to know, That as to this purpose there are five kinds of disabilities or imperfections whereby deeds or other instruments or conveyances to the Queen may be impeached.

1. In respect of the disabilities of the person of the Grantor.
2. By reason of the nature of the thing.
3. Of the estate of the Grantee.
4. Of the manner of the Grant, that it hath not legal Foundation.
5. In respect of the omission of any circumstance required by Law, but having a firm commencement or foundation.

As for the first. Persons are disabled either by Common-Law, or by Act of Parliament; by the Common-Law, as by reason of Infancy, profession, ideocy, non sanæ memoriæ, coverture, &c. Also of [77] these disabilities by Common-Law, some are absolute, as Infants or Monks, who cannot do any thing shall bind them, but that by the Law the same may be in time avoided: And some disabilities are secundum quid and not simpliciter; and therefore, If an Ideot, non compos mentis, feme covert, make any conveyance, if it be not by fine or recovery they are avoidable. So a Bishop without the Dean and Chapter, a Parson or Vicar without the Patron and Ordinary, a Prebend without the Bishop, Dean and Chapter, &c. and other the like, have power to dispose of their possessions during their incumbency, but not to prejudice their Successors. Disability by Parliament, as Masters and Fellows of Colledges, Deans and Chapters, and others named in the Act of 13 Eliz. and now Archbishops and Bishops by the Statute of 1 Jac. cap. 3. all which are disabled to do any thing in prejudice of their Successors.

As to the second. In respect of the nature of the thing granted, As if the Donee in Tail holdeth of his donor by Fealty, and the donor by deed enrolled granteth Fealty to the King, this Grant is meerly void, because it is an incident inseperable to the reversion, as it is holden in 26 Ass. p. 66. So if a Founder of a Colledge, &c. will grant his Foundership to the King, the Grant is void; although it be by deed inrolled, for that it is inseparable to the blood, as it is holden in tempr. H. 8. Brook.

As to the third, in respect of the Estate; as if Tenant in Tail of Land by deed inrolled granteth the Land to the Queen in Fee, it shall not bind the issue in Tail in respect of his estate.

4. As to the manner of the Grant, which hath not a legal foundation; as if a man seised of Lands in Fee, granteth the Land after his death to the Queen, and her heirs and successors, or such like, which are against the Rules of Law.

5. As to the omission of some circumstances: As if a man seised of Lands in Fee, by deed, in satisfaction of a debt or sum of money, or other good consideration, granteth the same to the Queen, her Heirs and Successors, and this Deed were never inrolled, here was a good beginning, but it wanted inrollment.

For the first. It is to know, That the general words of the Act of 18 Eliz. shall not enable any person to make any conveyance, who was disabled by the Common-Law: As if an Infant had conveyed Land to the Queen by deed enrolled, the same is not established by the said Act, because that the person of the Infant, during the time of his minority was utterly disabled: So if an Infant levy a fine to the Queen before the said Act of 18 Eliz. and afterwards the said Act was made, yet the Infant notwithstanding the Statute may reverse the fine by Writ of Error; and so was it resolved M. 32. & [b] 33 Eliz. in B. R. by Wray Chief Justice, and the whole Court in Vaughan's Case. And the reason thereof is proved by the Rule of our old Books, 5 in 22 E. 3. Crown 276. It is enacted by the Statute of West. cap. 12. Quod si appellatus de felonia, &c. se acquietaverit, &c. restituant hujusmodi appellatores damna appellatis. And the Case was, That an appeal of death was brought against a Monk, who was acquitted, and thereupon he prayed his damages according to the said Act, but (because that the Monk was a person disabled by the Common-Law to recover any damages, and the general words of the Act do not enable any person who is disabled by the Common-Law) for this cause it is there holden, That he shall not have any damages: the same Law is there holden, If an appeal be brought against a feme covert and she be acquit, she shall not have damages, for that she is disabled by the Law to sue alone.

It is enacted by the Statute of Marlebridg cap. 6. That the Lord by Knights service shall not lose the Wardship by Feoffment made by collusion, Verumtamen non licet eis hujusmodi feoffatos sine judicio disseisire, sed brevia habeant de hujusmodi Custodia sibi reddenda; yet if the tenant infeoffeth the Villain of the Lord upon collusion, the Lord may enter and expel him, and shall not be put to an Action, as it is holden 33 H. 6. 16. for the general words of the Act shall not enable the Villain who is disabled against his Lord by the Common-Law; and therefore if the Lord bringeth an Action against him, according to the words of the Law, he shall be Enfranchized: à fortiori in the Case at Bar, when the Maſter and Fellows of the ſaid Colledge are diſabled by the Act of Parliament of 13 Eliz. to make a Grant to bind their ſucceſſors, the general words of the Act of 18 Eliz. ſhall not enable them to make any Eſtate againſt the ſaid Act of 13 Eliz. So if a Biſhop without the aſſent of the Dean and Chapter, by Deed inrolled, had granted Lands to the Queen her heirs and ſucceſſors, and afterwards the Stat. of 18 Eliz. is made, this grant is not made good againſt the ſucceſſor: for the perſon of the Biſhop is diſabled to grant the ſame without the aſſent of the Dean and Chapter to bind his ſucceſſor. And ſo it was reſolved, 23 Eliz. as the Lord Dyer reporteth, which I have under his hand, but the ſame is left out of the Printed Book: the ſame Law of a Prebend, Parſon, &c.

But know Reader, That there is a difference between a general Act, ſ. by or from any perſon or perſons, bodies Politick or Corporate, as the ſaid Act of 18 Eliz. and an Act which doth ſpecifie and mention particular kinds of Bodies politick and corporate, as the Statute of 1 E. 6. cap. 4. of [78] Chantries towards the end, by which it is enacted, That every Gift and Grant heretofere made to the late King and his heirs, or to our Soveraign Lord the King that now is, and to his heirs, by any Archbiſhop, Dean, Archdeacon, Treaſurer, Prebendary, &c. of any Mannors, Lands, Tenements, &c. to any of the ſaid Benefices, Prebends, &c. belonging, ſhall be good and effectual in the Law to all intents and purpoſes.

And in Paſch. 7 Eliz. between Wharton and Morley in the Exchequer, the Caſe was, That a Prebend of York by Deed Indented granted parcel of the poſſeſſions of his Prebend to Hen. 8. his heirs and ſucceſſors, and although that the Deed was inrolled, and that the grant was made without aſſent of the Biſhop, Dean and Chapter, That yet the ſaid grant was adjudged good, becauſe that the Prebendary was expreſly named in the Act.

2. If a grant hath been made to the Queen of an inſeparable incident, as of a Founder ſhip, or of the ſaid ſervices of the Donee in Tail, the Act of 18 Eliz. ſhall never make ſuch a grant good, becauſe that ſuch things are not grantable.

3. If Tenant in Tail by Deed granteth his Land to the Queen ſuch grant is made good againſt the iſſue in tail by the Act of 18 Eliz. for the perſon of Tenant in Tail is able, and he hath power over the Land; and ſo was it holden in Vaughan's Caſe. But if the husband and wife by deed grant the Land of the wife to the Queen, it is not made good by the ſaid Act to bind the wife after the covertute or her heirs, for there the perſon of a feme covert is diſabled to convey the Land, if it be not by fine, upon due examination; and ſo alſo was it holden in Vaughan's Caſe.

4. When the manner and compoſition of the Deed is void in Law; as in the caſe which hath been put, If a man ſeiſed of Lands in Fee by deed, for good conſideration granteth the Land after his death to the Queen her heirs and ſucceſſors, ſuch grant is not made good by the general words of the Act of 18 Eliz. and therewith agreeth 38 H. 6. 33. the Abbeſs of Syons Caſe: and the Earl of Leiceſter's Caſe, Plow. Com. 400. A ſtronger Caſe than this, is, Quæ malo ſunt inchoata principio, vix eſt ut bono peragantur exitu. Vide 4 E. 4. 31. 12 H. 4. Formedon 15.

5. When the perſon is able, and hath power over the Land, and the Deed is good and legal, but wanteth circumſtance, as inrollment or the like, there ſuch Deed is eſtabliſhed, and ſuch omiſſion is ſupplied by the Act of 18 Eliz. for the Act maketh the conveyance good, according to the intent and purport thereof; and in ſuch Caſe the purport of the Deed is ſufficient enough, although it was not of any effect to paſs the thing.

[b] 3. The ſaid Act of 18 Eliz. may have ſome operation as this Caſe is upon the ſaid Grant to the Queen, inſomuch as the ſaid Dr. Kelke the Maſter of the ſaid Colledge was then alive, and the Act of 13 Eliz. hath diſabled the Maſters and Fellows as to the ſucceſſors of the ſaid Maſter. And this Point was ſo concluded, Quod ubi quid generaliter conceditur, ineſt hæc exceptio, ſi non aliquid ſit contra jus faſque. And the ſaid Act of 43 Eliz. cap. 1. hath explained and expounded this Act of 18 Eliz. as it appeareth before.

And note Reader; That if the Act of 18 Eliz. ſhall make good conveyances by perſons diſabled, the ſame ſhall not make Eſtates effectual made before the Act, but ſhall give liberty within ſeven years after to make them, which the Statute never intended, for thereupon great prejudice and miſchief ſhould follow.

As to the third general point it was reſolved, That the ſaid fine and non-claim by five years ſhould not have barred the right of the ſaid Colledge for two cauſes.

1. The words of the Act of 13 Eliz. are, That all Leaſes, Giſts, &c. conveyances and ſtates, had, made, done or ſuffered by any Maſter and Fellows, &c. So that in the Caſe at Bar, there is a conveyance and eſtate permitted or ſuffered by the Maſter and Fellows of the ſaid Colledge; and that theſe words ſhall not be extended only when the Maſter and Fellows ſuffer a recovery, &c. againſt themſelves, as party thereunto; but generally according to the Letter, when they ſuffer others to levy a Fine with Proclamation, and ſuffer alſo 5 years to paſs without claim; and although that the concluſion of the purview of the Act is, ſhall be utterly void and of none effect to all intents, conſtructions and purpoſes, yet by conſtruction it ſhall be ſo taken, that the ſaid fine levied with Proclamation, &c. ſhall be void and of none effect to bind the right of the Maſter and Fellows of the ſaid houſe: and it ſhould have been to no purpoſe to have prohibited them to bar the right of their Colledges by conveyances made by the Maſter and Fellows themſelves; and to have left them power by their permiſſion, or ſufferance, or non-claim to bar it, and to that purpoſe theſe words, (Permitted to ſuffered) were added.

The ſecond Reaſon was, That for as much as the ſaid eſtate conveyed to the Queen was of force during the life of Dr. Kelke, then Maſter, and that he was alive at the time of the Fine levied, and all the Proclamations paſſed in his time, ſo that none could have made an entry or claim during his life; And that Dr. Gooche within five years after his death did enter into the ſaid houſe claiming the ſame to be the right of him and his Fellows of the ſaid Colledge; for theſe cauſes it was alſo reſolved,

That

That this entry hath avoided the fine. Vide 19 H. 8, 6. Stowel's Caſe Plow. Com. 374, 376. Crofts & Howel's Caſe Plow. Com. 538.

As to the fourth General point, The ſame was not thought worthy of any queſtion, for in as much as the ſaid Body Politick, in this Caſe is a body aggregate of many; the Maſter alone cannot by his acceptance deveſt any right or intereſt, which is in him and the Fellows, or conclude him (chiefly the ſame being without deed) to enter into the ſaid Houſe. Vide 7 H. 7, 9. 9 E. 4, 39. 18 E. 4, 9. Plow. Com. 91. And according to theſe Reſolutions, Judgment was given, That the Plaintiff ſhould recover nothing by his Bill.

Lewis Bowles Caſe.

Lewis Bowles, Eſq; brought an Action upon the Caſe upon Trover againſt Haſeldine Bury the younger, which began in the King's Bench, Hill. 10 Rot. 1319. and declared, That he was poſſeſſed of 30 Cart-loads of Timber and loſt them, and that they came to the Defendant and that he 20 Feb. 9 Jac. at Norton, in the County of Hertford did convert them to his own uſe; and upon Not guilty pleaded, the Jury gave a Special Verdict to this effect.

Thomas Bowles, Eſquire, Grandfather of the ſaid Lewis, was ſeized of the Mannor of Nortonbury in the ſaid County in Fee, and 1 Sept. an. 12. by Indenture, betwixt him on the one part, and William Hide and Leonard Hide of the other part, in conſideration of a Marriage to be had betwixt the ſaid Tho. Bowles, and Anne daughter of the ſaid William Hide, &c. did Covenant that after the ſaid marriage had and ſolemnized, That he the ſaid Thomas, his Heirs and Aſſigns would ſtand ſeized of the Mannor of Norton, to the uſe of the ſaid Thomas and Anne for the term of their lives without impeachment of waſt, and after their deceaſe to the uſe of their firſt iſſue Male, and to the Heirs Males of ſuch iſſue lawfully begotten, and ſo over to the 2, 3, and 4. iſſue Male, &c. and for want of ſuch iſſue, To the uſe of the Heirs Males of the Body of the ſaid Thomas and Anne lawfully begotten; and for want of ſuch iſſue, to the uſe of Thomas Bowles ſon and heir apparent of Tho. Bowles the Grandfather, and to the heirs males of his body begotten; and for want of ſuch iſſue, to the uſe of the heirs of the body of the ſaid Thomas and Anne lawfully begotten. Which marriage was ſolemnized accordingly, and the ſaid Thomas the Grandfather, and Anne had iſſue John; and afterwards the ſaid Thomas the Grandfather died without iſſue on the body of Anne, but the ſaid John; after whoſe death the ſaid Anne entred into the ſaid Mannor and was thereof ſeized, with the ſaid remainder over as aforeſaid, and afterwards the ſaid John Bowles died, and afterwards the ſaid Thomas the ſon conveyed by fine his remainder to the uſe of Lewis Bowles the Defendant, and Diana his wife, and the heirs males of his body; and the ſaid Anne ſo being ſeized of the ſaid Mannor, with the remainder over as aforeſaid; viz. 20 Feb. 9 Jac. a Barn parcel of the ſaid Mannor per vim ventorum & Tempeſtat' pœnitus ſubverſ. & ad terram deject. fuit. And that the ſaid 30 Cart-loads of Timber named in the Declaration, were parcel of the ſaid Barn, and that the ſaid Timber was ſound and fit for building, for which the Defendant as ſervant of the ſaid Anne, and by her Commandment, took the ſaid Timber and carried the ſame out of the bounds of the Mannor to Radial in the ſame County; and afterwards the ſaid Anne, 25 Feb. 9 Jac. made her laſt Will, and made Rob. Osborne and Leon. Hide, Knights, her Executors, and died, after whoſe death the Plaintiff ſeized the ſaid Timber, and afteward the Defendant by the command of the ſaid Executors, converted the ſame to his uſe, and if upon the whole matter the Defendant were guilty or not, the Jury pray the Opinion of the Court. And in the Caſe two queſtions were moved.

1. If upon the whole matter the wife ſhall be Tenant in tail after poſſibility of iſſue extinct, or that ſhe ſhould have the priviledge of a Tenant in tail after poſſibility, i. to do waſt, &c.

2. Admit that ſhe ſhall not have the priviledge, &c. If the Clauſe, without impeachment of waſt, giveth to her property in the Timber ſo caſt down by the Wind. And in this Caſe eight points were reſolved by the whole Court.

1. That till iſſue Thomas, the Grandfather and Anne were ſeized of an eſtate tail executed, ſub modo, s. till the birth of the iſſue male, and then by the operation of Law the eſtates are divided, i. Thomas and Anne become Tenants for life, the remainder to the iſſue Male in Tail, the Reverſion to the heirs males of Thomas and Anne, the remainder over as aforeſaid; for the eſtate is not abſolutely drowned, but with this implied limitation till they have iſſue male. See Chudleigh's Caſe in the firſt part of my Reports, and Archer's Caſe there.

[b]

2. That Tenant in Tail after poſſibility of iſſue, hath a greater preheminence and priviledge in reſpect of the quality of his eſtate, then Tenant for life; but he hath not a greater quantity of eſtate than Tenant for life; in reſpect of the quality of his eſtate, it taſteth much of the quality of an eſtate in Tail out of which it is derived, and therefore,

1. She ſhall not be puniſhed for Waſt.
2. She ſhall not be driven to Atturn.
3. She ſhall not have any Aid.
4. Upon the Alienation no Writ of Conſimili caſu lieth.
5. After her death no Writ of Intruſion lieth.

6. She may joyn the miſe into a Writ of Right in ſpecial manner. Temps E.1. Waſt. 125. 39 E.3. 16. 31 E.3. Aid. 35. 43 E.3. 1. 45 E.3. 22. 46 E.3. 13. 27. 11 H.4. 15. 7 H.4. 10 2 H.4. 17. 42 E.3. 22. 3 E.4. 11. 21 H. 6. 56. 10 H.6. 1. 13 E.2. Entre Congeable 56. 28. E.3. 96. 26 H.6. Aid 77. F.N.B. 203.

7. In an Action brought by her ſhe ſhall not name her ſelf Tenant for life, 18 E.3. 27. a Woman brought a Cui in vita, quod clamat tenere ad vitam, and maintained the ſame in her Count by a gift in ſpecial tail to her and her husband, and that the Husband is dead without iſſue, and the Writ for the contrariouſneſs of the Title did abate.

8. In an Action brought againſt her, ſhe ſhall not be named Tenant for life, ſ. Quoad tenet ad terminum vitæ. Mic. 39. & 40. El. Rot. 33 16. in the Common Pleas, between Veals and other plaintiffs, and Read defendant, in a Quid juris clamat, and the note of the fine doth ſuppoſe that the def. tenet ad terminum vitæ, and the def. demanded Oyer of the Writ, and of the note of the fine, and had it. The Defendant pleaded that he was ſeized in Fee, Abſque hoc, that at the day of the note levied tenuit pro termino vitæ, and the Jury found that he held as Tenant in tail after poſſibility of Iſſue extinct, and it was adjudged for the Defendant; for Tenant in tail after poſſibility ſhall not be in Judgment of Law included within a Writ or Fine, &c. within the general allegation of a Tenant for life vide 19 E.3. 1. b.

But as to the quantity, he hath but an Eſtate for life, and therefore, If he make a Feofment in Fee, it is a forfeiture of his Eſtate, 13 E.2. Entre Cong. 56. 45 E.3. 22. 28 E.3. 96. b. 27 Aſſ. 60. F.N.B. 159. So if Fee or Tail general deſcend or remain to Tenant in tail after poſſibility, &c. the Fee or Eſtate tail is executed, 32 E.3. age 55. 50 E.3. 4. 9 E.4. 17. And by the Statute of Weſt. 2. he in the reverſion ſhall be received upon his default, 2 R.2. Reſceit 147. 41 E.3. 12. 20 E.3. Reſceit 38 Ed 3. 33. See 28 E.3. 96. 39 E.3. 16. And an exchange betwixt Tenant for life, and Tenant in tail, after poſſibility is good, for their eſtates are equal.

3. It was reſolved, That the Eſtate of a Tenant in tail after poſſibility, ought to be a remain and reſidue of an Eſtate tail, and that by the Act of God, and not by the limitation of the party, ex diſpoſitione legis, and not ex proviſione hominis: And therefore if a man who hath a gift in tail upon condition, That if he do ſuch an Act, that he ſhall have but for life, he is not Tenant in tail after poſſibility of Iſſue extinct; for the ſame is ex proviſione hominis, and not ex diſpoſitione legis; but it ought to be the [81] remain and reſidue of an Eſtate tail, and that by the Act of God and of the Law ſ. that by the death of the Donee without Iſſue, Lit. 6. Doct. & Stud. 61 2. H. 4. 17. 26. H. 6. Aid. 77. If Tenants in ſpecial tail recover in Aſſiſe, and afterwards one dieth without Iſſue, and afterwards he who ſurviveth (who is Tenant in tail after poſſibility) is diſſeiſed again, he ſhall have a rediſſeiſin, for it is the ſame Free-hold he had before, for the ſame is parcel of the Eſtate tail. And becauſe the Wife in the caſe at Bar had the Eſtate for life by limitation of the party, and the Eſtate which ſhe hath in the remainder, ſ. of the Tenant in tail after poſſeſſion, was not a larger Eſtate in quantity, and becauſe it cannot drown the Eſtate for life, as hath been ſaid before, for this cauſe the Wife was not Tenant in tail after poſſibility.

[82] 4. It was reſolved, That in this caſe the Wife ſhould have the priviledge of a Tenant in tail after poſſibility; for the inheritance which was once in her: For now when John the Iſſue male is dead, the priviledge which ſhe hath in reſpect of the Inheritance which was in her in remainder ſhall not be loſt. And there is no queſtion but that a Woman may be Tenant in tail after poſſibility, as well of a remainder as of a poſſeſſion; and therefore if a Leaſe be made for life, the remainder to Husband and Wife in ſpecial tail, the Husband dyeth without Iſſue, now is the Wife Tenant in tail after poſſibility of this remainder; and if the Tenant for life ſurrendreth to her, as he may (for the life of him in the remainder is higher then the life of another) now is ſhe Tenant in tail after poſſibility in poſſeſſion. And like to this caſe, if the Father be enfeoffed to him and his Heirs with warranty, and the Father enfeoffeth the Son, &c. and dieth, in this caſe the Son although he hath the Land by purchaſe, yet he ſhall take the warranty as Heir, for he cannot vouch as aſſignee, and the warranty betwixt the Father and him is loſt, as it is adjudged in 43 E.3. 23. So here, although the Wife cannot claim the Eſtate of a tenant in tail after poſſibility, yet ſhe may claim the priviledge and benefit of it.

And it was reſolved, That Tenant in ſpecial tail at the Common Law had a limited Fee-ſimple; and when their Eſtate was charged by the Statute of Donis, &c. yet there was not any change of their intereſt in doing of Waſt. So when by the death of the one Donee without Iſſue the Eſtate is changed yet the power to commit waſte, and to convert the ſame to his own uſe, is not altered nor changed for the inheritance which was once in him, Vide Hil. 2. Jacobi Rot. 229. inter Brooke & Rogers in the Common Pleas. If a Timber Tree become arida, ſicca, non portans fructus nec folia in æſtate, nec exiſtens indeleminum, yet becauſe it was once an inheritance, no Tithes ſhall be paid of it; ſo that the quality doth remain, although the ſtate of the Tree be altered.

5. That if Tenant for life or years, cutteth Timber, or pulleth down the Houſes, the Leſſor ſhall
[b] have the Timber; and becauſe that this point was reſolved in this Court; upon a ſolemn argument in Liford's caſe, I will make the ſhorter report of it.

1. It is apparent in reaſon, That the Leſſee had them but as things annexed to the Soil, and therefore it ſhall be abſurd in reaſon, that when by this Act and wrong he ſevereth them from the Land, that he ſhall gain a greater property in them, then he had by the Leaſe.

2. It is without queſtion (as it is reſolved in the ſaid caſe) That the Leſſor hath the general owner-ſhip and right of inheritance in the Houſes and Timber-Trees; and that the Leſſee hath but a particular intereſt, and therefore if they be overthrown by the Leſſee or any other, or by Wind or Tempeſt, or by any other means diſjoyned from the Inheritance. The Leſſor ſhall have them in reſpect of his general ownerſhip, and becauſe they were his Inheritance.

And

And as to the reſolutions in Herlakendens Caſe in the fourth part of my Reports, they were affirmed for good Law, and Pagets Caſe in the fifth part of my Reports. For although he cannot puniſh them in an Action of Waſt at the Common Law becauſe it was his own Act, and in his Leaſe he hath not made proviſion by Covenant or Condition; yet the Inheritance and general ownerſhip doth remain in the Leſſor, and the Leſſee (as hath been ſaid) hath but a ſpecial intereſt in the Houſes and Timber-Trees ſo long as they be annexed to the Land; and the ſame appeareth by the Statute of Marlebridge, *c.*23. Item firmarii vaſtum, &c. non faciunt, neſi ſpecialem inde habuerint conceſſionem per ſcriptum conventionis, mentionem faciens quod hoc facere poſſint. By which it appeareth, That the Leſſees for lives or years, could not rightfully cut down Trees, or overturn the Houſes if not by grant of the Leſſor made to them. In which it was alſo obſerved, That at the time of the making of the ſame Act, the ſaid Clauſe of (without impeachment of Waſt) was in uſe, which proveth that the ſame was to ſuch purpoſe that the Leſſee might commit Waſt, and diſpoſe it to his own uſe, which he could not do without ſuch a Clauſe.

3. Every Leſſee for life and years ought by the Law do fealty upon Oath, and it ſhall be againſt his Oath to waſt the Houſes and Timber-Trees.

And note Reader, upon this Statute of Marlebridge lieth properly a prohibition of Waſt againſt the Leſſee for life, and Leſſee for years, to prohibite them that they did not waſt before any waſt was done, as it was againſt Tenant in Dower, and Tenant by the courteſie at the Common Law. Vide Bract. 316. the Jugdment in Waſt at the Common Law. Tenant in Dower, or by the Curteſie had as high an Eſtate as Leſſee for Life; and it appeareth that it was not lawfull for Tenant by the Courteſie or in Dower to do waſt; Ergo no more for Tenant for life: The onely difference was, That a Prohibition of waſt lay againſt Tenant in Dower, and by the courteſie at the Common Law, and not againſt the Leſſees till the ſaid Statute of Marl. And to prove what intereſt the Leſſee for life hath in the Trees at the Common Law, it appeareth by Bracton (who wrote before the Statute of Gloc') *lib.*4. *tract. de aſſiſa nova diſc.*4.217. Si quis vaſtum fecerit, vel deſtructionem in tenemento quod tenet ad vitam ſuam, in eo quod modum excedit, & rationem, cum tantum conceditur ei rationabile eſtovium, facit tranſgreſſionem, & ſi talis impediatur, ille teneus aſſiſam non habebit, intentio talis liberabit a diſſeiſina, quia in eo quod tenens abutitur male utendo, & debitum uſum & modum debitum excedendo, non poteſt dicere quod diſſeiſitus eſt, quia tantum rationabilis uſus ei conceditur; which proveth directly, That it was a wrong in the Leſſee for life to do Waſt, or deſtruction at the Common Law. [82]

And it was reſolved, That if a Houſe fall down by Wind in the time of the Leſſee for life or years, or in the time of the Tenant in Dower, or by the Courteſie, &c. that ſuch particular Tenants have a ſpecial property in the Timber to build again the like Houſe as the other was for his habitation: As if they cut down a Tree for reparations, they have a ſpecial property to that purpoſe in it, and therewith agreeth 44*E.*3. 5. 44*E.*3. 44. 29*E.*3. 3. 10*E.*4. 3. But the ſaid particular Tenants cannot give away or ſell the Tree ſo cut down; And therefore Lit. 15. holdeth. That if I baile goods to another to manure his Land, he hath a ſpecial property in them to that purpoſe; and in ſuch caſe, if he kill them, a general Action of treſpaſs lyeth againſt him. See 11*H.*4. 17 & 33.

6. The preheminence and priviledge which the Law giveth to Houſes which are for mens habitation was obſerved.

1. A Houſe ought to have the priority and precedency in a præcipe quod reddat before Meadow, Paſture, Wood, &c. *F.N.B.*2. &c. for his houſe is his Caſtle, & domus ſua eſt unicuique tutiſſimum refugium.

2. The Houſe of a man hath a priviledge to protect him againſt arreſts by proceſs of Law at the ſuit of a Subject, See Semaines Caſe in the fifth part of my Reports.

3. Priviledges againſt the Kings Prerogative, For it was reſolved by all the Judges M. 4. Jacob. That thoſe who digg for Salt-peter, ſhall not digg in a mans dwelling Houſe without his aſſent, for then he, his Wife and Children cannot be in ſafety in the night, nor his goods in his houſe kept from Thieves and other miſ-doers. [b]

4. For he who killeth one ſe defendendo, or a Thief who would rob one in the Highway, by the Common Law ſhall forfeit his goods, but he who would rob him and ſpoil him in his Houſe, ſhall forfeit nothing, 3*E.*3. Corone 230. & 26. Aſſ. 23. &c.

5. If there be two joynt Tenants of a Wood, or Arrable Land, the one hath no remedy againſt the other to encloſe, or for reparations for ſafegard of the Wood, or corn, but if there be two joynt tenants of a Houſe the one ſhall have a Writ de reparatione facienda, againſt the other, and the words of the Writ are ad reparationem & ſuſtentationem ejuſdem domus tenetur, *F.N.B.*127. a. 6. If a man be in his Houſe, and heareth that others will come to his Houſe to beat him, he may call together his friends, &c. into his Houſe to aid him, in ſafety of his perſon; for as it hath been ſaid, A mans Houſe is his Caſtle and his defence, and where he properly ought to remain: but if a man be threatned that if he cometh to ſuch a fair or market that he ſhall be beaten, in that caſe he cannot make ſuch Aſſembly, but he ought to have his remedy by ſurety of the Peace, 21 *H.*7. 39. b.

7. The clauſe of (without impeachment of waſt) giveth power to the Leſſee which ſhall produce an Intereſt in himſelf if he execute his power during the privity of his Eſtate, and therefore to examine the ſame in reaſon.

1. Theſe words abſque impetitione vaſti, are as much as to ſay, without any demand for the waſt, for impetitio is derived from in and peto, and petere is to demand, and petitio is a demand, and ſine impetitione is without any manner of demand or impeachment; Then this word (demand) is of a large extent, for if a man diſſeiſe me of my Land, or taketh my goods, if I releaſe to him all actions, yet I may enter into the Land, or take my goods, as Lit. holdeth, 119. and therewith agreeth 19 Aſſ. 3. 19. b. 6. 4. 21 *H.*7. 23. 30 *J.*3. 19. for by the releaſe of the Action, the right or intereſt is not releaſed, but if in ſuch caſe caſe I releaſe all demands, it ſhall barr me, not only of my Action, but alſo of my entry and ſeiſure, and of the right of my Land, and of the property of my Goods as it was reſolved in Chanceys Caſe 34 *H.*8 Br. Releaſes 90. 2 *H.*7. 6. The King maketh one Sheriff ſine computo, thereby he ſhall have the revenues which belong to his Office to Collect to his own uſe. But if the word had been abſque impetitione vaſti per aliquod devaſto, then the Action onely ſhall be diſcharged, and not the property in the [83] Trees, but that the Leſſor after the cutting of them might ſeiſe them. And this difference appeareth in 3 *E.*44. in Walter Idles Caſe, where a Leaſe was made without to be impeached, or impleaded for Waſt, upon which it was collected that theſe words (without to be impleaded) without theſe words (without to be impleaded for Waſt) were not ſufficient to bar the Leſſor of his property; and that if the Leſſor had granted that the Leſſee might do Waſt, he thereby hath power not only to do Waſt, but alſo to convert the ſame to his own uſe, and the words of the ſaid Act of Marlebridge, and the Statute of *prærogativa Regis c.*16 prove the ſame, where it is ſaid, That the King ſhall have annum diem, & vaſtum, s. which is as much as to ſay, that the ſhall have the Trees, &c. at his own diſpoſition.

2. It was ſaid, that the continual and conſtant opinion of all ages are, That theſe words gave power to the Leſſee to do Waſt to his own uſe, and it ſhall be dangerous now to recede from it; and as it is ſaid in 38 *E.*3. 1. by the Judges (ſo we ſay in this Caſe) we will not change the Law which hath been always uſed; and it is well ſaid in 2 *H.*4. 18. It is better that there ſhould be a defect, then that the Law ſhould be changed; and the opinion of Wray Chief Juſtice, and Manwood in Herlakendens Caſe was not Judicial but prima facie upon an arbitrement without any argument, and perhaps upon ſight of the book of 27 *H.*6. Waſte 8. And therefore although the Chief Juſtice argued in this Caſe, againſt their opinions, yet it was with great reverence to them, ſaying with Ariſtotle in the like caſe, Amicus Plato, amicus Socrates, ſed magis amica veritas. And Qui non libere veritatem pronunciat, proditor veritatis eſt. And the truth of this Caſe appeareth by Littleton in his Chapter of Conditions, 82. where he putteth this Caſe, If a Feoffment be made upon condition, That the Feoffee ſhall give the Land to the Feoffor, and to the Wife of the Feoffor, To have and to hold to them and to their Heirs of their two bodies begotten, the remainder to the right Heirs of the Feoffor; in that caſe if the Husband dieth having the Wife before any Eſtate in tail made to them, s. to Leaſe the Land to the Wife for term of her life, without impeachment of Waſt, the remainder to the Heirs of her body; or her and her Husbands begotten, the remainder to the right Heirs of the Husband; and the cauſe where fore the Leaſe ſhall be made in this caſe to the Wife without impeachment of Waſt, is (as Lit. there ſaith)
[b] becauſe that the condition is, That the Eſtate ſhall be to the Husband and his Wife in tail, and if ſuch Eſtate had been made, then after the death of the Husband ſhe had had an Eſtate in tail, which Eſtate was without impeachment of Waſt, and ſo it is reaſon that as near as a man can do, an Eſtate be made according to the intents of the Condition, which Caſe directly in the point proveth, That Tenant for life without impeachment of Waſt, hath as great a power to do Waſt and to convert the ſame at his own pleaſure, as the Tenant in tail had.

That theſe word, Without impeachment of Waſt, are ſufficient words to give the Tenant for life ſuch a power. See 2 *H.*4. 5. And the Lord Cromwels Caſe in the ſecond part of my Reports.

And for this Clauſe, (without impeachment of Waſt) 3 *E.*3. 44. 8 *E.*3. 34. 39. 24 *E.*3. 32. 43 E. 3. 5. 5 *H.*5. 8. 27 *H.*6. Waſt. 8. 4 *E.*4. 36. 20 *H.*7. 10. 28 *H.*8. Dyer 10. And ſo the Queen in the ſaid Book of 27 *H.*6. well reſolved. And ſee the opinion of Statham in abridging the ſaid book againſt it.

But the ſaid priviledge of (without impeachment of Waſt) is annexed to the privity of Eſtate, 3 *E.*44. by Shard and Stone.

If one who hath a particular Eſtate without impeachment of Waſt, change his Eſtate, he looſeth his advantage, 5 *H.*59. If a man make a Leaſe for years, without impeachment of Waſt, and afterwards he conferreth the Land to him for life, now he ſhall be charged in Waſt, 28 *H.*8. Dyer 10.

If a Leaſe be made for the term of anothers life, without impeachment of Waſt, the remainder to himſelf for his own life, he is puniſhable for Waſt, for the firſt Eſtate is gone and drowned. So of a Confirmation.

It was adjudged in Ewens Caſe *Mich.*29. Eliz. That where Tenant in tail, after poſſibility of Iſſue granted over his Eſtate, that the Grantee was driven in a Quid juris clamat to atturn, for by the Aſſignment the priviledge is loſt; and that Judgment was given in the Kings Bench, in a Writ of Error And therewith agreeth 27 *H.*6. Aid in Statham. Vide 29 *E.*3. 1. b. The Heir at the Common Law had a prohibition of Waſt againſt Tenant in Dower, but if the Heir grant over the reverſion, his Grantee ſhall not have a prohibition of Waſt; for it appeareth in the Regiſter 72 that ſuch Aſſignee in an action of Waſt againſt Tenant in Dower ſhall recite the Statute of Glouceſt. Ergo, he ſhall not have a prohibition of Waſt at the Common Law, for then he ſhould not recite the Statute. See F.N.B. 14 H. 4. 3. 5 *H.*5. 17. b.

Laſtly it was reſolved, That the ſaid Woman by force of the ſaid Clauſe of (without impeach-[84] ment of Waſt) had ſuch a power and priviledge, That though in the Caſe at Bar no Waſt be done, becauſe the Houſe was overthrown by force of Wind without her fault; yet ſhe ſhall have the Timber which was parcel of the Houſe, and alſo the Timber Trees which are blown down with the Wind and when they are ſevered from the Inheritance either by the Act of the party, or of the Law, and become Chattels, the whole property of them is in the Tenant for life, by force of the ſaid Clauſe of, without impeachment of Waſt. And for this cauſe Judgment was given by all the Juſtices, That the Plaintiff nihil caperet per billam.

Trinit. 44. Eliz.

The Case of the Monopolies.

Edward Darcy Esquire, a Groom of the Chamber to Queen El. brought an Action upon the Case against Tho. Allen Haberdasher of London, and declared, That Queen Eliz. 13 Junii, An. 30. intending that her subjects being able men to exercise Husbandry, should apply themselves thereunto, and that they should not imploy themselves to the making of playing Cards, which had not been any antient manual Occupation within this Realm; and that the making of such a multitude of Cards, Card playing was become very frequent and chiefly amongst Servants and Apprentices and poor Artificers, and to the end her Subjects might apply themselves to more faithfull and necessary Trades, by her Letters Patents und the Great Seal of the same did grant unto Ralph Bowes Esquire, full power, license and authority by himself, his Servants, factors and Deputies to provide and buy in any parts beyond the Sea, all such playing Cards as he thought good, and to bring them within this Realm, and to sell and utter them within the same, and that he, his Servants, Factors and Deputies, should have and enjoy the whole Trade, Traffick and Merchandize of all playing Cards: And by the said Letters Patents further granted to the said Ralph Bowes, That the said Ralph Bowes [85] his Servants, Factors and Deputies and no other should have the making of playing Cards within the Realm, to have and to hold for twelve years; and by the said Letters Patents, the Queen charged and commanded, That no person or persons besides the said Ralph, &c. should bring any Cards within the Realm during those twelve years; nor should buy, sell or offer to be sold within the said Realm, within the said term any playing Cards, nor should make, or cause to be made any playing Cards within the said Realm, upon pain of the Queens gracious displeasure, and of such fine and punishment as Offendors in the case of voluntary contempt deserve. And afterwards the Queen 11 Ang. An. 40 by her Letters Patents reciting the former grants made to Ralph Bowes, granted the Plaintiff, his Executors, Administrators and their Deputies, the same Priviledges, Authorities, and other the said premisses for one and twenty years after the end of the former time, rendring to the Queen one hundred marks per annum; and further granted to him a Seal for to mark the Cards. And further declared, That after the end of twelve years, s. 30 Junii 40 Eliz. the Plaintiff caused to be made four hundred Grosses of Cards for the necessary uses of the Subjects, to be sold within this Realm, and had spent in the making of them 5000 l. and that the Defendant knowing the said Grant and Prohibition in the Plaintiffs Letters Patents, and others the premisses, 15 Martii 44 Eliz. without the Queens License or the Plaintiffs, &c. at Westminster, did cause eighty Grosses of playing Cards to be made, and as well those, as one hundred other Grosses of playing Cards, of which many were made within the Realm, or brought within the Realm by the Plaintiff, or his Servants, Factors or Deputies, &c. not marked with his Seal, he had imported within the Realm, and had sold and uttered them to sundry persons unknown, and shewed some in certain, for which the Plaintiff could not utter his playing Cards, &c. Contra formam prædict' literar' patentium, & in contemptum dictæ Dominæ Reginæ, whereby the Plaintiff was disabled to pay the Farm Rent, to the Plaintiffs damages.

The Defendant, besides to one half Gross, pleaded, Not Guilty; and as to that he pleaded, That the City of London, is an antient City, and within the same, time out of mind, there hath been a Society of Haberdashers; and that within the said City there was a Custom, Quod qualibet persona de Societate illa, usus fuit & consuevit emere, vendere, & libere merchandizare omnem rem & omnes res merchandizabiles infra hoc Regnum Angliæ de quocunque, vel quibuscunque personis, &c. [b] And pleaded, That he was a Free-man of the City, and of that Society, and sold the said half Gross of playing Cards; being made within the Realm, &c. as it was lawfull for him to do; upon which the Plaintiff did demur in Law.

And this Case was argued at the Bar by Dodderidge, Fuller, Fleming, Solicitor, and Coke Atturney General for the Plaintiff. And by George Crook, Altham and Tanfield for the Defendant. And in this Case two general questions were moved and argued at the Bar, arising upon two distinct Grants in the said Letters Patents.

1. If the said Grant to the Plaintiff of the sole making of Cards within the Realm were good or not.

2. If the License or dispensation to have the sole importation of Forreign Cards granted to the Plaintiff, were available or not in Law. To the bar, no regard was had, because it was no more then the Common Law would have said, and then no such particular Custom ought to have been alledged, for In his quæ de jure communi de omnibus conceduntur, consuetudo alicujus patriæ vel loci non est alleganda, and therewith agreeth 9 E. 4. 5. &c. And although the bar was holden superfluous, yet it shall not turn the Defendant to any prejudice, but that he may well take the advantage of the insufficiency of the Count.

As to the first question it was argued on the Plaintiffs side, That the said Grant of the sole making of playing Cards within the Realm was good for three causes.

1. Because

1. Because the said playing Cards were not any merchandize, or thing concerning Trade of any necessary use, but things of vanity, and the occasion of expence of time, wasting of Patrimonies, and of the livings of many, the loss of the service and work of Servants, causes of want, which is the mother of wo and perdition, and therefore it belongeth to the Queen (who is Parens patriæ, & paterfamilias totius regni, and as it is said in 20 H.7. fol.4. Capitalis Justiciarius Angliæ) to take away the great abuse, and to take order for the moderate and convenient use of them.

2. In matters of recreation and pleasure the Queen hath a Prerogative given her by the Law to take such order for such moderate use of them as shall seem good to her.

3. The Queen in regard of the great abuse of them, and in regard of the deceit of the subjects by [86] reason of them might utterly suppress them, and therefore by consequence without injury to any one, she might moderate and suffer them at her pleasure. And the reason of the Law which giveth to the King these Prerogatives in matters of recreation and pleasure was, because the greatest part of men are ready to exceed in them. And upon these grounds divers Cases were put; 1. That no Subject can make a Park, Chase or Warren within his own Land for his recreation or his pleasure without the King Grant or License; and if he do it of his own head in a Quo warranto, they shall be seised into the Kings hands, as it is holden in 3 E.2. Action sur le Statute Br. 48 & 30 E.3. Rot. Pat. The King granted to another all the wild Swans betwixt London Bridge and Oxford.

As to the second. It was argued, and strongly urged, That the Queen by her Prerogative may dispense with a penal Law, when the forfeiture is popular, or given to the King. And the forfeiture given by the Statute of 3 E.4.cap.5. in case of bringing in of Cards is popular, 2 H.7.6.6. 11 H.7.11. 13 H.7.8. 2 *R.3.12. Plow.Com.*402.6 Eliz. Dyer 225.13 El. 393. 18 Eliz. Dyer 352. 33 H.8. Dyer 52.11 H.4.76. 13 E.3. Release 36.43 *Ass. Pl.*19. 5 E.3.29. 2 E.3.6. & 7. F.N.B. 211.b.

As to the first, it was argued by the Defendants Counsel, and resolved by Popham Chief Justice, and the whole Court, That the said Grant to the Plaintiff of the sole making of Cards within the Realm was void; and that for two causes.

1. The same is a Monopoly, and against the Common Law.
2. That it is against divers Acts of Parliament.

Against the Common Law, for four Causes,

1. All Trades, as well Mechanical, as others, which avoid idleness (the bane of the Commonwealth) and exercise men and youths in labour for the maintenance of them and their Families, and for the increase of their livings, to serve the Queen if need be, were profitable for the Commonwealth: And therefore the Grant to the Plaintiff to have the sole making of them is against the Common Law, and the benefit and liberty of the Subjects; and therewith agreeth Foreseue in laudibus Legum Angliæ cap. 26. And a Case was adjudged in this Court in an Action of Trespass, between Davenant and Hurdis Trin. 41 Eliz. Rot. 92. where the Case was, That the Company of Merchant Taylors in London having power by Charter to make Ordinances for the better rule and goverment of the Company, made an Ordinance, That every Brother of the same Society who should put any Cloth to be dressed by any Cloth-worker not being a Brother of the same Society, should expose one half of his Cloths to any Brother of the same Society, who exercised the [b] Art of a Cloth-worker, upon pain of forfeiting ten shillings, &c. and to distrein for it; and it was adjudged, That that Ordinance, although it had the countenance of a Charter, was against the Common Law, because it was against the liberty of the Subject; for every Subject by the Law hath freedom and liberty to put his Cloth to be dressed by what Cloth-worker he pleaseth, and cannot be restrained to certain persons, for that in effect shall be a Monopoly; and therefore such Ordinance by colour of a Charter, or any grant by Charter to such effect shall be void.

2. The sole Trade of any Mechanical Artifice, or any other Monopoly is not only a damage and prejudice to those who exercise the same Trade, but also to all other Subjects, for the end of all these Monopolies is for the private gain of the Patentees; and although provisions and cautions be added to moderate them, yet res profecto stulta est nequitiæ modus; it is meer folly to think that there is any measure in mischief or wickedness. And therefore there are three inseperable incidents to every Monopoly against the Commonwealth.

1. That the price of the said Commodity shall be raised, for he who hath the sole selling of any Commodity may make the price as he pleaseth. And this word, Monopoly is said, Cum unus solus aliquod genus mercaturæ universum emit, pretium ad sunum libitum statuens. And the Poet saith.

Omnia Castor emit, sic fit ut omnia vendat.

And it appeareth by the Writ of *Ad quod damnum. F.N.B.*222. That if every Gift or Grant of the King hath this Condition, either expresly or tacitely annexed to it, Ita quod patria per donationem illam magis solito non onoretur seu gravetur. And therefore every Grant made in grievance and prejudice of the Subject is void; and 13 A.4.14. the Kings Grant which tendeth to the charge and prejudice of the Subject is void.

The second incident to a Monopoly is, That after a Monopoly granted, the Commodity is not so good and merchantable as it was before; for the Patentee having the sole trade, regardeth only his private, and not the publick Weal.

3. This same leadeth to the impoverishing of divers Artificers and other, who before by labor of their hands in their Art or Trade had kept themselves and their Families, who now of necessity shall be constrained to live in idleness and beggary Vide Forteseue ubi supra. And the Common Law in this Point agreeth with the equity of the Law of God, as it appeareth in Deut. Cap. 24. ver. 6. Non accipies loco pignoris inferiorem & superiorem molam, quia animam suam apposuit sibi; You shall not take in pledg the neather and upper Mill-stone, for the same is his life; by which it appeareth, That every Mans Trade doth maintain his life, and therefore he ought not to be deprived or dispossessed of it, no more then of his life. And the same also agreeth with the Civil Law, For we read in Justiniam, Monopolia non esse intermittenda, quoniam non ad commodum Reipublicæ sed ad labem detrimentaque pertinent. Monopolia interdixerunt leges Civiles cap. de Monopoliis lege unica. Zeno imperator statuit, ut exercentes Monopolia bonis omnibus spoliarentur. Adjecit Zeno, Ipsa rescripta imperialia non esse audienda, si cuiquam Monopolia concedant.

3. The Queen was deceived in her grant, for the Queen as by the preamble appeareth, intended the same to be for the weal publick, and it shall be imployed for the private good of the Patentee; also the Queen meant that the abuse should be taken away, which shall never be by this Patent, but rather shall the abuse of it be encreased for the private benefit of the Patentee, and therefore, as it is said in 21 E. 3. 46. in the Earl of Kents Case this grant is void jure Regio.

4. This grant is of this first impression, for no such was ever seen to pass under the great Seal of England before the time, and therefore it is a dangerous innovation as well without any president or example as without authority of Law, or reason. And it was observed that this grant to the Plaintiff was made for twenty one years, so that his Executor, Administrators, Wife or Children, or others inexpert in the Art and Trade should have this Monopoly. And it cannot be intended, that Edward Darcy Esquire, and Groom of the Queens Privy Chamber hath any skill in this Mechanical trade in making of Cards, and then it was said, that the Patent made to him was void, for to forbid others to make Cards who have the art and skill, and to give him the only making of them who hath no skil to make them, shall make the Patent utterly void. Vide 9 E. 4. 5. And although the grant doth extend to his Deputies, and it may be said, he may appoint Deputies who shall be expert; yet if the Grantee himself be unexpert, and the grant be void as to him, he cannot make any Deputy to supply his room, quia quod per me non possum, nec per alium. And as to that which hath been said, that playing Cards is a vanity, it is true, if it be abused, but the making of them is [b] no pleasure, but labour and pains. And it is true that none can make a Park, Chase or Warren, without the Kings licence, for that were quodam modo to appropriate those which are feræ naturæ, & nullius in bonis to himself, and to restrain them of their natural liberty, which he cannot do without the Kings license; but for hawking, hunting, &c. which are matters of pastime, pleasure, and recreation, there needeth not any license, but every one may in his own Land use them at his pleasure without any restraint to be made, if not by Parliament, as appeareth by the Statutes of 11 H. 7. cap. 17. 23 Eliz. cap. 10. 3 Jacobi cap. 13. And it is evident by the preamble of the said Act of 3 E. 4. That the bringing in of forreign Cards was forbidden at the grievous complaint of the poor Artificers Cardmakers, who were not able to live of their Trades, if forreign Cards should be brought in, as appeareth by the preamble; By which it appeareth, That the said Act provideth remedy for the maintenance of the Trade of making of Cards, for asmuch as the same doth maintain divers families by their labour and industry. And the like Act is made 1 H. 3. cap. 12. And therefore it was resolved, that the Queen could not suppress the making of Cards within the Realm, no more then the making of Dice, Bowles, Balls, Hawks-hoods, Bells, Lewers, Dog-couples and other like, which are works of labour and art, although they shall be for pleasure, recreation and pastime and they cannot be suppressed, if not by Parliament, nor a man restrained to use any trade but by Parliament. 37 E. 3. cap. 16. 5. Eliz. cap. 4. And the playing at Dice and Cards is not forbidden by the Common Law, as appeareth M. 9. El. Dyer 154. (If not that some be deceived by false Dice or Cards, and there he who is deceived, shall have an Action upon his Case to the deceit) and playing at Cards, Dice, &c. is not malum in se, for then the Queen should not suffer, nor license the same to be done. And where King E. 3. in the 39 year of his reign commandeth the exercise of shooting and artillery, and forbiddeth the exercise of casting of stones and barrs, and the hand and foot-balls, cock-fighting, & alios ludos vanos, as appeareth indorsat. claus. de An. 39 E. 3. nu. 23. yet no effect thereof followed, till divers of them were forbidden upon a penalty by divers Acts of Parliament Vide 12 R. 2. cap. 6. 11 H. 4. cap. 4. 17 E. 4. cap. 3 33 H. 8. cap. 9.

Also such charter of a Monopoly against the freedom of Trade and Traffick, is against divers Acts of Parliament, s. 9. E. 3. c. 1. & 2. Which for the advancement of the freedom of Trade of Traffick doth [88] extend to all vendible things, notwithstanding any charter of franchise granted to the contrary, or usage, or custom, or judgment given thereupon; which charters are adjudged by the same Parliament to be of no force, or effect, and made at the request of Prelates, Counts, Barons, and Grandees of the Realm, to the oppression of the Commons. And by the Statute of 25 E. 3, cap. 2. It is enacted, that the Act of 9 E. 3. shall be kept, holden, and maintained in all points. And it is further thereby enacted, That if any Statute, Charter, Letters Patents, proclamation, Command, Usage, Allowance, or judgment be made to the contrary, that the same be utterly void, Vide Magna Charta cap. 18. 27 E. 3. cap. 11, &c.

As to the second question, It was resolved, that the dispensation or licence to have the sole importation and merchandizing of goods (without any limitation or stint) notwithstanding the said Act of 3 E. 4. is utterly against law: For it is true, That for as much as an Act of Parliament which generally forbiddeth a thing upon penalty which is popular, or only given to the King, may be inconvenient to divers particular persons, in respect of person, place, time, &c. And for this cause the Law hath given power to the King, to dispense with particular persons; Dispensatione mali prohibiti est de jure Domino Regi concessa, propter impossibilitatem prævidendi de omnibus particularibus: and dispensatio est mali prohibiti provida relaxatio, utilitate seu necessitate pensata. But when the wisdom of the Parliament hath made an Act to reſtrain pro bono publico the bringing in of many foreign manufactures, to the intent that the Subjects of the Realm might apply themſelves to the making of the ſaid manufactures, &c. And thereby maintain themſelves and their family with their handy labour. Now for a private gain to grant the ſole importation of them to one, or diverſe (without any limitation) notwithſtanding the ſaid Act is a Monopoly againſt the Common Law, and againſt the end and ſcope of the ſame Act, for the ſame is not to maintin and encreaſe the labours of the Card-makers within the Realm, at whoſe petition the Act was made, but utterly to take away and overthrow their Trade and labours, and that without any reaſon of neceſſity, or inconveniency in reſpect, of place or time, and ſo much the rather, becauſe it was granted in reverſion for years, as hath been ſaid, only for the benefit of a private man, his Executors and Adminiſtrators for his particular commodity, and in prejudice of the Common-wealth. And King E. 3. by his Letters Patents granted to one John Peche the ſole importation of Sweet-wine into London, and at a Parliament holden 50 E. 3. this grant

[b] was adjudged void, as appeareth in Rot. Parl. An. 50 E. 3. M. 33. Alſo admit that ſuch grant or diſpenſation were good, yet the Parliament cannot maintain an Action upon the Caſe againſt thoſe who bring in any foreign Cards, but the remedy which the Act of 3 E. 4. in ſuch caſe giveth ought to be purſued. And judgment was given and entred, quod querens nihil caperet per billam.

And note Reader, and well obſerve the glorious preamble and pretence of this odious Monopoly. And it is true quod Privilegia quæ revera ſunt in prejudicium Reipublicæ, magis tamen ſpecioſa habent frontiſpicia, & boni publici prætextum, quam bonæ & legales conceſſiones, ſed prætextu liciti non debet admitti illicitum. And our Lord the King that now is in a book which he in zeal to the Law & Juſtice commanded to be printed An. 1610. intituled A Declaration of his Majeſties pleaſure, &c. hath publiſhed, That Monopolies are things againſt the Laws of this Realm, and therefore expreſly commands that no Suitor preſume to move him to grant any of them.

Hill. 4. Jacob.

The Earl of Devonſhires Caſe.

Charles Earl of Devonſhire, Maſter of the Ordinance general obtained of the King a Privy Seal bearing date the laſt of October, An. 2. in theſe words, James by the Grace of God, &c. To our truſty and right well beloved Couſin and Counſellor Charles Earl of Devonſhire, Our Lieutenant of our Realm of Ireland, and Maſter of the Ordinance general, greeting, &c. For as much as we are given to underſtand, that ſuch munitions as are utterly decayed and unſerviceable, have been heretofore claimed, taken, and enjoyed by the Maſter of the Ordinance for the time being, as fees and waiſes to them, by reaſon or in reſpect of the ſaid Office, belonging; Our will and pleaſure therefore is, and we do hereby give unto you full power and authority, that you may at your pleaſure receive and take out of the Store within the Tower of London, all ſuch broken and other unſerviceable Iron, Ordinance Shot, and other munitions whatſoever as are particularly expreſſed, mentioned, and ſet down in a book, &c. and the ſame to retain, imploy, and convert to your own uſe, &c. By force of which the ſaid Earl took out of the Store, within the Tower, diverſe pieces of Iron, Ordinance, Shot, and other
[b] Munition mentioned in the ſaid book, and ſold them to divers perſons for money, and ſo converted them to his uſe, and afterwards made his Will, and thereof made an Executor, and died. Now the queſtion was, If the Executor of the ſaid Earl might be charged to the King, for the ſaid converſion of the ſaid Ordinance and Munition: And the King referred the examination and conſideration of this Caſe to the two Chief Juſtices and Chief Baron; And the Counſel of the ſaid Executor objected, That the Executor ſhould not be charged in this Caſe for three cauſes.

1. Becauſe in truth, broken, caſt, and unſerviceable Iron, Ordinance, Shot, and other Munition doth belong to the Maſter of the Ordinance as fees and avails belonging to his Office, and offered to produce divers witneſſes to prove, that the Maſters of the Ordinance for the time being, have taken the broken, caſt, and unſerviceable Iron, Ordinance, Shot, and other Munition, as their fees and avails due to their Offices.

2. Admitting that they were not fees belonging to their Offices, yet the King by his Privy Seal, hath given thoſe eſpecially expreſſed in the ſaid book to the ſaid Earl, by force of which he may lawfully take them, and convert them to his own uſe, although they were not due to him as fees and availes in reſpect of his Office.

3. It was objected, That in this Caſe the Executor cannot be charged in Detinue, for none of the ſaid Kings goods came to his hands, nor in accompt, for the Teſtator was never bound to render accompt to the King neither as Baily, nor as Receiver; for no man ſhall be charged in accompt as Guardian in Socage Baily, or Receiver: And there are not other Original Writs in the Regiſter to charge any in accompt in the ſaid three Caſes. Vide Regiſter 135. 19 H. 6. 5. 29 H. 6. Accompt 6. And that is the cauſe that an Apprentice by the name of an Apprentice is not chargeable in accompt, 8 E. 3. 46. F. N. B. 119. & 7 H. 4. 14. And although the King hath the prerogative to charge the Executors of an Accomptant, yet he ought to charge the Executor where the Teſtator was chargeable in Law,

Law, in one of the ſaid three Caſes; alſo when any one is charged as Baily, or Receiver, there ought to be privity to charge him, but when one claimeth any thing to his own uſe, there he ſhall be never charged in accompt, becauſe he may plead, never his Baily, never his Receiver, to render accompt, and therewith agreeth 2 Mariæ Br. Accompt 89. 2 H. 4. 12. 39 E. 3. 27. So in the Caſe at Bar, the Earl claimeth them to his own uſe, for which no accompt lieth againſt him, but the perſonal wrong if there was any, dieth with his perſon.

As to the firſt, It was anſwered and reſolved, That the Earl could not claim the ſaid Iron Ordnance as Fees or Avails belonging to his Office, for the ſaid Office was erected of late time: for King H. 8. An. 35. of his Reign, by his Letters Patents did newly erect the ſaid Office of Maſter of the Ordnance, and granted the ſame to Thomas Lord Seimor, and after his death in Ed. 6. time, it was granted to Sir Philip Hobby, and after his death 1. Mariæ it was granted to Sir Richard Southwell, and after his death it was granted to Ambroſe Lord Dudley, ſo that the ſaid Earl without queſtion, cannot claim them as antient fees by preſcription to a new Office. [90]

As to the ſecond it was reſolved, That the ſaid Privy Seal was made upon a falſe ſuggeſtion, and that the King was therein deceived. For in the Kings Caſe theſe words (heretofore claimed, taken and enjoyed by the Maſters of the Ordnance for the time being) ſhall be intended to be lawfully claimed, taken, and enjoyed, and not by wrong, or uſurpation. And alſo this word (belonging) doth imply a right to take them, and therefore the ſaid Privy Seal being founded upon a falſe ſuggeſtion contained in the Privy Seal, and ſo the King deceived by matter apparent in the ſame privy Seal, by conſequence the Privy Seal is utterly void.

And as to the third Objection, It was anſwered and reſolved by the Court, That although the ſaid Earl claimeth them to his own uſe, yet he ſhall be bound to the King to accompt becauſe that in the Kings Caſe the Law doth make a privity; for if any one taketh the Kings Goods, or entreth into his Lands wrongfully, yet the King may charge him in accompt, 33 H. 6. 2. 4 H. 7. 6. 7 H. 7. 10. 15 H. 7. 17. 8 El. Dy. 249. Brereton's Caſe, and 40 Aſſ. p. 75 If Goods be diviſed to the King in whoſe hands ſoever they come, the poſſeſſor ſhall be charged in accompt to the King, and the King is not driven to his action of Treſpaſs, for then by the death of the party, the King ſhall be without remedy; but the King may by his Prerogative have an Action of Accompt againſt the Executors of the party, as appeareth by Littleton 28. And the King is not bound to charge the Defendant as Baily or Receiver, as a common perſon ought, but the King may alledge in his information generally, that he ad compotum Domino Regi reddend. tempore mortis ſuæ tenebatur, in ſo many ſums of money due to the King, &c. as appeareth by many Preſidents in the Exchequer, and in the Kings Bench, and therefore if upon evidence it appeareth that he is accomptable to the King in any manner, he ſhall be charged; as if one by Letters Patents, or by virtue of his Office hath power to ſet Fines upon Grants or admittances made to Copy-holders within ſuch of the Kings Manors, and he ſets ſmall Fines for the King, and underhand taketh great ſums or other rewards of the Copy-holders to his own uſe, in deceit and prejudice of the King, in this Caſe he may be charged to the King in accompt for the whole, for in truth the whole was due to the King: And the King who is Gods Lieutenant, ſhall ſay to ſuch falſe Stewards, Redde rationem villicationis & vellicationis tuæ: And if he dieth, his Executors in the Kings Caſe ſhall be charged, for as Sir William Herle Chief Juſtice of the Kings Bench in 3 E. 3. 10. ſaith, accompt ought to be by equity and truth. Vide 2 R. 2. Tit. Account. 47. & 3 E. 3. 10. and in 39 Aſſ. pl. 18. it is holden, That the Kings Officers or Miniſters can do nothing to the Kings diſadvantage, but all to his advantage: But it was ſaid that it was without preſident, That the Executors of any ſuch great Officer ſhould be charged after his death, becauſe he himſelf could have better diſcharged himſelf, then his Executors, who are ſtrangers to his accompts and buſineſs, and it ſhall be convenient, that as his Office doth ceaſe by his death, ſo the charge in reſpect of any deceit or wrong concerning his Office whereof he was not detected in his life ſhould ceaſe alſo by his death as a perſonal wrong. [b]

To which it was ſaid and reſolved, That that reaſon maketh againſt the Prerogative which the law giveth the King, i. that he ſhall charge the Executors of his accomptant, and therefore it is not worth any anſwer. But it is not without many preſidents, One of which was adjudged in the Exchequer M. 38. El. Rot. 312. In an information preferred by the Attorney General for the Queen againſt Edward Cary and William Doddington Eſquires, Executors of Sir Walter Mildmay Knight, late Chancellor of the Exchequer, becauſe the ſaid Sir Walter was bound to the Queen the day of his death to render accompt of divers ſums of money amounting together to 1525 l. of the Queens Treaſure in the Receipt of the Exchequer at Weſtminſter, inter Feſtum Natalis Domini Anno 1 Eliz. & idem Feſtum Anno Regni ſui 20. received, to render thereof accompt to the Queen, & quod nemo prædictum compotum adhuc reddidit, nec reddere conatus eſt, and that the ſaid Sir Walter Mildmay did appoint the Defendants his Executors. The Defendants pleaded, quod prædictus Walterus Mildmay non recepit præd. 1525 l. aut aliquam inde parcell', ad inde Dominæ Reginæ computandum, nec die quo obiit tenebatur, eidem Dominæ Reginæ in compoto inde, aut alicujus inde parcellæ reddend' modo & forma, &c. & de hoc pon' ſe ſuper patriam, &c. Note a good Iſſue by the rule of the Court, and the Jury found for the Def. ſaving for 1160 l. parcel, &c. for which they gave a ſpecial Verdict, 1. That 1 Eliz. The Queen by Letters Patents, did appoint the Marquiſs of Wincheſter Treaſurer Scaccarii during pleaſure (and made him Treaſurer of England, by giving to him the Staff) and afterwards in the ſame firſt year, ſhe appointed the ſaid Sir Walter Mildmay Chancellor of the Exchequer, for the terme of his life; and afterwards the firſt year ſhe made by her Letters Patents Richard Sackvil under Treaſurer of the Exchequer for the term of his life, and that the ſaid Treaſurer and under Treaſurer of the Exchequer 10 Julii 1596. made a [91]

Warrant in writing under their hands for the payment to the ſaid Sir Walter Mildmay Chancellor of the Exchequer of the Queens Treaſure being in the Receipt one hundred pound yearly for his Diet, and forty pound for his attendance at London in the vacation time during the Queens pleaſure, becauſe the Chancellor of the Court of Firſt Fruits and Tenths (which Court is now annexed to the Exchequer) had allowance in the ſame Court for his Travel and attendance in the ſame Office; and by reaſon of the annexation of the ſaid Court of Firſt Fruits, and alſo of the Court of Augmentation, the ſaid Chancellor of the Exchequer was charged with much buſines and attendance, as well in term as out of term, more then any Chancellor of the Exchequer before had been. And theſe were the cauſes which moved the Treaſurer and under Treaſurer to make the ſaid Grant, and were expreſs in it, and directed to four ordinary Tellers of the Exchequer, or to any of them.

And afterwards Queen Eliz. 19 Martii anno ſui regni ſecundo, directed her Warrant to the Treaſurer, Chamberlaines, and under Treaſurer under her Privy Seal, by which, amongſt other Articles concerning the Privy Councel, and payment of Fees of ſome Officers, &c. due and accuſtomed, the ſaid Queen willed and commanded them, That they or any one of them from time to time ſhould pay of the Queens Treaſure for the pain, coſts and expences of every perſon who had been, or ſhould be aſſigned or appointed by our commiſſion or commandment to enquire for us, or for us and our Coun-
[b] cil, or for you, or any of you commanded, or that ſhall be put to labour, travel, ride or write for or in our cauſes, matters and affairs, thing or things whatſoever, according to their deſerts, in as large manner and form as in any time before had been done or rewarded in our ſaid Exchequer by any Treaſurer, Chamberlaines, or under Treaſurer, and more large by their diſcretions; (and that was the cauſe upon which the Defendants Counſel did rely.)

And the Jury further found, That the ſaid 1160 l. was paid to the ſaid Sir Walter Mildmay, after the ſaid Warrant under the ſaid Privy Seal, for his Diet, and attendance in the Vacation time at Lon. and that the ſaid monies were paid of the Queens Treaſure by Richard Stanley one of the Tellers of the Receipt to the ſaid Sir Walter, and by the ſaid Sir Walter received to his own uſe, by force or colour of the ſaid Warrant of the ſaid Treaſurer or under Treaſurer; and that the ſaid Sir Walter did exerciſe his Office aforeſaid, and diſcharged the duty thereof during his life; and that the ſaid Stanley did account yearly before the Treaſurer and under Treaſurer and other Officers to whom it did appertain to hear the ſaid Accompt, and had allowance for the ſeveral points aforeſaid, and full diſcharge for them. And if upon the whole matter the Court ſhall adjudg, That the ſaid Sir Walter Mildmay, hath received the ſaid money to render accompt to the Queen, then they found for the Queen, and if not, for the defendant.

And in that Caſe three Points were moved.

1. If the Lord Treaſurer by himſelf, or with any other of the Kings Officers could for the ſame, or for any other reaſonable cauſe ex officio allow any fee or reward for the neceſſary ſervice of the Queen.

2. Admitting that he had not power ex officio, if he have power in this Caſe by vertue of the ſaid Privy Seal, to make the ſame allowance, or not?

3. For as much as Sir Walter received them to his own uſe; if he ſhould be charged to render accompt for them upon the ſaid Iſſue joyned, as is aforeſaid?

As to the firſt two Points, it was reſolved.

1. That no Officer that the King hath, nor they altogether, can iſſue or diſpoſe of the Kings Treaſure ex officio, although it be for the the honour and profit of the King himſelf, but it ought to be by Warrant from the King himſelf; for it is true, that it is for the honour and profit of the King, that good ſervice done to the King ſhould be rewarded, but it ought to be rewarded by the King himſelf, or by his Warrant, and by no other; for the Kings Treaſury being the bond of Peace, and the ſinews of War, is of ſo high eſtimation in Law in reſpect of the neceſſity of it, that the imbeſelling of [92] Treaſure Trove, although it was not in the Kings Coffers, was Treaſon; and Treaſure and other valuable Chattels are ſo neceſſary and incident to the Crown, that in the Kings Caſe they ſhall go with the Crown to the Succeſſor, and not to the Executors, as in the caſe of common perſons, as appeareth 7 H 4. 43, & 44. Ed. 3. 42. And therefore without the Kings Warrant no Treaſure ſhall iſſue forth, for any cauſe whatſoever by any Officer ex officio.

2. It was reſolved, That every Warrant of the Queen her ſelf to Iſſue her Treaſure, is not ſufficient; for the Queens Warrant by word of mouth, or her Warrant (which is more) under the Privy Signet is not ſufficient to iſſue forth her Treaſure. And that appeareth by a Judgment in the Exchequer in Petitians caſe Hil. 1 E. 4. Rot. 14. in dorſo, where ſuch a Warrant under the Privy Signet to iſſue forth the Kings Treaſure was diſallowed. Vide 14 E. 4. 2. And yet in ſome caſe the Law taketh notice of the Privy Signet. And therefore, if the King under his Privy Signet doth prohibit any to paſs out of the Realm; it is ſufficient. Fitz. Nat. Brev. 85. But the Warrant which is ſufficient in Law to iſſue forth the King's Treaſure, ought to be under the Great Seal or Privy Seal.

As to the ſecond queſtion, it was reſolved, That the ſaid clauſe did extend to Commiſſioners and other inferiour perſons which ſhould travel about the Queens buſineſs, and not to the Chancellor of the Exchequer, for whom (amongſt others) an expreſs clauſe was before in the ſame Privy Seal. Alſo this clauſe is, according to their deſerts, &c. So that by the Privy Seal, the merit ought to precede the reward, and in this caſe, the Warrant was made before any merit or deſerving. Alſo the Privy Seal is, in as large and ample manner and form as in any time before hath been done or rewarded, &c. And is is not found that before any allowance had been made to the Chancellor of the Exchequer of any Fee or Reward. Alſo ti was touched (but not reſolved) That where the Privy Seal giveth authority to four or to one of them, and two make the Warrant, that they have not purſued their authority.

As

As to the third point, it was resolved, That although the said Sir Walter received the Kings Treasure to his own use; yet forasmuch as he received the same without a lawful Warrant, he knowing that it was the Kings Treasure, the Law makes a privity in the Kings Case; and therefore they may charge him as an Accomptant. And so was it adjudged in the Exchequer, Pasc. 31 El. Rot. 150 Jurdens Case.

And in the Kings Case it is not needful that the monies or goods come to the hands of the Testator, but if he be a means and instrument by which the King is put to loss or damage, he shall be charged for so much as the King is endamaged, and he shall be compelled at the Kings suit to give an account thereof. And therefore there is a notable President in the Exchequer, Mich. 30 E. 3, Rot. 6. where the case was, That William Porter being Master of the Mint, &c. Covenanted with the King by Indenture inrolled, That all the Bullion which should be delivered ad Cambium Regis pro moneta facienda, that money should be delivered for the same within 8 daies, which Covenant the said William Porter brake, for he did not deliver to divers Subjects their money due to them for the Bullion which they brought ad Cambium, according to his Covenant. Upon which (upon shewing the same in the Exchequer) the King paid to them all the money due for the Bullion. And because that John Walweyn and Henry Picard, duxerunt & præsentaverunt dictum William Porter in Officium illud tanquam sufficientem; (and that they offered to be sureties for him, but were not accepted of, which matters the said John Walweyn and Henry Picard confessed) ideo consideratum est quod dicti John Walweyn and Henry Picard, onerentur versus Dominum Regem, &c. and were charged to satisfie the King all the monies which the King had paid for the said William Porter. [b]

And althongh that none of the Kings Treasure came to their hands, nor they had any ptivate benefit by any matter that appeared in the said Case, yet because they were means and causes of the Kings loss and damage, they were by Judgment charged. And forasmuch as they were chargeable by the Law, in that case if they had died before Judgment against them, without question the Executors shall be charged, for where the Testator is by Law chargeable to satisfie the King for his loss and damage done to him, his death shall not dispence with it, but that his Executors, &c. shall be charged to the King.

And it was resolved, That in that case the Queen either might charge the Executors of the said Sir Walter, or those who made such unlawfull Warrant at her election. And a Judgment was cited in the Argument of this case of Trin. 24 E. 3. Rot. 4. in the Exchequer.

One Walter Chirton the Kings Customer had purchased certain Lands with the Kings money, and by covin had caused the vendor to enfeoff his friends in Fee to defraud the King, and nevertheless took the issues and profits of the Lands to his own use, and those Lands by Inquisition were returned with the values in the Exchequer, and there by Judgment were seised into the Kings hands quousque, &c, and yet the Estate of the Land was never in him. But he who intendeth to deceive the King of that which belongeth to him, will in the end deceive himself. See Reader where and how the King shall levy the sum of which any one is chargeable to him by the Law, not only against the party himself, his Lands and Goods in his own hands, but in the hands of his Heirs, Executors or Administrators; and if he hath not Executors or Administrators, then in the hands of the possessors of the Goods of the deceased to render an account to the King. And therefore see a notable Record in the Exchequer Mich. 24 E. 3. Rot. 13. ex parte Rememoratoris Regis. Thomas Faules Case, which was an Exchequer Chamber Case, by all the Justices, and Barons, and vouched by the Lord Dyer, 4 & 5 Phil. & Mar. 160. Pasc. 2 Eliz. Rot. 111. Sir William Cavendishes Case, and Reported by the Lord Dyer, 5 Eliz. 225. Plow. Com. in the case of Mines, 321. a. & b. See 50 Assi. p. 5. [93]

And afterwards the Executors of the Earl of Devonshire did satisfie the King for all the said Iron Ordinance, Shot or Munition, which he without Warrant had converted to his use.

Upon the matter aforeſaid, and for the cauſes aforeſaid, it was reſolved by the Court, That there was not any juſt cauſe to remove him; and therefore the Court awarded a Writ directed to the Major and Commonalty to reſtore him. And in this Caſe,

1. It was reſolved, That Authority doth belong to the Kings Bench, not only to correct errors in judicial proceedings, but other errors and miſdemeanors extrajudicial tending to the breach of peace, or the oppreſſion of the ſubjects, or to the raiſing of faction, controverſies or debate, or to any manner of miſgovernment; ſo that no wrong or injury, either publick or private can be done, but that the ſame ſhall be reformed or puniſhed be due courſe of Law.

For the general clearing this and other the like caſes, all which was ſaid in the Argument of this caſe, was divided into three Queſtions.

1. What were ſufficient cauſes to diſfranchiſe a Citizen, Free-man or Burgeſs of any City or Borough Incorporate, and to diſcharge him of his freedom and liberty and what not?

2. How and by whom, and in what manner ſuch Citzen and Buegeſs ſhall be diſfranchiſed?

3. If the return of his removing and diſfranchiſement doth not carry a ſufficient matter, but the ſame is falſe; what remedy ſhall be for the party grieved in ſuch caſe?

As to the firſt it was reſolved, That the cauſe of diſfranchiſement ought to be grounded upon an Act done againſt the duty of a Citizen or Burgeſs, and to the prejudice of the publick good of the City or Burrough whereof he is a Citizen or Burgeſs, and againſt his oath which he took when he was ſworn a Free-man of the City or Borough; for although that one ſhall not be charged in any Judicial Court for the breach of a general Oath, which he took when he became Officer, Miniſter, Citizen, Burgeſs, &c. yet if the thing which he doth be againſt the duty and truſt of his Freedome, and to the prejudice of the City or Borough, and alſo againſt his Oath, the ſame doth much enforce the cauſe of his removing; and it is a condition in Law tacitè annexed to his Freedom and Liberty; which if he breaketh, he may be diſfranchiſed; but words of Contempt, or againſt good manners, although they be againſt the Chief Officer, or his brethren, are good cauſes to puniſh him, as to commit him till he hath found good Sureties of his Good Behaviour, but not to diſfranchiſe him. So if he intend [b] or endeavour of himſelf, or conſpire with others, to do a thing againſt the duty or truſt of his Freedom, and to the prejudice of the publick good of the City or Borough, but he doth not execute it, it is a good cauſe to puniſh him, as is aforeſaid, but not to diſfranchiſe him, for Non ſufficit conatus niſi ſequatur effectus; and Non ſufficit effectus, niſi ſequatur effectus. And the reaſon and cauſe thereof is, That when a man is a Free-man of a City or Borough, he hath a Freehold in his Freedom for life; and with others in their publick capacity hath an inheritance in the Lands of the ſaid Corporation, and intereſt in their Goods and perhaps the ſame doth concern his trade and means of living, credit and eſtimation; and therefore the matter which ſhall be a cauſe of his diſfranchiſement, ought to be an Act or a Deeed, and not a Conation, or an indeavour which he may repent of before the execution of it, and whereof no prejudice doth follow. And thoſe who have Offices of truſt and confidence ſhall not forfeit them by endeavours or intentions to do Acts, although they declare them by expreſs words, if the thing it ſelf doth not follow. As if one who has the keeping of a Park ſay, that he will kill all the Deer, or he will cut down ſo many trees within the Park, but doth not kill the Deer, nor cut down any Trees, it is not any forfeiture, and ſo of the like; for in all ſuch caſes, either there ought to be an Act, or ſuch a negligence, as doth amount to ſo much, ſ. to the Deſtruction of the game, &c. If a Biſhop, Arch Deacon, Parſon, &c. cut down all the Trees, the ſame is a good cauſe of deprivation, 2 H. 4. 3. So if a Prior alieneth the Land which he hath in the right of his houſe, it is a cauſe of deprivation, as appeareth in 9 E. 4. 34. If a Prior doth delapidate, it is a good cauſe to deprive him as it is holden in 29 E. 3. 16. 28 H. 6. 36. But if it be but a Conation or endeavour without an Act done, in none of thoſe caſes is it a cauſe of deprivation, for in thoſe caſes voluntas non reputatur pro facto [99] And if contempt (be it of omiſſion or commiſſion) ſhould be a good cauſe to diſfranchiſe, the beſt Citizen or Burgeſs may be at one time or other diſfranchiſed, which ſhould be a great cauſe of faction or contention in Cities or Burroughs.

As to the ſecond it was reſolved, That no Free-man of any Corporation can be diſfranchiſed by the Corporation if they have not authority ſo to do either by expreſs words of Charter or Preſcription, but if they have not authority neither by Charter or by Preſcription, then he ought to be convicted by courſe of Law before that he can be removed, as appeareth by Magna Charta, cap. 29 Nullus liber homo capiatur, vel impriſonetur, aut diſſeiſietur de libero tenemento ſuo, vel libertatibus, vel liberis conſuetudinibus ſuis, &c. niſi per legale judicium parium ſuorum, vel per legem terræ. And if the Corporation have power by Charter or Preſcription to remove him for a reaſonable cauſe, it ſhall be per legem terræ, but if they have no ſuch power, he ought to be convicted per judicium parium ſuorum, &c. As if a Citizen or Free-man be attainted of Forgery or Perjury, or conſpiracy at the Kings ſuit, &c. of any other crime for which he is become infamous, upon ſuch attainder they cannot remove him: So if he be convicted of any offence which is againſt the duty and truſt of his Freedom, and to the publick prejudice of the City or Burrough whereof he is free, and againſt his Oath; as if he hath burnt or defaced the Charters or evidences of the City or Borough, or raſed or corrupted them, and thereof be convicted and attainted, theſe and the like are good cauſes for to remove him. And although they have lawfull authority either by Charter or Preſcription to put any one from his Freedom, and that they have juſt cauſe to remove him; yet if it appeareth by the return, that they have proceeded againſt him without hearing him to anſwer what was objected, or that he was not reaſonably warned, ſuch removing of him is void, and ſhall not bind the party becauſe quia quicunque aliquid ſtatuerit parte inaudita altera, æquum licet ſtatuerit, haud æquus fuerit, and ſuch removing is againſt Juſtice and Right.

Nonſ... ...ſ ...ſeas; and may be the Charter was void in Law, or that it was procured by the leſſer number of the Burgeſſes and then it might be removed, and ſo he may juſtifie theſe words.

[b] As to the third queſtion, If they have power either by Charter or Preſcription to disfranchiſe one and afterwards the Judges of the Kings Bench do award a Writ to them to reſtore him, or ſignifie the cauſe, and they certifie a ſufficient cauſe for to remove him, but the ſame is falſe; then the Court cannot award a Writ to reſtore him, nor any iſſue can be taken thereupon, becauſe the parties are ſtrangers and have no day in Court; but the party grieved may have an Action upon the ſpecial matter againſt thoſe who made the Certificate, and aver the ſame to be falſe, ſo that it may appear to the Juſtices that the cauſes of the Return are falſe, then they ſhall award a Writ of Reſtitution, and the ſame is proved by the reaſon of the book of 9*H*.6 44. where it is holden, that upon a Corpus cum cauſa if the cauſe returned be ſufficient, but in truth is falſe, the Coure ought to ſend back the Priſoner, and he is at no miſchief, for if they have not authority, or the cauſe be falſe, he may have a Writ of falſe impriſonment, vid. Corpus cum cauſa, p. 2. where the ſaid caſe of 5*H*.6.44. is well abridged So in the other part upon ſuch falſe return the party grieved may have a ſpecial Action upon the caſe as is aforeſaid.

Alſo if the party grieved, who is ſo disfranchiſed, be for the cauſe of his disfranchiſement committed to priſon, or if his Shop be ſhut up, or if with force he be removed out of their Aſſembly, &c. in theſe and the like caſes he may have an Action of falſe impriſonment, or an Action of Treſpaſs quare domum fregit, or of aſſault and battery, and in thoſe Actions the cauſes of disfranchiſement ought to be pleaded, and ſhall be decided according to Law, 8*E*.3.437.8 Aſſ.29.31. If a Lay-man be Patron of an Hoſpital, he may viſit the ſame and depoſe or deprive the Maſter for good cauſe, but if he be deprived without juſt cauſe, and by colour thereof be put out, he ſhall have an Aſſiſe becauſe he hath not other remedy; but if the Ordinary depriveth a Maſter who is Eccleſiaſtical without cauſe, he ſhall not have an Aſſiſe, for he hath other remedy by appeal. See 6*H*.7.14. F.N.B.4*E*.27.E.3.85.10. Eliz. Dyer.273.

Alſo it was reſolved, That ſuch return of disfranchiſement ought to be certain, ſo that ſufficient matter may appear to the Court to disfranchiſe the party, and ſo much the rather, becauſe the party cannot have anſwer to it, as is ſaid before.

Laſtly, It was reſolved, That for none of the cauſes contained in the Certificate, the ſaid James Bagg by Law ought to be removed; and therefore by the whole Court a Writ was awarded to reſtore him to his Franchiſe and Freedom, and ſo it was done.

[100] Note Reader, in the Argument of this Caſe much was ſaid to exhort Citizens and Burgeſſes to yeild obedience and reverence to Magiſtrates in their Cities and Boroughs, becauſe they derive their authority from the King, and Obedientia eſt Legis eſſentia, and therefore it appeareth before how they ſhall be puniſhed who commit any contempt againſt them. But the principal queſtion of this caſe was, What Acts were ſufficient cauſes in Law for the Disfranchiſement of any Citizen or Burgeſs, &c.

Leges poſteriores priores contrarias abrogant.
